HOOSIERS AND GOPHERS LOOK GOOD TO HILL

Both Elevens Composed of Husky and Speedy Players

TEAMS HANDICAPPED

Injuries Keep Stars Out of Saturday's Game at Minneapolis

Major Ray C. Hill, assistant coach of football returned from Minneapolis with great respect for both the teams that played there last Saturday. "Both Minnesota and Indiana will be hard teams to beat," he said, "for they are both built of big husky men who play a hard fighting game. In the last quarter Indiana had the ball inside of Minnesota's ten yard line on three different occasions and they couldn't put it over. Captain Kyle, fullback on the Indiana team, is a big powerful man and is a fine line plunger. Brown playing quarter on the Minnesota team played the best football of the Minnesota backs and was especially good on returning punts."

Have Good Passers

Assistant Coach James N. Ashmore said last night, "Gilstead is Minnesota's passer, while Kyle does the passing for Indiana. Indiana threw three eligible men out on one side of the line, and Minnesota tried to cover them with one back, which would not have been possible if Kyle had taken more time and placed his passes accurately. As it was, he was continually throwing the ball over the heads of his men. Even then Indiana completed enough passes to take them within striking distance of Minnesota's goal at least three times in the last quarter. Minnesota's touchdown was the result of one long pass of at least forty yards from Gilstead to Martineau who was forced out of bounds on Indiana's five yard line, and from there the ball was carried over."

Teams Were Handicapped

Both teams were handicapped because of having injured men on the side line. Hanny and Donovan, Indiana's regular ends did not start the game, although Hanny got in the game later on, and he looked very good as he threw the next play for a loss. Minnesota had to get along without the services of Oss, who was not in shape for the Indiana game, but who will probably be able to play against Iowa.

"The punting was fairly good as both Kyle and Martineau averaged about forty yards on their kicks," continued Coach Ashmore, "and three kicks were covered in fairly good shape. If either one of these teams gets to playing the kind of ball it should, it will be a tough customer for any opponent. Teams that have a hard time getting started nearly always are hard to beat at the end of the season, while teams that have an easy thing often go backwards and end the season in poorer shape than they started."

ALUMNUS GETS A GOOD POSITION IN FAR EAST

Hamilton Johnson, who was graduated from the college of liberal arts in 1914, and who held various positions on the staff of The Daily Iowan, sailed for Tokio, Japan on August 27. Upon his arrival in Japan he assumed the position of private secretary to B. W. Fleisher, who is part owner of the largest importing silk and yarn company in the world.

Mr. Fleisher is also owner of "The Japan Advertiser," a daily newspaper printed in English, which has the largest circulation of any foreign daily published in the Far East. Mr. Johnson's new duties are principally in connection with the management of the newspaper.

He attended the University of Iowa four years and was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, and sports editor of The Daily Iowan in 1913-14. After being graduated from the University, Mr. Johnson held positions on the Cedar Rapids Gazette, Minneapolis Tribune, and was night editor of the St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

3310 I TICKETS SOLD THIS YEAR, BREAKING ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS

The sale of "I" tickets for this year has reached the total of 3310, and all except a few tickets have been sold. This year the demand for year tickets has been greater than ever before, according to officials in charge. "Students are now realizing that by the purchase of a year ticket they bring about a substantial saving, if they wish to see most of the athletic contests," said Coach Howard H. Jones.

"To my knowledge," said track coach George T. Bresnahan, "the sale this year of 3310 year tickets is the greatest number ever sold in one year at the University of Iowa." Last year 2292 tickets were sold, and in 1919 the sale reached a total of 2000.

According to authorities, this increase in sales is due to larger enrollment, better caliber of athletic teams at the University and a better spirit among the student body. At the Iowa-Illinois game, over 5000 tickets were reserved by "I" ticket holders.

This year athletic tickets contain thirty-eight admission tickets, which entitle the holder to admittance to all football, basketball, track, wrestling, and baseball games played at home during the season.

MACKAYE WILL GIVE LECTURE

Playwright Talks Tomorrow In Natural Science Auditorium

Percy Mackaye, playwright, will deliver a University lecture from his own works, and especially from "Dog Town Commons," at 8 o'clock Wednesday night in the natural science auditorium. "Dog Town Commons" is one of his latest writings, and was published only a few months ago. This lecture will be open to the public and no admission fee will be charged.

