LOVEJOY URGES EDUCATION FOR ALL AMERICANS

Speaker Makes Plea For Better Understanding of Foreign Population Here

CANTATA TO BE DECEMBER 12

Next Vespers Will Be A Musical Program, "The Righteous Branch," To Be Given By the University Chorus Under the Direction of Prof. Philip G. Clapp

The need for better training of eye and hand for everybody under the flag was emphasized by Owen R. Lovejoy, general secretary Child Labor Bureau, New York City, in his address "Education for Citizenship" at vespers Sunday afternoon. He believes that we will have to change our policy of Americanization if we are going to teach our foreigners that America means freedom and not bondage.

"Americanization does not consist of brutality," said Mr. Lovejoy. "We've done everything to get foreigners to this country, and when we get them here, we shake a club at them because they do not talk like the Pilgrim Fathers." Mr. Lovejoy then pointed out the glaring example of our inconsiderate policy when, at our entrance to the war, we arrested a little group of Poles who were found studying a Russian treatise on mathematics.

"The foreigners were trying to study in order to become better Americans, and we jumped on them with a club, forgetting that Poland had a democracy before Columbus discovered America."

Mr. Lovejoy also emphasized that college graduates are divinely called to preach cleanliness to the race. He then traced the progress of physical cleanliness from the Middle Ages, when the jeweled robes of kings were reeking with vermin, to the present day, when we are teaching common sense cleanliness in the school room, and cannot live comfortably without facilities for cleanliness.

A plea for the distribution of facilities for cleanliness within the reach of everyone was made by Mr. Lovejoy. He said that as yet 1,000 rural schools in Iowa are without any water facilities. In certain parts of Kentucky, whole villages are without water, while bathtubs are used for coal bins in the tenement houses in the slums of New York.

Mr. Lovejoy was introduced by Dean Kay of the college of liberal arts. Music was furnished by the vesper choir, assisted by Mrs. Mildred B. Paddock of the department of music, who sang the solo, "I do not ask, O, Lord," with a violin obligato by Winifred Forbes of the department of music.

The next vesper service, to be held on December 12, will consist entirely of music. A cantata "The Righteous Branch" by Clough—Lighter will be given by the new University chorus under the direction of Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the department of music. Donald J. Cowling, president of Carleton college, Northfield, Minnesota, will speak at the first vesper service after vacation to be held on January 23, according to Prof. G. T. W. Patrick, chairman of the vesper committee.

TIME LIMIT UNCHANGED

Junior Pictures Will Not Be Accepted After November 25

Only 350 juniors out of the approximate 550 in the University, have had their pictures taken for the 1922 Hawkeye. The time limit, November 25, will not be changed and there will not be any excuses accepted for any delay, according to A. Carleton Ernstine, editor-in-chief. If the pictures are not in by November 25, they will be omitted from this year's Hawkeye, said Ernstine.

REPORTS OF IOWA AMES GAME WILL BE RECEIVED

Play by play reports from the Iowa-Ames game Saturday will be telegraphed to the natural science auditorium as was done in the early season games away from home according to Prof. B. J. Lambert of the athletic board. The reports will start at 2 o'clock. "I" books will admit holders to the reports as was the case in the early season games.

Y. W. SECRETARY TO SPEAK HERE

Bertha Conde, A National Officers of Y. W. C. A. Will Be Here Tomorrow

Miss Bertha Conde, who was for twenty years senior student secretary of the national board of Y. W. C. A. will speak to University women tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the natural science auditorium. Her subject will be "Students of the World." Miss Conde has just returned from Switzerland where she attended a meeting of the executive council of the World's Student Christian Federation. This federation is a union of all student movements in the world. In the United States the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. and the Students' Volunteer organization are the working factors of the federation. While in Europe Miss Conde studied conditions of students there. During 1919 she spent six months in South America.

Miss Conde is the only woman who holds a position on the executive council of the student volunteer movement. She presided at the women's session of the student volunteer convention held in Des Moines last Christmas vacation.

Miss Conde is interested in college and university students and is now devoting her whole time to traveling around the country and lecturing in their behalf. The meeting is open to all University women and the women of Iowa City.

