JUDGE FAVILLE WILL LECTURE ARMISTICE DAY

Miles Cancels Engagement To Speak Here Friday

KAY AND BUSH TO TALK

University Orchestra to Open Program at 9:30 O'Clock

Frank F. Miles, editor of the Iowa Legionaire, of Des Moines, wired yesterday afternoon to the Roy L. Chopek post of the American Legion, that he would be unable to speak at the Armistice Day program, Friday morning. He has been invited to accompany Marshall Foch on his tour of the United States, and has accepted.

Judge F. F. Faville of the supreme court of Iowa, has been engaged as the main speaker of the program. His talk will be on the general topic of disarmament.

Program Starts at 9:30

The program is a part of the movement to make Armistice Day a national holiday. The services will be held in the natural science auditorium from 9:30 to 11 o'clock, according to members of the student council, which is co-operating with the Silver Star club and the legion.

Col. Morton C. Mumma will be the presiding officer of the services. The entire University orchestra will make its initial appearance on this occasion, under the direction of Prof. Frank E. Kendrie. The program will be opened with a prelude, "War March of the Priests," selected from Mendelssohn's "Athalia." The next part of the program will be the singing of America by the entire audience. Rev. Sylvester E. Ellis, pastor of the Methodist church, will deliver the invocation.

Bush and Kay to Speak

Dean George F. Kay will address the audience on "The University and the war." Prof. Stephen H. Bush, head of the department of Romance languages will speak upon "The Soldier Who Pays."

The legion will stage a large parade in the afternoon with various humorous stunts and representative floats. The famous "40 Hommes and 8 Chevaux" initiation stunts will also be displayed in the parade. The private initiation of the order will be held in the men's gymnasium in the afternoon.

Stage Athletic Show

An athletic show will be held in the evening at the armory. Several University men will take part in the program, among whom are Paul J. Murphy A2 of Rock Valley, 125 pound boxing champion of the University, and Charles B. Sweeney A4 of Sutherland, western intercollegiate wrestling champion. "Mike" Howard, the new wrestling coach of the University, will be asked to appear also.

DRESS REHEARSAL OF "SITTING PRETTY" IS TO BE THIS MORNING

Final dress rehearsal for the American Legion musical comedy, "Sitting Pretty", will be held this morning. The curtain will rise at 8:15 tonight at the Englert theater with a chorus of twenty Legionnaires in doughboy uniforms comprising the opening set.

According to Fred A. Steiner L2 of Corydon, who has been coaching the play, the ushers and orchestra will both wear the U. S. uniform. The orchestra is composed of nine pieces under the direction of Johnny Wright.

The story of the comedy which follows was written by two A. E. F. music and song writers. Three doughboys are preparing to get supinely and jubilantly drunk on Cognac. Miss Wyngate, "Y" girl, hatches an idea to keep them from getting drunk, and wants them to meet the Countess de Montozon and her two daughters, who are coming over. The daughters come over and the play tells how they meet the daughters. One of the doughboys dresses as a "Y" girl, and the story gets better as it progresses.

FRIVOL IS STILL ON SALE TODAY AT DRUG STORES

The November edition of "Frvol" which was received yesterday morning at ten o'clock is being sold very rapidly. Within the first hour over three hundred copies had been sold and by noon the entire supply had again been exhausted. 700 more copies were received at one o'clock and placed in the hands of the O. I. C. organization to be sold.

Because of the limited supply "Frvol" was not for sale in any of the Drug Stores yesterday however enough copies have been received so that the stores will very likely have them for sale today.

RULING MADE BY FACULTY

Grades Must be Turned in to Registrar 24 Hours After Last Class

Students may now receive their grades without delay and with very little red tape. At a meeting of the liberal arts faculty last night a set of resolutions drawn up by the executive committee were discussed and adopted which allow a student to officially receive his grades at the end of the semester. First, he must file a coupon at the registrar's office sometime during the last week of school before the final examinations and then three weeks following the close of school he will receive his final grades through this office.

Failures to be Notified

If, however, his grades are E, conditioned or failed, he will receive his grades within three days after the close of the semester. Before this there has often been some doubt as to the exact grades which the student has received as the instructor would think his work failed or conditioned and would inform the student of this fact before the actual end of the semester. The student would then register accordingly and delay and confusion would be the result. The grades now turned into the registrar's office will be the final and official grades. The instructors are not, however forbidden to give out the grades.

24 Hours to Turn in Grades

The instructor is required hereafter to turn in the grades to the office twenty-four hours after the completion of the final examination, in order that the reports will be ready for the students and for the next semester's registration.

"Through the registrar's office will be the normal way in which a student will receive his grades," says Dean George F. Kay, of the college of liberal arts, "It will simplify and unify proceedings which have been very indefinite, and will give the student a definite time and place for securing his grades. There should from now on be no confusion in registration for the following semesters caused by indefinite grades."

HUSTON WILL ATTEND NATIONAL CONVENTION OF SIGMA DELTA CHI

Cloyce K. Huston, editor in chief of The Daily Iowan, will attend the annual convention of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalistic fraternity, which meets at Ames Nov. 7, 8 and 9.

He was elected delegate from the local chapter to the national convention, at a meeting and banquet in the Jefferson hotel Tuesday evening.

WOMEN PLAN FIELDBALL AND SOCCER GAMES FOR FIELD DAY

Sixteen junior and senior women reported for fieldball on Wednesday at the women's athletic field. According to Miriam W. Taylor, instructor in the department of physical education for women it is hoped that a junior and senior team in fieldball can be worked up to play the sophomore and freshmen teams on Field day which will be held sometime in November. The games in soccer and field ball which will be played on Field day will be held on the women's athletic field. This field was put in condition this summer by being rolled and smoothed off.

BETTER SPEECH IS ADVOCATED

November 6-12 Inclusive, is Set Aside to Stress Good English

"Better Speech" week is here again. November 6-12 inclusive has been set apart this year for a campaign to better the use of the English language. The movement is state wide. Mr. P. E. McClenahan, state superintendent of public education, said:

"I urge not teachers only, but the public press, our business and professional men, and every citizen to make a special effort during this week to encourage a more accurate and agreeable use of our mother tongue, to the end that a permanent improvement of our speech, both oral and written, may be attained."

