TICKET SALE FOR BALL HAS BIG INCREASE

Elaborate Decorations Set Up Last Night After Game — 150 Tickets Sold

FEATURE DANCES PLANNED

Programs May Be Obtained at Whetstone's — Decorations To Cover Gymnasium Apparatus — Sixteen Dances on Program—Balcony Seats To Sell for Twenty-five Cents

Following a last-minute campaign for dates, the sale of tickets for the military ball to be held this evening in the University armory, has shown a considerable increase and it is now expected that about 150 couples will attend.

The programs have arrived and may be obtained at Whetstone's. Balcony seats will be sold at the usual price of twenty-five cents. According to a member of the military ball committee it is expected that at least half of the students will be in uniform. The dancing floor is in good condition, but is not so slippery as it was last year. The decorating committee began work last evening immediately after the game.

To Be Different

Decorations are to be arranged to conceal the apparatus and other features of the building so that it will not look like a gymnasium. The plan is to have the entire scheme of decorations so arranged that the focus will be placed on a large illuminated star in the center of the building. This star will furnish the only light during the moonlight dance. The lighting equipment for the rainbow dance is to be installed sometime today.

This ball has been planned with the intention of making it entirely different than the military balls of the past. Several feature dances, military in character, have been provided. There are 16 dances on the program. Each of these dances has a military name and will be announced by bugle calls. A clever lighting scheme and clever programs have been promised.

TYPICAL IOWA WOMAN SOON TO BE RESCUED FROM DARK OBLIVION

Just which one of the more or less charming co-eds pursuing knowledge at the University is to be featured in the photogravure section of the Sunday Des Moines Register will soon be revealed.

The selection of the one who is most happily endowed with all those charms and graces, which, according to the winning essay on the typical Iowa girl, are possessed by the real girl is no easy matter. Doubt as to the identity of this fortunate maid must lurk in many minds for very few names have been turned in. Perhaps there are many typical girls on the campus but surely there is one who is a little more typical than her sisters and she must be found.

BOARD TO CONTROL MEET

Athletic Control Takes High School Swimming Meet From Eels

The board in control of athletics will take charge of the invitation high school swimming meet to be held here March 11 and 12, according to an announcement made by head Coach Howard Jones yesterday. At the Wednesday night meeting of the board Swimming Coach David Armbruster asked the board to take over the meet, the tentative plans for which had already been made by the Eels club. The matter was referred to Coach Jones, who held a conference with Armbruster Thursday and arranged for the desired action.

GUESTS AT SHAMBAUGH PARTY STEAL THUNDER OF EVENING PROGRAM

Prof. Benjamin F. Shambaugh participated in an occasion last night at his home that he had not expected, when a Twelfth Night party with the ordinary ceremonies of that occasion was taken out of his hands and turned into a celebration of his completion of twenty-five years service at the University.

The Twelfth Night program proceeded smoothly up to a certain point when the guests assumed charge of the evening and turned the occasion into an appreciation of Professor Shambaugh's long services.

Guests were members of the department of political science, and the staff of the State Historical Society of Iowa, with which institution Professor Shambaugh has been associated for the past quarter century.

W. A. A. TO HOLD TRYOUTS JAN. 18

Tryouts for the W. A. A. vaudeville to be given at the Englert theatre February 24, will be held Tuesday evening, January 18, at 7 o'clock in the mirror room of the women's gymnasium, according to a decision of the board in control of women's athletics, at a meeting Wednesday evening. Only members of the association will be permitted to participate in the tryouts.

The program has been tentatively arranged, and the tryouts on Tuesday will be for places in the vaudeville acts alone. For these the women are to work in groups of twos and threes and put on a stunt. The tryouts for the one act play which will be included in the vaudeville will be announced later. Every member of the association will take an active part.

The chairman of the committees in charge of the vaudeville are: Lorna L. Ludwick A3, of Belleville, Kansas, business and publicity manager, Jean G. Spiers A3 of Reinbeck and Alberta D. Vasey of Grundy Center in charge of the orchestra and music, Helen Hayes A3 of Iowa City in charge of the scenery and costumes, and Claribell Wright A4 of Houghton, Minn., and Dolly G. Henderson A4 of Hawkeye, chairman of the program committee.

