IOWA WALLOPS CALIFORNIA IN UNUSUAL GAME

17 to 14 is Score; Aubrey Devine Breaks Leg After Great Playing

SEILING SCORES LAST

Enormous Crowd Sees Jones' Great Team Live Up to Expectations

By Francis J. Weber
Pasadena, Jan. 1.—Special to the Iowan—In the greatest football game played this year, Iowa defeated California New Year's Day at Pasadena 17 to 14 in a battle that kept the great crowd of sixty thousand people on their feet from the first whistle to the last. Thousands of automobiles decorated with the colors of each university, for hundreds of former Iowans now living in and near California were all supporting the team from the old home state, drove into Pasadena from all parts of the South West.

Crowd Too Big For Stands
On the evening before the game great bonfires around which campers sang and shouted lighted up the country for miles around. Rival yells and songs floated back and forth between the groups that crowded the streets, but the rivalry was a friendly one and there was no rowdiness. The tournament committee spent all night in increasing the seating capacity of the stands, for the crowd that had assembled far surpassed the number expected, and it was feared that many who had traveled long distances would be unable to witness the game. The committee intends to start work on the new stadium at once so that next year's crowd can be more easily accommodated.

Jones Silent Before Game
Each coach was confident that his team would win. Coach Smith of California believed that his line would be too strong for the Iowa running game, while he placed faith in the passing game of his own team, which he did not believe Iowa would be able to break up. Coach Howard H. Jones would make no predictions as to the outcome of the game. Before the game he said however, that his team was in good shape and that it would play football. Members of the two teams would say nothing this morning except that their opponents would have to play hard to beat them.

A Hot New Year's Day
The morning was bright and clear and while the sun was shining hotly, there was a cool breeze that aided in making the warmth of the day bearable. People began filling the stands at 11 o'clock this morning bringing their lunches with them, although the game would not begin until 2:30 p. m. Some few of them had sunshades with them, while the majority were dressed in light summer clothes. Nearly all had light wraps, however, for the evenings are cool, after the sun starts down. By noon the stands were filled and a great crowd was assembled before each of the ticket windows trying to get the few tickets that remained.

Thousands were left without tickets, and there was a great amount of grumbling over the small seating capacity of the stands. Many of those who failed to get in line early have already left town, but many more waited in the hope that standing room would be sold.

Rival Governors There
The governor of California and his staff occupied a box seat on one side of the field, while Governor Kendall of Iowa and his family were seated on the opposite side of the field. One section of the stands was empty, but this section was closely guarded, and no one seemed able to explain the reason for its emptiness. Before either team arrived on the field the California cheer leaders amused the crowd by stunt exhibitions, and led several California yells.

Iowa Comes Out at 2:20
By 2:15 p. m. the crowd grew restless, but a few minutes later every

FILIPINO SAYS WE CAN'T GUESS WHO HE IS—SEE?

By V. J. Samonte
When you meet a yellow or brown-skinned fellow, kind of short and spare in build, around the campus, you may think and call him either a Jap or a Chinaman or a Philippine student. You may be right in one of your guesses, but the foreign student may either be one of these three guesses, and you have to guess again for he may be one of those yellow-colored brothers from Hawaii, India, or Java, or even Syria. Or perhaps you may cast your eye on a dark-haired, olive-complexioned, stocky guy; you may jump to the hasty conclusion that he is an Italian dago, or a Spanish senior, when in reality he is an Argentine, a Bolivian, or a Porto Rican, or even a genuine Filipino. If you ever attempt to pin on a foreign student his nationality, better be very cautious and don't be too cocksure as an expert physiognomist. Think more than three times or even thirteen times.

one on the Iowa side of the field was on his feet as a black jerseyed squad trotted out on the field and began warming up. Captain Devine and Heldt, the Iowa center, went down to the south goal and Devine started drop-kicking, while the rest of the team began kicking and passing the ball around.

Bruins Favored to Win
While the crowd was watching the Iowa team, the big north gates swung open and the California band started playing the University of California song. The entire crowd stood as the band marched into the stadium. Following behind the band was an orderly group of about a thousand girls dressed in the blue and gold of California, who marched steadily around the stadium until they came to the vacant section. Here they broke ranks and climbed into their section, where all seemed confusion at first, but when they sat down the blue "C" stood out sharply against the gold background. As soon as they were seated they started a song for the Bears, and the Bears answered by running on the field to the cheers of the crowd. The California men were the favorites, although there were many Iowans in the crowd.

Devine Wins Flip
The stands were jammed and many people who could not get in when the authorities refused to sell standing room, climbed into the trees that surrounded the field. Captain Latham of California and Captain Devine of Iowa met in the center of the field to decide the choice of the goals. Devine won the toss and chose to receive at the north goal where he had the advantage of the slight breeze. The California team seemed slightly heavier than the Iowa team, but the advantage was slight.

Locke Smashes California
Nisbet kicked off for California to A. Devine who returned to his own 25-yard line where Muller downed him. Iowa, famed for its early attack, then started its running game, shooting Locke through the line and Devine off tackle. None of the gains were for long distances, but they were made steadily for the Iowa line, which California papers had said was untested, seemed to be opening holes through which Locke, running low and hard, plunged until stopped by the secondary defense.