Miss Conde comes here from Minneapolis and Saint Paul where she has been lecturing before the students. From here she will go to Coe college and Cornell college.

PLAY CONTEST WORK STARTS

No Titles For Plays Have Been Submitted As Yet

Several students have signified their intentions to enter plays in the play writing contest which the University players are conducting. None have been turned in yet nor have the titles of any been submitted, but several have said that they are working on plays. The only restrictions are that all candidates must be registered in the University and that the plays submitted be in one act only.

The prize for the winner of the contest, as originally announced, consists of ten dollars in cash, membership in the University Players, and an opportunity to take the leading part in the play when it is produced. At its regular meeting Thursday night the players' club will consider the advisability of raising the prize, in order to create as much interest in the contest as possible.

SEASHORE IS ATTENDING THREE MEETINGS THIS WEEK

Prof. Carl E. Seashore, dean of the graduate college, is representing the University of Iowa at three important conferences in the east this week. At New York he is attending a meeting of the deans of graduate schools and a meeting of deans of associated American universities. At Washington he is attending a meeting of the executive committee of the executive committee of the National Research Council, of which he is the chairman. Dean Seashore left Sunday, and expects to return next week.

TEAM PREPARES TO DOWN ENEMY IN FINAL CLASH

Coach Jones Gives Men Chalk Talk Before Short Signal Run On Snowy Field

AMES TO MAKE GOOD SHOWING

Thompson Still Holds Down Left Guard—Shuttleworth Runs at Left Halfback—Slater Disappoints on Defensive Play But is Expected to Be in Old Form Saturday

Since the decisive victory over Minnesota, Iowa expects little trouble in handing Ames the weak end of the score.

There is one possibility, and that is that the Iowa players may be overconfident and rest on their laurels as they have on previous occasions. However, this is hardly expected since the Old Gold players have bowed to two bitter defeats this fall, for no more important reason than overconfidence.

Ames will be strong and will make a good showing against Iowa. It is to be remembered that in previous years a good many surprises have sprung in this football classic to decide the state championship.

There is a good deal of question among football followers this fall as to what is the matter with Duke Slater, the dusky Iowa tackle, who made all-Conference and all-Western teams last fall.

The greatest criticism seems to be on his defensive play. It must be remembered that on two occasions the giant negro has told the quarterback that a way would be open for a plunge over the goal line and that in the Minnesota game Slater opened the avenue for the making of all four scores.

But on the defensive, he has disappointed his best friends. Last year, opposing teams developed a habit of laying off the right side of the Iowa forward wall, and this year tried the same tactics of hitting the positions of Kadesky and Block, but it was soon found that the right side was more vulnerable than the left.

Perhaps he has been saving up for the Cyclones and if so next Saturday should see him back in old time form. He has the same friendly love for Ames that all Iowa students and players share alike.

Coach Jones gave his men a chalk talk in the varsity locker room last night and then sent them to the snow clad field for a short signal run. It was perfect football weather, but the team is somewhat battered up from the game with the Northmen.

Thompson, who spent most of Saturday's game at left guard, held down that berth again last night, and Shuttleworth ran at left half the rest of the team remaining intact.

ARCTIC EXPLORER CONTRIBUTES TO MEMORIAL UNION

The north pole is no exception to the statement recently made by one of the Memorial Union directors that the whole world is interested in Iowa's memorial plans. The latest evidence of interest comes from within the longitude of 23 1-2 degrees and is expressed by the world famous Arctic explorer and scientist, Vilhjalmur Stefanson. Prof. Forest C. Ensign, secretary of the Iowa Memorial Union, received yesterday morning from Mr. Stefanson a personal check of a hundred dollars which amount is to apply as one of Mr. Stefanson's contributions towards the establishment of Iowa's Memorial Union.

At the time Mr. Stefanson sent his contribution he was on his way to Pasco, Wash., from one of his latest expeditions to the north pole regions. Mr. Stefanson is a former student of the University of Iowa.

