FIRST OUTSIDE CONVOCATION ON TUESDAY

Committee of Thirty is Busy Completing the Arrangements

WILL MARCH TO FIELD

President Jessup Requests Everyone to Attend Exercises

What promises to be the most impressive ceremony ever seen at the University of Iowa will come Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, when the first convocation of the year is held on Iowa Field. Plans have been made to insure the attendance of every member of the faculty and student body in a huge academic procession that will march from the Old Capitol campus through the streets of Iowa City to the athletic field.

A committee of more than thirty members, headed by Prof. Edward H. Lauer and representing students and faculty and every college in the University, is hard at work perfecting the details of the big spectacle.

Halls Are Too Small

"We expect 5,000 students and faculty members in the procession," President Walter A. Jessup said yesterday. "The sight of the whole University body gathered together in the bleachers at Iowa Field will be one that for solemnity and dignity will not soon be forgotten by anyone who sees it."

"Our usual indoor convocation has long been outgrown. We have no hall anywhere near large enough to contain more than a small proportion of the men and women who make up the University. It will be an inspiring thing to get them all together."

Big Attendance Promised

After the faculty in the rich colors of their full academic costumes and students have marched to the field a short program of music and an address by President Jessup will follow. Complete details are yet to be worked out, but it is expected that the singing of "Old Gold," "On Iowa" and "America" will be the chief parts of the musical program.

President Jessup's welcome to new students and faculty members will probably not take more than five or ten minutes.

Some doubt was expressed yesterday at the first meeting of the committee on arrangements, whether on such short notice it will be possible to get every student in line when the procession starts. Representatives of the college of law, pharmacy, dentistry and engineering said that their colleges could be counted on for a 100 per cent attendance. The college of medicine was not represented at the first meeting, but no special difficulty is expected in getting a full turnout of students in that college.

Will Suspend Classes

The college of liberal arts with its larger body of students and its lack of any close organization among them will be more of a problem. A special subcommittee has been named to see to it that the college of liberal arts does not fall behind the professional colleges. Heads of fraternities, sororities and other organizations will be seen in the effort to get every student in Iowa City there when the bugle sounds, forward, march."

In case of bad weather Tuesday the convocation will be postponed to some fair day. Classes in all colleges will be suspended from 10 o'clock until noon on the day of the convocation, President Jessup said.

LARGE CROWD SHOWS ABUNDANCE OF PEP IN FIRST MEETING

The Iowa fight spirit bristled at the mass meeting in the natural science auditorium last night, where pep abounded and the "Beat Knox" spirit was dominant. Prof. E. H. Lauer, presided as chairman and, in his inimitable way introduced the speakers of the evening, after the band played "On Iowa."

ALL PLAYERS ARE IN GOOD CONDITION FOR GAME TODAY

Not a man will go out on the field tomorrow with a bandage on Dr. Walter Fieseler, trainer of the Iowa football team, said yesterday. The team was never in better shape, bruises are few, and all cases of strains have been cured. Belding will continue to wear extra high shoes to protect his ankles, but his knee is in good shape and may not bother him this year. Glen Devine will probably start the game, as his injury is nearly well, although it may trouble him again later in the season. George Thompson's charley-horse has disappeared and he trots around the field with lots of pep. Anderson's injured hand still bothers him, but a few days rest will put it in shape for the Notre Dame game. All the rest of the squad is in good shape, and eager for the Knox encounter.

6 ELECTED TO TAU BETA PI

President Jessup Speaks to Engineers at First Meeting

The election of Louis Baggs, of Des Moines; Theodore Hartman, of Cedar Rapids; Willis Hogan, of Iowa City; Lovell Janke, of Muscatine; James Frederick Phillips, of Altoona, and William D. Crozier, of North Liberty, to membership in Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering society, was announced by Dean William G. Raymond, of the college of applied science, Thursday evening at the initial meeting and mixer of the Associated Students of Applied Science at the armory. Walter A. Jessup, president of the University, gave the address of welcome, and William G. Raymond, dean of the college of engineering; George F. Kay, dean of the college of liberal arts; and George W. Stewart, acting dean of the graduate college, were also speakers on the program.

