MOZART'S COMIC OPERA WILL BE GIVEN DEC. 8

Six Artists in the Impresario Company Which Will Present Play

ADMISSION TO BE $1.50

Miss Regina Vicarino, Noted Opera Star Will Sing "Madam Hofer"

Mozart's comic opera, will be presented by the Impresario company December 8 in the University theater. The English version of "The Impresario" was written by Henry Edward Krehbiel, the veteran critic of the New York Times. The story is based upon an historical episode, using characters portrayed from real life.

There are six artists in the company, according to Mrs. P. G. Clapp, all of whom are artists of the first rank. Percy Hemus, baritone, who is one of America's best known concert singers, will sing in the role of "Emanuel Schickaneder," the manager.

Miss Huntington to Sing The role of "Demoselle Uhlic" will be sung by Miss Hazel Huntington who is well known in New York musical circles. Miss Regina Vicarino, noted New York operatic star will sing in the role of "Madam Hofer". Thomas McGranaham, famous Irish tenor is to appear as the great Mozart. Francis J. Tyler, baritone sings the role of Phillip, and Miss Gladys Craven acts as piano accompanist.

The Impresario company will sing this translated version of "The Impresario" or "Hoodwinking the Manager" in English.

In the year 1786, Emanuel Schickaneder, noted as general director of The Vienna Opera House was an ardent admirer and devotee of Mozart, the composer who was then at the height of his popularity. Schickaneder engaged Mozart to compose the music for a new and fantastic opera "The Magic Flute" for which he had written the libretto. Madam Hofer, who was the sister-in-law of Mozart, was singing at the Vienna Opera House at Prima Donna Assoluta. Feeling her position secure, she managed to make the manager's life very miserable by indulging in prima donna tantrums, which he was forced to humor her on account of his relations with Mozart.

Two Prima Donna Roles Mozart, always partial in his composition to the high soprano voice, completely left out the contralto, and wrote two prima donna soprano roles, "Queen of the Night" and "Pamina". In order to produce the opera, Schickaneder was forced to engage another prima donna to sing the role of "Pamina."

Phillip, a nephew of Schickaneder was betrothed to Mlle. Dorothea Uhlic, a young soprano, who refused to marry him until after she had made a career for herself. Schickaneder had never seen her but he refused to consider having a niece-in-law prima donna to worry him with her tantrums. In desperation, Phillip conceived the plan of passing his fiancée off as "Cavaleri" the new singer his uncle was expecting from Milan.

Phillip Warns Uncle Phillip warns his uncle that he may hood-wink him into granting his wishes. Schickaneder boatsfully maintains that if Phillip ever gets the better of him, he will marry Mlle. Uhlic, and he will give her a chance in the Vienna Opera.

Dorothea plans to make love to Mozart in order to secure his aid in winning the uncle. She plans to talk only in Italian so that Schickaneder will not discover her identity.

Dorothea has a pretty scene with Mozart in which he is discovered making love to Dorothea. Madam Hofer, and "The Singer from Milan" have some funny scenes while trying out for the position of first prima donna, when they both insist that they are the prima donna. Schickaneder has a very embarrassing time trying to talk business in Italian. After the contract has been signed Schickaneder discovers the trick, but gives his benediction to the lov-

MANY SIGN FOR NOVICE MEET

Eight Swimming Events Will be Run in Men's Tank Saturday

Thirty men have already signed for the novice swimming meet which is to be held in the men's tank Saturday afternoon. The meet is open to any undergraduate who has never won a first place in regular competition.

A total of eight events including the 20 yard and 40 yard dash, 100 yard breast, 100 yard back, 100 yard free style, 220 yard easy style, fancy diving and plunge for distance have been arranged for. From present indications the 20 yard dash will be the most popular event. Seventeen men have already signed up for this race.

Strong competition is expected in the 20 and 40 yard dash events, particularly between John Goldtman and Roy Stover, both of whom were members of last year's freshman squad, and both of whom have been setting a fast pace this year. McCullough is expected to be the leader in the fancy diving event, while Swenson, a freshman, showed considerable ability in the high school meet at Ames last year, is expected to be one of the pace setters in the 100 yard back stroke.

Gold ribbons will be awarded to the winners of first, second, third and fourth places in each event. The meet will start at 2:00 o'clock.