Aubrey Boots a Drop-Kick
Devine had more trouble because California's great pair of ends, Muller and Berkey, turned him in so that the line could stop him. After the Iowa team had marched down the field to the Bruin 20-yard line, the Bears took time out and got their heads together. When the play started again they held Locke to a short gain and stopped Devine in his tracks. On the third down A. Devine dropped back to kick formation and booted an easy field goal, with the Iowa line a stone wall against the efforts of the Bears to break through. Score Iowa 3, California 0.

TRAIN TO YALE BEING PLANNED

Dondore of 300 Expects Many Alumni and Students to Sign for Trip

The Howling 300s planning on chartering two special trains of ten or fifteen coaches each to run to New Haven, Conn., next October to allow Iowa students and followers from all over the state to attend the Iowa-Yale game, according to John J. Dondore A3 of Iowa City, president of the pep organization.

There are two possible routes being considered for the trip. One is the Baltimore and Ohio out of Chicago, and the other is the New York Central. The Howling 300 has been assured that reasonable rates can be secured if a large crowd intends to make the trip.

All of the students and Iowa City people who expect to attend the game will be asked to sign with the Howling 300 before the close of this year, as the game is one of the first ones on the football schedule next fall, and will be played October 14.

It is planned to organize the alumni and followers from all over the state. Headquarters will be established in Sioux City, Omaha, Davenport, Des Moines and Iowa City, according to Dondore.

PLAYERS ELECT 22 AFTER TRIAL

Ten More Names Are Held On Tentative List For Further Tryout

Twenty-two students of the ninety-eight who tried out for the University Players this week were elected to membership in that organization at a meeting held last evening.

"The tryouts were very successful this year," stated Lucile Everett A4 of Iowa Falls, chairman of the committee on tryouts. "We were very much pleased at the number which tried out." There is still a tentative list of ten names. The people on this list will appear before University Players before they will take any further action on their names.

Twenty-Two Are Elected
Those who were elected are: Walter J. Dehner A3 of Iowa City, Leslye M. Boatman A4 of Barnes City, Harry W. Voltmer A3 of Galva, D. A. Olson L1 of Iowa City, James W. Barton A3 of Ottumwa, Roy B. Eddy L1 of Des Moines, John W. Scott A1 of Ottawa, Kansas, Kathryn E. Stewart A4 of Cedar Rapids, Eloise A. Smith A4 of Sioux Rapids, Eloise B. Smith A4 of Fairfield, Verness M. Fraser G of Chicago, Illinois, Georgia E. Smith G of Mount Pleasant, Virginia K. Whipple A2 of Vinton, Vivian A. Gray A2 of Onawa, Bessie V. Sinnott A4 of Randalia, Marjorie J. Meardon A3 of Iowa City, Katherine Cox A2 of Rock Rapids, Margaret A. Starbuck A3 of Iowa City, Bernadine E. Neville A2 of Richland, Lyndall Ives A1 of Cedar Rapids, Zella M. Williams A4 of Eldora, Marjorie E. Roland A2 of Iowa City.

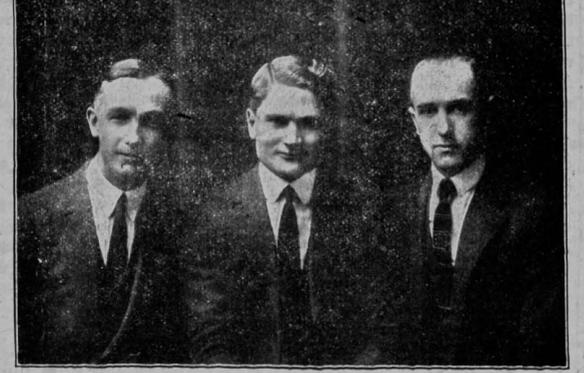

TO LIFT 6300 TONS OF OLD CAPITOL BUILDING

6300 tons weight is being raised where the corner of Old Capitol building has sunk. The walls, five feet thick, extending from the west to the south entrance must be set in three inches and raised eight inches. 300 jacks now in position under the building have proved insufficient to hold it and are being re-inforced by steel I-beams.

Some time will be required to complete the work, which has been necessitated by long slow settling due to a tunnel placed too near the foundation when the building was erected. The purpose of this tunnel is unknown, but it has been surmised to be a secret entrance.

A heat main placed inside the first tunnel further weakened the foundation and hastened its sinking.

VARIATION GIVEN BY COMIC OPERA POINT SYSTEM IN TUG O'WAR

Audience of 500 Attends Mozart's 'Impresario' Last Night

In the present era of problem plays, sentimental movies, and cheap musical comedies Mozart's comic opera, "The Impresario," presented at the University Theatre last evening to an audience of 500 was a welcome variation. This is the first time Iowa City has ever witnessed a production of this sort.

However, the opera had problems that showed in measures of sheerest comedy that human nature and artistic temperament were the same back in 1791 as in 1921. "The Impresario" is a small comic opera, which has been done into English by Henry Edward Krehbiel. The story concerns the director of the Vienna theater, his preparation for producing an opera by Mozart and his difficulties with two prima donnas.

