BEST FLOAT IN BIG PAGEANT TO RECEIVE PRIZE

Iowa City Clubs Offer Many Awards to Stimulate Interest

WILL DECORATE CITY

Historical Parade to Portray Development of the University

Prizes to stimulate the students' interest in Homecoming activities on Oct. 15 are to be given by the several men's clubs of Iowa City. The best decorated fraternity house will receive a prize of $15 from the Kiwanis club; and the sorority house which wears the most attractive regalia will be awarded $15 by the Lions club. The Rotarians are putting up a substantial prize for the best float which appears in the University-Iowa City pageant and the Commercial club is devoting $150 to the decorations of the city at this time.

"This voluntary interest on the part of the business men's organizations," said Prof. Forest E. Ensign, of the department of education, "is likely to find an enthusiastic response among the students of the University."

The parade will consist of four sections. Full plans for the floats in these sections have not been developed yet. The first section, however, will carry a serious note and a purpose both historical and symbolic of the University and its progress. Pledges from the colleges and organizations will be in charge of this. Five floats representing five important episodes and making a tableau of the University's history will be formed by the University Players, the Irving-Erodelphian literary societies, the Hesperian-Zetaganian literary societies, the Octave-Thamet-Philomathean literary societies and the Whitby, Hamlin Garland, and Athena literary societies.

The military department and the Memorial Union organization will symbolize in float form contributions of the University during the Civil, Spanish American and the late World War.

In this section will also appear floats from the colleges in order of their founding as law 1868, Medicine 180, extension division 1880, dentistry 1882, Pharmacy 1885, graduate college 1900, summer session 1900, applied science 1905, education 1913, commerce 1921. These floats will be followed by a representative body of some of the oldest living alumni and members of the board of regents.

Section two of this pageant will be in a lighter vein and will aim to give students a broader view on present day activities. Athletics, hospital work and other University affairs will be characterized. The four major and four minor sports will be the big features of this section.

The city high school, the boy scouts and the campfire girls will aim to represent the University of tomorrow in section three.

All the business firms of the city have been invited to enter floats of their own choosing in section four, and the mayor and the council have been asked to contribute a display.

It is expected that all the business houses will be decorated for this big Homecoming. Plans as yet are but in the embryonic stage, but it is anticipated that the next few days all the committees will have met and started swinging into the work of making Homecoming successful.

Mrs. Bristol, Kenneth Schumacher A3 of Iowa City, Dr. J. C. Parish of the Historical Society, Ralph G. Grassfield of the Iowa Memorial Union, and Major Hill, who is commandant during Col. M. C. Mumma's absence, are in charge of section one of this pageant. Miss Marion R. Lyons, head of the physical training department, Miss Mary I. Bash, Y. W. C. A. field secretary, Prof. J. H. Dunlap of the college of applied science and John J. Dondore A3 of Iowa City are in charge of section two.

Mrs. Will Hart, Miss Nellie Buckner, and Mrs. C. F. Kenney will direct section four.

OLD ATHLETES WILL BE MET BY ANCIENT HAWKEYE TEAMMATES

Athletes returning for Homecoming to Iowa City after graduation, one, two, five, or forty years' ago will not get off the train and find themselves entirely among strangers. A plan fostered by the Homecoming committee is that teammates of all the huskies who competed on Hawkeye teams will be at the station to meet the incoming grads and escort them to places where nourishment, merriment, and a couch may be had.

Mark Hyland of Tama, captain of Iowa's 1910 football team, has been put in charge of the committee to put the plan into effect. Hyland will organize what will be termed the "I Welcome" committee, composed of from fifty to seventy-five old "I" men of the last five decades, now residing in various cities over the state, but who will all arrive here a day or so before the big game October 15 to prepare for the reception of their old buddies on former Iowa quintets, nines, and elevens.

"The generic purpose of the 'I Welcome' committee," declared R. A. Kuever, secretary of the athletic board, "is to welcome all alumni. The specific purpose is to welcome athletes." A headquarters tent will be pitched opposite Whetstone's corner for the registration of the old huskies.

SENIOR WOMEN ARE INITIATED

Staff and Circle Takes in Twelve Members Last Night

New members of Staff and Circle, who were elected by the junior women last spring, became full-fledged members of the organization at an initiation administered last night in the liberal arts drawing room by past members of the honorary society. A supper was served at 6 o'clock to the old and new members, followed by the services of initiation.

The initiates into Staff and Circle are Maude Adams of Des Moines, Lue Prentiss of Iowa City, Helen Hayes of Iowa City, Josephine Thiel of Grundy Center, Margaret Brady of Fort Dodge, Lucille Everett of Iowa Falls, Julia Hysham of Red Oak, Jean Spiers of Reinbeck, Mildred Belvel of Lineville, Ruth Wilson of Seymour, and Lorna Ludwick of Belleville, Kansas.

The older Staff and Circle women present last night were Mrs. Nellie S. Aurner, former dean of women, Gwendolin McClain, Ethyl Martin, Naomi Gunderson, Mrs. Herbert Goerlich, Kathryn Dayton Aurner, Dorothy Dondore, Florence Strub, Mary Anderson Cox, Helen MacIntosh, Margaret Mulroney, Esther MacIntosh, Violet Blakely, and Margaret Hayes.

Mrs. Adelaide L. Burge, acting dean of women, was also initiated into the society.

Miss Spiers, president of Staff and Circle this year, took the chair upon the conclusion of the services, and presided at the first business meeting of the young women. Plans for a grand reunion of Staff and Circle at Homecoming were discussed, and ideas were advanced by the various members for the maintaining of the best in the life of the women of the University.

FIRST MASS MEETING OF YEAR WILL BE HELD THIS EVENING

"All out for the mass meeting," declared John J. Dondore, A3, of Iowa City, president of the Howling 300, last night as he scurried around making eleventh-hour plans for the first mass meeting of the year to be held tonight at 7:30. The meeting will be held at the natural science auditorium and it is expected that the room will be packed to capacity.

Several short snappy talks will be given, and a number of yells and songs will be run over with the assistance of the University band.

CONVOCATION TO BE OUTSIDE

Is "Our Most Impressive Ritualistic Ceremonial," Says Jessup

Convocation will be held on the campus this year, due to the impossibility of accommodating the entire student body indoors. According to a letter sent out Wednesday, by President Walter A. Jessup to the members of the University staff, it will be called the early part of next week. The exact date will be announced only a few hours in advance, since it will depend on the weather conditions.