Mackaye has been at Miami University, at Oxford, Ohio, for the past year and he has a fellowship in Poetry and Dramatics. He is an artist who encourages original and creative work. He has had the opportunity of living in the community, and learning to know the students who are interested in poetry and dramatics.

Spoke at Illinois Recently

Recently Percy Mackaye made a visit to the University of Illinois lecturing and rehearsing plays. "He talked to the student body there on the necessity of a campus theatre, and he aroused so much interest over his idea that the dramatic and literary organizations have become enthused, and are planning to have a theatre similar to the one at this University."

Entertained by Players

Thursday afternoon from 3 o'clock to 5 o'clock the University players will give a reception in Mackaye's honor in the liberal arts drawing room. This reception is for the purpose of giving the faculty and student body an opportunity to meet and talk with the playwright in an informal manner. Thursday evening he will be a guest of the University players at a dinner in the Jefferson hotel. This will afford the players a chance to discuss their plans with Mackaye.

Previous to the rise of the curtain, at 8:30 o'clock, for "Mater," Mackaye will give a short talk in dedication of the new University theatre. The theatre orchestra will appear for the first time at the production of "Mater."

HAPPINESS IS VESPER THEME

"Does Not Come Through Making it First Aim of Life," Says Kent

"Happiness is a by-product of life," said Prof. Charles Foster Kent of Yale university in his address at the natural science auditorium Sunday afternoon. "It comes, not through making it the prime aim of life, but in conforming to the surrounding conditions, and in meeting situations which test the caliber of the individual."

"Jesus' Way to Attain Happiness," the topic of Professor Kent's address, was explained as coming through the possession of a receptive vision, a modest outlook, a zeal for right, an attitude of creative co-operation and a readiness to give everything if the cause demands.

Learn From Everybody

According to Professor Kent, we learn something from everybody. Occasionally, from some people, we learn what to avoid in our search for happiness. Professor Kent emphasized the idea that true happiness may come from sorrow, misfortune, disaster. Pain is the spur which opens our minds, and makes us appreciate the rough places in life. Out of an experience of this kind comes a sense of peace and increasing faith in God.

Modesty, designated by Professor Kent as being a characteristic found in the truly great and heroic people, is a requisite of happiness. The truly great person does not ask for appreciation. When fear of the lack of appreciation is displayed, it is a certain sign that modesty is not present.

"We Americans believe in advertising as a means to an end—so far so good. But when it comes to self-advertising, it is not received as well. It is abhorred, distrusted. Those who are eager to serve, for service sake, are pushed forward; they are the ones who enjoy the honor and gratitude of their fellow-men."

Many Classes Mentioned

Professor Kent mentioned other classes of people, if they can be called classes, who have found happiness through their own recipe. The person who is ever on the hunt for righteousness, who yearns to know and do what is right, is happy; the person who is merciful, who is considerate of the actions of others, who creates an atmosphere of joy (for after all we live in the atmosphere which we create), is happy; the person who is pure in heart and mind is happy because he sees God everywhere—his vision is not clouded; the person who makes, creates, completes and perfects plans is happy from the mere joy of creating; and last of all, the person who is persecuted for doing right, who knows what it is to suffer, finds happiness.

Special music was prepared for the Vesper services Sunday afternoon. For the prelude, Mrs. Edwin D. Starbuck gave Adagio from Sonata op. 7 by Beethoven. For the response, a double trio sang Mendelssohn's "Lift up Thine Eyes." A violin solo by Prof. Frank R. Kendrie, head of the department of stringed instruments, and an anthem by the vesper choir "Send Out Thy Light" completed the musical program.

TEAM WILL LEAVE FOR LAFAYETTE NEXT THURSDAY

The Howling 300 will accompany the team to the train Thursday and will also meet the team on its return. A big "pop" meeting will probably be staged before the team leaves.

The Iowa football team will leave for Lafayette, Indiana, Thursday at 12:25 a. m. and will arrive at Chicago at 7:20. Breakfast will be served at the Grand Central station. Leaving Chicago at 8:55 a. m. on the Big Four the team will arrive at Lafayette at 1 p. m. The following day they will meet Purdue. The team will leave Lafayette at 2:05 a. m. Sunday and will arrive in Chicago at 7:55 Sunday morning, leaving Chicago at 10 they will arrive in Iowa City at 3:41 Sunday afternoon.