Annual Movement

"Better Speech" week is an annual movement in the high schools of the state and, according to the authorities, it is a success. Prof. Hardin Craig, head of the department of English, stated that in all his observations he has formed the impression that "Better Speech" week is a good thing.

"A campaign of this sort justifies itself by the fact that it makes a point of good speech, that it attracts attention to some of the most obvious faults in diction, and that, along with its function of correcting errors, it creates a desire to speak well. The ordinary instruction in the schools along the line of speaking becomes common-place because of the fact that it is necessarily routine. "Better Speech" week brings to a head all of this routine instruction, and advertises good speaking in an attractive way."

All Year Campaign

Those who have objected to "Better Speech" week have done so because they considered it as a week of virtue to be succeeded by an even more reckless disregard of correct speech. As is now generally observed, this week is the launching of an all-year round campaign for improvement in the oral language.

This campaign is carried on in all the high schools of the state. Although not formally recognized as a campaign in the colleges and universities its significance is not overlooked. The English department and the department of speech here are paying special attention to oral and written diction this week. In fact all freshmen and sophomore courses in English work are directed with the aim in view of bettering oral and written composition.

For Better Speech

Every week, the University of Iowa gets out a Service Bulletin for the purpose of acquainting the people of Iowa with special lines of service which the University is prepared to render. The bulletin for October eighth was prepared by Prof. Glen N. Merry, head of the department of speech, and Harold Y. Mofett, instructor in the English department, and deals with the "Better Speech" campaign. In addition to the statements already made, they have this to say:

"The one essential admonition should be not to overdo the emphasis. Speech of any people is the outgrowth of ages of social relationships. Our speech is a habit, and habits cannot be overcome in a night's time. Furthermore, most of us speak as we do because we have judged our speech to be acceptable. The purpose of the week is not so much to stress what is wrong, as what is better speech."

EXTENSION DIVISION MEMBERS LECTURES THROUGHOUT STATE

Several persons from the extension division are out over the state lecturing and conducting school surveys. Prof. Harry A. Greene and Mr. Don Rogers are conducting a school survey at Lake Mills, and a building survey for consolidated school in Cerro Gordo county.

Mrs. Max Mayer spoke Tuesday at Estherville and yesterday at Charles City on the subject of "Citizenship". She will speak tonight before the women's chamber of commerce at Des Moines on "Modern Americans". Prof. W. F. Bristol is making a trade survey at Marshalltown.

NEXT VESPERS NOVEMBER 20

Prof. Ambrose White Vernon of Carlton College Will Speak

Ambrose White Vernon, D. D., professor of biography in Carlton College, Northfield, Minnesota, will speak at the next vesper services, on Sunday afternoon, November 20, at four o'clock. The program will contain numbers by the vesper choir and the entire University orchestra.

Highly Commended

Professor Vernon is commended very highly by men who know him and have heard him speak. Prof. John H. Dunlap of the college of applied science was a member of his congregation when he was a pastor of the Church of Christ, Dartmouth College and professor of Biblical literature, 1904-7 in Massachusetts. Although many prominent preachers among them such men as Edward Everett Hale and Lyman Beecher, spoke at Dartmouth College, in Professor Dunlap's opinion Professor Vernon surpassed them all.

Able Orator

"I consider him one of the ablest pulpit orators of this generation both in point of view of what he says and how he says it. He possesses an unusual originality of mind, rare ability in expression with an insight into spiritual problems almost prophetic in its outlook," said Professor Dunlap in speaking of him.

Graduated From Princeton
Professor Vernon received his B. A. from Princeton in 1891, and was graduated from the Union Theological Seminary of New York in 1894. He has studied in Berlin, Halle, and Göttingen. He was ordained in the Congregational ministry in 1896. Since then he has been minister at Dartmouth and professor of practical theology at the Yale Divinity School. He has been at Carleton College since 1919.

ALL LIT SOCIETIES JOIN IN MIXER BY FORENSIC COUNCILS

Acquaintance between the members of all literary societies was the special feature of the all-literary mixer held last night at the women's gymnasium. Representatives from Zetagathian, Irving Institute, Philomathean, Erodolphian, Hesperian, Athena, Octave Thanet, Hamlin-Garland, and Whitby were present.

Following acquaintance games, a program was opened by a piano solo by Margaret Starbuck A3 of Iowa City. A play "Suppressed Desires" by Susan Gaspell was presented by Marion H. Smith G of Independence, Lillian Lawler G of Pittsburg, Pa., and George Hurlley A3 of Ottosen. The action of the farce was based on the application of psychology to the every-day life of a young New York couple.

Refreshments were served by the committees in charge, Eleanor Williams A4 of Clear Lake, Flossie Mømer A4 of Iowa City and Lois Beemer A4 of Marengo acting for the women's forensic council, and Glenn McLaughlin A4 of Anamosa Carl B. Kreiner A3 of Ottumwa and Delmar Olson A2 of Humboldt for the men's forensic council.

Y. W. C. A. WILL HOLD MIXER FOR NURSES AND L. A. WOMEN

The Y. W. C. A. mixer for the nurses and liberal arts women to be given in the liberal arts drawing room Thursday evening, November 17, is to be a "nut party". The entertainment is to be carried out with the plebian peanut. There will be a peanut hunt, a peanut race, a peanut story and a peanut throw.

Ethel Harper A3 of Sigourney is chairman of the mixer and Katherine L. Farthing A2 of Creston is chairman of the entertainment committee. "We are going to try," says Miss Harper, "to get the nurses better acquainted with the liberal arts girls and make them feel a part of the University." All nurses in the University hospital are invited.

TICKETS GO ON SALE THIS MORNING FOR THE IOWA-INDIANA GAME

The general sale of the tickets for the Iowa-Indiana football game will begin this morning at 8 o'clock. All tickets which have not been reserved before this time will be placed on this general sale. Approximately 3500 tickets have already been reserved which will leave about 300 tickets to be sold.

The cold weather doesn't seem to bother the sale of tickets and as large a crowd as ever is expected at the game.

