SPORTS CRITIC PICKS PURDUE TO WIN BIG TEN

Minnesota, Purdue and Illinois Have Highest Standing

HAS AN EASY SCHEDULE
Iowa and Northwestern Are in Tie for Lowest Place

To pick today the team that will emerge victorious from this year's struggle for the Big Ten basketball championship is almost entirely a matter of guess work. In the past years too many teams that were at the top of the rating and stood unbeaten, at this time of the season, met sudden, unlucky, or unlooked for reverses, and dropped from the lead to lower places. At present three teams, Minnesota, Purdue, and Illinois, are tied for highest standing, none of the three having been beaten in games played so far. Minnesota has won four games, Purdue three, and Illinois two. Wisconsin is in fourth place, having won three and lost one; Chicago takes fifth with two won and one lost; Ohio State sixth with two won and two lost; Indiana seventh with one won and two lost; and Michigan takes eighth with one victory and three defeats. Iowa and Northwestern bring up in the rear with three, and six lost, respectively.

Minnesota or Purdue Winners
To pick the winners would be to choose between the teams that are at present in the first four places, or to narrow it down, the winner of this year's conference championship will in all probability be either Minnesota or Purdue; to say which would be an absolute guess.

At present, Minnesota looks to be the best team in the conference, if one judges from the number of games won and lost. For the Gopher five has won from Iowa, Northwestern, Wisconsin, and Indiana. But other things must be considered. The Minnesota team is a green team, and it has won at least two of its games by narrow margins, and according to some critics "by much luck". The following teams on its schedule are strong teams, but the schedule is so arranged that no two difficult games will be played in the same week. The following games remain on Minnesota's schedule: Chicago, Indiana, Illinois, Northwestern, Chicago, and Wisconsin. Four out of the seven games will be played at Minneapolis; to the probable advantage of the Northmen.

Purdue Has Good Team
Purdue, on the other hand, boasts a well balanced, fast, experienced team that has won each of the three games that it has so far played; two games from Northwestern and one from Iowa. It does not seem significant that Purdue has won its games from only the two teams with the lowest conference standing, but the Boilermakers won these games by plentiful margins, and in doing so displayed very good basketball ability. Iowa players who played in games against both Purdue and Minnesota this season state that Purdue has the better team of the two. One Iowa player said, "The Purdue team plays like the veterans that they are. They are almost sure shots when given half a chance to throw at the basket, and their team work and guarding is almost perfect; while on the other hand the Minnesota team shows less experience and less perfection in its floor work." Purdue has, perhaps, the easiest remaining schedule of any remaining conference team; six games, and three of which are to be played on their home floor. They are as follows: Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Chicago, Indiana, and Illinois.

Although Illinois has a strong team it has shown itself in recent games to be a rather inferior aggregation in comparison to the experienced team of Purdue. The Purdue team has been known for years as a hard luck team. It has been among

SORORITY WOMEN TO COMPETE FOR 1923 HAWKEYE LOVING CUP

Three silver loving cups will be awarded to the three sororities receiving the highest number of points in the 1923 Hawkeye sales campaign.

Each sorority will elect a captain whose duty it will be to organize the women in her group to the highest efficiency as saleswomen. The sororities who are in local pan-hellenic council are eligible to try for one of the silver trophies. The sororities are: Achoth, Alpha Chi Omega, Alpha Xi Delta, Alpha Delta Pi, Delta Delta Delta, Chi Omega, Delta Gamma, Delta Zeta, Gamma Phi Beta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Pi Beta Phi, Alpha Omicron, Alpha Tau Beta, Iota Xi Epsilon, and Kappa Omega.

The sororities will be mailed letters of instruction from the business manager, Stuart W. Short A3 of Council Bluffs, on Tuesday, January 31. The campaign will start February 7 and will continue for two weeks. Members of sororities will be the only persons on the campus selling books. Each subscriber must pay one dollar down and the remaining four dollars on receipt of the 1923 Hawkeye. Provision has been made on the subscription blank so that one may pay down any amount up to and including $5.00.

