TICKET SALE STARTS TODAY

Irving-Ero Play Tickets Will Be Exempted from War Tax by Commissioner

The ticket sale for "The Prospector," the play to be presented by Irving-Erodelphian literary societies Thursday, April 7, promises to exceed that of any other campus organization, according to Harold D. Keeley, LI of Maquoketa, manager of the play.

The general ticket sale begins today and will continue until every seat in the theater is sold. Tickets may be bought from the members of either organization but a few tickets will be placed on sale at Whetstone's for the benefit of those who are unable to obtain them elsewhere.

Exemption of tickets from war tax has been granted by the internal revenue officer at Dubuque, since the literary societies have been recognized as educational institutions, and it on this basis that the exemption is granted. The price of the tickets will be $1.50 for the best seats, including the main floor center, the first three rows of the balcony and the box seats. The rest of the seats will be $1.00. Tickets will be reserved Wednesday, April 6, at 9 o'clock and, according to M. Keeley there will be no complimentary tickets because of the increased cost of production.

Negotiations for one complete new set of scenery and the remodeling of another set were completed last weekend with the Twin City Scenic Company of Minneapolis. The scenery will arrive in the city Saturday and will be ready for the dress rehearsals next week.

From now until April 7 there will be rehearsals of the entire play every night.

ANDERSON GIVES FOUR CAUSES FOR AMERICAN REBELLION IN LECTURE

Charles McLean Andrews, Farnam professor of American history at Yale University, and noted American historian spoke in the natural science auditorium Tuesday evening on the subject of "The Causes of the American Revolution."

In his speech Professor Andrews gave four main causes of the American Revolution, namely; propoganda, hero worship, partisanship, and the unwillingness of Americans to study the heroes of their country. In contrasting England's viewpoint with that of America upon the Revolution, he stated that England, at that time an old established nation engaged in a struggle with another country, looked upon the American revolution as a minor affair, whereas the American colonies which were young and struggling to gain recognition regarded the revolution as being of prime importance.

Professor Andrews has traveled extensively in Europe and did research work in England for a number of years. He is a corresponding member of the Royal Historical Society, and a Fellow in the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Some of the best known works of Professor Andrews are, "The River Towns of Connecticut", "The Old English Manor", "The Historical Development of Modern Europe", "Contemporary Europe, Asia, and Africa", "The Colonial Period of American History" and "A Short History of England". He is also the author of numerous articles in reviews and historical journals.

CLASS PLAY IS CHOSEN

High School Seniors Will Give Denny's "All of A Sudden"

The senior class of the University high school has chosen "All of A Sudden" by Ernest Denny for the senior play. It will be given two evenings, probably Wednesday and Thursday, April 27 and 28 in the little theatre. The play is being directed by Miss Romola Latchem, English instructor in the high school.

The cast is as follows: Lord Crackenthorpe, Russell Hunter of Iowa City; Major Archie Phipps, Charles Chapel of Manchester; Jimmie Keppel, Glenn Tapscott of Lamoni; Jack Menzies, John Johns of Oakdale; Lucas, Ralph Wescott of Iowa City; Lady Crackenthorpe, Millie Thuenen of Davenport; Millie Keppel, Ruth West of Iowa City; Mrs. Colquhoun, May Dolies of Washington; Mrs. O'Mara, Edith Crone of Iowa City; and Peggy O'Mara, Dorothy Scarborough of Oakdale.

DEADLINE IS SET TO-DAY FOR SENIOR INVITATIONS

To-day is the last day on which orders will be accepted for senior commencement invitations. The committee in charge has announced that if all orders are not in by this evening the tardy ones will be unable to fill them. It requires eight weeks for the engravers to turn out the invitations and only ten weeks of the semester are left.

Sample copies are on display at the University Book Store where orders are being taken. Owing to the cost of invitations no extras will be ordered.

