

400 WITNESS ERO-IRVING PRODUCTION

Albert Ward Stars in Role of Robert
Mayo

SETTINGS REALISTIC

Mary Evelyn Burns Shows
Unusual Ability
For Child

A house of about 400 witnessed the first night of "Beyond the Horizon", Eugene O'Neill's American drama, presented by the Erodolphian and Irving literary societies in the University theater.

Ward's Portrayal Good

Throughout the play Albert Ward starred. His characterization of the sickly youth with tuberculosis, stood out as unquestionably a work of art and displayed his skill as an amateur actor of no mean ability. Every moment that he was on the stage he held to his character and played up to the other characters whether he was speaking or not. He responded apparently to every emotion that the others attempted to arouse as they played their roles. His ease, naturalness, and pleasing stage appearance won his audience before he needed to speak. All of his lines were read with a feeling that called forth a corresponding response in the audience, either that of prolonged applause or of appreciative attentiveness. Mr. Ward has appeared in plays on the campus before, but even as he played the lead in "Mater", he excelled to a much greater degree in this production. His interpretation of the dying man with the hacking cough that is characteristic of a tubercular patient was a genuine work of art in the field of the stage.

The settings for the scenes were particularly fitting throughout the play. The first scene, the road at sunset of a day in spring, was realistic in the change of lighting as the sun slowly disappeared, and dusk of the evening came on with the evening star. This scene which laid the suggestion of the plot was featured by character study of a typical old farmer, portrayed by L. Kenneth Shumaker A4 of Iowa City and the affection of the two brothers Robert Mayo, Albert A. Ward A3 of Clinton and Andrew Mayo, Joseph W. Houser A2 of Iowa City, for each other. In this scene also Robert decides that he will not go on the sea voyage with his uncle Dick, an old sea captain, Gregory Foley A3 of Cedar Rapids, because of his confessed and reciprocated love for Ruth Atkins, Maude Adams A4 of Des Moines.

Typical Settings

The farm house interior was typical of an old-fashioned home with its plain furnishings and snow white tidies on the chair backs. Here Gregory Foley showed his ability in the characterization of the old man of the crude sea dog type. His exclamations and character was marked and appreciated by the audience.

Mr. Shumaker was at his best in this scene as he told his son Andrew and Dick never to darken his door again. He entered into the spirit of the old farmer and depicted his feelings with an unusual degree of excellence. His wife, Lois E. Garrett L1 of Fairfield, played the role of a sympathetic and somewhat subdued woman.

Andrew Realistic

Mr. Hauser as Andrew gave in to the fate of going through life without Ruth as any man would, that is, of leaving her with the man she voluntarily chose, his brother Robert. His scene as he decides to go on the voyage in Robert's place was especially strong and gripping.

Beatrice Pentony A3 of Manchester played the part of a querulous old invalid, Mrs. Atkins, the widowed mother of Ruth, Mary Ellen Burns of Iowa City played the part of the little daughter of Robert

PEOPLE RELIEVED OF SPEECH IMPEDIMENTS IN DENTAL INFIRMARY

The work that is being done in the Dental Infirmary this year shows a marked increase over the amount of work done last year. The patients that were examined to date last year were 2011 while this year 2581 patients have been examined. Last year 4475 patients were examined during the year. This year the number will reach approximately 6000.

All operations of a dental character are done here and patients come here from all over the state and even from other states. People from Illinois and South Dakota who have an impediment in their speech have come here to be relieved by the application of an obturator. At the present time there are 159 operators and 19 professors and instructors in the infirmary.

Before a student may complete the course in the College of Dentistry he must have one year of prerequisite work in the college of liberal arts and two years of technological work and two years of infirmary work in the college of dentistry. The preliminary education and the time spend in fundamentals are the same as in medicine.

STUDENTS SLOW TO AID UNION

Three Campaigns Netted
$115,000 From Faculty and Student Body

Student subscriptions for the Memorial Union fund are falling short of the number expected, according to Ralph G. Grassfield, director of the Union. A comparison of the University of Iowa with several of the other universities that are putting on similar campaigns shows that the latter are ahead by quite a margin.

At a single mass meeting at the University of Illinois this fall $300,000 was pledged. The total subscriptions of the undergraduate students at Illinois amount to $700,000. The Ames students pledged $352,000 in a campaign that lasted fifty-two hours. The University of Kansas is an other university that is putting over their Union drive. There has been a total of $210,000 raised among the students, which makes an average of $106 per student.

Students Plead Hard Times

The University of Missouri, which is a much smaller school than Iowa, has begun to break ground for their Union. "Other student bodies have been steadily accomplishing this seemingly impossible thing," said Mr. Grassfield, "and there is no reason why Iowa should be behind with her subscriptions. I think the students believe in the Union, but they hesitate to subscribe to it on the plea of hard times and scarcity of ready money. The fact that the first payment is not due until one year after the pledge is made does not seem to clear them. If any of students would like to make a subscription to the Union under different terms than those regularly designated, all they have to do is call at the office, and special terms will be granted them."

Students to Stage Next Drive

The three campaigns that have been carried on here have netted $115,000 in subscriptions from the faculty and student body. It has been decided that if a fourth movement be launched that it will be organized at the request of the students, and the students will be asked to take an active part in it. If another $100,000 would be raised to add to the amount already on hand, the total sum would then be large enough to firmly establish the Union. A campaign to raise this amount from the students is being seriously considered.

The drive among the business men of Iowa City is meeting with decided success. Although the movement has just recently been started, $70,000 has been pledged and the prospect for further subscriptions is good.

150 ATHLETES ENTERTAINED BY ATHLETIC BOARD

Winners of "I" Are Given Gold Footballs by
Jessup

JUDGE HOWELL PRESIDES

Athletes Entertained by Boxing and Wrestling
Matches

Over 150 guests, including the entire varsity and freshman football squads, the football coaching staff, several members of the faculty, a few Iowa City boosters, and several prominent alumni, were guests of the board in control of athletics at the annual football banquet held in the Jefferson hotel last evening.

Receive Gold Footballs

Judge R. P. Howell was toastmaster of the evening. Before the first course of the five course turkey dinner, Judge Howell made a short introductory speech and then called upon President Walter A. Jessup who after a few words of praise for this year's football squad presented the winners of the straight "I" with small gold watch charms in the shape of footballs with the name of the receiver engraved upon them, together with the words "Western Champions". L. J. Kriz, Aubrey Devine, Gordon Locke, Glenn Miller, Fred Slater, G. Thompson, G. D. Devine, Paul Minick, Max Kadesky, John Heldt, Chester Mead, Lester Belding, V. C. Shuttleworth received gold footballs.

Judge Howell then presented the following winners of "I-2's" with small silver footballs as a recognition of their work during the past season: Robert L. Hunter, A. L. Cotton, Donald Macrae, F. A. White, C. E. Boydson, F. O. Seiling, R. G. Harding, Alex Lindsay, H. A. Mouldenhausner, C. A. Anderson, and B. M. Barrett.

Athletes Entertained

After the banquet the athletes were entertained with speeches from Aubrey Devine, captain-elect Gordon Locke, Coach Jones, Captain John T. McIntyre of the freshman squad, Dr. Walter Fiesler, King Thompson of Cedar Rapids, and Stub Stewart of Des Moines, two prominent alumni and former athletes at Iowa. The tables and chairs were then moved to form an open circle in the room where a mat was placed. Coach Mike Howard made his first appearance at the University when he put on a short exhibition bout with Robert L. Hunter, 175 pound weight wrestler of the Iowa squad. Captain Sweeney and Jacobson wrestled a ten-minute bout that ended in favor of Sweeney. Penquite and Martinez boxed two rounds featured by fast footwork and fast hitting. Fred Colby and Allen Smith boxed two rounds. No decisions were made by the referee.