Comparatively few of the students ever see this function which President Jessup calls our most impressive ritualistic ceremonial. "I believe that the finest form of introduction of the faculty to the students," he declares, in his letter to the faculty, "will be a brilliant academic procession with all of its symbolic impressiveness. Each member of the staff is urged to take part in this beautiful ceremony." The letter closes with a request which is a prediction: "Please be prepared to assist in making this the most impressive function of the year."

Four hundred members of the staff are expected to march in the procession, displaying the gowns and hoods of ninety or more colleges and universities. Each color, tassel, or band on hood, sleeve, and cap tells its story of the wearer's rank. Even the cut of the sleeves indicates higher learning. Long, pointed sleeves are worn by holders of the bachelor's degree; closed sleeves, square at the end, by the master; and full, round sleeves by the doctor. Doctor's gowns are faced with velvet and have three bands of velvet across the sleeves. This facing and bands may be of the color indicating the degree. That color is worn in a band around the hood, and the hood is lined with the color of the school, by which the degree was conferred. The tassel on the doctor's cap may be gold, while for the bachelor or master it is always black.

Symbolic colors for the most common degrees are: white for the master, blue for the doctor of philosophy, scarlet for the doctor of divinity, orange for engineering, green for medicine, purple for laws, and gold for science.

Some of the costumes which will be worn at convocation are:

President Walter A. Jessup, hood lined with light blue for Columbia and bordered with blue for philosophy; cap with a gold tassel.

Prof. Chas. H. Weller, of history of art, hood lined with Yale blue with a border of blue.

Dean W. G. Raymond, of the College of Engineering, silk gown with the purple chevrons of the L. L. D. and has a purple-bordered hood lined with the myrtle and maroon of Washington, and an orange bordered hood lined with the maize and blue of Michigan University, where he received his engineering degree.

Prof. Benjamin F. Shambaugh, a doctor's hood from Pennsylvania, lined with red and blue and with a blue border for philosophy.

Dean George F. Kay, the blue bordered hood of philosophy, lined with the maroon of the University of Chicago.

Prof. Edwin D. Starbuck, a blue bordered hood lined with the scarlet and white of Clark college.

Doctor D. M. Griswold, a green bordered hood for medicine, lined with maize and blue of Michigan University.

Prof. Clarence Case, hood with blue border with the cardinal lining of Wisconsin University.

VAN METRE HAS JOB ON ST. LOUIS PAPER

Maurice E. Van Metre, for the last two years on the staff of The Daily Iowan, is one of five copy readers on the St. Louis Star. Van Metre writes that he is homesick for Iowa and will try to get here for either the Notre Dame or Illinois game.

"HELLO DAY" TO BE OCTOBER 7

Is Scheduled for Same Day as All-University Party

October 7 has been designated as "Hello Day" for this year, as well as the date of the annual All-University party, according to Douglas F. Boynton A4 of Cedar Rapids, who is representing the Y. M. C. A. on the party committee along with Marjorie Barfoot, A3 of Decorah, the Y. W. C. A. representative.

"Hello Day" was started last year by the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. with the purpose of promoting democracy on the campus by furnishing a means for the students to become acquainted without all the formality which so often stands in the way of making new acquaintances," said Boynton.

Last year's trial of the plan was so successful that it was decided to make it an annual affair along with the All-University party, which has become one of the important social gatherings of the first party of every school year. It is planned to conduct "Hello Day" in much the same way as it was carried out last year, when everyone on the campus wore a card, the color indicating the college of the wearer, and bearing the name of the class to which the wearer belonged, as well as space in which to write his name.

The order of the day was for everyone to speak to everyone else he met on the campus and to greet him with "hello." The entire student body and faculty fell in line with the idea heartily, the faculty members having a card of distinctive design, and it is expected that all will help to make the day a success again this year, according to Boynton.

The special committees for "Hello Day", and the program and refreshment committees for the All-University party will be appointed tomorrow at which time definite plans will be announced as to the program. However it is promised that at least as good entertainment and "eats" will be provided as last year, when the gym team put on an exhibition along with several boxing and wrestling bouts.

The Cosmopolitan Club presented an Oriental wedding and the band played between the various other events. It was further reported by last year's committee that 2493 doughnuts and several barrels of apples were consumed during the evening.

The entire student body is invited to attend the party which will be held at the men's gymnasium. No charge is made.

THIRTY-SEVEN MEN ARE NOW REPORTING FOR CROSS COUNTRY

Because of the rain and cold weather, Coach George T. Bresnahan, called off the cross country run scheduled for yesterday afternoon, and dismissed the men after a few minutes instruction, followed by a short sprint to loosen up sore muscles. Twenty-five harriers reported for the short practice.

Thirty-seven men have now enrolled in the cross country squad, and it is expected that a few more will report later. A call for freshmen cross country men was made yesterday by Coach Bresnahan, and he expects to start the freshmen on their work Monday.

It is possible that numerals will be awarded to men making the cross country team this year the same as in football, baseball and basketball, and this fact is expected to bring out many more than usual for the frosh team.

Following are the names of those who have already reported for the Varsity team:

FROSH REGISTRATIONS NOT COMPLETE UNTIL SATURDAY MORNING

The intelligence examinations for freshmen in the colleges of liberal arts and pharmacy will be held Saturday morning, October 1, at 8 o'clock. These examinations are compulsory for freshmen as registration will not be completed until they are taken.

Freshman women will meet in the women's gymnasium, freshman men in the men's gymnasium, and freshmen in the college of pharmacy in the hall of pharmacy.

No preparation is necessary for any of these examinations. Students are asked to bring a supply of sharp pencils, a lapboard or note book upon which to write, and the card to be signed by the examiner.

Students are urged to be on time as no one will be admitted after the examination has begun, according to announcement from the offices of the deans of these colleges.

TANK TEAM TO REPORT MONDAY

Coach Armbruster Wants Sixty Men to Report for Tryouts

Candidates for the varsity swimming team will report to Coach David A. Armbruster Monday at 5:00 o'clock, according to an announcement made by him yesterday. The candidates for the freshman squad will not report until the following week.

Coach Armbruster is anxious to get more men out this year. Thirty-five men answered his call last year and he hopes that at least sixty and probably seventy-five will try out this season.