In his address, President Jessup brought out instances showing the equality of opportunity to students in engineering, both in college and after graduation. Dean Raymond enumerated the honors which engineers might attain because of ability in scholastic work. Dean Kay in his address stressed the importance of support of college activities as well as the attainment of scholastic honors. Dean Stewart pointed out the importance of scholarship as a factor in future success. John Cumberland, president of the A. S. of A. S., explained the ideal and principles of the association and its value to the college.

The announcement was also made that the Transit, the engineering publication, would hereafter appear monthly instead of a yearly.

THREE COACHES NOW INSTRUCT FRESHMEN FOOTBALL PLAYERS

Freshmen football men are being given much attention this year at Iowa. Three assistants have been given Assistant Coach William S. Kelly, in order that the freshmen may be better trained for positions on the Varsity next year. "Stub" Barron, captain of the '15 varsity eleven is in charge of the yearling first eleven. F. J. Carlstrom, a former coach at Monmouth college and formerly a student at Coe college is one of Kelly's aids. Davenport Day, of Davenport, is also aiding in the training of the freshmen.

The freshmen are being put through a regular routine each evening they appear on Iowa field. Signal practice, passing and developing the form of action of each player is the main purpose of the recent practices. Punting practice, however, is not being lost sight of. About ten men are being worked in this phase each evening. They will be given opponent's plays next week.

WORK HARD ON PAGEANT PLANS

Progress is Rapid on All Arrangements—To Have Fireworks

"Plans and designs for the various floats are fast maturing," said Prof. Forest C. Ensign of the educational department and head of the executive committee for homecoming, when speaking of the pageant developments yesterday. "Section one devoted to the tabeau of five floats depicting the history of the University is well organized and the various colleges taking part in it are hard at work."

The lighter side of University life in section two, that aims to give students a broader scope on present day affairs is being met with much enthusiasm by the students who are to assist in that branch of the pageant, according to Prof. Glen N. Merry, head of the department of speech. Fifty-one students came to make plans for this section Thursday evening and they now have most of their committees appointed and plans well under way.

One thousand dollars' worth of fireworks will be displayed on the eve of homecoming on the new athletic field under the co-operation of the American Legion men, the commercial club of Iowa City and the executive committee for homecoming. It is expected by the committee in charge that this will attract most of Johnson county.

A dance on the new pavement in front of the armory, which is expected to be completed by that date, will be held following the fireworks.

All fraternity and sorority houses, according to interested members, will be bedecked with gay colors and the whole city will wear bright raiment for this occasion. "Welcome Illinois" banners will be arranged in conspicuous spots to make the visiting football team feel welcome.

A luncheon will be served to all who care to partake on the campus the noon of homecoming under the supervision of the churches in Iowa City. Mrs. Meyers, of the extension division is chairman of this committee.

Invitations are to be sent to officers of the state, members of the general assembly, the supreme court, and to other state men, inviting them as official guests of the University. These guests are to be entertained by prominent citizens and seats for the football game are to be reserved for those accepting the invitations. Professor O. E. Klingman, director of extension division, Mayor Ingalls Swisher, Judge Martin J. Wade, and J. A. Stronks, president of the commercial club, compose the committee in charge of this.

This homecoming with its pageant and other celebrations is really a fore-runner of the University of Iowa's diamond anniversary, which will be observed on February 25. Making it doubly important is also the diamond anniversary of Iowa's statehood, which is to be observed on homecoming.

CURIOUS FRESHMAN AIRS A FEW OF HIS LITTLE CURIOSITIES

The curious freshman asked the following questions yesterday:

- What is a "pipe course"?
- How did the Knox team stand in the conference last year?
- Why are there so many automobiles parked outside of the law building?
- How do you go about it to get into a fraternity?
- What are you supposed to do between classes?
- How did Bobby Rienow learn so much about the University?
- Is Bunt Kirk a dean or a professor?
- Do Iowa City people live on high room rent?
- What makes sorority women pretty?
- When will we begin having Friday afternoon exercises?
- Who first thought of the green cap proposition?
- Will there be any freshmen here next year?