The following freshmen received numerals: backfield men, Roscoe Holm of Alton, John W. Hancock of Superior, Wisconsin; Harris Thon, Leland C. Parkin of Waterloo; George D. Blake of Atlantic; Elvin R. Handy of Sioux Falls, So. Dak.; Kirk B. Yerkes of Cedar Rapids; Porter James of Kansas City, Mo.; Edmond W. Fiene of Fort Dodge; Claud A. Hamilton of Sioux Falls, So. Dak.; Wilbur E. Scantlebury of Hampton; G. L. Little, Bert M. Carson of Fairfield; Paul M. Lee of Fremont; Milford Torstenson of Milford and Edwina L. McGuise of Iowa City.

For the end positions the following men were recommended: Hugh J. Wade of Iowa City; Clem E. Nugent of Algona; John K. Bell of Storm Lake; Alvin G. Keyes of Cedar Rapids, and T. W. Witts.

The following line men will receive the numeral: John T. McIntyre of Superior, Wisconsin; Darrell C. Fisher of Garden Grove; James E. Scovel of Deep River; Linden F. Krauski of Davenport, Iowa; Lowell Otte of Sidney; Cletus J. Kruz of Garner; Stanley M. Pearson of Spencer; John S. Littig of Iowa

OLD CLOTHES MAN INDICATES APPROACHING VACATION AS HE FINANCES STUDENT'S TRIP HOME BY BUYING OLD SHOES AND JEWELRY

The signs of the end of the school term or the beginning of a vacation are at hand. The old clothes man was again seen on the campus by the reporter. The old clothes man who has become a part of campus life, is a sign of an approaching vacation as sure as the rising sun is a sign of the approaching day. Not that the old clothes man is not seen in the middle of the school year, but when he knocks on the door of a fraternity house at that time it is only to purchase a cast off overcoat or an old pair of shoes.

Had a Load Already

The second hand man was seen trudging over the campus with an armful of old clothes, two pairs of perfectly good dancing shoes, two pairs of men's oxfords, one old and battered violin, and one loving cup dangling from his arms. These signs point to an approaching holiday and a holiday points toward home, and of course money with which to pay the fare even though it is reduced. At this time of the year the monthly allowance begins to fall short, and the student must look to other sources for his income. "Business is not so good," said a local old-clothes man. "I never have a large amount of old clothes sold to me at this time of the year as I do before the summer vacation, but then business is brisk and is picking up. I expect it to pick up a lot next week," he added. When asked by the reporter just what articles are most usually pawned and sold, he said, "Well I get mostly shoes and old overcoats, but this year I am getting lots of odds and ends." Old violins, hats, trunks, and suitcases are also in his collection.

Even Pawn Jewelry

"They will even pawn their girl's jewelry," said the old clothes man, and he opened the drawer in an old cabinet, drawing forth a girl's necklace set with four small diamonds. "I gave him fifteen dollars for this," he said. "The boy told me that it was his own mother's necklace but I found a young girl's picture in the frame."

"Boys are not the only ones who pawn and sell their belongings," he said. "Lots of girls call me up and want to sell me dresses, old shoes and coats. Girls are, however, easier to deal with for they don't ask as much for their clothes as do the boys. The boys don't seem to remember that the war is over."

Another old clothes dealer said, "Yes, business is picking up, and the old overcoats are showing up in large numbers. Some of the fellows are picking out some of the clothes that they do not need very badly, and are bringing them in. I even pawned a man's watch yesterday, who said that he had to raise ten dollars to get home after school let out next week."

GLEE CLUB TO TOUR VACATION

Professor Hays to Direct
Club on Holiday Tour of Iowa

The men's glee club of the University will make a week's tour, from December 20 to 27, giving entertainments at six different towns which have never been included in former tours made by the club, with the exception of Mason City.

The schedule for the trip is as follows:

- Oakdale, December 20.
- Marengo, December 21.
- Belle Plaine, December 22.
- Toledo, December 23.
- Eldora, December 24 and 25.
- Mason City, December 26.
- Charles City, December 27.

Walter Leon Will Direct Tour

Prof. Walter Leon of the school of music will direct the sixteen men who are to be chosen from the glee club to make the trip. Prof. William E. Hayes accompanied the singers.

The glee club will take with it a reader, Gregory Foley A3 of Rock Rapids; a soloist, James Houghton A3 of Davenport; a pianist, who has not yet been chosen; and the quartette, Devine Clem L2 of Iowa City, Albert Eisenhart D4 of Iowa City, James Houghton A3 of Davenport, and Fred Shore A2 of Eldon. The entertainment which they have planned will include five or six numbers by the glee club, two by the reader, one by the soloist, and one by the quartette.

Alumni Plan Entertainment

At several of the stops which the club will make, the alumni of the University are planning accommodations and entertainment for the men during their stay in those towns.

The whole glee club will entertain the invalids at Oakdale, and the first town on the tour proper will be Marengo. The alumni at Marengo have made special arrangements for the convenience of the club during their visit there.

At Toledo on December 23, the club will give part of its entertainment the earlier part of the evening at the State Juvenile Home, an institution for dependent, and destitute children. The entire program will be given later in the evening down town.

To Spend Christmas in Eldora

On Christmas eve the club will entertain the boys at the industrial training school for boys, at Eldora

DEAN M'GOVNEY RESIGNS FROM COLLEGE OF LAW

Prof. Herbert F. Goodrich
Assumes Duties as Acting Dean

IS STILL ON FACULTY

McGovney Has Been Dean
Here for the Past
Five Years

President Walter A. Jessup announced yesterday that Dean Dudley O. McGovney has asked to be relieved of his executive work as dean of the college of law of the University of Iowa, in order to devote his whole time to teaching and study. This request has been granted, according to President Jessup, and Prof. Herbert F. Goodrich has been asked to assume the administrative duties as acting dean until such time as a permanent dean may be appointed.

Dean McGovney has been at the head of the law school for the last five years. During his incumbency the attendance of the school has increased more than fifty per cent. His greatest interest has always been in teaching and he has carried a full quota of courses.

McGovney Well Known

As a teacher of law, Professor McGovney is widely known. He began teaching in the University of Illinois in 1907. From 1908 to 1914 he taught at Tulane University and served there as executive secretary and later as dean. He was professor of law in the University of Missouri from 1914 to 1916, coming to Iowa as dean in the fall of 1916. He has been in great demand in summer sessions of law schools, having served at the Universities of Chicago, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Columbia.

At Columbia he taught the law of corporations last year and has been invited to repeat the course the coming summer, his third season at that institution. In addition, he has been a frequent contributor to law journals, particularly upon questions of constitutional law and contracts. He has been three years a member of the executive committee of the Association of American Law Schools and a collaborator of the Carnegie Foundation in its investigations of legal education.

Studied Widely

Mr. McGovney's legal training was obtained in both the law office and the law school. He began the study of law in the office of Judge Hacker in Columbus, Indiana, in 1896. After taking a master of arts degree at Harvard in 1904 he entered the law school of Columbia University and took the full three-year course. At the same time he had a fellowship for special study of international law under Professor John Bassett Moore.

The new acting dean of the law school, Professor Goodrich, a graduate of the Harvard law school, is well known to the bar of the state as an active member of the Bar Association and as editor of the Iowa Law Bulletin. He has been at Iowa for eight years and is a popular member of the law faculty.

FRESHMAN COMMISSION PLANS SEMESTER WORK

Organization of the freshman commission for the second semester was completed recently by the election of officers.