In order to create interest more interest in the sport this year, Coach Armbruster has scheduled three more home meets and has arranged a special class for men who feel that they need a little more drill in the rudiments of the game before they turn out for the varsity. This special class will meet in two sections, one section on Mondays and Wednesdays, another on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

A special class in diving has also been arranged in which men expecting to go out for varsity dives will be trained. Captain Illif Shepard will have charge of this class and with the direction of Coach Armbruster will give his pupils a thorough training in diving.

On December 3, a novice meet will be held in which any man who has never won a first in any swimming meet may compete.

On December 10, an inter-fraternity meet will be held. The question of eligibility in this meet will lie with the inter-fraternity council. Medals will be given for the first three places.

The following week an all-university meet will be held in which any man registered at the University will be eligible.

The standard events will be run in each meet and it is expected that much interest will be aroused among the many swimmers in the University who are not quite good enough for the varsity yet who desire to get into some competition.

REGISTRATIONS CANCELLED BECAUSE OF LACK OF WORK

According to Robert E. Rienow, dean of men, the scarcity of work caused six men to cancel their registration this week.

No estimate has been made of the number of men on the waiting list as yet, but it is several times larger than the list of available jobs. Unlike the women, the men seem more desirous of work that will take care of their room and board. The women want clerical and stenographic positions.

The women's financial situation is not so critical for there are still many positions to be filled such as dishwashing, table waiting and housework. "If there were only a student's employment bureau," said Violet Blakely, assistant dean of women, "we could check up on the women who secure jobs, and keep better track of those who are in need of them."

THOMPSON PUT AT TACKLE ON VARSITY SQUAD

Anderson is Moved Back to the Scrubs in Practice Last Night

PLAY STRAIGHT BALL

Interest is Centered in Game With Notre Dame on October 8

The shifting of Thompson over to left tackle, and Mead into Thompson's old position at left guard, and the return of Anderson to the second string featured last night's practice of the Hawkeye gridiron men. Despite the fact that rain drizzled most of the time Coach Jones put the men through almost as heavy a workout as was experienced Wednesday night, save that the work with the dummies and some other preliminary practice was omitted.

Practice last night started in the varsity locker room where Coach Jones brought the blackboard into play for the first time this week, and for one of the longest periods since practice opened. Forty minutes were devoted to discussion of certain offensive plays with much stress laid upon the disposing of guards, tackles and ends. Diagrams and questions were hurled at the candidates for solution and were discussed by Coach Jones at various lengths.

Following the chalk talk the men ran for the field where all three squads spent some time running signals. With a few minutes of signal practice out of the way and the plays that Jones had lectured on well underhand the Iowa coach called over the third team for a scrimmage which lasted for almost half an hour.

The varsity lined up the same as on Wednesday with the exception previously noted and the thirds presented their usual lineup viz:

Varsity	Thirds
Belding R. E. Smith	Slater Brown
Minnick Farr	Heldt C. E. Smith
Mead Haver	Thompson James
Kadesky Jentoff	A. Devine Colby
G. Devine Loverien	Miller Rath, Macrae
Locke Bailey

The third stringers were "easy pickings" for the varsity men and two touchdowns were slammed through in a short time. A. Devine received the kickoff and returned the ball thirty five yards following in which Locke found a hole and raced the remainder of the way to the cinder track for a touchdown. The men were playing on the baseball outfield.

The varsity was given the ball just over the line and by a series of plays involving only straight football with the exception of one ten-yard pass from A. Devine to G. Devine, worked the ball up to the other end of the field, where Coach Jones called a halt and sent the second string backfield into the locker room. Before scrimmage stopped the entire second string was battling the third squad.

Whether the Iowa coach intends to make last night's shift of Thompson a permanent thing is questionable. Anderson has been displaying some good form, and up until last night, appeared to have first choice on the left tackle position. Thompson, however, appeared to go well at tackle, while Mead filled his position at guard nicely.

Meanwhile Lindsay, who joined the ineligibleibles Tuesday, continues to work hard in an effort to remove his condition. He did not appear on the field last night, but worked on "math" instead. Whether he will remove the condition before the Knox game is doubtful, and if he does there is a question as to whether he will be sent in at the tackle berth.

While Knox is the immediate obstacle in the path of the Hawkeyes, it is safe to say that interest centers chiefly around the Notre Dame game, the following week. The Catholics face one of the stiffest

LUCKY AFTER ALL

It has been found that freshmen treat the green cap situation in a variety of attitudes. Some consider them a handy affair, a few find them bothersome and unnecessary, and still others just fall into the habit of wearing them as a matter of course without taking up the ponderous task of approving or disapproving the idea.

It has been found an easy matter to justify the marking in some way of the freshman and there is very little argument about whether or not the little bit of green is a good thing, but there remains a long list of ways to be enumerated in which the freshmen and other students of the University may profit by making it a tradition at Iowa. One of these is the way in which it will work for immediate benefit to the freshmen themselves. And this is not altogether wrongly so, for if anyone should gain from the tradition, the freshmen should.

If every freshman will take the opportunity to become acquainted with every other freshman on the campus he will find the green cap his greatest aid. He may look for a green cap and find a fellow-sufferer; he may look for a green cap and know that that man will probably be going all of the way through college with him, that he will be meeting the same problems, that they will meet in a social way, and that associations in all phases of campus activity will grow up between them.

The freshman may be reluctant to ask a question of an upperclassman, but the green headgear gives him no qualms. He is not alone and may feel that every green cap is a part of a certain portion of the student body in which he will find his more intimate relations.

The freshman may feel that he is unduly marked; the cap may be bothersome or it may be convenient, and he may resent its being forced upon him. But that is a matter of little consequence, and he will do well to allow himself a bit of good cheer because of the chance he is given to get acquainted.

The sorority who is bemoaning a low scholarship or a poor list of pledges might do well to have two telephones in the house. The young man who calls for a date at the eleventh hour hasn't time to wait until "that other party is through."

GET IN THE GAME

When we think of a good thing, a proposition that means money or pleasure, we are not in the habit of speculating in dream clouds and theory and then passively waiting for the affair to go through and make us rich. We do, on the other hand, jump into the affair and either push it over ourselves or make sure that some one will do it for us.

Iowa does not dream of putting out a winning or a losing football team this year, or one that will do this or that for us; it is only concerned with putting out the best possible team. And the most logical way to put out a good team is to have material out on the field from which to manufacture that team.

Coach Howard Jones is working on a hard proposition when men of football calibre fail to report. He needs men to build up a reserve squad where now he has "just enough to go on." A team is going to be uneasy if it is in such a way as to be an easy victim by having one or two reliable men bumped off to the sidelines.

