UNION TO HAVE OFFICE IN L. A.

Desk Will Be Placed in L. A. Hall for Convenience Of Committeemen

For the convenience of the committeemen and chairmen of the Union survey in the college of liberal arts, the Union will establish a desk at the north end of the liberal arts hall according to announcement made from the Iowa Memorial Union office, Saturday morning.

Because Saturday, May 14, is the date set for all of the committeemen to get in their final reports, every effort will be made to help the committeemen with their work. "Every student is fully acquainted with the Union and its purpose and the interest for the Union is very satisfactory," said Director R. G. Grassfield, in discussing this latest move.

"Some of the committeemen are having trouble to find those they are keep after their list until they get a went on to say. With the "office" of the Union moved over to the liberal history. arts building this week, the committeemen can make daily reports and any irregularity can be given immed-

The liberal arts survey, thus far, shows that about 80 per cent of those approached are making at least life points out that there are 2660 students and members of the faculty yet to be seen, and that if the present percentage is maintained 2128 of these will pledge a life membership, making a total pledge for the liberal arts college of $110,000.00." If the college of liberal arts pledges this amount, the sum obtained together with the amount pledged by the professional colleges will assure the Union and nonstrate to the people of the state and to the alumni and former stus that the students and faculty are very much in earnest over the Iowa Memorial Union," said Mr. Grassfield.

"Reports are coming in that some students are getting impatient to make their pledges but that their committeemen have not seen them," says Mr. Bowie, who then requests that next week, every student ready to pledge do so at the desk in the liberal arts hall. His respective committeeman will be given due credit on the

It is hoped that the work of completing the survey in the college of iberal arts this week will be completed by Saturday night. Every commiteeman has his cards and, as Mr. Grassfield explains, every student and every faculty member knows by this time whether or not he is ready to elp make the Iowa Memorial Union n actual institution to be constructed during the next two or three years.

NIGHT EDITOR J. J. Wengert

TODAY

It can never all be realized, never all appreciated-all of the hopes and fears, sleepless nights, work-filled days, the drudgery, the joy, the sacrifice, the pain, the hours of watching by the bed of a sick child, the moments of triumph in his health and happiness, and all of the panorama of sordid and pleasant memory that is recalled by the phrase, "when the children were small,"-all that and all the years after cannot be appreciated. They can be feebly commemorated. This is Mother's Day.

CRANBERRY MERCHANTS

How to get them out! Now and then in these languid spring days something goes with a great noise and a deal of enthusiasm. Iowawa did. But in the main presidents and secretaries and chairmen of committees are wrinkling their brows over how to get them out; how to properly blow upon the smouldering spark of enthusiasm; how to jolt them out of the apparent epidemic of apathy.

Perhaps they are not so bad, though the apathy is exasperating. But class themselves good and bad; they things come all at once, and, after late winter weather, the campus woke to the fact that June hovers dangerously near, and some things, a lot of thing indefinable, something beyond things, had to be neglected. It is encouraging to think that perhaps a student council may take things in hand and so regulate campus activities that Tributes to Mother are futile-like they will not come all in a pell-mell toasting the Sun. Her love is all conrush, and occasion the chronic ob- suming, ever-sacrificing, ever-giving jection of, "Only a handful there."

ETHICS BETWEEN COLUMN RULES

That the standards of newspapers whether in the news or editorial columns, must be raised, is a matter which all clear thinking members of the profession recognize today. To that end the recent action of the Canadian Authors Association will lead. In a resolution taken at the first meeting of this body it was maintained that "the record of human thought," as expressed in the newspaper, "was of just as much value to Canadian progress as the present extensive records of crime, political squabbles, baseball scores, and so

They desire a raising of the whole moral tone of the press. In order to aid in the accomplishment of this they proposed a delegation to get in touch with the proprietors of all Canadian newspapers for the purpose of placing the matter before them.

Surely to those weary readers of the many daily periodicals which flood the country this action will seem most salutary. What we hope the average citizen desires is news printed for his edification, his enjoyment, and not mere sensational trash published for the further cloying of his too much jazzed appetite.

To the furtherance of this end the fact that many college educated and trained men have chosen the journalistic profession should contribute largely. What is needed on the reportorial staff is a class of men of vision and courage. These qualities should in all cases be substituted for prejudice and an indolent acceptance of conditions.

In addition, those who recognize the possibilities of intelligent journalism should consistently, in and out of sesson, register judicious and pertinent

MOTHERS OF MEN

There are holidays and holidays. From time immemorial peoples have with the passing years set aside and honored certain days, commemorable and dear in their history in an effort to keep alive fires and ideals that make life and civilization worth while. Egypt worshiped at the pyramids of her fallen Pharohs; the people of Palestine risked life and property to keep the Passover; at the feet of Roman generals, gathered the citizens of the western Empire to receive blessings and bounty; on the heights of Olympus, Greece gave vent to her spirit of art and beauty; France has her Bastille; England, Victoria's birthday and as for us, we commemorate liberty on the Fourth, our fal-'en heroes in May and the canceled debt to France on November 11. -Mileposts of civilization it is true, but all garlands on monuments of war or its aftermath.

There is, however, one holidaylet's not call it a holiday-better day of reverence—that brings to mind not thoughts of war and slain heroes, not troubles and pain, but love - the most wonderful thing God ever created-Mother Love. In the heart of the Springtime when, if ever, the world ought to be at peace, they have set aside a Sunday to pause and remember, Youth-Boyhood and, most of all,

As college students there is often a tendency in the whirl of study, social life and thoughts of the future, to forget home and the things it should represent. Mother; Home; what would home be without Mother? What do they mean? In your mind and my mind, virtually, the same thing. It may be a little cottage upstate, in some obscure village with a tired, sweetfaced little woman in the door or it may be a mansion on the avenue, but always the same to us and whybecause in the heart of it is Mother.

Men say they have no religion; they climb to the top or sink into oblivion; but always, no matter how or when, there burns within their bosoms somecomprehension, something that can bring them back and make them listen when nothing else will-Mother Love by human definition.

Mother never forgets. Pitying the bad in us, honoring the good in us, and loving the whole of us, she knows us as few persons ever can. Today is Mother's day and let's make it her day. Wear a carnation to remind you -go to church because she want's you to go, write her a letter to confirm you, and be glad that you can reiterate with Rudyard Kipling, that, "If I were hanged on the highest

Mother o' mine, Mother o' mine, know whose love would follow me still

Mother o' mine, Mother o' mine, "If I were drowned in the deepest

Mother o' mine, Mother o' mine, I know whose tears would come down to me,

Mother o' mine, Mother o' mine, "If I were damned of body and

Mother o' mine, Mother o' mine, I know whose prayers would make me whole,

Mother o' mine, Mother o' mine." J. V. L.

There's a perfectly good straw hat at your house. It's just your size and in good style.

Bring it in,-let us clean it; perhaps put on a new band.

When folks start wearing straws, yours will be ready-just as good as the day you bought it.
