The oratorio, "The Crucifixion," by John Stainer who was an English composer of sacred music during the latter half of the nineteenth century will be presented by the University chorus at Vespers today at 4 o'clock.

The entire program will include the following: Invocation by Rev. Paul B. James, pastor of Trinity Episcopal Church; recitative, "And They Came to a place Named Gethsemane"; chorus and solos, "Could Ye Not Watch With Me"; chorus and solo "Fling Wide the Gates"; recitative, "And When They Were Come"; choral, "Cross of Jesus"; recitative, "He Made Himself of No Reputation"; solo, "King Ever Glorious"; recitative, "And as Moses Lifted Up the Serpent"; chorus, "God So Loved the World"; chorale, "Holy Jesus, by Thy Passion"; prayer by Reverend James recitative, "Jesus Said, 'Father Forgive Them'"; duet, "So Thou Littest Thy Divine Petition"; chorale, "Jesus, the Crucified, Pleads for Me"; recitative, "And One of the Malefactors"; choral, "I Adore Thee"; recitative, "When Jesus Therefore Saw His Mother"; recitative, "Is it Nothing to You"; chorus, "From the Throne of His Cross"; recitative and chorus, "After This, Jesus"; chorale, "All For Jesus"; and the benediction by Reverend James.

The soloists are: Alice H. Ingham A2 of Iowa City, soprano; Mrs. Mildred B. Paddock, instructor in voice, alto; Prof. William E. Hays of the department of music, tenor; and Mayor Ingalls Swisher, baritone. Miss Verness M. Fraser, instructor of piano will be the piano accompanist. The oratorio will be directed by Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the music department.

In the churches in the middle ages it was the custom during holy week to have a service showing the events of the Passion from Christ's agony in the Garden of Gethsemane to the Crucifixion. These services often received elaborate musical settings, as those of Bach and Handel. The Anglican church has kept up the custom in their cathedrals of presenting the passion in the form of an oratorio, and this setting by John Stainer is one of the best of the Anglican settings. It follows the model of the older passions because one-half of the work is devoted to direct settings of the Scriptural narratives and the rest of set numbers with the words written by clergymen.

SIXTY WOMEN SIGN UP FOR WORK IN ESTES PARK

Between fifty and sixty University women have signed up at the desk of Violet Blakely, assistant to the dean of women, for work at Estes Park during the summer vacation, said Mary T. Mueller, instructor in the department of English who lectured on this subject last winter.

A representative of Estes park will be here Friday, April 1, to complete arrangements with the University women desiring to work there during vacation.

ENGINEERS HOLD ANNUAL EXHIBIT

Guides Answer Questions of Large Crowds That See Exhibit

The "open house" demonstration by the students in the college of applied science, held yesterday following the Mecca Day parade, gave an outsider a concise idea as to what sort of work the engineering college turns out.

Guides, stationed at the entrances to the buildings and at the exhibits, answered all questions of the sightseers who streamed through the buildings in great numbers all afternoon.

A schedule directing visitors was handed out at the door of the engineering building. In this building two rooms were turned over to all sorts of blue prints; blueprints of houses, buildings, and a variety of machinery patterns. The testing laboratory, with its modern machinery for the testing of steel, wood and concrete, and a miniature power plant in that department were points of interest for visitors.

In the steam laboratory, a very thorough demonstration was arranged. All sorts of engines were kept humming the entire afternoon, with guides busily explaining to the eager visitors the "why" of the proceedings. In the woodworking department, with its lathes, drills, presses and display of patterns and machine parts, University students were busily turning out small ten pins with "Mecca Day 1921" inscribed on each, and were passing these souvenirs out to the visitors. The R. O. T. C. Mobile Machine Shop, demonstrated in this department and was very interesting.

Following the line of small white arrows from the shops, the visitors were directed to the physics building where the electrical department held its exhibit. In the telephony room a guide carefully explained all the telephone instruments and told how a message is sent over the wires. The wireless room was popular, for here the visitors were getting wireless music from Davenport. The arc lamp which reflected a greenish hue on all objects afforded a great deal of amusement. The "wireless lamp" and "high tension phenomena" were features exhibited by this department.