The program of club work with the freshman girls will be continued and in addition to the regular work of assisting the dean of women as leaders in the freshman class, a program of meetings is planned.

The following will head the group for the coming year: Verne N. Shaw of Watertown, S. D., president; Margaret E. Sayers of Jefferson, vice-president; Lydia Walker of Des Moines, chairman of the program committee; and Helea Wiley of Iowa City, secretary and treasurer.

CONFERENCE SUCCESS

Just what will constitute success at the Washington conference depends upon the settlement of the most vital problem in international politics. That problem is the future of China.

Around this great undeveloped country clusters the ambition and desire for exploitation by all the great commercial nations, with the possible exception of the United States. The future problems of the Pacific and future international standing of the great nations of the world hinge around China.

The United States is vitally interested in seeing China develop her untold resources, so that the world can have the benefit of that vast storehouse of materials, and incidentally to give us a field where our new merchant marine may build up a great world trade. Great Britain is no less interested for the same reason, and France is beginning to look to China as a future granary for her supplies. Japan is the most vitally concerned, for she looks to China, not only as a future granary from which to get foods, but as a land of vast industrial possibilities for Japanese capital and a fertile land for colonization. Lastly, China desires to rid herself of these self-imposed foreigners so that she may have an opportunity to develop her resources and commence for the benefit of her own people.

With the commercial interests of the leading world powers centering about China, we readily see that any settlement of limiting armament must of itself be based upon the outcome of the Chinese question, for the powers of the world have always depended upon their navies as a means of promoting and protecting their commercial interests. Until a definite co-operative arrangement has been reached, relative to the future international aspect of China, and the extent to which the various nations can control the industrial development and the commercial enterprises of that country, without arousing the hostility of other powers, a policy to limit armaments will not get the support of the powers at the Conference. This is a matter of protection and caution in respect to their world commercial interests.

China's future being the vital question upon which all the nations are to base their willingness to reduce armament, we can readily see that an understanding on this question is the first and most important step in arriving at a policy for reducing armament. A settlement of this all important issue must of itself be for the best interests of China, in order to get her co-operation, and it must be one upon which the United States, England, Japan, and China agree in order that these nations will know exactly what policy to expect the other to pursue in the commercial and industrial development of that oriental nation.

Such a two-fold policy must provide these specific conditions; first, guarantee the territorial integrity of China; second, give to China the control of her own tariff system; third, permit Chinese industries to obtain capital indiscriminately from any nation; fourth, remove foreign control over Chinese provinces; fifth, give all nations the right to openly compete for Chinese trade; sixth, a guarantee by all powers not to use Chinese strongholds for the promotion of their own naval or military advantage. This plan can best be brought about by a treaty between the four powers named above which will supplant the present

Anglo-Japanese treaty. When this policy for China's future has been worked out, the powers at the Conference will be in a position to discuss a basis upon which they can reduce their armaments without feeling that a reduction of armament will leave them at the peril of some other power, better situated for trade and military advancement.

A. M. D.

"If by the time he is a sophomore or a junior, the student hasn't a pretty good idea of the career he wants to follow, his first few years in the practical world are apt to be lost. Jobs do not turn up, as if by magic, the day after commencement." This is an observation coming from a business executive who basis his words on his experience with candidates for opportunities in commercial and industrial organizations. It is an observation, too, that should ring in the ears of the student who is only semi-conscious of the fact that he is here to receive training. It should call a halt to the ever prevalent dilly-dallying about the campus.

It is the unusual rather than the usual thing for the college student to decide just what he is going to do after he finishes his higher education. He attends classes and buys an occasional book, but the fact that these things are means rather than ends in themselves does not occur to them.

The problem is not uncalled for. It is a real job to choose the right job. To decide just what type of work is suited to oneself and to select the vocation or profession for one to devote his entire life and energies to is no light task. But this does not justify the indifference of the average student. To study and only hope it will result in something tangible, to spend money on an education without having an end in view and without looking to the future, is the thing to be condemned. It is a real problem and one of existence and an occasional wrong solution of which we must accept, but the man or the woman who fails to attempt a solution is the proper subject for lamentation.

CONFERENCE SUCCESS

The Washington arms conference was called for the purpose of considering land and naval disarmaments, and Pacific and far-eastern questions, but the conference cannot be considered a success even if the armies of the nations concerned are reduced to a minimum, the navies reduced greatly, and the Chinese and other eastern problems settled satisfactorily. While the Washington conference was called primarily to settle these things, they are not the biggest things concerned in the deliberations there. Will the conference have been successful if the navies are reduced and the money thus saved spent in developing new poison gases? Will it have accomplished its purpose if armies are disbanded and the money spent in building aeroplanes? Will a diplomatic agreement of friendship between Japan and China mark the complete success of the conference? Decidedly not. While these are the material problems which must be successfully met by the men in Washington, there are other and greater things which enter into the parley. There is a greater object to be attained. The Washington arms conference will be a success only if the nations represented there become more friendly towards each other; only if these nations by the past in resorting to war to decide national difficulties. Success in the Washington arms conference will be measured by the friendliness it creates among nations, and by the things it accomplishes towards the abolition of war and everything pertaining to it.

THE REAL SNOB

There are many different kinds of snobs in the world, but in the University there are mainly two kinds. Because they put up a good front with Dad's hardearned cash, belong to what they consider to be the best fraternity or sorority on the campus, or come from a "front family", a number of students feel it their duty to join the "Grand Order of Snobs". But worth while people do not mind, because they understand that youth and ignorance constitute the motive power for these empty-headed egotists.

But the inexcusable snob, the one for whom no allowance need be made, is the one who has a justified right to some show of pride. As Benjamin Franklin remarks, "A man need not be averse to thanking God for vanity among the other comforts of life." But even Franklin would have had no patience with a person who flaunted his superiority in the face of the more common mortals.

An undemocratic remark from a snob who is great in his own estimation alone would earn only an indulgent laugh or at the worst a cynical shrug. But it is surely a disappointment to find persons who have the possibilities of really big individuals, so big in their own estimation that they become little in the eyes of the student world. University students are capable of recognizing true worth. It is the same in the University as in everyday life; the one whom is loved, respected, and admired is the one who receives his honors as he would his salary. He worked for it and has been paid. Then why this pose of exalted dignity? The University would be able to survive very well without either class of snobs for there are always enough real men and women to keep things going.

CONTRIBUTORS COLUMN

To the Editor:

In yesterday's Iowan there was a "feature" story about the number of students working their way through the University. Dean Rienow was quoted as saying, "I think a spirit of cooperation should be promoted among the various campus organizations for the purpose of increasing this fund", referring to a loan fund for students.

"The spirit of cooperation" can be carried farther than that, and can be made to apply to a specific and very deserving case. Many students who are working their way through the University are doing so by playing in orchestras. Some play for their board and others for a set price, so much per job. Since Friday and Saturday are the only nights approved for University dances, these two jobs mean a great deal to the student-musician, for they constitute the entire source of income to him. Now, when the people who give dances in the city hire out-of-town musicians for weekend dances, it leaves the "home" boys out of a job, and consequently, out of their week's salary.

The out-of-town orchestras are not a bit better than the orchestras composed of University students. You are not getting any more for your money no matter what fine-sounding names these outsiders may have, and you are, at the same time, showing yourself a traitor to your college by patronizing these dances. Your doing so may mean that some of your fellow students will have to leave college and if they do, it will mean that the University will lose a talented musician and a "goo man" as the slang phrase goes and these are the people who count toward making a University great.

You are hurting yourself and your University as much as you hurt the boys who work to entertain you and to "show you a good time" when you hire an outside orchestra.