HOWLERS TO RESERVE SEATS

Will Furnish Stunts Between Halves at Conference Games

Plans are being made for the reservation of a section of the gymnasium for the Howling 300 at the rest of the basketball games of the season, according to John J. Dondore A3 of Iowa City, president of the organization.

"We are also arranging some stunts to entertain the crowds between halves of the conference games," said Dondore, "and will try to have stunts and music for all of the games."

SOCIETIES TO GIVE PLAY

Amateur Performance Parallels The Engineers Mecca Day Show — Has A Satirical Character—Tickets Not To Be Placed on Sale Until Week Of Play — Price is Unchanged

Rehearsals for the Law Jubilee to be given at the Englert theatre on March 10 will start immediately after the semester examinations, according to Edgar J. Goodrich L2 of Anoka, Minnesota, who has charge of the Jubilee. Scenery and costumes were selected in Minneapolis during the vacation by Goodrich, and some very attractive stage settings are promised by those in charge.

Tickets will not be placed on sale until the week of the play and will cost $1, the same as last year. "Everything about the jubilee will be new this year except the motto," said Goodrich last night. "We have kept the old motto, 'With malice towards none, and with charity for all' as the best expression of our standard."

No announcements were made regarding the program or the features of the jubilee. The jubilee is the production given each year by students of the college of law and is always the original work of law students, in that way resembling the Mecca Day production of the college

HATES TO GO

Jack Watson, Hawkeye trainer, who will leave for Dartmouth tomorrow.

VETERAN TRAINER EXPRESSES REGRET AT LEAVING IOWA

Jack Watson, Iowa's veteran track coach will leave tomorrow for Hanover, N. H., where he will take up his new position as trainer of Dartmouth athletes.

Mr. Watson when interviewed yesterday, expressed regret at leaving the University of Iowa.

He says that his work here has been very pleasant and that he leaves nothing but friends behind. He states that he will always consider it a pleasure to be of service to any Iowan in the future. This brings back Mr. Watson's often repeated and his favorite axiom, "The world is my country, my mission is to do good."

Pressure of circumstances rather than any personal feeling is given by Mr. Watson as the cause of leaving. He is anxious to have it clearly understood that he will always entertain the kindest feeling for Iowa and Iowa people.

FIRST GAME ON HOME FLOOR DRUBS COE FIVE

PERMANENT SHIELDS TO BE ESTABLISHED FOR IOWA ATHLETES

Establishment of permanent shields on which the records of Iowa's leading athletes may be posted was assured at the last meeting of the board in control of athletics. The board voted to have some large new shields prepared which will replace the shields now posted in the gymnasium, and to have the records brought up to date.

The new shields will be of metal measuring 52 inches long and 28 inches wide and will accommodate sixty-three names. When they are ready they will be hung in the gymnasium and will bear all records now on the old shields, and also the marks set since 1916, the date of the last inscription on the present shields. New records will also be added to the shield during the coming years.

SWIMMERS GET THREE TRYOUTS

Armbruster Fixes January 12 As First Date For Team Aspirants

First of three tryouts to determine the personnel of this year's swimming team will be held on Wednesday, January 12 at 7 o'clock, according to an announcement made last night by Coach David Armbruster.

"We have decided to conduct the tryouts," said Coach Armbruster, "in order that every man may be given as many chances as possible to make the team." The second tryout will be held on Saturday while the final one will take place the middle of the following week. The number of men which will compose the team has not been fully decided upon but will depend to a large extent on the showing that the men will make.

In the dashes the strongest contenders at present are captain Anneburg, Shepherd, Bond, and Rademacker. Places for the distance swim will be fought among Clark, Godell, Gallup, Weidlein, and Anneberg. In the plunging list Forney of last year's team and Cannon have the lead on the rest.

The fancy diving has several strong contenders among which are Ward, McCullough, Weidlein, and Shephard. Places will likely be awarded to Shephard and Weidlein. In the back stroke Smith and Mills seem to have a slight advantage over the rest. Vedova appears to have the best chance of placing on the breast stroke, but none of the contenders in this event are making any where near conference time.

