UNIVERSITY MAY GET E. A. MILL'S ANIMAL EXHIBIT

Noted Lecturer and Author To Place Exhibit of Wild Animal Life

NATURE OF EXHIBIT TENTATIVE

Will Probably Be a Habitat Group of One of the Larger Mammals Says Professor Dill—Mills is Guest of City Conservation Circle and Is a Personal Friend of the Professor

That Enos A. Mills, lecturer and author of Longs Peak, Col., may place an exhibit of wild animal life in one of the University Zoological museums in his own name was the announcement made yesterday afternoon by Prof. Homer R. Dill, director of the vertebrate museum. Although nothing definite has been decided, the exhibit will probably be a habitat group of one of the larger mammals, said Professor Dill.

Mr. Mills was the guest of the City Conservation Circle yesterday and Wednesday and spoke in the natural science auditorium Wednesday evening on "The Great Park Movement" as an Educative, Healthful, and Recreative Factor". While in Iowa City he was shown through the University Zoological museums by Professor Dill who is an old friend of Mr. Mills. According to Professor Dill, he was very much interested in all the museums and especially in the habitat groups such as the new Louisiana swamp group and the Layson cyclorama.

Mr. Mills was impressed by the mammal groups, according to Professor Dill, and his exhibit will probably be a habitat group of one of the larger mammals, possibly the grizzly bear. Although details have not yet been arranged, the new group will probably be located in mammal hall in the natural science building, is the opinion of Professor Dill.

Mr. Mills has for many years been interested in wild animals and in the instructing of men to work up museum groups. According to Professor Dill, he was greatly impressed with the work being done in the University zoological museums, especially in habitat groups.

Mr. Mills has gained a national reputation through his articles and lectures on animal, bird, and scenery protection and on the development of national parks. He has extensively explored the Rocky Mountains, alone, on foot, and without firearms. For some time he served as guide on Longs Peak which he climbed over 250 times.

Mr. Mills has published a number of articles on nature and animals, among which are: "Your National Parks", "The Adventures of a Nature Guide", "The Grizzly, Our Greatest Wild Animal", "Rocky Mountain Scenery", "In Beaver World", and "The Spell of the Rockies".

BACONIAN TO MEET

Representatives from Convention to Report January 7

Representatives of each of the seven departments of science, who will attend national conventions during the holidays will give reports of the conventions at the next meeting of the Baconian Club in Room 301 of the physics building January 7.

The Baconian Club is a science club for the purpose of reading and discussing scientific papers, according to Prof. John F. Reilly, of the Mathematics department president of the club. The members are professors in the seven science departments: Botany, Geology, Zoology, Physics, Chemistry, Psychology, and Mathematics, and the meetings occur every Friday evening. Prof. Clifford H. Farr of the Botany department is secretary of the club.

DEVINE AND JONES TO SPEAK AT FORT DODGE HIGH SCHOOL BANQUET

Howard H. Jones, football coach, and Aubrey Devine, captain elect of the 1921 football team will attend the third of the series of banquets given to high school athletes, by alumni over the state, at Fort Dodge the evening of December 27. Both Coach Jones and Devine are on the program for speeches at this banquet.

The object of these banquets, which have the cooperation of A. F. L., honorary senior organization for men, as well as the alumni associations of various cities over the state, is to interest high school athletes in attending the University.

The banquet to be given at Fort Dodge is under the charge of Dr. Glenn J. Greenwood '19, captain of the 1919 track team and Wm. B. Livingston '15 of the college of law.

PLANS STARTED FOR VAUDEVILLE

Members of W. A. A. May Give Original Production in February

Plans for a vaudeville are being made at the present time by the Women's Athletic Association, which will probably be presented February 24, according to Dorothy G. Henderson A4 of Hawkeye. While no name for the production has been chosen yet, several are under consideration, and the program and production will be entirely original. Tryouts will be held the second week in January, according to present plans.

The program will probably include solo and group dancing, pantomimes, a Zouave drill, apparatus work, a one act play, an athletic wedding, seasonal skits, some musical numbers and a movie, according to Miss Henderson, chairman of the program committee. The scenic effects and costumes are in charge of Helen Hayes A3 of Iowa City.

