HOLIDAY GLEE CLUB CONCERT TOUR SUCCESS

Annual Tour Cut From Eleven To Ten Days—Some Money Made for Union

TRIP ENJOYED BY EVERYBODY

Concert Tour Ended December 28 — Indianola Date Cancelled — Solo And Quartet Numbers Received Most Commendation — Parties for Club at Clinton, Davenport

The men's glee club ended the holiday concert tour at Des Moines Tuesday night, December 28, where they disbanded in order that the men might have a few days of vacation to spend at their homes.

According to Prof. William E. Hays director of the club, the trip was highly successful in every way and netted sufficient proceeds to pay the expense of the club and to increase the contribution of the Alumni Association to the Iowa Memorial Union. The tour lasted only ten days instead of eleven as was planned because of the cancellation of the engagement at Indianola during the course of the trip.

A varied program was given, consisting of popular, classic, and college songs by the club, select numbers by the quartet, tenor solos by Professor Hays, baritone solos by Harry E. Schmidt A3 of Burlington, and bass solos by J. Frederick Allebach A2 of Iowa City. Fred A. Steiner L1 of Corydon, who was to give some special number on the banjo, was called home by the illness of his father but joined the club at Seymour and appeared in the last three concerts. Frances Williams A1 of Burlington accompanied the soloists on the piano in the concert given at Burlington. The program, especially the solo and quartet numbers, gained enthusiastic response from every audience although in a few cases the severe weather prevented as large an attendance as might otherwise have been enjoyed.

Trip Enjoyable

Professor Hays said yesterday, "I think that the men all had a most delightful trip. Ask them." Upon inquiry one of the men replied that "it was just one grand feed after another". A second said that he had never attended so many parties in his life and the third merely replied, "Great stuff." Special parties were given to the club at Clinton, Davenport Mt. Pleasant, and Chariton and in every town the men were delightfully entertained in the homes of the friends and alumni of University. At Mt. Pleasant on Christmas eve the entire club was entertained at the home of Helen B. Mackin A2. Her father, Dr. M. B. Mackin is superintendent of the state Hospital at Mt. Pleasant where the club sang for the inmates Christmas eve. While at Chariton the club was entertained at dinner and a party following the concert tour at the home of Elizabeth A. Stanton A2.

No Mishap on Tour

According to Professor Hays, there was only one menace to the singing, that of eating too much. Every man appeared in every concert, however, and the only misfortune was that seven men missed a morning train and had a long cold cross-country ride in Fords.

WASSAM TALKS TONIGHT

Assistant Professor Clarence W. Wassam of the school of commerce will give the talk at the first Y. W. C. A. meeting of the year in the liberal arts drawing room today at 4 o'clock. His subject will be "The Yearly Inventory."

GRASSFIELD FINISHES TRIP

Memorial Union Director Completes Organization in Three Counties

Ralph G. Grassfield, director of the Memorial Union is expected to return soon from an organization trip on which he has been occupied since December 23.

Mr. Grassfield has visited Clinton, Maquoketa, and Anamosa in an effort to perfect the Union organization in Clinton, Jackson, and Jones counties, so that funds may be easily raised in these counties when the campaign is launched.

COWLING WILL SPEAK JAN. 23

President of Carleton College To Give the Next Vesper Address

Donald John Cowling, president of Carleton college, will be the speaker at the next vesper service to be held Sunday, January 23, according to an announcement made yesterday by Prof. George T. W. Patrick, chairman of the vesper committee. His subject has not yet been announced.

President Cowling is a man of wide education, having obtained numerous degrees from Lebanon Valley College and Yale. While attending Yale he was a member of Sigma Xi, Book and Bond, and upon graduation was elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

He began teaching at Baker University in 1906 a assistant professor in philosophy. On July 1, 1909, he took up his present position at Carleton. Since beginning this work he has been active in peace, church, and educational circles, having been a national executive committeeman of the League to Enforce Peace and president of the Association of American Colleges.