MERRIAM WILL SPEAK MONDAY

President of Carnegie Institute Is Next University Lecturer

The next University lecture will be given by Prof. John C. Merriam, a noted paleontologist and educator, and president of the Carnegie Institute of Washington, D. C., Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the natural science auditorium. Professor Merriam will speak on the subject of "The Antiquity of Man in California". According to Dean Kay, there is no one in America who is better qualified to speak on this subject than Professor Merriam.

Professor Merriam was born in Iowa and acquired much of his early education in Iowa educational institutions. For many years he has been recognized among the leading geologists of America. He is best known for his researches on fossils discovered in a deposit of bituminous material in California.

Two years ago, Professor Merriam was president of the Geology Society of America. He was elected Dean of faculties of the University of California. Later he was elected to the chairmanship of the National Research Council of Washington, D. C., and within the last year he was given the presidency of the Carnegie Institute of Washington, D. C.

He is a member of the National Academy of Science, the American Philosophical Society, The Washington Academy of Sciences, and the California Academy of Sciences. Professor Merriam resides in Berkeley, California.

AUTHOR OF ESSAY WILL BE AWARDED A TRIP TO ITALY

The Italy America Society, New York City, offers a trip to Italy during the summer vacation of 1921 as a prize for the best essay submitted by an undergraduate student of an American college or University on the subject "Italy's Contributions to Modern Culture." The contest will close April 15 at noon. The essay must not be less than 3000 words nor more than 10,000.

Any student may take the trip at the price of $600, which includes all except personal expenses. The party will sail from New York June 29, and during the two month's trip will visit Gibraltar, Naples, Ravenna, Venice, Lido, the Dolomites, Milan, Turin, leaving by special train to Paris. After two days spent in Paris it will sail from Harve to New York arriving there August 22.

Extensions will be offered for those who wish to visit the battlefields, Switzerland, Belgium, England, or Scotland. There will be classes in the Italian language and a course of lectures on Italian history, art, and culture on shipboard.

The price of the trip is comparatively small because at this time the value of Italian money is low, according to Prof. Stephen H. Bush, head of the department of Romance languages who is also taking a party abroad this summer.

A student of Iowa will not have a chance at the winning of the prize essay, in Professor Bush's opinion, because the time is so limited and because many students of eastern colleges who have visited Italy and made a study of her past and present will compete for the prize.

PHILOSOPHY PROFESSORS ATTEND CHICAGO MEETING

Prof. Edwin D. Starbuck and Prof. G. T. W. Patrick attended the convention of the western division of the American Philosophical association which was held at the University of Chicago March 25 and 26.

The part of Antoinette is to be taken by Katherine Miles A2 of Clarion and that of Raoul by John E. Hayden Au of Dubuque.

The second is a dialogue, "Les Martins au Restaurant". The parts are taken by; Le pere, Lela C. Trager A3 of Allison; La mere, Ruth A. Balluff A1 of Iowa City; Charlot, Kathleen Hagler A2 of Des Moines and Le garson, Helen A. Berry A2 of Stockport.

The third is a sketch "Les Deux Sours" by Jules Moineaux. Mildred Belvel A3 of Lineville and Madge I. McCord A2 of Minneapolis will take the parts of Eglantine and Placide, and Marquis W. Childs A3 of Clinton and Henry E. Wageck A1 of Council Bluffs those of Boniface and Damoiseau.

BASEBALL SCHEDULE FOR COMING SEASON IS NOW COMPLETED

The baseball schedule for the coming season is practically complete, three more games being added this week. Two practice games for next week have been arranged with the Rock Island 3-I league on April 7 and 8 on Iowa field.

The schedule will be as follows: April 7-8 Rick Island here, 11-15 Moline here, 18-19-23 Cedar Rapids here, April 21 Northwestern there, April 25 Upper Iowa here, April 29 Purdue there, 30 Illinois there; May 4 Cornell here, 6 Notre Dame here, 13 Michigan Aggies there, 14 Michigan there, 16 Illinois here, 20-21 Indiana here, 23 Michigan here, 28 Northwestern here; June 3 Chicago there.

Lane was registered as a sophomore in the college of liberal arts this year, but left the University at the end of the first semester.