This plan is a new venture here, but there is no reason why it will not prove a success as it has the approval of the sororities. Wisconsin and Nebraska has tried the plan and find it has always been a success.

The three prizes first, second, and third, which will be in the form of silver loving cups will be on display in the window of the Iowa Supply company the middle of next week.

IOWA SCRUBS TRIM LIBERTY

Extra Time is Played to Allow Gibson to Score Basket

In a basketball game much resembling in roughness the recent Purdue-Iowa affair, the Hawkeye second string men took the powerful West Liberty town five into camp Monday evening, 22 to 7. West Liberty's quintet is composed of men who have played together for eight years. Recently they beat the strong Gary, Ind., Independents, and were confident of a victory over Iowa's scrubs.

The seconds lined up with Von Hoengig at center, Emmert and Scanlon in the forward positions, and Prentiss and Fimmen at guards. The traditional Blue five represented Liberty: Mosher, Watters, Brown, and the redoubtable Gibson, who scored ten baskets in a recent game with the University freshmen five which invaded the junction town.

Liberty Wins First Period

The first half was a cautious period, each side lacking drive, and apparently waiting for the other to start something. In an attempt to liven things up, Coach Ashmore shot a number of substitutes into the battle, including Trennenhan, Kadesky, and Voltmer, but the seconds had failed to shake the net for a basket when the whistle blew for the half. The score was four to two, Liberty having rung up two counters from the field to the Hawkeye pair of foul throws.

Liberty's Wind Gives Out

In the second half the big floor of the new armory proved too much for the invaders, who are accustomed to corral their visiting victims in a two by four coop in which West Liberty plays its basketball and win over them by sheer weight. The acre or more of space here puzzled them, causing a rapid abatement of their wind, so that they were entirely outplayed in the second period. The seconds dazzled the few spectators by their brilliant comeback, and romped all around their opponents till the final tally reached 22 to 7. When the dust had settled, it was discovered that the

SEVENTY-SIX TO RECEIVE DEGREES

Judge Wade Will Speak at the Convocation January 31

Seventy-six candidates will receive degrees or certificates at the midwinter convocation, which will be held Tuesday, January 31, in the natural science auditorium at ten o'clock. Federal Judge Martin J. Wade will deliver the address. All classes will be suspended between the hours of ten and twelve, in order that the entire instructional staff and student body may attend.

In addition to the presentation of the academic degrees, ninety members of the advanced classes in military science and tactics will be presented with commissions, ranging from lieutenant to colonel.

Judge Wade, whose record on the bench since his appointment as federal judge during the Wilson administration, both in Iowa and adjacent states, makes him one of the foremost jurists in the Middle West. He was graduated from the college of law of the University in 1886. He is noted as a public speaker. The arrangement of the remainder of the convocation program is in the hands of a committee, headed by Prof. Forest C. Ensign. Announcements of the details of the convocation program will be made later.

The members of the instructional staff will appear in academic costume, with the customary hood and cape linings indicating the various degrees. Some of the gowns have insignia from three or more prominent universities.

The instructional staff will assemble on the ground floor of the natural science building, and the procession will pass to the middle section of the main floor of the auditorium, filling that section back of the candidates for degrees. The deans will be seated on the platform.

VARSITY AND FROSH SCRIMMAGE; PREPARE FOR BOILERMAKERS

Both the freshmen and varsity teams took a stiff practice under the direction of Coaches Albert Jenkins and James N. Ashmore at the armory last night.

Coach Jenkins sent his freshmen against the varsity for a short time. The varsity worked on the defensive. The freshmen were unable to get close to the basket, for their plays were not working smoothly. The varsity took the ball away on most occasions, but when at certain times they would take the ball down the floor they could not make the basket with any consistency. The varsity, with Frohwein working at forward and Voltmer at guard used a new offensive play.

The freshman five gave the impression that they would be one of the strongest yearling teams seen here for several years. They have some fairly good material, which worked well against opposition, and although they have not yet learned the finer points of the game nor accustomed themselves to University coaching, they show quite a bit of speed and a willingness to learn. The men are fairly large for a freshman team, and Coach Ashmore should have a very good squad at the start of the next year.

