ZUPPKE TRIES HIS OLD TRICK ON IOWA AGAIN

Illinois Coach Has Begun to Laud Iowa and Hang Crepe on His Own Team

MORE BEAR STORIES

Kriz Works in Mead 's Place in Scrimmage Last Night on Iowa Field

Zuppke is up to his old tricks again. The doctor of psychology is trying some of his stuff on the Iowa team and its supporters. "Duke" Slater is all-American material; Belding is the best end in the conference; all the rest of the team make an unbeatable combination—one that the conference champs must beat.

But do you remember that he said the same thing last year, at least before the game.After the game he said that Iowa always was an easy team to beat and that as long as Slater and Belding played he could send plays around their side and make consistent gains and in that game he did send the majority of his plays against these two and they always worked. It was a great sight for Illinois to watch Walquist, Fletcher and Peden tearing around two of the men whom Zuppke had called all-American material.

Another thing that Zuppke seems to do and that is to enlist Eckersall, sport writer for the Chicago Tribune, on his side. Eckersall never has a good thing to say for Iowa unless something out of the ordinary has occurred. He has always said that Iowa's teams were mediocre. Last week he doubted Iowa's ability to hold Notre Dame. Now he comes out with a wonderful bear story of Iowa's great team and he fails to mention any of the glaring defects that were apparent in last Saturday's game. He says nothing about the team's weakness against passes, its failure to stop the old cross-buck, and its lack of punch in the final quarter. Why doesn't he say something about the poor kicking and the number of punts that were blocked?

None of the Iowa coaches, members of the team or rooters who know anything about the Illinois team or Zuppke's system are placing faith in the bear stories that are coming from him. When you hear of the number of stars that are crippled, remember that if "Zup" didn't have some one else just as good we would never have heard of the cripple. The Rock Island paper last week said that in Vogel, Zuppke had found one of the best tackles that had ever played at Illinois. Crangle, weighing 200 pounds is easily the hardest hitting fullback in the conference last year.

The Illinois coach put in a second string last year that outplayed our varsity. They were all supposed to be cripples, too. Zuppke is quoted as having said early in the season that he had always found Iowa an easy team to defeat, and he expected to repeat the old story again this year. Iowa will have to fight harder next week than she did last Saturday if she wants to win.

Last night Coach Jones took his linemen and put them to bucking the dummies down at the north end of the field, while Major Hill took charge of the backs. He devoted special attention to Anderson and Miller, criticizing the work they did Tuesday night. After bucking the dummy, Jones pitted his linemen against each other. The line-up was the same as the one that started the game Saturday, except that Kriz took right guard in place of Mead. The freshmen were soon called on the field and the stiff scrimmage that Jones promised the varsity on Tuesday began.

The freshmen may have held the varsity on Tuesday, with the first string backs out of the game, but with Aubrey, Glenn, Anderson, and Miller back of the line, the varsity made six touchdowns.

15 MEN REPORT FOR WRESTLING

Conditioning Work Will Begin at Once According to E. G. Schroeder

Fifteen men answered the first call for the wrestling squad yesterday at 4:30 o'clock. Ernest G. Schroeder, director of department of physical training who will take charge of the work until the arrival of the new coach, outlined the work for the next few weeks. The men taking wrestling who are not out for some other sport will be assigned conditioning work. This work will consist of cross country running for the first weeks. Since the training is starting earlier this year than any previous year, it is hoped to have the men in condition for the strenuous indoor work when the time comes for intensive training.

Indications are that the number taking wrestling will be greater than in previous years. Not only will there be a Varsity squad but a large squad of freshmen are expected to report in order to get into next year's competition.

The schedule of meets will include dual meets with Northwestern, Purdue, and Nebraska, and probably meets with Illinois and Minnesota. In addition to this schedule, the squad will be entered at the Big Ten conference meet at Wisconsin.

NEW SIGN FLASHED FOR HOMECOMING BY ENGINEERS

"Welcome Grads—Iowa Fights," will flash from the top of the physics building in a sign with a running border of electric light bulbs, which will attract the eyes of all homecomers. "Thursday night the world beater will appear," said John S. Holbrook S3 of Onawa.

Donald M. Hains, chairman of the Homecoming committee stated yesterday that the engineers are making preparations for the erection of a "castle gateway" to arch Washington street between the engineering and physics building.

The arch will be patterned after engineer's army insignia, with a gateway forty feet wide and towers at each end about twenty feet high. A sign which remains a secert will flash from the center of the arch. The castle gateway will have every resemblance of the old-time battle-works, as it is to be constructed of heavy timbers and wrapped with bunting to resemble a gray stone facing.