TEMPERANCE HEAD IS HERE

Miss Anna Gordon Inspects Child Welfare Station Yesterday

Miss Anna Gordon, national and international president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, yesterday visited the Iowa Child Welfare Research Station. "We are wonderfully delighted with the work accomplished by the station and with the splendid plans for the future. You cannot overestimate my opinion of the value of the work or picture it in too glowing terms," was Miss Gordon's measure of what has been accomplished. She was accompanied on her trip of inspection by Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, president of the W. C. T. U., in Iowa, and Mrs. Elizabeth A. Perkins, head of the Iowa department of child welfare.

Interested in Laboratory

About two years ago the Women's Christian Temperance Union voted a gift of $10,000 annually for five years to the Child Welfare Research Station at the University of Iowa. The three visitors, with Mrs. Cora B. Hillis, of Des Moines, were appointed as an advisory council from the Union to co-operate with the Research Station. Mrs. Hillis was unable to come to Iowa City yesterday because of illness.

The committee was particularly interested in the pre-school laboratory, which is being established in a building especially designed for that purpose and located just north of the old science hall. "At last the child is having a real chance," exclaimed Mrs. Smith on leaving the building.

To Tell of Research Station

Miss Gordon expressed a desire that every person in America should know of the results obtained from the investigations carried on by the Child Welfare Research Station and declared that the W. C. T. U. would take an active part in spreading this knowledge.

"The women of the Union are greatly pleased that they have a part in the great program of the station in behalf of the normal child," said Miss Gordon. "We are only sorry that we could not make this visit before our national convention, which was held in San Francisco last month. However, we will make every effort to inspire the other members with the enthusiasm we feel. Child welfare is to be a major interest of the W. C. T. U., and we feel that it is in the right hands."

Dr. Bird T. Baldwin, director of the station, was greatly pleased at the interest and sympathy shown by members of the visiting committee and feels satisfied that the W. C. T. U. is lending its hearty support to the program which the station has outlined.

BELDING AND SLATER BEGIN FOURTH YEAR ON OLD GOLD TEAM

Today marks the beginning of the fourth year of competition for Lester Belding and Fred W. Slater on Old Gold eleven. Both men played their first confederative games during the S. A. T. C. period, which by a special conference ruling was not counted as one of the three years which a Big Ten athlete may play during his college career.

Belding and Slater were placed on Walter Eckersall's first all-conference team in 1919, but failed to secure a berth on the mythical eleven last year when they were expected to show up even better than they had the previous year. Captain Aubrey Devine was Iowa's only representative on the Chicago Tribune writer's first team last year.

MANY CHANGES IN NEW FRIVOL

Editors Announce Better Magazine at Decrease in Price

Frivol, the University humorous magazine that has so amiably lived up to the meaning of its name during the first two years of publication, will probably make its first appearance on the campus this year next Wednesday morning. All the editorial and art work has been in the hands of the printer for the last week and except for unforeseen difficulties the magazine will appear on the specified date, according to Harold Andrews U4 of Des Moines.

From several standpoints the humorous monthly looks better this year than at any time during its publication. New artists have been discovered by the editors, for whom they claim a higher grade of excellence than has always characterized the pages of Frivol. Included in the pledge number of Frivol will be four full page drawings, in addition to numerous other cuts and an entirely new style of make-up cuts. The cover, in four colors, will be by Jane Coventry.

The editorial material covers all the well-known activities of the fraternities and sororities during the open season on freshmen. A larger number of humorous ballades, triolets and lyrics will be included in the first issue. The prose will advise the freshman on fifteen or twenty of the thousand subjects on which he requires light. Several new departments have been added to the magazine, notably the "Jazz Era."