The Iowa mentor is doing all he can to get the men in shape for the battle with Purdue this week, but it is hardly probable that the Hawkeyes will defeat Purdue, especially at LaFayette. Nevertheless the Hawkeyes are preparing to come home with the big end of the score.

WORK MUST AVERAGE ABOVE E TO GRADUATE

The regulations of the University compel a freshman with two-thirds of his work below E and an upper classman with two thirds of his work below D to register on probation. In this way a student with half his work averaging A and the other half failing would still come under this regulation because the average would bring his standard down. No student can be graduated from the University with an E average.

WORRY WEEK IS COMING OUT PARTY FOR NOVEL WAYS OF 'GYPPING THE PROFESSOR'

Each day of examination week brings to light a new method of cribbing. Old methods popular for decades on the campus are still used with variations but are by no means as successful as they were a few years ago. With as many former students of the University, now on the staff of instructors, new ideas for cribbing must constantly be incorporated in the students criminal code.

The methods employed by the old school included the engraved cuff, the rolled match, the cutex, and the shuffle sheet.

Cuffs Worn No More

The cuff method has practically passed away. Whole outlines were printed on the cuffs in the good old days, but as the profs grew more observant this method gradually was supplanted by others. At the height of its popularity it was necessary to have a cuff inspection before an examination was conducted.

Tiny Manuscripts Tell All

The rolled match is also on the decline, but because of its diminutive size it still has its advocates. All that is necessary for this invention are two matches and a little roll of thin, durable paper. The text upon which the student is to be examined is briefly summarized upon this sheet and is then rolled upon the first match, which match, matters little. The last chapter of the text must be first wrapped upon the match so that the preface of the book will be the first to appear when the crib is rolled upon match number two.

Prof Peeked From Window

An engineering professor confesses that several decades ago when he was still on the side of the goats, it was necessary to subject all of the students to the Jesse James treatment in order to give the pedagogues any chance to cope with them. In those days the bright boys anchored near the windows during the class hour. The day before examinations they had no fears, for they were busy writing compendiums which were glued to the front of the window frame on the outside of the building. When the examination hour arrived on the succeeding day, all of those near the windows heeded the preliminary instructions to think before writing and accordingly rested their optics on the passing birdies and the fleecy clouds outside the window in a hope that they might bring the inspiration.

Prestdigitators Excel

The shuffle sheet deceived some of the more sluggish. It was a sheet of the same size and texture as the examination sheet, and was slipped in with the allotted examination paper inadvertently. It has also passed as the small examination folder has come into popularity with the instructors.

A method which has been perfected to the nth degree came to light yesterday. At most examinations books may be brought to class but must be placed on the floor before the whistle blows. All semester fertile minds and agile feet have been hypnotizing books so that one kick of the foot will open it to the Fall of Rome on page 375 and another brings to light Napoleon's dream of a world empire on page 718.

Southpaws Watch Mahogany

Lefthanded students have the edge on the normal penmen at examination time if they possess the proper intelligence to make use of their abnormality. Instead of keeping a note book in a course, they find it more profitable to lay hold a left hand chair and jot down the high-water marks thereon. When the order is given to scatter on the day of reckoning, they take their chair with them, for a right armed chair is a useless ornament to them.

Perforations Latest Trick

Since the advent of brogues in footwear there is no limit to the number of holes which may be punched in a shoe. The more the ventilation the better the shoe. Why not get out your oldest pair of kicks, borrow "Bon Ton Bing" Stanton's ticket puncher and punch a few physics formulae on the toes. Theoretically, this method ought to net at least a "B" in the course.

ANNUAL DINNER TO BE FEB. 9

Kuehnle-Finkbine Dinner Will be Held at Hotel Jefferson

The Kuehnle-Finkbine dinner is to be held at the Jefferson hotel on Thursday evening, February 9, 1922, according to Prof. Forest C. Ensign, who has charge of making arrangements for the dinner.