BLANKET DANCE HELD THURSDAY

"Original Gloom Chasers" to Play for Hop at Gymnasium

Students of the University will commence Armistice day celebrations by tripping the light fantastic at the blanket dance to be given at the men's gymnasium, Thursday evening. The dance is to commence at 8:15 o'clock and continue until midnight. The floor is to be made smooth by the application of wax in super-abundant quantity. A feature of the evening will be the music by the traveling orchestra of seven pieces, known as the "Original Gloom Chasers," from Palm Beach, Florida. This organization comes to Iowa City with the highest commendations and has met with success wherever they have appeared. Lieutenant and Mrs. Albert C. Riani and Captain and Mrs. R. S. Batman will act as chaperons for the evening.

Tickets Now On Sale

Programs in the form of "I" blankets folded, can be secured at Whetstone's any time today. The tickets have been on sale over the campus the last few days and John J. Dondore A3, president of the Howling 300 said last night that advance indications point to a record breaking crowd. Now is the chance for everybody to show their appreciation for what the team has done this season to stir the school spirit. With no varsity Thursday evening a record crowd should be in attendance.

Will Buy Blankets

The purpose of the dance is to purchase blankets for every man who wins an "I" in football this season. Indiana is the originator of the custom and several other conference schools have taken up the plan and are making it a yearly occurrence. The blankets will be made at the Amana colonies. They will be of old gold with a black border. A large block "I" will grace the center of the blankets with a small "Iowa" in each corner. Dondore said that the blankets are to be given to the honorary winners at the first basketball game of the season.

Tickets Cost $1.50

Tickets are $1.50 per couple and may be had at Whetstone's and from various students on the campus. "Remember the old 'Iowa Spirit', good music, good dancers, good crowd, and there is sure to be a 100 percent showing," said Dondore.

HOWLERS CAN STILL GET SEATS FOR GAME

Reservation of tickets for the Iowa-Indiana football game next Saturday may still be made by Howling 300 members, according to John J. Dondore A3 of Iowa City, president of the organization. Thirteen rows of seats in section C of the west bleachers have been reserved for the Howling 300.

NO DAILY IOWAN SATURDAY MORNING

Publication of The Daily Iowan on Saturday morning, November 12, will be suspended on account of the holiday on Friday. Most of the work in connection with the publication of an issue is done by the staff on the day preceding the date of publication. There will be Friday and Sunday papers as usual.

AUBREY DEVINE AGAIN DIRECTS HAWKEYE TEAM

Seiling Works Well When He Replaces Aubrey in Scrimmage

DUKE WEARS HEADGEAR

Varsity Appears Strong on Both Offensive and Defensive

The appearance of Aubrey A. Devine at practice last night put more spirit in the varsity and sent them through the evening's work with lots of pep. Aubrey looked as good as ever, and ran the first string with all his old time fight. He was not allowed to get into the hard scrimmage against the first string freshmen that followed the signal practice, although he ran the varsity against them for a few plays that did not require him to carry the ball. When the hardest scrapping started he was sent over to the second string, and Seiling took his place on the varsity. Aubrey will probably be able to play next Saturday if the coaches want to use him.

Seiling Looks Good

Seiling is beginning to look as if he would make a capable substitute for Aubrey as he is getting shifter on his feet and is learning to follow his interference. Last night he got away on several long runs against the freshmen, as his speed enabled him to outrun the freshmen secondary defense. He runs the team smoothly and only lacks experience in picking out the proper plays.

The rest of the varsity backfield remains unchanged, with Locke at full, Shuttleworth at left half, and G. Devine at right half, and will undoubtedly start the game against Indiana on Saturday. These three men have perfected the running interference of the team, as was shown last Saturday against Minnesota, and Seiling should be able to get away for some big gains behind them.

Slater Wears Headgear

For the first time this year Duke Slater wore a headgear all through the workout last night. It was not because he thought that he needed it, but on account of the cold. He played just as well with it on as he usually does, and even scored a touchdown against the freshmen. When Duke gets the ball he is a hard man to stop, and no one will run him down from behind.

The freshmen put up a good scrap against the varsity both on the offense and on the defense, stopping some of the varsity plays and gaining a few yards when they had the ball. The plays that the freshmen were using are the plays that Indiana has been using this year, and which they will probably use against Iowa next Saturday. Their line plays did not gain ground consistently, although a freshmen back would slip through a hole in the line occasionally for a short gain. Locke's work as defensive fullback prevented any long gains through the line, as he met most of the freshmen backs on the line of scrimmage and they were the ones that stopped. On passes worked from Indiana formations the freshmen looked more dangerous and though they did not complete any of their attempts, it was due mainly to poor passing and receiving.

Varsity Offense Strong

When the varsity was given the ball the freshmen had to give way before the attacks of the first string backs, but they gave way slowly and stubbornly, making the varsity fight for every yard that was gained. On a few occasions they stopped the varsity backs on the line of scrimmage, but on the other plays Locke would slide through holes in their line, or Seiling would make long runs around their ends. The center of the freshmen line was the strong part that caused the varsity line the most trouble, mainly because the freshmen guards played in close to their center, leaving big holes between guards and tackles, through which the first

BETTER SPEECH

"If you had saw what I seen" floats over the campus and seems to afford no annoyance for the passing students. It serves only as a reminder of the fact that this is "Better Speech" week. Of course a campaign for a more respectable handling of the English language is inaugurated for everyone other than University students. The unschooled, the day laborers, children, and weak-minded must be given more adequate instruction in the matter of fitting words together, but the college student just naturally receives the golden key to grammatical excellency when he pays the first matriculation fee. His is the correct usage at all times, no matter what that usage may be.

A lecturer to the "Heathen Chinese" or the untamed South African might be able to effect the acceptance of such an exposition on student omniscience; a professor of English might be able to convince his students that such is the case. Such acceptance, however, might not be so easily won in the majority of cases, certainly not from that class of people who specialize in criticism of the student mind.

There can be no argument concerning student weakness in juggling words without dropping and breaking a few of the more valuable ones of our present collection. Students are not only in ignorance concerning many of the finer points of grammar but they are slovenly and careless. Their writing and conversation are not yet of sufficient exactness to be pointed out as examples of proper usage for the world to follow. And yet this is, exactly the stage that student speech and literature should reach. If not from the University, from what part of the unlearned world of ours is better speech to come?

