3 HAWKEYES ON ECKERSALL'S ELEVEN

AUBREY DEVINE, SLATER, LOCKE ARE SELECTED

Elliott of Wisconsin and Peden of Illinois in Backfield

AUBREY CAPTAINS TEAM

Belding on Second Team; Slater Mentioned for Higher Honors

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Following a successful western conference football season, featured by the victory of Chicago over Princeton in one of the most important intercollegiate struggles ever played by a Big Ten eleven, and the defeat of Ohio State by Illinois in the biggest upset of the season, which gave Iowa the undisputed championship, it is customary to select the leading players for honorary or mythical elevens.

While some of the elevens were outclassed, the customary close and hard fought struggles were played and an undisputed title holder was not determined until Coach Zuppke's Illinois team put Ohio State out of consideration on the last Saturday of the playing season. The Orange and Blue aggregation found itself after four successive defeats by Big Ten elevens, and played a brand of football against the Buckeyes which was characteristic of Urbana teams.

Champion After 21 Years

Ohio eliminated Chicago as a championship contender by winning over the conqueror of Princeton, 7 to 0, in a great battle. Michigan shattered Wisconsin's hopes by holding the Badgers to a 7 to 7 tie, while the Maroons further eliminated the Cardinals with a 3 to 0 defeat. While all this was taking place Iowa attended to its knitting, won all its games in a consistent manner and brought a championship to Iowa City for the first time since 1900.

Although some elevens outclassed others, interesting contests took place when the supposedly weaker teams met. Northwestern succumbed to Purdue, 3 to 0, after one of the hardest fought games of the season. The Boilermakers lost their final struggle to Indiana by the same score, while Minnesota took the Hoosiers into camp, 7 to 0, in another interesting battle.

Illinois, defeated by Iowa early in the season, then vanquished by Wisconsin and hopelessly put out of the championship race, lived up to its name of "Fighting Illini" by holding Michigan to a 3 to 0 score.

Bitter Pill for Buckeyes

The Orange and Blue also threw a scare into Chicago, having the Maroons on a short end of a 6 to 0 score at the end of the first half. Chicago came back in the last two periods and scored two touchdowns. To cap the season and ease the memory of the previous disappointments, Illini journeyed right into the Buckeye stronghold and sent thousands of Ohio State homecoming rooters away wishing that Coach Zuppke and his men were in Halifax.

These stubbornly fought battles caused the players to show their true colors. They were called upon to fight in the darkest hours, and take advantage of any momentary opportunity to convert defeat into victory. Some were alert to the smiles of Dame Fortune, while others fell down in their big chances. Poor judgment and failure to hold the ball when tackled resulted in defeats for some of the stronger elevens.

Many Angles to Consider

In selecting honorary, or "all-star" elevens, every angle of offensive and defensive football must be taken into consideration. There are cardin-

HERE ARE BIG HEROES OF BIG TEN

EAST WILL MISS THEM

AFTER winning the undisputed championship of the western intercollegiate conference and the entire middle west, the University of Iowa team will appear as an opponent on Yale's schedule at New Haven next year. The formidable Hawkeye machine, however, will be robbed of much of its strength in 1922, for Capt. Aubrey Devine and his brother, Glen Devine; "Duke" Slater, tackle; and Lester Belding, end will be lost by graduation.

interference on the outside and turn the runner in. They should always drive the catchers of kicks to the inside, and never permit them to get outside.

Job for Secondary Defense

The secondary defense should place themselves in position where they can move to points of attack with quickness and dispatch. They should always know the exact spots of the field where the oval rests and be ever mindful not to catch forward passes on fourth downs near their goal line. Secondary players should be clean sure tacklers.

The defensive full back must be a reliable player. First of all, he should be a deadly tackler. No one can tell when the time will come when such a player must save his eleven from defeat by pulling down a hard running opponent, who has passed the secondary defense. He must be a sure handler of punts and should know when to play the ball safe, by permitting it to touch the ground or making signals for fair catches. He should never be too eager to approach the scrimmage line, as no one can tell when an opponent may uncork an onside kick, or shoot a long forward pass.

