GIFT CAMPAIGN FOR CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL OPENS

Toys, Clothing, and Fruits Are Suggestions for Presents—Authorities Have Forbidden Candy

Y WILL DISTRIBUTE THE GIFTS

Those Who Expect to Prepare Suitable Individual Boxes May Obtain Name of a Child From Mrs. M. H. Dey—Each Ward Will Have Own Tree—Y Receiving Money

Christmas boxes are being asked for by the committee in charge of the campaign to raise money and gifts for the children of the Perkins hospital. According to Mrs. Charlotte W. Eastman, who is in charge of the campaign, boxes may contain clothing, toys or fruits, but no candy. Candy is forbidden by hospital authorities.

The boxes will be collected by Mrs. Marvin H. Dey of 507 N. Clinton street. Mrs. Dey has been cooperating with the hospital authorities and has obtained a list of the children. Those who desire to prepare a box should see Mrs. Dey and secure a name so that the boxes will be suitable and there will be no duplication. The boxes will be given to the children Christmas morning from trees which are to be placed in each ward.

Clothing Will Be Received

The Y. M. C. A. will have charge of the distribution to the children and will provide a vespers program. Money contributions are being received at the Y. M. C. A.

Mrs. Agnes Larimer of 115 S. Clinton street will be in charge of receiving old clothes. She has a list of the articles needed, and said that those who wish to give clothing should see her before the gift is made.

CANDIDATES FOR RIFLE TEAM ARE TO MEET TODAY

A meeting of all University men who are interested in the University rifle team is called by Lieut. Col. Morton C. Mumma, head of the department of military science and tactics, and coach of the rifle team, in the office of the military department in the men's gymnasium at 4:10 today.

A rifle team is to be organized for the purpose of competing in the intercollegiate indoor rifle matches under the auspices of the National Rifle Association of America, also for the purpose of competing with other conference institutions among whom the formation of a rifle league is proposed, according to Colonel Mumma.

Application has already been received from the University of Wisconsin and the University of Illinois for matches. It is probable that the other institutions in the conference will likewise form teams. "Judged by the fact that many high scores were made on the outdoor range this fall and from the further fact that there in the military department two men of long experience who are able to coach a rifle team, the prospects for a first class team to represent Iowa were never better," said Colonel Mumma. "While it is a disappointment that the range in the new armory will not be ready for use this winter, yet the one already in existence can be utilized by using the available time to the best advantage to the end that a first class team be produced."

WYLIE WILL SPEAK TO THE SCIENCE CLUB IN YANKTON

Prof. Robert B. Wylie of the department of botany will speak before the South Dakota academy of science at their annual meeting at Yankton, on December 10 and 11. Professor Wylie will discuss the work of the Lakeside Laboratory over which he had supervision during the past summer session.

LAW PLEADS FOR UNIVERSITY HYMN WITH ORIGINAL MUSIC

The need of originality in Iowa traditions and songs was expressed by William R. Law '04 of Waterloo, writer of "On Iowa," in an interview yesterday.

"Iowa has always been too willing to borrow the good songs or yells of some one else," he said. Mr. Law attributes this failure to be distinctive to a lack of appreciation of what it means. "We have the talent," he said, "in all of the thousands of graduates and undergraduates of the University there are number of persons qualified to write Iowa songs that would be typical of the University."

Mr. Law is anxious to see someone write new music to "Old Gold." "The words of 'Old Gold' are beautiful," he said, "but I should like to see a University hymn with distinctive music."

It is this lack of originality that Mr. Law believes distinguishes the attitude of alumni of eastern institutions from that of graduates of western universities.

"Eastern colleges have more individuality," he said. "As their alumni return from year to year, they find the same old songs that they sang there as students, and the same old traditions to which they were accustomed."

"Since I have been away from the University as a student," Mr. Law said, "I find that each time I return, something that I had known here is gone. If Iowa had songs, real Iowa songs that are the outgrowth of distinctive Iowa spirit, and some good Iowa traditions were here, there would be a closer bond between the University and its alumni."

Mr. Law believes that Iowa students need to have a greater feeling for the University as a university. "People here," he said, "ought to think that this is the best University in the country, and it has the best student body in the country, the best student body and the best faculty."