HAWKEYE TRACK MEN FACE BUSY OUTDOOR SEASON

Iowa Team Will Clash With Three Conference Squads In Spring Meets

OTHER EVENTS ON SCHEDULE

Old Gold Performers Carded Against Northwestern, Minnesota, and Chicago; Will Also Enter Drake Relays, state meet and the Big Ten Carnival

By M. F. Carpenter

Iowa enters on the outdoor track season with three dual meets against conference teams ahead of it. In addition Iowa will have men entered in at least three open meets, the Drake relay games, the state meet, and the Conference meet. A dual meet with one of the smaller colleges of the state is also probable in the earlier part of the season.

The Conference dual meets are with Northwestern, Chicago, and Minnesota. This is the first time that Iowa and Chicago have met in a varsity dual meet, though in 1909, a freshman meet was held at Iowa City between the two. Northwestern and Minnesota have met Iowa repeatedly in past years.

Iowa's Prospects Are Good

Last year, Iowa won from Minnesota in an exciting contest on the day of the interscholastic at Iowa City, the score being 73 1-2 to 60 1-2. Iowa's superiority in the field events was the decisive factor. Three weeks later at Evanston, Iowa concluded its dual meets of the year by winning from Northwestern 112 to 23. In this meet, Iowa took all of the points in six of the fifteen events.

The results of these two meets give a fair idea of what may ordinarily be expected in dual meets between Iowa and Minnesota or Northwestern. Minnesota teams that are generally about as strong as Iowa, while Northwestern is generally weaker. The reports from the two teams indicate that Minnesota is rather weaker than ordinary this spring and that Northwestern is stronger. There is, however, nothing to indicate that Minnesota will not be able to put up a strong fight, or that Northwestern will seriously threaten Iowa's success.

Gophers Have Good Record

Northwestern has engaged in two dual meets during the indoor season. The first was lost to Wisconsin by a score of 61 to 25; the second to Purdue by 55 1-2 to 30 1-2. In neither of the two meets did the Northwestern men make any unusual records though Townley did consistent work in the shot. In the Illinois relays and the indoor Conference, Northwestern made no showing.

Minnesota engaged in a dual meet with Shattuck academy winning easily by a score of 72 1-3 to 31 2-3. Shattuck won but two events, the 220 yard dash and the 880 yard run. Anderson of Minnesota won three events and tied for first in a fourth. The same man took second in the 75 yard high hurdles at the Illinois relay games, but was sick at the time of the indoor Conference and failed to place in that meet. Minnesota scored a few points more than Iowa. Sweitzer won the mile and Gaumitz took fourth in the two-mile. Captain Kelly who took second in the fifty at last year's indoor Conference and second in the hundred at the outdoor Conference was operated on early in the season for appendicitis and has not yet been able to run.

Chicago Weak on Track

Chicago is supposed to be weak on the track this spring. Indoors it lost to Purdue by a score of 47 to 39, to Michigan by a score of 63 to 31, and

JOHN BURROUGHS

"I believe if you offered John Burroughs a million dollars in one hand and the sight of a new bird in another he would have chosen the sight of the new bird."

Thus Henry Ford characterizes in a simple manner John Burroughs, the "grand old man of nature", who died suddenly Tuesday afternoon while a train was speeding him towards his home in the Catskill mountains.

Love of nature more than a virtue with Burroughs; it was his life. That was the reason the sight of a new bird meant more to him than money.

Burroughs was not merely a lover of nature, as the average man takes an occasional tramp in the woods, likes to be caled. He made his home literally, with nature.

His daily communion with the out-of-doors made him intimate with the birds, bees, flowers and trees. It initiated him into their family circles.

Thomas Edison, the inventor, when told of his friend's passing, remarked, "To me he has always appeared to be one of the highest types yet evolved in the advance of man to a higher stage."

Burroughs forever sought the relation of nature and man. In this he did not seek to keep his discoveries from the world for in his busy lifetime he published many books on nature.

At the time of his death he was working on two more volumes concerning nature.

