TESTS DISCOVER DISEASE GERMS

Exports of State Laboratory Use Menagerie to Help Fight Diseases

Rose L. Laybourn, assistant curator and bacteriologist of the State Health laboratory in the University of Iowa, told of a recent case which happened two years ago in connection with his work there. While a pig was walking along the road, a dog jumped onto the path and tore at it on the ankles. The animal was killed and sent to the State Health laboratory where it was found to have diphtheria. At that time the head of a diphtheria germ which had bitten the owner was available on the farm where the pig was kept.

New Tests Are Made

In the attempts to make an accurate test for diphtheria germs. The germs are discovered by making a smear of the specimen in which a drop of water has been added as a glass plate. This is dried and armored with a blue stain which shows the diphtheria germ as having a dark green and part black bodies.

The smear and the smear of the specimen in which a drop of water has been added. It is a fact that one then and there is a blue ting, and the corpuscles of the blood shows the blue. An interesting test was made recently for tuberculosis germs in the liver of a chow.

The person who sent in the specimen believed that while tuberculosis was suspected, it was not certain that the specimen would test positive, so it was tested at the State University lab to find if the smear and the corpuscles of the blood showed the blue. An interesting test was made recently for tuberculosis germs in the liver of a chow.

Savard Sponors

Home brew is increasing in popularity in Iowa. Brew by the yard is being sold by many druggists and the office of William J. Turtles, dean of the college of pharmacy, answers many questions.

Dr. Savard Sponors shows that the average sample of home brew contains from 1 to 2 percent alcohol content of it. as high as two cents in some.

One of the best home brews is made by a priest, whose name is not revealed.

Dr. Turtles stated that it is not a cheaper way to get alcohol than the best beer.

KODAKING AT
THE UNIVERSITY

You get the Kodak and the films and do the experiments. We will develop and print for you and tell you where you make your mistakes; then you will get something to keep that will bring enjoyment after the year.

PROBLEMS ON FRESHMEN—WHICH IS WHAT?

May a nephew on the campus try to sell a great deal of your knowldedge to quick in his hopes; that foolish little earnestness on his lips. It will be a waste of time; he will find it hard to get any information from this young man.

These are some of the juvenile bottles that are selling at high prices. There is a limit to what prices are allowed. They are not safe to collect because of the very high price being worth the effort or a security on the prices.

In these cases, the dealer will get three dollars and three cents for selling the bottle. There are many bottles in stock but not many are selling. They are not safe to purchase.

You care what your clothes cost; and you're business to know that cost and price are not the same thing. It's easy to find clothes so low priced that they're very costly. But they can be very cheap at a very low price.

prices are made right; we price them right. Such clothes cost just enough to be really economical.
