12 IOWA TANK MEN LEAVE TO MEET GOPHERS

Team Leaves For Minneapolis Tonight For First Dual Meet of Season

CLOSE MEET IS EXPECTED

Minnesota Has Won Several Meets This Year—Has Unusually Strong Team—Defeated Hawkeyes Last Year—Brown To Swim In Dashes—Minnesota Has Two Stars

The swimming team will leave tonight at 7:55 for Minneapolis where it will meet the Gopher tank team tomorrow night in the first dual meet of the season.

According to Coach Armbruster, the Hawkeyes expect a closely contested meet. The odds, if any, are with the Minnesotans. The Gopher squad has had several aquatic meets this year, and has shown up well in every one. They defeated the St. Paul Y. M. C. A. team 57 to 20 in a recent meet. Swimming is a major sport at the northern university and, on account of the numerous lakes in that region, Minnesota has an exceptionally large field of swimmers from which to pick its team.

Minnesota took first honors in the dual meet with Iowa last year. Until the 440 yard swim, the Hawkeyes held the lead but by losing both first and second places in this event, the Gophers gained a lead of seven points and won the meet.

Minnesota will base its hopes on winning the meet upon two of its star swimmers, Holmes and Day. Holmes will swim the 40 and the 100 yard dashes and will also swim with the relay team. He has been the individual star in all the aquatic meets which Minnesota has engaged in this year. Day, swimming the back stroke, has been making conference time in this event.

Twelve men will make the trip with the Hawkeye team. Brown and Clark will swim the 40 yard dash and, with Boynton and Shepherd, will swim the 160 yard relay. The fancy diving event will be represented by Shepherd and Weidlein, both veterans of last year's team. Forney, if up to his usual form, should take first place in the plunge for distance. Halback will also enter this event.

Vedova has been going good in the 200 yard breast stroke and should win a place in this event. Mills will swim in this event also, and with L. Smith in the 150 yard backstroke. Shepherd, Goodell and Anneberg will enter the 220 yard swim and Clark and Shepherd the 100 yard dash.

EASTER CANTATA CHOSEN

"The Crucifixion" To Be Presented at Easter Vesper Service

"The Crucifixion" is the cantata selected for the Easter Vesper service to be given in the natural science auditorium on Sunday, March 20 at 4 o'clock, according to Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the school of music.

"The Crucifixion" is a selection arranged for two solo voices, tenor and bass, and chorus, and interspersed with hymns to be sung by the audience. The words were selected and written by Rev. J. Sparrow Simpson, and the music by John Stainer. According to Professor Clapp, the soloists have not yet been selected.

Professor Clapp will direct the chorus, and Miss Verness Fraser, instructor in the school of music, will be accompanist.

"Any person interested in the cantata may take part by joining the regular University chorus," said Professor Clapp.

Beginning this evening the chorus will rehearse for the cantata every Thursday from 7:10 to 8:15 o'clock in the liberal arts assembly room.

DR. ROGERS RESIGNS AS INSTRUCTOR IN DENTAL INFIRMARY

Dr. Ray W. Rogers, instructor in the dental infirmary, has resigned his position and will leave the University January 31, to practice in St. Ansgar, Ia., where he was located formerly.

Doctor Rogers was graduated from the college of dentistry in 1914 and practiced dentistry in St. Ansgar until 1917. At that time, he came to the University and has filled his position as instructor in the dental infirmary for the past three and a half years.

The position left vacant by Doctor Rogers' resignation has not yet been filled, according to Dr. E. A. Rogers, director of the dental infirmary.

FINAL CLASH IN DEBATE TONIGHT

Zetagathian and Philomathean Teams to Contest For Wade Prize

The final inter-society championship debate will be held this evening at the natural science auditorium at 7:45 o'clock. The Zetagathian literary society team will uphold the affirmative side of the question and the Philomathean literary society team the negative. The Zetagathian team eliminated the Irving championship team in the preliminary debate.

The question for discussion is: Resolved, That the United States should adopt a system of responsible cabinet government. The constitutionality of the question is conceded, according to the Forensic Council. The team winning the final debate will be awarded the Wade prize of $25.00.

Zetagathian team is composed of George J. Francois G of Maquoketa, Fred O. Paulson A3 of Clear Lake, and Vernon Sharpe A2 of Rolfe. Philomathean team is composed of Jasper Johnson A3 of Belmond, Raymond Marple A3 of Pomeroy, and William O. Moore A3 of Seymour.

Judges of the debate are Prof. Herbert F. Goodrich of the college of law, Prof. Jacob Van der Zee of the department of political science, and Prof. Gilbert G. Benjamin of the department of history.

FRESHMAN SQUAD CHOSEN

Seven Women to Represent Class in Basketball Games

Seven freshman women were chosen for the freshman basketball squad last evening by Miss Ann Boillin of the department of physical education.