Those who will take part will be chosen from the W. A. A., on a competitive tryout, before a committee composed of Carlisle Wright A4 of Houghton, Mich., Dorothy G. Henderson A4 of Hawkeye, and several of the instructors in physical education. Although there are more than 200 women in the Women's Athletic Association, every one will get a chance to take part in something. If they are not on the program, they will be placed on some committee, or be given a chance to work in some other way, according to Jean M. Spiers A3 of Reinbeck, president of the Women's Athletic Association.

The price of admission will probably be one dollar for any seat in the house, was the announcement made by Lorena L. Ludwick, A3 of Belleville, business manager for the show.

"If the W. A. A. vaudeville is a success, as I know it will be, it will become an annual affair similar to the law jubilee and the engineer Mecca Day", said Miss Anne Boillin, physical education instructor.

A tentative program has been passed by the Senate Board of the University, and has been approved by Nellie S. Aurner, dean of women.

BOARD DISPROVES ACTION

A resolution disapproving the alleged action of J. A. Heng a merchant of Spencer, Ia., in offering a $500 side bet for a match between Coach Ralph Parcaut of the University of Iowa and Coach Paul Prehn of the University of Illinois was passed in a meeting of the athletic board at 4 p. m. yesterday.

It is the policy of athletic boards both at Illinois and Iowa to curb betting as much as possible, while it is also a statute law that betting be prohibited on athletic meets.

TRAINER WATSON REJECTS OFFER; MAY LEAVE IOWA

Popular Trainer and Coach Has Been Here Since 1913 Is Very Popular

FUTURE PLANS NOT KNOWN

Members of Athletic Board Say He Rejects a Contract Offering Higher Salary Than is Given to Any Other Trainer in the Country — Board is Looking for Another Coach

Veteran Trainer John Piper Watson, who has been with the University of Iowa since the fall of 1913 has rejected the contract offered him as trainer and track coach in a letter on file with the secretary of the board in control of athletics according to Secretary Rudolph A. Kuever.

The contract said by members of the athletic board to include the highest salary of any trainer in the United States was given Trainer Watson two months ago with the understanding that action be taken before December 10. Jack has not made known any of his future plans. It is known that he has had negotiations with Dartmouth and that he recently visited that institution.

The athletic board passed a resolution yesterday afternoon in a meeting at 4 o'clock to commence negotiations for another trainer and track coach at once.

"We will make every attempt to get men of the highest personal character and ability both as trainer and as track coach. Men will be brought to the University and their qualifications thoroughly investigated," said Rudolph A. Kuever, secretary of the athletic board last night.

"We are going to attempt to raise track standards to a par with the standing that Iowa has acquired in football and basketball among conference teams," Mr. Kuever added.

RALPH PARCAUT WINS MATCH FROM BRENNAN WITH STRAIGHT FALLS

Ralph Parcaut, middleweight champion of the world, and wrestling coach at the University, successfully defended his title here Wednesday night by flopping George Brennan, of the Chicago A. C., at the Company "A" hall. Parcaut obtained both falls in 31:31.

The first fall came in 15:01, Parcaut clamping on a head scissors, after several attempts at a head scissors and arm hold. Brennan, during this fall, continuously tried for toe holds, which Parcaut broke with little effort.

Brennan was content to let the champion work behind him during the second period, which was marked with much roughness by the challenger. Time was called after ten minutes of slow work, Brennan claiming that he was injured. After 16:30 Parcaut obtained a toe hold and hall nelson, which the challenger was unable to break. Brennan challenged Parcaut to a match in the near future.

A good sized crowd, which included several ladies, saw the match and the preliminaries. The feature of the prelims was the boxing match between Slater and Kinney who boxed five fast rounds to a draw. "Dad" Schroeder, of the University referred the preliminaries and Ed O'Connor of Iowa City refereed the main go.

SPHINX CLUB GIVES $25 TO FUND FOR CRIPPLES

A contribution of $25 was made by members of the Sphinx club to the Christmas fund for crippled children of the Perkins hospital, at a club luncheon at the Pagoda tea shop yesterday noon. Owen Meredith L1 of Des Moines is president of the club.

INCOME TAX AGENTS INVESTIGATE HERE, SEEK DELINQUENTS

Representatives of the federal income revenue department are now in Iowa City making investigations concerning persons delinquent in making income tax returns, and are holding investigations in the assembly room of the County court house.