Respect to Injured Stars

Before going into the personnel of the teams, certain players are deserving of mention because they were unable to show their true ability because of injury. Arnold Oss of Minnesota is a great half back, but injuries sustained in the Northwestern struggle kept him out of remaining contests.

Charles Carney of Illinois, unanimous choice of critics for an all-American flank position failed to play true to form because of the knee injury in the Ohio State contest of 1920. Carney tried to play this season, but was of little use to his team. Jack Crangle, the Illinois full back, was handicapped all season with a bad shoulder. Jack is a great football player, but was unable to give his best.

Kipke, the Michigan half back, is another sterling warrior who was incapacitated early in the year and failed to show his true worth. This little half back should be a terror next season, providing he is not hurt early in the year.

Aubrey Devine Unmatched

Aubrey Devine, leader of the championship Iowa eleven, is awarded the position of quarter back and made captain of the first honorary eleven. The Hawkeye is one of the greatest players developed in the middle west in recent years, and his all-around ability, combined with rare football judgment, should make him a unanimous selection.

The Iowa captain, while not a fast runner, has an excellent change of pace on his runs. When he is about to be tackled, he throws himself at an opponent and generally makes a yard or so. He also has a knack of pivoting out of tacklers' grasps, and is fighting for ground all the time he is on his feet.

He is a sure handler of punts and an accurate passer. He is also a good punter and field goal kicker. He would be chosen to execute the triple threat of kick, run, or pass, and with interference provided by the remainder of the team should make ground on every run. His defensive qualifications are in accord with his offensive ability. He is a sure tackler and catcher of punts, just the type needed for the defensive full back's position.

Crisler a Great Fighting End

"Fritz" Crisler, one of the best ends developed by Stag in years, is placed at right end. The Maroon has been a factor in all Chicago's games, but his general play in the Princeton and Wisconsin struggles should earn him an all-American berth. In these struggles, he not only smashed the interference, but repeatedly tackled the man with the ball.

He has few equals as a receiver of passes. Against Ohio State and Wisconsin, he pulled down what seemed impossible chances. There is no better end in the section at boxing a tackle or covering punts. It was mainly his work which kept Capt. Keck of Princeton out of all Chicago plays.

Cyril Myers, captain of Ohio State, is awarded the other flank. The Buckeye leader was good last season, but his general play this autumn has been a marked improvement. He was a tower of offensive strength in the Chicago game, as in all Ohio's contests, and his ability to size up a situation quickly enabled his team to defeat the Maroons. Myers started a forward pass play close to the Maroon goal, but saw an opening in the middle of the Chicago line and dashed through it for the only score of the game. He makes a valuable running mate to Crisler.

Locke a Successor to Bezdek

Belding of Iowa is another great end who is nearly the equal of Crisler and Myers. Gould of Wisconsin is an ideal wing player, although he has been used as offensive half back most of the year and end on defense. Tebell of Wisconsin and Goebel of Michigan are among the other strong flank players of the year.

Gordon Locke of Iowa, the hardest hitting full back seen in the conference since the days of Hugo Bezdek at Chicago and Frank Longman of Michigan, is given the full back position without hesitation. It is seldom that defeated players have praise for a member of a victorious team, but from what Notre Dame and Illinois warriors told of Locke's plunging ability the Hawkeye should bear all-American consideration.

Locke is the type of player who can unflinchingly make a yard when needed for first down. He drives hard and low, recovers quickly, and gathers speed just as fast. When opposition is met he digs his toes into the ground and generally roots himself free of tacklers. He starts so fast and gathers momentum so speedily that he makes ground when opposition is met. He is a strong man in the interference and an ideal player to back up a line or play one corner of a box defense.

Thomas Also Great Plunger

Thomas of Chicago was a great offensive full back, who hit the line with nearly as much drive as Locke. Capt. Sundt of Wisconsin was another good full back and reliable punter. Capt. Kyle of Indiana and Patterson of Northwestern were the other good full backs in the conference.

Don Peden of Illinois is placed at left half back. Although injured in early games, Peden gamely stayed in the competition and was the most

DEVINE OUT FOR QUINTET

Prentiss and Michaelson Also Try Out for the Squad

Aubrey Devine appeared on the basketball floor for his first practice of the season yesterday afternoon. Coach James N. Ashmore drilled him for a short time in the standing guard position with the first string, and Voltmer played with the varsity in the guard position during the rest of the practice.

