Students slow to aid Union

Three Campaigns Netted $115,000 for Student Body

Student subscribers for the Memorial Fund are falling behind, it was reported by Ralph G. Grassfield, director of the University of Ill inois Union. A comparison of this year's subscription progress with that of the other universities that are members of the Association of Student Unions shows that the latter are ahead by a considerable margin.

At a single mass meeting at the University of Illinois this fall $95,000 was pledged. The total obligations of the undergraduates of that institution amount to $150,000. The Students pledged their interest in the cause at that meeting.

Student Paid Finals High

The University of Missouri, which last year was in a position to meet its obligations, has now paid its subscriptions in full. The authorities have had to look for the money for the last two months. The students have not been asked for the balance. The University of Missouri has been in a position to meet its obligations for some time past. The students have paid their subscriptions in full. Student to Study Next Year

A student who has been awarded a scholarship at the University of Illinois will study next year under the direction of Professor J. Wade in the Department of Agriculture. The student has been awarded the scholarship in recognition of his scholarly attainment. He is the first student to study under the direction of Professor J. Wade in the Department of Agriculture.

Student at Toledo

At Toledo on December 23, the students will meet to select the officers for the coming year. Verne N. Jessup, a senior in the College of Law, has been elected president of the Union. He will be assisted by a vice-president, a secretary, and a treasurer. He will also be assisted by the various committees of the Union.

CONFERENCE SUCCESS

Just what will constitute success at the Washington conference depends upon what problems the participation of the United States will solve.

The United States is vitally interested in seeing China develop as it should. If she develops her resources and commences for her industrial development and comes to the aid of the four powers named above to rid herself of these desires to control over China.

Y. W. C. A. GIVES MYSTERY PLAY

Esther L. Loveman, English Instructor Writes a Local Affair

"The Mystery Play," written and directed by Esther L. Loveman of the English department will be given on Friday, December 11th. Admission to the Little Theatre on the third floor of the Student Union building. This play is open to the public and especially friends of the Y. W. C. A.

The play is in the nature of the old names which were given in the Medieval ages. The women of the Y. W. C. A. are striving to establish a tradition of presenting liturgical characters or mystery plays. The chairman of the program committee, Helen L. Younger of Women's College, has charge of this production. It is hoped that it will make such an impression that successive years will bring forth similar plays.

The play will open with the pro- cessional of the cast singing canons selected by the quartet. Music throughout the play will be furnished by Margaret S. Bowles of Chicago, Mrs. R. L. Byerly of Iowa City, and Mrs. V. J. Zee for six will be the accompanist. The play will end with the reversioned safety of the characters, and community song of odes.

The story of the "Mystery Play" is taken almost verbatim from the Christmas story found in different parts of the Bible. It begins with the prophets, continues on to the shepherds, watching their flocks as shepherds who are guided by the first star of the east, and the coming of the angels. Then the Kings and wise men go to the aper where the Christ Child is born wrapped in swaddling cloths. The cast of characters in "The Mystery Play" are as follows: Pastor, Ethel A. Smith of Iowa State College; Irene C. Douglas of Iowa City; Susan, Reta Campbell of Iowa College; Katherine T. Wright of All of Des Moines; E. S. Scholten of Sioux City; Eunice M. Schaefer of Cedar Rapids; Margaret Williams of All of Iowa City; Joseph, Kathleen R. Hagler of Atosho; David Shepherd, Mildred C. Wolfe of Cedar Rapids; Isabel A. Younger of Iowa State College; White A. L. E. Church of Des Moines; the Angel, Alice Ingham of All of Iowa City; the Man, Howard Gage of All of Iowa City; the Angel, Lottie Wilson of All of Iowa City; the Angel, Muriel A. Des Moines; the Angel, Lottie Wilson of All of Iowa City; the Angel, Alice Ingham of All of Iowa City; the Angel, Mary Bartlett of All of Iowa City; the Angel, Anna Schaefer of Cedar Rapids; and Catherine Prebny of Dubuque, Miss.

CHORUS WILL SING MESSIAH

Production Will Be Strictly A Local Affair

One hundred and fifty voices will sing George Frideric Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah" in the national concert Sunday afternoon at the University church. The University chorus will be assisted by the men's and women's glee clubs and the Uni- versity orchestra.

Greater Event

Today "The Messiah" is considered one of the world's greatest oratorios, according to Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the school of music. It is a coming of Christmas and his life among the shepherds, among some four hours for presentation. The orchestra used for the family's performance will take an hour. A good part of the Christmas music has been rewritten by Handel, and is now a part of the regular program for the royal force.

At one time George III had decided that it was not wise to put on theatrical performances during the last. Handel was asked to keep away from the management of the King's presence at his production. He then decided that his company produce a sacred performance without scenery. This was the original performance of "The Mes­ siah".

Seven Sections To Sing

The oratorio appears in the public in six parts: Ruth Rowland A4 of Iowa City, Alice Ingham A3 of Iowa City, and Mrs. J. E. Zee of Menasha; Professor Dill said that the part will be taken by the University glee clubs and the orchestra to give needed room. The opera house was moved to give needed room. The orchestra has been raised to forty men. The chorus has been engaged by Professor Dill.

The chorus and orchestra will fill the stage and the space in front where two rows of seats were rear­ ranged to give needed space.

Handel introduced his own music for an organ part which was not written out, but was figured in the score. William T. Rex took the organ part and elaborated it to suit the piece. John B. Fraser instructor in music, and Mrs. Laura Johnson of Iowa City are the accompanists to the organ part.

Rev. Frank C. Good, pastor of the United Church, will offer the invocation, scripture reading, benediction, and benediction.

A Local Production

"Although the understanding is not marked as "Mendelssohn" choir, it has been thoroughly worked over. Every part of the production is the production of either a University student, member of the family or a resident of Iowa City."

These special programs are open to the public but are given particularly for the University and College. The performance will be on Fri. at 3:00 and the program will be offered at 4 o'clock in the after­ noon.

FACULTY MEMBERS TAKE ACTIVE PART IN Y. M. C. A. AFFAIRS

The campaign among the faculty members for the Y. M. C. A. is almost completely completed, according to Prof. Arthur C. Truesdell, chairman of the campaign for the University.

At a meeting at the Pepin Monday evening, the faculty members who have not participated in the campaign, and to date there have been four of the staff members, were read the minutes of the last meeting and the report of the campaign committee.

Although the campaign is practically completed, says Professor Truesdell, there are still a number of the faculty members who have not been seen in regard to the association, but these will be interviewed within the next few days.

In addition to the financial campaign, the faculty members have been securing the giving of the faculty in regard to the project.

Members of the Eels club, honor-time of giving Prunus at Iowa times has stuck with many of them, although they are now in Iowa.

The reason for this remembrance is simply because Prunus has always been known as "The Shop With Campus Spirit" and it has always been remembered as the best little sweat shop students made. Unluckiest of all, no one is used in their manufacture. Only pure ingredients are used in a special method of making used exclusively by Bethel's own production department.