Percy Hemus as the impresario, poet, dramatist, musician, actor and diplomat, could have carried the performance even if his support had been less good. As a singer and comedian he was the outstanding figure around which the intrigue was centered.

The two soprano prima donna roles were taken by Regina Vicarino and Hazel Huntington, who divided the vocal honors equally.

Thomas McGranahan, the tenor, who played the role of the great Mozart, showed a very colorful voice in the trios. Francis Tyler sang an acceptable light baritone role. Miss Gladys Craven proved an excellent accompanist at the piano. In real life she is Mrs. Percy Hemus.

DOES HARD STUDY FIT A STUDENT FOR LIFE BETTER THAN MANY OUTSIDE ACTIVITIES?

Leading Students Think Extra-Curricular Work is Better Than Phi Beta Kappa; Deans and Professors Think Almost Exactly the Reverse

Who is the better student, the man who makes Phi Beta Kappa and does little else during his college career, or the man who spends a great deal of time on many extra-curricular activities and makes only average grades? This is the question the Daily Iowan reporter asked several among the well known professors and students on the campus, apropos to the impending Phi Beta Kappa elections.

As could be expected, the answers differ widely with the individuals questioned, and some objected to giving an opinion on a question so open to debate.

Students Are Not Bookworms
Undergraduates were almost unanimous in their vote for the student who takes part in campus activities, but they all like to qualify the clause pertaining to scholarship. Frank J. Shimek A4 of Iowa City, president of the senior class, says that he considers it necessary to take part in outside activities in order to get the most out of college life and that he thinks Phi Beta Kappa is nothing to work for.

"Fits One For World"
Douglas F. Boynton A4 of Cedar Rapids, president of the student council, was conservative about his opinion. He considers that the liberal arts student who is not preparing for any definite profession can do no better than to spend a great deal of time in campus affairs, thus fitting himself for the future life out in the world among people.

"Pro" Students Should Study
"But for the professional students," continued Mr. Boynton, "I think it is best that he stick rather closely to his studies in order to fit himself with the greatest degree of efficiency for his future occupation. He should have enough to do with extra-curricular affairs, however, to give him poise and a knowledge of human nature necessary in any profession."

Jean Spiers A4 of Reinbeck thinks that any student who does not concern himself with outside activities is making a mistake because of the cultural value contained in them, but she does not think the student should attempt too many things for fear of impairing his health.

Activities Develop Personality
"There are many students here," declared Miss Spiers, "who are earning their way, and it would not be advisable for them to attempt to do many things outside; but I feel that they should take part in campus activities rather than spend what time they have in trying to make only high grades. Those people in 'Who's Who' belonging to Phi Beta Kappa who are so often cited as proving that the Phi Beta Kappa man is the man who succeeds are chosen many of them in colleges where personality is considered."

Lue Prentiss A4 of Iowa City said

ILLINI TO SAY 'NO FREEDOM TO IRISH' TONIGHT

Iowa's Negative Team is Meeting Gophers Tonight At Minneapolis

OPEN FORUM DECIDES

Merry Expects Verdict to be Given in Purely Judicial Spirit

Both the affirmative and negative intercollegiate debating teams of the University of Iowa are fully prepared for the clash tonight.

The affirmative team composed of Vernon Sharpe A3 of Rolfe, Otto B. Laing A3 of Corydon and Abram DeVaul L2 of Fonda will meet the University of Illinois debaters tonight in the natural science auditorium. The debate starts promptly at 8 o'clock and will last about an hour and twenty-five minutes. The constructive speeches will be eight minutes in length while the rebuttals will last for six minutes. After the debate an open forum discussion will be held for the benefit of the audience. Prof. C. H. Woolbert of the department of speech at the University of Illinois will preside.

Prejudice to Influence Votes?

After the debate the audience will be permitted to vote for the purpose of deciding which team has done the better debating. This is the first time in the history of debating at the University of Iowa that such means have been used as the sole method of judging the merits of any intercollegiate debate. According to Prof. Glenn N. Merry of the department of speech, the aim will be to secure a decision from the audience which will be rendered in a purely judicial spirit. It is hoped to eliminate the competitive idea of beating Illinois, and the result of the experiment will be noted with interest.

FROSH HELLENES HOP SATURDAY

No Decorations, But Lots of Punch, Says Chairman Hochlander

Freshman Pan-Hellenic will hold its annual freshman dance Saturday evening in the women's gymnasium. Glenn H. Hochlander A1 of Cedar Rapids is chairman of the committee in charge.

Arrangements have been made to have two of Mrs. R. Riechey's pupils from Cedar Rapids as entertainers at the dance. The committee is trying to arrange to have a singer from Des Moines for the occasion, but they were not sure of obtaining him late last night.

"We aren't going to decorate at this dance," declared Hochlander, "but there will be lots of punch. Mr. and Mrs. R. Russell will be the chaperons for the hop."

The committee in charge is composed of Hochlander, Heine Jensen of Cedar Rapids, George E. Littell of Spirit Lake, Huber Kalbach of Oskaloosa, Donald C. Savery of Atlantic, John K. Bell of Storm Lake, John C. Marsh of Keokuk, and Gerald A. Gage of Sabula.