There is something wrong with the man of football ability who does not make football togs his late afternoon dress. He may in a few rare cases be justified, but more ordinarily he is lazy, disloyal, or has a lack of confidence in himself. On the other hand there are a number of reasons why he should do a bit toward building up a team. He owes it to himself to make use of his best abilities; he owes it to a team that is fighting to better itself; he owes it to a University that has pride in its athletic representatives; and he owes it to rival teams who demand admirable and worthy opposition.

If the men of the campus who are football possibilities deal in great bubbles of enthusiasm over hopes for the team and do not "come through with the stuff" to make that team the best possible, they will find that they are in on a losing proposition. And the great fact of the matter is that it is not only a losing one for themselves, but for the team and the University as well.

The student who allows a professor to beat him in a game of tennis need not hope to gain sufficient respect to get an "A" in one of his courses.

MAKE IT MEAN SOMETHING

Comes a time for the first meeting. Organizations all over the campus are meeting to outline programs and policies for the current academic year. This first meeting in a great many ways will be the most important one of the year. Not only will a year's schedule result from the first get-together and not only will it mean that the organization or institution is still alive; it will mean that the success of the year is bound up in the degree of enthusiasm which is imparted at the first opening of activities.

If you start your tramp on a bruised foot, you are likely to be forced to slacken your pace before many miles. If a cylinder is missing on the first lap you are more liable to finish with two missing rather than with them all working.

The first meeting is always different from the rest in that the members are glad to see one another and it is good to come together again. But it means far more. The spirit of that meeting will be carried over in every one that follows; the enthusiasm and serious determination will measure the progress of the year; the whole aspect of the year's work is definitely mirrored in the proceedings of that first meeting.

Some people say that they see very few green caps on the campus. It might be remembered that it is hard to pick salt out of sugar.

LEST WE GO BROKE

This year many students loaded their trunks with old text books to the dollar mark of excess baggage intending to sell such books second handed to someone who might enroll in courses requiring these texts.

Much to their disappointment, many have found that this effort to economize has been in vain, for with the large number of changes in the staff of instruction has come a corresponding number of changes in textbooks.

Certainly no instructor will have students change books in a certain course every year or two without a good reason for so doing. It is obvious that books on scientific subjects necessitate revision or change every few years. Then, too, on the side of the instructor, there is the experimental reason for changing texts. A new book is always more interesting and often proves superior to the one written a few years earlier.

But we are considering the problem now from the viewpoint of undergraduates only. Under ordinary circumstances many of us cherish some books to the extent that we would add them to the family collection or save them for the younger brother's use if it were at all practical. But since in all probability these books will be obsolete by the time the younger members of the family are ready to use them and as the family bookcase is now overflowing with textbooks it seems advisable that we sell them to help pay for our new ones.

Some sort of an exchange whereby we could turn over our old books on part payment for the new ones, would seem an altruistic project just now.

Students who judge a course by its first meeting, in which the professor says, "that will be all for today," are billed for a cruel blow next week when the textbooks arrive.

NEW BOOKS BY RIETZ

"Mathematics of Finance" Is Just Off the Press

Prof. H. L. Rietz, head of the department of mathematics is one of the joint authors of a new boog just off the press, "Mathematics of Finance." Professor Rietz's brother, Charles Rietz, assistant professor of mathematics at Ohio State university, and A. R. Crathorne, assistant professor of mathematics at the University of Illinois, assisted in writing the book.

The main purpose of the book, according to the authors, is to present a teachable elementary course in the application of mathematics to a broad class of financial problems. The material for the book has been tested in teaching such courses at the three universities with which the authors are connected.

CHEAPER RENTS SECURED

Rooms Committee Saves Money For Homecoming Alumni

Mr. Grassfield, chairman of the hotel and rooms committee for Homecoming, announces that the committee has secured lower rates for rooms this year. The rates for single rooms will be $1.00 and for double rooms, $1.50. In previous years the room rent for Homecoming has been $1.50 for single rooms and $2.00 for double rooms.

The committee is securing only the best rooms in the city so all homecomers may be assured of good accommodations.

A corps of workers will meet all the trains and will be stationed in the hotels to greet the returning alumni and direct them to headquarters where they may secure rooms.

Automobiles will be at the service of all alumni and former students.

HIKES WILL BRING POINTS AND SORE FEET TO GIRLS

The system of hikes which are required for membership into the Women's Athletic Association has at last been announced. Each girl taking these hikes will receive fifty points which either entitles her to membership or to retain her membership for one semester. Each series of hikes will be under the leadership of a sophomore. The names of these will be announced later.

The series of required hikes will be as follows:

Three-mile hike to the Country club; five-mile hike to Coralville; seven-mile hike on the Solon road; nine-mile hike on the Melrose road, and an eleven-mile hike to Midriver park.

Anyone may sign up for these hikes at the Women's gymnasium on the bulletin board placed near the entrance for that purpose.

Later in the year ten-mile hikes will be given in order that everyone may earn more points.

PEOPLE OF CHINA ARE CHINESE, NOT CHINAMAN

Why not "Chinaman"? Why not "Chinaman" women? Why not "Chinaman" men? Why not "Chinaman" girls, "Chinaman" boys, etc? These terms were used and are still being used unconsciously by many American citizens, even those who are in the University. Ministers and pastors on the campus frequently use these terms when they talk to the Chinese students.

China or the Chinese Republic is the name of the country; Chinese, the name of the people. No doubt, the word "Chinese" is used as an adjective instead of "Chinaman." I wonder why an English instructor here last year crossed out the word "Chinese" and put down "Chinaman" on a freshman theme. This is probably due to the ignorance of the term on his or her part.

I do not mean to teach the American people in English, but I wish that they will use the right word in speaking and in writing.

The word "Chinaman" carries with it several bad meanings. I shall mention some of them. It carries "a meaning of contempt, irony, affront and animosity." When you address to a Chinese student with the word "Chinaman," she or he takes it as an insult. It is a disgrace to her or his country, as you do not respect the name of the country and the name of the people. Should you address them in each case,—Chinese, Chinese women or ladies, Chinese men or gentlemen, Chinese girls, Chinese boys, etc. These terms may be insignificant to you, but "it is just as bad," said Thomas T. Millard, "for an American to call a Chinese 'Chinaman' as for a Chinese to call an American 'Americaman' or 'foreign devil'."