ASHMORE DRILLS MEN IN USE OF DRIBBLE

After spending a large part of the evening in perfecting the dribble and short pass game that he is teaching this year, Coach James Ashmore sent two sets of teams against each other in the scrimmage that followed. The short games between these teams were hard fought and the defense of each team seemed stronger than the opposing team's offense. About forty men are reporting each night and as yet no first team has been picked, for one or two of last year's letter men are used to bolster up some of the weaker teams.

The style of game that is being played this year differs slightly from the game that was used last year, for the players use a short fast dribble to aid in working the ball down the floor. Last year there was practically no dribbling and the men depended on the short pass to enable them to get the ball underneath the basket. One of the teams that played last night seemed to have the dribble and pass game working and they scored a number of baskets. Lohman worked the ball down under the basket in good style, while Shimek shot several long ones.

Team work is still rough and will need a lot of smoothing before any of the Conference teams are played. There are too many personal fouls made, but the squad seems to be going in fast style.

WEATHER REPORT

Weather Forecast — Clear and warmer. Cloudy in the eastern part of the state.

JOHN LOMAX TO CHANT BALLADS

Authority on Cowboy Songs to Appear Tomorrow as University Lecturer

John Avery Lomax, the foremost authority on cowboy songs and poems, who will appear at the University tomorrow night does not as most students have been led to think, chant songs that he has composed himself. The songs he will chant are composed of ballads that he has collected in cowboy camps. Mr. Lomax for many years used to work as a cowboy in the various camps in the Southwest, especially in Texas for the purpose of getting these songs from the boys in the camps.

According to Prof. John T. Frederick of the English department, "Mr. Lomax has done more than any one else to preserve and to make popular our contemporary ballads. I have never heard any but the best criticism in regard to Mr. Lomax and his entertainments. Every one who has heard his entertainments repeat that they are, besides being literary, very good 'shows'."

Mr. Lomax received his B. A. degree at the University of Texas in 1897, and his M. A. degree in 1906. He also studied at the University of Chicago and Harvard. He was at one time the registrar of the University of Texas, instructor in English and later an instructor at the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College. He was the secretary of the University of Texas from 1910 to 1917. Mr. Lomax was on the executive committee of the Modern Language association of America, and president of the American Folk Lore society. He was the founder of the Texas Folk Lore Society. Lomax is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

W. A. A. WILL HOLD INITIATION FOR 150 PLEDGES TONIGHT

Tonight at the women's gymnasium 150 W. A. A. pledges will "ride the goat" into membership. All citizens within a radius of two miles remembering the hubbub when 80 girls went in last fall, will profit by the warning and sleep in the afternoon. Surely the path of a would-be W. A. A. member is hard. After walking in gradually lengthening hikes for thirty-five miles, as 114 of them did, to be forced to appear in a "stunt" for the approval of the old members, and dragged from that to be put through any number of tortures—well, one might remark that they had earned their membership.

Thirty-two of the 150 girls earned their membership by going swimming fifteen times in six weeks and the other four, by taking a two hour elective. At first thought it is surprising that none took advantage of the new opportunity for credits, that of paddling to Coralville and back four times. But, after all, it is a long road up and back all alone, and who wants to paddle all the time when she is not alone.

Six stunts will be given, two by freshman girls, two by sophomores, and two by juniors and seniors, with twenty to thirty girls in each stunt. Of course, they are being kept secret, but when 150 girls keep a secret,—the stunts do sound very clever. After initiation, which will be made memorable by the help of various gymnasium devices and scientific brains, there will be dancing. All old members are assured of plenty of room on the dance floor, as the new initiates will be too stiff to indulge.

All members, old and new are asked to bring one dollar for W. A. A. dues, according to Pauline Spencer A3 of Des Moines, president.

Last year the national W. A. A. of Iowa had the largest membership in the United States of any organization of the sort. In some colleges membership is automatic with the registration of women in the college, but in a closed society like the one here, which has definite requirements for entrance, Iowa took the lead with its three hundred members. Estimating approximately the necessary loss by graduation, Miss Brooks says that there will be a

CELEBRATION COMMITTEE IS ON THE FENCE

Plans Kept Secret Until Definite Statements Can Be Made

BIG CELEBRATION IS SURE

Program for Holiday to be Announced Tomorrow?