Burroughs has given the world his secrets, many of which are greater than the monuments which will likely be erected in his memory.

He sought the intermost details of the lives of the things he loved and he takes none of them to his grave. He gave his life to nature and nature will give it back to us.

OVER THE TEA CUPS

No doubt the "Intimate Diary of Margot Asquith," is a little top-heavy with egotism; a number of reminiscences of this very personal nature are. But these persons who make a more or less literary parade of their intimate past usually have something to reminisce about.

In her diary Lady Asquith has this to say about the conversation of the little group of persons with whom she was associated in the eighties:

We had a depth of feeling and moral and religious ambition that I miss in the clever young men and women of today.

The modern habit of pursuing, detecting, and exposing what was ridiculous in simple people, and the unkind and irreverent manner in which slips were made material for epigram was unbearable to me.

This sounds like another of those idealized comparisons with "the good old days." It is irritating to be constantly reminded of modern retrogression, but it might be profitable to hear if we are losing something or other of value.

Lady Asquith may be wrong. Sound standards of social intercourse, and truly clever conversation may be better now than in the eighties. But if they are not, and if they are worth keeping, we may bend a little concern in that direction.

RIGHT BY FILE!

Every spring students are accustomed to seeing stakes driven into the ground and wires strung along them to prevent careless persons from cutting across the campus and wearing down the grass. This year more stakes and more wire than usual have been used because it has been necessary to re-seed parts of the campus.

During the winter when there is snow and ice on the ground it is not so obvious that the cutting-across is making a campus which is unpleasant to look upon, but now with these gentle reminders it would seem that students would take it to heart and keep on the walks even if wires are not strung up along all of the walks around the campus.

Often it is pure carelessness which causes a student to stray off the sidewalks, but at other times it is carelessness on the part of those using the walks.

Between classes, when students are hurrying from one building to another, it often happens that one's progress is suddenly checked by several persons who seem to think it necessary to walk four and five abreast and when they pass by, one is forced to step into the muddy path at the side of the walk.

Our sidewalks are wide enough and numerous enough to accommodate the needs of the students if they are used properly.

The by-paths which have been worn down along either side of our campus walks are unsightly, and students who insist on walking four and five abreast are indirectly guilty of causing them.

Pedestrians should not be "road-hogs" any more than should a motorist.

PROF. KUEVER TO LECTURE ON DRUG PLANTS FRIDAY

Prof. Rudolph A. Guever of the college of pharmacy will lecture on the "Geography of Drug Plants" Friday evening in the physics lecture room at 7:30 o'clock.

The lecture will be illustrated by over 100 lantern slides showing the plants in their native habitats together with their cultivation and methods of transforming the crude materials into commercial products.

Among the drugs described will be opium, cinchona, the source of quinine, camphor, atropine, and aloes. Many of the pictures were taken in foreign countries and a large number of the drugs are tropical.

The lecture, which is to be given under the auspices of the Baconian club, is open to the public.

to Ohio by a score of 54 1-2 to 40 1-2. These scores were nearly as discouraging as those by which Northwestern was defeated. In all of the meets performed well. Chicago took third in the mile relay at the Illinois games and at the indoor Conference. In past years Chicago's teams have had several brilliant performers on them but have lacked men to take the seconds and thirds which often decide dual meets. At present, Chicago seems rather more worse off than usual in this regard.

Ames Has Indoor Meet

As far as state track athletics are concerned, but one indoor meet has been held. That was at Ames between Ames, Drake, and Grinnell. In this Ames won by an overwhelming margin. This was partly due at least to the greater facilities for indoor training at the State Agricultural College. It is probable, however, that Ames has better material around which to build a strong track team than any other college in the state.

Two athletes from Iowa colleges took places in the special events at the Illinois relay games. Paul of Grinnell won the 300 yard dash, and Paige of Ames tied for first in the high jump and took third in the broad jump. Ames took first in the medley university relay and third in the two-mile university relay. Cornell won the two mile college relay. All of this indicates that Iowa has its work cut out to repeat its victory of last spring at Des Moines.