SEAT SALE OPENS

General sale of seats for Homecoming game will open at 1 o'clock today at Whetstone's.

WOMEN WILL PLAY SOCCER

Junior and Sophomore Teams To Mix Between Halves Saturday

The junior and sophomore women's soccer teams will compete in a game on Iowa field Saturday between halves of the Iowa-Illinois game. This is the first time this game has been played before a football crowd.

Both teams have been practicing every night this week. The players who will compete Saturday will not be picked, however, until Friday, according to Miriam W. Taylor, instructor of physical education. A large number of women have turned out for practice and the game should prove interesting.

Among the sophomores, those trying for places on the team are: Grayce Dyke A2 of Iowa City, Irene Souder A2 of Des Moines, Laura M. Sturtz A2 of Dystart, Leora A. Ashbacher A2 of Waukon, Esther Flynn A2 of Riverside, Helen Spencer A2 of Des Moines, Ethel Spencer A2 of Olathe, Col., Frances M. Johnston A2 of Danville, Lois J. Jockson A2 of Mechanicsville, Mary L. Larkey A2 of Independence, Ada R. Copley A2 of Davenport, Ruth M. Frerichs A2 of Danville, and Ruth E. Austin A2 of Wilton.

The junior team will probably comprise the following: Ruth P. Zorn A3 of Montezuma, Julia C. Darrow A3 of Columbus Junction, Eva M. Drewelow A3 of New Hampton, Marjorie Barfoot A3 of Decorah, Almeda A. Cutting A3 of Decorah, Myrtle A. Sellman A3 of Sibley, Dorothy Brook A3 of Tiffin, Catherine T. Wright A3 of Des Moines, Pauline C. Spencer A3 of Des Moines, Eleanor H. Huntley A3 of Waterloo, and Josephine M. Daus A3 of Moville.

HAROLD BAUER IS A MAN OF MANY AND VARIED EXPERIENCES

The famous pianist Mr. Harold Bauer who is to play here in natural science auditorium Wednesday October 19, is a man of wide interests and varied experience. Mr. Bauer's insight into the trend of modern art and the life which it reflects, enables him to see essential facts with a clarity that is worth recording, according to Prof. Phillip G. Clapp, head of the department of music.

"A century ago," Mr. Bauer said, "novels, dramas, etc., were built according to set rules. There was a hero, a villian, the good rewarded, the evil destroyed. People held a naive view of life, a childish morality. Religious convictions, at that time, were primitive; good and bad were divided by a high fence. Today all that is vastly different, I believe. We are almost ready to believe that matters of life and destiny are not to be understood, that problems of ethics and morals are not easy of solution, that the beginning and end of things is beyond our knowledge or comprehension.

New Era Coming

Our literature, drama, muisc and art reflect this tendency very clearly. It is hardly necessary to dwell on the former; any book by Conrad or play by a serious dramatist show it clearly. In painting there is no longer the attempt to include every detail of a scene; the artist paints only the essential, significant things that he sees; he accepts the fact that all life is seen as through a pair of blinders, that each inidividual sees only a small portion of it and that his mission is to represent things as he sees them.

Music Undergoing Change

"All this is as true of music and musical interpretations as it is of other arts. While music has always afforded a freer, more natural means of expression than the other arts, it also has its bounds. Today the accepted forms, sonata, concerto, symphony, etc., are more and more loosely construed."

"Debussy has given us a new system of harmony. With it he has given us a music which does not

FREE CAR RIDES FOR HOMECOMING VISITORS

There will be no weary footsore visitors at Homecoming this year according to Dr. C. W. Wassam, chairman of the automobile committee. Cars will be placed everywhere bearing the sign "Hop in Homecomers." They will carry visitors anywhere about the city free of charge.

A large committee will be scattered about wearing badges with "Ask me" on them. These people are from the official information bureau and are anxious to render service to any visitor desiring it.

A pleasing spectacle greeted the alumni who came in on the Des Moines trains when they found about fifty cars lined up waiting to carry them to their various destinations. All this service is free of charge, a courtesy extended by the University and Commercial club. Free parking space is also provided for out-of-town cars. No taxis are required during Homecoming. Get a car and hop in.