VARSITY TAKES HARD PRACTICE

Jones Gives Entire Squad Workout on Tackling Dummies

The varsity put in the hardest night's work of the past two weeks last night. Coach Howard H. Jones took his linemen up to the big dummies and gave them all a good practice in charging, while Assistant Coach Hill gave the backs a long practice in starting, blocking, and ended by making them all hit the tackling dummy.

Coach Jones then put the whole team through a long signal drill, using several sets of backs. Shuttleworth and Seiling were both used at quarterback, while Miller ran signals in Shuttleworth's place. Macrae went in for Glenn Devine. Aubrey Devine ran the team at first, and after retiring in favor of the other two quarterbacks, spent the rest of the time helping smooth out the plays. Locke ran signals with his old time pep, but was soon taken out and Anderson was used in his place.

Belding Still Limping

Belding was limping last night as his ankle is bothering him, but that did not prevent him from catching several long passes. "Doc" Miller's charley-horse showed up again last night, and he limped throughout the practice.

Brookings, who won the 220 yard dash last Saturday, was out in a football uniform last night, with the intention of trying for a place next year. Kriz took Mead's place at right guard toward the end of the scrimmage.

Second String Poor

The team ran through its signals in good style last night. There was lots of pep and fight and the whole team was on the jump all of the time. The second string back field however, did not look extra good as they did not seem to get the spirit of the play. They missed signals several times, failed to go the proper places at other times, and were very slow in getting started. Several times the backs got in Aubrey's way on off-tackle plunges or end runs.

Purdue Team Reorganized

If the varsity does not get the right spirit they will run into a snag when they play Purdue next Saturday. According to the late reports the Purdue team is beginning to look like a football team for the first time this year. Coach Dietz of Purdue has reorganized his team the changed line-up is running smoothly, and they expect to hold Iowa to a lower score than Chicago made. Captain Carmen playing right tackle for Purdue did not get started in the Notre Dame game until the last half, but when he began to fight he more than held his own with Shaw of Notre Dame. Birk, the best man that Purdue has, is now playing center and he is expected to stop any holes in the center of the line.

THIRTY FRESHMEN TRY FOR SWIMMING TEAM

With the largest squad out for the freshman swimming team that has ever appeared in the history of the University, prospects are good for a team that will give the varsity team some real competition. The thirty freshmen are working every day except Monday, and are showing much enthusiasm in their work. If they keep up their present enthusiasm, by the time the season opens they should be able to give a good account of themselves in meets against the varsity team.

Included in the list are several high school athletes who will probably be on the yearling team, and also on the varsity in years to come. R. C. Wilton A1 of West Des Moines is one of the most promising men. He is fast in the dashes and has distinguished himself in these events on several occasions.

T. Traeger A1 of Clinton is another good man on the freshman squad. Traeger won first place in the dives in both the Ames and Iowa invitation meets last year and he is expected to make a creditable showing here this season.

Ostrun in the plunge is another promising freshman.

OPEN HOUSE BRINGS MINUTE INSPECTION OF SORORITY WARES

And there was an aged man in their midst who stood himself upon a high fence-post and spoke to the people. And he said, "You marvel at the time when men beat their wives or when they sold them in the open market, but I remember a time when they had a thing called 'open house.'"

"Then the young girls did assemble together in their several houses and place themselves in rows for inspection. And the young men of the land would direct their courses to the various houses where they did inspect the young girls and appraise them each according to their separate qualities. The men did pass before the long line of highly ornamented and bedecked girls, where they did grip the hand to test the metal, hold the eye to catch some chance glint of fire, scrutinize the form and the features lest some hidden beauty pass unnoticed, engage in banter that they might try their wit, and, withal, did give them every proper test, for there was a multitude from which to choose.

"And the young female did use many means to attract the male. She did smile to warm his blood, clasp tightly his hand to quicken his pulse, and give him many a saucy word; she did give him of food that she had cooked to show her skill, and make tidy the house that its neatness might awaken in him some thought of the comfort of his future home."

"And when a young man would find a fair and beautiful creature that suited his fancy, he would place upon her his mark and claim her from among the many as his own. But often he would come from his voyage to the many houses and be sad, for he had failed to find among them the one that might please his exacting tastes. And he would mourn and grieve himself, lamenting that such a thing must be."

And when the people had heard, they took themselves their several ways to their homes and murmured among themselves about the queer ways of an ancient people.

SHIMEK DRILLS MEN IN PASSES

Takes Charge of Practice While Ashmore Works At Football

Captain Frank Shimek had charge of the varsity basketball practice yesterday afternoon in the absence of Coach James N. Ashmore who was assisting Coach Howard H. Jones in teaching the freshmen football men the Indiana and Minnesota plays. Captain Shimek drilled the men in both offensive and defensive basketball work.