This week has been set aside for a state-wide attempt to attain better speech. The University should lead the attempt. Iowa has a higher standard of literacy than any other of the United States. This does not preclude the possibility of improvement, however, for Germany leads every other country of the world in freedom from illiteracy.

"Better Speech" week is meant not only for the ignorant but also for the University student who has it called to his attention and passes it by with the highly satisfying remark, "That ain't meant for such as me."

YET TO LEARN

There may be many things that students fail to accomplish but seldom is it said that they do too little criticizing. From whatever viewpoint one may consider the game last Saturday there seems to be nothing that would justify fault finding on the part of an Iowa fan. But there were some acts on the part of Minnesota that deserve the highest praise. They were things that would help to bring about a better spirit here had more University students been on Northrop field.

One incident that deserves favorable comment was the applause given Captain Devine and Gordon Locke when those players left the game. The discouraged Gopher fans, however, did not confine their praise to those men alone but the other members of the Hawkeye eleven were given all the credit, and more, than they might reasonably expect. When Minnesota scored her only touchdown, which had little bearing on the complexion of the game, the losers were given a cheer that one would scarcely expect to hear if the victory were within their grasp. It indicated that the fans and graduates were still with the team.

We will have but one more opportunity to greet the conquerors of Notre Dame, Illinois, Minnesota, and Purdue on the home field but that should be a bigger welcome than the 1921 team has so far received.

SPECIALIZATION

There is hardly a college student who does not, at some time or other recall the graduating address delivered to his high school class. The scene appears in retrospect, to be a hot, squirmy one of trying to appear at ease upon an elevated platform with the faces of proud mothers and fathers gazing rapturously upon the young hopefuls before them, and immediately in front the speaker of the evening.

One does not hear a great deal of a graduating address. It is always the same thing. There are the compliments upon the appearance of the graduates, the talk of the hard road which has just been traversed, and the exhortations to remember that we are living in an age of specialization and that today it is the college-bred man who will succeed in the world.

Perhaps one does remember that last just for a bit and the next fall enters college to receive the training for the life-work which is ahead of him. And in general, in direct ratio to the determination which the lad has to follow in some fixed line of endeavor are measured the results which he will achieve. It is not to students of the professional or vocational colleges that remarks such as these need to be addressed, but to those who have come to the University, and have enrolled in the literary college, simply to "get an education".

It is all so easy to come to college with a fixed determination to get all that there is out of it—sometimes that set purpose keeps the newcomer in hand all through his freshman year. And then, as a general rule, it becomes vague and indeterminate. His interest centers upon endeavors outside of the immediate jurisdiction of his studies, he vacillates, and he is lost; oh, not lost in the ordinary sense of the word, but lost in that he has given up the opportunity which his graduation speaker pointed out to him—of becoming a specialized, college-bred man.

One hears so often from sophomores, juniors and even seniors—"Oh, I'm sick of classes. I'm getting nothing out of them." And in truth, they are not—simply because they are putting nothing into them. But there is a secret—the secret, if you will, of an enjoyment of every moment of college life, and that is the awakening of a specialized interest in some particular subject. There are some of us who are born with that interest. Perhaps it is the books which appeal to us, perhaps it is political economy—perhaps it is some entirely different subject—it makes no difference, but we feel a keen interest in what we are learning—we develop what is perhaps best described as a healthy intellectual curiosity and our research carries us far beyond the scope of the ordinary classroom assignments to find out things for ourselves.

It is those students who have awakened in themselves or have found latent within them this same interest that derive a real benefit from their college courses. When they leave school, it is not with the feeling that their four years have been wasted. They have learned something—with no little pride they feel themselves rather authorities on the subjects which have caught their attention, and their pleasure is a real one, born of the joy of specialization.—Michigan Daily.

TOURTILLON FUNERAL WILL BE HELD TODAY

Double funeral services will be held this morning at the Baptist church, at 10 o'clock, for Douglas Tourtillon and his wife who were asphyxiated at their home Monday night. Mr. Tourtillon was formerly in the employment of the University of Iowa.

CONTRIBUTORS' COLUMN

(In yesterday's Iowan, John J. Dondore, president of the Howling 300 was quoted concerning the green cap situation as follows: "If they (the freshmen back down after what they said in freshman lectures they will be a disgrace to the University. They have elected a set of officers who have pledged themselves to support the traditions of the University. Now if they will not stand behind their officers they are not a class but just a mob." Dondore in this instance, was misquoted; he does not assume a disparaging or antagonistic attitude toward the freshmen as the following letter from the Howling 300 will show.)

To the Editor: The Howling 300, A. F. I., and other organizations have felt from the beginning that the green cap tradition was one which needed only its initial impulse from college organizations, and that once it was started the freshmen themselves could be trusted to support it.

This the course of events has proved. For two years now, the majority of the freshmen have purchased and worn caps without any compulsion. If the wearing of caps has decreased the last few weeks, the Howling 300 feel that this is due to thoughtlessness rather than a desire on the part of the freshmen to let the tradition die.

The Howling 300 proposes to take no drastic measures to insure the wearing of the green caps. It feels none are necessary for the matter is in the hands of the yearlings. In freshman lectures on Monday, the class officers and cheer leaders addressed the class and called for yells. The response of the freshmen could not have been better. We think the class of 1921 has the right spirit and we're leaving it to them to wear the caps.

John J. Dondore, President Howling 300.

TO ELECT HOUSE PRESIDENTS

Every House in Which There are Five or More Women Must Organize

The twenty-five district captains of the women's association met Tuesday evening. Winson Craxy, A3 of Grundy Center was elected to represent the district captains on the administrative board of the women's association. Each district captain was instructed to organize the rooming houses in her district where five or more women live.

The women at each house will choose a house president and each house president will draw up a set of rules for the governance of the house. The best rules will be chosen from all of the sets and will be added to the set of rules and regulations which were issued at the beginning of the school year by Adelaide L. Burge, dean of women.