The first swimming meet which is scheduled to take place will be at Minnesota the latter part of this month. Meets have also been arranged with Northwestern and Chicago, and negotiations are now going on in an attempt to have Ames come to Iowa the early part of March.

CHEER LEADERS AWARDED LETTERS AND SWEATERS

John J. Dondore, A3 of Iowa City, Martin E. Flentje, S4 of Des Moines, and Lloyd W. Burns, S3 of Osceola, University cheer leaders, were awarded I's at a recent meeting of the board in control of athletics. They are to receive the regulation sweater with the small letters C and L on each side of the I.

COE QUINTET IS UNABLE TO MEET IOWA'S ATTACK

Hawkeyes Defeat Coe 33 to 5 Before Large Audience at Gymnasium

IOWA'S VICTORY AN EASY ONE

Coe Makes One Basket and Three Fouls — Entire Second Team Plays — Local Tossers Good in Defense — Kaufmann Makes First Score in Game—Playing Ragged

Outclassing Coe in every phase of the game, Coach Ashmore's basket quintet had no trouble in taking the top count of a game that ended 33 to 5, at the men's symnasium last night.

The Iowa five was at no time in danger, taking the lead at the start of the game and holding it throughout. It was a poorly played game at best. Team work was ragged and handling of the leather was typical of the first of the season.

Iowa surpassed in all of the points especially on defense. The Hawks continually forced the Parlor City team to resort to long shots at the basket and long passes. Basket shooting was inaccurate with a mixture of luck, both good and bad.

Kaufmann started the scoring in the first period by tearing down the floor for the first pass from the tip-off. The captain again drew the applause in the second half by ripping one off from the center of the floor. Shimek, high scorer of the game, with six field goals and seven free throws, caged the second basket a moment later. Coe did not score until late in the first half when McFarlane scored the only field goal for the visitors. The first half ended with the score 13 to 3.

The second half went five minutes without a field goal and only one foul before Shimek started his array of four baskets during this period. The second half was somewhat more lively than the first in spite of the fact that Coach Ashmore had substituted all of his players.

The Iowa mentor substituted all the way round using fourteen players in all, while the Coe coach used all the material he had available. The second strings showed up almost as well as the first aggregations, possibly outdistancing them in team work.

It was first season playing all the way for both teams although the Iowa quintet shows considerable improvement in comparison with practice workouts before the holiday vacation. They should show considerable improvement when meeting Cornell at Iowa City next Monday night when more opposition is expected.

GOOD LUCK, JACK

Jack Watson's decision to go to Dartmouth marks the passing out of Iowa of one of the old-timers in state athletics. He has watched half a dozen coaches come and go at every one of the larger colleges of the state since he first came to Grinnell in 1897.

Mr. Watson's record is a long one, and for that very reason an honorable one. No man could have been connected with athletics for so long a time in one locality unless he was clean and sportsmanlike.

The Daily Iowan shares this regret. We have not, of course, any desire to become involved in a controversy over the action of the athletic board in letting Mr. Watson go.

We feel, however, that we express a general opinion when we say that Mr. Watson's departure is regretted by athletes throughout the state, that this regret is a proper one.

Good Luck, Jack Watson.

ON VILHJALMUR STEFANSSON

Tribute to Vilhjalmur Stefansson which appeared in the editorial columns of a recent issue of the Harvard Crimson will be of interest to readers of The Daily Iowan.

In these days of scientific fervor which have produced exhaustive charts and maps, even for the winds and stars, it is a difficult matter to play the role of a Marco Polo.

explored unknown polar regions, discovered new peoples in new lands, and upset traditional theories. What more adventurous than to spend five years in the far-away North of the world, and then return with amazing information after all hope had been given up!

If the modern Marco Polo has to seek far for adventure, even among the Eskimos, he has one great advantage over the Venetian of six centuries ago. When he returns with his records and instruments, the world cannot indulge in laughter as it used to do.

COURTESY

Prizes offered by a dozen or so newspapers and business houses through the middle west have brought to the public attention the genial human virtue of courtesy.