A pass followed by a short shot at the basket was taken up first in the course of the afternoon's practice. Captain Shimek lined the men up in two strings, one on each side of the basket. One string of men fed the ball to the other with a long pass. Each man receiving the ball took a short shot at the basket. The men are well drilled in this phase of the work as evidenced by the few misses that were made.

Dribbling was especially stressed in the practice. Captain Shimek again lined the men up in two strings, one on each side of the basket. A long pass was made to each player who dribbled into the basket and made a short shot. Barton, captain of last year's freshmen basketball team, is showing good form in this phase of work.

Later a five man defense was strung around one basket and an opposing offensive team was sent down the floor with the ball to see if they could penetrate the defense.

Shimek Shows Speed

Later the men were divided into two teams and put into practice the criss-cross short pass formation.

Postma, Kepler, Doering, Emmert, and Fimmen were lined up on one side and Captain Shimek, Hicks, Arneson, Voltmer and Burgitt were

Prentiss A4 of Iowa City, Wilbur J. Day A3 of Cedar Rapids, Roscoe C. Nash A3 of Tipton, Agnella Gunn A3 of Sioux City, Ruth Van Law A3 of Marshalltown. Little Interest Evidenced

The election was characteristic of student council and social committee elections in the past two years, little interest being evidenced in the liberal arts college and little or no electioneering on the part of the candidates or their friends. After the petitions were in Saturday morning everybody seemed contented to sit quiet and wait until after the voting was over and find out what happened.

Membership Now Complete

The membership of the student council for the year is now complete with the single exception of the representative from the junior class of the college of applied science. An election will be held by that class on Wednesday to choose its representative, according to John S. Holbrook S3 of Onawa, class president. The senior representative from the college of applied science is Verner R. Muth S3 of Little Cedar. Representatives from the other colleges are as follows: college of dentistry, Edmund J. Harrington D4 of Sioux City, Donald H. Soper D3 of Ames, college of medicine, Harold G. King M4 of Iowa City, Joseph C. Risser M3 of Des Moines, college of law, Clarence P. WHY THE BAND?

It is rather disconcerting to learn that anything bordering on the lack of appreciation should crop out on Iowa campus. When one hears students, Old Gold students, questioning among themselves whether or not the University band deserves such recognition as is accorded it by the more enthusiastic Iowans, his shoes begin to hurt, his collar becomes chokingly tight, there is a bad taste in his mouth, and the air is bad; he is uncomfortable.

Such an attitude is not only discreditable but it will serve to irritate a few old and scattered sores that might otherwise have gradually disappeared. The band, at least within recent years, has received treatment at various times that is not altogether fitting to be bestowed upon any organization that is progressing with the growth of the University, that is always willing to give its services to do what it can to generate college spirit and provide wholesome entertainment, and that operates on an open financial basis. On the football field, there have been instances of discourtesy, totally uncalled for. The band deserves, and under well-ordered conditions will receive, consideration everywhere; provisions on the field for the band should be contemplated in advance, and this has not consistently been the case; it is not to be considered a worthless group of men who want free admission to football games and should, accordingly, be placed any place on the field just so they won't be in the road; it is not a "nuisance."

Ours is no mean band. In concert work last year it gave creditable interpretations to compositions that bands of the mediocre sort or better do not attempt to play. It is the band that has put "On Iowa" into the heart and soul of all good Iowans; it is the band that adds the thrill to the pep meetings; it is the University band.

It is scarcely probable that even the band members themselves will believe that any sentiment voiced against them is not representative of the attitude of the student body. Students can not afford to discredit the band in any way and right-thinking students will not brand it a nuisance, a useless ornament, or give it any other such qualification.

The band is peculiarly adapted to typify the college spirit of the institution that it represents; band members will reflect the enthusiasm of their backers and of their daily associates. The majority of students realize this and are not questioning the worth of their band.

There was at least one man who came from open house Sunday sworn to eternal bachelorhood.

GRADUATES FROM BIG TEN UNIVERSITIES HAVE DINNER IN CLEVELAND

The husky cheers of thirteen Iowa grads joined those of 400 other Cleveland alumni of the ten Western Conference Universities when T. F. McDonald, LL. B. Iowa '18, concluded Iowa's response at the first Big Ten meeting at the University club, Cleveland, Monday night, October 17.

