IOWA CITY, IOWA, TUESDAY, APRIL 24, 1921

NUMBER 163

BROWN, VESPER SPEAKER, IS AN IOWA ALUMNUS

Dean Charles R. Brown is Iowa's Most Famous Graduate, Now in Religion

PROMINENT IN FORENSICS

Now Dean of the Yale School of Religion — Member of Class of 1893 and Sigma Chi Fraternity — Has Been Connected with Prominent Educational Institutions

"The Day of Rebuilding" is the subject of the address by Dean Charles R. Brown of the Yale school of Religion at the Vesper service next Sunday.

Dean Brown is a former Iowa man and is recognized to be the most famous graduate of the University engaged in religious work. He is also one of the best speakers of the clergymen of the Congregational church. He is well known in Iowa City, having given several addresses here within the past few years.

Although Dean Brown is not a native of Iowa, he spent the greater part of his life in the state. His childhood days were spent at Washington where he attended the public schools, and where upon his graduation he entered the University. While attending the University, Dean Brown was prominent in forensic work and was a member of the band, according to Mrs. Carl E. Seashore, who was a University student at that time. He was graduated from the University in the class of 1888. He is a member (Continued on page 3)

A. F. I. TO ELECT MEMBERS TODAY

Honorary Senior Organization Will Elect Twelve Men From Junior Class

A. F. I., senior honorary society for men, will meet tonight at the Pagoda tea rooms for the annual election. Twelve members of the present junior class will be elected, according to Robert W. Hayes A4 of Iowa City, secretary of the organization.

Only the men with the best all-around qualifications are considered for membership in A. F. I. and the honor is a high one for any man at the University to gain.

The present members from the senior class are:

Clyde B. Charlton of Rolfe, president, Clyde H. Doolittle of Delhi, Robert E. Finlayson of Clinton, Edgar P. Hoffman of Ida Grove, Robert W. Hayes of Iowa City, Robert J. Kaufman of Davenport, Vance I. McIlree of West Union, Floyd E. Page of Ida Grove, Frank Shuttleworth of Sibley, Fred A. Steiner of Corydon, and J. Benjamin Synhorst of Pella.

ILLINOIS OUTPOINTS IOWA IN SEASON'S FIRST RIFLE MATCH

Illinois out-pointed Iowa in the telegraphic rifle match last Saturday and won by a score of 1055 to 997. This was the first competition for the Iowa team, and considering the experience of the Illini aggregation, the score is not one to be scoffed at by any of the followers in either school. With more practice the Iowa rifle team should be able to count up enough points to win in the matches that are to follow. The men are now working for the meet that is to be arranged with the University of Kansas. The date of the match has not yet been set.

The high point man in the Illinois team made a score of 182 point out of a possible 200. Fred Phillips S3 of Altoona, Iowa's high scorer, made 180 points.

The scores of the teams in the match in prone, sitting, standing, and kneeling were:

Illinois:	Pr.	Sit.	St.	Kn.	Total
Evans	41	44	44	44	173
Tilsey	47	45	42	42	176

DUAL DEBATE WITH NEBRASKA WILL BE STAGED THURSDAY

Iowa affirmative debating team will meet Nebraska in the second annual dual debate which will be held at the natural science auditorium Thursday night at 7:35 o'clock. The team is composed of Donald D. Holdoegel A3 of Rockwell City, Glenn F. Cray A2 of Marshalltown, and Carl B. Kreiner A2 of Ottumwa.

The negative team which will clash with the Nebraska affirmative team at Lincoln is composed of Frederick O. Paulson A3 of Clar Lake, Cloyce K. Huston A3 of Crawfordville, and Vernon Sharp A2 of Rolfe.

The question for the debate is, Resolved: That the closed shop should receive the support of public opinion. The Nebraska debaters who will appear here are Fred C. Cambell, Sheldon Teff, and O. A. Drake.

The debate will be judgment. After the debate on open forum discussion will be held in which the audience is asked to take part.

Prof. Benjamin F. Shambaugh head of the department of political science will preside at the debate Thursday night. An admission of thirty-five cents will be charged.

DEADLINE IS SET

Applications for Iowan Editor and Business Manager Due Tonight

The deadline for handing in applications for the positions of editor-in-chief and business manager of the Daily Iowan is tonight at 6 o'clock. Applications must be handed in by the various candidates at the office of Prof. Charles H. Weller, University editor, room 13 liberal arts, by that time.

The positions of editor-in-chief and business manager carry with them a salary of $300 for the school year with possible bonuses which usually bring the salary up to $500 or $600. The Daily Iowan board of trustees, composed of four undergraduates and three faculty members, makes the selection of editor and business manager from the candidates applying.