FORENSIC COUNCILS HELP DEBATES AND DECLAMATORY WORK

Three women elected annually from each women's literary society and three from each men's society, comprise the women's and men's forensic councils, which control the University of Iowa debate and declamatory work. Through this representative executive body the literary societies of the campus cooperate to put forensics to the front among campus activities.

Debate Indiana This Year The women's forensic council has arranged six big contests this year: an artistic reading contest, extemporaneous speaking contest, inter-society debate, intercollegiate debate and short story and poetry contests. Iowa women are engaging in intercollegiate debate independent of Iowa men this year for the second time. They will debate Indiana this year as they did last, and plan to schedule a triangular debate to include Indiana and Illinois.

The women's council awards the cup each year to the society winning the most points through the successes of its members in forensic activities. It regulates rushing rules and pledging seasons for freshmen.

Joint Mixer Held

Forensic councils bring together men's and women's societies socially at a joint mixer for all members of the societies and an annual banquet for members of the councils. Miss Gladys Pennigton, who represented Illinois in the Northern Oratorical League contest last year, was entertained by the Women's Forensic Council at a reception.

The men's forensic council has raised debating at the University of Iowa to a high standard. Eight contests offer opportunity to ambitious orators. They are the preliminary championship debate, Iowa-Minnesota-Illinois intercollegiate debate, final championship debate for the Wade prize of twenty-five dollars, sophomore oratorical for the Egan prize of twenty dollars, University oratorical for the Jessup prize of twenty-five dollars, freshman declamatory contest for the Le-fevre prize of twenty dollars, final sophomore and freshman debate. The question for the men's inter-society championship debate, in which the winner will be awarded the Wade prize, will be: resolved, that a student's cooperative supply house should be established in Iowa City.

Men's Council Meets

The men's forensic council will soon call a meeting of all men interested in debating to sift out the good debators and train Iowa's teams for the year.

The presidency for the men's council rotates among the three men's societies: Zetaganthian last year, Irving this year, and Philomathean next year. Members of the women's council hold office for two years in succession. The latter is assisted by an advisory board of the following members: Prof. Glenn H. Merry, Mrs. Nellie S. Arner, and Miss Alma G. Madden.

'PERSONALITY IS ALL'

Ohio Frosh Told Secret of Success by Dr. Douglas

"Success in life depends not on mentality, not on credits, nor morality, but upon personality," said Dr. Lloyd E. Douglas of the University of Michigan, in his lecture to the freshmen in the home economics auditorium Sunday at 7 p. m.

"How is one to acquire a good personality?" The speaker dwelt upon the fallacy of trying to acquire one through a correspondence course, advertisements of which are seen in many magazines. "Many men have been known to fail because they did not know how to eat, or to meet people, or to speak correctly," he continued. "The lack of one's ability to perfect these little things are elements of one's defeat, for they are open doors into one's character." He emphasized the importance of the decisions of a student in his freshman year, for it is then that "he decides to plot his curve up or down."

Dr. Douglas went on to say: "In this age everyone is in search of wisdom. Our universities are crowded to capacity. You freshmen will soon be fighting for credits, honors, and offices; so now is the time to lay the foundation stones of success."

"Personality comes only through God and is projected by us in the world," said Dr. Douglas in conclusion. "Churches are the agencies through which this spirit may be had. Our purpose here is to reflect our personality to others in such a way that we may be of real service in the world."—Ohio State Lantern.

STUDENT FROM INDIA ASKS ABOUT FAMINE CONDITIONS IN IOWA

Fearing that reports of a famine in the middle west are true, and that students and inhabitants of this part of the country are starving to death, a young man of the nobility in India has written Prof. H. C. Dorcas, University registrar saying that he intends to come to the University to complete his education, but does not wish to make the long journey if reports of famine conditions are correct.

He asks to be officially advised as to conditions in Iowa in order that he may know what to do. This is his second letter, and follows an earlier request for general information.

The letter is one of the strangest ever received by University officials, who heretofore believed they had been asked every possible question baring on registration and admittance, but have never been called upon to deny reports of a famine in the land where the tall corn grows. President Walter A. Jessup is expecting an offer from India of grain and other food to relieve the "terrible conditions" in this part of America.

YEAR'S VESPER PROGRAM IS NOW COMPLETE

Many Noted Speakers are Engaged to Appear on the Program

TWO MUSICAL SERVICES

Baccalaureate Sermon to be Given by Bishop Edwin H. Hughes

The vesper program, which is now complete for the year, includes some of the best religious speakers of the country, according to Prof. George T. Patrick, chairman of the vesper committee. "We have been able to get more prominent speakers than in any previous year. A great many we have been trying to get since last year, and we have already started on next year's program," said Professor Patrick.

Vernon Here November 20
Prof. Ambrose W. Vernon of Carlton college who will speak here at the next vesper service November 20 goes East to give many addresses every year and was recommended to the vesper committee as a very brilliant speaker.

Music Christmas and Easter

The Christmas vesper service, December 18, and the Easter service, April 16, will be entirely music. Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the department of music, who has charge of these programs, said that they would be given by the University orchestra, University chorus, and University choir. "We expect possibly to have parts of the Messiah by Handel for the Christmas program but we have not made any plans in regard to the Easter program," said Professor Clapp yesterday.

Jane Adams, settlement worker, and founder of Hull House in Chicago, will speak at vespers January 15.

Bishop McConnell Here February 19

Bishop F. J. McConnell who has spoken here a number of times before, and who with Bishop Edwin H. Hughes ranks as head man in the Methodist church, according to Professor Patrick, will speak February 19. Professor Patrick said, "He is a modern young man and a fine speaker."

Hugh Black Secured

"We have tried for years to get Hugh Black of the theological seminary in New York, one of the best known speakers of the country," said Professor Patrick. Mr. Black will talk at vespers March 19.

Lutheran Minister to Appear

Edward H. Delk, minister in the Lutheran church in Philadelphia will speak at vespers May 7. "He is the best known man in the Lutheran church," said Professor Patrick. "Ordinarily we pay no attention to denomination but this year decided that it would be a good thing to have a Lutheran minister because we have not had one for several years."