STATE UNIVERSITIES BOOK VACHEL LINDSAY

Vachel Lindsay, who will recite from his popular syncopeated ballads tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the natural science auditorium is making a great success of his transcontinental tour, according to A. J. Armstrong, head of the English department at Baylor university, Waco, Texas, business manager for Mr. Lindsay.

"He is booked to speak in Twenty-six states already, and in most of these states he will appear under the auspices of the state university," said Mr. Armstrong. "A wonderful reception is being accorded him but this is after all an old story, for it is an experience with which Mr.

THE POINT SYSTEM

The point system has lately been one of the foremost topics of discussion, particularly among the women on the campus. Consideration of its merits and demerits has arisen chiefly because the point system here at the University has reached the place where it has begun to affect the individual.

This system of regulating the number of outside activities in which a University woman can participate is worked out by assigning to members of each class a definite number of points which are not to be exceeded by women of that class standing. Thus seniors are given a maximum number of thirty points, those of the junior class, twenty-five; the number allowed being graduated according to the year at the University.

Such a system was established in order to limit the number of extracurricular activities in which every woman can engage upon the grounds of her own welfare and on the promotion of what is best for social life on the campus. It intends to prevent the individual from holding too many offices upon the assumption that she will execute her powers of leadership to a better advantage if they are restricted within a certain specified limit. The system also has as an underlying principle, the promotion of democracy, by offering a greater opportunity for the development of leadership by preventing a few individuals from monopolizing all of the offices.

Conceding that the point system is right in principle, as would be inferred from its continued usage in other universities, the issue at stake at the present time is the practicability of its application here at the University. When the working out of such a system demands that its personnel of enforcement shall compel an individual to drop an activity in which she is vitally interested, or an office in which she is serving satisfactorily and to the best of her ability, we question the feasibility of the ideal. We grant that there may be and are others who have the necessary requisites of holding that office or of replacing that individual in that organization, but in most cases other individuals have the same chance if they desire to avail themselves of the opportunity. History shows that the law of the survival of the fittest generally holds good in this respect, and also that those who are capable are inevitably taxed with too many offices and activities, but it also shows that they are the ones in the long run who are the most capable and willing of distributing their abilities in varied activities.

Then the idea which the practice of the present point system entails, that of dictating how far the individual may broaden the scope of activities, appears rather paternal in that we generally concede that University students possess enough judgment of their capabilities so that it is not necessary for an outside force to tell them when to quit. If the majority of University students do not possess that degree of judgment this is the right time to give them a chance to develop it by the laissez faire system.

If the point system is capable of promoting efficiency by preventing individuals from scattering their energies unduly, its merits should be recognized and it should be given a fair trial before it is condemned as unnecessary or incapable of being worked out. The greatest trouble with the point system is that it needs revision to make it conform to present needs, together with a fair trial of its use.

CONTRIBUTORS' COLUMN

To the Editor.—
What is the matter with the University? Last night the University negative debating team left for Minnesota to meet that institution's team in a debate on the Irish question. Did the University students parade to the train to see them off? Did the band play, "Fight, Iowa Fight"? No, they did not!

Is it any less honor to be a conscientious member of the debating team which does its preparatory work in the middle of the night in their own rooms than to do it out on the open field where all can watch? Isn't the work done by the debating teams as much for the honor of Iowa as the work done by the football team? Why should we show any less respect to the men who have been working on their debate for the last two months, giving up many of their own pleasures, going in training the same as athletes, than for the more spectacular affairs on the campus?

Is the Howling 300 merely an organization for athletic pep, or is it to foster all things for the interests of the University? If the latter, why isn't debating considered one of the elements in the making of a good University?

The least we can do now that one team is debating away from our institution, is to show them when they come back that we appreciate their work for the University. Then one of the teams remains here, and will fight for Iowa in the natural science auditorium tonight. Why not show them that we are behind them and their efforts?

DEFENSE IMPROVES ON EVE OF FIRST CLASH

After a short chalk talk, Coach James Ashmore started basketball practice last night by sending the varsity squad through a short drill at basket shooting before starting the regular scrimmage.

Aubrey Devine continued to play with the first string, and seemed to fit in better than ever. He will undoubtedly start the Augustana game for he has toned down his aggressiveness and is now working well with the team work of the first string. Each team had two chances to play and in the second period of the varsity third string game, the varsity seemed to have their defense working better than at any time this week.

Fouls Decrease in Workouts
The game Saturday will show whether this improved defense will work against a good team as well as it works against the third team, who failed to get any but long shots at the basket, and few of those.

The number of fouls that are being committed has grown less and Shimek had only about six or seven chances from the foul line most of which he made.

Team Fails to Follow Shots
There are still many faults, such as wild throws, failure to follow up shots at the basket, and the tendency to bunch up in one spot, that will have to be corrected before the first conference game.

NO PLANS HAVE BEEN MADE FOR JUNIOR PROM

According to John J. Dondore A3 of Iowa City, president of junior class, plans for the Junior Prom have been made. The committee for the Sophomore Cotillion is waiting approval by the social committee.

MEANEST MAN STEALS Y. W. CANDY—OR IS IT MEANEST WOMAN?