Whether December 5 will be set aside by the University authorities as a holiday, for the purpose of celebrating the great football victories of the Iowa team is still a matter of rumor and speculation about the campus. Although the student body is becoming impatient to know when the big celebration will be held, and whether a holiday will be declared, the committee in charge of planning the affair is still stalling for time and refusing to make any plans known to the public.

Committee Still Procrastinates A meeting of the executive committee, which is composed of the presidents of thirty-five representative student organizations, was held at the Jefferson hotel yesterday afternoon. The report of the sub-committee which was supposed to present possible plans for the celebration was passed upon by the executive body, but due to some slight misunderstanding no agreement could be reached.

A part of the executive committee met with President Walter A. Jessup yesterday afternoon to reach a decision upon a date for the celebration, and to find out whether or not the day will be declared a holiday. Douglas F. Boynton A4 of Cedar Rapids who is chairman of the committee, stated that due to the fact that there is a slight disagreement among the higher powers no definite information can be given until Thursday morning's Iowan. "The committee in charge of planning the celebration wishes to make it a success in every respect. Therefore we do not wish to make any statements about vacations or about plans for the celebration until we are absolutely certain that we have reached the right decision," said Boynton.

Want to Spring Surprise Members of the committee when accosted yesterday afternoon after the meeting refused to talk about the celebration. They seemed to want to give the impression that the whole affair should be kept secret until tomorrow, and then spring the whole of their dark plottings upon the eager students.

Students seem equally excited about the celebration and about whether or not the day will be declared a holiday by the higher authorities. The student body seems unanimously in favor of a celebration even though the time is a little late in the season. Still the great question hangs in the minds of all students—Will December 5 be declared a holiday for University students?

COUNCIL PLEDGES SUPPORT

The student council pledged its support to the victory celebration for the football team last night. Douglas Boynton, president of the student council and chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the celebration stated that all plans were complete and awaiting the approval of President Walter A. Jessup, which will be given this noon.

SENIOR WOMEN USED TO WEAR TASSELED CAPS

As late as 1911 senior women at Iowa wore the tasseled caps of their rank from the time of Thanksgiving convocation until the end of the year. Any departure from the established custom brought a severe reprimand on the offender. Men wore caps on special occasions only during commencement week.

EDUCATED WOMEN ARE DEADLY SAYS MAN WHO KNOWS

Cupid and man have no hand in the marriage of University students; they are both mere tools of the clever University woman, according to Edward S. White, an attorney at Harlan and a graduate of the University, in a letter to Mrs. Adelaide L. Burge, acting dean of women.

Mr. White believes as Mrs. Burge, that the University is no institution for the making of old maids and bachelors, and goes a step farther to say that the educated female is more deadly than the male and that the minute she "spots" the man she wants she "gets" him.

Mr. White wrote, "Having read your conclusions in regard to the Varsity and matrimony, I agree with you and Kipling that 'the (educated) female of the species is more deadly than the male.' I view the sorority woman, especially, with great alarm. She is cute, sometimes sweet, often pretty, and always as Lowell says of somebody else, 'devilish sly.' It is entirely up to her to say whether she will set sail on the matrimonial seas or tend the vestal fires. Mere co-educational man is fated from the instant she 'spots' him for hers."

"Mr. White married a University woman himself just after he graduated," said Mrs. Burge.

TIGHT SHOES PUT WRINKLES IN FACE SAYS MARY LYONS

Miss Mary Lyons, head of the physical education department, said in her lecture to freshmen women yesterday afternoon, that over ninety percent of the women of the University had curved spines and poor postures. This is simply the result of carelessness, either on the part of the parents or their own indifference. Much of this could be corrected, she says, if the girls would persistently practice the exercises for curved spines, round shoulders, sunken chests, and poor postures.

Another physical defect that most of the University women have, says Miss Lyons, is broken arches. They persist in wearing high heeled, narrow pointed shoes that are several sizes too small for them. They ought to have a low heeled wide shoe that conforms to the shape of the foot instead of the foot conforming to the shape of the shoe. Miss Lyons gives this as a receipt for staying young. Tight shoes she says will put wrinkles in the face. They have a great deal to do with posture also. No woman can walk properly when her feet are cramped in an exceedingly uncomfortable position.

