Students who hand in excess for absences from classes before and after the recess, according to special instruction, are being handled in a decided manner. Miss Elizabeth L. Burns, dean of women, says that all students who have accumulated excess from unexcused absences will be returned to class registers and counted out of the class, and the students will be marked as absent.

Seating Overlap

One student honestly states that "Class seating overlap is the best thing since sliced bread," and for good reason. Several of the professors have suggested overlapping the seating. Nothing is more unpleasant, and at times it is nearly impossible to hear the teacher.

MANY people give much thought to the question of what to do for a week for their income. In most cases, this involves planning and preparation. In some cases, it involves saving money. In still others, it involves taking advantage of opportunities that are available. In all cases, it involves making decisions that will affect the outcome of the week.

In this article, we will discuss some of the factors that you should consider when planning your week. We will also provide some tips for saving money and maximizing your income. Finally, we will give you some examples of how you can use your time to good effect.

1. Consider your income

Before you start planning your week, take a look at your income. What are your monthly expenses? How much money do you have left over each month? This information will help you determine how much you can afford to spend on your week.

2. Set goals

Once you have an idea of how much money you have available, set some goals for the week. What do you want to accomplish? Do you want to save money, spend money, or both? What are your priorities?

3. Plan your activities

Now that you have set your goals, it's time to start planning your activities. What do you want to do? Do you want to go out to eat, to the movies, or to a concert? Do you want to stay home and read a book or watch a movie? What activities will help you achieve your goals?

4. Save money

If you want to save money, there are several things you can do. You can try to eat at home more often, or you can try to avoid unnecessary expenses. You can also try to find discounts on activities or events.

5. Have fun

If you want to have fun, there are also several things you can do. You can try to go out to eat, to the movies, or to a concert. You can also try to find activities that you enjoy, such as going to a museum or a park.

In conclusion, planning your week involves considering your income, setting goals, planning your activities, saving money, and having fun. By following these steps, you can make the most of your time and money.
UNION FINANCES STILL GROWING

Grassfield Says the Students Officers Are to be Reassured Soon

The Iowa Memorial Union fund is steadily growing, according to Mr. Edwin Grassfield, who is the head of the Memorial Union. The fund has been raised by the students and their contributions. The total amount pledged is $500.

According to Mr. Grassfield, only a very small portion of the available money has been invested. There has been a lack of funds because of the financial crisis. The Union has been awakened to the fact that there is no such a thing as the Memorial Union,” Mr. Grassfield stated.

STUDENT HALL

Within a short time a new set of the Iowa Memorial Union will be planned in the hands of students on the campus. A student Memorial Union Association will be organized sometime within the next month or so. There will be elected from among the students themselves. The president of the student Memorial Union association will be the most important and sought for office at the University, according to Grassfield. The man holding this office will direct the affairs of the Union.

The students should remember, according to the Memorial Union, the biggest thing will be run for the students by the students. There will be no outside interference from any other source. The union is for the students, and they must take care of the policies that will be carried out. Eventually a student organization is every way.

ABATE BUCKS UNION

Although there has been a great deal among the alumni scattered throughout the state, several substantial contributions toward the building have been received from the alumni. Governor F. O. Lowden has contributed $10,000, most of Rock Island and Mr. Thomas of the Bates' here have given the amounts.

The Memorial Union building is to be constructed at a cost of approximately $10,000. According to the mayor, “I expect to get ground broken before the end of the next year.” Mr. Grassfield declared.

OFFICERS Elected Soon

“The students have now been informed of the substantial progress being made toward the general goal because of the concentration of effort along other lines. The students will hear more about the Union within a few weeks. A strong interest will be shown in the election of the first group of student officers to head the Union organization,” Mr. Grassfield said.