The meanest man in town? Not the fellow who puts out a banana peel for his oldest professor, not the scoundrel that picks up pennies out of the blind man's cup, but the man who for the last few weeks has been carrying off two and three dollar boxes of wholesale candy from the Y. W. C. A. cupboards, where the supplies for the candy table are stored for the night.

The executive council and Mrs. E. L. Waterman, acting general secretary, have taken every measure possible to prevent the theft, which usually amounts to more than the total receipts for the week, converting candy table work into a deficit rather than a profitable business. Padlocks on the doors, and even a Yale lock or two have failed to prevent the raids.

"Even in a heathen country," stated Mrs. Waterman, "Y. W. C. A. property would be safe from theft. We never leave money or valuable in the office, but the candy seems to have a strong attraction for light fingers."

GEOLOGICAL EXHIBIT SHOWN TODAY IN ROOM 102 OLD SCIENCE HALL

At an expense of considerable time and effort on the part of several members of the staff, the exhibit which was prepared in room 102, old science hall, for the meeting of Sigma Xi on Wednesday night will be restored for the students of the department and their friends. The exhibit will be complete, with some one in charge to explain and demonstrate it as the following hours: Thursday, 6:30 to 9:30 p. m. and Friday, 4:30 to 7:30 p. m.

The exhibit shows the current active research of ten members of the department including the entire staff. It includes igneous, sedimentary and metamorphic rocks. It includes research on formations from pre-cambrian to recent. A map showing upwards of 40,000 miles of travel by the members during the past summer is on display. A complete list of publications by them to date and a few of the publications themselves, is a part of the exhibit.

Of special interest to many of the Sigma Xi guests Wednesday night was the demonstration of the use of the polarizing microscope on thin sections of rocks with their beautiful colors and patterns.

Evanston, Dec. 8.—"I wonder how Jane rates. I'll just bet she doesn't get less than sixty percent."

"Oh, my dear, I gave her the test last night and she only rated forty percent. Yes indeed! She admitted having puffed a cigarette once. And—I gave Edith the test and she rated a most peculiar eighty per cent. She had smoked and lied consciously but had never cheated nor been kissed!"

The morality test is the rage of the hour among the occupants of Willard hall. Each occupant of the hall is intently interested in finding out how high the moral standard of each other occupant is. The morality test which originated at Smith college last spring is the basis for all the questions.

Here Are the Questions

The test is as follows and each question is rated at ten per cent:

- 1.—Have you ever cheated?
- 2.—Have you ever been kissed?
- 3.—Have you ever smoked?
- 4.—Have you ever lied consciously?
- 5.—Have you ever drunk intoxicating liquors?
- 6.—Have you ever danced improperly?
- 7.—Have you ever worn improper clothing?
- 8.—Have you ever had a "crush"?
- 9.—Have you ever been on a "petting" party?
- 10.—Have you ever done anything you would care to conceal from your parents?

"Well, Grace ought to rate high but I suppose she won't rate more than sixty or at the most seventy percent.

Elsie and Alice were off in a minute to give her the test. She started out beautifully. "Yes, I cheated once in a game." But to the astonishment of the girls all other questioning brought only decided negatives. Ninety percent.

Average morality has been estimated at about sixty percent. It is the subject of conversation at meals, during the recreation hour and the cause of disturbances here and there during the quiet hours in Willard hall.—Daily Northwestern.

ECKERSALL'S ALL AMERICAN TEAM IN SUNDAY'S IOWAN

Walter Eckersall's selection and write-up of the all-American football team, will appear in the Daily Iowan, Sunday morning, December 11, simultaneously with its publication in the Chicago Tribune which owns and syndicates all of Mr. Eckersall's sport writings. Mr. Eckersall is considered among the best of western sport writers as well as of the entire country.

The Daily Iowan is delivered to the door of its subscribers before breakfast on Sunday morning, thus giving its readers this news as soon or sooner than they can get it from any city newspaper. Every person in the University as well as alumni and friends are vitally interested in the news that will be contained in this write-up, and all are anxiously hoping that Iowa will be more than represented on the mythical eleven.

Extra copies will be printed and can be obtained from any newsstand or the offices of the Daily Iowan.

MISS ZADA FRENCH MAY FILL VACANT Y. W. SECRETARYSHIP

Communications are expected daily by Mrs. B. E. Manville, chairman of the advisory board of the Y. W. C. A. from Miss Zada French, recommended by the national board of the association as being willing to take a position as a university general secretary of the Y. W. Miss French is at present a field secretary in the northwestern territory, with headquarters at Seattle, Wash.

According to a message received by Mrs. E. L. Waterman, acting secretary, from Miss Mary I. Bash, who recently left that position because of the illness of her mother, Miss French would be ideal for the secretaryship here.

Miss Bash writes, "Miss French is thoroughly acquainted with the middle west, having lived and taught for several years in Iowa. I made her acquaintance when we were in training school together, and I hope that the board will be fortunate enough to get her."

Definite business arrangements have not yet been made with Miss French, since it is still doubtful whether she wishes to take a position in the north central territory instead of along the Pacific coast.