Miss Lyons also said, in her talk on general health, that she heard that some of the University women were taking anti-fat medicine to reduce. This is the ruination of anyone's health she says, and if the women who think they have a superabundant amount of tissue will come to her she will suggest a more efficient remedy for reducing than anti-fat medicine.

STUDENT COUNCIL TO SUPPORT ALL-UNIVERSITY PARTIES AND MIXERS

The student council at its meeting last night made plans for starting more all-University functions. All-University dances and mixers are to be given which will bring all of the colleges into closer relationship with one another and which will aid in molding University spirit.

A committee of three was appointed to investigate and report on the kind of University affair which ought to be advocated. Henry J. Prentiss A4 of Iowa City, Evan Bailey P2 of Lewistown, Ill., and Clarence O. McGrath L3 of Marengo were named on this committee.

The student council is to be represented by two members on a committee to approve plays which appear in Iowa City. The other members are to be selected from the governing board of the Associated Dramatic students.

The student council is also to support the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. campaign for the student friendship fund in Europe.

IOWA RECEIVES UNOFFICIAL BID TO TOURNAMENT

W. Duffield Discusses Plans With Athletic Board Last Night

UP TO CONFERENCE NOW

Sentiment of Board Seems to be Against Acceptance

By GEORGE H. SEIGLE

William Duffield of Los Angeles, California, president of the University of Iowa alumni of California appeared before the board in control of athletics yesterday evening as an unofficial representative of the Tournament of Roses association to discuss with the board the possibility of a game between Iowa and the University of California at Pasadena New Year's Day.

The board took no official action on the matter last night, but the sentiment of the members seemed to be against the consideration of such a game in view of the fact that post season games are contrary to the rules of the conference.

Word received from Coach Howard H. Jones, director of athletics yesterday made no mention of any invitation received by him after the Northwestern game in Chicago, although it was rumored that a discussion of the possibilities of such a game took place at that time.

It is possible that the question of post season games will be taken up at the conference of coaches in Chicago December 2 at the meeting called by President Byron J. Lambert. This is not positive however, but if such a question is taken up, the decision will finally settle the question of the post season game. It is extremely doubtful if permission will be granted by the conference for Iowa to make the trip.

DENIES RUMOR OF INVITATION

In an interview late last night Mr. Duffield stated that he approved inter-sectional games and hoped to see Iowa play California January 1. He estimated that at least 50,000 people would witness the contest, judging from the way they followed the games this fall.

People of California are very anxious to have the Iowa team play, but Mr. Duffield was inclined to doubt the conference approval of a post season game. He said, however, that it was entirely up to the conference now denying all rumors that the invitation had been officially extended.

Mr. Duffield will be in Iowa City most of today and expressed his desire to meet the members of the football squad. He seemed to think Iowa would draw the largest crowd.

WOMEN TO DISCUSS DEBATING QUESTION AT 5 O'CLOCK TODAY

This afternoon at 5 o'clock the women of the University, who are interested in making the intercollegiate debating team which is to go to Indiana in March will meet in room 3 of the natural science building for conference in regard to the question and material available for research work on it.

The question which will in all probabilities be agreed upon by both Indiana and Iowa is, "Resolved: That England should grant immediate independence to Ireland." This is practically the same question being debated by the men's intercollegiate teams this year.

The tryouts for the women's team will be held Tuesday, December 13. Five minute speeches on either side of the question are to be given at the tryouts. The judges will be, from the department of speech.

All women of the University may try out for the team except freshmen and graduate students and those who have failed in a course the previous semester or are delinquent this semester.

WHATEVER IT MAY BE

There seems to be a tendency on the part of the committee in charge of the celebration to be secretive with regard to definite details and plans of the proposed affair. But the very fact that whatever it may be has to do with our appreciation of this year's football success and the work of the team and coaches is enough to warrant our giving it our full support, be it a phantom or decidedly a material plan.

A few definite facts may be gleaned as to the essentials of the proposal. We know that it is a purely student affair, it is of interest not only to the students but to the city and the state as well, it is truly spontaneous on the part of those taking the initiative in the matter, and it will furnish an opportunity that we can not afford to lose to demonstrate our loyalty to the University and those who do things for the University; the rest does not matter. The mere details of the celebration, the words, so to speak in which we express ourselves, are of little consequence; the truly essential thing is that the students feel an appreciation that must be given expression in one form or another.