One thing about courtesy: it frequently takes a little effort. Being hard-boiled is a lazy man's job. It often takes a ton of moral suasion to produce a smile and a note of kindness.

PIGS IS PIGS

During the early days of the war Y. M. C. A. discussion groups in camps were discussing the thug and criminal as a prospective soldier. The following paragraphs from The Kansas City Times in the story of Monk Eastman, bowery gangster, have some bearing on the war record of at least one disreputable character.

Released from prison in October 1917, he enlisted a short time later and was trained and sent away with the 27th Division. At Vierstraat Ridge, according to the New York Tribune, he started out under fire to rescue a wounded soldier and in spite of bullets in the left hand and left leg, brought his comrade back.

No sooner had he been given a gun than he started out after a German machine gun nest and after struggling through the mud on his stomach, got the boche with a bomb. Monk was in his element. Bullets didn't bother him.

But Eastman couldn't last. He came back in a gratifying flare of prominence as a war hero. A hero. But good heroes are not always good soldiers, and the man who flees from a hospital doesn't sound like an easily disciplined subordinate.

With comrades like "Big Jack" Selig, "Johnny Spanish," "Kid Twist" and "Louis the Lump" in his gang he fought the other gangs of the Bowery, blazing away at them beneath the elevated structure, racing through the alleys in pursuit of fugitives, fighting with brick bats, with bare fists or knuckle dusters, he led the classic life of the Bowery gangster.

Maintaining the daily crack about the weather, it might be said that the current continued mildness may be expected to have some mollifying influence on the perennial spring fever, and perhaps on the Tennysonian complaint characterized by the line, "In the Spring a young man's fancy—"

Helas! The Column has just finished reading Bernard Shaw on "The Revolutionist's Handbook." Under a caption entitled Education we stumbled over the following paragraph: "A fool's brain digests philosophy into folly, science into superstition, and art into pedantry. Hence Education!"

Robert Service came to us Christmas in a nice little package on which was written in large letters this strict injunction: "Don't Open Until Christmas." When we did open it all the choice bits of Robert's verse were marked.

Personal Note

The picture of the Column in yesterday's paper did not do us justice.

An evil inevitable with the advent of the new year is the bird who swears off smoking. His resolution begins immediately after midnight at which time he retires and is not bothered until the next morning when he arises. Then his suffering begins.

The Column resolves never to resolve to stop smoking.

Trouble From Our Room-mate

Up to date our room-mate who resolved to give up his cigarette habit had made good. Indeed he refuses the weed in any form. We have tempted him several times by leaving our Camels lying on our desk but up to date he has not stolen any of them.

DISABLED SOLDIERS

By Dr. Frank Crane (Issued by the Federal Board for Vocational Education with special permission of the Associated Newspapers)

While there is so much criticism of the Government going on, and now that the war is over nobody seems to have a kind word for Uncle Sam, I would like to call attention to one really good and first class thing about it.

The Government has appropriated $90,000,000 to help all those who have been incapacitated by the war to fit themselves for jobs.

That is quite a tidy sum. Do you know about it? Are you a disabled soldier, or do you know of one? If so, here is the chance to find out that the country that asked men to fight for it is not altogether ungrateful.

Every week hundreds of service men are discharged as cured from the Government hospitals and at the same time returned to civilian status, but these young men in many cases are not physically and mentally able to take up their former vocation.

The Government now pays men from $80 to $170 per month, according to a man's dependents and the cost of living in the locality in which he is trained. These men are trained at many of the best professional and trade schools in the country; others are trained on the job with some practical firm; still others prefer to keep their present positions and study in night courses without training pay in order to advance themselves.

If a man's eligibility can be estimated, he can be almost immediately enrolled in a school or placed in training for a trade with some firm.

Men from out of town will be furnished free railroad transportation upon request and given meals and lodging where necessary.

Lack of schooling does not make a man ineligible. The Board will endeavor to train the most illiterate foreigners. Many men think it is necessary for them to leave home towns in order to get training of any sort. As the board places a great many men in "placement training on the job", it is quite possible that a man can live at home while taking training.