ILLINOI TO SAY "NO FREEDOM TO IRISH" TONIGHT

Illinois Men Inexperienced
The Illinois team arrived in Iowa City yesterday afternoon and were entertained at a banquet given by members of Delta Sigma Rho honorary forensic fraternity last night. The speakers on the Illinois team in the order in which they will appear are: Robert C. Hayes, John W. Speakman and John T. Chadwell. Hayes and Speakman have never debated on the varsity before. Chadwell, however, is a veteran debater, having participated in clashes with both Minnesota and Wisconsin in former years.

Negative Team at Minnesota
The negative team, composed of Cloyce K. Huston A4 of Crawfordsville, William O. Moore L1 of Seymour and Frederick O. Paulson L1 of Clear Lake left last night at 8 o'clock for the University of Minnesota where they will meet Minnesota's team this evening.

The debate at Minnesota will be conducted in a manner similar to the debate here. The audience will be requested to vote and an open forum will be held after the debate. In addition to this, however, the services of one expert judge may be used to decide the winning team.

Iowa Men Not Overconfident
Abram De Vault in discussing the debate said, "Yes, I am very much in favor of the open forum plan of discussion. As to our prospects of winning, we are not overconfident but feel just the same that we have a strong case to present to the audience. We are not worrying about the outcome."

Cloyce K. Huston A4 of Crawfordsville stated: "I am strongly in favor of the open forum plan of discussion. I do not like the idea of having the audience vote, as it is almost impossible to obtain an unprejudiced decision in this manner."

Paulson Favors Open Forum
Frederick O. Paulson L1 of Clear Lake expressed himself as being in favor of the open forum. "It requires the debaters to be better informed upon their subject. They can not dodge a direct question from a member of the audience very easily. I favor the vote of the audience because the main purpose of debate is to convince the auditor."

William O. Moore L1 of Seymour said, "I am in favor of having the audience vote if they can get away from the competitive idea of beating the opposing team long enough to give an unprejudiced decision." The admission to the debate will be thirty-five cents. The question to be argued is, "Resolved: that England should grant Ireland complete independence."

POINT SYSTEM BEING ARGUED

to give it up. At the self-government convention I attended last spring, a great deal was said on the subject. All the colleges, however, agreed that it is the only way to keep a few girls from monopolizing the campus activities."

"Revision Needed"
Josephine Thielen A4 of Grundy Center took the following attitude: "I'm for the system strongly. Of course it isn't perfect and needs a great deal of revisions but the idea is fine."

Helen Hayes A4 of Iowa City said, "I don't like the system the way it is now. There are a lot of little things with which the women are dissatisfied, and I think they have cause to be. However, a thing like that has to be tried out before a definite stand can be taken for or against it."

Jean Speirs Drops 20 Points
In commenting on the system, Jean G. Spiers A4 of Reinbeck, says, "I think it is a good thing, absolutely. At the beginning of the year I had 50 points. At the suggestion of the point committee, I dropped 30. I now feel that I can concentrate on and do justice to one organization. The system not only allows a woman to do better work, but it develops new leaders. I think the present system, however, needs revision. A woman should hold only one office, but she should be allowed floating points which would enable her to be in a play or something special which last only for a short time."

System Suppresses Leaders
Lucile E. Everett A4 of Iowa Falls is not in favor of the point system. She said, "I was opposed to the system when it was put in, and I am skeptical now as to its outcome. However, I believe in giving it a fair trial. The introduction of floating points would eliminate the glaring faults for the time being. I have three main objections to the system. I think a woman is the best judge of what she can undertake. Moreover, there is a certain honor a woman gains in being elected to office. Although the system may force her to drop this office, she still retains the honor; others must do the work. Most of all the system eliminates the leaders and weakens an organization."

Miss Adams Opposes It
Maude Adams A4 of Des Moines is most strongly opposed against the system. She declared emphatically, "I am absolutely opposed to it. I feel that the distribution of campus activities automatically takes care of itself. Each woman is able to judge what she can do. By the time she is an upperclassman, she has dropped everything but the things in which she is most interested and the things she is best capable of doing. If an organization elects a woman to office, that means the two want one another. I do not think an outside organization should then come in and interfere. Here at Iowa the Women's Association does not have direct control and can not entirely enforce the system. I do not approve of anything that can not be enforced."

TRAIN TO YALE IS PLANNED BY 300

At a banquet of the Tri-city alumni in Davenport a few days ago, twenty-five of the 200 persons present signified their intentions of attending the game. R. Walsh, who was University yell leader in 1900, will get the list of persons who will go from Davenport and vicinity. He already has a list of twenty-five persons.

According to the plans of the 300, one of the trains will probably start at Omaha, come through Des Moines, Iowa City and Davenport, and join the train load of Chicago alumni who, it is expected, will attend.

A plan is also being worked out by the Howlers whereby the members of the band can earn their transportation charges to the game before that time.

The details of the plan are as yet not complete, but all kinds of new and novel forms of cheering and pep are promised by Dondore for this occasion. He says the Howling 300 will probably have a man working on the proposition from now until the train leaves for Yale.