Baccalaureate Speaker Named

The Baccalaureate sermon, June 4, will be given by Bishop Edwin H. Hughes, bishop in the Methodist church since 1908.

So far, the only speaker engaged for vespers next year is Charles W. Kilkey, minister in the Hyde Park Baptist church in Chicago. He will speak at the vesper service next September.

SEVEN FUTURE FEMALE BARRISTERS ENROLLED IN COLLEGE OF LAW

Women who have had training in law may secure positions as legal secretaries or may become valuable assistants in the offices of attorneys according to D. O. McGovney, dean of the college of law. "Because of their legal education many women are now holding down good positions in the State Capitol at Des Moines," said Dean McGovney.

At the present time there are seven women enrolled in the college of law here. They are: Lois E. Garrett L1 of Fairfield, Thelma L. Smith L1 of Clarence, Buella Wheeler L1 of Marshalltown, Mrs. Grace G. Larson L2 of Iowa City, Jennie E. Hance L2 of Iowa City, Gladys R. Yeaman L2 of Sioux City, and Iva G. Baker L3 of Boone.

When asked why she was taking law, Mrs. Larson said, "I believe that an education in law is very broadening for it covers a variety of subjects."

Miss Wheeler said, "I think there is a great opportunity for women in politics and law."

In the past four years, four women have been graduated in law. Miss Eleanor Steinberg of Eldora graduated in 1919, and Miss Sabra Clark, now Mrs. John A. Reed, of Marion, graduated in 1920. Neither of these women are practicing. Miss Maude Geiger of Tipton, who also graduated in 1920, is practicing now in her home town. Miss Sonsuelo Hanna of LuVerne, who was graduated last year, is practicing now and has had interesting cases in Humboldt and Kossuth counties.

DILL TELLS OF ANTELOPE HUNT

Seventy-Five Pictures of Trip Shown at Talk Last Night

"The number of antelopes in the United States is rapidly decreasing," said Professor Homer R. Dill, in his lecture last night in the natural science auditorium, "so rapidly that within a few years there will be no more of these animals." Herds of antelopes have decreased from 200 a few years ago to only eighteen or twenty at the present time.

Used Ford Car

Professor Dill was accompanied on this trip by Mr. C. H. Fishburn, a former student now living in Muscatine, who financed the expedition, and Theodore Waneius, an alumnus of Gillette, Wyoming, who aided them by donating the use of his Ford car, and his shack upon the planes sixty-five miles from Gillette.

The actual hunting of the antelopes was done in the car. The men took turns as lookout with the field glasses, and when a herd was sighted two or three miles away, they immediately set out after them in the car, coming up on the leeward side of the herd, until they were within 200 or 300 yards of them, then they started after them on foot. All of the animals were shot at long range, and a number of fine specimens were obtained.

Two Narrow Escapes

The men had two very narrow escapes, once when their car nearly went over a precipice, but was saved by the quick action of the men, and once when a rancher threatened to shoot them if they hunted on his land nearby. The altitude in this country is over a mile, so the air was very good, and made excellent conditions for hunting the animals. The land was very level, with no mountains nearby, but a few ranges were visible in the distance.

The party came across a petrified forest on the plains which showed very plainly the stumps of many trees. The Devil's tower, an extinct volcano, was a very interesting point which they visited. The tower is 1100 feet high and is very striking, having been called one of the wonders of the world. It is now set aside as a monument to the United States.

Showed Many Slides

Professor Dill had about seventy-five slides of pictures which he and Mr. Fishburn took on the trip. All the pictures were very clear, and some of them were exceptional in their value.

ERODELPHIANS SETTLED OLD QUESTION IN 1870

The University Reporter carried the following announcement in 1870: "On next Friday afternoon the ladies of the Erodolphian society will discuss the merits and demerits of a resolution reading thus: Is it ever right to marry for money? Gentlemen, one and all, be in attendance. The Erodolphians are fully competent to treat and finally settle this hitherto much vexed question."

After they settled this little matter, the Erodolphians should have made their decision known so that the question would not be bothering us so much today.

MEN TAKE INCREASED INTEREST IN INDOOR ATHLETIC EXERCISES

The interest in indoor gym work evidenced by the University men is steadily on the increase, according to Earnest G. Schroeder director of physical education for men. "Just one instance illustrates this face very well," Mr. Schroeder stated. "Over twenty five freshmen have reported to Harold E. Briceland, in charge of the gym team, for work in that branch, which is just twenty more than we have ever had out before." About five varsity men are working out daily for the University gym team.

Furthermore, the work in the general classes for freshmen and sophomore students is taken up with much more enthusiasm by the men who are compelled to take this work. Every opportunity has been given them by the department to branch out into other more specialized departments of indoor gym work, such as swimming wrestling, fencing, and boxing, and still the men in the great majority, stick by the general class work and take great interest in it. "This is undoubtedly due to the increase variety and amount of competitive work," Mr. Schroeder stated, "Men will always take more interest when there is competition is involved, and a little less of calisthenics."

The pentathlon, in which all men taking work in the department compete, will be held after the track season opens next spring, as in former years.

COMMITTEES FOR MECCA WEEK WILL BE ANNOUNCED SOON

"The different committees for Mecca week will be announced the latter part of this week" says John C. Cumberland S4 of Center Point, president of the Associated Students of Applied Science. These committees have charge of all the work in connection with Mecca week, the one week in the year when the Engineers celebrate and show the rest of the University and the world in general that they amount to more than ordinary students. During this week the Engineers have their annual show, banquet, parade exhibition and dance. Everything in connection with the different things is done by the Engineers themselves with no outside help. The show is written and produced by the men, the parade is their own product, the student faculty banquet is entirely their own as is the exhibition and the dance.

The president of the A. S. of A. S. with the help of the other officers of the organization appoints all these committees.

The Stigma of Professionalism

One hears a great deal about the absent-minded professor, but it would be hard to find one more absent-minded than the senior dent, the other day, who said, soothingly, as he applied a monkey-wrench to his father's automobile, "Now this is going to hurt just a little."