HYDRAULIC STUDENTS WORK ON NEW MODEL DAM PLANS

The department of hydraulics has been working all summer for the Iowa Railway & Light company of Cedar Rapids and the General Electric company of Chicago, experimenting on a model of the dam which has been proposed for the Cedar river near Rochester, Ia. These experiments are in an entirely new field and constitute an investigation of the practicability of utilizing the hydraulic pump as a means to suppress backwater on the draft tubes of water power during flood stages of the stream.

Most Iowa streams and streams in the middle west are of such a nature that when water power is developed at any particular site the water down stream from the dam rises more rapidly than the water up stream, as is the case of the University's own development on this river at high stages of the stream, when the dam becomes completely submerged. Long before this stage is reached the normal operating head at the plant is reduced to such an extent that the hydraulic turbines are unable to keep up their speed and are forced to shut down. Thus a plant which one might expect to operate for the entire year is able to operate for only 80% or 90% of the year. It has been the purpose of the experiment to develop a design which will utilize the surplus flood waters in such a way that a depression or trough will be maintained immediately from the power house so that very little diminution in operating head will be sustained as the flood waters rise.

The experiments have proven very satisfactory indeed, and have demonstrated that it is entirely possible to suppress as much as 70% or 80% of this backwater during flood stages of the stream. In the particular development in question it means that whereas the normal operating head might be twenty-two feet and a flood of 20,000 cubic feet a second flowing down the river would be sufficient to reduce this head of fourteen feet by means of the device just evolved, but the head could be maintained throughout the flood of twenty feet, suffering only two feet loss in head instead of eight feet by backwater.

The experiments have been watched during the past summer by engineers all over the country. The laboratory has been visited several times by some of the most prominent engineers in the country, such as Mr. A. Streiff, E. G. England of the Fargo Engineering Co., Jackson, Mich., C. W. Place of the General Electric Co. of Chicago, and J. D. Wardell of the Iowa Railway & Light Co., Cedar Rapids, Ia. There remain a few minor details of the apparatus to be experimented upon and completed this fall. A University bulletin will be published about February describing in detail the results of the experiments. E. E. Erickson and Paul Mercer, research assistants, have been working in connection with the staff of the department in conducting these experiments. If there were no freshmen, if the sororities were abolished, if there were no examinations, if the professors acted as professors are supposed to act, if the campus were a conglomeration of athletics became occasional sessions of congress, and if everything were different from what it is, what would college life be?

ATHENA OBTAINS NATIONAL RANK

Literary Society Joins Forces With One At University of Washington.

The Athena literary society became officially nationalized at its meeting Tuesday evening following the accepting of the national constitution. Athena is the only nationalized literary society on the campus and the only one in the country known of by this chapter, according to Frances Hungerford, A4, of Iowa City, president of the society.

The affiliation was made with the Athena society at the University of Washington, Wash., through Miss Mary Bash, secretary of the Y. W. C. A. at this University, who was a member of that society as well as of this one. The society at Washington was made the grand chapter because it is older, but Miss Bash is the grand president and Miss Rose Reeve, secretary to Dean Dudley O. McGovney, of the college of law, is the grand secretary. Margaret Gilbert of the Washington chapter is the grand treasurer. Other chapters are to be added soon, according to Miss Hungerford.

A national pin has been adopted, a gold mallet with "Athena" in Greek letters on the handle. The colors are green and white and the motto, "To be rather than to seem." An annual bulletin, "The Mallet," will be issued every spring. The girls have been writing personal letters between the chapters and expect to exchange group pictures soon. The chapter here, Beta chapter, will be limited to 50 members as previously and will support all forensic activities, particularly dramatics.

The chapter officers for this year are: President, Frances Hungerford; vice-president, Edith Roberts, A3, of Prairie City; treasurer, Mildred Waddell, A4, of Eagle Grove; recording secretary, Celestia Presson, A4, of Iowa City; corresponding secretary, Marjorie Barfoot, A3, of Decorah; historian, Dorothy Barfoot, A4, of Decorah; critic, Marion H. Smith G., of Independence; and sergeant-at-arms, Irene Boughton, A3, of Sioux City.

MACKAYE WILL COME OCT 26

Distinguished Playwright to be Here for Rehearsal of His Play

Percy Mackaye, author of the play "Mater" which will be presented by the University Players, October 27, will give the first University lecture of the year in the natural science auditorium Thursday, October 26.

Mr. Mackaye will read from his late writings, especially the poem, "Dogtown Common," which gives an intimate picture of New England life, interpreted by one who knows it.

During his three or four days' stay in Iowa City previous to the production of "Mater", Mr. Mackaye will attend rehearsals and will meet in an informal way as many dramatic students as possible.

Two years ago Mackaye, who according to Prof. Murry, stands among the first dramatists of today, was endowed by the University with a beautiful country home at Miami and a theater for the production of his plays. In addition to his own literary work, he subsidizes the work of young dramatic students. Mr. Mackaye teaches no classes in the University, but receives his backing from the University to make possible the great literary work which he is doing. His wife, Constance Mackaye, is also a dramatic writer of note.

During the past summer, Mackaye spent a number of weeks in the mountains of Kentucky, at the Pine Mountain Settlement. This picturesque region no doubt furnished a wealth of material for future playwriting.

Percy Mackaye is known as a very retiring man. During a performance of his play, Jeanne D'Arc, at which Prof. Mabie, of the Public Speaking Department, was present, Mackaye was notably reticent about appearing on the stage at the call of "Author" and insisted upon leaving the stage to the play.

Mr. Mackaye will place his time at the disposal of the dramatic students while he is here. Many of them will doubtless take advantage of the opportunity to meet him informally. The speech department hopes to secure several other notable artists later in the year with whom the students in dramatic work may become acquainted.

Percy Wallace Mackaye was born March 16, 1870, in New York, and followed his education at Harvard, Leipzig University and Dartmouth with travels in Europe and wide experience as a lecturer on drama and an organizer of community dramatic movements. He is a member of various writers' clubs and of Harvard Phi Beta Kappa. His writings include poetry and a variety of kinds of plays, especially pageants and masques. "A Thousand Years Ago," to be presented in April by the Class in Dramatic Production, and "Mater," to be given October 27 by the University Players, are both productions of Percy Mackaye.

EDITORIAL ASSOCIATION PLANS RADIO SERVICE

Tests are being conducted among the members of the Western Conference Editorial Association to learn whether or not an exchange of intercollegiate news by wireless may be established.