According to G. E. Hancock who is chief internal revenue collector of this division investigations will apply to students as well as to tax payers. Any student who is over eighteen years of age and has a substantial income, exclusive of gifts, which exceeds $1,000 is required to make an income tax return. Many students have already made returns.

"The penalty of the law will be enforced if any delinquencies are uncovered," said Mr. Hancock.

Iowa City is in the Cedar Rapids internal revenue division. Paul F. Smith a former student of the University, is acting as deputy collector.

ADIEU TO BOOKS IS MADE TODAY

Last Class Held This Afternoon Interurbans and Special Trains on Schedule

Replacing their text books on cluttered shelves and feeding on notions of home, and Christmas, and unhampered morning naps, the students of the University will attend the last class today, say Merry Christmas to the campus and campus friends, and board an out-going train for a recess lasting until Tuesday, January 4, 1921.

Special interurbans will run this afternoon to accommodate the crowds of students who are going home. Some few will remain in town until tomorrow in order to attend the last varsity of the year which will be held tonight but the majority will leave the city on the first train or interurban after their last class, and Iowa City trains can come and go uncrowded until the students start to return.

Nearly all of the fraternities and sororities have held special celebrations of some kind in keeping with the Christmas spirit. Christmas trees, Yule logs, Santa Claus, and funny gifts featured these celebrations. One sorority sent its Christmas tree and toy gifts to the children's hospital after its party. Christmas cards being exchanged by fraternities and sororities has promoted the feeling of Christmas among the Greek letter organizations.

Preparations are being made for a Christmas celebration for the children in local hospitals. The Y. M. C. A. is in charge of the campaign for funds and the arrangements for Christmas trees and Santa Claus. Children in the Perkins hospital are making decorations which will be used on their Christmas tree. Two men have been secured to act as Santa Claus for these children. They will visit the children on Christmas eve and warn them not to forget to hang up their stockings, and then return Christmas morning and officiate at the trees in the wards.

TYPICAL GIRL TO BE PICKED AFTER VACATION

Since only a few nominations have been made for the Typical Iowa Girl, and since it will be difficult for the Register to secure the picture of the winner during the Christmas holidays, the Iowa contest committee has decided to prolong the contest until the first week after vacation.

Pre-vacation study for examinations has occupied so much time that students who have a very decided choice in the matter have failed to nominate the girls of their choice.

Nominations for typical Iowa Girl will be received all day Friday at the Iowan office, and up until six o'clock of the Friday after vacation.

BASKET SQUAD TO PLAY DURING THE NEXT FEW WEEKS

Sixteen Players Decide to Stay Over Until Next Wednesday

VARSIITY WINS OVER FROSH

Two Sets of Freshmen Hold First and Second Varsity Teams to Low Scores — Strength of Independent Teams Not Known — First Game With Rockford

Men who stay at the University until next Wednesday to practice basketball in preparation for the holiday barnstorming trip are Frohwein and Postma at center with certainty, and tentatively Jones and Burgett.

The guards to stay are Captain Kaufmann, Ty Smith, Klatt, Prentiss, Lee, Voltmer, and Newcomb, and the forwards are A. Devine, Shimek, Lohman, Ehresman, McGovney, and Olson. Others who desire to stay will be given the regular chances at scrimmage.

The squad will be dismissed next Wednesday until the Monday after Christmas. The team to go on the trip will probably leave for Rockford December 28. Coach Ashmore will be in charge of the squad.

Ten men will make the trip although Coach Ashmore has made no decisions on whom they will be as yet. Frohwein and Postma are the favorites at center so far although Burgett has been hitting a good clip. His eligibility is somewhat in doubt. Jones is a sophomore who won his numerals on the freshmen basketball team last winter. Little is known about his ability to play with the varsity except that he has the height for a center.

The four forwards to take the trip will be picked out of the six chosen to stay. Kaufmann, Ty Smith and Klatt have the edge on the guard positions so far, but there is good material in Prentiss, Lee, Voltmer, and Newcomb. Probably it will be the first three mentioned and one of the last four.

Two yearling teams lined up against the varsity first and second team last night for twenty minute periods of scrimmage. One set, playing against the varsity, took the lead and scored the first two baskets, although the first team won by a score of 10 to 4.

Another set playing against the second team was able to score 3 to the second team's 10. The frosh squad will be cut immediately after the holidays. It is not expected that it will be necessary to prune the varsity squad.

