MILITARY TERMS TO BE FEATURED IN BALL DANCES

Program Tomorrow Night to Be a Military Affair in Every Respect

ONLY 75 TICKETS ARE SOLD

Illumination for Rainbow Dance to Be Furnished by New Apparatus—Confetti to Characterize Camouflage Dance—Red, White and Blue Color Scheme to be Used

With the introduction of a barrage dance, camouflage, moonlight, and rainbow dances as features of the Military ball tomorrow night, the committee in charge plans to make the first big party of the year a military affair in every sense of the word.

Each couple will be given small torpedoes which will produce the necessary noise for the barrage dance. Confetti, thrown from the balconies will represent the camouflage. During the moonlight dance the light will come only from an immense center star. A new apparatus has been received for the rainbow dance which will insure a more beautiful reflection than ever before.

Bugle for Calls

Red, white, and blue streamers, suspended from the five points of a huge illuminated star in the exact center of the ceiling, will conceal the fact that the hall is used as a gymnasium. Bunting and flags will cover the walls.

The programs will be of corrugated leather with a gold eagle embossed on the cover. Each of the sixteen dances on the program are named to represent some military command, and each dance will be announced by the bugle call corresponding to that term. The opening number of the ball will be a grand march.

Ticket Sale Slow

The patrons of the ball will be President and Mrs. Walter A. Jessup, Dean and Mrs. George F. Kay, Dean and Mrs. Dudley O. McGovney, Dean and Mrs. William G. Raymond, Dean and Mrs. Wilbur J. Teeters, Lieutenant-Colonel and Mrs. Morton C. Mumma, Colonel and Mrs. Ralph P. Howell, Colonel and Mrs. George W. Ball, Colonel and Mrs. John Voss, Colonel and Mrs. James E. Thomas, Major and Mrs. Campbell Howard, Major and Mrs. Byron J. Lambert, Major and Mrs. Henry Morrow, Major and Mrs. Frank L. Love, Major and Mrs. Percy Bordwell, Major and Mrs. Clarence Van Epps, Major and Mrs. Birtton P. Flammig, Major and Mrs. Hardin Craig, Major and Mrs. Bird T. Baldwin, Captain and Mrs. Lee P. Sieg and Captain and Mrs. J. J. Hinman.

Up to date, the tickets have been selling slowly. The University armory easily accommodates 200 couples, but only 75 tickets have been sold. Friedlander's orchestra of twelve pieces will furnish the music.

PARISH RE-ELECTED

Iowa Man Again Made Secretary of Historical Conference

John C. Parish, associate editor of the State Historical Society of Iowa, was re-elected secretary of the Conference of Historical Societies at a meeting of that body in connection with the American Historical Society at Washington, D. C., December 28, 29, and 30.

The Conference is a branch of the American Historical Societies, and consists of about 500 historical societies from all parts of the United States and Canada.

Prof. F. E. Morack and Assistant Prof. Kirk H. Porter attended this meeting of the American Political Science Association at Washington, D. C., December 28, 29, 30.

SHAMBAUGH FINISHES TWENTY-FIFTH YEAR OF TEACHING AND ORGANIZING AT UNIVERSITY; ANNIVERSARY TO-DAY

Development of one of the leading departments of political science in the country and of a state historical society that is referred to as a model, marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of Prof. Benjamin F. Shambaugh's connection with the University and with the State Historical Society of Iowa celebrated to-day. He is now head of the department of political science, and superintendent of the historical society.

On January 6, 1896, Benjamin F. Shambaugh began teaching classes in government at the University of Iowa in a room in the old stone capitol. There were few students then and a small faculty. The government courses were at first in the department of political economy, but it was not long before a separate department of political science was established. Professor Shambaugh organized this new department and has been its head ever since.

Launched Publication

Under his direction this department has grown from a staff of one instructor, teaching three courses and enrolling sixty-nine students, to a department with a staff of seven, teaching thirty-five courses and enrolling 1020 students. Both in the work offered and in the student enrollment it has come to be recognized as in the front rank of departments of political science in the universities of the country.

Professor Shambaugh has also been prominent in the activities of the American Political Science Association since its organization, holding many of its offices and serving with Albert Shaw, Albert Bushnell Hart, and W. W. Willoughby in launching the American Political Science Review.