If we want to show patriotism and loyalty to our University, and a fine spirit of brotherhood to our fellows, let's cooperate with our own musicians.

PROF. WOODWARD TO LECTURE TO BACONIAN CLUB TOMORROW NIGHT

The Baconian Club's December Lecture will be given on Friday, December 16, in room 301 of the Physics building, by Prof. S. M. Woodward, Head of the department of mechanics and hydraulics. His topic will be "Flood Water Problems of Mid-western Water Power Developments." The lecture will be illustrated with lantern slides showing various power developments in the middle west during flood periods, and methods used to solve the problem of utilization of this surplus water.

Slides will be shown of photographs taken of the behavior of models during experimentation on various devices evolved to improve efficiency during flood stages of the stream. The laboratory of the University of Iowa has been engaged with these problems during the past year, and many very significant results have been obtained by use of the "Hydraulic Jump," which is merely the engineer's expression for the phenomenon of "water flowing up hill."

Prof. Woodward will demonstrate how this seemingly impossible phenomenon can be made to take place downstream from a power development by proper design and utilization of the surplus flood water, and many beneficial results obtained therewith. All Baconian lectures are open to the public.

MAIL PACKAGE HOME MONDAY IF YOU WISH IT TO ARRIVE ON TIME

The usual Christmas rush in the Post Office in all towns and cities is felt more especially in Iowa City, according to a statement by W. J. Bailey, superintendent of mails, because a large percent of the students who use the parcels post service the last day or two before vacation, for sending home parcels, which they do not wish to be bothered with carrying.

This extra amount of work, for the postal employees of the local post office, added to the usual extra work in handling the Christmas mail, may cause a delay of a day or two in the delivery of these parcels as well as other Christmas parcels. To avoid this, Mr. Bailey asks that these parcel post packages be mailed on Saturday, Sunday or by Monday at latest, if at all possible.

It has been very noticeable recently, according to Mr. Bailey, that students fail to notify their friends when they change their Iowa City address. It sometimes takes the services of two or three men working several hours, to sort out mail addressed to students at their old addresses. The postal authorities urge that all mail sent to students should be addressed to street and house number, and when a change occurs notify the local post office authorities as well as all correspondents. If this is done non-deliveries and delays will be reduced to a minimum.

Y. W. C. A. TO PRESENT CHRISTMAS PAGEANT FRIDAY AFTERNOON

A Christmas pageant, resembling the medieval miracle plays, will be presented by the Y. W. C. A. Friday afternoon, December 16 at 4 o'clock in the Little Theater on the third floor of the elementary school building.

The play, written by Miss Esther L. Swenson of the English department, is a blending of the Christmas story and Christmas carols in the manner of the plays of the period preceding the Shakesperian drama.

"We hope to make the presentation of a Christmas service of this type a tradition at the University," said Helen Langworthy A4 of Massena, executive of the department of religious work, in charge of the play. "The plan is to give this pageant as a regular service, instead of charging admission".

The cast of characters under the direction of Miss Swenson who is coaching the production are: Expositor, Eloise A. Smith A4 of Sioux Rapids; Mary, Geraldine Mars A4 of Iowa City; Joseph, Margaret Avery A3 of Spencer; Moses, Irene Boughton A3 of Sioux City; David, Maudine Shoemsmith A2 of Guthrie Center.

Isaiah, Melba Carpenter A2 of Iowa City; Daniel, Mildred Dempsey A3 of Cedar Rapids; the shepherds, Leona White A3 of Council Bluffs and Vivian Gray A2 of Onawa; Gaspard, Vivian Conrad A1 of Burlington; Melchior, Margaret Wilson A2 of Iowa City; Balthazar Catherine Preshaw A2 of Detroit, Mich.; an angel, Lois Kifer A3 of Sioux City.

VOLUNTEER TEACHERS NEEDED AT UNIVERSITY HOSPITALS FOR KIDDIES

An extension of the craft and playground department of the children's hospital has been established for the children of the University hospital in charge of Mame R. Prosses, principal of the children's hospital school. The children to be supervised, about thirty in all, are mostly charity patients in Dr. L. W. Dean's eye, ear, nose and throat clinic. They spend only two or three weeks in the hospital, and most of that time they can do nothing but stand around and wait for something to happen or somebody to play with them.

Volunteer teachers are urgently needed to supervise craft work, paper work, music and singing games, and particularly outdoor play. From six to ten teachers are needed every day to direct the play for one hour in either the boys' or girls' ward.

Since the removal of the playground department with the opening of the orthopedic hospital across the river, no instruction has been given the University Hospital until this week.

LITERARY SOCIETIES WILL GIVE PROGRAMS BEFORE CHRISTMAS

Whitby, Octave Thanet and Hamlin Garland literary societies will give programs Tuesday evening, December 20. Hamlin Garland will give an open program and it will consist of music by Memler's orchestra, and a play "The Stepmother". Those taking part in the play will be: Clara Mather A4 of Somers, Alta M. Beemer A3 of Marengo, Grace M. Baldy Au of Spirit Lake, and Dorothy M. Cagley A2 of Iowa City.

Octave Thanet will give a Christmas program, which will be as follows: Christmas solo by Margaret A. DeNio U of Iowa City, reading by Marjorie C. Gailey A4 of Iowa City, Christmas customs of foreign lands by Helen M. Williams A4 of Decorah, Xmas carols by Martha H. Althaus A3 of Muscatine, and Florence J. Liebbe A4 of Muscatine and Octave Thanet Christmas stocking by Helen I. Haddock A4 of Greenfield.

Whitby program will consist of "A Sing" by Loleta S. Fisher A3 of Iowa City, Elsie A. Hoersch A3 of Davenport, Myrtle D. Meyer A3 of Gladbrook, and Lillian A. Dethhof A4 of Muscatine; shadow pictures by the new members, and a play, "Burglars", by Ruth P. Zorn A3 of Montezuma, Myrtle S. Fisher A4 of Solon, Marcia B. McKee A4 of Denmark, Lenora Smith A2 of Guernsey and Florence M. Castle A3 of Shenandoah.

IOWA ASSOCIATION HELPS HAWKEYES WHO ARE IN CALIFORNIA

The Iowa Association of Southern California with headquarters at Los Angeles, Cal., maintains an extensive information bureau for the convenience of all former Iowans living in that state or temporarily located or visiting there.

Captain Frank H. Nichols, treasurer of the association and a former Iowan, is president of the Continental National Bank at the corner of Main and Ninth streets, Los Angeles, the headquarters of the association.

Visiting Iowans are invited to have their mail sent in care of the association, at whose headquarters they can find registers of all the other states of the Union and of Canada. Many Hawkeyes have enrolled on the association's register, and have thus been enabled to locate old friends and neighbors.

The Association is planning the annual Iowa Admission day dinner and the great February picnic, and will announce the dates later.

UNIVERSITY STUDENTS INVITED TO VISIT THE TELEPHONE EXCHANGE

Carl Cone, local manager of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company, commenting on the service rendered by the telephone company and the troubles and tribulations which go within the exchange at times causing inconveniences to the subscribers said, "We issue an invitation to all students and the faculty of the University to visit the local telephone exchange. The company will be pleased at any time to show them the inter-workings of a telephone system and answer all questions pertaining to same.

"The company is desirous to show subscribers through the system, as they feel that a visit to the exchange will give them an opportunity to become better acquainted with its working, and thereby enable them to merit and appreciate the service rendered."

FRENCH CLUB GIVES CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

The French club will give a Christmas program and initiate new members tonight in the liberal arts drawing room.