TRYOUTS WILL CONTINUE

More Men Are Needed For Cast of Senior Play

Tryouts for the senior play, "A Successful Calamity," will continue this afternoon from 1 to 5 o'clock in Irving hall according to Miss Gladys Powers, director of the production. Only a few persons have tried out thus far.

"Every place on the cast is open," said Miss Powers, "and we want more persons to try out, especially men."

Rehearsals will be timed in such a way that no time will be lost for the persons in the cast, according to Fred A. Steiner, A1 of Corydon. Rehearsals will be held in sections so that the entire cast will not be working at the same time, or waiting all evening for just a few minutes of rehearsal.

IOWA CAN LOOK FOR VICTORIES IN DUAL MEETS

Chances Are Good Against All Conference Teams On the Schedule

CHICAGO HARDEST OPPONENT

State Meet Seems at Present to Be A Toss-up Between Teams From Ames and Iowa — The Field Events Source of Strength to Iowa in All Meets This Year as Well as Last

By M. F. Carpenter

The Iowa team has every reason to feel more than satisfied with its work in the Drake relays. Wilson's running in the 100 yard dash and in the final of the half mile relay was a revelation to those who had had no chance to watch his work earlier in the year and even those had seen him in practice. Crawford showed that he is bound to be counted among the possibilities in any race that he may enter, and the running of the half mile relay team indicated that a long step has been taken toward replacing the loss of the sprinters that made last year's team dangerous in the shorter races, if indeed the gap has not been already filled.

The most interesting thing about the relay games, from the point of view of those interested in the success of the Iowa team, was the line that these games gave on the strength of the universities and colleges that Iowa will meet in the state meet and the dual meets. It was possible from Saturday's races to get a very fair notion as to what Northwestern, Chicago, and Minnesota, as well as Ames, Cornell, Grinnell, and the rest, will have in the track events when Iowa tries to get their scalps.

Chicago May Be Better

As far as Northwestern is concerned, and that is the first team that Iowa encounters, the answer seems to be, "Very little." Northwestern may not permit Iowa to pile up over 100 points as was done last spring. But its team will have to have no small amount of strength in the field events to prevent such a tragedy. Poliak barely showed in the dash; he will be helpless against Wilson in the 100 and can hardly hope to do better than a third in the 220. Northwestern showed no strength in its relay teams and had no one in the hurdles. Unless there is some fearful break in luck, the meet on May 7 can be counted as a certain Iowa victory.

It is otherwise with the meet at Chicago a week later. Chicago showed more stuff than was expected. Its team won its section in the half-mile relay, and while none of its four men ran anything like the race that Wilson did, it is evident that there will be a real contest for second and third places in the sprints. In the mile relay, Chicago finished well up to Notre Dame and might have beaten them if its first runner had not made a false start and been penalized three yards. In the four mile relay its team ran poorly but finished several places ahead of Iowa. On the straight track events, Chicago will score more than Iowa. In the hurdles, Iowa is stronger. Chicago entered no man in the special hurdle race and had no strong runner indoors. Iowa also has the edge in the field events and that edge is probably great enough to give them the victory. The meet, however, will be close, especially if Chicago has any more men under cover such as Bickman, whose running in the first 220 gave Chicago its lead in the half mile relay.

The Minnesota meet on May 28 is also likely to be close, though Iowa's chances of victory are distinctly better than even. This meet also depends on the field events. Last year, Minnesota scored but 12 1-2 points in these to Iowa's 50 1-2. In the high jump, broad jump, and shot put, Minnesota failed to place a man. Saturday's meet shows that Minnesota is still superior on the track, though that superiority is far less decisive than was the case last year, when Minnesota took 49 points in the races to Iowa's 23. In the sprints, in which Iowa took but one third place, Iowa now is stronger. In these, ten points will be taken from Minnesota's column and added to Iowa's. Minnesota may gain these back in the middle and long distances, where it clearly is stronger, but the task will be almost impossible. Oss, McNally and Moon are no longer running, and even though Minnesota's mile and four-mile team finished ahead of Iowa Saturday, it will take a great break in luck to pile up the points in four events that would be required to balance Iowa's gains.

Anderson still has the call in the hurdles, as he had last year, but there is no sign of men to take second and third away from Iowa. Minnesota can not go off the track with half the lead that it had last spring. It may not fare as badly on the field as it did a year ago; it is hard to see how it could help but show a little improvement in view of Iowa's losses in all of the field events except the pole vault. But it will be a wonderful reversal of form if Coach Frank can develop enough men to stop Iowa from capturing the meet in the weights and the jump.

Ames Best on Distance

In all of its dual meets, therefore, on the basis of Saturday's showing, Iowa should be the favorite, except possibly against Chicago, and even there the chances are at least even. While any number of things may happen between now and the end of May to change the guess, the present indications point to at least two and probably three victories.