It is the plan of the conference association to exchange by wireless any news that is of intercollegiate interest such as athletic contests or any important campus movements. The tests are to ascertain whether the radio stations at the different colleges can be adopted to such a service.

The members of the Western Conference Editorial Association are Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Northwestern, Wisconsin, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Purdue, and Chicago. The conference intends to name this service the "Western Conference Radio News Service," and hopes to establish radio connections in time for reports from this season's football games.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN WILL TEACH PERKINS CRIPPLED CHILDREN

Volunteer instruction in muscle training, drawing, molding and general school by University women has begun at the Children's hospital.

About forty volunteers are needed, according to Gladys Taggart A3 of Spencer, who has charge of this branch of I. W. C. A. work. The instruction is supervised by Miss Mame Rose Prosser, principal, and Miss Jennie Allen, assistant principal. Last year from forty to fifty students gave individual instruction in painting, drawing, reed work and molding to children confined to their beds. The children range in age from six to sixteen years. Ten students have signed up to teach thus far but more are needed. Those interested may call Miss Prosser to arrange hours.

Juniors and seniors in the department of education receive credit for work there at the rate of two hours credit for five hours of instruction. They have charge of regular classes in the subjects taught in the grades and high school and are given three hours of special training every Saturday morning under Miss Allen.

CHANGES ARE MADE IN REGULATIONS OF UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

A new registration system will be enforced in the university library this year, according to Miss Jane E. Roberts, head librarian. All students must register at the central desk before October 8. Upon presentation of their tuition cards they will be given permits which entitle them to borrow books, subject to the usual library regulations. This permit must be shown upon demand, and expires at the end of the year. It may be rechecked at any time during the year.

Another change in the regulations is one concerning fines at the reserve desk. Books not returned at 8 o'clock in the morning are subject to a twenty-five cent fine. If they are not returned by 10 o'clock, the fine is increased to fifty cents.

A new bulletin of information for those who use the library will be issued soon, according to Miss Roberts.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT FOR UNIVERSITY MEN PLANNED THIS FALL

A tennis tournament, to be held this fall, is being planned by the department of physical training. Any male student or faculty member of the University is eligible. Singles only will be held as the shortness of the season prevents the playing of both singles and doubles.

Registration for the tournament will open Monday, October 3, and close Saturday, October 8. Drawings will be made and lists posted on October 10, on which day play will begin. A court will be reserved for these matches and all contests will be played according to the schedule posted in the director's office. A medal will be given the winner of first place.

Interest shown in tournaments held in the past indicates that some fast matches will be played. Material brought out this fall will be used in picking the tennis teams for next spring.

All interested are asked to watch east door of the gymnasium for notices.

MILITARY DRILL MEN MUST FILL OUT CARDS AT ONCE

Any male student in the college of liberal arts or pharmacy who has not attained full junior standing, and who has not yet filled out his personal history card in the military department should do so at once, according to Master Sgt. William D. Rahming, in charge of records in that department. This will have to be completed before noon, Saturday, October 1. All records will be checked up thereafter, and such freshmen, sophomores and unclassified male students in those colleges who have not complied with this request will be recommended to the dean of men for suspension by the military department.

Military training will start in all units beginning Monday.

MEN'S LITERARY SOCIETIES CHANGE TIME OF MEETINGS

The men's literary societies have a new plan of working together this year. Instead of holding meetings all on the same night, they drew lots for the first three evenings of the week, Irving drawing Monday, Philomathean Tuesday and Zetaphathian Wednesday. This is to give the societies an opportunity to look over all the men and the men the chance to get acquainted with the various societies. The object is to lessen competition and increase cooperation for the purpose of promoting forensics and debating in the University.

OLD CAPITOL TO BE FIREPROOF

$50,000 Is Appropriated for That Purpose.

The last general assembly appropriated $50,000 for fireproofing the Old Capitol. Work has been started to prop up the southwest end of the building and raise it ten inches. The building will be completely fireproofed and the plans include remodeling so it will remain a part of the campus for many years.

The offices in the building will be moved to some other location during the work. The exact location will be announced later.

Just a few sample suits $29.50

When we have the opportunity to buy sample suits, we do so in just a bit of a hurry as most of our customers do when we tell them what they are.

For sample suits, you know, are always made up a trifle better all the way 'round; and then too, one can buy them considerably cheaper.

These are of moussyne, duvet de laine, velour and tricotine. Tailored and semi-paneled with nutria and beaverette collars. Silken embroideries.

These are salesmen's samples from a very high grade house and as there are but a few of them—early Saturday would be best. —Denecke's, Second Floor.

Note the Prominent Men You Meet

--all with starched collars

Ever watch people—just people? Some one has said it's like reading a chapter from the book of life.

Next time you come in contact with a crowd at any public event, or at the club, for that matter, make a study of collars, and see if you don't find them a surprising index to character.

One thing you'll notice, for instance, is this—among prominent men, the leaders in your community, you'll find 99 out of 100 wearing clean collars, smartly starched.

Style? No—it's more than that. The starched collar, for some reason, seems closely linked with self-respect; with proper pride of person.

Wear starched collars. You can count on us to keep them clean, white and wearable. We look to all such detail as smoothing between the folds so your tie can slip easily. Edges we smoothly finish to give a maximum of comfort. Our laundering methods, too, make collars last longer.

Wrap up your collars and shirts today and phone us. We'll have them back promptly.

PARCAUT MAY COACH AGAIN

Athletic Board Will Make Selection at Meeting
 Next Week

Ralph Parcaut, claimant for the middleweight championship of the world, and University wrestling coach last year, announced his application for the position of wrestling coach again this year yesterday afternoon. According to Prof. R. A. Kuever, secretary of the board in control of athletics, this will make the third man the board is considering for the position. Professor Kuever said a coach will be picked by the board at its next meeting on October 5.

According to Professor Kuever, the board does not care to make public at this time the other men being considered.

"Last spring, when approached by the board concerning the position for this year, Parcaut felt that his personal business would occupy most of his time this winter, and said he would not return. Consequently his application came as a surprise," said Professor Kuever. "No contract has been signed with anyone, yet, and no action will be taken by the board until its next meeting."

According to the statement made by Parcaut yesterday, his original plans were to go south during the winter with a flying circus, but the sickness of one of the pilots and an accident to another has caused the postponement of the plans indefinitely. As he intends to remain in Iowa this winter, he has made application for his old position.

