Must Show Legitimate Proof to That Community Says Playwright

Ging a reading of his latest work, "In a Corner," Mackey last night entertained members of the Iowa University Community of which he is a member by his version of the legend of Dogtown Common, a historical piece chosen for the University's celebration of the 21st anniversary of its charter.

"D tangent Common." written by Rudolph G. St. George, was a historical novel which has been translated into several languages, including English, French, German, and Russian. It was published in 1881, with a new edition published in 1895. The novel tells the story of a small town in Massachusetts called Dogtown, which was a center for witchcraft and superstition in the early 18th century.

The reading was held in a small room on the third floor of the Old Main building, where the University Community was gathered to hear the reading.

ART INSTRUCTOR WINS
CHALMER PRIZE IN NEW YORK ACADEMY

Miss Edith E. Bell, who has been for the past four years an art student and plastic artist, was awarded an annual prize by the Chalmers Art Academy, young woman when she was the John A. Stobie Scholarship prize for the season of 1921-22 at the National Art Institute in New York City. The prize-winning drawing will be hung on a small room of a series of figures, made while Miss Bell was painting in the Costume and Dress School in Des Moines, previous to her coming into the art academy this fall.

Miss Bell's "Bella," the prize-winning drawing, was signed by Charles A. Constance, head of the department of applied art, and Miss Bell's graduate from the University of Iowa and founder of the Costume and Dress School in Des Moines. She is an Iowa school of art was the first in the country to offer an art course in New York Academy. It is a long time for art study in the world. It is a long time for art study in the world.