Members of the squad chosen are: Grace E. Dyke of Iowa City, jumping center; Mary L. Larkley of Independence, side center; Leora A. Ashbaugh of Danville, guard or side center; Mona A. The second freshman squad and also the first and second junior squads will be chosen next week, according to Miss Boillin, who has charge of freshman and junior basketball.

Sophomore and Senior squads will be chosen this evening by Miss Miriam W. Taylor of the physical education department. Miss Taylor has charge of the sophomore and senior basketball practice.

The basketball tournament in which all the four classes play inter-class games will start the first week of the second semester. The schedule for the games has not yet been arranged.

CROTHERS TALKS ON 'NEW POETRY'

Lecturer Says That True Poetry Is Not In Realism

Treatment rather than subject matter was pointed out as the determinant of good poetry by Rev. Samuel McChord Crothers, preacher to Harvard University in a University lecture on "Some New Poets, and Some Poets Not So New", in the natural science auditorium at 8 o'clock last night.

"The business of poetry is not to give us a new reality, a new set of facts, but to give us an enchantment that we have never known before," the speaker said.

Taking Keats' example of poetry as the web which the spider spins on a twig, Doctor Crothers said, "Give a real poet any subject and he will write poetry, but give it to some one who is not a real poet, and he will not write poetry."

The so-called new poetry was considered by the lecturer as a fashion in poetry just as fashions arise in clothing. "There is a desire here," he said "for something new, something that has not been heretofore."

He attributed to the new poetry a certain sincerity, a strength, a vividness, and a dislike for social injustice, but the old-fashioned reader of the Tennysonian school found in them a roughness that was rather abrupt.

He pointed out that the new poetry is not really confined, so far as its impulse to novelty and realism is concerned, to the modern age, and quoted poems from writers of other times who showed the same tendency as Masters and Carl Sandburg.

PLANS FOR SENIOR HOP TO BE HELD MARCH 11 GIVEN OUT BY OFFICERS

The Senior Hop, the annual senior formal, will be held March 11, at the University gymnasium, the date having been approved by the student council committee on University functions, yesterday.

According to Charles F. Glasgow A4 of Shenandoah, the floor will be cornmealed, and the price of the tickets will be $3.50.

Henry W. Wormley L1 of Kingsley is in charge of the preparation of programs and decorations. Gray leather programs have been selected, but the details of the decorations have not yet been worked out.

In regard to the selection of the date, Glasgow said, "March 11 was picked in order that this party would not interfere with the ticket sale of other University functions. We shall try to put on as good a party as possible for $3.50."

SENIOR COMMITTEE MAKES PLANS FOR INVITATIONS

That all senior invitations for commencement must be paid for when the orders are placed, and no extra invitations be ordered, was the decision of the senior invitation committee which met Tuesday evening.

A list of the names of seniors will be posted Monday, February 7, on the bulletin boards in the various colleges for correction of spelling. Any senior finding his name omitted from the list should write it on the bottom of the list.

YEAR BOOK AND TICKETS WILL GO IN MON. GAME

No restrictions are to be placed on the admission to the Chicago-Iowa basketball game next Monday night, according to Leon H. Brigham, assistant director of athletics. "The seating arrangements have been changed so that we think that we can accommodate the crowd," said Brigham, "and the admission will be by year books and tickets secured at the door."

NEW IOWA TRACK COACH EXPECTED TO ARRIVE SOON

G. T. Bresnahan Iowa's newly elected track coach is expected to arrive here today or tomorrow, according to members of the board in control of athletics.

With the arrival of coach Bresnahan, track affairs at the University will go rapidly forward, as the team must be ready to meet Northwestern in an indoor meet on February 26. A track mixer and get together meeting has been set for next Tuesday night, to which every man in the University interested in track will be invited. The mixer will be held in the men's gymnasium.

Coach Bresnahan will be formally introduced and pep talks will be made by prominent track men.

"SPIT BALL" IS CAUSING BREAK

Iowa and Ames May Not Play On Diamond Because of Freak Ball

All indications now point to no baseball game between Iowa and Ames next spring, due to the fact that C. W. Maysler, director of athletics at Ames, insists on the eligibility of the "spit ball" in any game which might be played between the two teams.

The dispute dates back to Iowa's first game with Ames last spring when Coach James N. Ashmore protested against pitcher Plagge's use of the freak ball. The umpire upheld Coach Ashmore and restricted the Ames hurler from using the protested delivery. When it came time for the second game which was to have been played on Iowa field, the Ames team failed to show up. A telephone message to Ames disclosed that the Aggies had decided not to play unless they could not use the spit ball.