In regard to professional matches for this winter, Parcaut said that he was negotiating at present for a match with Johnny Meyers, another claimant for the title, and Parcaut's most dangerous opponent. It is expected that a match to decide the real championship will be held soon.

Parcaut disposed of one of his most dangerous opponents last summer when he defeated Paul Prehn in straight falls. Last week Parcaut was defeated in a match at Cedar Rapids with Chris Jordan, but he was wrestling with blood poisoning in his right arm, and expressed his confidence in his ability to defeat Jordan if the men meet again.

Lafayette, Ind.—The latest addition to the Purdue campus is the "Bug House," located south of the Agricultural Experiment Station, for use in experimental work with insects. This building is ten by twelve feet, and is enclosed on all sides by wire screen to duplicate outdoor conditions. The experimental work being carried on is in charge of Prof. Cleveland, formerly of New Hampshire, and now connected with the entomology department of the Experiment Station.

The "Bug House" is being operated in connection with the Government Experimental plots south of the Experiment Station. Plants bearing insects are placed in the "Bug House," and observation is made of the effects of insects on the plants. Each plan is covered with a wire screen to prevent further invasion of insects.—Purdue Exponent.

STUDENTS WILL OPPOSE WAGERS

Sentiment of University Students is in Favor of Movement

That the recent action of the football players and board in control of athletics in calling for a halt on the practice of betting on the outcome of athletic contests will be backed by the students is evidenced in interviews with prominent University men and women of the campus. The students are thoroughly back of it. The measure will be brought up before various student organizations next week and it is expected that by the time the Notre Dame game is played the anti-betting movement will be well under way.

E. J. Goodrich, L3, of Anoka, Minn., president of A. F. I., last night declared that his organization "was heartily in favor of the movement to stop betting," and that the proposition would be brought up for action at the next meeting. A. F. I. it will be remembered was one of the prime movers in the campaign and started agitation for it last spring.

E. J. Harrington D4 of Sioux City, president of the interfraternity council said: "I am very heartily in favor of the recent move to stop betting. It has caused considerable discontent and has played shadyside in intercollegiate athletics in the past. I am very glad to see some action being taken on the matter and feel sure that the proposition will meet with the favor of the conference officials they meet soon."

John J. Dondore A3 of Iowa City, president of the Howling 300 said, "The Howling 300 stands ready to do anything that is for the good of Iowa. If the team members want betting eliminated, the 300 will do all possible to eliminate it."

Miss Lue Prentiss A4 of Iowa City, president of the Woman's association, and Miss Jean Spiers A4 of Reinbeck, president of Staff and Circle, were inclined to look at the matter from the humorous side, both declaring "Well of course it's a good thing but we'll lose out on a lot of candy and may save a little money on cigarettes." They both promised to bring the matter up before their various organizations however.

Columbus, O.—"There is nothing more difficult in the world than for a rich man's son to finish his college course," said Dean Alfred Vivion, speaking before 250 freshmen at the Y. M. C. A. reception at Ohio Union Thursday night.

The thought was suggested following a talk on the University unemployment situation by Ray Hoyt, L-1, associate secretary of the Y. M. C. A. and head of the employment bureau at the offices of the Christian organization. Discussing the subject more fully, he stated: "The fellows who are making records are the fellows who work their way through, or a part of it. Most of the faculty of this institution worked their way through school."

In a talk filled with advice and encouragement for the student just entering school, he emphasized the necessity of falling in line for activities on the campus, with every man doing his share. "The Y. M. C. A. has been the greatest organization on the campus in the 19 years that I have been here, and the best thing for freshmen to do is to get into the work and help carry on the good movements which this institution sponsors," advised Dean Vivian. —Ohio State Lantern.

Grads and Students Are to End Homecoming in Novel Dance

Old grads of bygone days will mingle in a novel dance floor with the present day students of their Alma Mater on the evening of October 15, homecoming day when the Illinois-Iowa grid contest of 1921 will be classed as history. Contrary to custom the tripping of the light fantastic will not take place in a brilliantly lighted hall on a floor made smooth by the application of wax in super-abundant quantity. Instead it will be beneath the inspiring light of an autumn moon on the newly laid block of pavement near the armory. The "dance floor" will be cleaned for the occasion so that it will be entirely suitable for the staging of the hop which will be the grand finale of the annual homecoming day.

STAFF AND CIRCLE WILL PUBLISH BOOK OF UNIVERSITY SONGS

"Music hath charms"—and the charm will all be there in the new University song book which will be ready for Homecoming. Songs of all kinds—Iowa songs, songs of sororities and fraternities, songs of other universities, and miscellaneous college pep tunes will make up the book. Distribution of the song book will be in charge of Staff and Circle members.

Staff and Circle women are publishing the book and they will begin a subscription campaign Monday, October 2. Each member will ask five other women to help, so that there will be sixty women canvassing for subscriptions. The campaign will be worked out on the tag system, the tag being the receipt that fifty cents has been paid on the book.

Only a limited number of books will be published, according to Jean M. Speirs A4 of Reinbeck, president of the Staff and Circle. The price of this 200-page book is $1.25. The subscription tag plus three quarters will buy the book on Homecoming day.

WEARING THE GREEN
At S. U. I. on campus grounds
Are vivid colors seen;
Four hundred of them, ah yes, more
A 'wearing now the green.
Their modest ways it well becomes
Their youth will not bemean;
For well we know that virtue rests
Beneath those caps of green.
The hunger of fair Learning's lore
Is seen on blushing mien;
And did they come from near and far
Here just to wear the green?
Some future president mayhap
May now with brow serene
Some artist, poet or what not
Be wearing now the green.
What matter if no colors blend
None tired, blasé, are seen;
Time will not put the black and gold
On those that wear the green

"KNOCK KNOX" SLOGAN FOR SATURDAY'S GAME

"Knock Knox" is the slogan the engineers have posted for the opening game of the season next Saturday. The junior class of the college of applied science has charge of the signs that are to be posted before each football game this year. Any student in the college of applied science may submit a slogan.

In the past such signs slogans as "Get the Gophers", "Wreck Northwestern", "Get Ames Aims", Mount Mount Vernon", "Husk the Huskers", and "K. O. the Purple" have been used to show the spirit of the engineers.

Last year the slogan before the Minnesota game was "Oh Min" but was changed to "Minne Ha Ha" after the Hawkeye victory by a 28 to 7 score.

"THE BROCHON MAN"

Students Should Drink Milk
WHY?