If any man has a reason why he cannot accept vocational training at the hands of the Federal Board, he is urged to bring that reason to the attention of the board. If he is right, his case will be retired to the Board's inactive files until he wishes to open it again. If he has been misinformed the board will set him right.

You may have heard ex-soldiers or others say that the Government drafted them to fight, and now that it's all over, it casts them aside, and cares nothing for them.

If you have read what I have written here you know that it is not so.

All that you have to do is to write to the Federal Board for Vocational Education, 23 West Forty-Third St., New York City, and you will receive full information.

That does not mean you may have to come to New York. The Board has branches all over the country in almost every large city, but you can write to the New York office and find out.

If you are in any way disabled why not receive this help? You are entitled to it, and the Board is anxious to find you.

PROFESSOR WICKHAM

Prof. Henry Frederick Wickham, better known to the students as "Daddy" Wickham, has been professor of entomology and economic zoology as well as assistant curator of the zoological museum at the University since 1891. He has gained the reputation of being the most popular chaperon of dancing parties on the faculty. He and Mrs. Wickham are in great demand and they may be found almost every Friday and Saturday evening throughout the University year tripping gayly over the polished floor at some fraternity party. They enjoy it because it serves as an opportunity to meet students outside the class room and besides, "it keeps you young, you know", as Professor Wickham said one day.

Professor Wickham came from England when he was only five years old and has made Iowa City his home ever since. He was graduated from high school here and before entering the University became so much interested in the collection of insects that he joined a bridge gang working on the construction of the Southern Pacific railway through Arizona in the early part of the '80's. Arizona was only sparsely settled at that time, and the Indians were making things interesting. While there Professor Wickham collected a number of specimens, some of which have been sent to Europe. He also captured a gila monster, a lizard of deadly poison, which he brought back alive to the University.

Although he was never graduated from the University, Professor Wickham was given an honorary master's degree in 1895. Since 1886 he has traveled every summer in connection with his collecting and research work. Three summers were spent in Old Mexico, one in Alaska, one in the West Indies and several in the desert districts of western United States. During the past summer he spent several months in Washington, D. C., where he worked in the laboratories of the United States biological survey. A great part of the time was spent on the analysis of the food of birds, and the rest of the time was used in the identification of material for reference collection. Seven summers have been spent in this same way.

Professor Wickham has had some novel experiences on these summer expeditions. While in Alaska in 1891 he made an extended trip up the Stikene river on a dilapidated side wheel steamer which was the only means of navigation at that time. The passengers on board were all Indians with the exception of Professor Wickham and a revenue officer. During the voyage the boat ran upon the rocks and began to sink rapidly. Professor Wickham who was asleep in his berth below was awakened by an Indian squaw who came to warn him of the danger. All the passengers reached shore safely, but the provisions and supplies went down with the boat. After several days a few supplies were rescued from the shallow water, but the party was stranded without any means of transportation either up or down the river. One day a group of Indians came up the river in canoes and stopped at the scene of the wreck. Professor Wickham persuaded them to take him on up the river, and they consented only after he had promised to do his share of the paddling. They left him many miles up the river where he stayed alone until the Indians came back on their return trip.

Professor Wickham is not interested in insects alone, in spite of the fact that he has, up to the present time, described 350 new species of fossil beetles. He has a hobby for gardening and he has done a great deal of experimenting with different kinds of plants. His garden always contains from thirty to thirty-five varieties of vegetables, and he spends many hours among them with his hoe. His chief worry during his stay in Washington this summer was that his garden might not be getting along well without his supervision, and a few minutes after he returned he was hard at work among his plants. He has often said that if he were to give up teaching he would go to southern Arizona and start a truck farm where he could revel in gardening to his heart's content.

Professor Wickham has decided tastes in literature. He is very fond of good essays, especially those of a sociological nature, but he does not care for novels nor for the modern short stories which he finds too monotonous and too much alike to be interesting. He is a devoted reader of the "Atlantic Monthly" and in addition often reads "Scribner's" and the "Century Magazine".

IF THE traffic policeman did not hold up his hand and control the automobiles and wagons and people there would be collisions, confusion, and but little progress in any direction. His business is to direct.