This is the fifth annual dinner given by the two men: Carl F. Kuehnle '81, '82 L. and William O. Finkbine '78, '80 L. who are both very prominent alumni, and are both very interested in the University.

These gentlemen have asked Prof. Ensign, as acting secretary of the University of Iowa Association to make complete arrangements for the inviting of their guests to this annual dinner. The guests include the presidents of all the men's organizations on the campus, presidents of all the classes in the various colleges, the deans of the colleges, the president of the University, the captains of the various athletic teams, and the commander of the military department, and any other guests that the hosts may designate.

Aside from the guests mentioned above there will be prominent men who are special guests of the hosts such as Mr. Hal Ray of Chicago, who is prominent in the administration of the Rock Island railroad, Mr. Snyder Foster of Des Moines, Mr. Harvey Ingham, of Des Moines—Editor of the Register, James B. Weaver of Des Moines.

These men are all graduates of the University except Mr. Ray and Mr. Foster, and these two men are honorary members of the University of Iowa Association, and among the most loyal and enthusiastic supporters of the University. There may be other names of guests of the hosts to be announced later.

VESPER SPEAKER SAILS MONDAY

Bishop F. J. McConnell Will be Vesper Speaker February 19

Bishop Francis J. McConnell, of Pittsburg, Pa., vesper speaker for February 19, who will conduct a religious conference here in addition to his address, will sail from Yokohama, Japan where he has been a member of a mission, on Monday, January 30, and will arrive at San Francisco February 19.

One of the Best Speakers

The vesper committee secured the services of Bishop McConnell last year to speak here on his return from his mission. This will be his third visit to the University as a speaker. "We consider him to be one of the best, if not the best speaker on the vesper program for this year," stated Prof. George T. M. Patrick, head of the committee.

Bishop McConnell is one of the first of the Methodist Bishops, a position which is attained only by expert orators and men well-versed in religion and philosophy. He has been president of DePauw University, held positions of high rank in church districts in the East, and before taking the bishopric of Pennsylvania, was Bishop of Colorado. At present he is the president of the religious Educational Association of America. Among his many books on religion and philosophy the best known is "Divine Immanence".

On Friday and Saturday Bishop McConnell will give talks to student groups on the campus in the program of the second of the religious conferences, being held in connection with vespers under the auspices of the Board of Denominational Churches of the city. The first of these conferences was held in October.

LOCAL FIRMS PLEDGE $85,000 TO THE UNION

Banks of Iowa City Were First to Make Pledges

ALL FAVOR THE UNION
Student Campaign Will be Started After the Exams

The campaign in Iowa City for the Memorial Union funds shows a total of $85,000 pledged to date. Only one third of the committees made reports last week, and it is thought that quite a large amount has been pledged but not turned in. According to Ralph G. Grassfield, director of the Union, the campaign will end next week.

An analysis of the pledges to the Iowa Memorial Union, being made during this campaign in Iowa City is an interesting one if the observer has in mind the interest of individuals in the growth and development of the University.

"The support given the committee of fifty under the direction of chairman J. L. Records has been highly gratifying to every person who has taken an active part. Of course some rebuffs have been encountered and others will come, but these only serve as a spur to greater effort," said M. C. Speidel, editor of the Press Citizen. Mr. Speidel went on to say that he has received a great deal of information about the temperament of the citizen of Iowa City during his work on committees and he considers the time he is spending pleasure as well as profit.

Campaign Drawing to Close

With several hundred names of persons who could make pledges to the Iowa Memorial Union, because of the direct benefit they shall receive, the committee faced the usual difficulty of determining approximately how much each individual should be asked to pledge. Now that the campaign is drawing to a close the committee consisting of Willis Mercer, W. O. Coast, Fred Racine, and Henry Walker feel that very few mistakes have been made. As a rule those who have been asked for $100, $250, $500 and up to $3,000 have responded enthusiastically to the request.

Banks Made Large Contributions

The banks of Iowa City were among the first to put their names on the dotted line for the Iowa Memorial Union. $9,000 was pledged by the banks during the first day of the campaign. Then business houses pledging $1,000 or more were Coasts, Bremers, Yettors, Whetstones, University Book Store, A. J. Cox Deyes, Economy Advertising Co., Iowa City Light and Power Co., Northwestern Bell Telephone Co., and M. F. Patterson.