IOWA WALLOPS BRUINS FOR NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP

Devine kicked off to Nichols, who made a nice return to his own 35-yard line. Nisbet failed to gain in his first try at Slater, while Nichols made three yards outside Iowa's left tackle on a cross buck. Nisbet then kicked to A. Devine, who was downed without return on his own 10-yard line. Nisbet's kick was a beautiful high punt that traveled over sixty yards and gave his ends time to be on the receiver.

Passes Give Bruins Touchdown
On the first down Devine kicked out of bounds in the middle of the field. California then started for a touchdown, for on the first play Muller dropped back, and after motioning as if to pass, tossed the ball laterally to Toomey who shot through the Iowa line for a 15-yard gain before being downed. A line play failed, and then pass from Toomey to Muller took the ball to the Iowa 15-yard line. The furious defense of the Iowa line stopped two California attempts at the line, but on the third trial, Berkey received a short pass from Toomey and fell over the line for a touchdown. Erb kicked goal. Score California 7, Iowa 3.

Iowa's Great Line Holds
The rest of the quarter was hard fought with most of the play in Iowa territory because of Nisbet's splendid kicking. The desperate Iowa team would work the ball down the field only to have the Bruin defense tighten and be forced to punt. California found early in the game that they could not gain consistently through the Iowa line, and were content to play a defensive game. Nisbet punted on first and second down and his punts which averaged 68 yards for the game always placed the ball deep in Iowa territory. These punts were well covered by the Bruin ends and Devine was not able to make any long gains on his returns.

California Scores Again
The second quarter started with the ball in Iowa's possession in its own 15 yard line. After making one first down Devine was forced to punt. His kick went out of bounds on the California 40 yard line. Devine's kicks while much shorter than those of Nisbet, were well placed and the Bruins did not have a chance to make any returns. Erb then broke loose around right end for a 10-yard gain. On a shift play Muller dropped back into the backfield and receiving the ball on a delayed pass from Erb, started running toward the left side of the line, but turned back and shot a forty yard pass to Berkey who received it while traveling full speed on the Iowa 10-yard line and kept on going for another touchdown. Erb again kicked goal and California was far in the lead with the score 14 to 3. California played a strictly defensive game for the rest of the quarter, preventing the Iowa attempts to advance.

Californians Scent a Win
Between halves the crowd cheered the snake dancers from the University of California. The result of the game seemed a settled affair, although there were a few staunch Iowa fans who refused to concede that their team was beaten. The sun had nearly gone down and the breeze was stronger, forcing the spectators to put on their wraps.

Iowa Comes Back With Rush
California decided to kick at the beginning of the second half, and Devine returned the ball to his own 30-yard line. The Iowa team seemed to have recovered during the intermission, for they started down the field in the same style that brought them within striking distance of the Bruin goal in the first quarter. Perhaps the cooling breeze made them think of their own field. A. Devine, who had not been showing up to advance reports, started to make some of the off tackle gains for which he is noted.

Duke Blocks Punt
Between Locke and himself the ball was carried down to the Bruins 5-yard line. Here the Bears took the ball on downs. Nisbet dropped behind his goal line to kick, but Slater broke through and blocked the kick while Kadesky recovered the ball for the first Iowa touchdown. Devine kicked goal and the score was California 14, Iowa 10.

Devine Has Leg Broken
The rest of the quarter was played without advantages to either team, for the Bears succeeded in stopping the Iowa rushes, while the Iowa team had learned to break up the California passes.

In the last quarter Aubrey Devine, after breaking through the California line for a 15-yard gain was tackled from behind and in falling twisted his leg and had to leave the game. It was afterwards discovered that he had broken his leg.

The ball was on the California 30-yard line and the hearts of the Bruin supporters were relieved, for Devine had been getting away from the Bear tacklers. With Devine out Iowa had no one to tie the score with a dropkick. There was only three minutes left to play, and it looked as if the stubborn fight of the Bears could stave off Locke's plunges long enough to win.

Selling Wins the Game
Selling, substituted at quarter for Devine, took the ball on the first play and swinging wide around Muller, California's right end, cut back, outran Erb, the fastest man on the Bruin team, and scored a touchdown. Shuttleworth kicked goal and Iowa was leading the game with only two minutes left to play. Score Iowa 17, California 14.

Bears in Desperate Comeback
After the Bears received the kick-off they tried frantically to score. Muller was called back and hurled one long pass down the field, but Selling broke up the play. On the next pass, a short one, California gained fifteen yards. The third attempt, however, brought disaster, for Locke intercepted a pass over the center of the line, and it was Iowa's ball on the California 40-yard line. Locke made six yards on two attempts and Selling made it first down on the Bear's 30-yard line. The whistle blew and the Iowa team left the field, champions of the United States.

The Iowa team, with the exception of Captain Devine who comes home for fear of complications, remains in Pasadena for the rest of the week, guests of the tournament.

TRANSIT APPEARED ON CAMPUS FOR SECOND TIME THIS WEEK

The Transit, monthly publication of the engineering students, made its second appearance on the campus this week. This issue of the magazine shows very good work on the part of the whole staff and especially the editor, Elan C. Rockwood S4 of Iowa City.

The business end of the magazine is laboring under the difficulties of resorting to local advertising alone for the paper.

After March the paper will be admitted to the National Association of Engineering school publications and will be able to obtain national advertising as well as local. The change of the Transit from a yearly to a monthly publication is well liked, according to many of the alumni of the college of applied science.