To make possible social, athletic and civic co-operation between western conference alumni living in Cleveland, and to shift the center of athletic interest from the East to the Middle West, the Big Ten gathering was planned by a committee representing each of the western conference universities. J. M. Hickerson, B. A. '20, represented Iowa on this committee. At the first dinner, at which T. F. McDonald spoke for the University, the Western Conference Association of Cleveland was formed.

Iowa graduates living in Cleveland intend to play their full part in this movement. Immediately after the Monday evening meeting was adjourned, the thirteen Old Gold men present organized the University of Iowa Association of Cleveland. T. F. McDonald is president of the association, B. C. Boer, B. E. Iowa '13, is the Iowa Association's representative to the governing board of the Western Conference Association, and J. M. Hickerson is executive secretary and publicity director.

Old Gold alumni who were present at the Big Ten dinner and who are charter members of the University of Iowa Alumni Association in Cleveland are: E. H. Bailey, B. E. '10; B. C. Boer, B. E. '13; Alfred V. Boyesen, M. D. '21; W. A. Craven, B. A. '18; A. M. Currier, B. A. '02; E. V. Evans, B. E. '17; J. M. Hickerson, B. A. '20; T. F. McDonald, LL. B. '18; F. H. Meggers, B. E. '00; Frank E. Sieben, B. A. '20; Elmer Siegling, B. A. '18; David M. Terwilliger, B. A. '13; and Carl B. Webster, B. A. '16.

Gatherings Planned

At least twenty Iowa graduates live in Cleveland and the number may be larger. Also several former members of the Old Gold student body vote in the Forest City. And the organized alumni have set their first objective at a membership of twenty before January 1 next. To keep the old grads in touch with each other, a monthly luncheon will be held on the last Tuesday of each month. Social gatherings have been planned for the winter months. All in all the plans now indicate that the University of Iowa alumni in Cleveland have made a long delayed move that will keep them in contact with each other and will keep more active their interests in and memories of Old Gold.

FRESHMAN DENTS LOSE IN ENROLLMENT HERE

The freshman dents have suffered a great reduction in numbers as compared with the classes of the last few years. But fifteen men represent the class of 1925 as compared with the ninety-five in last year's freshman class.

The reason for the small number of men this year is the additional requirement of one year of liberal arts work before entering the freshman class of the college of dentistry. Many applications were received this fall, but few of the applicants had the proper entrance requirements, although some had taken two or three years in the liberal arts college. The subjects required include English, physics, and chemistry and enough electives to make up thirty hours of work besides the usual high school requirements for admission to the University.

A few years ago the college of dentistry was a very small one, but since the erection of the new building the enrollment has increased very rapidly, until now Iowa is represented by one of the best colleges of dentistry in the country. Over one hundred men are taking pre-dent work at the present time, so that indications point that Iowa will have a much larger freshman class.

HEALTH SERVICE IS OFFERED TO ALL THE UNIVERSITY STUDENTS

The department of student health provides a health service for students, and has recently issued a small pamphlet telling students how to take advantage of it. Some extracts from the pamphlet are given below, and will explain how the department operates.

Students who are sent to the University hospital or to the isolation hospital must pay the following board: University hospital, $2.50 to $3.50 a day; Isolation hospital, $3.50 a day.

Gives Examinations

The department gives a complete physical examination to all students who take physical or military training. Those for whom this examination is compulsory are notified by cards; others can make appointments at the office.

Vaccinations for small pox and typhoid fever are urged and will be made upon request.

Students are asked to report any unsanitary conditions they may observe around their rooming or boarding houses.

Excuses for illness are issued only through the department of student health.

The personnel of the department is as follows:

Seven on Staff Dr. W. J. McDonald, director, 621 Summit street, telephone 2130. Dr. C. R. Thomas, assistant director, Quadrangle, telephone 2230. Dr. N. W. Loud, assistant, Quadrangle. Dr. Marian O'Harrow, assistant

FACULTY TO BE REPRESENTED

Three Members Will Be Invited to Be Present

At the last meeting of the Interfraternity conference it was decided to invite three members of the faculty to be present at the meetings of the conference. For the last two years the faculty has not been represented at the meetings of the conference.

A list of eight names has been submitted to President Jessup from which he has been asked to select three to represent the faculty, Dean Robert E. Rienow to be one of them.