In the state meet, Saturday's races made the chances look like a stand-off. In this meet last spring, Iowa beat Ames on the track as well as on the field, but the score was reasonably close in the races, 35 to 31, while in the jumps and weights it was overwhelming, 26 1-4 to 8. Ames did not win an event off the track. Saturday showed that Iowa has the call in the sprints and hurdles, while Ames is distinctly better in the middle and the long distances. Ames has a set of top-notch half milers and better distance men than any other college in the state. It has a fair group of quarter-milers and a passable hurdler.

Blow-Up Is Possible

Cornell is going to cut into Ames in the quarter and the half and may win the mile relay. Grinnell is going to take some points from Iowa in the sprints. Ames may score in the hurdles but can not count heavily. In the shorter relay, Ames will be running behind Iowa and perhaps behind some other college.

It is possible, however, in spite of all this that Ames will have a slight lead in the track events at the state meet, and that meet will be decided on the field. Here Iowa, in spite of far heavier losses between years than Ames has sustained, looks better than Ames. If it is enough better to balance the rather slender lead that Ames will have on the track, Iowa will win. If it is not, the meet will go to Ames.

Then again, it is more than likely that one team or the other will blow-up as Ames did last year. In that case, the other team will wonder why it ever thought that those fellows had a chance, and students who were prophesying sixty points or so for their team will be saying, "Just as I said." But barring explosions, the meet looks like either team's until the last jump is jumped.

Club to Meet

The Philosophical club will hold its regular meeting at the home of Rev. L. G. Rohrbaugh tonight at 120 N. Clinton street. The program will consist of summary reports of the work carried on in the psychological laboratory by Prof. Glenn N. Merry, head of the public speaking department, M. S. Schoen, and Miss Hazel Stanton of the psychology department.

Signed Circulars, To Be Distributed From the Air Today, Good as Ticket

PRODUCTION IS TONIGHT

Setting of "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" is, London Between 1888-1900 — Dwight A. Davis Has Lead — Scenery Comes From Minneapolis

Karl Fisher S2 of Vinton and Charles B. Gould, of Des Moines will distribute on the campus by aeroplane at 12 o'clock this noon, while the classes are leaving, circulars of "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" which will be given at the Englert theater at 8:15 o'clock this evening by the University Players.

A number of circulars will be signed by Robert L. Block A3 of Davenport, president of the University Players. The signed circulars will be good for a ticket to "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" when presented at the box office.

The drama occurs in a middle class boarding house in London between 1888 and 1900. The characters of the boarding house are quarrelsome and selfish; their lives are horrid and dismal, until the appearance of Stranger, a reincarnation of Christ, the leading role which will be played by Dwight A. Davis A4 of Iowa City.

COACH REVIVES THE HOME MEET

First Since 1916 Will Be Held Saturday and Will Be Open to All

Coach George T. Bresnahan announces that the fourteenth annual home track and field meet in which any man who is a student at the University is eligible to compete, will be held next Saturday, April 30. All of the regular track and field events will be held, and either medals or ribbons will be awarded to the winners of places by the athletic department.

An entry list will be posted in each locker room in the gymnasium on which any man who wishes to compete may enter his name. Points in the meet will probably be scored according to colleges with four places counting in each event. Inter-college relays will probably be run, as a part of the meet.

Howard H. Jones, director of athletics has announced that an admission charge of twenty-five cents will be made which will go to buy medals for next year's meet and for inter-mural track expenses.

Those having charge of the meet wish to make it plain to all students that any man in the University, including freshmen, graduate students, and all I men are eligible to compete in this meet.

The first home meet was held in 1908 and no meet was held in 1909. A meet was held each year from 1910 to 1916 inclusive. Since then, for various reasons, including the war, no home meet has been held. This will be the first home meet since 1916 and Coach Bresnahan hopes to see the student body as a whole get behind it and make the home meet a successful affair.

STILL SHORT

In the matter of senior play tryouts, the gold of tomorrow turned out to be the proverbial glitter, glitter and no more. As a matter of fact it appears that the question of a senior play is meeting but a mean sort of response—not enough have presented themselves as possible material to round out a complete cast.

As usual there are reasons. Other activities crowd the routine of the group of persons who back this sort of undergradate activity. Unfortunately extra-curricular affairs are coming so thick and fast at about this time that something has to be slighted.

It is not a question of whether to have a senior dramatic production—that has all been arranged for. "A Successful Calamity" requires a cast of twelve, and offers a number of parts that may be readily adaptive to amateur acting. The possibilities should prove attractive enough to members of the senior class to insure a successful production.