FROSH WOMEN CHOOSE LEADERS

Eleanor Wade is President and Helen Wylie is Vice President

At freshman lectures Tuesday afternoon, Miss Eleanor Wade of Iowa City, was elected president of the freshman women with a total of 103 votes; Miss Helen Wylie of Iowa City was elected vice-president with a total of 108 votes; Miss Margaret Swartz of Sioux Falls, S. Dak., was elected secretary and treasurer with a total of 158 votes, and Marion Ansell of Iowa City was elected historian with a total of 183 votes.

For the first time last year the freshmen women were organized for the purpose of becoming better acquainted. Several parties were given and the women gained a cooperative spirit. This year the women plan to organize a class the same as last year's class was organized.

FAVOR 'ILLINI' AS STATE NICKNAME

Urbana, Ill.—"Suckers" as applied to the residents of the State of Illinois and to persons born in the State of Illinois is distinctly distasteful, in the estimation of George Franks of Champaign, who presented a petition to the Kiwanians at their convention in Aurora, November 3 and 4, asking that they institute some action in getting the public to accept the word "Illini" in place of "Suckers."

The Illini were the original inhabitants of the state, as Mr. Franks mentioned in his talk. They were a tribe of Indians who exhibited such bravery in defense of their lands and persons that their whole tribe was annihilated.

Mr. Franks then compared the two names—"Sucker" which designates one who has been fooled and tricked, and "Illini" the name of a tribe of Indians whose traditions have been adopted by the students of the State University of Illinois and accepted as the origin of loyalty and honor.

The resolution that residents of the state and persons who were born in the state of Illinois be designated in the future as "Illini" rather than as "Suckers" was adopted unanimously. Copies of the resolution have been sent to every Kiwanis club in the state.—Daily Illini.

GREASED PIG GOES TO DELTA TAU DELTA

Lafayette, Ind.—Pork seemed to be in great demand yesterday between halves of the Purdue-Northwestern game, especially among the Freshmen. A young specimen of the swine family, donated by Jesse Andrew '10, was turned loose on Stuart Field after being well massaged with grease. Thirty Freshmen, representing that many fraternities were given the signal to capture the beast, if possible.

After several grand rushes in which it was impossible to distinguish which yearling had the pig in hand, one Freshman, Willard Michaels made a pretty flying tackle bringing the coveted prize to earth.

DOUBLE STADIUM FUND IN TWENTY-FOUR HOURS

Columbus, Ohio.—With a sum of $5860 raised in 24 hours ending Friday noon, the Stadium campaign barometer has risen to $12,635, the results of the week's intensive drive. Chairman George M. Trautman attributed Thursday's report of $6775, regarded as a poor showing so late in the campaign, to the fact that few prospects had been seen.

"Examination of Thursday noon totals," he said, "showed that only 500 of the 4000 cards had been reported on. Of these 500 prospects of 12 per cent, nine percent had responded. If that same proportion prevails throughout the solicitation, we can be confident as to the outcome. It's up to the solicitors to see the prospects; if they fail to do so, we expect the students who are not visited to bring in their own subscriptions."—Ohio State Lantern.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON VARSITY DANCE HELD ON FRIDAY THIS WEEK

The woman's association will hold their afternoon varsity dance on Friday of this week, instead of Saturday. The change has been made on account of the football game with Indiana Saturday.

"We have no wish to run the afternoon varsity in competition with any other University activity," Lou Prentiss A4 of Iowa City, president, said yesterday.

"An afternoon dance on the same day with a football game would seriously cut in on the attendance and lessen the profits. Although the afternoon varsity is not a money making idea entirely, the profits of the dances are used to carry out all the constructive programs put on by the woman's association," she said.

According to the officers in charge the three dances given so far have

ANNUAL ROLL CALL FOR RED CROSS TO BEGIN NEXT MONDAY

The University of Iowa is asked to answer to the annual roll call of the Red Cross next Monday.

Miss Esther L. Swenson of the English department, who is in charge of the roll call said, "We would like to have students realize the importance of the work of the Red Cross. Its work is concerned not only with the soldier in the time of battle, but it helps him afterwards. The Red Cross did a great deal of general relief work during the Pueblo flood. Each year during the forest fire season it is called on for assistance and relief. The Red Cross is constantly giving both military and civil relief and it needs money to carry on this work. Students should take pride in the amount that their University contributes."

Last year only $300 was subscribed. Undoubtedly much more was contributed to the Red Cross by the students of the University than this figure indicates since many made their contributions at their homes or to the city chapter of the Red Cross. All students are asked to make their contributions to the University Red Cross fund in the drive next Monday so that the University will be credited with the full amount which the students subscribe.

UNIVERSITY WILL BE INVITED TO SEND TWO TO CONFERENCE

The University of Iowa and all the leading educational institutions of the United States and of all the countries of the world will be invited to the International educational conference, which will be held in Peking, China in April next year. According to Dr. Y. Y. Tsu of the University of St. John of Shanghai, China, who is at present travelling throughout the United States in the interest of the Chinese Students' Christian Association, plans are now being arranged by the Chinese government under whose auspices the international educational conference will be carried out.

Dr. Tsu said that the general purpose of the first world's educational conference to be held, will be to organize the educational institution of all countries into a better interrelated and closely acquainted institutions not only for the promotion of an international educational system but for the advancement of international understanding acquaintance, friendship, and cooperation. This conference will not only be international in its nature but cosmopolitan in its constitution. All the countries and all the races will be as far as possible represented. It is planned to have each educational institution send at least two representatives to the conference.

The conference, it is planned, will be held in the Temple of Heaven in Peking, a building, which is famous as the place of worship of the Emperor of China in the days of the Chinese monarchy. It is now a public building and it will be prepared specially for the coming international educational conference. In the opinion of Dr. Tsu, China, representing as it does the old and ancient educational system, will offer an ideal setting for this great international educational movement. America, specially the United States, and Europe have been the "Mecca" of Oriental educational pilgrimages. Their educational systems are therefore known and in many instances, copied by the Oriental countries, which have been sending hundreds of students every year for the last half century to nearly all of the seats of learning in the Occident. This international educational conference will offer to the educational institutions of the Occident an opportunity also to acquaint themselves more closely with the educational problems in the Oriental countries. Expressing his personal expectation of the conference, Dr. Tsu said that he is assured all the countries of the world will respond to this international educational movement.