Among those who have given $500 to $1,000 are: F. E. Ayer & Co., N. G. Alcock, Emil L. Boerner, W. G. Block Co., J. H. Donohue, C. E. Dunkel, R. L. Dunlap Lumber Co., John G. Holman, Iowa Supply Co., Iowa City Electric Railway Co., Iowa City Press Citizen, W. A. Jessup, Local Union, Lillick Electric Co., Lundberg & Seidenbecker, John Ostdiek, Pagoda Tea Shop, Punch Dunkel, Fred Racine, F. L. Records, Central Hotel, G. W. and Paul G. Schmidt, J. O. Schulze, A. B. Sidwell, Salvata & Eppel, S. J. Smith & Son, J. E. Stronks, G. W. & Z. W. Stewart, Dr. & Mrs. C. Van Epps, and B. P. Wallace.

Individual Pledges

These substantial pledges are made by individuals who are Iowa City's most progressive men, and who constitute the backbone of development of a still greater city, according to the opinion of the men on the Board of Trustees of the Iowa Memorial Union. And these trustees are such men as W.O. Finkbine of the Green Bay Lumber Co., Des Moines; W. H. Bremner, president of the Minneapolis and St. Louis Railroad; John M. Grimm, attorney of Cedar Rapids, and Carl

ONE DRAWBACK

Students are glad to criticize from every possible angle the present system of examinations. They discover that they have two hour periods instead of fifty minutes, that two or three long examinations come on the same day, that the mention of "examination week" has a sinister sound, in short, they seem inclined to make it a disagreeable affair. They get the idea that everyone is worked to death, that they slave themselves until late in the morning in preparation for the finals, that the professors feel that they are forced to give the examination, and that they are unhappy victims of fate.

Taking for granted that all of these apprehensions are unfounded and childish, what are the objections to the present system of examinations? It seems, in the main, that there is only one that need carry any great weight. That objection is one which students are slow to recognize; professors do not mention it. The week of two hour final examinations tends to waste too much time. The student is not overworked, he does not do all the studying of the year within a fortnight, he does not worry himself to distraction over the severe trial of examinations; but he does waste time. Some students finish all of their examinations in two days, while others have them strung over the entire period, still others have them all on the first and last days, and there are all sorts of irregularities. The student wastes time, time that might, if properly marshalled, afford a nice vacation period.

A waste of time was discovered in Ohio State University and resulted in a reversion to the old type of examination, leaving their arrangement in the hands of the individual professor. Although there are a great many things to be said in favor of our present system, those who wish to disparage it may well lay hold on this one great weakness, the waste of time which it incurs.

ON THE OTHER SIDE

One of the amusing things about University students is the lack of information they possess about features and departments of the University outside of the field in which their interest is centered. Some students have attended the University for four years and when questioned are found to be totally ignorant of the most salient facts about the University.

Frequently students are embarrassed by not knowing the simple matters such as the enrollment of students, whether or not music may be studied as a regular part in a liberal arts course; and even some who will soon claim Iowa as an alma mater are abashed when someone asks them where the Laysan Island exhibit is located. These are only a few of the things of interest to those outside the University and they are the things which seem to be overlooked by a large number of students.

This ignorance of some students upon affairs which are of general interest to people is not as serious as it is regrettable. It seems pitiable that some students have to narrow themselves to their own course of study to the extent that they become blind to the other departments of the University and the things of interest about them. It would take but a very little extra time to become thoroughly acquainted with some of these things and it would be thoroughly worth while from the standpoint of those who judge the University by student interest and attitude.

This week a number of students are lamenting the quantity of time they have to kill between the final yesterday and the next one which by chance happens to be next Saturday afternoon. After all the moving pictures in town and the other sources of amusement have been exhausted, it might be a profitable pastime to visit some of the exhibits which have received world-wide recognition, or to learn a few of the notable facts about the University we attend.