In booking games for the present season Maysler stayed by his contention with the result that negotiations were dropped. Maysler has been quoted as saying, "We are willing to play these games under the same conditions as prevail in the Big Ten conference and the Missouri valley. I can find no ruling whatever at this date which would bar a spit ball from college competition."

Spaulding's Official Baseball Rule Book explicitly states that the "spit ball shall not be used. Rule 30, Section 2, says: "At no time during the progress of the game shall the pitcher be allowed to (1) apply a foreign substance of any kind to the ball, (2) expectorate either on the ball or his glove, (3) rub the ball on his glove, person or clothing, (4) deface the ball in any way or deliver what is called the shine ball, spit ball, mud ball, or emery ball."

Howard H. Jones, director of athletics, in speaking of the matter yesterday said: "It looks to us more like a question of waving the rule than of interpreting it, and as Ames does not want to agree to the rule book there will most likely be no game."

HOLMES NEXT SPEAKER

Pastor of New York Church Will Speak at Vespers

Rev. John Haynes Holmes of the Community Church of New York City will be the speaker at the next Vesper service, February 6. Reverend Holmes spoke here at Vespers four years ago and is one of the best speakers booked for Vespers this year, according to Prof. George T. W. Patrick, of the department of philosophy and psychology.

Reverend Holmes is a very prominent lecturer and writer and is now on a speaking tour in California, coming to this University from Los Angeles. The subject of his address will be announced later.

Those who were elected to Phi Beta Kappa, according to Miss Bessie L. Pierce, president of the local chapter, are: Marion E. Brierly of Independence; Alma M. Held of Waterloo; Ralph E. Election is limited to those who have attained a grade of at least ninety per cent in the college of liberal arts and have at least sixty hours of credit, forty-five of which must be acquired at the University. Two elections are held each academic year, one during the first semester, at which time candidates from the preceding summer session are eligible as well as the graduates of the current year, and the second not later than June at which any qualified candidates of the senior class are eligible. Yesterday's election was not confined to members who will graduate at the end of this semester but those who will be graduated in the spring were also included.

Initiation is February 16

The new members will be initiated February 16, at which time Phi Beta Kappa will have an anniversary celebration. John S. Nollen, dean of the college of liberal arts at Grinnell, will give an address on this occasion which will be open to the public as a feature of the anniversary of the Alpha chapter of Phi Beta Kappa established here twenty-five years ago.

A CALL FOR BACKING

Europe is a long way off. While the average student of the American college or university frets in a comfortable class room or a snug library about the perplexities arising out of social complications, financial straits, or academic delinquencies, the student in certain European institutions of learning is huddling over a candle, poorly-clad and ill-fed, trying to keep up his physical existence and continue his pursuit of the phantom goddess, learning. It is hard to see that European situation. It is, in fact, quite impossible to see it. One may only accept the reports of bureaus and administrations, and try to piece together a path-work picture of conditions there.

Here is the situation reported in Vienna: the bare minimum on which a woman student can live, without any allowance whatever for clothing, is 500 Kr. a month; the maximum she can earn is 300 Kr. a month, (a krone before the war was equivalent to about 20 cents in our money) and only the few who are physically able and can find employment can get that. In Budapest, allowing for two meals a day, the living minimum is 1050 Kr. to a possible income of 620 Kr. Add to this the fact that it is necessary for about forty-five percent of the wage-earning students to help support parents or relatives, and one has a start of a numerical glimpse of conditions.

A Budapest survey reports that twenty-six percent of the students are living on two meals or less a day, thirty-three percent of the students possess two suits of clothing or less, fifteen per cent of the students are without coats, and fifteen percent have one pair of socks or none at all.

A news brief says that many of the men are wearing their old army field uniforms, now badly worn after several years of service. Others wear thin overcoats buttoned up tight to the neck to conceal the absence of shirt or underwear.

The condition of the women students seemed to be ven worse. Many, reports say, are clad in little more than rags, which have become filthy and often verminous, for soap and a bath are luxuries which students cannot afford. A girl student with open sores on her hands, when asked if she had received medical treatment, admitted that she would have to choose between that and a meal, and that hunger had compelled her to choose the meal.

These are not pleasant reports. They are not published for purpose of entertainment. Communities and institutions all over the nation are being jarred into a realization that students in Europe are in a bad way. Drives are on in a dozen universities. Women in New York held a day of fast for European relief. A day or a week of economy on needless luxuries would turn a lot of pocket money into relief channels. Any of a dozen organizations on the University campus could properly take the responsibility of backing a drive of the same nature here. It is a thing to be accepted with pride. Information is available through Herbert Hoover, 42 Broadway, New York.

DR. CROTHERS TALKS OF UNIVERSITIES AND EDUCATION PROBLEMS

Of course 5,000 persons could not have crowded into the clergyman's pleasant study in the house on South Gilbert street. Even if they could have, the clergyman's guest, the small quiet man from Cambridge, Mass., whose name is followed by D. D., and Litt. D., and who has travelled and lectured in this country and Europe, and has written a number of magazine articles, would probably have been so disconcerted that he would not have talked of state universities, and education, and students, and literature.