The following is a list of the names submitted: Dean Chester A. Phillips of the college of commerce, Dean Dudley O. McGovney, Prof. Herbert F. Goodrich, and Prof. Rollin M. Perkins of the college of law, Prof. Daniel M. Brumfiel of the college of medicine, and Prof. H. C. Larsen of the English department.

The list of those selected will be given out in a few days, according to E. J. Harrington D4 of Sioux City.

CHURCH SOCIAL POPULAR

Entertainments This Year Are Having Larger Crowds Than Before

That the "old fashioned church socials" have come to their own again was proven by the great number of students who have attended them this year. This is the consensus of opinion among the ministers and pastors of the different denominational churches, whose congregations have had their first social of the year.

Old Timers Attend

They said that the most gratifying fact is that it is not only the "green-caps" who were interested in the entertainments, which were wholesome amusements and games, but also the "old timers," who have come back to the University. On the whole, the church socials which were held recently were all very well attended.

Six churches have already held their first social of the year. The Christian church gave its first entertainment on October 1, and a monthly social party is being planned for the benefit of the University students, as well as the church members. The Methodist, Presbyterian, Unitarian, Baptist and the English Lutheran churches, also held their socials at this time. In all these entertainments there was a greater number of students than attended than in previous years. The average attendance of these socials, according to estimates, was about 150 persons.

Creates Acquaintances

In speaking of the great attendance in these church socials, one church authority said that the increased number of University students who attended is due to the fact that their entertainments afford a good social atmosphere, and create a wide horizon for acquaintanceship and fellowship.

Although the main purpose of these church socials is to stimulate the interest of the students in the activities of their respective churches while they are in the University, the immediate benefit is to enable them to know other students than those in their immediate circle of friends.

FIFTY STUDENTS REPORT TO HEALTH DEPARTMENT DAILY

"A few cases of bronchitis have already developed but there will be many more unless students take better care of their colds" said Dr. W.

J. McDonald, director of the Student Health department. The Student Health department has been averaging about fifty patients a day and most of these are students with severe colds. "The germs are very easily transmitted from one person to another and any one suffering from a cold should be careful in regard to coughing and sneezing in public places" according to Dr. McDonald. It is easier to prevent colds than it is to cure them.

The Student Health department is doing all it can in regard to keeping the students in good physical condition. Over 300 freshmen have already been examined and most of these are in good condition. Before the freshmen are examined they are given a vaccination. Dr. McDonald urges all students to be vaccinated for small-pox as this means is the only preventative against this disease. "Now is the time to take this vaccination even though there are no cases of small pox at present. This disease is usually the most severe during the winter and those who are vaccinated now need not worry as they have a good preventative against the disease," said Dr. McDonald.

FIELD DAY IS TO BE FEATURED BY A FIELD BALL GAME

Field day, which will be held sometime in November, will be featured this year by a game of field ball between teams from the sophomore and freshmen classes according to Miriam W. Taylor, instructor in physical education for women. Both the freshman and sophomores have started training for the event, and indications point to a very strongly contested game.

According to Miss Taylor, field ball is a game somewhat like basketball in that guarding is similar, but it is different since each team is composed of eleven players. The forward pass from football is also used, but the pass has to be thrown five yards forward. If this is not done, the ball goes to the opponents on the spot where it was thrown. The game is played in four quarters of ten minutes each.

Training rules have been chosen and are expected to be followed by those out for the teams. Each girl must have at least eight hours of sleep every night, and must be in bed not later than 11 o'clock. No eating between meals will be allowed with the exception of plain ice cream, milk, crackers, or fresh juicy fruits. Three regular meals each day must be eaten.

COLLEGE PRESS

Columbus, O.—Through the death of Gilbert H. Bargar, and the serious injury to Raymond Schirtzinger, in the automobile accident Tuesday noon at Fifteenth Avenue and High Street a traffic officer will be stationed at the campus entrance every day, according to Captain Dyer of the police department.

The matter was taken up at police headquarters Thursday night. In Captain Dyer's opinion, there should be an officer at Fifteenth Avenue and High Street from 8 to 9 a. m., from 12 a. m. to 1 p. m., and from 4 to 5 p. m.

In the absence of Chief of Police French, who is out of the city, this action was taken by Captain Dyer at the Thursday meeting.

What Did We Mean

A short time ago we ran an advertisement saying "The Statistical Department of the Eastman Kodak Co., computes average sale of Kodaks and finds per capita purchases here more than doubles any other city 2 1/2 times as large in the entire country."