The relative strength of the independent teams to be tackled at Rockford and Bloomington is not known. The scores resulting will not be proving or disproving test of the ability of the team. Independent teams play different styles of ball than universities in that there is less strict translation of rules. The main point to be gained will be some preliminary experienced at games and a chance for the coach to pick the weakness in the squad.

Merry Christmas

GIFT FOR PERKINS FUND

Quadrangle Donates $30.00 for the Crippled Children

The Quadrangle donation to the fund for the Perkins hospital Christmas fund has so far exceeded $30.00, according to Ben. W. Robinson, G. of Cedar Falls, president of the Quadrangle Association. Boxes labelled: "For the Perkins Kiddies, From Their Big Brothers at the Quad"; have been placed in several places at the Quad. These boxes have netted over $25.00, and the General Council of the Quadrangle Association voted an additional amount of $5.00 from the general fund of the association.

CHRISTMAS

A week from to-night the nervous, self-conscious youth of the land, in starched pinafore, or uncomfortable collar, will speak its verses and sing its carols on thousands of Sunday school platforms, go home, hang up its stocking with an excited whisper, and be tucked away in its little white bed with a friendly moon shining in at the window.

Christmas Eve. Filled with memories of childish imaginings, of reindeers, holly, evergreens, a red-coated elf in a dashing sled, stretches of snow, sugar candy, and jumping jacks; replete with the tension of childish expectation; and standing as a memorial to the birth of a Child in a stable of a tavern in Bethlehem, Christmas Eve is a night for Children.

This Christmas spirit is universal. The "Peace on earth, good will to men," of which the Sunday school class sings, is more than an appealing melody. Peace on Earth. Under the same moon a week from to-night the youth of the war-battered continent will lie down with aching bodies, and the forlorn expectancy only of another cold day, and a longing only for food.

For these children of the continent is asked no holiday demonstration, no Christmas tree, no candy, or no jumping jacks. It is asked that the more fortunate people of the world try to keep them alive with food. To this end $23,000,000 is needed, and subscriptions to the fund are received through Herbert Hoover, 42 Broadway, New York.

At Christmas time one hesitates to argue dividends. A mentally and physically healthy world citizenship is too obvious an asset to need argument. Furthermore this is Christmas time, the time of "Good will to men," of lighted candles, of wreaths in the window, of giving. It is Christmas time for the children who excitedly pull the ribbons and the wrappings from the packages by the fire place, and Christmas time for the children who are starving.

Merry Christmas

The Column: A description of whom is unnecessary and so we introduce,—
The Landlady: About thirty-five Has noticeable aversion to brooms.
Time: About three hours and twenty minutes too late to make an eight o'clock.

(The curtains part revealing a small disordered bed-room. Books are scattered over the floor, and in the bed huddles the Column. A gigantic alarm clock suspended by a jazz-bo tie hangs about twelve inches above his head. There is repeated knocking on the door before the Column stirs.)

The Column. Come in! (door opens revealing landlady)

Landlady. Oh! I beg your pardon. I didn't mean to awaken you. I thought you were in school and wanted to brush up your room a bit.

The Column. You mean you thought I had gone to class?

Landlady. That's it. I wanted to seize the opportunity to brush up the room a bit.

The Column. It hasn't been brushed up for several weeks has it?

Landlady. No. Not for a long time.

The Column. Well you might just as well let it go for the rest of the week. I'm leaving town for Christmas and then you can have full sway. (He turns over in bed but the landlady makes no move to go) Is that all?

Landlady. Why no. I beg your pardon, but I would like to know if you would care to sell your alarm clock?

The Column. (Afraid he is being kidded) No! I'm afraid not. (pause) Sorry (ironically) Anything else today?

The Landlady. Yes: now that you've asked me I would really like to borrow a little bit of your black ink.

The Column. Why you are perfectly welcome to use it if it isn't frozen.

The Landlady. (Looking at him suspiciously) Thank you!

The Column. Just a minute. I have a question I would like to ask you if you don't mind.

The Landlady. Yes; you may ask me. Go ahead.

The Column. Well did you ever do any writing?

Landlady. (Suddenly interested.) Writing? Writing? What do you mean?

The Column. Oh! I mean "literature" and all that sort of thing.

Landlady (flattered) What in the world ever caused you to ask me that?