BILLS AND POSTERS PLASTERED ABOUT IN GREAT PROFUSION

It's all over. One the most strenuous political battles ever fought in the University ended last night. The candidates hurried here and there all day, stopping every few steps to grab a fellow classman by the arm, walk with him a few feet, talking earnestly until the classman nodded his head and the candidate started on the wild chase for more voters. He found time to run into Whet's and swallow a coke, talk to a few associates, who were lounging in booths talking to the ladies, to urge them to herd all their sisters to the polls and turn the tide of election.

In front of the liberal arts building one could gather a beautiful collection of posters and bills without the least effort. The north and south doors were crowded with politicians, would-be politicians, just plain bill handers, and candidates themselves, each endeavoring to get their dodger in your hand last so you could read it first. When a green cap approached though, everyone except one or two were very busy.

Ladies Mix in the Whirl

The old old blarney that has been handed out by candidates for forty or more years was distributed this year as ever. "On Iowa" and "We're for Green Caps," however are only two years old. The same old slogans, the same old promises and the same results come from candidates. Pretty ladies were campaigning for their favorites, grabbing an unsophisticated youth or even the sophisticated one and dragging him to the liberal arts building. When they got him there he knew just what to do. Hardened veterans of three and four years experience smoked big black cigars, chewed them fiercely and paced around almost excitedly to see how the different outposts would report.

Bills Posted Everywhere

The campus and sidewalks were covered with posters and made the University look like a billboard more than an educational center. In every nook and cranny were jammed bills whether they could be read from that position or not. The candidates evidently thought that the main object was to dispose of the bills. Bills were pasted so thickly on the sidewalks that it was like walking to class on a rug. Every car and truck were targets for the paste and paper. The "silent cop" at the corner of Clinton and Washington streets, removed to make room for the "I" monument, was loaded down with bills.

A midnight battle was narrowly averted on Tuesday night. Two of the main opposing parties met on the corner of Washington and Clinton, across from Whet's, and one faction accused the other of tearing up their advertisements. This was denied and both threatened dire things for the other. After a lot of argument and a few advances and retreats, the Iowa City police force opportunely appeared and he prevented further altercations and both sides left in good spirits.

Every faction had its party out last night pasting posters and tacking up dodgers. Several times their actions were interfered with by the watchful peace-enforcer. Once the policeman made some remark about our election and a bright little fellow piped up:

"Well, it's a better election than you have anyway."

DAILY IOWAN BOARD MAKES APPOINTMENTS AT MEETING

At a meeting of the board of trustees of the Daily Iowan last night the following members of the editorial staff were appointed. George H. Gallup Jr. A3 of Jefferson, managing editor, Margaret Brady A4 of Fort Dodge, associate editor, George H. ELECT 15 OUT OF 16

Shimek, Dondore, Halford and Holm are Elected Class Presidents

Sweeping victories were won by the Shimek, Dondore, Halford, Holm ticket in the senior, junior, sophomore, and freshman classes, respectively in the election of the college of liberal arts yesterday. The senior class officers elected are as follows: president, Frank Shimek of Iowa City; president, Helen Hayes of Iowa City; secretary, Margaret Brady of Fort Dodge and treasurer, Selid Overland of Story City

Sophomore class officers are: president "Pete Halford of Cherokee; vice president, Howard W. Gordon of Oskaloosa; secretary, Frances Williams of Burlington; and treasurer, Gladys Dufford of Atlantic.

Officers of the freshman class will be Roscoe Holm of Alton; vice president, Leroy E. Hansen of Harlan; secretary, Julia Dondore of Iowa City; treasurer, Clifton Lyons of Davenport.

The total number of votes cast in the college of liberal arts was 1184 votes, somewhat larger than that of former years, according to a senior student who has followed the elections closely for the last four years. It was not as large a vote as was expected by the members of the student council who had charge of the election. The total number of votes cast by the members of the senior class was 204.

The freshmen cast the largest vote 368 votes, or a total of 182 more votes than were cast by the members of the senior class. The sophomore and junior classes cast about the same number of votes, a total of 295 and 299, respectively. The interest taken in the election by the students of the liberal arts college was not at all what it should have been, according to a member of the student council who declared that a vote should have been cast by every student in the election of class officers.

Class elections were also held yesterday in the colleges of law, dentistry, and pharmacy, and in the senior class of the college of applied science. The elections were not in the form of secret ballot in the professional colleges. In most cases the elections were made by nominatoins in the class rooms and then a standing or an oral vote was taken for the candidates.