Had Editing Experience

Professor Shambaugh is a graduate of the institution which he has served so long. He was graduated from the University of Iowa in 1892, took his master's degree here a year later, and then went to the University of Pennsylvania where after two years he was granted the degree of doctor of philosophy. From there he went abroad to study, taking work at the Universities of Halle, Leipsig, and Berlin.

When President Schaeffer called him back to the University of Iowa to teach government, Mr. Shambaugh was not only well equipped in the field of political science but he had already developed a keen interest in the study of Iowa history. As a student he had had some experience in writing and editing, having been an editor of the Vidette Reporter, the University newspaper, and the first editor-in-chief of the S. U. I. Quill, a weekly publication containing literary as well as news contributions.

Early Study Difficult

In 1892, as a graduate student, he wrote a history of Iowa City, a little volume that marks the beginning of

FIELD OFFICERS ARE APPOINTED

Twenty-eight Given Places and Other Officers to Be Chosen Soon

Field Officers of the R. O. T. C. for the coming year have been chosen according to official notice from the R. O. T. C. headquarters. The Field Officers and Captains were the only appointments made thus far. The other officers to be appointed will be chosen soon, according to Lieut.-Col. Morton C. Mumma, head of the department of military science and tactics.

The Officers to be appointed were: Cadet Colonels: Verne M. Myers L3 of Fort Dodge and Carl H. Meydrick A4 of Decorah; Cadet Lieutenant Colonels: Lowell S. Newcomb A4 of Iowa City; Cadet Majors: Ralph E. Kennon A4 of Iowa City, Leland C. White L1 of Harlan, Julius L. Goepfinger A4 of Boone, Alan C. Rockwood S3 of Iowa City, Edwin V. Zahorik L2 of Iowa City, Oral Dold S4 of Rome, and Robert H. Luscombe S4 of Iowa City;

Cadet Captains: Joseph B. Bengé A4 of Winterset, Robert L. Block A3 of Davenport, Malcolm W. Eaton S3 of Des Moines, Roy K. Forney A3 of Tabor, Edward C. Halbach A3 of Primghar, Robert L. Hunter A3 of Mapleton, Jordan L. Larson A4 of Roland, Lovell F. Jahnke S3 of Muscatine, Robert S. Leeper U of Iowa City, Frank L. McAvindhey L1 of Oelwein, Thomas T. Norris A3 of Manchester, Oral N. Olson A3 of Iowa City, Arthur L. Schump S4 of Iowa City, P. O. D. Vedova A3 of Red Lodge, Montana, James C. Wason S3 of Davenport, Paul V. Wilson L1 of Bell Plaine, Lester S. Wright S4 of Iowa City, and Francis V. Morrison.

FRESHMAN LECTURES TO AID STUDENTS IN SELECTING COURSES

The freshman lectures for women this winter will represent practically all the interests and activities of the college of liberal arts, according to Mrs. Nellie S. Aurner, dean of women.

The lecturers will aim to help the students in the selection of their courses. Although an entire lecture will not be devoted to each department of the college, some phases of the work in each will be touched upon.

The following lectures will be given: "Art" by Prof. Charles B. Wilson, "Philosophy" by Prof. George T. W. Patrick, "Evolution" by Prof. Charles C. Nutting, "Scientific Method" by Prof. George W. Stewart, "Art" by Prof. Charles A. Cummings, "Music" by Prof. Philip G. Clapp, "Home Economics" by Prof. Ruth A. Wardell, "Iowa History" by Prof. John C. Parish, "Social Sciences" by Prof. Clarence M. Case and "Importance of the Classics in Modern Life" by Prof. Hardin Craig. A series of vocational lecturers will begin early in the spring.

CLUB TO DISCUSS ANCIENT THEATERS AT MEETING

A program and an informal social hour will be the features of this evening's meeting of the Classical club, the recently organized society for students majoring in Latin and Greek, in room 108 liberal arts building.

The program consists of an explanation of programs for the year by Emma Wesley A4 of Iowa City, a talk on the Greek theatre by Paul Shaurt A2 of Council Bluffs, and a discussion of the Roman theater by Frances Baker A2 of Iowa City. Adele Hanson A1 of Forest City will also talk on humor among the ancients, and Cicero as a joker. An open discussion by all club members will follow.

BASKET SEASON OPENS TONIGHT

All of First String to Be Given Chance — Coe is a Real Foe

Opening the basketball season on the home floor with Coe tonight, the University of Iowa quintet will use practice tactics.