Devine Shows Up Well

Devine showed up well during the practice. He exhibited speed when carrying the ball and when on the defense he was quick to perceive the direction in which the play was going. Prentiss worked out with the second squad during the practice, and Michaelson also made his appearance on the basketball floor yesterday afternoon.

Scrimmage 15 Minutes

The combination consisting of Shimek, Frohwein, Hurlburt, Kelloway and Voltmer was a good scoring machine and during the first half of a fifteen minute scrimmage with the team made up of Brookins, Gordon, Fimmen, Von Hoene and Prentiss, Shimek dropped in four field baskets and four fouls while Frohwein scored two baskets.

During the second half Coach Ashmore shifted the lineup, McGovney going in for Hurlburt, Voltmer for Devine and Barton for Kelloway. This combination had a small edge on the first lineup. Shimek broke loose and dropped in five baskets, Barton made three and Lohman scored one.

consistent ground gainer of the year for the Zuppke eleven. He is fast and clever, a sure handler of the ball, and an accurate passer. It was his toss to Walquist which resulted in the touchdown against Ohio State. Peden could be used to skirt the ends or dash off tackles on come back or cut in play. He gets under way quickly, picks holes in faultless fashion, and is reliable in the interference. On the defense he is just as valuable because of his ability to size up plays and move to the point of attack for the desired results.

Elliott a Powerful Advancer

Elliott of Wisconsin is given the other half back position because of his value to the Badger eleven this season. Elliott is of the off tackle driving type and runs with power. He played excellent football all season and was on the passing and receiving end of forward passes. He is a deadly tackler and good interferer.

Cappon of Michigan is another great half back, and there is little to choose between him and the men selected for the first eleven. This player was a tower of offensive strength in the Illinois and Wisconsin games, and performed as well as any Michigan man in the Minnesota struggle.

Capt. Walquist of Illinois is another valuable back. He was played at quarter back most of the season, but was out of position. Cole of Chicago, Martineau of Minnesota, Stuart of Ohio State, and Williams

OUR SHARE

Occasionally there comes a time for the distribution of credit. And there seems to be a pet theory prevalent among those of a certain class that that distribution is never fair, that it is discriminating and prejudiced. Many people doubtless are close-fisted; they begrudge any amount of praise or word of commendation that may be due. But it is pleasingly refreshing to find that there is an increasing tendency in some circles, at least, to give credit where credit is due.

IT CAN BE DONE

Every University as well as every town is always burdened with a certain number of cynics. Sometimes it seems that there is a preponderance of those joy-killing individuals who are ever ready to shout, "It can't be done." Such are the people who were cocksure that Iowa could not win the Conference championship and they are the same ones who down such projects as the Memorial Union as chimerical and out of range of possibility. They are the same ones who discourage rather than encourage initiative when they constantly remind us that we are a fresh water institution that has never produced any graduate of note and never will do anything to affect the progress of the world.

This would be a disheartening world if the mass of people heeded the pessimistic epithets of those who would thwart every bit of evidence of accomplishment and ignore every thing that savors of success. But it is only the weak who are hampered by this undercurrent of destructive criticism.

It is gratifying to find, however, that we can squelch such people when we open their eyes by accomplishing that which they decreed impossible. Such was the case when Iowa established its title to the western championship in football last week. At such times there is a noticeable reticence on the part of those who thought it couldn't be done. When one of our alumni attracts world wide attention such as that which has been accorded to Vilhjalms Stefansson, the famous Arctic explorer, there is again a silence from the destructive critics.

The pathetic thing concerning the disparaging attitude is that its vision is so narrow that its exponents can see only the faults which are ever present in any human individual or institution. Most of them do not stop to think that it takes a long time for a University to become great and that it is grossly unfair to compare institutions which are unlike both in age and in size.