IOWA BANKERS TO MEET HERE

Short Course Will Be Given Late In December By the Extension Division and Bankers

Bankers of Iowa will meet for their second annual short course at the University under the auspices of the Iowa bankers association and the extension division on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, December 20, 21, and 22.

The subjects that will receive most attention this year will be the inheritance tax and banking efficiency. On the program that is now being arranged by the Extension Division will appear some of the leading financial authorities in the country.

Mr. B. M. Anderson, economist for the Chase National Bank of New York City, will speak on "Inheritance Taxation and Its Relationship to the Midwestern Banker and Farmer."

Clayton B. Sliver, tax expert for the Iowa Bankers Association, and two authorities representing the collector of revenue for this district will discuss the problem of the Income Tax and Federal Taxes on Inheritance.

Last year there were 611 bankers in attendance at the short course. As the students will be having vacation this year during the session the Quadrangle may be used to accommodate the bankers as well as the Hotel Jefferson which will be set aside for them during the three day session.

The meetings will be held in the natural science auditorium. On the last day of the meetings a banquet will be held. The arrangements are now being made by the extension division and the Iowa City bankers.

CHINESE TEA TO BE HELD

Oriental Atmosphere Will Prevail at Tea Next Friday

Chinese stunts and music will be the features of the tea which will be given by the Chinese women of the University Friday afternoon from 4 to 6, in the liberal arts drawing room.

Chiang Liu G of Foochow, China, president of the Chinese students' association, announces that the party is to be given for the purpose of acquainting the men and women of the University with the Chinese students and to raise funds for the relief of famine sufferers in China. Tickets are being sold by the Chinese students and by the Y. M. C. A. The price is fifty cents.

Tea and Chinese cakes will be served in native fashion, and there will be an exhibition of curios and novelty articles from the Orient. The articles will be sold at the close of the evening.

10% OF STUDENTS OVERDRAWN

More Men Than Women Overdraw Their Bank Accounts

Reports from the Iowa City bankers show that more men than women overdraw their accounts. Out of the 4,500 students enrolled at the University ninety percent do not overdraw their accounts; nine percent overdraw sometimes; one percent overdraw habitually.

On the average, twelve to eighteen checks are returned each morning by the banks to the stores owing to deficiency of accounts. The majority of these checks are written on the cigar stores and restaurants. Students who overdraw are notified by the bank on which they wrote the check or by the store. Some of the students make a deposit immediately, while others let the matter stand until the first of the month when they receive their remittance from home.

LIT SOCIETIES TO HAVE PROGRAMS

Athena, Erodolphian Have Own Meetings—Hesperia In Joint With The Zetagathians

Three of the women's literary societies are meeting in their respective rooms in Close hall tonight.

Athena literary society will meet at 7:30 p. m. The program will include: Piano solo by Angela Thompson P1, ballet by Helen L. Wylie A3, debate by Mary D. Pazdera A4 and Ruth A. Tisdale A4, and a violin solo by Elsie M. Katz A4. Every number on the program will be of a Russian character.

After a short business meeting the Erodolphian literary society will have a program as follows: John Brown in Iowa by Mary F. Sharp A4, Review of Modern Spiritualism by Charlotte Wichman A3, Stephen Leacock on Spiritualism by Grace Carson A3, Sir Oliver Lodge on Spiritualism by Esther Halloway A2, "A Spiritualist Meeting" by Margaret Holmes A4, and a piano solo by Marion E. Briery A4.

Hesperian and Zetagathian societies will have a joint meeting at 7:30 p. m. tonight. The program will be impromptu including talks by the presidents of each society, musical numbers, and readings. After the program the remainder of the evening will be given over to an informal social meeting.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION CLUB CHANGES MEETING DATES

The physical education club has changed its time of meeting from the first Wednesday of the month from 5 to 6, to the second Wednesday of the month from 7 to 8. The reason for changing the time of meeting is due to the fact that there is a conflicting meeting with the W. A. A. board meeting at this time.

Attendance at these meetings is compulsory for all women majoring in physical education, and all absences will be reported to the dean of women as any other absence. The next meeting will be held in the rest room of the women's gymnasium December 8 at 7 o'clock.