The program consists of the french play "En Wagon" presented by Orley Brown G of Milton, Clide Aldrich A4 of Corning, and Marguerette Struble A4 of Iowa City. M. Dolores Cusack A4 of Iowa City will give a talk on French Christmas customs", and Geraldine Mars A4 of Iowa City will sing some French Christmas songs.

WRESTLING MATCH AT ENGINEER'S SMOKER

A wrestling match starring John Cumberland, president of the A. S. of A. S., and Marcus Carlson, president of the senior engineers, will be a feature of the engineer's Christmas smoker next Tuesday night at the American Legion hall. The regular meeting of the A. S. will be held during the evening when further plans for Mecca week will be made.

Music, eats and all kind of smokes will fill the rest of the evening full of enjoyment for the engineers.

Y. W. C. A. GIVES MYSTERY PLAY

Esther L. Swenson, English
Instructor Writes and Directs Play

"The Mystery Play," written and directed by Esther L. Swenson of the English department will be given at 4 p. m. Friday afternoon by the women of the Y. W. C. A. in the Little Theatre on the third floor of the elementary school building. This play is open to the public and especially friends of the Y. W. C. A.

The play is in the nature of the old miracle plays which were given in the Medeval ages. The women of the Y. W. C. A. are attempting to establish a tradition of presenting at Christmas a miracle or mystery play. The chairman of the program committee, Helen Langworthy A4 of Messena, has charge of this production, and it is hoped that it will make such an impression that successive years will bring forth some similar play.

The play will open with the processional of the cast singing carols assisted by the quartet. Music throughout the play will be furnished by Margaret S. Stoots A4 of Chicago, Ill., Mrs. L. G. Lawyer of Iowa City, and Mrs. J. Van der Zee will be the accompanist. The play will end with the recessional of all the characters, and community singing of carols.

The story of the "Mystery Play" is taken almost verbatim from the Christmas story found in different parts in the Bible. It begins with the prophecies, continues on to the shepherds watching their flocks on hillsides who are aroused by sight of the star in the east and the strange singing of the angels. Then the Kings and wise men go to the manager where the Christ Child is found wrapped in swaddling clothes.

The cast of characters in "The Mystery Play" are as follows: Expositor, Eloise A. Smith A4 of Sioux Rapids; Moses, Irene C. Boughton A3 of Sioux City; Isaiah, Melba B. Carpenter A2 of Iowa City; Daniel, Katherine T. Wright A3 of Des Moines; David, Maudine M. Shoemsmith A2 of Guthrie Center; John the Baptist, Irene M. Sinclair A3 of Marion; first shepherd, Leona I. White A3 of Council Bluffs; second shepherd, Vivian A. Gray A2 of Onawa; third shepherd, Mildred B. Dempsey A3 of Cedar Rapids; Mary, Geraldine Mars A4 of Iowa City; Joseph, Kathleen E. Hagler A3 of Des Moines; the Angel, Lois V. Kifer A3 of Sioux City; the three kings, Margaret Wilson A2 of Iowa City; Vivian A. Conrade A1 of Burlington and Catherine Preshaw of Detroit, Michigan.

CHORUS WILL SING MESSIAH

Production Will be Strictly a Local Affair

One hundred and fifty voices will sing George Frederick Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah" in the natural science auditorium Sunday afternoon. The University chorus will be assisted by both the men's and women's glee clubs and the University orchestra.

Greatest Oratorio

Today "The Messiah" is considered the world's greatest oratorio, according to Prof. Phillip G. Clapp, head of the school of music. It is composed of Hebrew prophecies; the coming of Christ and his life among men. In its original form it consumes about four hours for presentation. The selections chosen for Sunday's performance will take an hour to produce. Most of the Christmas music has been retained, including the "Hallelujah" chorus and familiar solos, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth" and "He Was Despised".

The oratorio was prepared for production in 1742. At that time Handel was managing an opera company which was the rival of several other opera companies for royal favor.

At one time George III had decided that it was not polite to attend theatrical performances during lent. Handel was faced with bankruptcy unless he managed to secure the king's presence at his production. He then decided to have his company produce a sacred performance without scenery. This was the initial performance of "The Messiah".

Seven Soloists To Sing

The soloists appearing in the program are: Ruth Rowland A4 of Iowa City, Alice Ingham A3 of Iowa City, and Jeanne Wolfe A2 of Clear Lake as sopranos; Mrs. Mildred B. Paddock and Mrs. Lottie Volkmer, contraltos; Prof. Walter R. Leon, tenor, and James Houghton A4 of Iowa City, bass.

The chorus has been trained by Prof. Phillip G. Clapp, who will conduct the performance. The glee clubs who are assisting have practiced with the chorus for the past three weeks. The orchestra has been separately coached by Prof. Frank E. Kendrie of the department of stringed instruments.

The chorus and orchestra will fill the stage and the space in front where two rows of seats were removed to give needed room.

Handel entrusted his harmony to an organ part which was not written out, but was figured in the bass. William T. Best took the organ part and elaborated upon it to suit the piano. Verness M. Fraser instructor in music, and Mrs. Leona Travis A1 of Iowa City play the fourhanded piano accompaniment, which was the organ part.

Rev. Frank C. Doan, pastor of the Unitarian church, will offer the invocation, scripture reading, prayer, and benediction.

A Local Production

"Although the undertaking is an ambitious one," said Professor Clapp, "it has been thoroughly worked up. Every participant in the production is either a University student, member of the faculty or a resident of Iowa City."

These special programs are open to the public but are given particularly for the University. Doors will be open at 3:30 and the program begins at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

CEDAR RAPIDS' WOMEN SEE MUSEUM EXHIBITS

The Nature Study division of the Cedar Rapids Woman's Club last week visited the exhibits in the University Museum. Mrs. Frederick Lazell was in charge of the group of thirty women who viewed the Laysan Island Cyclorama, and the Louisiana Swamp Exhibit. Prof. Homer R. Dill gave short talks on each of the exhibits. The morning was spent at the Bird hall, where the women made a careful study of the displays. The afternoon was given over to a study of the mounted animals in the Mammal hall.

Great interest was shown in the Laysan Island group and the Louisiana Swamp Exhibit. Since the completion of the Laysan Group in 1914 more than ten excursion parties have come to the museum. Professor Dill said that as a rule the Laysan Exhibit was the most popular, but many of the Nature Study women of Cedar Rapids thought that the Louisiana Group was superior.

These displays have attracted much attention and favorable comment to the University Museum. Professor Dill has been engaged to deliver a special lecture to the Woman's club of Cedar Rapids the middle of January.

FACULTY MEMBERS TAKE ACTIVE PART IN Y. M. C. A. AFFAIRS

The campaign among the faculty members in behalf of the Y. M. C. A. is almost completed, according to Prof. Arthur C. Trowbridge, chairman of the advisory board for the association. At a meeting at the Pagoda Monday evening, reports were heard from the faculty members who are conducting the campaign, and to date there has been $700 raised from the staff members already interviewed.

Although the campaign is practically completed, says Professor Trowbridge, there are still a number who have not been seen in regard to the association, but these will be interviewed within the next few days.

In addition to the financial campaign, the faculty workers have been securing the general opinion of the faculty in regard to the program of the association. The faculty members have made much favorable comment and much constructive criticism which will be of benefit to the association during the year.

A detailed account of the workings of the Y. M. C. A. was furnished to every faculty member. The service program of the association appealed to them most. To date, about two hundred men students have participated in the service program, and by monthly rotation of committee appointments, between 400 and 500 men will take an active part before the end of the year.

