THE NEXT LITTLE AFFAIR

The Iowa-Minnesota game promises to be an interesting event. It will have to effect a reconciliation of the two now seemingly undisputable facts that Minnesota is going to beat Iowa and that Iowa is going to beat Minnesota. The game will have no little bearing on the conference rating, it will settle as to whether or not any team can win over Minnesota in four consecutive games, and settle a great many other similar questions that are now being asked.

The pleasing thing about it is that the securing of a special train will afford the extra-curious an opportunity to see the answers written on Minnesota field before their eyes. Twenty years ago the Iowa management ordered reservations in the Minnesota bleachers for 1000 Iowa rooters. Judging from the comparative enrollments of today and twenty years ago, and considering everything in addition that should go to make a strong constituency for the Old Gold men, if Minnesota intends to accommodate all of the Iowa enthusiasts she will have to bar the natives from the field.

Students will remember the impression that the band of a rival university makes in favor of the institution it represents; that of Illinois has most recently been brought to our attention. Tag day, one that looks to the dropping of quarters and other acceptable currency into the brass horn-bells of our band members, is a thing that the student is glad to see observed, even at the moment that his hand goes down into his own pocket. The band will be an asset to the Iowa delegation; we are not giving the band anything, but rather paying for something that we can not well get along without.

We will not have to make this a proper affair. We will have to send the band, we who can will take advantage of the special train rates, and, then, we will have to fight.

The Michigan Alumnus carries a story which reads as follows: "Iowa looks like the champion of the Conference. Nevertheless, she had better look a little out for Minnesota." Other people do not consider this a practice game or a holiday outing for Iowa; neither is there any reason why we should.

HOME TRAVELERS

Students in American universities seem to have inherited the idea that all the greater things are to be found at the end of the horizon. Few students have had the opportunity to travel extensively, but still fewer have become acquainted with their surroundings.

A famous English author once said, when asked if he had seen the wonders of the world, that he had not but that he had traveled extensively in his own home town. Men and women at Iowa would do well if they would follow that example.

Many students have been known to spend several years here without having visited such well known places as the Laysan exhibit, the University museum, or the Ranney library. Others have failed to visit these interesting works more than once, that being an occasion when it was necessary to show the University to a guest.

Iowa is fortunate in having so many things of national fame, but the average student seldom talks about them and only on rare occasions does he see fit to visit them. Something of no greater importance in another University a few hundred miles away he has a longing to see.

A sight-seeing trip to the well known places would help the student to answer the queries of the inquisitive folks during Christmas vacation, and one could at least tell his friends that he had traveled on the Iowa campus.

STROP HIM

Dear "Block": What is your favorite treatment for the funny bird who tells you that the new five-story chemistry building in the next block isn't going to have any elevator, and when you ask him why, he says, because all the students are going to carry safety razors (raisers)?

J. C. M. wants to know how come this column appears only once in a while, and sometimes not that often. Well, you see, J. C. M., we hate to disillusion you, but as all other readers know, we presume, this here is purely and simply, absolutely and unadulteratedly nothing but space filler. That's why some Of it Is printed Like this. It fills more space. Savvy? And when ye editors have so much entertaining and interesting news to fill up space with, they heave all such stuff as this in the wastebasket. So now that you are reading all this today, you know that "those higher up" were hard pressed for something to print this morning. After this, we may NEVER get in again.

All this recent talk about bisecting cats and dogs in the biology lab reminds us of the story of the fellow who asked, "Do you suppose that dogs carry rumors?" "O, no," was the reply, "rumors fly." The things dogs carry jump." H. D. R.

TRIP TO URBANA ENDS AT JACKSON FOR 16 STUDENTS

Ann Arbor, Michigan, Oct 31.—An exciting railroad ride from here to Jackson, a warm reception by the police upon arriving in that city, and several hours of the night in jail were the experiences of 16 students riding blind baggage to the Illinois game. More than 25 students stowed themselves away on the 10:40 train out of Ann Arbor Thursday night. Depot officials tried to put the culprits off before the train left Ann Arbor, but without success. They just sneaked back on. On the journey the trainmen still tried to put them off, using the hose as means of persuasion. The students believe that the trainmen thought they were scabs going to Chicago to break up the impending railroad strike.

When the train pulled into Jackson the blind baggagers were welcomed by a volley of shots from the police. A general round-up and many chases through the streets finally landed 16 of the party in jail. Ann Arbor officials had telephoned ahead to Jackson. That happened at 1:30 o'clock in the morning. At 4:30 relief appeared upon the horizon when Frank Blackman, graduate of the law school obtained their release. Most of the students had funds to go on with the journey, but a few unlucky ones were forced to return to Ann Arbor.