Subscription prices for the seven issues published during the year have been cut from two dollars to a dollar and a half. The price of individual copies has been reduced from thirty-five to twenty-five cents. Last year the number of Frivols sold per issue ran from 1700 to 2000. A larger subscription is expected by the business manager, Tom Norris, U1 of Manchester, due to the increased student registration and lower price of the magazine.

ISABEL NAURETH IS NOW NATURE GUIDE IN PARK

Miss Isabel Naureth '21, formerly of Traer, Iowa was during the summer an official nature-guide at Glacier National Park in northern Montana. Miss Naureth was graduated from the University last June upon completing her major in the department of botany.

Miss Naureth was recommended to this position by the University of Iowa department of botany. She was given the preference on the basis of three qualifications: physical test, well-grounded information, and ability to mix with the handle people. She received her appointment and took the training given for park guides, passing both park and government examinations, and was presented with the official badge worn by park guides. The duties of the nature-guide consists of conducting small parties on foot or horseback along the government trails. Miss Naureth is now an assistant in the department of Botany in the University of Oregon.

IOWA IS SET FOR SEASON'S FIRST GAME

Coach Limits Practice to Lecture and Short Signal Drill

KNOX TEAM IS READY

Coach Anderson Predicts Hard Fight on Field Today

Probable Lineups:

Iowa	r.e.	Knox
Belding	r.t.	Crabbe
Slater	r.g.	Schaffer
Minick	c	Bergstrom
Heldt	l.g.	Adams
Mead	l.t.	Olin
Thompson	l.e.	Harrison
Kadesky	l.f.	Welch

Reed, Michigan, referee; Keithley, Illinois, umpire; Samp, Wisconsin, field judge; Sisler, Nebraska, headlinesman.

Time—3:30 p. m.
Place—Iowa field.

Confident, but not cocky, Iowa football men stand ready this morning to don their togs and tackle their first football game of the season; the game that will give their followers the first real glimpse into what they may expect of the Iowa machine in the conference race this fall.

The men are in good condition, only a few minor bruises and bumps being in evidence, and will go into the game this afternoon ready for the contenders they are to meet. Although they have not yet learned all the football they are to absorb during the season, they have been faithfully drilled by Coach Howard H. Jones and his assistants and they have taken the drilling willingly.

No Predictions on Result

What the outcome of today's game will really be, few pretend to know, and those who do decline to state. Some predict that Iowa will be the victor by at least thirty points, some that she will emerge from the battle by a fair margin and still others that she will have as tough a battle for a season opener as is usually desired by any coach. So far none have said that Iowa will lose. It seems extremely probable that Iowa will win by a comfortable margin.

To those who saw the two teams practice last night Iowa appeared the better, but when it is remembered that Knox has nine of the eleven men on her team who held Northwestern to a 12 to 0 score last year, prospects for a royal battle are bright.

Short Practice Yesterday

Practice for the Old Gold men last night was cut to an hour and a half, the first hour of which was consumed in lecturing to the men on various matters, particularly questions arising from the kickoff. With the squad gathered around him in the center of the field Major Hill read the rules to be considered, while Coach Jones and an aide demonstrated them.

Aubrey Practices Kicking

Following the lecture period on kickoffs the first team was set to running signals. Exactly the same lineup as was used Thursday night was set at practice last night including Thompson at left tackle and Meade in Thompson's former position at left guard. This lineup was retained throughout the practice, which consisted of half an hour spent in running signals. Once, while the team rested, Aubrey practiced drop-kicking from the 25 and 30-yard lines. Only one failed to pass through the center of the bars.

At 5:30 p. m. a halt was called and all squads were sent to the showers. The Knox team, which had arrived a few hours previously then took the field and worked their signals for a short time. Coach Sam Barry did not accompany the Galesburg eleven here yesterday, but was expected to arrive late last night. Line Coach Anderson was with the Knox squad, however, and gave them a short talk after their practice.

DO IT YOURSELF

For many, self expression is a very delightful thing. And to those who do not relish speaking, short story writing, criticism, or self assertion as a leader of some organization comes an opportunity to write a play.