All the first string is expected to get a chance to play. Captain Kaufmann, who has recovered enough to permit him to play, will start the game as will Aubrey Devine, although the latter has a bruised hand and an injured knee.

The lineup to start the game will tentatively be Kaufmann and Smith at guards, Frohwein at center and Shimek and Devine at forwards, although Coach Ashmore may shift his men which will put Shimek back to running guard as in the Millikin college game.

Lohman has been lining up regularly at forward in practice and will have a chance to play at least part of the game as will Ehresman. Jones and Postma who have been fighting at the tipoff job may both get in for a period. Klatt will have a chance at guard while McGovney, Kadesky and Lee may get in.

Victory is not the main consideration in a practice game, so no attempt will be made to run up the score. The Coe coach has had a chance to take some of the kinks out of his team since being defeated by Ames, so that the Hawkeyes will find themselves with real opposition.

In practice last night, Kaufmann was able to scrimmage again. Devine spent part of the evening on the side lines. A period of scrimmage was given the varsity string with a line of third team men as opposition

BOARD ACCEPTS WATSON LETTER OF RESIGNATION

Former Iowa Trainer Takes Higher Salary at Dartmouth

TAKES EFFECT IMMEDIATELY

Watson Will Leave for Dartmouth This Week—Has Worked in State Twenty-three Years — Served Here Last Eight Years — Holds Two World Records in Athletics

Trainer Jack Watson's connection with the University ended last night at 8:00 o'clock when the board in control of athletics accepted his resignation. His request that the resignation take effect immediately, although his contract does not expire until next June, was also granted.

The board instructed the executive committee to begin negotiations to fill Watson's place immediately. According to plans put forth last night, two men will be secured. One will be a medical man whose business it will be to look after the condition of the athletes, and to care for their injuries. The other will be a track coach.

Members of the board last night declined to give out any information as to whom these new members on the athletic staff might be, but said that several persons were already being considered.

To Leave for Dartmouth

Trainer Jack Watson said last night that he would leave for Dartmouth almost immediately, probably by the end of the week. His family will remain here until next summer when Watson will return to spend the vacation. When he leaves for Dartmouth again next fall, his family will accompany him there. In speaking of his departure last night, Watson said, "I leave Iowa with fond remembrances of my work here, and if I can ever do anything for her athletes I will try my best to do it."

Watson's resignation closes a long chapter of debate over this and other positions. Dartmouth first started negotiations for Watson's services three years ago, but the matter did not assume any definite shape until last August when negotiations were again renewed. Before the close of the football season, Watson presented the matter to the Athletic Board which offered him an increase in salary but which according to Watson was not equal to the compensation promised by the eastern school. Matters came to a climax Tuesday when the trainer handed in his resignation and closed last night with the action of the athletic board.

Served Eight Years

Watson has been identified with athletics in this state for twenty-three years, the last eight of which he spent at the University. He began his career as trainer and coach in this state in 1897 when he took up duties at Grinnell. In 1904 he transferred to Ames where he stayed until 1913 when he came to Iowa. Since coming to this institution, Watson has been very successful in developing track teams, having won two state meets, and also keeping the men on the other teams in condition to play. His ability as an injury mender has been a valuable asset to Iowa athletes.

Holds Two World Records

Watson at one time was one of the leading professional athletes in this country. He still holds two world's records. They are 48 feet 1 inch in the hop, step, and jump from a standing start, and 23 feet 1-2 inch in the broad jump.

AN APOLOGUE FOR IDLERS

Sensational stories of poor but honest young men who alone and single handed trounce a black-moustached villain and exposes his perfidy thereby winning a job as secretary of a Wall street trust company and the heart and hand of the beautiful daughter of the president, do not smack strongly of life as it is usually lived.

The average young man who sits by waiting for something to turn up, usually realize about as much position and opulence as the proverbial Micawber.

Today Prof. Benjamin F. Shambaugh observes the anniversary of twenty-five years of work as teacher of political science in the University, and organization and editorial work in the State Historical Society of Iowa. Under his direction the department and the society have made remarkable records.

Professor Shambaugh's record does not read like that of our daring young hero of the quarter novel. It is a plain story of hard work. It talks of nights in a dusty room over a hardware store, and of small beginnings, and steady advancement, of plans, of work.