SHAVINGS (Chips From Many Blockheads) And He Done Right

The music was entrancing, a slow waltz, . . . violins sobbing . . . and cellos, barely audible, carrying the theme of some haunting melody. The lights were dimmed and the room was filled with the wistful glow of tiny candles. The air was faintly scented with delicately perfumed incense coming from here and there and nowhere especially . . . the breath of wilted roses . . . hyacinth . . . lotus blossoms. It was like some fairy castle in Old Japan, where everything was built of fading fancies. Outside on the balcony were groups of dainty girls in crisp organdie and tall men in black and spotless white, talking in low tones, entranced by the moonlight. In their hearts were the joyous ecstasies of Youth . . . Love, Romance . . . gaiety.

We danced, and she seemed to have always been in my arms. I wished she might always be. The music died out as if in the distance and we wandered out onto the moonlit balcony. I knew that my life was complete. Her lips were teasing . . . her eyes were beckoning . . . I stopped to kiss her, and as I did so she gazed up at me and said: "Whosedresssuitchagoton?"

I lifted her over the railing and bounced her off the tin roof of the porch below. —Walt.

My sweetheart pulled a "D" in french,

And flunked geology, She only made an "E" in math, And "Con" in botany.

Her grades aren't very classy, but By all the gods above, I'll swear she'd draw an "A-A plus" In scientific love. —Sec.

The True Hero

The good ship had hit an iceberg And was sinking Speedily. "Fifty dollars," shouted a frantic man As he grabbed up the one remaining Life preserver, And jumped into the sea. "Fifty dollars To the man who saves My wife." —Michigan Daily.

All In The Family

The Morningside College Reporter prints the following: "Walter Eckersall, concedes the Big Ten conference championship to Iowa. They have gone through the season without a defeat. We have to take off our hats to our sister college."

Not content with the placing of the water in Nat's offering the other day, the following is contributed with a view to correcting the error: She shed her tears upon his head But shed them all in vain For now we find him quite submerged— With water on the brain. —Sid.

GAMES YESTERDAY

Navy, 7; Army, 0.

FRAT QUINTETS PLAN TOURNEY

Games Start In January; Plan Twelve A Week

The Inter-fraternity basketball games will start January 10. Plans are being made for the dividing of the fraternities into three sections, or leagues. Each team will have a chance to meet the others in their section once. The exact division is not certain, but it is possible that Pan-Hellenic will compose one of the sections. If not, the town will be divided into districts and have those in one district play those in the other.

Games are to be played in the new armory, men's gymnasium, and possibly in the women's gymnasium. Two games will be played in each of these places the same night, and arrangements are being made to play two nights a week, making a total of twelve games a week.

Play Between Sections The winner in the preliminaries will have the chance of meeting the winner of the preliminaries in one of the other sections, the winner of which will play in the semi-finals and then in the finals. It is the intention of the conference to have all the preliminaries out of the way by February 21, which gives about four weeks to the fraternities to play off their games.

The interfraternity conference is to have control of the games, said Ernest G. Schraeder, director of physical-education for men, who with the aid of Coach James N. Ashmore, is helping the conference to organize. The conference has a committee composed of three, whose duty it is to arrange all preliminaries for the games, including the hiring of officials.

No I Men Play

The question of whether I and I-2 men will be allowed to participate has been decided by the conference committee at the last meeting that any man that had won a I or I-2 in basketball would not be allowed to take part in any of the games and also any man that won a letter in basket ball in some other school will not be allowed to participate.

The question of the interfraternity games interfering with the games of Pan-Hellenic will be brought up at the next meeting. The rumor that it is the purpose of the Inter-fraternity conference to break up the Pan-Hellenic Council, is unfounded, said Edwin J. Harrington D4 of Sioux City, president of the inter-fraternity. Schroeder said that nothing was thought about the breaking up of Pan-Hellenic when the movement was started. The purpose, according to Schroeder, was to furnish a form of exercise, and with the idea in view of finding some varsity basketball material. Coach Ashmore feels sure that there is good material in the University not yet uncovered, and this is a good means of finding out.

SONG BOOKS AVAILABLE

Students who have made the first payment on the University song book and who did not receive their copies when the books were on sale by the Staff and Circle women at the tables in the halls, can get their books from the Dean of Women at her office in the liberal arts building by presenting their first payment card. Song books may be purchased at the Iowa Supply Company.

