I have given my whole life over For a glass turned down, at any cup...

I have accepted the gifts they gave to me
And the hand of love filled up all

And the sirens and the jitterbugs are gone With their line, their taking, now

Saw the roses and the tulips make rose
Where summer's heart is breaking

Darkest

Deborah

...I have started this anyway!

As far as there is available information on the subject, Iowa was the first institution to start a fund for a permanent student body...

THE ONLY PICTURE THIS MOTHER HAD OF HER BOY

A mother whose boy was killed in the Great War could find only one picture of him,—a snapshot taken by his college friend and printed in the HAWKEYE. You can readily realize how she prizes this book. To her it is a treasure no money can buy.

The HAWKEYE is much more than a class book. It is a visualization of your activities during the period of your life when you are preparing for the great future.

One "Old Grad" who failed to purchase his copy of the HAWKEYE. He says it keeps him young; that it revives days when he went to see the Dean in Old Capitol, when he met the crowd in at Band's, and when he cheered the teams on Iowa field.

Unfortunately, it is during these earlier days that we fail to realize how quickly time passes. Years later it will be like living these days over again when you can look at these pages and have spread before you illustrations and pictures of your college friends, of your College activities, of College pranks. You will look at it many and many a time, and it will be a source of endless pleasure to you.

Margaret Deland, December—

FORENOON

Professor With Right
Age of Two
Communities
She Authors

Margaret Deland, daughter of the late writer, who was a trusted clergymen next door, according to her own words, is a woman of grace and charm, who knows what it means to be a wife, mother, and a woman of affairs. She is the author of many novels, among them "The Fruits of Philosophy," "The Big House," and "The Young Ones." She has also written a number of short stories, and her latest work is "The Woman Who Was Nell," which has been translated into Spanish and French.

Margaret Deland was born in Pennsylvania and educated at Bryn Mawr College, where she was a member of the Quaker Society.

After her return home she was sent to Europe to do the business of her family's estate. She is now living in New York, where she is working on her next book, "The Woman Who Was Nell." The book will soon be published by Little, Brown and Company.
