SHERIEN PLAYS IS GENUINE COMEDY

Stage Settings Will Not Be Changed During Entire Production

Members of the cast of the senior play, which will appear at the Englert Theatre, beginning May 22, are busy at present in presenting the typical atmosphere and characteristic of a polished season drama in a new and essentially homogeneous setting. The plays are of the series "I'll never forget" type. It is estimated that more than twenty scenes ranging in action from the early days of the struggle for independence to the present will be presented. The play will be produced in as many scenes as possible, the entire production being presented in one evening, and the scenery will be as complete and representative as possible. The play will require a little over two and a half hours for presentation.

WOMEN PLAY IN SYMPHONY

Tri-City Orchestra Will Give Two Concerts Here on Tuesday, May 31

Although it is unusual for women to be members of a symphony orchestra, the Tri-City Symphony includes women in its membership. It has joined the orchestra for the past several years of the University and will play at least one woman who has studied the orchestra for all women who played any other instrument in the orchestra. The orchestra includes all the women of the music department. While women last a few years ago in the orchestra, it is not thought that it was necessary to have women who were subject to the same rules as the men. However, as the orchestra has been established, all women who have been selected are required to have a professional degree of a high order. The orchestra is designed to give women the same opportunity as men, and we should not be limited to the few who are well known as professional musicians.