This plain story of hard work, is more readable than the bubble romances of the story books, more easily translated into terms of everyday life, more hopeful to the young man looking into the uncertain future. Unsustained by hard work this forethought and invention would have fallen flat, and anyone can hope to develop a capacity for hard work.

JUGGLING COMPARISONS

One of the little byproducts of the holiday recess in the home town is its stimulation of personal interest in the old, old question of the ultimate value of a college education.

Back there where all of the citizens know each other by their given names and the terminology of the campus is a strange tongue, or back there where there are cattle to be fed and posts to be set, or back there where smoke and subways and tall buildings mean home, are men and women, successes and failures financially and socially, more or less irrespective of a record in college or university.

One thing is always to be remembered: in the end it is the human individual that decides his outcome in a world of give and take, and that all things else being equal, it stands to reason that the man or woman with the routine and finish of four years of collegiate study, has the decided advantage in the race with himself.

And again, the big men are almost universally college men. There is established here a standard that may keep the spark of ambition alive in those blue moments that dot the turnpike.

And then too, there is a lot in simply living. Giving the college man no more money-making opportunity—and that is wrong—if he learns in four years of study, play, and contemplation, the quiet art of living happily and profitably from one day to another, it is worth all of the time and expense.

SIDE LINES

Very Well Then, But Don't Do It Again!

Oh! why, Oh why, is it capital "I" And only a little "u"? 'Twas an egotist who gave it the twist, That made it a capital "I".

If I could reform this grammatical storm And right the things that are wrong, I'd start right here and far and near, I'd scatter the "I's" and the "U's" along. PAN.

Yesterday the Column complained tearfully of the criticism which several advisers in this office had flung on some verses which he had written, and how one of these critics had sat himself down at our Underwood and knocked off a little verse just to show us how it might be done. Well here is the verse. Although we promised not to run it we have changed our mind. We are running it out of pure malice.

Our esteemed contemporary Don Jarquis of the New York Sun declares that he is averse to publishing pictures in his column on the grounds that a lot of good space is used up which might be used to better advantage. He claims he would rather see a good verse or a rollicking wheeze than a meaningless picture or cut. So would we. But L. C., the one contributor to this column who has the artistic touch has not yet snapped out of it and we are forced to run a picture of ourself....

The Column And A Christmas Tie

This is the Column standing before his mirror trying to kid himself into believing that he looks "snappy" in a green and purple necktie which was sent to him in one of those "not to be opened until Christmas" packages.

If we had known that it was purple and green the package would never have been opened.

Known Nationally

In the Critical number of Frivol one of the editors of that publication has come out declaring "that every co-ed believes that when she writes a love letter to the average university student he promptly lets seven of his best friends read it." This is of course pish-posh and flim-flam, and ought to be added to the American Credo.

No intelligent university man could stand to wade through these pots of sentimentality. Indeed when any of the Column's friends comes up with a love letter we curtly tell him to read only the more important passages and to pass over the verbiage. This, we assume is true, in every case.

During the holidays local merchants could find nothing to trim but their show cases. Now the students are all back. H. A.

A SMILE, A FRONT SEAT, AND A TEAR ARE AS GOOD AS MIDNIGHT OIL

By Norma Thornton

Can professors be vamped into handing out good grades to aspirants to high scholastic reports?

"Yes," comes a sly chorus from the fair pursuers of knowledge. And they ought to know.

Just how do they do it? Are their methods particularly difficult or could they be used by the average person?

It's very simple, they say. The most popular form of the so-called vamping is to talk to the professor at every opportunity. Let him see how very interested you are in his subject and how very hard you are trying to do your best. Stop him after class every day, and if possible drop in at his office for a tete-a-tete once a week. As you become better acquainted do not limit your conversation to class room topics; get him to talk about himself and his family or subjects equally interesting. Frequently it is well to appear discouraged; it will make the professor feel good to know that he can cheer you up. Just before the grades are made out is the most effective time for these calls; but perhaps it would not be well to wait too long as the professor will undoubtedly be rushed at such times.

Have you ever wondered why in your most stupid class the front row was filled with the prettiest girls? Merely another method. "Sit on the front row and look interested, and you'll get a good grade," some butterfly tells you. Smile at him; the stern dispenser of knowledge is not altogether immune from the charms of an elusive dimple and bright eyes beneath a saucily tilted hat. Yes indeed, you make a much better impression if you take your seat within close range of the instructor's desk.