The cover of this issue of the Transit is a picture of the arch that the junior engineers erected over Washington street at Homecoming. The main article of this issue is the story by Mr. E. L. Consoliver, director of the School of Automotive Electricity of Milwaukee on the "Field of Automotive Electricity".

Professor Edward Bartow, head of the chemistry department, tells about the new chemistry building in this issue. The new steam laboratory of the college of applied science is explained in detail in another article in the paper.

VACHEL LINDSAY BOOKED BY STATE UNIVERSITIES

Lindsay should be very well accustomed by this time. I know of no man who leaves a broader trail of friendship than Mr. Lindsay."

Mr. Lindsay's books are said to be read all over the world. From Adelaide, South Australia, word has been sent of the appreciation of "Daniel Jazz." A. C. Sitwell, lecturing in Scarborough on our youngest poets, said of Lindsay, "He is very American indeed, which I think is a good thing, for a number of American poets merely succeed in writing milk-and-water copies of our English poetry of a hundred years ago."

The Aberdeen Journal says that Lindsay's "Golden Book" is full of humor, satire, beauty, fun and prophecy, a bewildering and delightful fantasy.

therefore she thinks that the training one receives in getting along with them by holding positions of leadership in college is of paramount importance.

Dondore Deplores Single Track
J. Dondore A3 of Iowa City, president of the junior class, after a few minutes of thoughtful consideration, said the following:

"There is no doubt but that high scholastic standing is very desirable. I also feel that a person who does nothing but study misses out on a whole lot by not making a great many college friends and by not joining in as many activities as possible that will help the school. The University would be under a terrific handicap if all students did nothing but study. Besides, a man cannot cope successfully with the business world of today equipped with only a one track mind."

Mary L. McCord A4 of Des Moines was likewise of the opinion that outside activities are the more important.

Professors Think Otherwise
The professors and deans interviewed were not as positive in their opinions, with the exception of Prof. G. T. W. Patrick of the department of psychology. He made the following statement:

"Phi Beta Kappa students are born, not made. The end of the freshman year usually determines it. It is a matter of brains and native industry. With this equipment a student can make Phi Beta Kappa and if he does so statistics show that the chances are exceedingly good of his making "Who's Who". It is wholly a matter of choice with a student whether he shall go in for Phi Beta Kappa or for extra-curricular activities. And then, too, it is not a matter in life so much as it is of intrinsic values. Professor Altrocchi in his fine lecture on Dante here recently said that we in America lack the three intrinsic values which Dante stood for: scholarship, discipline and the cult of beauty."

Rietz Says One Can Do Both
When the question was put to Prof. Stephen H. Bush, head of the department of Romance languages, he laughed sympathetically and said promptly, "The question is unanswerable."

He went on to speak of the values of the two types of students in their places. He said that it is the studious man who usually gives to the world the great literature of which the value is a question of generations, but he agreed that a broad superficial knowledge which one gains through leadership in affairs can be of a vast amount of satisfaction to the individual.

Rienow and Burge Silent
Prof. Henry L. Rietz, head of the department of mathematics and president of the local chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, expressed much the same opinion as Professor Bush. However, he emphasized the idea that it was his personal opinion that a good proportion of Phi Beta Kappa students take their share in the campus life.

Adelaide L. Burge, acting dean of women, would not consider the two extremes, while Dean Robert E. Rienow would express no opinion whatever.

"Our ideal is a happy medium," said Mrs. Burge. "The two are essential to all-around college life."

Smart Distinction in Accessories

Those essentially feminine trifles that seem so little and mean so much! After all, the choice of accessories is the supreme test of individual tastes and the success of the entire costume is largely dependent upon them.

From the most authoritative sources, the world over, these little niceties of dress have been gathered for this December selling. Trinkets that are almost barbaric in character—Metal Belts, Necklaces, Hat and Hair Ornaments and Pins. Colorful Fans, plumed or spangled, in varied assortment to harmonize with different evening gowns.

Veils and Veiling with the new motifs and unusual groupings of chenille dots. Imported Gloves in the smartest of recent modes, for day and evening wear, showing novelty effects in cut work, embroidery and stitching. Handkerchiefs, from six nations, gay little colored ones and modest very sheer fine ones, equally fetching. Tasty neckwear, developed in real laces, the essence of refinement. And graceful Spanish Combs, without which no evening coiffure wins the approval of Paris.

It is the Store's valued privilege to present for your choosing all types of smart accessories suggested by the modes of the day, in varied assortment and at pleasing prices.

Many of these articles are shown at the shop which is under the direct supervision of

Miss Dolly Henderson

Any of the articles which you desire can be obtained by calling on her.

Miss Henderson has collected many articles of apparel, accessories of dress and dainty gift things from this store and assembled them in her shop for you to see and buy if you wish.

The articles purchased from her are guaranteed to give the same satisfaction as if purchased at Deneck's in Cedar Rapids.

When in Cedar Rapids, come and see the Handkerchiefs from six nations, the Gift and French Shop, the big Turkish Bazaar and our displays of the world's famous makes of women's hose.

Everyone should visit Deneck's this year