The clandestine aspect of the plans which the committee is formulating need not unduly concern the students, for they are all represented. It is enough that plans are under way which will probably later need the support of every Iowan to make them successful.

THE TRUE PURPOSE

The Daily Iowan wishes to cooperate in every possible way with the National Association on the "Limitation of Armaments" at Washington in conducting their contest for the best editorial on "What Will Constitute Success at the Washington Conference". The editorial column of the Daily Iowan is open to any editorials entered in this contest which are deemed by the editor to be of such quality as to approximate eligibility to consideration in the contest. The initials of the writer will be attached to the entries when printed.

But it is hoped that the prizes offered will not overshadow the ultimate purpose of the contest. The association does not desire to make a present to anyone just for the sake of the present; the aim is to attract more general consideration to this great problem from the students of the country. It is not for the sake of the contest that they make their announcement, but in order to have students thinking upon the importance and bigness of the disarmament undertaking. The editorial contest is a good thing; we hope that a great number of entries will be made by Iowa students. But the greater hope is that students will undertake to devote a little serious thought upon the great problem of limiting armaments.

THE COLLEGIATE PEDESTAL

(Women's staff
Syracuse Daily Orange)
What does popularity mean to you? When you have opened your mouth and spoken the word just what have you said? The criterion one sets as his idea of popularity determines in a large way his attitude toward life in general. Among college people there are many distinct views of the factors which are responsible for the "popularity" of individuals. One very marked class of students believes that the winning of the scholastic Croix de Guerre, the Phi Beta Kappa key, will absolutely appease their desires of popularity.

There are others who deem half a dozen conflicting dates to parties; being strong with the other sex; and the acquisition of "good looking clothes" as the consumption of popularity.

Others glory in "their names in print." To be really running something and be recognized as an active leader is quite enough to satisfy their vanity.

We would not neglect the people who are "small town stuff" at college but go home for vacations to lord it over the home town and thus appease their self glory.

What then is your idea of popularity?

There is no true standard in any one track course. The really popular man or woman does intelligent work in the class room—has a personality that "gets across" in the social world and has a place in college activities; he is one who can adjust himself to the varied situations which college presents. A real student; a jolly mixer; a good sport; these combined spell "popularity".

NOTICE

An unauthorized announcement in the Daily Iowan recently stated that only the initials would be attached to contributors articles. All contributors' articles must be signed and the initials will be used upon special request.

SHAVINGS

(Chips From Many Blockheads)

Now that the football season proper is over and the hot-stove conferences are starting with a bang, the open season for picking the all-something-or-other teams is on in full force.

According to Doctor Eckersall, Iowa rather high-tones the natives of the middle west in the number of men who rate first-water selections, our Hawkeyes landing three men on the first team, while in the total men on all three of his all-star teams, Iowa and Wisconsin are tied with six.

And it's ten to one that when the newspapers of the Big Ten cities first glimpsed the account of the selection of the team, the papers of Iowa, Wisconsin, Ohio, Michigan, and Chicago printed it like this:

HERE ARE BIG HEROES OF BIG TEN

While the papers around Illinois, Indiana, Purdue, Minnesota, and Northwestern probably considered it thusly:

Here are the big heroes of Big Ten.

Some New York sport writer, in picking an All-Big Ten team leaves Locke on the second eleven, and puts Thomas of Chicago on the first string in his place. Suppose some of the rabid Chicago fans will now accuse Eckersall of overlooking the home talent of his alma mater.

And There's That

The interfraternity council wishes to publicly deny the rumor that they are attempting to break up the Pan-Hel. "Such a thing" to quote them is foolish, ridiculous, un-heard-of, outlandish, feline, unthinkable, unfounded and bunk.

We see where some Chicago University student has a cane to match every suit. Yes, we have a cane, too.

"Everyone loves Niloak", says the Daily Iowan. Wonder if that's anything like what "children cry for"?

Just about the worst case ever reported to the student health department came in the other day. A student was suffering from a case of nervous breakdown, caused by lying awake nights worrying for fear he might get insomnia and wouldn't be able to sleep any more.

Now that the Christmas shopping is starting again, we'll have to "grin and bear it." Then for some time after the holidays, we grin and wear it.