When University Players offers fifty dollars for the best one-act play written by a University student and when the University Theater offers thirty-five dollars for the second best, they do not do it with the idea of getting a play at a bargain or receiving better plays that they might buy elsewhere. They have very distinctly in mind the fact that such a contest conducted by an organization that is essentially interested in dramatics will arouse a degree of enthusiasm for things of a dramatic nature in the University.

The winning play last year was written between an evening cup of tea and the morning cup of coffee. The winning play this year may be written at the conclusion of after-theater party or it may result from a series of notebook jottings and occasional scribbles that will not take the form of a play until January 14, when the last of the attempts are to be submitted. It may be written by the dramatic critic or scholar and it may be the first creation of an undergraduate, but the play is forthcoming.

There is a certain amount of pleasure in expressing oneself; there is even more in having that expression recognized and appreciated by others; and there is, in addition, the extreme satisfaction of incidentally swelling the pocket-book. Those who are promoting the contest ask only the opportunity to bring the best dramatic ability in the University to the fore and to create the desirable amount of interest in dramatic work.

There are a great many students in the University who think that they can write plays but can't, and there are others who can write them who think that they can't. That need not be for them to decide. If they will each write a play, the judging committee will take the responsibility of finding the best one.

If Einstein is as nervous about putting his theory to the test as some students are over their knowledge of a text, we fear for his health.

HITTING THE BALL

It's an easy life! There is nothing for us to do but to dodge classes, let the notes slide, and forget to buy textbooks. Of course we will get into the run of things after a few weeks but just at present we can take it easy and profit by the confusion that comes with the early part of every year.

Such a philosophy—if it may be called a philosophy—is a natural and easy one to follow. There is always another day coming and that is the day on which we can do all of the semester's work. With such an arrangement, however, there is one sad possibility that easily ripens into reality—that last day may come and find us still sitting in the shade. And when it does, we will sit in deep speculation on how we might have spent the first few weeks.

Two weeks before the semester examinations we will turn to our notebooks to see what the prospects of passing the course may be; we may even review some of the reference readings that we have heard mentioned in class. During the last week, we will borrow our classmate's notebook and ask him to come out to the house to run over some of the experiments and repeat definitions. And then, the last two nights, we will sit up all night and cram only to find ourselves in a state of confusion that will spell anything but scholarship. And, through it all, we will recall what we might have done during the first few weeks while we were taking it easy.

A student remarked yesterday that if it were not for his studies he would not have much to do these days.

STAY WITH IT

When Knox college meets the University team tomorrow afternoon, Iowa will play the first of its athletic contests to be staged during the current year.

Iowa has reason to look forward toward a successful year. It is only to be expected, however, that some contests will be regarded as unsuccessful for the home team. When the men are losing they especially need your support. Most winning teams receive adequate support, but students, like other people, fail to give losers the necessary encouragement. Our teams have received good backing when winning, but the crowds have failed them when the opposition led. This situation was particularly noticeable during the baseball season last spring. On some occasions not a few individuals cast remarks at the players that were detrimental and far from complimentary.

Iowa teams within recent years have been well coached and they have played to the best of their ability. They have a reputation for being hard fighters and good losers and the crowd should likewise take defeats with a good spirit.

CHANGES MADE IN STAFF HERE

Military Department to Have Additional Instructors This Year

With the coming of the new academic year, expansion in the form of two more units and numerous changes in the personnel have taken place in the military department. The War Department at Washington during the summer granted the authority to establish a medical corps unit in the college of medicine and a dental corps unit in the college of dentistry. Major Elton L. Titus, medical corps, U. S. A., has been ordered to duty here from Camp Grant, Ill., to take charge of the medical unit and temporarily foster the dental unit, until a suitable dental officer is found for detail at the University. Major Titus is expected to arrive shortly after October 1. The work in these two units will consist of largely advanced course work, inasmuch as all men interested in the work in both schools will have received their basic course work while taking pre-medical and pre-dental courses in the college of liberal arts.