CHEMICAL SOCIETY WILL HOLD MEETING HERE THURSDAY

The Iowa Section of the American Chemical Society will meet on Thursday in Iowa City, according to Professor L. C. Raiford, of the department of chemistry.

Mr. F. J. Washington, chief chemist of the Moline Oil Company at Moline, Illinois, will be the chief speaker of the meeting, the subject of his address being "Technology of Petroleum Products." The address will be given in the chemical laboratory, in the chemistry building at 8 p. m.

A dinner will be given at the Jefferson at 6 p. m., in honor of the visiting delegates.

All of the members of the teaching staff of the chemical department are members of the society, and there are also some graduate and senior members. According to Prof. Raiford, about 120 members from companies and institutions in the state are expected to attend the meeting.

MANY WOMEN STUDENTS ARE IN NEED OF WORK

Twelve University women have applied for work within the last week from the general secretary of the Y. W. C. A., Mrs. Waterman. Whether all these women will have to leave school on account of the lack of funds is not yet known as Mrs. Waterman has not had opportunity to talk personally with them regarding their plans.

She stated that two of the twelve applicants for positions would have to find work. "Throughout the year there have been twice as many demands for work as there have been positions open to be filled. There are now two places open for

F. Kuehne, banker and lawyer of Denison, Iowa.

It is pointed out by President Jessup of the University that the people of the State of Iowa have their eyes on Iowa City, and every move that is made for a better University and a finer University city is given due credit in every county of the State of Iowa.

The analysis of the pledges made to the Iowa Memorial Union tells a great tale of determination on the part of Iowa City citizens to give their moral and financial support to anything that will be of permanent benefit to the cause of education in Iowa City.

Campaign After Exams

Some means for collecting funds will be employed among the student body of the University after the examination period has passed, according to Ralph G. Grassfield, director of the Union. Whether this campaign will be conducted like the one that was put on last year is

"The students of the University may be assured that the alumni and the people of Iowa City are backing them in the effort to make the Union a success. The response of the Iowa alumni to the support of the Union will bear comparison with any of the other schools that are putting on a similar drive," stated Mr. Grassfield.

Although the economic conditions of the country have been in a very bad condition, it is generally expected that the students will at least pledge enough to the Union fund to make some substantial gain toward actually starting active operations toward breaking ground for the project.

At the end of ten minutes, Gibson rolled in a beauty from near the north sideline, and Dr. Fieseler promptly blew his whistle for the end of the battle. The tallying was not recorded in this "third quarter", as it was beyond the regulation time and only considered in the same light as the performance of a high jumper or pole vaulter going after a record in his event after he has already won from the rest of the field.

looks as though its hard luck would not be in evidence. Its schedule from the beginning to the end has been the shortest, having only nine games to play, and one of the easiest that any of the conference teams signed to play. It looks as though Purdue's chances to win are the most promising.

Illinois Wins Both Games

Illinois boasts a veteran team this year that has won its first two conference games from Ohio State and Michigan; two teams that are much stronger than either of the teams from which Minnesota or Purdue has won so far. But regardless of the strength and experience of its team Illinois is liable to be out of luck by the end of the season, for it has what is regarded as the hardest of the remaining schedules of any of the conference teams. It will play four hard teams, with four of the hardest teams in the conference during the second week in February, Chicago, Purdue, Wisconsin, and Minnesota. Any team that can win from these four teams in the length of one week should be entitled to conference championship honors without any argument whatsoever. But more games follow with the best of the conference teams. They are as follows: Minnesota, Ohio State, Michigan, Wisconsin, Chicago, and Purdue. Michigan and Wisconsin to be played during the same week. Thus we see that to win the championship title Illinois must go through what is one of the most difficult schedules that any conference team will go through this year.