"WRECK AMES' AIMS" WILL BE ENGINEER'S NEW SLOGAN

"Wreck Ames' Aims" is the new slogan due to appear on the engineering building sometime tomorrow, according to Marcus S. Carlson S3 of Belle Plaine. Unless the dope is upset again this slogan will be followed by "Wrecked Ames' Aims."

STEINER TO GIVE TALK TOMORROW

Sociologist Will Give University Lecture Tomorrow Night At 8 O'clock

Prof. Edward Steiner, sociologist and authority on immigration problems, will give the University lecture tomorrow evening in the natural science auditorium at 8 o'clock.

Professor Steiner has made an extended study of sociological problems. He received his early education in Vienne and later attended the University of Heidelberg, Germany. In 1891 he was graduated from Oberlin college, and after taking post graduate work in Gottingen and Berlin, he was ordained in the Congregational ministry, serving as pastor at St. Cloud and St. Paul, Minnesota, and at Springfield and Sandusky, Ohio.

In 1903 Professor Steiner was sent to Russia as a special representative of the Outlook, and after his return accepted the position of professor of applied chemistry at Grinnell college.

Professor Steiner has gained recognition throughout the United States for his work in the interest of immigrants. He is the author of many books dealing with immigration problems. "On the Trail of the Immigrant," published in 1906, "The Immigrant Tide," 1909, and "From Alien to Citizen," 1914, are perhaps his best known works. His latest book, "Sanctus Spiritus and Company," published in 1919, is based on his own life.

W. A. A. TO HOLD INITIATION

Rules For Probation This Week Are Given Out

Over 150 women have met the requirements for W. A. A. membership according to Jean Speirs, president of the organization. Probation began yesterday and will end tomorrow.

The officers of the W. A. A. have given out a few rules which are to be followed by probationers:

1. Shoes must have low heels.
2. Hair must be combed simply.
3. Do not eat between meals.
4. Go to bed at 10 o'clock.
5. Run around the block before breakfast.
6. If possible attend the lecture by Miss Coude Wednesday, November 17, at 4 o'clock at the natural science auditorium. The girls on the freshman soccer team will be excused as they have practice at that hour.
7. A program will be the final stunt by all members on Wednesday, November 17, at 7:30 at the women's gymnasium. Stunts will be put on in class groups and every woman should see the chairman of her class group before Monday. Those in charge of the program are: Mildred Copeland and Helen Spencer; sophomore, Dorothy Brooks; junior, Dorothy Freeman, and senior, Catherine Moore. Just before the stunts an oral quiz will be given the probationers. This quiz will cover the entrance points, the aims and purpose of the organization, and how to earn numerals and "I's".

All these points are covered in a booklet called "W. A. A. Constitution." Every applicant should have one of these. They may be purchased at the main office at the women's gym from any of the instructors for a dime.

The annual dues of $1.00 may be paid to Lorena Bowen, treasurer of the organization, at the meeting November 17. Certificates will be issued at that time also.

OHIO HAS ONLY CLEAN SLATE IN BIG TEN CLASS

Games Saturday Leave Columbus Men Sole Possibility of Clear Conference Title

AMES HOPES TO BEAT IOWA

Aggie Eleven Honestly Expect to Defeat Hawkeyes Next Saturday—Over Confidence Might Go Hard With Iowa—Conference Games Were Not Surprises

By M. F. Carpenter

The great event of Conference football Saturday was the defeat of Illinois by Wisconsin. This leaves Ohio the only undefeated team in the Conference and makes certain that if Ohio does not win the championship, no other team can have a clear title to it. The Wisconsin team seems to have been stronger than Illinois both in attack and defense and to have won the game by clearly outplaying its opponents. If it had not been for Fletcher's toe, the losing team would have been helpless.

The result at Madison was hardly a surprise for it was expected that one of the two teams would show a decisive superiority to the other. There was no means of telling before the game which team this would be, for the showing against Minnesota had made Wisconsin look weaker than proved to be the case. On all the other work of the season, Wisconsin had the advantage over Illinois, but until the game was actually played, no one could be certain which part of the record told the truth.