According to Professor Trowbridge, "The best thing a student gets out of membership in the Association at the University is incentive and an opportunity to serve under conditions which fit him for continued service throughout life. That is, it puts him in the way, if he only knew it, of taking the most important of all steps in education as well as in religion."

The performance this evening will start promptly at 8 o'clock, instead of 8:30 as previously announced, according to J. M. Emert, manager.

and on Christmas night will take part in the services at the Union Church there. On Christmas day the men will participate in the chapel exercises at the Training School. During the entire stay of the glee club at Eldora they will be accommodated at the school.

At both Mason City and Charles City arrangements and entertainments have been made for the men by the alumni of the University in each city. At Charles City any proceeds which are made over the men's expenses will be used to give a dance for the glee club.

Expenses Guaranteed
The glee club goes out with definite guarantees from the organizations in each city to pay all their expenses. According to Hubert Matt L2 of Iowa City, business manager of the glee club, the club is not going out for the purpose of making money, but on the contrary, it is only making expenses.

This year's tour will be the seventh for the club. They made a trip last year, but the year before they did not do so on account of the coal shortage.

IOWANS HAVE LOST $150,000,000 IN WILD-CAT DEALS SAYS DIERDORFF

J. E. Dierdorff a graduate of the law class of 1911 and now district manager for the American Bond and Mortgage Company at Davenport, spoke last night on "Bond Salesmanship" at a dinner given by the Commerce club at 6:30 o'clock at the Pagoda tea shop. Mr. Dierdorff also gave a talk yesterday afternoon to the members of Dean Phillip's class in investments.

In his talk to the Commerce club last night Mr. Dierdorff spoke of the new position which a bond salesman holds in the business world. "It has assumed its proper place among the professions and rightly so," said Mr. Dierdorff. "Iowa people alone lost $150,000,000 in wild-cat speculations in a relatively short period of time. The bond salesman or investment banker's positions is one of trust, counsel and advise and the future happiness and prosperity of his clientele are entrusted to his good judgment and veracity."

Mr. Dierdorff said that the average citizen, professional man and even business man does not have the time to investigate and study bond conditions, and is thus thrown entirely on the good faith of the bond salesman. The whole nation is rapidly turning to the purchase of bonds as the safest and best method of the investment of surplus funds, or as a means of saving. For that reason, in the United States, the partial payment plan of purchasing bonds has come into popular favor. It permits the person of small means to cultivate the habit of thrift by the purchase of bonds on small monthly or weekly payments of $5 or $10.

Mr. Dierdorff said that he knew of no other profession in the business field that commands the respect and salary of the successful bond salesman. He outlined a few of the qualifications of a successful bond salesman.

FRATERNITY JEWELRY SALES HAVE SLUMPED MOST IN MIDDLE WEST

Financial conditions have decreased the sale of fraternity jewelry more here in the middle west than either in the east or west, according to a salesman who has recently been here representing an eastern firm.

He believes this to be due to the fact that more people in the middle west depend on farm crops for their income than in the eastern and western states, and it seems to indicate that the farmers are affected more by the present financial depression than the professional and commercial classes. This salesman said he had made fewer sales every where this year than last, but that after having been in both the eastern and western states, he notices the most marked decrease here in the middle west.

When asked whether his best customers were fraternal or sororities he answered without hesitation that men bought the most jewelry, that they buy chiefly novelties for the girls. Most of the sales to women are made in embossed stationery, rings, and novelties for men.

Aubrey Devine and Duke Slater of Iowa University are placed on the first All-American team picked by Ross Tenney, sports editor of the Cleveland Press. Devine is put at a halfback position.

FACULTY MEMBERS TO ATTEND CONVENTIONS DURING THE HOLIDAYS

Many faculty members will attend scientific conventions which will be held during the holidays. The American Association for the Advancement of Science with the affiliated societies which include the Botanical society of America, the American zoological society, the American physical society, the society for American psychologists and the American mathematical society will meet in Toronto at this time.

All branches of this association will be represented by the University of Iowa faculty members. Among those who will attend are: Dean George W. Stewart of the graduate college, member of the council of honorary scientific fraternities, Sigma Xi, who will be prominent among the physicists; Doctor Birt T. Baldwin of the child research station, who is secretary of the psychology section of the American association; Doctor Phineas W. Whiting of the child research station who will read papers before the zoologists on his investigation in the breeding of insects; Prof. Robert B. Wylie, secretary of the botanical section of the association, and Prof. Clifford H. Farr who will read papers before the botanical and plant pathologists, and Prof. Henry L. Reitz, head of the mathematics department. Dean George F. Kay and Prof. Ralph W. Chaney will attend the meeting at Toronto and also a meeting of geologists at Amherst, Massachusetts.

the most frequent scorers on the team during practice scrimmages. Lohman at the other forward has not been showing up as well during the last few scrimmages as he usually does. He usually plays a good game against outsiders, however, and will be a hard man to oust from one of the forward positions.

In Shimek and Hicks the varsity has a strong pair of guards, although Hicks is inexperienced. Shimek never fails to get two or three baskets in every scrimmage. Hicks is a fair shot, but has a tendency to play too far up the floor giving a fast forward a chance to dribble past him and make easy baskets.

Frohwein is showing up in good shape on the second string and must be considered before any definite team can be picked. He rarely misses a close shot, but is handicapped by his lack of speed.

Permanent Lineup Decided Soon
The lineup that will be permanent will probably be partially decided after the Cornell game next Saturday. This game will not be as easy a contest as the Augustana game, but should bring out the best basketball that is in the players. Cornell has nearly all of the men that played her last year. Iowa beat them, but not by a one-sided score. This team has been reinforced by members of last year's freshman team who regularly beat Cornell varsity last year. They should make the Iowa team work hard to win.

FRESHMEN MAY HOLD TELEGRAPHIC MEET WITH WISCONSIN U.

If present negotiations between Mead Burke freshman coach at the University of Wisconsin and Coach George T. Bresnahan, mature, the Iowa freshman track team will have a chance to show their future possibilities in a dual telegraphic track meet to be held about January 28.

Coach Bresnahan is in receipt of a letter from Coach Burke asking for a dual telegraphic meet between the freshmen squads of the two universities to be held either January 28 or February 18. Coach Burke reports a good squad at Wisconsin, and writes that the meet is to consist of the standard indoor events.

Coach Jenkins or Lieutenant Tom Martin will get the freshmen team in shape for this meet and will start work immediately after the holidays.

MAY BUILD DRESSING ROOM FOR THEATER IN UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

Plans for using part of the main reading room in the University library as a dressing room in connection with the University theatre in the natural science auditorium are now under consideration by University authorities.

It is proposed to build a separate room in one corner of the west end of the library to be connected by a stairway with the rear of the stage above. The members of the University Players and other organizations have been so crowded for dressing room space while putting on productions this year that it has been deemed advisable by them to secure more room.

MRS. E. L. WATERMAN WILL REMAIN Y. W. C. A. SECRETARY THIS YEAR

Efforts of the advisory board of the Y. W. C. A. to find a general secretary for the office here have been renewed today as the result of a communication from Miss Zada French, stating that although the position here was attractive, she wished to stay on the Pacific coast. She was highly recommended for secretaryship both by the field office and by Miss Mary I. Bash, who left the position on account of the illness of her mother.

Miss Bash writes that she is planning to return to Y. W. C. A. work next year but will remain in or near Seattle.

The field office at Minneapolis has sent no other recommendations for secretaries who would be free to take the post soon, so the executive council, and Mrs. E. L. Waterman of the advisory board, who is serving as secretary, will probably continue in the office the remainder of the year.

