INDIVIDUALITY MARKS CONCERT

Solos and Trios Form Part of Program Feb. 8—Costumes to be Different

Choruses from famous operas, melody songs, stunt numbers, some solos and trios are all in the repertoire of the women's glee club. The women have been practicing for several weeks upon this concert which will be presented in the University auditorium, Thursday, February 8.

Besides showing an interesting variety in the program, the club will show how a musical concert may be made novel and entertaining, according to Prof. Walter Leon, director of the club.

Different Costumes

Even the costumes of the women in the club are to be different from those worn in previous concerts.

When asked about the stunt numbers nothing very definite could be learned. However, Professor Leon remarked that one number was an oriental jazzy piece, interpreting the story of the desert, in which several members take part.

Separate Numbers

Beside the six chorus numbers there will be a solo by Grace Redfield A4 of Mason City. A trio number will be performed by Florence Kings A3 of Sanborn, Lorna Schupert A3 of Iowa City, and Alice Ingham A3 of Iowa City.

Miss Beatrice Gates A3 of Pierre S. Dak., and Martha Althaus A3 of Muscatine will sing a duet.

SEASHORE BELIEVES BRAINS OLD FASHIONED

Human brains are old fashioned in the estimation of Dr. Carl E. Seashore, dean of the graduate college at the University of Iowa, who has returned to Washington, D. C., where he is on leave of absence this year as chairman of the bureau of psychology and anthropology of the National Research Council, after a visit on the University campus.

"The human brain was not made to stand the strain of the intense mental work of today," declared Dean Seashore, who is a great believer in proper relaxation and rest. "Excessive brain work causes degeneration. From shirt sleeves to short sleeves in three generations is true. This would not be true if proper rest and relaxation were taken. School men and women are the most ignorant sinners in this respect."

Dr. Seashore places a great deal of emphasis upon the choice of occupation of boys and girls and young men and women. Foul air, insufficient pay to provide sufficient food and clothing, lack of exercise and recreation, lack of sleep, and eye strain are named by Dean Seashore as evils which should be avoided.

"The human eye these days is put to a use it was never intended for and does not stand. Results are poor eyesight and a host of bodily and mental ailments. Risk of eye strain should be carefully considered even for such a laudable purpose as a college education," Dr. Seashore declared.

Beneficial observance of the Sabbath is suggested by Dr. Seashore as a healthful possibility often overlooked. "I do not wish to be understood as decrying the traditional form of Sabbath observance," he says, "but brain workers will profit by exercise and laborers need rest of another sort."

ERICKSON WRITES FOR HISTORICAL OUTLOOK

"The League of Nations at work" is the subject of an article which appears in the January issue of "The Historical Outlook," by E. M. Erickson, Fellow in History at the University of Iowa.

The Historical Outlook is a magazine for teachers of history dealing with some of the problems of a history teacher and with some of the modern aspects of history.

IOWA CHEMISTS MEET AT UNIVERSITY TODAY

The Iowa section of the American chemical society is meeting in Iowa City today at the University of Iowa. The principal event on the program is an address this evening by F. J. Washington of the Moline Oil Company on "Technology of Petroleum Products". Visiting delegates will be entertained at dinner this evening at the Jefferson hotel.

EXCUSES ARE MANY AND ODD

150 Persons Were Out of Town and Could not Receive Registration Materials

514 students of the college of liberal arts and the graduate college gave varied excuses at the registrar's office for their failure to call for their registration materials on the date set. The veracity of the students is never questioned, but the following is the record of the excuses given to the registrar for failure to call for registration materials on Saturday, January 14.

- 105 out of town.
- 41 ill.
- 38 forgot.
- 183 did not read the Iowan or look at the bulletin boards.
- 41 worked all day.
- 2 went to class all day.
- 30 did not have time.
- 14 did not get there in time.
- 11 did not want to bother to go down.
- 26 lost their materials after they got them.
- 12 oversight.
- 11 did not know they were coming back.

"We required the students to give excuses merely because we wanted to remedy conditions," said Charles H. Maruth, assistant registrar, "but I am afraid we will have to stop all trains and call out all the student health officers next time."

FROSH HAVE REASON FOR WILD DASH TO THE PATERNAL ROOF

There seems to be a new agitation on the campus. Freshmen, myriads of them, bags in hand, are seen running from the nightmare of the last final examination and crawling onto the train that rushes them home. And, besides the sweet young things that make their weekly flights to weep on mother's shoulder, may be seen new faces in the exodus—girls to whom home is "terribly slow" compared to the excitement here, almost full-grown freshmen men who are happy wherever they hang their hats, as long as Dad's check follows the hats.

Why, then all this sudden desire to see the family? If they flunk, there are about six thousand sympathetic shoulders within walking distance. And if some unforeseen inspiration leads them through, surely there are enough here in the same streak of luck to help them celebrate.

The fact is, our innocent little freshman is not running home to see mother or father or any of the rest of the family. He is on the trail of one man and his future well-being depends on his finding him. The pursued gentleman happens to be the village postman, and freshman must meet him on the paternal walk and relieve him of a certain letter before it reaches the mail box.

And now to the point. The rules of the University are the cause of this early departure from virtue, for they state that within three days after the finals the grades of all freshmen must be sent to their respective homes. That is why freshman's dormant upper story, immune to the terrors of finals, has suddenly shown signs of habitation and sent him home to pace, pale and bleary-eyed, from the parlor window to the front door, murmuring, "they shall not get those grades."