Capt. Charles J. Gilbert, infantry, and Capt. Robert S. Batman, infantry, have arrived to assist Major Hay C. Hill, infantry, in the work of the infantry unit. Major Gaston L. Holmes, cavalry, who assisted Major Hill last spring, was relieved from duty at this post on July 1, to go back to duty with a cavalry regiment.

The motor transport unit is without an officer just at present, Major Fred R. Palmer, Q. M. C., having been ordered to foreign service in the Canal Zone. Major Palmer will have charge of a division Motor Transport train. Information received from Corps Area Headquarters at Fort Crook, Nebraska, indicates that Capt. John M. Douglas, Q. M. C., will be detailed here in charge of the Motor Transport unit.

The administration duties of the R. O. T. C. here have become so numerous that another officer has been ordered here for that purpose. Capt. Michael O'Keefe, Philippine scouts, retired, has been ordered here for duty as executive officer and adjutant. Capt. O'Keefe arrived during July and has since been acquainting himself with the records of the office and getting his organization work into shape. Capt. J. S. Young, Philippine scouts, retired, formerly adjutant, has been relieved of that duty and will now devote his time solely to the duties of supply officer and Victory medal officer.

Sergeant Lafayette Sexton, D. E. M. L., was transferred during the summer from the R. O. T. C., Marshalltown high schools, and will assist in the instruction of the infantry unit.

The addition of the new personnel swells the total on duty in the military department to twenty-two; ten officers, three warrant officers and nine enlisted men.

VAN DOREN TO ORGANIZE TWO LARGE BANDS SOON

The thirty eight members of last year's band who have reported to Director Van Doren will probably form the larger part of the band of fifty that will be organized soon according to O. E. Van Doren, director.

The reason why no band has been organized yet is because all of this week has been devoted to try-outs. These try-outs are being held for freshmen as well as for upper classmen, and Director Van Doren is well pleased with the large number of new students who have reported.

There will be enough material to finish out the first band and enough to organize a second band.

The second organization will probably be composed of a larger number of freshmen than old students.

Any one may try-out for the band and, even though he may not make the first organization, he may be assured of the benefit of some good instruction in music as a member of the second band.

NEW CURRIER ANNEX OPENED TO RELIEVE CONGESTION AT HALL

Because of congested conditions at Currier hall it has been necessary to open up a new dormitory for women at 725 East College street. This annex will accommodate about twenty women, the names of whom appear on the Currier hall waiting list at present.

The house has been entirely re-furnished and the residents will soon enjoy all the privileges of Currier Hall, with the added advantage of a large sleeping porch. Not all the rooms are yet occupied but it is anticipated that the house will soon be full. No meals will be served at the house.

CROWD DEMONSTRATES "IOWA FIGHTS" SPIRIT

Iowa football star, was the first talker of the evening. He talked first of his hobby—his young son who is coming to Iowa in about fifteen years to be a star. He also stated that the Iowa freshman squad of this year was the best that he had ever seen in the length of his connection with the University. He also said that in all probability that these freshmen would continue the athletic name that Iowa has given herself, and even better it.

Barron plainly admires fighting spirit, for he held up Shuttleworth, the second quarter, as an example of a fighting man. A team," according to Barron," with the ability and fight of a man like that could not be beaten by any team."

Following Barron came Assistant Athletic Director George T. Bresnahan. Mr. Bresnahan was fittingly introduced as the man who placed the Iowa track team on a placing basis. He thanked the large crowd and the student body for their cooperation during the track season last spring, and then he made a few fighting statements and ended with "Are we happy?" to which the crowd answered "Yea Bo!" Loyd Burns made the closing speech of the evening, when he pleaded with the crowd to give the team their best in pep tomorrow when they meet the first test of the year.

The band played "On Iowa" again, the crowd joining in, and the meeting closed with the singing of "Old Gold."

HOLD RECEPTION TONIGHT

The Presbyterian church will hold a reception for all new students in the church parlors tonight at 8 o'clock. All freshmen and new students are urged to attend.