The physicist who tries to obtain a vacuum that is nearly perfect has a problem somewhat like that of the traffic policeman. Air is composed of molecules—billions and billions of them flying about in all directions and often colliding. The physicist's pump is designed to make the molecules travel in one direction—out through the exhaust. The molecules are much too small to be seen even with a microscope, but the pump jogs them along and at least starts them in the right direction.

A perfect vacuum would be one in which there is not a single free molecule.

For over forty years scientists have been trying to pump and jog and herd more molecules out of vessels. There are still in the best vacuum obtainable more molecules per cubic centimeter than there are people in the world, in other words, about two billion. Whenever a new jogging device is invented, it becomes possible to eject a few million more molecules.

The Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company have spent years in trying to drive more and more molecules of air from containers. The chief purpose has been to study the effects obtained, as, for example, the boiling away of metals in a vacuum.

This investigation of high vacua had unexpected results. It became possible to make better X-ray tubes—better because the X-rays could be controlled; to make the electron tubes now so essential in long-range wireless communication more efficient and trustworthy; and to develop an entirely new type of incandescent lamp, one which is filled with a gas and which gives more light than any of the older lamps.

No one can foretell what will be the outcome of research in pure science. New knowledge, new ideas inevitably are gained. And sooner or later this new knowledge, these new ideas find a practical application. For this reason the primary purpose of the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company is the broadening of human knowledge.

of applied science. The jubilee has always been one of the big attractions of the school year and this year's production promises to be no exception.

Last year the program consisted of three acts. The first was a one act play, "The Big Event" written by three law students. The second was called the "Great Outdoors" and showed a roadside Gypsy camp with a number of musicians around a glowing campfire. The minstrel part came in the last act with the scene laid in a club room where the King of Melody Land and his chorus in grand opera costumes entertained at a spirited jubilee.

JANUARY SALE OF Undermuslins

An event to which you will attach considerable importance. Even more so than in the past, for we are quite sure that never before have we been privileged to offer such a pleasing combination of excellent quality and low prices.

Philippine Lingerie
$2.95 to $5.95

Philippine underwear, as you probably know, is actually made by Filipino needlewomen who display quite remarkable skill in their embroidering. Grouped at $2.95, $3.95, $4.95 and $5.95, we have been assured that the qualities are hardly represented by the prices.

Muslin Undergarments
79c to $2.95

Gowns, petticoats and chemises of muslin of this texture will continue in popularity and we feel that we hardly risk exaggeration in recommending them to you at prices such as these. Plain and embroidered models are upon display.

Colored lingerie has been priced from $1.89 to $3.50 and silk lingerie has likewise been repriced to a considerable extent.

A Coat and Dress Event

A great deal of interest is being shown in this annual event. Coats, which have been underpriced for this occasion, are grouped at prices ranging from $19.50 to $69.50. Fur and fabric trimmed models are included and the reductions are really surprising.

Dresses of satin, tricotine, and tricolette have been marked at $19.50, $29.50, and $39.50. Do not confuse the qualities of these frocks for they have been re-marked and they include many of our best frocks.

January Shoe Clearance

A general January clearance of boots has resulted in underpricings of quality shoes which offers a unique opportunity to make excellent selections at low prices. Included here are many styles of J & T Cousins boots, which we believe unsurpassed for quality and workmanship.

FRIVOL STRAYS INTO A FAR COUNTRY AND CHEERS AN IOWA MAN

That the phrase "Known Nationally" invented some months ago by one of the Frivol editors and circulated far and near for the purpose of entertaining by its ghastly egotism as well as for its advertising power, is becoming true in fact as well as in fun, may be believed if the latest story of its travels bears the virtue of veracity.

On the heels of several subscriptions from California, Oregon, New York and Maine, comes the news that the University's humorous publication has been carried to the tropical shores of Panama.

It seems that a former Iowa man now a midshipman from Annapolis and on an instruction cruise found himself in Panama very much bored and homesick. When he expressed the sentiment in the words, "I am tired of life!" a friend and shipmate handed him a copy of the Homecoming number of Frivol saying rather flippantly, "Here's a magazine which claims to offer a cure for anybody who's tired of life!"