CONTRIBUTORS COLUMN

HASTY CONCLUSIONS

The social committee but recently saw fit to lower the admission price of University parties. Taking in surrounding circumstances, and time to reason will bring to light the fact that the decision reached by this committee was not founded on logic. It is not the writer's desire to boost such admission to an almost prohibitive point, nor to take away from the University parties the democracy with which they have been endowed, but merely charge such admission as is necessary to allow the class parties and military ball to maintain their places as exceptional parties, and enable the committee to put on a dance that will be attended as something different from what every weekend offers.

There is now not an ordinary public dance being operated in Iowa City for less than $1.50 per couple, and many add their war tax to this price. According to the social committee's decision the freshman party shall not cost over $1.50. How will the latter be able to maintain its place as a University function worth attending? And then we have the announcement that other class parties shall not exceed $2.50. At least we assume that the social committee would not kick if the party committees would desire to charge a lower admission price.

The worth-while character of such parties will soon be smothered by unfounded drawbacks which disinterested people, with authority, may see fit to heap on. Soon they will all be a go-8:45-leave-at-11:45 affair, with mediocre musical talent to dance by, and nothing of beauty and pleasure to be remembered. Varsity, the Cotillion Ball Room, the Burkley, yea, Redman Hall will be preferred. The University will lose attractiveness, and fail to afford its students with at least a few decent dances a year.

The Daily Iowan, in its article in regard to the decision of the social committee, remarks that there will be no more double orchestras or elaborate decorations. Are these things to be scoffed at, branded as frivolous, when by far the greater part of the student body, and those not students, find it a pleasant relief from their books and labors to spend an occasional evening dancing? It is true that decorations, such as are necessary to add a little beauty to the men's gymnasium, are expensive, but who desires to dance in it when it is barren. This town and University lacks a large and attractive dance hall, and such a thing would cut the money expended for decorations to one-fourth what should be spent now. And what is a party without an orchestra—one that will render satisfactory music—and not break a couple of drum-heads during the evening. And who desires to dress up, spend considerable money, and then sit around half of the evening when the social committee likewise sees fit to close such parties when they have fairly begun. A double orchestra is not a waste of money, it is material to a successful party, as was shown last year.

A student does not complain when he gets his money's worth, and neither does the parent, or whoever furnishes the where-with-all. It is not a matter of sitting in a committee room and deciding that corn being down therefore the price of parties must come down. There should be study and reason behind every decision which vitally affects the future of University functions. Parties are made a part of University life, and take their place in one's education, in making a man fit. Of course they can be overdone, but that is not the case here. No one can deny the advisability of a reasonable amount of parties, reasonably carried on, and at a price that will suit all attending, and still permit one worthy of attendance and remembering.

And let it be understood that the writer is not taking journalism, nor in any manner getting credit for this article. It is written as a reaction to the decision of the social committee in lowering the price of class parties when it will lower their standard to almost nothing, will place them on a common footing with an ordinary dance, will drive away attendance instead of adding the spirit of democracy, and will detract from the prestige of the University.

FOREIGN STUDENT TELLS HOW IT FEELS TO BE A STUDENT AT UNIVERSITY OF IOWA

By W. J. SAMONTE

Perhaps if you are acquainted with a foreign student to such an extent that you take the trouble of asking him where in the world he came from and why he came to the University, the latter would probably answer you in monosyllables which might not excite your curiosity to go any further with your interrogations. But if you insist in your curiosity and show that you are really interested in knowing who he is and why he came to the University of Iowa he may thaw his ice of silence and unfold the secret of his identity. You may find in your tete-a-tete with him that he does not have a picturesque story to tell about himself, but in all probability he may be able to relate stories (all of which may be facts) about his country about which perhaps you have never heard.

Foreign Students Are Shy

As a matter of fact the foreign student is a shy retiring mortal who ought to be dragged from his shell of aloofness. It is true he finds himself in new surroundings and for a time at least feels as if he is an outsider, a nonentity in the midst of all the bustle and hustle of college life in an American seat of learning. He is furthermore a humble and obliging individual, a silent fellow who would not speak unless spoken to. Just notice how he takes the most obscure seat in the class room, how attentive he is to the instructor, and how obedient he is. He would not go through the door ahead of you, nor appropriate the greater part of the sidewalk, especially when his co-walked is a coed.