From physics hall the visitors were directed to Close hall. The main feature of the chemistry exhibit was an industrial laboratory under the direction of Prof. Hubert L. Olin. It consisted of a demonstration of the manufacture of commercial chemical products such as sugar, alcoholic compounds and starches. Chemical curiosities such as "Pharaoh's Serpent" and "Chemical Garden" drew large crowds.

CROWDS BLOCK STREET TO SEE ANNUAL PARADE

Engineer's Parade Draws Crowd of 7000 — Thirty Floats

TWO BANDS FURNISH MUSIC

"Whatbethis" Runs at Random in Parade — Lieutenant Colonel Muma and Knights of Meccasacius Lead the Procession — "Progress of Transportation" is First Stunt

Throng of spectators crowded the streets yesterday afternoon to see the annual engineers' parade which wended its way up Clinton street through the northeast part of the city and back to the engineering building.

The parade was headed by Lieutenant-Colonel Morton C. Muma and the Knights of Meccasacius, closely followed by the University band of ninety pieces. The first number of the parade, Development of Transportation, depicted the progress of transportation up through the ages to the present time. An old high wheeled "gasoline-buggy" was a feature of this event.

All of the thirty odd floats were carefully arranged and the parade excited the usual amount of favorable comment. The most of the stunts were humorous in character and the laughs of the crowd proved that they were "getting over". The law college, the college of liberal arts, Frivol and the Daily Iowan all came in for their share of the "take-offs".

A "Whatbethis", which appeared to be a barrel on wheels, ran at random in and out among the other floats without any visible means of motor power.

A more serious side of the parade was "The Progress of War" stunt, and the sharp reports of the machine guns mounted on one of the floats made some of the crowd start a little as it passed by.

STROMSTEN APPOINTED MEMBER OF BUREAU OF FISHERIES COMMITTEE

Prof. Frank A. Stromsten of the department of zoology has received an appointment by the United States Commissioner of Fisheries as a member of a committee on organizations and plans.

A conference of investigators and administrative officers who are interested in the problems of fisheries in America was recently called by Secretary of Commerce, Herbert E. Hoover. The committee on which Professor Stromsten has been appointed consists of six government and university men from various parts of the United States. It will have a meeting to be called soon by Secretary Hoover, and will make plans for a large meeting early in June.

This appointment is an honor to the University and to the Iowa Lakeside Laboratory with which Professor Stromsten is connected. The appointment will not interfere with Prof. Stromsten's work at the Iowa Lakeside Laboratory this coming summer, but will supplement the efforts of the laboratory along these lines.

IOWA FAILS TO PLACE IN MEET

Chicago Wins Conference Title in Swimming Meet At Evanston

The four members of Iowa's tank team, who entered the conference meet at Northwestern Thursday and Friday, failed to place. Forney, the Hawkeye plunger, was eliminated by Crouse of Chicago, who plunged the length of the Purple tank in just two seconds faster time. Shepherd was eighth in the dives in a field of thirteen. Boynton and Clark were eliminated in the preliminary rounds of the 40 and 100 yard dash events.

Chicago won the conference championship with four first places, one second place, and a fourth. Second place in the conference went to Wisconsin, with Northwestern and Minnesota tied for third. Seven conference teams were entered. Blinks, the Chicago dash man, who was chiefly responsible for the large Maroon score in the dual meet with Iowa, broke three conference records Friday night in the finals of the conference meet. He lowered the record in the 40, 100, and 220 yard swims besides taking second in the 440.

With the conference meet over, the swimming season is officially ended. Not a man will be lost this year by graduation and the outlook for next year's team is brighter than it has ever been. Coach Armbruster said, "Regardless of the defeats of this year, the swimming season was a success. When the high school over the state include swimming as an inter-scholastic sport the foundation will be laid for strong University teams, since lack of material has been the crying need of all Hawkeye tank teams. The high school meet held here last week was the first systematic step to overcome this deficiency."