"THE IMPRESARIO" WILL BE HERE IN DECEMBER

The University musical association has booked Mozart's comic opera, "The Impresario", to appear in Iowa City December 8. The company is under the management of William Wade Hinshaw, who at one time sang with the Metropolitan Opera Company. Mr. Hinshaw was born at Union, Iowa, and is interested in bringing productions to the people of his native state that they would not ordinarily have the opportunity of hearing.

Until recently "The Impresario" has never been given outside of New York. To this millionaire producer, Mr. Hinshaw, money is no object in securing the results he desires. He has spent money lavishly on securing his cast, their settings and costumes.

Mrs. P. G. Clapp heard "The Impresario" several years ago in New York, where it was a remarkable success. The late David Bispham played the title role, which is to be played here by Percy Hemus. This role is a splendid chance to show the gift of comedy which Mr. Hemus possesses, according to Mrs. Clapp, for the libretto which was translated into English by Henry Krebhiel, the veteran New York critic, is in Mozart's most charming humorous vein. The opera is full of humorous situations, both in the singing and dialog.

"The Impresario", Mozart's famous comic opera featuring Percy Hemus in the title role will be given in the University theater Thursday, December 8, at 8 p. m.

A CORRECTION

The number of students now attending the University of Iowa is 5898, instead of 5858, as reported in yesterday's Iowan.

RADIO STATION ADDS A NEW TRANSMITTER

With the securing of the new wireless telephone transmitter that will be installed within the next two weeks, the University of Iowa will have one of the best amateur wireless telephone and telegraph outfits in this portion of the country, according to Carl Menzer of Lone Tree, chief operator. With the present outfit it has been possible to receive sounds and music from all portions of the state.

A magnavox was recently installed which intensified the music sufficiently so that it could be heard distinctly enough that musical concerts can be given through it. With the present outfit however it was not possible to send music as there was no transmitter.

The new transmitter will have a range wide enough to include all of the United States. Weather reports, music, and news will be sent broadcast every night at 9:30 o'clock. It will be possible to talk into this new transmitter, and anyone within a radius of twenty miles will be able to listen to it by carrying a small receiving apparatus with him.

The University of Iowa is a member of the Western Conference Radio News Service Association, which is composed of all the large universities in the West with the exception of Indiana. Iowa and Wisconsin are the only two universities, however, which have wireless telephone instruments. "With the acquisition of this new apparatus Iowa will undoubtedly have one of the best stations in this part of the country," said Menzer.

WILL DISCUSS PLANS FOR FINANCIAL CANVASS

Plans for presenting the program of the Y. M. C. A. to the members of the faculty and for making the annual financial canvass among faculty men will be discussed at a dinner at the Burkley hotel at 6 o'clock Monday evening. About twenty-five members of the faculty will be present.

The speakers will be Prof. Arthur C. Trowbridge, Prof. George W. Stewart, and Mr. R. H. Fitzgerald, general secretary of the association. The program of the Y. M. C. A. for the present year, the connection of the faculty with the students in the association and the need of faculty support will be taken up at the meeting and plans will be formulated for carrying on a campaign among the other members of the faculty.

BAND PREPARES FOR WINTER CONCERT

The band is now meeting regularly three times each week in preparation for the concert which is to be given soon. The exact date for the concert has not yet been decided upon, but it will occur sometime before the Christmas holidays. This program is to consist of a variety of numbers, with an additional feature number. The band is practicing on several selections but none of them have been definitely selected for rendition at the concert.

"The activities of the band have by no means ended with the close of the football season," said Prof. Orle E. Van Doren, director. The band will continue to act as a University organization throughout the year.

ERB CHOSEN TO LEAD BRUIN TEAM

Berkeley, Nov. 27.—Charles Erb '23, "the Marshal Foch" of the California football squad, was elected captain of the '22 Varsity eleven at the annual banquet where the football men "break training" after the California-Stanford football game. "Charley" Erb, a member of the Winged Helmet honor society, is a Delta Upsilon fraternity and a field general of much experience. He captained the 1923 freshmen team, and has held a prominent place in Varsity games this year and last. He is one of the most popular men on the squad, and was chosen unanimously to be the next Bruin leader.

WORK BEGINS ON QUAD TELEPHONES

The cable for the telephones to be installed in the Quadrangle arrived yesterday and the local company has started the work of connecting the Iowa City exchange with a telephone in each room at the dormitory.

of Wisconsin were other outstanding half backs.