PROFESSOR WYLIE IS NEW SECRETARY OF SCIENCE ASSOCIATION

Prof. Robert B. Wylie of the department of botany was appointed secretary of the botany department of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at its meeting in Chicago during the holidays. This is the largest organization of scientists in the world. Over five hundred botanists attended the meeting.

Professor Wylie has been connected with the department of botany at the University for the past fourteen years and has made many important discoveries in relation to diseases of plants. It is in recognition of his services in the field of botany that the Association has chosen him to act as its secretary. He was elected for a term of four years. He will still be able to conduct his regular University work.

STUDENTS WEARIED BY VACATION RETURN TO REST AND HARD STUDY

With reminiscent looks in their eyes and slight droops of their shoulders, the students of the University of Iowa again turned to the thoughts of study with the opening of classes at eight o'clock yesterday morning. Trains and interurbans arriving at Iowa City were taxed to their capacity Sunday and Monday. Ever standing room was at a premium and tired students became more tired when they had to stand up a hundred miles or more of their journey back to school. As one fellow remarked, "Even a co-ed school has its disadvantages."

Efforts to find misplaced textbooks and remember forgotten assignments are counteracted by futile efforts to forget those holiday dinners that New Year's dance, and those mornings of

Mrs. Eastman, In Charge, Reports That Response Was Entirely Satisfactory — Some Boys Trade Toys for Cash — Watches in Great Demand—Money Left for Movies

Three hundred and six dollars was raised by the Y. M. C. A. and cooperating organizations to put on the Christmas celebration for the crippled children at the Perkins hospital, the University hospital, and the Convalescent hospital. Numerous gifts of toys, games, and clothing were received and Mrs. Charlotte W. Eastman who had charge of that part of the campaign reported that the response to her appeal for gifts was entirely satisfactory.

Santa Claus visited the hospitals according to schedule and practically all of the children were well pleased with what he brought them. One little boy of fourteen who has crippled legs was extremely happy over a gray knitted sweater and a pair of mittens. However he was not pleased with his toys. "They didn't give me a thing but baby toys," he said. He promptly sold the offending toys to younger boys in adjoining cots and now has ninety-eight copper cents in a little box under his covers. Other boys showed keen disappointment because there were not enough watches to go around to all who had asked for them. Those who were lucky enough to get one of the precious Ingersols were sure to have it ticking noisily from a bed post or strapped tightly about a wrist.

Not all of the money raised has been spent, and the committee reported that the remainder will be used to meet the expenses of the weekly moving-picture shows to be put on during the rest of the year. The completed list of organizations contributing money was made public yesterday. It is as follows: College of applied science, $33.85; Quadrangle, $30.81; Y. W. C. A., $29.25; Phi Gamma Delta, $22.75; Delta Chi, $20.00; Nu Sigma Nu, $16.00; Alpha Tau Omega, $14.75; Delta Kappa Gamma, $7.10; Phi Rho Sigma, $8.00; Theta Xi, $6.00; Phi Delta Theta, $6.638; Sigma Phi Epsilon, $3.39; Sigma Nu, $5.60; and Kappa Beta Psi, $5.75.

Over $100 was collected in the contribution boxes in cigar stores, banks, and University buildings. The gifts in the boxes ranged in size from the 1700 cents to one check for $5.00.

Irene Ross, the popular Miss who superintends the operations at the Whetstone postoffice window, was yesterday awarded the twenty-five dollar prize offered by the Golden Eagle for the most courteous sales-girl in Iowa City.

The prize was awarded according to popular vote. One fraternity and two sororities unanimously voted for her. About one thousand votes were cast, Miss Ross receiving about three hundred.

BASKET SQUAD TRAIN NIGHTLY

Coe Game Tomorrow—Cornell Next Monday—Minnesota Game January 15

Nightly basketball practice will point toward the two preliminary games, with Coe Thursday night and Cornell Monday night, preparatory to meeting the Minnesota scoring machine at Minneapolis on January 15. The Coe game should be a good exhibition from practice standpoints. Ames has beaten the Parlor city crew by a score of 20 to 5 in a practice game.