In the past season, Iowa won over Ames and lost to Minnesota, Chicago, and Northwestern. These last three teams, by reason of their access to numbers of good swimmers, easily topped the conference. Swimming is a major sport at Minnesota and Northwestern and will probably be regarded as one of the leading sports at Chicago next year.

IOWA COLLEGE PRESS REPRESENTATIVES TO MEET APRIL 8 AND 9

April 8 and 9 are the days set for the fifth annual convention of the Iowa College Press Association, according to an announcement made here today by John A. Kennedy, of Coe, president of the organization. The meeting will be held at Ames. Over two hundred college journalists from this and adjoining states have been invited to attend.

The list of speakers will include some of the best known journalists in the Middle West. Dean Walter Williams of the University of Missouri; Harvey Ingham of the Des Moines Register; Professor Wm. Beckman of Ames; Cyreneus Cole, editor of the Cedar Rapids Republican; Donald Clark, editor of the Northwestern Banker and Underwriters' Review; James Gillispie, president of the Coe College Cosmos; Dwight A. Davis, business manager of the Daily Iowan; and Rudolph Weertz, editor of the Grinnell Scarlet and Black, are a partial list of the speakers who have been asked to attend the convention.

CUP WILL REST ON RIVER TOWN MANTEL AGAIN

Davenport Basketball Team Takes Title in 28 to 21 Game With Anamosa

HALF ENDED WITH A TIE

Van Deusen, Anamosa Center, High Scorer of Game — Krasuski, Davenport Center, Led Defense that Was too Much for Opponents, and Was Backed with Schick's Baskets

By Harry H. Page

Davenport clinched the tournament championship of the University of Iowa high school basketball tournament for the second consecutive year in the final game at the men's gymnasium last night by defeating Anamosa by a score of 28 to 21 in one of the most exciting games of the season in Iowa City.

The score at the end of the first period was a 13 to 13 tie after Davenport had run up a seven point lead early in the game. Van Deusen, star long range basket shooter of the tournament, started scoring late in the period and brought the score from 8 to 1 to the 13 to 13 tie at the end of the period, by scoring 11 of Anamosa's 13 points.

Krasuski Center of Defense Centered around the giant Krasuski all-tournament choice for center, Davenport's defense forced Anamosa to resort to long shots, while Davenport was able to invade Anamosa's territory for many shots, although Schick made the longest shot of the evening from deep in Anamosa territory.

Van Deusen scored almost at will in the last five minutes of the first period but Coach Stokes of Davenport substituted Goodell early in the second period, and although Goodell is unusually small he was able to hold Van Deusen to one basket. Schick's two baskets in the last two minutes of play clinched the game for Davenport.

Van Deusen Anamosa Star Davenport took the lead early in the game and ran the score up to 8 to 1, retaining the lead until a basket and a foul by Van Deusen brought it to 12 to 11 for Anamosa, who then lead up to the last minute of the period. Anamosa lead by a single point twice, early in the second period.

Van Deusen of Anamosa starred for the runners up, making 17 of Anamosa's 21 points, which made him high scorer of the game. Krasuski and Schick each scored five baskets, and Krasuski played a wonderful defensive game. Krasuski deserves much credit for Davenport's winning of the championship. Their entire system was centered about him and he played a game which showed good headwork besides sharing heavily in defense and offense.

The crowd was not so large as last year's final game drew, but more enthusiasm was shown as both teams were well represented by fans. Both teams brought their cheer leaders along.

Champion's Cup to Davenport Presentation of individual loving cups to the all tournament team, Schick of Davenport and McGuire of Iowa City, forwards; Krasuski of Davenport center; and Van Deusen of Anamosa and Stetson of Davenport, guards, was made at a banquet given to the Davenport, Anamosa, Grinnell and Nevada teams by A. F. I. senior men's honorary organization, at the Jefferson hotel just after the game last night. All tournament selections were made by Mr. Frank E. Birch of Earlham, Mr. H. G. Hedges of Dartmouth, and Mr. James N. Ashmore of Illinois.

The tournament championship cup was again presented to Davenport.

WOOD

Apparently certain indications that Gen. Leonard Wood will be the next provost of the University of Pennsylvania give the casual observer of men and affairs an opportunity for a sympathetic moment with Carlyle and a pleasing draught for his innate thirst for hero worship.