Vick Gets Center Position

Ernie Vick of Michigan is placed at center. The Wolverine has been one of the most valuable men to his team all season. He seldom gets hurt, and knows a lot of football. He is an accurate passer, one of the first requirements in a pivot player, while his aggressive play on defense had a lot to do with Michigan's victory over Illinois and its tie game with Wisconsin. Although Yost played Vick at tackle on defense, he would be an ideal player to have at one corner of a box defense. His general knowledge of football makes him the logical choice for the position.

Bunge of Wisconsin is nearly the equal of the Wolverine. The Badger has played aggressive football all season and is one of the best players on the Cardinal eleven. Heldt of Iowa, King of Chicago, and Hathaway of Northwestern were the other leading centers.

"Some" Pair of Tackles

Charles McGuire, captain of the Chicago eleven, is placed at right tackle. The big Maroon leader has given comparatively no ground all season, while he aided considerably in making the full backs' gains possible by opening up holes. He is a fighter of the first water who failed to weaken when he faced the redoubtable Stanton Keck of Princeton.

"Duke" Slater, giant Negro of the Iowa eleven, is given the other tackle position. Slater should be a candidate for all-American honors. There is little about line play that he does not know, and it was mainly through his efforts that Locke gained so much ground against Notre Dame and Illinois. He weighs 207 pounds and is over 6 feet tall. He is fairly fast and shifty, and is seldom kept out of plays.

Brader of Wisconsin was another great tackle. Huffman and Spiers of Ohio were a fine pair of men for the positions, while Carman of Purdue could make a tackle position on any team in the country, and be rated a star.

Dunne and Trott Guards

"Duke" Dunne, captain of Michigan, is awarded the left guard position. Dunne has been of great service to his alma mater. He started out as an end, and has played practically every position in the line. He played himself out in the Ohio State game, but was in every play while he lasted. He performed well against Illinois, and put up a stellar game against Wisconsin. In the Badger struggle he blocked forward passes and spoiled plays before they were formed. A shoulder injury compelled him to leave the battle at the end of the first half.

Trott of Ohio State, a great forward, is given the other guard position. The Buckeye was a reliable performer last season, but showed to even better advantage this year. He has permitted few gains through his position, and broke up many formations used by opponents. He has been down under punts and has done some tackling on the wings.

Redmond a Strong Guard

Redmond of Chicago, Mohr of Illinois, Minick of Iowa, McGaw of Indiana, and G. Penfield of Northwestern were other strong guards.

The team as selected included four players who captained their teams during the last season and who are rightfully entitled to the honors. Walquist of Illinois, who played his last game, is made leader of the second eleven, and Guy Sundt, a great athlete who captained Wisconsin, is chosen leader of the third eleven. Rudyard Kipling's greatest story Without Benefit of Clergy

Two souls listen to the drum beat of destiny; two souls hear the call of the East in the night.

What did the drum beat, throbbing like their own hearts mean?

Everything or nothing!

If Kipling had never written any other story than this, he would still be one of the great authors of the world.

If James Young never directed another picture, "Without Benefit of Clergy" would proclaim him as a master.

If every one of the greatest features that have ever been made were wiped out, "Without Benefit of Clergy" would, in itself, proclaim the greatness of the art to future generations.

In its revelation of a wonderful love, in its amazing power to move the human heart, in its intensity of emotion, in its superb acting, and its mysticism and its colorful and perfect presentation, "Without Benefit of Clergy" stands alone.

Advertisement for the movie "Over the Hill" at the Englert Theatre. The ad features a large illustration of a man and a woman, a portrait of a man, and a scene of people sitting on a bench. Text includes: "Over the Hill" tells a story as old as life itself and as new as the present moment. It is a story of mother-love divine—of beautiful sacrifice suffered uncomplainingly, and finally rewarded. Tears there are, of course, but tears that are immediately followed by wholesome laughter. It fairly bulges with fun—the kind of fun such as the older ones have had in their youth and such as the youthful are now having. It is the humor that results from the inconsequential things in the every day life of a plain unpretentious family—the kind of humor that centers about a family of six lively children, a dog, a shiftless father and—a loving, forgiving mother.