The program for the next meeting has been arranged by Dorothy O'Donohue A3 of Storm Lake, and consists of the following: "Building of Gymnasiums" by Dolloy Henderson A4 of Hawkeye, "Light and Heavy Apparatus" by Jean Speirs A3 of Reinbeck, "Building of Swimming Pools Indoor and Out" by Helen Hayes A3 of Iowa City, "Equipment for Our Gymnasium" by Ruth Wilson A3 of Seymour, and a talk on "Some of the Duties and Activities of the Head of the Physical Education Department" by Miss Marian Lyons, head of the department of physical education for women.

BIG TEN TITLE IN BASKETBALL IS NOT LIKELY

Athletic Fans Turn Attention From Football Field to Sports of the Track and Floor

IOWA TO BE 1922 CONTENDER

Chicago and Purdue Fail to Arrange Game for This Season—Boiler-makers Have Promise—Hawkeye Team Should Point to Future Championship—Chicago Strong

By M. F. Carpenter

The 1920 season having gone into history, the main interest in Conference athletics shifts from football to basketball and indoor track. Of these two, the former sport has always been the more prominent at Iowa; though last year there was a dual meet with Illinois near the close of the season and an Iowa athlete tied for first place in the high jump at the Indoor Conference at Evanston. But with the limited facilities for training the men at the old armory, track athletics will be largely an outdoor sport until the new building is completed, and there can be no general interest in indoor meets.

In basketball Iowa made a creditable showing last year. It was one of the two western teams to defeat Chicago, the Conference champion, and the only team to defeat Wisconsin on its own floor, a task that was too great for the leaders. Enough of last year's men are in college at present to insure a strong five in the coming season. It is, however, not likely that Iowa can win the championship. Iowa will most certainly be among the contenders in 1922, and this year's team should point that way.

Purdue Looks Good

Last year the strongest fives in the Conference were Chicago and Purdue. Chicago won the championship and was perhaps slightly the better of the two. At any rate, it had the edge on percentage. But it did not play Purdue, and the result might have been different if the two teams had met. On the basis of its showing at Iowa, Chicago was not a championship team but that game was the poorest that the Maroons played, while the game Purdue played here was of their best.

On the basis of last year's performance, both Purdue and Illinois look slightly better than Chicago, for they have not suffered as much from graduation as the champions. Chicago has, however, enough veterans back to place it among the contenders. But from present indications, Purdue looks better than any of its rivals. It is again unfortunate that on the announced schedules, Purdue and Chicago do not meet.

Combination is Important

Wisconsin and Minnesota must be counted in as among the possibilities this season. Wisconsin had an in and out team last year that had great difficulty in winning away from home. It has a new coach this season, or rather an old coach back again, Mr. Meanwell, who helped put Wisconsin on the basketball map in the middle ages of the sport and who had charge of a championship team at Missouri last winter. Minnesota had the material last year for a very good team but never hit the combination. Much the same material is available this year, but the general history of teams is that a combination once lost is never found.

Indiana made a strong showing last year. It did not, however, play an unusually hard schedule, and is probably not remarkably dangerous this season. Michigan, Northwestern, and Ohio were not strong last year and are not apt to be this year.

In indoor track, Illinois and Wisconsin have the best teams.

LET US HAVE OUR OWN

In attacking the literary piracy that allows the continued existence of songs and yells that have been taken bodily or substantially from other sources, William R. Law, writer of "On Iowa" hits a practice that has been more or less prevalent throughout the west, where colleges and universities have grown up more rapidly and mechanically than in the east.

It is this willingness to let the old things and the borrowed things ride that accounts for the existence of old "Ramble," "Hot Time," "Who's all right?" and the kindred yells and tunes which are shouted and sung by undergraduates, of a dozen colleges and high schools.

After more than a half century of existence Iowa ought to have something more to give to the world than "Ramble" and "There'll be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight." It does have something more, and it only remains for some one who feels it to put it down for this and other generations of students.

SIDE LINES

After reading that thousands of immigrants pour into the United States every day one begins to think that although the League is not with us the nations will soon be over.

Much sarcasm has been heaped on the heads of Northwestern students, not connected with the football team who gave a tea during the Northwestern-Notre Dame football game. The same class of students exists at every university. Here at Iowa the movie takes the place of the tea.

Statistics have it that of the thousands of young women who attempt to get into the movies every year, the greater percentage of them are telephone girls. No objections are ever made against this, and in truth, the news is often a source of joy. From the sort of service some of us get we are more ready to say "Good-bye" than we are to say "hello!"