PURDUE GOLF TEAM DOWNS WOLVERINES

Lafayette, Indiana — Purdue's varsity golf team won its second intercollegiate match yesterday afternoon by defeating Michigan eight points to three. The match was played over the Lafayette Country club course under the Lafayette country club course under the Nassau system of scoring. Although winning by a good score the Purdue team was forced to play its best to win, as the Michigan quartette contested each match and was not beaten until the last hole. Brown, Byrnes, and Bixler scored eight points for Purdue, while Roderich won three for Michigan. Brown defeated Ingham, the Wolverine star, in a close match winning by one up on each nine. Bixler won the first nine holes and halved the second nine with Welch, while Byrnes outclassed Slaughter by playing a 77, which was the lowest score made. Weatherton lost a hard fought match to Roderich, after forcing him to the last hole to win. The Michigan team left yesterday evening for Champaign where they will play the Illinois team.

ARCHERY TOURNAMENT TO BE HELD BY OHIO

Columbus, Ohio—The days of Robin Hood are coming back! The ancient bow and arrow are to figure again in fashionable circles! An archery tournament will be held on Ohio Field by girls of the University within the coming month. "This is the first undertaking of its kind ever held on the campus, and there should be many contestants, as almost 200 girls are registered in archery," said Miss Ethel Scofield of the department of physical education for women. NOVEL FORM OF DRESS WILL DISTINGUISH THE SENIOR WOMEN

Bloomington, Ind., October 30;—Senior girls will make their decision on the matter of distinctive dress at the meeting this afternoon at 1 o'clock in the west parlors of the student building. The meeting will be open for suggestions and everything is expected to be proposed from purple tams to red spats.

The golfing coat adopted by senior co-eds last year was planned as a permanent distinctive dress for the senior class which would have become as traditional as the corduroy trousers of the men. But many girls of the 1922 class desire something new and more distinctive.

PROFESSORS CHOP DOWN CAMPUS TREES

Evanston, Ill., October 30;—Do Northwestern professors work outside of the class room? That is the question that has caused some wonder among the student body.

Anyone who happened to be in the right locality a day or two ago, would have had the question answered to his satisfaction because two of the most dignified, exalted and reverend professors with coats off and sleeves rolled up were working like woodmen. The camouflaged individuals were none other than Prof. William F. Bryan, of the English department, and Elmer E. Jones, professor in the department of education.

The necessity of having a full wood-box in the kitchen was an impelling factor in the cutting down of one of our fifty dead trees that are beautifying the campus. Chas. K. Heck, superintendent of buildings and grounds, is heartily in favor of wood-cutting exercise for professors.

RECOGNITION SERVICE AND BANQUET GIVEN FOR Y. W. C. A. MEMBERS

Recognition services for the new members of Y. W. C. A. will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the liberal arts drawing room. All old members will be present to welcome the new members and explain what the Y. W. C. A. should mean in their University life.

The membership for this year is seven hundred. Heads of the various departments and the executive committee will give three minute talks about their departments. These talks will not be technical.

The membership banquet will be held at the Burkley hotel at 5:30 o'clock. There have been over 300 tickets sold. Because of the spirit shown in regard to this undertaking the banquet will be a Y. W. C. A. tradition. Roberta Anderson A3 of Madrid, will be toastmistress. Mary L. McCord A4 of Des Moines, Lydia Walker, and Lou Prentiss A4 of Iowa City will give toasts based on the topic of the "Triangle." Miss Leslie Blanchard of the national Y. W. C. A. board will be the chief speaker at the banquet.

Between courses college songs, learned at the Y. W. C. A. camps, will be sung under the leadership of Jean M. G. Speirs A4 of Reinbeck. The decorations will be in the form of blue triangles.

PERCY MACKAYE READS "CANTERBURY PILGRIMS" TO ENGLISH CLASSES

Percy MacKaye, playwright and author of "Mater" gave an informal talk yesterday morning from 11 to 12 o'clock before the students of Prof. Edwin Ford Piper's class in advanced composition. Mr. MacKaye read from his play, "The Canterbury Pilgrims."

Mr. MacKaye expressed a marked appreciation for the poetry of Professor Piper and said that students who had the privilege of working with him would look back upon this time as very valuable.

Mr. MacKaye told how he first became interested in Chaucer and how he began the plan of his play, "Canterbury Pilgrims." He tried to put himself in the place of the poet Chrucea, and then chose the characters who were to speak and those who were merely to appear on the stage. Mr. MacKaye has produced a play, an opera, and a pageant upon the material in the "Canterbury Tales."

The opera was presented just before the United States entered the war with Germany. The pageant was put on at Gloucester, Mass., with Gloucester fishermen whose Puritan ancestors were decidedly opposed to everything Chaucerian, as the characters.