Are Strong for Iowa

A foreign student who happens to read this super-description of himself may feel very much flattered, but at the same time resent the implication that he is not a part of the institution. To do him justice it may be said that when he comes here he is a loyal Iowan booster. He is interested in all the University ac-

PROFESSOR ULLMAN IS HEAD OF COMMITTEE OF SURVEY

Prof. B. L. Ullman has returned from Chicago where he attended a joint meeting of two of the regional committees in charge of the national survey of Latin teaching now being conducted.

Professor Ullman is chairman of one of the two committees, that of the northwest, covering Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, Kansas, North and South Dakota. At the meeting he outlined several important projects which center at the University of Iowa.

If all the projects under consideration are carried out, the University of Iowa will be one of the chief contributors to the work of the Survey. The object of the Survey is to improve the teaching of Latin in the secondary schools of the country.

tivities, glories in the triumph of the football team, and expects great things of this institution. His connection to the University, moreover, will not end when he gets through with his education here, but he will carry away with him the traditions and memories of Old Gold. He will not forget his alma mater when he will be back among his people in China, Japan, Syria, South America, or Java, and will only remember those privileges and opportunities afforded him in a spirit of great generosity by the people of Iowa.

May be the Caliph's Son

Perhaps this same foreign student who is seen around the campus may be related to the ex-royal family of China, or a distant cousin of the Caliph of Mecca, or just a common individual, an adventurous spirit who dropped into Iowa City determined to get the best that there is to get in the way of education through his own efforts and self-dependence. But whoever he is, if one is interested enough to get a "line on him", he is likely to be a good fellow, a regular one who can follow the serious business of study or the less rigorous but more agreeable effort at the movie shows or perhaps in the drawing room.

Some Have Travelled Extensively
Better acquaintance with him may reveal the fact that he has practically travelled around the greater part of the surface of the earth, that he knows about half a dozen languages, that he has been in China, that he has seen the South Sea Islanders, or that he has been among the terrible Turks. On the other hand his coming to Iowa City may be his first outlook on this big world in which case it would afford as much interest to know how he feels so far away from his people.

So would it not be a good policy to extend to him the glad hand once in a while and perhaps shake him away from his solitary dream of his native home, by jostling him along or mixing it up with him?

CHINESE DINNER CLEARS $101.45

The profits made at the Chinese dinner given by the Chinese students amounts to $101.45. The money will be sent to the Chinese Students' Alliance to help pay the expenses of Chinese students.

The Chinese Students' Alliance publishes the weekly "Chinese Advocate" which is published in English, the "Echo," a Chinese paper, and many pamphlets regarding Chinese problems. The Alliance's information service sends articles to the various papers. These services are minor in comparison to the support and co-operation which the alliance gives the Chinese delegation at Washington. It is in close contact with all Chinese organizations through the world.

gain of about one hundred members over last year's record.

The point system of W. A. A. has been changed nationally and the following requirements are now in force: Entrance points are fifty which may be gained either by a series of arranged hikes, swimming fifteen times in six weeks for thirty minutes each, or four trips by canoe to Coralville and back under supervision. A girl making any first team may enter W. A. A. but must make up the fifty points before receiving her numeral.

The national ruling states that girls making the first team in field ball, soccer, hockey, basketball, dancing team, gymnasium, swimming team, and baseball win one hundred points; and those making the second team in each of these sports gain fifty points. In tennis the winner of the tournament gets a hundred points and the runner up seventy five points. In the semi-finals the contestants get fifty points and entrance into the tournament gives ten points.

The winner of track gets a hundred points, second and third get seventy-five and fifty points respectively and entrance gives ten points. The same number of points

COMMENCING FRIDAY AFTERNOON AT 4

If you are going to dance at all why not dance well

Why merely get around when with just a few hours of proper instruction you can make your dancing an accomplishment instead of a job.

When seeking instruction you want the best. Mr. Ryan is a nationally known teacher of over twenty-five years experience, and can give to your dancing that pep and finish that makes dancing worth while.

It takes about twelve hours in a life-time to be a good dancer if the effort is properly directed. In this case it costs about $3.00 for the course, twelve hours instruction, with an expert.

Two classes are planned.

BEGINNERS' CLASS—Fundamental exercises, ballroom deportment and a series of common dances, waltz, two-step, Fox-trot, etc.

ELEMENTARY CLASS—For those who dance and want to polish up in the finer little tricks, and a series of up-to-the-minute dances.