Iowa Superior

Nothing that happened in Conference games was really unexpected. Michigan won from Chicago; Northwestern won from Purdue; Notre Dame would only grade about the middle of the Conference. It has beaten Purdue and Indiana, and will probably beat Northwestern. It could doubtless beat Minnesota. But it could not beat any other team in the Conference except by a good break of luck. It would probably look very sick against at least three of the other six teams in the Big Ten.

Iowa's game against Minnesota came out even better than could have been hoped. Dr. William's team was up against a better eleven and could not keep a lead after it was won. The teams were more closely matched perhaps than the score indicates; certainly it was a more even battle than the Northwestern game, in which the margin was almost the same; but

ANNOUNCE PROPOSITION FOR INTERCOLLEGIATE DEBATE

"Resolved: that the United States should adopt a Japanese exclusion act similar in all essentials to the present Chinese exclusion act," is the proposition announced for the intercollegiate debate by Earl W. Wells, president of the forensic council.

The Iowa affirmative will debate the Minnesota negative at Iowa and the Iowa negative debates the Illinois affirmative at Illinois. Following the plan introduced in the Iowa-Nebraska debate last year, these debates will be judgeless, followed by an open forum in which anyone present may take part.

The debates will take place Friday evening, December 10, at 7:45 o'clock. The Iowa-Minnesota contest will be held in the natural science auditorium. Those who will represent Iowa in the two contests are: James H. Van Law A3 of Marshalltown; Max A. Conrad L2 of Burlington; Carl B. Kreiner A2 of Ottumwa; William P. Berghuis A3 of Sioux Center; DeWitt H. Smith L1 of Clarence; Abram DeVaul L1 of Albert City. It is not known yet how the team will be divided but the council expects to make an announcement soon who will compose the negative and affirmative teams.

A VISION FOR IOWA

Necessity for adequate accommodations to meet increasing demands for higher education is emphasized in an editorial in The Des Moines Capital, based on a speech of President Walter A. Jessup at the state teachers' convention. The Capital says:

Alumni of the State University of Iowa had a notable re-union in Des Moines Friday night during the state teachers' convention. From that gathering the graduates and former students carried away a vision of a greater university. The message of President W. A. Jessup to the Iowa alumni pointed the way to an institution of 10,000 students. President Jessup holds clearly in his mental grasp a complete program for University development during the next ten years, and those who know the president best know that he is intensely practical. Members of the state legislature should become thoroughly acquainted with Mr. Jessup's plans for the University.

The building of a state university is a pursuit of tremendous importance. Legislators who have been inclined to consider it as state sentiment must realize that it is state business.

When President Jessup says, "Our enrollment has doubled during the last few years and many of our buildings are now entirely inadequate" it is time for the legislature to see to it that Iowa's young manhood and young womanhood do not turn to other states for higher education because of the lack of facilities in their own state. Surely there can be no argument when the president states as a matter of fact that no satisfactory method has been provided to enable two students to sit on one chair or to enable two to stand on the floor space actually occupied by one person.

In Iowa there is a great growing demand for higher education. The proof is in fact, not theory. The days when we could figure our educational problems in thousands have passed, we must now figure them in millions.

SHATTERED DREAMS

After toting the little horn of conceit on the eve of the publication of the Homecoming edition of The Daily Iowan, toots about the biggest, greatest, most profuse and all that, one wakes up one morning with a jolt upon receipt of a copy of a special edition of The Harvard Crimson, circulated on the day of the Princeton game containing thirty-six pages of pictorial stuff and sixteen pages of news and features totaling fifty-two pages, published in three issues during the day.

The Crimson says that this is the largest edition of a college paper ever published and without doubt it is. Then a little more wind blew out of the Iowa sails with the publication of a Homecoming edition of The Daily Cardinal, official student newspaper of the University of Wisconsin, containing thirty-two pages of news and photographs.

Of course the Crimson came out in three editions and The Cardinal is a smaller paper by a column and a few inches than the Iowan, but both of them were number one publications, and the Harvard paper wins all honors in the field of college journalism for a big publication.

But, while the blackness is falling all around, and one is reflecting that big ideas do not confine themselves to the western shore of the Mississippi, there is one little taper that still sheds a hopeful ray in the gloom: The Iowan did the first college rotogravure section. Or did it? Opening the mail is getting to be an odious duty.