The Column. Well I just guessed you must do something like that. You never do any housework. (under his breath). You have that AIR about you. that artistic air don't you know. Tell me do you ever write?

Landlady. (In burst of confidence) Yes: I write scenarios for the movies. Confidentially I have two novels, six plays, sixteen poems, and about ninety-nine jokes on the road at the present time.

The Column. Yes I noticed that you always get a lot of mail every day.

Landlady (after glaring at him for a minute). Yes: but just the same I'm sure that some of these editors keep a copy of my stuff before sending it back to me.

The Column. Probably, just like them.

Landlady. Now that I've told you what do you think about it?

The Column. Well I thought I might be of service to you.

Landlady. Service? What do you mean?

The Column. Well you know I'm working on a newspaper now and since I don't need it myself I'm going to give it to you. It's yours.

The Landlady. What are you talking about. What is mine?

The Column. My waste basket. There it is over there in the corner. Help yourself. (The landlady slams the door, the Column looks at the clock, covers his face in a pillow and is soon hitting it off at 150.

TO THE STUDENTS OF IOWA

Hurray! School's out!

We're all going home for Christmas but say do you suppose those patients in the hospital in your home town are all going home for Christmas. It's quite doubtful and what's more, perhaps they weren't even home for Thanksgiving. Let's see what we can do to bring Christmas to them. Perhaps we can see that the children have a Christmas tree with toys and candy or if that has been taken care of we can get a bunch and go down and sing some of the songs old folks like at this season. Get ahold of a couple of instruments perhaps and some good husky voices and show those patients what the real Christmas spirit is. According to Dr. Gramh, superintendent of the University hospital, singing is one of the best forms of service possible for a patient in the hospital. It takes the patient's mind off themselves and works wonders. Can't we do something of this sort this vacation and we'll all enjoy our own Christmas more.

TAU BETA PI HOLDS INITIATION FOR SEVEN SENIOR ENGINEERS

Seven senior engineering students were initiated into Tau Beta Pi, national honorary engineering society Tuesday evening. They are: Raynor Anderson of Shenandoah, Ray Schacht of Preston, Orrin Jamison of Wapello, Paul Mercer of Iowa City, Elbert Geissinger of Des Moines, Edward Barta of Swisher, and Edward Erickson of Cedar Rapids.

Elections to Tau Beta Pi are based on three requirements: scholarship, interest in activities outside the regular professional course, liberal education, athletics, student activities, and character, according to Kenneth Lambert of Iowa City who graduated from the course last week and who is a member of this society.

At the middle of the year, the highest eighth of the junior class of engineers are eligible for election. At the first of the next year the remainder of the first quarter of the class is eligible.

The most important requirement is character, according to Lambert. This is best stated in the words written on the front door of the Engineering Building: "The greatest asset the Engineering profession has is its reputation for honesty; it is the duty of every engineer to maintain that reputation unsullied."

Tau Beta Pi was founded in 1885 at Lehigh university. At present there are 29 chapters in the various technical colleges of the United States. The officers of the local chapter are: Martin E. Flentje S5 of Sheldon, president, Reginald J. Tompkins S4 of Waterloo, secretary, and Prof. Arthur H. Ford, head of electrical engineering, treasurer.

ODD MOMENTS WITH THE MEN HIGHER UP

Thumb-nail Sketches and Personal Sidelights of Members of the Staff of Instruction and Administration

CARL EMIL SEASHORE

Those who care to look the matter up in Who's Who will find that Carl Emil Seashore, dean of the graduate college at Iowa, was born in Morlunda, Sweden, educated at Yale, and married in Iowa City. But if the searcher is not a student of psychology that is about all he will understand of that interesting little article in the big red book. "Inventor of" and "writer of" may be picked out of the maze, but for the most part the story is made up of big words with no meaning to the uninitiated.

The student at Iowa, however, has the privilege of seeing the man himself, and of reading those books, which are not half as technical or forbidding as one might imagine from reading the titles. He may peep into the laboratory and discover that the inventions with the impossible names are but remodeled phonographs and oversized tuning forks equipped with non-skids and self-starters. He can hear Dean Seashore talk and will, no doubt, come to the conclusion that he is a pretty human sort of a man in spite of the fact that he has written half a dozen books and is a member of seven or eight associations of learned psychologists.