The following officers were elected in the college of pharmacy: senior class president, Erwin Steiger of Sioux City; vice president, Elsa Becker of Dubuque; secretary and treasurer, Rowena Evans; senior class delegate, Angela Thompson of Creston. Junior class president, Harold E. McGoeye, vice president; S. L. Burroughs of Sac City; secretary and treasurer, Walter Cain; Nell London, class delegate. Evan Bailey of Lewiston was elected student council representative.

The officers elected in the college of law for the school year are as follows: senior class president, Thomas E. Murray of Little Sioux; vice president, Iva Baker of Davenport; secretary and treasurer, William B. Keesey; junior class president, Horace Van Meter of Waterloo; vice president, Gladys Yeaman; secretary and treasurer, G. A. Meyers.

Freshman class president, Aubrey Devine of Des Moines. Student council (junior member) F. G. Darr, senior member who will suc-

JUST DECENCY

It is time to scrub our dirty faces slick our hair for company. Tomorrow and Saturday are visitor's days. It might be urged that we maintain a studied air of refinement or that we outdo the most exacting of conventions, but that would not give the truth of things. The thing, however, that we aim to maintain throughout the school year, just decency, that we aim toetaoinshrdlu ency, is the least that may be expected from the students. Decency is the lowest basis upon which we are willing to work at any time.

But even a reasonable show of decency will require a few things of us that might very easily escape our attention. We are more than parties to a fete in the next few days; we are host to several thousand alumni and friends of the University. We have not only to enjoy ourselves but to make them enjoy themselves. And, perhaps as important as anything else, is the idea that we must earn their respect.

Little things will happen tomorrow that we should try to avoid. Students, a few of them, will be slow to stand and cheer the team, others will fear that their style of whistling is not suited to sing "Old Gold," an alumnus will be crowded from his seat by an undergraduate, and it is too probable that one or two unsportsmanlike remarks will drift out to the Illinois players. These things we must not allow.

Some of our alumni tomorrow will not find the enthusiastic welcome that they have been looking forward to for many weeks, someone will forget to meet the train, accommodations will not have been provided, and students will forget that our team is also their team.

These thoughtless acts, many or all of them, will take place and a few hundred others in addition. But mere decency will require that we keep them as far in the background as possible.

CHEAP ADVERTISING

One of the objectionable features of class elections is the disorder which it makes about the campus. This was shown yesterday by the countless number of hand bills and other printed matter which was profusely strewn over Iowa City.

Paths of varied colored bills with names of candidates in bold face were made to fly in all directions from the campus. Every tree glared with such slogans as "Vote for a more democratic Iowa" and "Vote the representative ticket" which mean little or nothing to the average student. The whole town was flooded with posters advertising candidates for class offices.

Posters serve as a good means of advertisement for many purposes but when they appear in such large numbers they become repulsive to most people and are generally ignored. Such publicity for class elections also entails an unnecessary expenditure. We have no right to interfere with the expenditure of the individual but such advertising appears superfluous to people in general and it must be admitted is an obvious waste.

Ordinarily the individual who is seeking a class office relies upon his platform, his own achievements, or his personality for support in elections. But if the politician feels that he is unable to be elected upon these grounds and is silent concerning what he intends to do if elected, as is the case with many of the class candidates, he resorts to the method of publicity which litters the streets with unsightly hand bills. In general, results from elections of this kind show that student voters wlil do as they please as regards their voting in spite of the profusion of cheap advertising.

Many Universities and colleges have taken a stand against this advertising nuisance and it offers a question worthy of consideration from the student council this year.

BARTOW IS INVESTIGATING WATER SUPPLY IN TULSA

Erwin C. Bartow of the University is at present employed by the Retail Merchants Association of Tulsa, Okla. to represent them in an investigation of the Shell Creek project to determine whether it will furnish temporary supply of water for that city. George C. Earl, municipal water engineer of New Orleans, is the representative for the city. The Tulsa World speaks of the two men as "engineers of national reputation."

These engineers are to base their conclusions on data that has already been obtained by other engineers unless some problem arises that necessitates the use of further information. Whether a third engineer will be appointed jointly by the city and the Retail Merchants association depends on the success of Bartow and Earl in reaching conclusions. Unless they hopelessly disagree on any point or points it is not probable a third engineer will be employed.

Tulsa has been having considerable trouble with her water plant and has been forced to call in help from outside. C. Arthur Brown, head of the water purification bureau of the American Steel and Wire company, who was employed recently to investigate and make recommendations in connection with improvements now in progress at the filter plant, made several charges concerning the plant. He declared at the meeting of the non-partisan water commission that in his investigation he discovered that during that period there was an open valve that allowed unsettled river water to flow directly into the filters. This condition could not have been brought about except by the planning of someone, he declared, because it requires the combined strength of two men to open or close this valve. As a result of this disclosure, B. J. Manly, superintendent at the filteration plant, and H. J. Parker, an employee in the same department, were dismissed.