CADETS NAME COMMITTEES

Plan to Take Charge of Military Ball and Club Dances

Committees were appointed to arrange for a dinner for the members of the newly organized cadet officers' club next Tuesday night, November 15, and to make a tentative agreement for the rental of the club rooms for the organization. Robert L. Block A4 of Davenport, chairman, William E. Nelson S3 of Iowa City, and Fred Phillips S4 of Altoona were named on the committee to arrange for the dinner, while Ralph E. Kennon G of Corning, chairman Lovell F. Jahnke S4 of Muscatine and Francis V. Morrison S4 of Sioux City were appointed on the club room committee.

At the Tuesday night banquet officers will be elected and a constitution and by-laws will be adopted. The official name of the organization will also be adopted at this meeting.

Plans are under way to have the control of the annual Military Ball, one of the four formals of the season, placed in the control of the cadet officers' club, as well as for dances during the year for members of the club. Monthly luncheons will be held after the Tuesday night dinner, at which regular business meetings of the club will be held and all business will be taken care of. Membership in the club is limited to members of the advanced course, who comprise the commissioned personnel of the cadet regiment, and the members of the military department staff.

SPECIAL WILL RUN TO CHICAGO FOR GAME WITH NORTHWESTERN

A thousand or more from Iowa City will probably attend the Iowa-Northwestern game if present plans for running a special train to Chicago materialize. The Chicago Rock Island railway company will put on a special train if they are guaranteed a sale of 125 tickets. According to Coach George T. Bresnahan the athletic board is doing all it can to secure this means of transportation for the Iowa crowd who wish to see the game. There is practically no doubt but what the special will be secured from present indications.

The round trip fare will be $12.55 which of course does not include the pullman reservations. The cost of a lower berth will be $3.24 while an upper will come to $2.59, according to statements made by Harry T. Breene, city passenger agent for the Rock Island lines. The number of pullman cars and day coaches will depend largely upon the sale of tickets.

The probable time of departure of the proposed train will be about 9 o'clock Friday night and it should arrive in Chicago by 7 in the morning. The proposed special would probably leave Chicago Saturday night and arrive in Iowa City early Sunday morning according to plans made by Mr. Breene.

The definite hours of departure and arrival will probably be announced as soon as 125 tickets are sold.

UNIVERSITY OF IOWA IS POPULAR AMONG FOREIGN STUDENTS

Coming from nearly all parts of the world students of ten foreign nationalities are studying in the University this year. They come from Armenia, Bolivia, China, Denmark, France, India, Japan, Java, Hawaii, and the Philippines. China has the largest representation of fifteen students including four Chinese student women. The Philippines come next with fourteen students. India has four, Java three, and the rest are represented by one or two students.

The liberal arts college seems to be the most popular among the foreign students as only four are attending the professional colleges; two in the college of applied science, and one each in the colleges of medicine and dentistry. The rest are taking courses in the college of liberal arts except one or two in the college of education and in the college of commerce.

According to the University surveys at least seventy foreign students have graduated from the college of liberal arts, ten from the college of applied science, fifteen from the college of medicine, three from the college of dentistry, and two from the college of education.

About twenty years ago there scarcely was any foreign student in the University of Iowa. The first foreign student was a Chinese who was given a scholarship by the Chinese government, and then he was followed by a Japanese student. Other countries soon were represented in the following years.

RECEPTION FOR NEW UPPERCLASS WOMEN FROM 4 TO 6 TODAY

The women's association will give a reception to upperclass women who have entered the University this year for the first time in the drawing room of the liberal arts building from four to six o'clock this afternoon. Miss Mildred Freeburg A4 of Pomeroy, who is at the head of the committee in charge, has planned a program which will consist of music, a reading and talks given by the presidents of the various women's organizations on the campus.

Mrs. Adelaide Burge, dean of women, Miss Violet Blakely, assistant dean of women, and Miss Lue Prentiss, president of the Women's association, will be among those in the receiving line. Invitations have been sent to about 175 women who are new upperclassmen. A large number of the old upperclassmen are also expected.

ADVANCE OF SEASON BRINGS KEEN STRUGGLE FOR GUARD POSITION

Center Position on Varsity Will Remain in Doubt Until January

Competition for the position of standing guard is becoming keen as the basketball practice season advances. A teammate for Captain Shimek, who is playing the running guard position, may be selected from one of five good possibilities. Voltmer, Burgitt and Hicks are the outstanding figures in the race for the guard position so far.

Center Position Doubtful
After the football season closes Aubrey Devine will come out for a position. Aubrey played the position of standing guard in the closing games of last year's season and is expected to put up a hard fight to hold his old position.

The center for the varsity first eleven will probably hang in doubt until the varsity season opens in January. Kelloway, Postma, Thoma and Von Hoene are fighting for the pivot position. If these candidates fail to produce the proper results, Coach James N. Ashmore may take one of the forwards and move him to center. There is also a probability that Hicks or Burgitt may be groomed for the center position.

Many Forwards Out
Frohwein, Barton, McGovney, Lohman, Gordon and Fimmen are fighting for the two forward positions. Frohwein, Lohman and McGovney are "I" men and are exerting every effort to hold a position on the first team. Barton, captain of last year's freshman team, is pressing these men closely.

Captain Frank Shimek gave the varsity basketball men a light workout in formations yesterday. Accurate execution of pivoting, passing and dribbling was the main object during the performance. Speed was not sought for during the beginning of the practice. Later, however, a defense was strung under the north basket and the formations were practiced against opposition.

string backs were able to drive for many gains.

Seconds vs. Frosh
After a half hour of scrimmage the varsity retired and let the seconds battle the freshmen for the rest of the evening. Miller called signals on the second string with

Macrae doing most of the running. White was at fullback and Anderson played left end. The seconds had a hard time with the freshmen, although these same freshmen had played against the varsity and were tired. The greatest trouble was in holding the ball, as at least every other pass from the center was fumbled. Miller finally shifted to quarterback, and the seconds started to go better. Miller had more than his usual amount of drive, and seemed to get going faster on the end runs that he made. The whole squad was sent in when the evening got too dark for the men to see the ball.