Mr. MacKaye will give a series of lectures in this part of the state.

FRATERNITIES ASKED TO SUBSCRIBE TO Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. membership drive will be carried into the fraternities this week, according to Douglas F. Boynton A4 of Cedar Rapids, assistant secretary of the association. Various members of the faculty have been asked to speak to the different fraternities and the proposition will be presented to each one some time during the next two weeks. Tonight Prof. H. L. Reitz will speak to the Phi Gamma Deltas.

Dean W. J. Teeters spoke Monday night before the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, and a 100 per cent membership was secured for the Y. M. C. A. Prof. F. H. Potter spoke to the Kappa Beta Psi fraternity Monday night and they subscribed a membership of 90 per cent. A campaign is also being conducted among the Quadrangle men. It is expected that it will take most of this week to complete this part of the membership drive.

BETTER TEAM WORK IS SHOWN IN BASKETBALL PRACTICE YESTERDAY

The teamwork exhibited during the varsity basketball practice yesterday afternoon was the best that the men have shown since the practice season opened. Captain Shimek and Frohwein, playing forward positions, were an unstoppable scoring combination while practicing the new circle formation given to them by Coach James N. Ashmore. Frohwein penetrated the defense for five baskets, and Shimek and Barton each scored two baskets. Barton and McGovney showed good form during the practice in their floor work and passing. Barton showed improvement in his basket shooting, both in long and short shots. He has the ability and headwork to make a creditable center for the first team.

NURSES HEAR FRANCIS OTT

National Director Here For Eighteenth Annual Convention

"Hospitals are the expression of the Christian impulse for service," declared President Walter A. Jessup yesterday morning in his address of welcome to the nurses attending the eighteenth annual convention of the Iowa State Nurses' Association in session here. "In the early Spartan history it was the custom to have babies examined by government officials and if any defect was discovered the child was exposed to the elements. Contrast this with the children's hospitals, child welfare stations, and the public school nurses program of the present day," said President Jessup.

Nurses Discuss Plans

On Monday preliminary to the convention, the Red Cross public health nurses of Iowa met to discuss plans of carrying on their work. The meeting was in charge of Miss Minnie H. Ahrens, director of nursing service of the central division and consisted of round table discussions of the problems of the county nurse.

Yesterday morning, after the address of welcome by President Jessup there was a business meeting comprising the reports of committees and a partial nomination of officers.

Miss Anna M. Drake, chairman of the committee on legislation made the statement that educational standards for nurses were tending toward a higher level despite the scarcity of nurses, and she predicted that by 1924 graduation from high school would be required.

The yesterday afternoon meeting consisted of addresses by various prominent women among them Miss Francis Ott of Indiana, national director of registered nurses. At the close of the session the nurses went by automobiles to visit the University hospitals.

Support Is Needed

The evening program consisted of music under the direction of Prof. Philip G. Clapp, director of school of music and an address on "Women in History," by Prof. Arthur M. Schles.

inger, head of the department of history.

Miss Mary C. Haarer, president of the association, and superintendent of nurses' training school of the University hospital says that the biggest problem of the association is the support of its needy members which is accomplished by voluntary gifts.

$3,100 MARK SET FOR BUDGET IN Y. W. C. A. FINANCE CAMPAIGN

The annual Y. W. C. A. finance campaign starts today. The cabinet members expect to raise a budget of $3100 among the University students and town people to meet expenses of the coming year.

Eleven teams, consisting of approximately 125 women will make the campaign in Iowa City. Each woman will call on a certain number and will give folders containing information on important questions concerning the Y. W. C. A. Money may be paid any time up to March 1, 1922.

A presentation of the plans for the entire campaign were laid out at a special meeting in the liberal arts drawing room Monday evening by the committee in charge. The various quotas and their sources are as follows; University women $1250, town women $250, business men $300, faculty men and women, each $300, sundries $1000.

The annual expense budget is made up as follows; office supplies $150, the local share of the national and field fund $250, foreign share $200, the committee on appropriations $300, the contingency or unexpected expense $125, conferences $150, books and magazines $40, and the Worlds Student Christian Federation, which takes the place of the Y. W. C. A. in Europe, $20.

Catharine Hamilton A3 of Pasadena, California, is in charge of the entire campaign and is the head executive of the finance department. Carrie M. McIntosh A4 of Decorah is chairman of the campaign proper. The head chairman under her is Irene Boughton A3 of Sioux City, who has charge of eight sub-chairmen and about eighty women, who are to solicit from the University women. Charlotte Wickman A4 of Garner, is chairman of the committee in charge of soliciting the business men, Lois V. Kifer A3 of Sioux City, chairman of the committees in charge of soliciting faculty men, and Edna C. Kruse A3 of Estherville, is in charge of soliciting the faculty women.