Cach Jimmie Ashmore is working his men in the formation adopted in the Millikin game which shifts Shimek to running guard, alternates Frohwein at center and forward, and sends Devine back to the caging job. Ehresman has worked some at center but will probably be left at forward. Jones is working at center in practice and while he made good on the frosh squad last year his career with the varsity remains to be seen. He has a good build for the tipoff job.

Freshman Squad Thinned

The pruning knife was thrust into the freshman mob with a result that twenty-eight will try out until the second elimination comes in a few days. Barton, Butler, Gordon, Rankin, Johnstone, Watson, Murry, and Lewin will play at forward, Kelloway, Moody, Fisher and Finley at center, and Hicks, Day, Tjossem, Hass, Lemen, Morrison, Lindsay, Saggau, Fry, Jansen, Dent, Scanlon, Treneman, Kriz, Anderson, and Pangborn at guard.

Practice will be held nightly at 4

SHERIDAN'S PLAY "THE RIVALS" NEXT WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Sheridan's "The Rivals" will be presented by the Coffer Miller players in the Natural Science auditorium Thursday evening January 13 at 8 o'clock.

These players have been put on an equal basis with the Deveraux players by many critics. The company is composed of four players with Mr. Jess Coffer and Miss Martha Miller taking the leading parts. These players have been on the chautauqua platform for many years and were known as the Cambridge players. They are now playing as a company in many of the leading educational institutions of the United States.

The play "The Rivals" is well known to many of the students. It is a comedy in three acts, written by Brinslep Sheridan.

The production is being brought here under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. Late leave to attend the entertainment has been granted by Mrs. Nellie S. Aurner, dean of women.

Miss Margaret Dolliver L1 of Fort Dodge, president of the Y. W. C. A. said, "The Y. W. C. A. is trying to co-operate with the University players and other organizations interested in dramatics in bringing good entertainment to the campus."

Purple's Defeat of Wisconsin Raises Chicago Basketball Prospects

IOWA HAS SHOWN UP WELL

Ashmore's Men, Though Not Championship Material, Will Figure Strongly in Conference Race—Illinois and Indiana Face Hard Schedules—Minnesota Might Have Chance

By M. F. Carpenter

The Conference basketball season started Monday night when Northwestern defeated Wisconsin by a score of 13 to 12 in a poorly played game. The result must have brought keen disappointment to the losing team, which has been regarded as a strong contender for the championship. The Northwestern team, although thought to be distinctly stronger than last year's five, which finished the season with a record of two games won and six lost, has not been regarded as any more than an average team. For Wisconsin to lose to such a team, even after all proper allowances are made for the disadvantages of a strange floor, shows that Dr. Meanwell has a long ways to go towards repeating his success at Wisconsin in earlier days and at Missouri during the past few seasons.

All of the teams of the "Big Ten" have got in some hard practice games and it is possible by now to get a line on the strength of the various contenders. The most interesting of the early season games, at least as far as showing the strength of the Conference fives is concerned, are the defeats of Illinois by Millikin and Nebraska and the victory of Chicago over Princeton. These games are important both for what they do not prove as well as for what they prove.

Maroon Defense Good

To begin with, the defeats that Illinois has experienced do not rule that team out as a contender; they do not even mean that Illinois is not a strong contender. The games were practice contests in the strictest sense of the word, especially the Millikin game, in which the entire first lineup was removed by the Illinois coach at the end of the first half and a second string five sent in to finish the game. Furthermore, Carney was not in the game, but the chances are still good that he may be in many if not all of the Conference games. Carney was the most useful player in the west last winter. In addition, Mee, another one of last year's regulars, became eligible just before the Millikin game, but was not in shape to be used. He has since rounded into form and played brilliantly against Nebraska.