Others Winter In The South

The blasts of winter take the town
The leaves are wailing in the dusk
I hate to say goodbye front porch
I really do although I must.

The softness of the moon has gone;
There are no kisses in the air;
The leathern pillows of the porch
Are lonesome now upon the stair.

I say farewell to you front porch
And with my sentimental forte
My girl and I now flee within
To winter on the davenport.

The matter of inventing an alibi ought to be comparatively easy for the girl who did not win in the beauty contest. For instance, she can say: "Well the rest of them resorted to rouge, something which I never do, and you know how the men fall for that sort of thing."

Whenever we sit behind this Underwood which is beginning to wiggle and wobble, racking our brains for a paragraph, and are approached by a subscriber who failed to receive his Iowan on such and such a date we are extremely annoyed. About the time the third kick is registered the necessity of finding any new paragraphs seems utterly nil, and we are tempted to reprint some of the stuff we ran in yesterday's column. But then we'll wait for a rainy day.

Why not have the winners in the beauty contest conduct a column in the Iowan entitled "Beauty Hints?"

The documents, most of which are written in Greek, were secured in Egypt by Ann Arbor professors. The collection consists of 534 separate documents and a large number of fragments. The earliest dates from the early part of the century, B. C.

UNIVERSITY PLAYERS ARE GOOD ENTERTAINERS AT HOMECOMING

By Warren L. Bassett

Amateur theatrical productions are usually listed under the heading "Indoor Sports for Critics." But it is safe to say that in the case of "Her Husband's Wife", the comedy by Augustus Thomas, presented by the University Players at the Englert Saturday night, the Blase Ones, were there any such in the audience, put aside the lifted eyebrow and the incorrigible remark, and enjoyed the play for its own sake.

While not quite equalling the former Players production, "Nothing But the Truth," in finish, Saturday's play sent a full house of Homecomers and undergrads out smiling.

Bruce Gould, as John Belden, the cynical uncle, did some of the best acting in the play. While it is not an especially hard task to let a young woman bury her head on one's shoulder, and act quite naturally, the hard part is, under the circumstances, to utter fatherly counsel. Mr. Gould did this. In addition he was perfectly at ease on the boards and approached the desired informality in gesture and position.

Robert Block as Stuart Randolph, and Lauren M. Smith, as Richard Belden, played the other two masculine parts. Despite, in the first act, a ruddiness of complexion that never was at summer resort or sea, both characters were capably presented. Mr. Block's inebriety in the last act bore all the humor of reality and was hugely enjoyed.

Marion H. Smith as Irene Randolph the hypochondriac wife, had a difficult part. She had to be appealing-instructor in the public speaking department. Working under the handicap of having to get the play ready by Homecoming, praise is due her for the credible manner in which it was acted.

The reception offered "Her Husband's Wife" by Saturday's audience warrants the suggestion that a Homecoming production shall be an annual custom of the Players.

there can be no doubt about the superiority of the Iowa team. Both offensively and defensively it has the edge.

Ames won from Kansas State College by a score of seventeen to nothing. The winning team again depended on the forward pass attack, which was abandoned for a time after the Missouri game. This may mean that Ames did not wish to use anything but its early season plays to win or it may mean that Ames is developing a forward pass attack for use against Iowa. At any rate, Ames hopes to have something next Saturday that it has never before used.

The chances are that this hope will be realized and that Ames will show more football that it has shown in all the other seven games of the season. It will have to show it to win, and it is not likely to win no matter how much it shows. Still, strange as it may seem to Iowa students, if the players on the Ames team told the truth, they would say that they expect to win the last game of the year.

It is hard to see just how they can hope to do this, but it must be remembered that last year it was hard to see how Ames could hold Iowa to ten points and gain more ground from scrimmage than Iowa did. The reason was, of course, that Ames laid low until that game, and Iowa was overconfident. Ames is repeating the process this year, and if Iowa repeats its part of last fall, the game will be one to make the visiting crowd nervous before the final whistle blows. If Iowa keeps its head, Ames will get just what Northwestern and Minnesota did.