And don't forget to ask him out to dinner at your sorority house or hall. This is a golden opportunity for becoming better acquainted and he is flattered beyond words.

Lest you misunderstand—it is not only the sweet young things who manage to get by without burning the midnight oil; the female of the species is not "more deadly than the male," so professors say. The men don't get by with so much, because of course they are handicapped by not being able to weep copiously at just the right time. By the way, one of our most popular professors admits that tears are the most effective method. The last resort, he calls them. If neither talking nor tears work you are no good as a grade vamped, he says.

So you see professors know they are being vamped. But they can't help themselves. Do students always get by with their vamping? Not always, but almost always.

STRUMSTERS CLUB DISBANDS

Failure to Find Instructor Ends Musical Organization

Lack of a competent instructor caused the disbandment of the Strumsters club, a women's mandolin and ukelele organization, Ruth Beaumont A1 of Council Bluffs, president of the club, announced yesterday.

The Strumsters club was organized in October and at the time of disbandment had about thirty members. Miss Beaumont said that if an instructor could be found, a reorganization of the club is hoped for.

University young men and faculty members having any discarded clothes which are suitable for rough wear are asked to donate them to the Piney Woods School at Braxton Miss., according to a letter received by Mrs. Grace P. Smith, editor of the Iowa Alumnus. The boys' dormitory at this school having been totally destroyed by fire December 18, and destroyed so quickly that the boys were unable to get any of their personal belongings out of the building, many of them have been forced to wear nothing more than a suit of overalls, and they are in great need of some other clothes.

Persons having clothes which they are willing to donate to this purpose are asked to leave them at the Iowa Alumnus office from which they will be sent to Lawrence C. Jones, superintendent of Piney Woods.

THIRTY SWIMMERS FROM DES MOINES MAY ATTEND MEET

The Des Moines high schools plan to send a squad of about thirty men to the invitation swimming meet which the Eel's club has scheduled for Feb. 6, according to Scotty Russell, superintendent of swimming in the public schools of Des Moines

According to Mr. Russell, there is good material in the capital city high schools, but up to the present time little interest has been taken in the sport since swimming has been a major activity in the high schools for only about a year. If sufficient financial backing can be obtained from the respective athletic boards of the three high schools, they will send a team of ten men, making a total squad of thirty swimmers from Des Moines.

while the second team took on a frosh lineup.

The game tonight will be held at the men's gymnasium, and will begin at 7:15. Admission is by year book or general admission price of 50 cents.

HINKLE TO GIVE RECITAL JAN. 20

Prominent American Singer Is Scheduled For Next Concert

Florence Hinkle, well-known American soprano will appear in concert in the natural science auditorium Thursday, January 20 at 8:15 o'clock, according to Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the musical department.

Miss Hinkle has appeared with the Boston Symphony orchestra twelve times, and a greater number of times with the New York symphony orchestra. She has also toured with the Chicago symphony orchestra and has been soloist with the Philadelphia, Minneapolis, New York Philharmonic and Cincinnati symphony orchestras. She also sings for the Victor company.

Tickets for the concert will be on sale at the book and music stores and Whetstone's, beginning Monday, January 17. Reservations will be made at the University bookstore Wednesday and Thursday, January 19 and 20. All mail orders should be sent to Prof. Philip G. Clapp, 206 Dey Bldg., Iowa City, Iowa.

FORTY WRESTLERS TO COMPETE FOR PLACES ON VARSITY THURSDAY

Wrestling tryouts will be held next week, according to Earnest G. Schroeder, physical director. Tryouts will begin Thursday when the men of the 115 and 125 pound class meet. On Friday all men of the 135 and the 145 pound group will compete for places on the varsity team, while the other three classes will finish the tryouts on Saturday.

The tryout will consist of three seven minute periods, the winner to be chosen either by the fall or by decision. All men must weigh at the physical director's office, and must not weigh more than three pounds more than the group in which he is to compete.

Forty men are trying for the varsity team. Each class will be well represented at the tryouts but the most hotly contested will be the 125 and the 158 pound class. In the 125, Prince, Vana, Thompson, and McBride are battling for the honor of representing Iowa in the mat game, while Scott, and Howry are contesting for honors in the 158 pound group.

Tryouts for the freshman team will not be held until next month. Sixty men are now practicing with the yearling squad. Men who make the frosh team will be awarded the class numeral as in other sports, according to Mr. Schroeder.