Chicago's victory over Princeton must be considered in the light of last year's games against Pennsylvania. In the first of these games, Pennsylvania was helpless before the Chicago defense. In the second and third, Pennsylvania broke through that defense successfully. Princeton likewise found the Chicago defense hard to break and, if newspapers accounts are correct, did not score a field goal until the last few minutes of play. But things might have been very different if a second game had been played.

Hawkeyes Look Good

Still, when all due allowances are made, the pre-schedule games leave Chicago looking far better on paper than either Illinois or Wisconsin. Minnesota and Purdue, which beat Butler by a better score than did Chicago, are possible contenders.

Iowa's team showed as well on the trip as could have been expected. The defeat by Millikin, which has a real team, is no especial cause for discouragement. Iowa held the winners to a closer score than did Illinois and

UNLIMBERING A RESOLUTION

Opening of the new year did not fall so heavily on semester-routinized university life as on the world outside with its invoices, inventories, notes payable, and bills due.

It does, however, mark a shift in the current date, and occasionally prompts some circumspection as to time, tide and unfolding human affairs. A year from now some of the present student body will be tramping the professional or industrial trail towards the indefinite goal, success; a year from now a new class of freshmen will have burned another shipment of green caps and be settling into a life of study and recreation; a year from now some sort of record will have been established by a squad of football players in the University of Iowa; a year from now prices will have changed, laws will have changed, conditions will have changed, the individual will have changed, and will be called upon by another change in calendar figures to regard the past and future of his little existence.

The new year's resolution has somewhat passed into the possession of the paragrapher and humorous supplement editor, but it is still clung to here and there as an excuse for personal and social moralizing. Affairs general are in rather awkward straits, the country and the world over, and in casting about for some sane resolution to tide one over a period of uncertainty, the homely, unromantic suggestion of filling one's little niche seems helpful.

In a time when newspapers carry daily stories of more Irish disturbances, more Italian difficulties, more Russian revolutions, more raids, and more crime, the thirst for romance is easily aggravated. The immediate job, however, seems to be to sit tight. There is too much romance as it is. Let some of us resolve to do the little thing at hand in a quiet, through manner.

GETTING BACK

Four thousand students, crowded the incoming trains of the last few days filled with a desire to get back to the "old place." Despite the fact that they were forced to hang from coat hooks, roll beneath seats, and squeeze out an uneasy existence between piles of luggage, all seemed to be happy.

Four more weeks of study in which to make up all the work which the average student takes it for granted he ought to neglect; four more weeks in which to make good with himself as well as with the professorial staff.

Many students expressed the wish that they were returning to take up a new semester's activity instead of returning to resume old work. There is something monotonous about those things to which we have grown accustomed.

It takes a little stronger determination to come back to the same job, to pick up the loose threads and make something which looks like whole cloth out of the whole twisted business. But there is something admirable about the person who can do it.

B. G.

Now that we have prohibition, a lot of people are going to have to resolve to stop smoking, and chewing gum.

To Mildred

This gift that you sent to me dear heart I value beyond expression. This eastern poet Omar Khayyam . . . Sure gets my admiration.

To Marion

Say pretty dear you could not have sent, A volume so wondrous as this is, I've always wanted to read Omar, And I shower your hands with kisses.

To Helen

This lovely volume of the Rubaiyat— Tells me you have taste to perfection, I shall read the book and all the while, Breathe thanks in your direction.

To Brother

Say Bro, old top, I'm grateful deeply For this volume of Omar Khayyam As I read the book I am made to feel, Just how rotten I am!

No less than four of our undergraduate advisers pointed out that the above "effusion" was chuck full of faults and we were forced to point out that although not much can be said for it as an example of verse, it still has the merit of possessing an idea. So moved was one of these advisers that he sat down at a typewriter and knocked off a verse himself. . . . We did not run it. We welcome good poetry but no bad verse ever gets into the column unless it is our own.