Because so many people have inquired as to what we meant we wish to explain. The sale of Kodaks and Brownie cameras in Iowa City is twice as large as that in any other town up to 25,000 in population, some of these towns having as high as four dealers, and as we are the only people here buying Kodaks and Cameras direct from Eastman, we feel justly proud.

Surely nothing but good service and honest merchandising could make such a record.

CURTIS SPEAKS TO CLASSES IN PHYSICAL EDUCATION YESTERDAY

Henry S. Curtis, organizer and later secretary of the Playground Association of America, delivered a lecture yesterday afternoon in the natural science auditorium to the women's classes in physical education. He was introduced by Prof. Forrest C. Ensign who said, "Mr. Curtis is a man who is recognized in our country and other countries as a leader in playground activities."

Courses Obsolete

Mr. Curtis' subject for yesterday was "The New Era in Play." According to Mr. Curtis the course of study in the schools of America is obsolete. In America the boys and girls who need the exercise most do not get it. Only a small percentage of the boys and girls in the American schools get most of the exercise. "In America," Mr. Curtis said, "we have made very little provision for the children of the public schools. Since the war twenty-eight states have passed compulsory physical educational laws. In America it was found that one-third of the children of the public schools were undernourished. We have stressed the spiritual rather than the physical side in the child's education."

Mr. Curtis is a firm believer in physical education for the child from an early age, through all of his school days. "The physical education of the American child has been out of joint. Men fail to realize how much conditions have changed. Work which has been the play of yesterday has passed. We do not allow children to work at an early age as we used to. Instead of early work we must give them the playground."

Good System in England

According to Mr. Curtis the English schools have the best system of physical education in the world. In England everyone in the schools must go out for athletics. One-half of the schools in England require the students to participate in four games. They are football, cricket, hockey, and tennis, while one-half of the schools require two games.

Germany has also a very good system of physical education for its children. In Germany the children are required to take daily exercise both during school and after school days.

"In America we have not taken stock of the true situation. There are three things that make a new problem. First, the new conditions in America. Physical work has been practically eliminated. Second, organization of our life. People are more and more moving to the city. Third the shortening of the hours of labor. All of these things must be taken into consideration and a new and compulsory system of physical education must be instituted in the schools, for it is in the schools that the children begin their training."

Laws Should Be Passed

Mr. Curtis stated that Iowa is one of the few states in which physical training in the schools is not compulsory. He emphasized the fact that physical training is a necessity and proper laws should be passed to insure a well developed body in the future citizens of this country.

Mr. Curtis was formerly secretary of the Playground Association of America, which he organized. He is the author of many books on physical education, and has contributed many articles to leading magazines. He is now on a lecture tour through the west.

EXTENSION DIVISION GIVES AID TO POOR PEOPLE OF IOWA

The Iowa State conference of social work is giving assistance to unfortunate people in unorganized towns throughout the state. Unorganized towns are those which have no organized social committee. Louise Cottrell makes trips throughout the State, visiting the towns which have conflicting problems among the poor and unfortunate. Miss Cottrell is the secretary and treasurer of the Iowa State conference of social work and is also the social worker for the Extension Division of the University of Iowa. It is the purpose of the Iowa State conference of social work to make the people realize what the benefits of such an organization are and to teach them the disadvantages of not having such an organization.

There are only sixteen towns in the State which have such social organizations. They are: Burlington, Cedar Rapids, Creston, Davenport, Des Moines, Fort Dodge, Grinnell, Iowa City, Muscatine, Oskaloosa, Ottumwa, Sioux City, Waterloo, Charles City, Council Bluffs, and Newton.

Instead of giving food and money to the poor the extension division finds a means by which the unfortunate can make a permanent living. Not only poor people are taken into consideration but cripples and insane people are helped. In case an insane person in one of the towns is found to be neglecting his family he will not be sent to the Insane asylum but will be brought to the Psychopathic hospital of the university for treatment.

REPORTS WILL BE RECEIVED FROM IOWA-PURDUE GAME

Reports from Iowa-Purdue game Saturday will be received on Iowa field if the weather permits. The wire has already been engaged, which will be operated by an Iowa man at Purdue. In case the weather is not favorable the reports will be announced in the natural science auditorium.

Prof. Louis Pelzer of the history department and a member of the athletic board will be in charge of the reports here.

A board will be used similar to the one used last year to show the position of the ball after every play. An admission charge of fifty cents will be charged for those not holding year tickets.