LOCAL TALENT TO GIVE "A TRIAL OF HEARTS" SOON

"A Trial of Hearts", a four act comedy will be presented by local talent Friday, January 14, at the Engler Theater for the benefit of the Woman's relief corps. A number of musical specialties from the men's University Glee Club will be introduced between acts of the play.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Choate, professional directors, who will take the leading roles, will be supported by both town and University talent.

SHAMBAUGH FINISHES TWENTY-FIFTH YEAR; ANNIVERSARY TO-DAY

that long line of publications which is making the history of Iowa accessible to the people of the state. At that time the State Historical Society of Iowa, an institution that had been founded by the pioneers in 1857, was receiving just enough support to keep it alive in inadequate rooms over a hardware store in Iowa City. The young graduate student, a lonely enthusiast, used to carry coal upstairs and stoke the cast iron stove to make the room habitable, then clear off the dust from a table for his books and papers and delve into the story of the earlier years of the state.

Developed Historical Society

Few people were interested in what he was doing, and it is safe to say that no one saw the possibilities that were so clear to him. But today the remarkable place occupied by the State Historical Society is almost entirely the result of the vision and the indefatigable labors of this one man. First as a research worker, then as a member of the Board of Curators, and finally as superintendent and editor of the society, he has served the historical interests of the state for a quarter of a century.

Thus in a two-fold capacity Professor Shambaugh has served the State. The same combination of perseverance and imagination that enabled him to build up one of the leading departments of political science in the country accounts for the remarkable development of a state historical society which is recognized everywhere in the country as a model, especially along the lines of research and publication. He was the first superintendent of a state historical society to bring to that office the equipment of scholarship and scientific training; and he recognized the administration of the State Historical Society of Iowa, placed its researches upon a scientific basis, transformed its quarterly into a critical magazine of history and politics, and planned and began the publication of nine other series of publications.

Work Highly Commended

During his administration of the society's affairs the annual state appropriation has grown from $1,000 to $24,000, and its active membership from less than ten to over 1000. The society has for some years been publishing more historical material than any other historical society in the United States, and for both content and form it has attained a position of leadership among similar organizations in America.

Dean Ames of the University of Pennsylvania has said, "It would be difficult to point out any other state society that has been more active and successful in its work and that has established a higher reputation for research and publication within its chosen field." Dr. J. F. Jameson, editor of the American Historical Review and the foremost historical critic in the United States, says of the State Historical Society of Iowa that "it chooses subjects of real value and importance to work upon, and works upon them with energy, with resourceful scholarship, with good taste, and with competent regard to literary form." Professor William E. Dodd of the University of Chicago wrote of Professor Shambaugh's work with the society: "From the very first I have regarded his work as about the best of its kind in the country."

Edited 37,000 Pages

Professor Shambaugh's capacity for work is evidenced by the fact that in the past twenty-five years, in addition to administering the department of political science, carrying a full-time schedule as professor of political science he has, in connection with the superintendence of the activities of the State Historical Society, planned, directed the researches for, edited, and seen through the press more than 37,000 pages of historical and political literature.

Such an achievement has been made possible only by an unusual capacity for organization and administration and by a persistent and sustained enthusiasm for his work. Instead of a hit-or-miss production of historical material, the output of the historical society has appeared in accordance with plans carefully worked out by Professor Shambaugh long in advance, and the various series of publications therefore cover the different phases of Iowa history in well-rounded fashion—a quality not usually found in the publications of historical societies.

POSTURE TO BE FACTOR IN GYMNASIUM GRADING

Physical education grades for women will depend not only upon the character of the work done on the gymnasium floor but also upon the carriage and posture of the students on the street, it was announced in all the gymnasium classes Wednesday. Physical education instructors will be on the look out for young women who do not stand straight and walk correctly.

"Don't stand on one foot on Whetstone's corner if you want a good physical education grade handed to the Registrar in five weeks," Miss Miriam Taylor, physical education instructor, announced in one of her classes.

HUMANIST SOCIETY TO MEET

The first meeting of the Humanist society this year will be held at the home of Professor Edwin Diller Starbuck on Monday evening, January 10. Professor Charles H. Weller will give an illustrated lecture, "A Survey of American Sculpture" at this meeting.

The Chinese Club will hold a special meeting in the liberal arts drawing room Saturday afternoon at 1:30.