The man who helps the Column throw out some of its stuff now and then stoped us as we came into the office and said, "Hello! How are you? Merry Christmas, have you got your column ready. . . . If you have you can have a whole column. . . . You ought to have a lot of good stuff since you have had two weeks in which to write it!" Yes we ought. On the folks back home reflect that did you do during the holidays? ? ? So did we neither!

Suggestion

Pleas remember clemness is next to godliness doan throw tresh buy doars going in and out of buildings when going to and froam classes since it is not a very nice site for visitors who come here looking for a nice school to send their children too by order of the janitor.

When a college man's expenses go up ten or fifteen dollars per month the folks babck home reflect that their "boy" has either fallen in love or is losing at poker.

While congres is wrestling with the immigration problem and a thousand others, and Warren Harding ir worrying over the difficulties presented by his efforts to preserve a state of normalcy between the Republican Party leaders, and the entire United States is fighting an epidemic of crime, and the Column is worrying about the "stuff" it is going to have in tomorrow's paper, and while the "other" stud to his formal outfit is, the average student serenely awaits the advent of the spring vacation.

Add Us Too!

After Christmas the big department stores become veritable clothing exchanges. . . . A friend of the Column says that he has nineteen beautiful volumes of the Rubiyat which he would like to trade for a ticket to the Military Ball.

If you are tired of life read Frivol or become the president of Mexico. H. A.

IOWA BANKERS HELD SUCCESSFUL MEETING HERE IN DECEMBER

Two hundred and twenty-six out-of-town bankers registered at the Extension division for the Iowa State Bankers Convention which was held here December 21, 22, and 23. The program which consisted of speakers from New York, Chicago, and Des Moines, was arranged by Ori E.

Klingaman, director of the Extension division. The meetings were held in the liberal arts and natural science auditoriums and according to Mr. Klingaman, were well attended. Two hundred and six guests attended the banquet given by the Women's Relief Corps for the out-of-town and the local bankers after which impromptu toasts were given. Considering the weather and the time of year chosen for the convention Mr. Klingaman stated that the convention was very well attended and that it was a great success.

NEW YEAR ALUMNUS GOES TO PRINTER; TO HAVE REVIEWS

Material for the New Year number of the Iowa Alumnus is now in the hands of the printer and the magazine is expected to appear on the campus about the middle of this month, according to an announcement made yesterday by Mrs. Grace Partridge Smith, editor.

This issue will have an article on the Louisiana Swamp group exhibit which is now nearing completion. A picture of this exhibit will be used as the frontispiece of this issue of the Alumnus.

Prof. Charles H. Weller, University editor, will have an article on "Alchemy-Iowa," in which he will outline the needs of the University. Miss Mildred Sykes '13 now in Spain will write on her recent visit to France, an article entitled "Visiting the Battlefields—1920." Another one of the leading articles is "Five Thousand—An Allegory" written by the editor.

A new section will also appear in this issue which it is now planned to make a permanent column. It is a column on publications in which recent books and articles written by University faculty members or alumni will be reviewed. The sources considered will be books, periodicals, University of Iowa studies, and University of Iowa service bulletins.

AT THE THEATERS

"THE MASTER OF BALLANTRAE"

Walker Whiteside has chosen to include Iowa City during this year's presentation of "The Master of Ballantrae," so that those who enjoy the personality parade of an excellent actor will have the opportunity of witnessing his work next Monday night, at the Englert theatre.

Those who have seen his work in Stevenson's romance declare Whiteside's interpretation of the engaging braggart a very creditable and worthwhile piece of work. Most audiences delight in rodomontade and extravagant heroics provided a sufficient histrionic skill accompanies the pageant, and in the case of Walker Whiteside the skill is not lacking.

Otis Skinner in the screened version of "Kismet" the comedy drama with which he scored such a success on the legitimate stage, is the attraction at the Englert today and including Friday. "Kismet" surpasses many productions in its lavish scenic effects and the ability and quality of the cast.