INSURANCE MAN TALKS TO COMMERCE STUDENTS

Wesley Johnson of Dayton, Iowa, ex-president of the Iowa State Association of Mutual Fire Insurance Associations and a member of directors of the national association, lectured before the classes in insurance in the college of commerce, Tuesday morning upon the subject of Mutual Insurance and Fire Prevention. Mr. Johnson gave a brief history of the organization and the development of the mutual insurance business of the United States. Special emphasis was placed upon the fact that mutual insurance has for its object loss prevention rather than the payment of losses after they occur.

Mr. Johnson has had wide experience in this field and his lecture was much enjoyed by the students.

ANNOUNCE LIST OF GIFTS FOR PERKINS HOSPITAL CHILDREN

Suggestions Made As to What Santa Claus May Bring Sick and Crippled Unfortunates

A list of Christmas gifts showing just the things that are needed for the Perkins children at the Children's hospital has been prepared by Mrs. O. C. Van Meter of Iowa City, who is chairman of the committee in charge of the work, and is being mailed to all who make inquiry.

Presents for girls and boys of varying ages and gifts of value to all the children are listed. Clothing is particularly emphasized, since these children, most of them from poor homes, are too often in need of things to wear.

List Needs

The following lists have been prepared:

Boys from two to five years—rompers, stockings, stocking caps, underwear, sweaters, mittens, over-shoes, underwaists, supporters.

Boys from 5 to 10 years—Unionalls, blouses, waists, stockings, trousers, coats, underwear, overcoats, supporters, mufflers.

Boys from 10 to 16 years—Shirts, blouses, suspenders, overalls, unionalls, trousers, coats, sweaters, overcoats, underwear, stockings, supporters, mufflers.

Girls from 2 to 6 years—Dresses, bloomers, underwear, coats, sweaters, hair ribbons, bedroom slippers, supporters, underwaists, stockings, petticoats, mufflers.

Girls 6 to 17 years—middy blouses, dresses, bungalow aprons, bloomers, undergarment slips, stockings, kimonas, underwear, sweaters, coats, hair ribbons, round combs, bedroom slippers.

Baby articles—Diapers, white stockings, outing flannel slips, bonnets, bibs, rattles, shirts, dresses, blankets.

Toys—Rocking horses, kiddie cars, blackboards, story books for all ages, dolls of all kinds, games, beads, balls, building blocks, alphabet blocks, horns, drums, paints, Ingersoll watches, baby swings, baby walkers, sand tables, Victrola records.

Clean second-hand clothing can be used in every case. Home-made candy, popcorn balls, popcorn, fruit of all kinds, dates, nuts, cookies, and other good things to eat will be very acceptable.

Want Cash

A Christmas fund of cash contributions has been started, the money to be used for the upkeep of the motion pictures shown at the hospital, to buy necessary clothing and other things not received at Christmas time, and for other purposes as directed by Supt. J. A. Lomas of the University hospitals.

The whole task of organizing the Christmas work is going forward rapidly with the continued receipt of inquiries about the needs of children. Many of the little folks have written letters to Santa Claus telling what will gladden their hearts, and some of these letters are being forwarded to individuals or societies who are undertaking to provide Christmas cheer for one of the patients.

HOW MANY YEARS DOES IT TAKE FOR A GOOD EDUCATION

Grinnell, Iowa.—Will any bright little boy in the class please tell us how long it takes to get a first class college education?

"Four year,"—you say? Why those who hunger and thirst after knowledge couldn't get past the soup stage of intellectual nourishment in that time.

Now liars may figure, but figures don't lie. So rally round all ye seekers after truth, "lib" lizards, Phi Beta hounds, etc., and list up to the statistical shower in which old Ed U. Kashon himself unburdens his personal views on what a real college course would be like.

That pithy piece of literature, the Grinnell Bulletin, offers some 1,270 semester hours of college work. At the rate of 30 hours per annum a lucky student could run thru the entire bill of fare in a paltry 42 years. But if he were only average, he would flunk 6 per cent of this, some 76 hours, or 2.5 year's work. Therefore 44 years would be a safe estimate of the time required to glean the wisdom that Grinnell offers.

The tuition alone for this sojourn under the lamps of learning would come to $7,040.00. A student would have the opportunity of hearing 7,920 chapel talks, at least 5,483 of which would be on the subject: "What You Ought to Get Out of College." One quart of ink or 4 feet 5 inches of Eversharp lead would be consumed in writing the 1,360 examinations. One student could take an aggregate of 1,144 cuts without losing any credit.

There are other consoling features to this education marathon. Almost everyone would receive 120 hours, or 4 full years of straight A. The Quadite would be entitled to 792 minors for an aggregate of 198 hours, 8.25 days, or 1.18 weeks in which she could linger longer in love's langour at Central's door.

Taking 18 as the average age for college entrance, the sweet girl graduate would receive her sheepskin at the demure age of 62. The senior man would fare forth to lick the world with a gray thatch and a rheumatic locomotion. And according to the statistics of a New York bank, it would only be three years until 93 out of every 100 of these graduates would cease to be self-supporting. Now before they could make enough to pay for their college education in three years of financial independence that awaits them after graduation, they must fall into a $14,000 a year job immediately after leaving college, which is more than some school teachers get.

Who said a LITTLE knowledge was a dangerous thing.

PROGRAM AND DANCING FEATURE AT HEP-ZET MEETING AND MIXER

Members and pledges of Hesperian and Zetaganian literary societies held a joint meeting and mixer Tuesday evening in the regular meeting room at Close hall. The program, conducted by Frederick O. Paulsen LI of Clear Lake, included a reading by C. H. Smith, a piano solo by Wesley A. Hughes A1 of Des Moines, an interpretative dance by Gladys Taggart A3 of Spencer, and a short talk by Helen Langworthy A4 of Massena, president of Hesperia. After the program light refreshments were served, and dancing concluded the evening's entertainment.

RARE QUALITIES OF PALMETTOS NO SECRET

The Distinctive Center of Palmetto Chocolates Makes Them Different

Alumni of many years ago can recall two names which were largely responsible for their pleasure at Iowa. One is Reich's—the other is Palmettos. In fact, the custom of giving Palmetto's at Xmas time has stuck with many of them, although they are in distant countries.

The reason for this remembrance is clear—Reich's Choc Shop has always been known as "The Shop With Campus Spirit" and Palmettos have always been recognized as the best bitter sweet Chocolates made. Unlike most chocolates, no glucose is used in their manufacture. Only pure ingredients, combined with a special method of making used exclusively by Reich's, can produce a chocolate of such distinctive flavor and lasting freshness.

Palmettos are not packed many weeks ahead of time and stored on shelves till Xmas time. They are made fresh three times a week and can be bought in bulk or boxes. Fancy boxes in all sizes will be packed for the Christmas trade, thus insuring not only the best, but also the freshest candy to give her FOR CHRISTMAS.

EELS INITIATE NEW MEMBERS

Seven Men Pass Required Tests and are Voted in

Members of the Eels club, honorary men's swimming organization, will banquet at the Pagoda tea shop tonight, following which they will hold a business meeting and then adjourn to the men's pool to initiate seven new members of the club. The new men who will be initiated tonight are: William E. Carpenter A3 of Iowa City, Thomas A. Roche S4 of Iowa City, Martin E. Griffin M1 of Iowa City, M. L. Ostrum A1 of Jewell, J. N. Nelson A3 of Fort Dodge, Loren Bane A3 of Pleasantville, and Charles A. Anderson S3 of Muskegan.

Must Pass Tests

These men have all passed the required tests. Membership in the Eels club is based on the ability to pass certain tests, and be favorably voted upon by the members of the club. The tests are: swim 440 yards, crawl, breast or back stroke; plunge 50 feet, or do the four conference dives. At their meeting tonight the Eels will probably discuss the advisability of making further stipulations for membership.