"DO PURDUE," SAY JUNIOR ENGINEERS

The sign to appear on the engineering building for the Purdue game next Saturday will be, "DO PURDUE", according to John S. Holbrook S3 of Onawa, president of the junior engineering class. Each week before the football games the engineers have a slogan appropriate for the game. This sign will appear on the building in a day or two, and will remain until after the game Saturday at Lafayette, Indiana.

KENT TO SPEAK AT CARLETON

Yale Professor Will Give Lectures at University of Minnesota

Prof. Charles Foster Kent, who completed a series of addresses here Sunday, is now at Northfield, Minnesota, where he is conducting a number of meetings at Carleton college. He is on a six months leave of absence from Yale university, and is touring the colleges and universities of the middle west, speaking on religious questions of the day. From Carleton he will go to Minneapolis, where the university of Minnesota and the Minneapolis churches are uniting in a series of religious meetings to last a week. Milwaukee will be his next visit, and then he will go to the university of Wisconsin at Madison, the university of Michigan at Ann Arbor, and will complete his tour at the university of Ohio, at Columbus.

Speaks to Church Classes

Professor Kent spoke Sunday morning before a joint breakfast of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet and Y. W. C. A. council, and later at a meeting of all student church classes of the city at the natural science auditorium. He closed his visit in Iowa City in the evening with union services at the Congregational church with an address.

"I congratulate you on having so many strong leaders in the faculty to lead you," Professor Kent told the members of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet and Y. W. C. A. council. "You are fortunate in having such fine leadership, and it will benefit you to realize your good fortune and to make use of it in the right way," he continued. "Each of us is contributing to the faith of the university, to the faith of the country, and to the faith of a world which is yearning for religion. The Christianizing of the world is something in which we all have a part, and," he emphasized, "Christianity is the finest motive power in the world, for it links people up with others of the entire universe." He recommended reading as the best way in which to become more familiar with the great religious truths, and urged the students to do more reading of a religious nature.

Meeting Sunday Morning

At the student meeting Sunday morning, Professor Kent said, "Our forefathers regarded the Bible as a theological text book or source-book, but today the main purpose of the Bible is considered to be much greater than that. 'The interest of this generation,' he said, 'is in history.' 'We are interested in the origin of things, and the old testament satisfies that interest to those who study it.' Other interests of today which Professor Kent said were to be satisfied in the Bible were those of both a literary and social nature. 'We serve God,' he said, 'by learning more about Him and by serving our fellow men.'

COLLEGE PRESS

Evanston, Ill.—With Margaretta Fenn, president of the Woman's League presiding, 200 women staged a unique pep session in Harris hall, Room 107, at chapel time Thursday. "For Pete's sake," exclaimed Anita Furness in the midst of her speech, "get out there and back that team. Let's forget our dates this once, and show the conference that Northwestern's student body supports its teams."

Repetitions of such phrases as, "Megaphones instead of powder-puffs," and "leather lungs instead of lipsticks" were much in vogue as the women orators called their failing sisters' to the necessity of appearing in a body at the big Homecoming game Saturday.

Miss Fenn announced the plan of a monster parade of women rooters starting from Willard hall just after the lunch hour. "We want you to get into the line of march," she said, "and we expect you to cheer until it hurts, and then cheer the harder."

ELECTION YESTERDAY BRINGS SMALL VOTE

The social committee is composed of six student members who work in conjunction with the faculty members.

The faculty members of the social committee, six in number, are appointed annually by President Walter A. Jessup. The members for the current year are, Dean Wilbur J. Teeters, college of pharmacy, chairman, Dean Robert E. Rienow, adviser of men, Mrs. Adelaide L. Burge, acting dean of women, Prof. Clara M. Daley, department of history, Prof. Henry L. Rietz, head of the department of mathematics, Prof. Rollin M. Perkins, college of law. The above, with the six student members elected yesterday comprise the full social committee.

SHIMEK TAKES CHARGE OF BASKETBALL PRACTICE

on the other. The object of the work was to develop simultaneously both offensive and defensive playing. Form was stressed throughout the practice. Coach Ashmore wants the men to get into the habit of doing the criss-cross play right at the start and he criticized a number of the men for not following the formation through its entirety in the proper form.

Captain Shimek is showing speed and accuracy in his playing. In the practice yesterday afternoon he missed only three trials at field basket shooting, and while he was playing on the defensive not one man succeeded in getting through to make a basket.