At the request of the non-partisan water commission Brown made a complete report on the filteration plant, setting forth its needs. In concluding his report, Brown said, "These conditions should be corrected; they require vigorous measures, which so far have not been resorted to. The men in charge of the plant have been negligent in this respect. The city now has available a man who is competent to effect the necessary corrections and bring the plant to a high state of efficiency, provided he will adopt vigorous measures to bring about this result, and also provided he is not handicapped by lack of auhtority and proper support.

CANDIDATES FOR DEGREES MUST MAKE APPLICATIONS

All students in the University expecting to receive either a degree or a certificate (not a state teacher's certificate) at the close of the present semester are requested to call immediately at the Registrar's office in order to make a formal application for the degree or certificate expected, on a printed card provided for the purpose.

This is a very important necessity for every student expecting a degree or certificate if he is to be assured of being recommended in time for graduation upon the date specified. Otherwise it may very well be that a student having fulfilled requirements for graduation in all other particulars may fail to be recommended.

H. C. Dorcas, Registrar.

W. A. A. ENTERTAINED ALL FROSH WOMEN LAST NIGHT

The first meeting of W. A. A., Women's Athletic Association, an organization for all women interested in athletics, was held last night in the women's gymnasium. All freshmen women who were interested in athletics were guests of the evening.

The program was started with a grand march led by Geraldine Mars A4 of Iowa City. This was followed by short speeches by the heads of different sports.

A loving cup was presented to Victoria Boyles A2 of Iowa City, who won the singles in the tennis tournament last spring. A dance by Dolly Henderson A4 of Hawkeye was followed by an exhibition of the Seal's club, the organization for all women who excell in swimming.

Refreshments of pumpkin pie and ice cream closed the meeting.

This first meeting of the year had for its purpose the promotion of interest in women's athletics. In order to enter this organization it is necessary for each woman to earn fifty points. These may be made by taking five hikes which will cover a distance of thirty-five miles, or by joining a recreational swimming class for twelve lessons, or by taking five canoe trips to Coralville, or making a first or second team in any sport.

The officers of the organization are: Pauline Spencer A3 of Des Moines, president; Dorothy Brooks A3 of Tiffin, vice president; Ethel Spencer A2 of Oloathe, Colorado, secretary and Gladys Taggert A3 of Spencer, treasurer.

BASKETBALL PRACTICE WILL BEGIN OCT. 17

Coach James N. Ashmore stated yesterday that the first call for varsity basketball practice will be Monday October 17. Coach Ashmore is going to avoid the delay of former seasons by getting an earlier start in practice in order to get a team in shape that will be able to give a good account of itself the first game.

New teams to appear at Iowa this year are Ohio and Michigan. Must interest will center in the games with these two schools for it will be their first appearance on Iowa's floor. Iowa met Michigan at Ann Arbor last season.

The following varsity men will be out to contend for former positions: Captain Frank Shimek A4, Carl Lohman A4, George Frohwein A4, Richard McGovney A3 and Aubrey Devine A4 who will report at the clase of the football season. Although Iowa loses the services of Bob Kauffman, one of the most dependable guards in the conference last year, Coach Ashmore is more than confident he will develop a better team than has represented Iowa in past seasons.

A call for the freshmen to report for basketball practice will be issued later, when Coach Albert Jenkins is able to devote more time to the developing of future varsity material .

HOUSE DECORATIONS AND BEST FLOAT TO RECEIVE $15 PRIZES

Interest in Homecoming activities is now centered on the floats which are to form part of the pageant. The prize which is being offered by the Rotary club to the best float which apepars in the parade has been the incentive to each organization to do its best. Mr. Harry Green, president of the Rotary club, has appointed Mr. Harold Hands, Mr. Frank X. Freyder and Dr. Bundy Allen to act as judges for the best float.

Prof. Rollin M. Perkins, chairman of the decoration committee, has announced that the $15 prizes, offered to sororities and fraternities for the best house decorations, are for exterior holiday trimmings instead of interior as many were led to suppose. Professor Perkins has made arrangements to furnish paper decoration material at cost to all would-be house decorators and car decorators.