As it was, the Rev. Samuel McChord Crothers, preacher at Harvard University, talked quietly, and smiled tranquility and harbored an occasional twinkle in his quiet blue eyes while the sun shone in through the clergyman's window on the brick fireplace. "The state university seems to me to be one of the most promising institutions in the educational world. There has been some talk of a state university in Massachusetts. Of course the reason that the East has privately endowed institutions like Harvard and Princeton, is because they were there first and the endowment seemed to be sufficient to insure their maintenance.

"It seems to me that the state university tends to be more democratic. Its funds come from general taxation and there is no restriction to students on the grounds of tuition. Harvard however, is not a rich man's university. It has facilities for men to work their way, and scholarships, which are held in respect, are provided to cover the cost of tuition. Of course in these days, no one really pays for his education. This tuition income covers but a small part of the university's expense.

"I suppose that the greatest difference between the eastern and western colleges is the difference of co-education. There is less of it there. Men and women are taught in separate classes. Then too, eastern universities draw a greater portion of their undergraduates from all over the country, while I suppose that most of the students in state universities are from the state in which they are established.

"Of course there is the matter of social organization, but a disintegrated social group is probably common to all large institutions, either of state or private endowment. It seems to be more of a question of comparison with the smaller colleges. England, with universities like Oxford and Cambridge seemed to have solved that problem in a way by division of the group into college units. Theoretically a university like that could go on increasing in size indefinitely without any loss of social privileges to any of its students. You seem to have here, however, an opportunity for a wide social contract.

"Development of the individual seems to fall in this same class. It is just possible that the real scholar in the large university will be lost in the rush of things, but it does seem that real individual ability will make itself known anywhere.

"Co-education might have something to do with a possible disinterest that men students in the West show in courses in literature and in subjects of a more esthetic nature. Those subjects are not looked down upon in the East. They are, perhaps, regarded as the courses of greatest merit. It is my own feeling that they should be taught purely as arts. There seems to be some tendency to teach such subjects as though they were sciences, and to regard them as valuable assets because of their exercise of that side of the mind, but I think that more is gotten out of them if they are regarded for their cultural merit.

"In all of these question of quality or quantity, quantity seems to be imperative. Our communities are decidedly better for a large number of college educated citizens."

The bell of the clergyman's telephone broke the placidity of the quiet study. From the door one could still see the sun shining on the dul' brick of the fireplace and now on the white hair of the clergyman's guest as the quiet man stood looking out of the window.

GRASSFIELD SAYS MICHIGAN'S UNION IS REAL SUCCESS

"Is the Michigan Union all that the glowing reports claim it to be?" This was the question asked of Ralph G. Grassfield, director of the Iowa Memorial Union, who returned recently from Ann Arbor, Mich., where he spent several days studying Michigan's union.

"Without any doubt — Yes!" Mr. Grassfield said.

"The Michigan Union is now the central meeting place for the men of the University of Michigan. It is typically and thoroughly a high class men's club. It has all the recreational facilities to attract and to hold the men of the University. Besides the club features, the building contains small halls and offices for the use of various campus societies, free of charge, and the alumni quarters, composed of attractive rooms for lodging purposes.

"More than $1,000,000 has been expended in the building up to the present time and as yet it is complete. With the exception of the main dining room, none of the rooms have been fully decorated and the reading room and the swimming pool are not yet complete. The Union management is seeking funds, some $50,000 necessary to complete and equip these rooms.

"But the Union is in operation and meeting the demands of the students as anticipated. Indications are, however, that before long the magnificent building will become too small, despite the fact that a great many alumni and even members of the faculty of Michigan branded the Union project as 'hairbrained' and scoffed at the idea of such a large structure.

"Every man student in the University is a member of the union. The board of regents made the $5 membership fee in the union a part of their matriculation. This money is collected by the University and turned over to the union management, to be used for the operation of the building.

"No concessions within the Union are given. The billiard room, the barber shop, dining rooms, are under union management. Each of these yields a small profit, which, with the annual membership dues, nearly met the expenses of operation last year.

"The Union is under the direction of a Board of Governors, composed of alumni, faculty members and students, and also a Board of Directors, composed of students and members of the faculty. The students dominate in the government, for the institution belongs to them.

"Naturally, the women of the University of Michigan feel that the men have the best social and recreational facilities. At the present time a strong movement is under way for a Union building for the women of the University.

"The Union is open for use from six o'clock in the morning until twelve o'clock at night. Breakfast is served in the 'tap' room or cafeteria, but not in the main dining room. Lunch and evening dinner are served there."