It must be a vast satisfaction to the citizens of the state of Michigan to know who is their prettiest young woman—all citizens, that is, except the young women.

LIFE IS A GREAT BORE

It seems to be the fashion with some individuals whose reading has been more than they have been able to assimilate to feign a sort of weariness of life, or a sort of amateurish skepticism which would make Arthur Schopenhauer or any other gloom dispenser look like a sunbeam merchant. All that pardons them in the minds of the aged and the truly sophisticated is their seriousness of purpose.

But, fortunately, it is the seriousness of purpose that eventually guides them safely out of illusion into the matter-of-fact world. Until this event, however, they make existence miserable for themselves and unpleasant for these with whom they come in contact. They mope about the campus with an air of absurd morbidity finding no interest in society as it is constituted. And until judgment and discretion overtake them they are actually unhappy and honestly bored with life.

For the enlightenment of these amateur Leopardi's we quote a few lines of common sense from Lord Northcliffe:

I would say that happiness is a sustained state of mind in which the individual is never bored. No one can afford to be bored by any phenomenon of human living. Life is too interesting to turn down any phase of it that comes your way naturally. Being bored by people and things about you is a sign of your inability to take life properly. The fault lies with the bored individual and not with life.

It follows that if one will take a rational interest in life as it comes to him his understanding will broaden and his reaction to the affairs of everyday life will surely not be dullness or boredom. Boredom in youth is usually a manifestation of narrow-mindedness and limitation; and when our campus pessimists learn that the wise look at them and murmur, "a little knowledge is a dangerous thing," then an epidemic of levity will be upon us.

THE BAND CONCERT

(Contributed)

The University Band, under the able leadership of Dr. O. E. Van Doren, gave the second and last of its splendid indoor concerts to an enthusiastic audience which comfortably filled the Natural Science Auditorium on Sunday afternoon. Promptly at 4 o'clock the program opened with Arthur Pryor's march, "Heart of America," which naturally enough has much of the same swing which characterizes Sousa's marches.

The heaviest number, perhaps, was the first movement of Beethoven's "Fifth Symphony" in an original arrangement for band made by Doctor Van Doren. The band responded with marked accuracy to Dr. Van Doren's baton, the result being both pleasing and effectively musical.

"The Courts of Granada" gave the band a fine opportunity to show its ability to handle the nice variations of its different parts. In the first part, the March to the Tournament, one could look into the distance and almost see the marching hordes behind the drums and trumpets.

There was a liberal sprinkling of popular numbers played as encores. The hit among several excellent selections was the rendition of the Rosary on the Marimba by Royce Forshay. The audience was reluctant to allow him to stop with a single encore. In "Lullaby Time" a new feature was introduced when during the last measures a quartet of muted cornets gave one the impression that a distant pipe organ had joined in with the band.

The final selection, the "Mansiello" overture, was perhaps the best played of the program if one cares to indulge in comparisons in a program which was so well balanced and so well executed as was this one.

The Band will continue its entertainment of the members and friends of the university with a series of outdoor campus concerts the first of which will be given about the third week of May. It is probably that no other university can boast of a better band than Iowa and few as good. Doctor Van Doren has produced a musical organization of which every Iowan can feel justly proud. His band is one of the most potent factors in University and city life and deserves all the support an appreciative public can give it.

SHAMBAUGH TO PRESIDE

Intercollegiate Debate Judges to Come from Other Universities

Prof. Benjamin F. Shambaugh head of the department of political science will preside at the Indiana-Iowa women's inter-collegiate debate to be held in the natural science auditorium on May 12 at 7:30 o'clock.

The question for debate is Resolved: That Independence should be granted the Philippines within one year. The negative side of the question will be upheld by the following Iowa women: Marion H. Smith A3 of Independence, Ella F. Schmock A4 of Lamont, and Mildred C. Freburg A3 of Corning.

Indiana will have the affirmative side of the question. Members of their team are: Beulah Radcliffe '23, Ruth Stephens '23, and Mildred Ricks '24.

Three judges for the debate will be selected by Prof. Edward C. Mabie.

HIGH SCHOOLS SLOW IN ENTERING THE ANNUAL TRACK MEET

Entries for the thirteenth annual interscholastic track meet, which will be held on Iowa field in conjunction with the Northwestern-Iowa dual meet May 7th, are not coming in to the athletic office very fast, according to Leon H. Brigham, assistant athletic director. Invitations were sent out to over six hundred high schools throughout the state. The entry list will not close until Saturday, April 30, leaving four more open days.

It is known that a number of high schools have intentions of entering the meet and the athletic department expects to receive the greater share of the entries about Friday. Cedar Rapids, winner of the meet last year have not yet announced whether or not they will attempt to carry away the cup for another year.