PASTIME THEATRE

"Twin Beds" by Margaret Mayo and Salisbury Field flickers for your edification at the Pastime tomorrow and Friday. It has been a perennial stage favorite and with Mr. and Mrs. Carter DeHaven in the moving picture cast will no doubt prove just as acceptable on the screen. It's a mixup of clothes baskets, negligee and Italian tenors.

Eugene O'Brien stars on his own in "The Wonderful Chance" next Saturday to Monday. For the first time O'Brien will not be cast in the role of the gloved gentleman who knows how to make wonderful love but nothing else. As a crook who is determined to reform and enter the upper crust of society, he has an opportunity to demonstrate some rare comedy touches.

STRAND THEATRE

Dorothy Dalton, the alluring heroine of "Aphrodite" appears at the Strand today in the old story of the girl who loved too well, under the title of "Guilty of Love."

Enid Bennett, the diminutive, appears Thursday and Friday in "Hairpins," a comedy of an old-fashioned woman who marries a young man with a penchant for jazz and snappy stenographers.

Saturday, Frank Mayo, in "Hitching Posts," a real story of the south as all people believe it to be, will be the attraction which is sure to please.

Those who delight in deserts and the slow swaying movements of camels streaming across the horizon will like Priscilla Dean, in "The Virgin of Stamboul." It is a picture which comes with a good recommendation.—Screened Sunday.

GARDEN

Today and tomorrow, Corinne Griffith appears at the Garden in "The Broadway Bubble," a picturization of the woman who longs for the well known career which is supposed to upset most otherwise happy homes. It's a picture of doubles, beautiful gowns, and accusing husbands.

For Friday and Saturday, a crook play with Justine Johnson, judged the most beautiful girl in a recent screen contest, holding the title role of the play, "Blackbirds."

Sunday comes a drama of the parian latin quarter under the title of "Body and Soul." It stars Alice Lake. The story is one of a feminine Jekyll and Hyde.

had the disadvantage of having a strange floor and a hard game the preceding night, which had crippled Kaufmann. The start of the season this year is not as discouraging as that of last winter with its defeats by Cornell and Coe. There is no reason yet to believe that this year's team will not make as good a showing as last year's team did.

Illini Schedule Stiff

A brief glance at the chances of all the teams in the Conference gives the following results. Chicago stands out from the rest as the strongest team on paper. It is trying out a new coaching system and has a hard schedule. It is fortunate in playing Illinois and Wisconsin early in the season when those teams do not seem likely to be at full strength.

Illinois has started poorly but has possibilities of great reserve strength. It is unfortunate in having to play Chicago, Wisconsin, and Minnesota all before the end of January. It has a hard schedule. On present showing it can be given only an outside chance at the championship, thought it may well be the best team in the Conference by the first of March.

Old Gold to Have Influence

Indiana has a harder schedule than it had last year. It is trying out a new coach and has beaten smaller colleges badly. Its team seems to be playing a more open game than was the case last year, but its practice games have been too easy to show anything definite. There is no reason as yet to regard Indiana as a championship possibility.

Iowa, like Indiana, is not a championship possibility. There is, however, power enough in the team to make it almost certain that it will have considerable influence on the championship race. This is particularly true in the case of Chicago, which has never found it an easy matter to win on the Iowa floor. A game dropped here at the end of January might play no small amount of mischief with Chicago's chances.

Gophers Have Mere Chance

Michigan has a better team than last year, when it ranked with Minnesota and Northwestern among the hopeless teams of the "Big Ten". But Michigan has not yet shown enough strength to warrant the belief that it can finish out of the second division.

Minnesota has two wonderful players in Arntsen and Oss, if they are in condition. But it has been so long since the latter was in condition that some people believe that he is never going to come back. The reports have come back that Dr. Cook was building his attack around these men. If they are in shape the attack will be a hard one to stop, and Minnesota may win the championship as it did two years ago in straight victories. At present this is little more than a chance.

