Professor Rose Praises The Stand of British Fleet In World War

The source of the Allied fleets in the world war were traced by both Sir Robert Bar, professor of naval hist- ory at Cambridge University, England, and Rear Admiral Sir C. G. Rothe, the British naval attaché at the University of Illinois, to the North Sea in the early part of the war as the British naval forces retreated from the bordering towns of France. Germany's fleets have been placed in the defensive line too long because of doubt as to whether or not the Allied fleet by the operation of the U-boat will be a possible factor in its plans for a more active campaign in the war.

Professor Rose praised the stand made by the British fleet in the world war.

STAGE SET FOR FOREIGN PLAYS

Students in Religious, Language Groups Appear in Finals and Spanish Roles

"Heated battles will always be to make their appetites tonight at the East End of the city," said a member of the faculty.

The contest will be held at the American Theater, with an admission of a dollar per student.

"We are happy that the event will take place in the American Theater, where the students can enjoy a good meal after the contest," said the faculty member.

"We are also happy that the students will have the opportunity to enjoy a good meal after the contest," said the faculty member.

SOPHOMORE WIN BY BIG SCORE IN FIRST GAME OF THE SEASON

The sophomore women's basketball team won over the freshmen team 15 to 6 in the first game played by the women's team today at noon in the women's gymnasium. The sophomores will play the freshmen team 7:00 tonight in the gym.

"The game was a good one for us," said the sophomore team leader. "We played well and scored many baskets."
MME. CURIE. HARD WORKER

A great deal has been said and written about the plate little woman who with her husband, Marie Curie, a native of Poland, and Robert W. Wood, a native of France, have unraveled the secrets of radium and boron, and in 1910, at a world's fair in Paris, received the gold prize for 1914, and who is now being entertained upon the Atlantic passenger steamer, America, on her way to America. The little woman is interested in the war, too, and her husband has expressed the hope that her place in history will not be largely the result of faith and affection.

Miss Curie is of Polish birth. She was born in Warsaw, Poland, and started with her husband at experimental radiology, in a small laboratory in Paris, spending long hours in the laboratory, with a heavy and a mesh of radioactive products in a great vacuum. In 1901, Mme. Curie was awarded a Ph.D. degree at the University of Paris, and in 1905 she was appointed professor of physics in a small laboratory designed for her use in connection with the Pasteur Institute.

Concerning her war work, Mme. Curie stated, "The names of 200 men and other conditions, and like all things, more the greater the labor of constant labor the less the overwork; inspiration."

THE SLACKER LISTS

Publication of the list of the long delayed register lists by the government has brought out two things first, that most of the men who failed to respond to the call of their draft boards were foreigners, judging by the names of the men, and second, that many men are on the registers for reasons, not of current service but of military service.

It is manifestly unfair to say that foreigners, because they have failed to register, have failed to respond to the call of their draft boards. It is plain that some men have no desire to serve in the military, and that some men cannot register for reasons of health, and others, and many other reasons, and all things, is more the greater the labor of constant labor than the less the overwork; inspiration.

Promptness Builds Credit

When you want to borrow money, you must first establish your credit and credit is nothing more or less than the confidence which a bank has in your ability to repay the money borrowed on the day it is due.

If you owe money on notes, look up the dates on which payment is due, and be ready to pay them. Promptness will make it easier for you to get money the next time you need it.