1. Pure, Rich, Pasteurized Milk is a modern source of health and vigor.
2. A milk habit to replace the coffee habit is what many students need to relieve nervousness and to give them power of concentration.

Here is Proof

(Special) Urbana, Ill., Sept. 28th.
When the ILLINOIS gridiron candidates dragged off the field tonight after a heavy scrimmage, the assistants dished out two glasses of Fresh Cold Milk to each of thirty men whom Zuppke intimate are the men he has in mind for Varsity jobs. Zuppke, the greatest strategist in the football world today, knows that milk is a nerve steadier and a muscle builder.

ILLINOIS FANS RESERVE SEATS FOR BIG GAME

Will Hold Block of 400 Seats For Homecoming Game, October 15

No Crooked Work Connected With Sale of Tickets Says Coach Jones

Two thousand tickets for seats for the Illinois game have been reserved by the alumni of the University and by people outside the student body, according to a statement made by Coach Jones yesterday. This number does not include those reservations made by the holders of "I" books.

Orders for more tickets are continually coming in, and the present number of reservations is expected to be greatly increased by the time the sale closes. The entire west section of the bleachers is being held for year-book holders with the exception of two hundred seats that are held in reservation for special guests of the University such as members of the state board of education and old-time and visiting high school athletes. A block of four hundred seats is being reserved for the rooters that will come with the Illinois team from Urbana.

Coach Jones expressed doubts concerning the seating capacity of the west bleachers being sufficient to accommodate the number of year-book holders. There are twenty-four hundred "I" books now sold, and among those who are closely watching the sale there is a great expectation of increasing this number to three thousand.

"There are always some who are willing to believe that there is a certain amount of crooked work connected with the sale of tickets for a big game," said Mr. Jones. "I wish to say that our system of selling tickets is open for inspection by anybody, although the supervision of the ticket sales is a very difficult task, the one thing that is always practised, regardless of circumstances is fairness to all."

GOVERNOR KENDALL URGES IOWA PEOPLE TO AID UNEMPLOYED

Governor Nate E. Kendall has included the students of the University in his appeal to the people and a proclamation to observe October 12, 1921, as a day on which the people of Iowa should hold conferences "for the purpose of devising the best methods that can be adopted to secure suitable employment for the idle workers of Iowa."

In his letter of proclamation, Governor Kendall points out that there are 50,000 men in this state who, with families to provide for, are deprived of the ordinary means of subsistence, and he says that with the approach of the winter season the number will be augmented materially.

The plan which he proposes is that all building and construction enterprises that are now contemplated be entered upon immediately. He continues, "Let public enterprises ready to be entered upon, be prosecuted with diligence. Let building programs already projected, be pursued without delay. Let contemplated improvement of any description, be proceeded with at once. Let betterments of any character heretofore specified, be constructed speedily. Let the citizens of the entire state devote themselves to the imperative duty of providing temporary employment at reasonable compensation for their worthy fellowmen, who desire only a chance to earn a living by their own labor."

The proclamation concludes by saying that the anniversary of our country's discovery be celebrated by such helpful service to the unfortunate.

MILITARY DEPARTMENT WILL MOVE TO NEW ARMORY SOON

The military department will move to its quarters in the new armory before cold weather sets in, according to Major Ray C. Hill of the military department. The small amount of construction work yet necessary is being rapidly completed and the heating system will be in operation in ample time.

Drill and instruction periods will be cut short enough so that students will have plenty of time for the long walk to and from the armory and the heating system will be in Hill stated.

BANK DEPOSITS SHOW NO LOSS

University Men Said to be More Careless Than the Women

Students seem to be depositing as much money this year as last according to investigations made this week in three banks in Iowa City.

The president of the Johnson County bank remarked that University men are more careless than the women about cashing checks when their deposits fail to meet the demands.

It is the opinion of the First National bank president that the women in the University are more prosperous this year than the men, as their accounts are somewhat larger than those of the men.

Mr. W. J. Weber of the Iowa State bank said that it costs his bank fifty cents to open an account with the average deposit.

More women cash checks on their home banks than men, but small exchange charges would be saved if they kept their deposits in Iowa City banks.

CRIMINAL FRESHMAN WAS ACTIVE ON IOWA CAMPUS YESTERDAY

The criminal freshman had the following misdoings marked up against him for yesterday.

He played two sets of tennis while an upperclassman and a professor waited for their turn to use the court.

He sat halfway through a lecture on the psychology of religion before he realized that he wasn't learning to speak French.

He left his green cap in his pocket while he walked from the natural science to the liberal arts building.

He interrupted two upperclassmen who were engaged in conversation.

He asked a fellow freshman if he knew where Racine's cigar store was.

He reported for Varsity football practice.

He took a shower and washed the soap off in the swimming pool.

He asked a senior sorority woman if she was "going to be busy Saturday night."

He told a fraternity man that he would be willing to join their bunch.

He asked what A. F. I. stood for.

He said he didn't know how to dance but that he would go to the party and take part in the games.

He looked green.

Lafayette, Ind.—Learning and practicing the Purdue songs and yells will feature at the next formation of the entire cadet corps of the University, Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock, which will be more like a song fest than a military formation. The Purdue Band will play while the corps sings University, military and popular songs. Each cadet will be given a copy of all the songs so that if he does not already know them, he can learn them. The program has been planned chiefly so that the Freshmen may learn the Purdue songs and yells. C. H. Hagstrom, cheer leader last year and champion pep injector, will be on hand to lead the yells. Purdue's new song, which was sung for the first time during the last Gala Week is on the list for the Freshmen to learn.—Purdue Exponent.

schedules in their history and the players are ready for the battle with Iowa.

Notre Dame has scheduled eleven games this season in an effort to win the undisputed championship of the west. Iowa, it is reported from South Bend, is considered typical early season opposition, and the Catholics expect little real opposition from the Hawkeyes.

Coughlin and Gipp are the only men from last year's wonderful eleven lost to the team. A number of the men have achieved note in other fields than football. Desch, a half-back, holds the world's record in the 440-yard hurdles, the hardest race in the list, according to Mike Murphy, the late trainer of many athletes of note. Wynne, a two-year man on Notre Dame's eleven, is a point winner in the high hurdles at the conference meet. Mohardt, a star last year, only outshone by the marvelous Gipp, has already shown that he is coming into his own this season. He ran the length of the field for a touchdown on the kickoff last Saturday against Kalamazoo.