Advice to the students of journalism: the University is rich in stories which newspapers all over the country would be glad to publish and would pay for at a good rate if they had the privilege. A little work on your part in digging these stories up and you will receive a rich reward. However don't make the mistake of sending a story to the Christian Science Monitor about the University Hospital.

"University women who are connected with all sorts of 'outside activities, and are called 'capable girls' by reason of their connections with these organizations may be likened unto the shower bath," says the campus fusser. "We all admire and recommend them highly, but we do not have anything to do with them personally."

What would you do if you had to concoct paragraphs enough for a column within forty minutes and you had nothing in your head but an ache? At first one worries about what he shall have in his first paragraph. By the

MAY ROBSON LIKES ROLE OF ORDINARY WOMAN OFF STAGE

When May Robson walked into the Jefferson hotel last evening she was dressed in black. A plush coat trimmed with fur, and a small hat drooping with feathers over which a dotted veil was arranged carried out the general effect. Miss Robson is a tall matronly-appearing woman with beautiful brown eyes and brown-grey hair.

"I would be lost without my work. I like to be at home, but my work is to me what an office is to some men. I have been on the road for 30 years," she said. "When I am off stage while I am on the road, I knit. I have my knitting with me now." She smiled, "I am making pretty colored sweaters for Christmas. In the first act of my play tonight I knit. During the war I knitted thirty-three khaki and grey sweaters and so many socks that I lost count."

"When I have a run at one place, I send for my machine. Last year we finished in Chicago. My secretary and I drove to my home in New York City. She knows all about machines. She can take the wheels off and she knows what's the matter with the carburetor—and all that kind of thing. She plays a minor part in the play tonight. She has lived with me for years. When I am at home I entertain my friends, cook, sew and drive. It is nothing for us to drive to Boston. When traveling, I prefer the west.

"My son and his wife and child live with me. I have known his wife since she was twelve years old. She is just like a daughter to me. It is nice that I can have them with me. There is always something to look forward to when I go home."

May Robson was born in Australia. She was educated in Paris and London. The family name was Robinson, but a typographical error gave her the name by which she has long been known to the American stage. In 1893 she made her debut in New York as "Tilly" in "The Hoop of Gold" with out previous experience. From that time on she has been on the stage. Last April her husband, Dr. A. H. Brown, a well known New York physician, died.

time he has written down as far as the present one, he becomes discouraged with the thought that he still has some "distance to go." A few more down and he begins to wonder whether he can invent a "last" line that will go over the goal posts successfully.

F. P. A. says that speculation regarding what he would do with a million dollars is idle but it would give him a last line anyway.

This would be it.

TWO-SECTION GHOST IS SEEN IN CEMETERY BY STUDENTS

Three University men, Merle G. Dodder, ex-A2 of Letts, Vincent C. Yocum, A2 of Terril, and LuVerne R. Buehler A2 of Osage, have brought forth a new ghost story in connection with the cemetery in the northeast corner of Iowa City.

The ghost, which represents a double man, the two sections each leaning upon the other, was first discovered late last week by Dodder. Telling Yocum about it he received that form of mirth called the horse-laugh. Buehler was then confided in. Both the latter being theoretically from the state of mules and hound dogs, the trio went to see the myth. Dodder was not skeptical, he having already seen the visitor and the other two returned fully convinced.

On entering the graveyard the next night all three saw the ghost standing at a distance of 200 yards. When the ghost approached it moved up too. When the watchers stood still, it too remained stationary. Dodder immediately disappeared on the way back to town. Yocum and Buehler attempted to talk to the spirit when at a distance of 100 yards but having no luck they went back to town with increased cadence.

When interviewed today Yocum said that "I'm not strictly a believer in ghosts but I do believe this thing isn't real. I am going out again on the first clear night and try to solve the mystery." Dodder meantime has cancelled his registration, giving as a reason that he was going to live on a farm.

Dr. Mabel C. Williams, assistant professor of psychology, says that it is possible for one to see a ghost as far as their own belief is concerned. "It can be due either to an illusion or an hallucination. A person in a suggestive state of mind might see an apparition in the form of a man in a waving weed or wisp of grass."