NINE TRY FOR SCHOLARSHIP

Committee Selects Five Men To Represent University

Five men chosen from nine candidates will represent the University in the final selection of candidates for the Rhodes scholarship to be held December 3. The successful candidates are Robert L. Block A4 of Davenport, Charles C. Bowie '21 of San Benito, Texas, Alan C. Rockwood S4 of Iowa City, Chester H. Kirby of Sioux City, and Frank K. Shuttleworth A4 of Sibley.

The men were chosen by Edwin D. Starbuck professor of philosophy; Henning Larsen assistant professor of English, and Arthur C. Trowbridge professor of geology.

Thirty men, the largest number in the history of the state, are trying out for the scholarship this year. They represent every institution in the state. The competition in the University was very keen, and the state competition for the scholarship is greater than ever before.

The final selection December 3 will be made by a committee consisting of Pres. Walter A. Jessup, Prof. Jacob Van der Zee, J. H. St. John of Arlington, J. M. Hoffman of Pella, and J. W. Woodrow of Ames. Professors St. John, Hoffman, and Woodrow are all holders of the Rhodes scholarship.

The Rhodes scholarship consists of 350 pounds to be used in further study at the University of Oxford in England. The requirements for the scholarship includes not only scholastic ability, but literary ability, moral character, personality, athletic ability, and leadership in the various activities.

Two scholarships are assigned to each state every three years, so one year out of three there is no selection. This makes it very difficult for the successful choosing of candidates.

Last year, Willis Nutting of Iowa City won the Rhodes scholarship for the University of Iowa.

GLEE CLUB PLANS VACATION TOUR TO KANSAS, NEBRASKA

Ames, Iowa—For the first time since before the war, the Iowa State Glee club will make a tour during the Christmas vacation. This year they will travel south and west as far as Kansas City.

Features of the program this season will be numbers from the A-M-E-S quartet and a stringed trio composed of piano, violin and cello.

According to Prof. Tolbert MacRae, who is in charge of the Glee club work, there is more experienced material this year than there has been for some time.

SONG BOOKS EXPECTED

The new University song books whose arrival has been delayed for some time, are expected to be here this week, according to Jean M. Speirs, A4 of Reinbeck, president of Staff and Circle. The books have been sent from the publishers by freight. Various inquiries have come from the alumni of '17, '18, '19, '20 and '21 regarding the song books. Staff and Circle has sent out post cards giving this desired information.

WHY STATE DOES NOT BUILD MEMORIAL UNION

(Continued From Page 1) can do to take care of it if it erects the buildings that the University must have in order to keep up with other institutions of its kind," said Mr. Grassfield. Outside interest and assistance will be needed to keep our University up to the standard of other institutions. The University of Michigan has had much outside assistance from alumni and friends and has many buildings on its campus that have been given in this manner.

The Iowa Memorial Union is practically the first request of this kind that Iowa has ever made upon the Alumni and friends of the institution. The response so far to this request has been fine and it is the belief of the directors of the Union that within a year the funds will be completed and work on the building actually under way.

FIRST SIGMA XI SPEECH TONIGHT

Prof. A. H. Ford Will Speak
On Progress of Modern Telephone

The modern telephone will be the subject of a lecture to be given tonight by Prof. Arthur H. Ford, head of the department of electrical engineering, in the liberal arts assembly room at 8 o'clock. Professor Ford's speech is one of a series planned by Sigma Xi, honorary scientific fraternity.

The address will cover the progress of the telephone and its uses during the last few years. Few people realize the great progress that has been made during this time and the things that are happening in the experimental field the present day, according to Professor Ford. The multiplex telephone which allows more than one conversation to take place at one time over the same line will be the main subject of the lecture and will be explained fully. Professor Ford will also try to show that conversation may be heard by more than one person over the telephone without the use of more than one receiver by receiving a message from Davenport which the whole audience will be able to hear.

Professor Ford is the retiring president of Sigma Xi. The organization is open to men who have done work in the line of scientific research. Associate membership is open to one-fifth of the students of the senior class each year but full membership is not attained until some actual research work has been accomplished. The lecture tonight is open to the public.

VARSAITY REGAIN THEIR OLD-TIME FIGHT SPIRIT

Minnesota's homecoming game is going to be a hard one that will take all the fight and spirit that Iowa has. Minnesota is decidedly a home team as both games that they have lost were played on foreign fields, while the two conference games that have been won were played on the home field. Before a homecoming crowd, Minnesota will fight twice as hard as usual. Moreover the two ends that permitted Wisconsin backs to make such long gains have been removed and others put back in their places. Iowa must fight to beat Minnesota next Saturday.