Organized in 1915

The Eels club was organized in 1915 by Frank Weller, former University gym coach, and had for its purpose the training of life guards and the patrolling of the Iowa river during the boating season. When Coach David Armbruster took up his duties here in 1916 he reorganized the club on a slightly larger scale, to include all swimming activities in the University. Roy K. Forney A4 of Tabor is the president of the club.

FRENCH INSTITUTIONS OFFER SCHOLARSHIPS TO AMERICAN WOMEN

Scholarships will be granted to American women by French institutions in high schools and normal schools in appreciation of the scholarships awarded to French girls in America, according to the American council of education. The institutions offering these scholarships are high schools and normal schools at Paris and cities near Paris, Sevres, St. Germain en Laye, Versailles, Beauvais, Tours, and Caen.

Board, Room, Etc., Paid

Board, room and tuition fees will be furnished to the successful candidates, and a thirty percent rebate on passage over and back, making the cost of passage approximately eighty-five dollars one way. The schools advise the students to have twenty dollars a month for incidental expenses.

Only American born women are eligible for these scholarships. All applications must be turned in by February 1 and must include a statement from the registrar of the work done by the student, a birth certificate, a photograph, a health certificate from the school physician giving a medical history of the applicant for the past two years, testimonials from two professors with whom the applicant has studied, one of whom must be from the department of Romance languages, and a testimonial from the dean of women as to the character, ability and promise of the candidate.

Open to Graduates

The scholarship and fellowships in the Ecole Normale Supérieure de Serres are open to women who have done graduate work and have a university career in view. These scholarships are granted only to those who speak and read French easily and intend to study it seriously.

The scholarships in the Ecole Normale de Saint Germain en Laye are open to women not over twenty-four years of age who hold a Bachelor's degree and have had some work in education. These will be granted only to women who have the teaching profession in view. They must have a knowledge of grammatical French and such a command of spoken and written French as to be able to carry on their work in that language.

The scholarships in Lycees are open to women between the ages of seventeen and twenty who are freshmen, sophomores or juniors, and who can understand spoken French.

Applications are to be sent to Prof. Margaret E. Maltby, 419 West 117th Street, New York city.

200 ATTEND FIRST PRESENTATION OF 'IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE'

Play Will Be Repeated at Oakdale Next Tuesday

A crowd of about 200 people attended the play "It Pays to Advertise" which was presented by the University students of the Presbyterian church in the church parlors Tuesday night.

The leading parts in the play were taken by Marion Faville A2 of Iowa City and Gerhard Noll A3 of Waukon. George Crane A1 of Dexter, who took the part of an advertising agent, lived like his character unusually well and created much laughter in the audience. The part of a rich soap manufacturer was portrayed by Russell Hunter A1 of Iowa City.

Marjorie Roland A2 of Iowa City who played the part of a French countess and Harold Noble A2 of Fort Madison who was a dude, were equally good in their parts. The entire cast worked well together and made the play a success. Between acts the church orchestra played. After the play the members of the cast were entertained at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Herbert L. Searles and refreshments were served. The play is to be repeated next Tuesday night at Oakdale.

STUDENTS ARE NOT ALWAYS GRADED BY AVERAGE OF CLASS

Flunkers are not expelled from the University as fast as some students and parents have been lead to believe. The University does not heartless expell students who fail to make certain grades.

"We are patient with students, especially freshmen," said Dean George F. Kay of the college of liberal arts. "Each individual student is considered separately and with great care. If we feel that a student is hindered by certain failing student can do better work outside factors we first place him on the probation list; but if a student gives clear evidence that he will never make good we let him out."

Reports that the scholastic requirements here are becoming harder every year are untrue, according to Dean Kay. A certain standard prevails regardless of the increase in the number of students. In principle, students are not judged by the average of the class but by the standard of large numbers of students. "All grading in the liberal arts college is on the same marking system and there should be a definite understanding of the system by all the instructors. The system of grading students is supposed to be exactly the same as in any other class, and the same standards should be upheld in all classes. A student who impresses me as being one in twenty or one of the best five per cent of the long run of students will get an "A" regardless of the other members of the class. Those will get a "B" who give evidence of being clearly above the average in general. No instructor is justified in saying what grades he will give until the end of the semester. However, the instructor is forming his concept at all times during the semester's work. He can usually begin to get an idea of the "A" and "B" students and can find out the probable flunkers during the first five or six weeks. In certain cases where a student has failed during several weeks in a subject and there is no possibility of his passing the course, we have the student drop that course with the grade of 'fd.' so that he can concentrate on his other subjects," said Dean Kay.

"Quite a number of students are on the probation list at all times," said Dean Kay, "but a very small percentage of the total number of students."

"There are always two parties to be considered in any business," said Dean Kay, "and in this case the two parties are the instructor and the student. Every student is entitled to the best of instructors and every instructor is entitled to the best work on the part of the student."

"Of course we are trying to raise the standards by which students are judged but not through sending students home. We are attempting to give the students the best possible instruction and in return to get the best possible standard of work."

"In our attempt to raise the standard of grades through better work on the part of the instructor and on the part of the student, I see no reason why there should not be fewer failures than in previous years."

COLUMBIA STUDENTS TO FORM RADIO CLUB

New York. — Plans are being started for the formation of a radio club on the campus. Harry Bier-shenk '23 former president of the Brooklyn Radio Club, has announced that a meeting of all students interested in wireless will be held sometime next week. In the meantime, he would like to have all wireless enthusiasts get in communication with him at the Theta Xi house.

This college is one of the few large schools that does not have a radio club and the organization of one is rapidly becoming a necessity here.—Columbia Spectator.

80 OUT FOR FROSH TEAM

Jensen, Swenson and Yerkes of Cedar Rapids Have Big Chance

Many of the freshmen that have signed for freshman basketball have been failing to report. Monday night's practice found only about eighty men out. There are only three more practices before the squad is picked and if a man has failed to report for practice he will not stand much of a chance to make the squad, which will be picked and the list posted after the Christmas vacation. Coach Albert T. Jenkins is well satisfied with the material that he has to work with this year, but he is sure that there are more good men in the University that are not reporting for practices.

Jensen, Swenson and Yerkes, members of the last year's Cedar Rapids National high school championship squad are showing up well in practice. Swenson appears to have the edge on all other centers. He covers more floor than the majority of the centers and seems to be able generally to get the tip off. His eye for the basket is good. Jensen appears to be the best basket shooter in the outfit and his team work and passing are big factors in his favor. Yerkes, the other member of the last year Cedar Rapids team has a good chance to land a berth on the squad. His floor work and eye for the hoop are big factors in his playing. Scriptures, the East Waterloo high school guard has the edge on most of the guards, and will more than likely land a place on the team. Bell from Storm Lake, Funk from Fort Dodge, Janse from Le Verne, Shick of Davenport will possibly land berths on the picked squad.

Coach Jenkins talked to the men for a few minutes Monday night before the scrimmaging started. He pointed out to the men the chance of them making varsity next year if they apply themselves the way they ought and stated as an example, the four of last year's squad that are playing on the varsity this year. Only four out of a squad of one hundred and twenty shows that it is going to take work on their part to make the varsity and the best place to start is on the freshman squad. Several of the men who would have had a good chance to make the varsity squad are ineligible. Coach Jenkins encourages every man to keep up his work if he wants to be any good to the varsity squad next year.

The squad will possibly be cut to thirty men and it will only be the men who have been reporting for practice regularly that will be picked for the squad. The real work will start when the freshman begin their practice against the varsity after the holidays.