The sub-committee in section two, which pictures the University of To*day, are coming* along with their plans very well, according to Miss Marion R. Lyon, chairman. Some of the fraternities have not yet reported their plans. It is the desire of the committee to have each fraternity represented in some way, if only by a car carrying the fraternity's insignia.

The campus luncheon, under the direction of Mrs. Julia B. Meyer of the extension division, is under way now. Booths for temporary kitchens are already under construction. All of the church in the city are cooperating to arrange for the luncheon which will be served from 11 o'clock on.

ENGINEERS TO CONSTRUCT ARCH FOR HOMECOMING

An arch to reach clear across Washington street between the Engineer and the Physics buildings is now under construction by the Engineers for Homecoming. The arch is to be in the form of the Engineer's insignia and will have the words "Welcome Alumni" on the span that goes across the street. Two towers will stand on either side of the street and the span with a small turret in the center will reach from one tower to the other. The two towers will be placed on the edge of the curbing, resting on the pavement and the span will be a forty-foot one. The arch will be covered with heavy paper to give it the true representation of the Engineer's insignia. The junior class has charge of the work and promise that it will all be in place by Friday night in time for the whole Homecoming celebration.

CHOOSE CAPTAINS FOR CROSS COUNTRY RUN BETWEEN COLLEGES

H. C. Morrow D2 of Dows, B. E. Goodrich M1 of Paulina, DeWitt Smith L2 of Clarence, F. D. Gibson S2 of Missouri Valley, and H. F. Noble A2 of Fort Madison were chosen to captain their respective college cross country teams at the local cross country run here Saturday afternoon, according to Coach George T. Bresnahan. The run will cover a course of less than two miles on the south river road, and the runners will leave Iowa field at 11 o'clock.

In preparation for the meet with Cornell here on October 22, Coach Bresnahan sent his men through one of the hardest runs of the year yesterday. The whole squad, both freshman and varsity, were given a quick mile, which was followed by a short rest. Various members of the squad then demonstrated the proper form to use in running and starting. The freshmen were sent ahead for a light run, as they are taking only one half the regular work, and the varsity squad was given some calisthenics and breathing exercises, and then sent through a fast quarter mile.

According to Coach Bresnahan, the varsity loked fine in their first real workout of the year yesterday. Both the mile and quarter mile runs were taken in too fast time, and the prospect for a high class cross country team this year is very good.

Although all negotiaitions have not yet been completed with Cornell, it is probable that they will b pleted by the last of this week. The run will be over the three and one half mile course.

WINTRODE SELECTED BY GOVERNOR TO ATTEND CEREMONY

John H. Wintrode A3 of Winterset was selected by Governor Nate E. Kendall as one of the twelve men from this state to attend the burial in Washington of the unknown dead soldier in Arlington cemetery on November 11. All of his expenses are to be paid by the state of Iowa.

One man is being sent to this ceremony to represent each 10,000 soldiers who fought in the war. Wintrode was selected as one of the Iowa men on the basis of his war record. He was a member of Co. A of Winterset, of the 168th infantry.

HAROLD BAUER IS MAN OF MANY EXPERIENCES

spurn dissonance and the knowledge that every time a chord is struck we hear from it vibrations of tones underneath it and above it, that we know neither the beginning nor the end of these tones.

"The interpretive musician strives nowadays to bring out the larger lines of composition and its deeper meanings, rather than to render every note perfectly and exactly as it is written. He will take any liberty with it that he sees fit in order to bring out some hidden beauty or some new idea that he finds in it. Lights and shades, delicate and harsh, subtle and obvious, as they exist in life, are things that your modern musician strives for."

Ticket Sale Begins

Tickets for the concert by Mr. Bauer are now on sale at the book and music stores and also may be secured from students in the music department. Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday these tickets may be exchanged for reservations. The price of the tickets is one dollar and a half.

Aubrey made several runs of twenty-five and thirty yards behind the best looking interference seen in practice this year. Shuttleworth who took Miller's place for a time, made several long gains and was especially good in putting the opposite end out of play. "Doc" Miller made one good run of fifty yards. Anderson, at fullback, seemed more aggressive than usual and lunged over the freshmen line for one of the touchdowns.

During the scrimmage Kriz at right guard did not come up to expectations and was replaced by Mead who showed up well, spilling several of the freshmen plays. Coach Jones made it plain to everyone on the squad that the thing he wanted was fight and that if a man on the seconds had more fight than one on the varsity, the second string man would get the place. From the aggressive way in which the varsity went at their work there will not be a change in the lineup.