The Scotch essayist held that a great man is great because he has in him the qualities of greatness and that these will out, whether his way of living falls into writing poems or war making. Here was Leonard Wood, a shy, sensitive youth with a liking for languages and a dislike for mathematics working his way through the Harvard medical school—not the sort of a figure that one would select as a prospective general of international recognition.

He worked his way through the medical school, and failing to find a very prosperous practice in Boston, took and passed an examination for an army surgeons'hip. He was with General Crook fighting Apache Indians in Arizona; he was in Washington as a medical attendant; he was in Cuba as a colonel and a brigadier general in the war with Spain, and later governor-general of the island; he was in the Philippines as civil-governor of the Moro province, and commanding general of the Philippine division; he was in the United States again as chief of staff of the army; in Argentina as a special ambassador; in the States in charge of the training of 80,000 men; in France on an investigation tour; in the recent political campaign was a candidate for nomination to the presidency; and is now in the Philippines on a special mission of investigation.

There seems to be a sort of fatalism in a story like this. One reflects that it might have come about in the same way if he had studied for law or the ministry. But the moral of the story does not seem to discountenance specialization, rather to insist that one sees to it that that specialization is in line with the development of one's highest individual capabilities.

THE LISTENING POST

"Do not sit in this window during classes," reads a request in one of the (s)parking places of sentimental youth in the liberal arts building. That is like asking the tea hounds to do without tea.

The nation will soon forget Clara Smith Hamon. The lady can't expect to have her freedom and her publicity too.

Reading of novels is frowned upon by the library administration. It gives a student just forty-eight hours to read the best sellers on its reserve shelves.

Says a headline: Wilson hunts files in White House cellar. An imported case, no doubt.

"The Passing Show" was like "The Law Jubilee" in a good many respects. It pulled a lot of old wheezes too.

One nice thing about the students health department is that it leaves no year-old magazines around its reception room.

Would This Stuff Have Made Frivolous, Mr. Bassett?

He—(After getting date over telephone) "Do the street cars run past your door?"

She—(Unsuspectingly)—"Yes, but why do you ask?"

HE—"Oh, I just haven't a desire to become acquainted with any taxicab drivers."

More Of It

"What is your name my pretty maid?"

"Mary Jane," she sweetly said.

"I mean what did it used to be?"

Disappointed students in the recent one-act play contest might try their luck in the short story competition. "The Manuscript That Came Back," for instance.

The reason a prominent co-ed is "playing around" so much this year, she admits, is because she isn't coming back next year. The professors may read this and weep.

CANOE CAPSIZES ON RIVER

Cran Brothers Escape Drowning by Aid from Colby

As a result of a canoe's tipping in a strong wind yesterday morning at a point just below the park bridge, Calvin Cran A1 of Humboldt is confined in his bed following a fifteen minute's struggle in the Iowa river.

His brother, Albert L. Cran A1 was with him in the canoe. Calvin Cran could not swim, and his brother could swim only a little.

Both were attempting to keep hold on the overturned canoe when they were reached by Fred W. Colby A2 of Des Moines in another canoe. He pulled Calvin Cran into his canoe, and towed the brother and the capsized canoe to the bank.

Dr. Charles R. Thomas of the department of student health was called in and revived Cran who sustained some shock, but Doctor Thomas said it will result him no serious illness. Albert Cran recovered from the effect of the cold water with no apparent injury.

an opportune selling of women's Black and Tan Strap Slippers

The ultra-fashionable low heel strap pump may be had in Black Satin, Black Suede and Gray Suede.

A favorite because of its exclusive Bailey Style. May be had in gray suede or Black satin.

OPPORTUNE, indeed is this selling of strap slippers which are now especially desired. With the approach of Easter, such shoes as these are particularly welcome.

Two styles are sketched; note the graceful lines and the well shaped heels in both the high and Baby French styles

These slippers are custom made—a point which insures trimness and conformity to the foot. It is not often that one has opportunity to choose slippers of such excellent quality. Choice may be made from black and gray, both in high and low heels.