The midshipman happened to be an Iowa man and told this little incident to a Frivol editor on the streets of Des Moines during the Christmas holidays. "It was like a message from home," declared the embryo admiral.

What interests the editors of Frivol is how the publication happened to stray into the far country of Panama. No one knows. The midshipman did not know and there is no way of finding out. Anyway the champions of Frivol are satisfied.

Frivol is "Known Nationally!"

BOUQUETS TO A CHEF

A new manager, Clarence M. Gortner, took charge of the University cafeteria at the Quadrangle after vacation, and according to those who eat there regularly, his management is giving much better satisfaction than the preceding chefs. Prices have been cut nearly 20 per cent and Quadranglers are enthusiastic over the change.

Mr. Gortner is an experienced manager and chef. His experience was gained by working as Pullman chef and hotel chef, and he comes to the Quadrangle highly recommended. For the past fourteen months he has been employed by the Maehr-Co. of Davenport.

The General Council at the Quadrangle have, for the past two months, been investigating the eating problem and finally became convinced that the management was inefficient. Since Mr. Gortner took charge several of the Council have expressed the opinion that from now on conditions would be more agreeable. The drop in prices has increased the number eating there greatly.

Contagious Diseases Are Practically Non-Existent Here

No cases of small pox are under the observation of the student health department, according to Dr. W. J. McDonald, director of student health. Contagious diseases are practically non-existent at the University at the present time, although one case of scarlet fever was discovered early in the week. It is thought that this case was isolated soon enough to prevent any spread of the disease, however.

The usual minor complaints such as colds and sore throats are prevalent, Doctor McDonald said.

WILSON BACK FROM EAST

Prof. Charles Bundy Wilson, head of the German department returned Thursday afternoon from a two weeks visit in the East. He attended the meeting of the Modern Language association at Poughkeepsie, Mass, and was the guest of honor, at the University of Iowa alumni banquet in New York city December 30. The banquet was attended by fifty-three alumni who are now in New York.

PRESENT APPLIED SCIENCE BUILDING IS ONLY PART OF COMPLETE PLAN

Many students are wondering why the south side of the engineering building is only finished in rough brick and why the Bedford limestone on the front quits off so abruptly at the south-east corner. The above cut answers these questions. The building as it stands today is but a part of the completed building. Five sections will make up the whole, and only two have been built. The first was built in 1905 and the second in 1908. When all of those five sections are put up the structure will cover the entire block south of the campus at the corner of Washington and Capitol streets. The central section, the one with the dome and the two columns in front is the next one to be built. The college of engineering was organized in 1905 and now has over 400 students. It is rapidly outgrowing the two sections now occupied. The five sections, when completed will make a building 320 feet long and 200 feet wide.

TO HAVE NATIONAL GUARD

University of Nebraska Plans Unit
With Fifty as Start

Lincoln, Neb.:—Plans are developing towards the organization of a National Guard unit at the University of Nebraska. The company will be chosen entirely of University men, and its officers will be chosen from the student body. Col. H. J. Paul, adjutant general of Nebraska, has delegated "Lum" Doyle, ex-battery commander of the 45th Field Artillery, to act as captain of the new company.

It is the aim of the company to enroll as many as fifty students immediately. Men who join the unit will be furnished everything necessary to the soldier, including uniforms, shoes, gloves and guns. They will draw full pay on the regular army basis.

Donald Gallagher, Marcus Potec and Joe Ryons are the first members of the proposed unit. Mayor Miller of Lincoln has agreed to furnish drill rooms for the guard company. Lockers will be provided in which members of the unit will be able to keep equipment.

One hour of drill will be held each week in the company's drill rooms, at a time most convenient to the majority of the members of the company.

HAS FUN WITH EFFICIENCY

Parish Makes Satire of Practice on Writers, in Bookman Article

"Efficiency and Robert Louis Stevenson," is the title of a short article by John C. Parish, associate editor of the State Historical Society, which appears in the January number of the Bookman.

In his article, Mr. Parish satirically points out the absurdity of attempting to put writers like Stevenson upon an efficiency system.