Wisconsin, No Champion

A beating by the much less experienced Minnesota team makes Wisconsin look less of championship caliber, even though it has won three and lost but one game so far this season. It is a question whether Illinois, Minnesota, or Wisconsin has the better team of the two. Wisconsin and Illinois have veteran teams while Minnesota is a green one. But schedules have a great deal to do with winning championships, and Wisconsin has a number of difficult games upon its remaining schedule. The games to be played are: Northwestern, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Illinois, Minnesota, and two games with Chicago during the last week of competition. Illinois has been a strong early season team, in past years, that was usually beaten by Chicago or Ohio State. Chicago will no doubt turn the trick again this year, as in all probability will Minnesota.

Chicago Has Possibilities

The Chicago team is a team with possibilities, having won two games and lost one up to date. But it has such a difficult remaining schedule that it can hardly be regarded as a close contender for the title. It would be a surprise to sports followers if Chicago should break even in the number of games won and lost. The following games are yet to be played: Minnesota, Illinois, Iowa, Purdue, Ohio State, Minnesota, Illinois, and two games with Wisconsin during the last week.

Ohio May Break Even

Ohio State does not seem to be a team of the high calibre of Purdue, Illinois, or Wisconsin, but it does have a remaining schedule that shows promising possibilities to more than break even. The following games are left on Ohio State's schedule: Michigan, Iowa, Illinois, Chicago, Northwestern, Indian, Northwestern at Ohio, and Iowa at Iowa.

Indiana, Michigan, Iowa, and Northwestern, the teams that stand at the bottom of the conference rating at the present time, do not seem to have championship possibilities because of the difficulty of their remaining schedules, and because of the fact that their teams have not proved themselves as the best. If any of these teams win the remainder of their games or all but one of the remaining games which they have to play, they will then in all probability be in line with the championship. But such a string of successive victories seems doubtful.

After reviewing the situation from both the standpoints of games played, and possibilities of the remaining schedules, of the various conference teams, it looks as though Purdue will win the championship, if luck is not against it. For its schedule is so short and so easy that it will have less difficulty in winning all of its remaining than other conference teams. Furthermore the Boilermaker five is a good team.

SOCIETY

IT'S ALL OVER NOW

"For every hour of sorrow there shall be one of joy," we are told by an ancient philosopher. But he forgot to add "And it shall begin Thursday."

After the past hectic week, when the jovial smile was unknown and the effervescent greeting an all but deleted memory, the University students will be turned loose in all their glory from Thursday evening thenceforward.

Of course on Thursday evening will be all the private parties, the kind that aren't published, but none-the-less worthy of publication. In other words, Thursday evening will be relaxation night, and will be celebrated "each to his own kind."

But Friday and Saturday bear the slogan, "On with the dance, let joy be unconfined" and few be the halls or corners of the city that will not reverberate with the clanging cow-bells, fluttering flutes and the festive ocarina, while the care-free studes and their partners-de-danse shuffle meaninglessly to and fro.

Just a few of the Greek gaities to be "thrown" this week follow: Sigma Phi Epsilon, Friday; Phi Kappa, Friday; Nu Sigma Nu, Saturday; Sigma Pi, Saturday; and Sigma Nu, Saturday. Besides these 'parties' we will have with us as usual Varsity and Cotillion, and innumerable church parties and literary societies' celebrations.

Everybody will be going somewhere—one only needs a Baedeker to know where to go. But have courage—keep a level head and if you are lost in the maddened throng of merrymakers, merely fight your way frantically to a traffic cop or a special policeman and he will hear your plea and thrust you into the nearest "palace of jazz," for Chicago, in all its glory will not be arrayed like this weekend at Iowa City.

Schafer, patroness of Alpha Chi Omega sorority, entertained eight of the members at luncheon at the Pagoda Tea Shop Tuesday, January 24 in honor of Pauline Pickard '20 of Indianola, who will receive her master of arts degree this semester. THE CHARIOT RACE

Six great chariots, each drawn by four horses, plunging madly around the arena—a crash—a smash—an axle breaks—a chariot overturns—the driver thrown to the ground—then right over the driver, and the wreckage of the chariot, four horses and another chariot plunge madly on to victory.

This is the world's greatest and most thrilling film episode shown upon the screen—the plunging horses seem to come head-on to the audience. It is one of the big, vital punches of the world's greatest motion picture.