The college professor in the popular magazines or in the movies is temperamental, wears gold-rimmed spectacles, parts his hair in the middle, and clips the ends of it so that they will just clear his coat collar. But here is a man who can be president of a scientific society and at the same time be calm and self-controlled, wear nose-glasses and have his hair clipped so closely and neatly that he might easily be taken for a bank president. He drives his own Chevrolet and is a golf enthusiast. His hair, what there is left of it, is gray, but he carries his fifty-four years with an erectness and a spring that most of his students would like to imitate. Nose-glasses shaped like half-moons, help him when he reads, for words such as "psychergograph" or "psychotherapeutics" will ruin the best of eyes, and Dean Seashore has been reading them for the students of Iowa for twenty-three years. In fact, there is only one point of resemblance between him and the traditional professor: he is absent minded. But a man cannot direct the affairs of the graduate college of the University of Iowa, teach psychology to hundreds of sophomores, and still remember to come home past the grocers and bring a box of pancake flour.

He understands the processes of hypnotism, mesmerism, spiritual seances, and psycho-analysis. He knows what makes the ouija board go round, and why ghosts walk only in the dark, and yet he conducts his class without the aid of magic, and there is no record of any student being put to sleep in his lecture room.

The students always speak of him as Seashore, just as they would speak of Wilson, or Roosevelt or Shakespeare, and some of them consider him as great a man.

CHILDREN WANT TOYS OR DOLLS

Y. M. C. A. Raises $200 for the Perkins' Hospital Gift Fund

If the letters to Santa Claus have any effect on local markets, there will be a great scarcity of Ingersoll watches in Iowa City this winter. Practically all of the boys at the Perkins hospital want watches; some want them with chains and some specify wrist-watches. Most of them wanted candy, and water colors ranked next in popularity.

Girls like dolls, and the crippled girls seem to be no exception. All of the varieties of dolls requested would make even the well-known saint from Reindeer hall scratch his head in wonder. They too, requested candy, and various toys. The following is a fair sample of the type of the girl's letters:

Dear Santa;—I want a great big sleeping doll and a set of dishes with a little table, and a little cupboard to keep my dishes in. Frances.

One little negro boy four years old with both legs in casts said yesterday that his only wish was for a toy automobile. Another wanted a new necktie with purple stripes in it, and a third wanted a new suit of Sunday clothes.

All of them were happy. The ones who were going home for the vacation were especially cheerful, but even the thoughts of chicken at home could not make them forget entirely the celebration which is to be put on at the hospital.

The Y. M. C. A. has almost completed its campaign for funds. About two hundred dollars has already been raised by the committee. Last year the whole amount raised was $156.96.

The college of applied science has collected about forty dollars for the fund, according to Dean William G. Raymond, but they have not yet turned the money over to the committee. The Quadrangle turned in $31.84 yesterday. The Quadrangle and several fraternities are conducting a "Big Brother" campaign. GLEE CLUB TRIP PLANS FINISHED

Singers Will Be Entertained by Alumni and Students in Various Towns

Routing for the tour that the men's glee club will make during the Christmas holidays has been completed and the club will leave Iowa City Sunday morning at 7 o'clock for Marion, where they will give their first concert Sunday night, December 19.

The tour as it is now planned is as follows: Marion, December 19; Clinton, December 20; Maquoketa, December 22; Burlington, December 23; Mt. Pleasant, December 24; Fairfield, December 25; Ottumwa, December 26; Chariton, December 27; Des Moines, December 28; and Indianola, December 29. There is some question concerning the engagement at Ottumwa, but if arrangements are not completed there the club will go to Seymour instead.

Fred A. Steiner L1 of Corydon, who had been secured by the club to give some numbers on the banjo, received word yesterday that his father was seriously ill and that it would be necessary for him to go home for the holidays. "It will be impossible for the club to secure any one on short notice to fill Mr. Steiners' place and it is possible that he can join the club three or four days after the tour starts if his father has improved by that time," Prof. William E. Hays, director of the club, said yesterday.

Entertainment in the forms of banquets, luncheons, and parties are being arranged in many of the towns for the members of the club both by alumni and by students of the University who are in the different towns in which the club will appear. Tickets are on sale already in some of the towns and advertising is being circulated by the members of the Iowa Alumni association in the various towns for the concerts.