Ohio Out of Running

Northwestern has a better team than last year. It has started its Conference basketball as it did its Conference football by taking the wind out of a contender's sails. Its schedule is a good one, though not an especially an easy one. There is but one bunching of hard games, which occurs February 12 and 14, when Wisconsin and Minnesota come close together. These games are, however, both played at Evanston. While it is unwise to figure on Northwestern as a championship possibility it might finish near the top.

Ohio is not supposed to have a strong team, and its chances have been hurt by the absence of some of its men on the trip to California. It has been beaten by Ohio Wesleyan and may be counted out of the run-

IOWA'S TYPICAL WOMAN WILL BE SELECTED FRIDAY EVENING

Names of the women to be entered in the typical Iowa girl contest must be handed in at the Daily Iowan office before six o'clock Friday evening, according to Warren L. Bassett, feature editor, who has charge of the contest.

The names of women who best fit the description, given by Marion V. Chase A1 of Clinton, the winner of the essay contest conducted before the holiday vacation, are the ones that should come in. No limit has been set on the number of names which one person may submit. Any woman student is eligible to enter.

The winner will be selected by a committee, composed of one faculty member and two students. An attempt will be made by the judges to meet every woman personally, whose name is submitted.

An entire page of the rotogravure section of the Sunday Des Moines Register will be given to the winning woman. Several different poses will be taken and the woman may wear her most fetching gowns.

The photographs will be taken by the staff photographer of the Register. If it is impossible for him to come to Iowa City, the winner will have her expenses to Des Moines and will be entertained there at the expense of the Register.

Judging from the comments made on the contest, interest has already been aroused sufficiently to insure the handing in of names, representative of every type of woman on the campus.

Wisconsin Dope Upset

Purdue has two veteran guards, probably the strongest pair of guards in the Conference. It is quite possible that a strong team may be built upon them. Purdue's schedule is easy, as it does not include Chicago, Minnesota or Wisconsin. It has but one bad combination of games, that of Iowa on February 19 and Illinois on February 21, both games being away from home. Purdue stands a chance at the championship, though a slim chance.

N. O. L. TO MEET AT IOWA MAY 6

Seven Universities in League— Iowa Has Won First Place in 3 Contests

The Northern Oratorical League composed of the Universities of Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin and Northwestern will meet here on May 6. The league is the outgrowth of the Interstate Oratorical League which was composed of over twenty colleges and universities of the middle west and southern states. Professor Trueblood of the University of Michigan was the founder of the old league and because of the difficulty in keeping it organized he commenced an agitation for a new organization. He called together representatives of the universities which now form the N. O. L. and the first contest was held in 1891.

Last year the University was represented in the contest by Earl W. Wells L2 of Sigourney. The contest was held at Madison, Wis. In 1918 Robert Aurner, now a graduate student here represented the University and won first place. In 1910 and 1898 the Iowa representative won first place. In 1912 the Iowa contestant won second place.

The chief competitors for first place have been Michigan and Northwestern, while Iowa ranks about fourth. A plan of rotation is used for deciding the place of holding the contest. Oberlin college withdrew from N. O. L. last year but some university will be chosen to take its place at the meeting to be held here in May.

Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois donated a fund sufficient to yield $175 annually to the league for prizes. This money is in charge of the board of education of the University. The winner of first place receives $100, second place receives $50, and $25 is kept as a sinking fund.

Wisconsin would be ranked as standing a better chance than any other team than Chicago, if it had not been for Monday's defeat. That would make it seem that Wisconsin may have to wait another year before

Dr. Meanwell can get in his good work.

Incidentally, this upset of Wisconsin makes it clear how little value a guess on the basketball race really possesses.

p. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays, and at 5 p. m. on Tuesdays and Fridays.

The seventh game of the Hawkeye football schedule for 1921 has been scheduled with Knox college of Galesburg, Ill. Attention was made to schedule games with eastern universities including Yale, Cornell, and Columbia but no coherence on dates could be accomplished. The Knox game will be at Iowa on October 1.

Negotiations are under way for a meeting of Iowa and Yale at New Haven in 1922.