VARSITY SCORES EASILY ON FROSH

Devine and Shimek Sink Long Throws Against Defense

In a peppy scrimmage last night the varsity defeated the freshmen team by a score of 14 to 6. Neither team exhibited startling teamwork, but the defense of the freshmen was rather loose and the varsity was able to make six baskets. Nearly all of these baskets, however, were made on long shots, Devine making three, and Shimek sinking two.

The freshmen used Purdue's offense, but they did not have the plays down well enough to give the varsity a hard battle. They have only been using these plays for a few nights and are not yet proficient in their execution of them. Even then, they had a number of shots that they failed to make, and there were a number of occasions when a freshman took the ball down the floor without a varsity player being near him. Hicks, at standing guard, often had to stop two men, and he did a good job of it. The play last night does not make things look brighter for the varsity when they meet Purdue next Saturday, unless they tighten-up on their defense.

The loose man offense that is characteristic of Purdue's game seems to mix-up the Iowa players. Purdue, also, has a very fast team and Iowa must meet this speed with a team just as fast, or with a tight defense. With one more night left in which to work against the offense of their next opponents, the varsity may develop their defense enough to cause a lot of trouble at Purdue next Saturday.

SORORITY FIRES ARE BECOMING ALMOST TOO COMMON NOW

"A fire-wagon at hand is worth two in the fire station" must be the philosophy of the Delta Gammas. At least it seems that way from the scare at the "House of the Anchor" on Sunday evening.

Just whether or not there was actually a fire, no one seems to know definitely, but there are many who have their ideas about it. This opens up a new point in the matter of etiquette in sorority house fires that evidently hasn't entered into the question since the Kappas originated the custom and the Tri-Deltas made it fashionable. To call the fire department at the first warning or to let it burn until bigger and better than any preceding sorority fire—that is the question!

Well, what would you do yourself, if one of the sisters come dashing madly in the house at the exciting hour of 6:15 p. m. with the announcement, "Girls! O, Gur-ells! It's come! It's come! The house is on fire!"

Would you yawn gracefully (just as though you were in the habit of having the house on fire for the entertainment of the A. T. O.'s every week or so) and calmly say, "Well, let it burn. If it's really on fire, the boys across the street'll know it. Let them put it out." Or would you be wildly excited and in a moment of forgetfulness tear in to the phone and call out the entire force (all two of them)?

Would you be so happy that you'd clap your hands in glee and shout "It's our turn at last. We're up with them. Hooray!" and just let the place burn.

And yet perhaps you would be far-seeing and realize a fire at 6:15 in the evening doesn't hold a candle with one about five or six hours later, and so you would wring your hands in despair and mutter "O, why couldn't it have waited? Why did it have to happen now?"

But did the Delta Gammas do any of these Sunday evening? No, they did not. When the first warning came, they all fled out to look at the conflagration, only to find that the chimney was shooting sparks heavenward and not a sign of fire anywhere else in sight.

Disappointed, but not to be

ART STUDENTS LAY PLANS FOR APRIL FOLLIES

Third Annual Costume Ball to be Viewed by Public

The faculty of the art department has set April 29 the date for the Third Annual April follies. This is a fancy costume ball given every year for all students of the art department.

The ball was held at the women's gymnasium last year. "We hope to have it some place this year, where the public can see the costumes," said George L. Stout, instructor in the art department.

No committees have been appointed yet.

DIANAS DEFY RIFLE LICENSE

Six a Week Shoot Bunnies and Scenery—Two Licensed

"If University women hunt, they do it without a license," stated the Johnson county auditor, Ed. Sulek, in answer to the query about the number of women to whom he had issued non-resident licenses. "I only know of one or two women students in the University who have taken out licenses to hunt this year," he declared.

From rumors on the campus, the state game laws in this respect have been constantly broken this year. Every week, half a dozen co-eds, togged in corduroys and boots as high as an engineer's, venture forth, clutching shiny rifles. Before they reach the city limits they anxiously peer into every brush heap, and dump, but after an hour or so of this, and not a sign of the white powder-puff tail of a bunny on the jump to some safer place, trees, stumps, and tin cans catch most of the bullets.

"We hit everything we shot at" is the usual report of the Modern Dianas as they straggle in, tired, cold and with empty game bags. Occasionally, however, a fried rabbit, carefully disguised as chicken for the benefit of those who "would rather eat cat," graces the sorority house table. The sisters who discover the ruse shower the lucky provider with congratulations.

Then comes the inevitable question. "But weren't you sorry for the poor little rabbit?" Maybe she was, but probably she wouldn't admit it, because she has established her reputation as an expert marks-woman.

FRESHMEN SPRING A NUMBER OF SURPRISES AT SEMESTER EXAMS

The freshmen are experiencing their first semester examinations this week. Every query put to them taps another geyser. Consider the following questions and answers from a history examination:

Q. Is it true that Sara Toga and Ty Konderoga are distant relatives?
A. The rumor is a fallacy. Sarah is a daughter of Erin while "Ty's" ancestors claimed Bulgaria as their home.

Q. When did the war of 1812 take place?
A. Authorities differ. It has not been definitely and finally settled and will again be up for argument at the next meeting of the League of Nations.

Q. Did Pisa discover anything in addition to the leaning Tower?
If not, why not?

A. It is now quite generally conceded that he discovered the Suez Canal.

Here are a few gems from English.

Q. Name some of the magazines of value for a course in Freshman English.

A. The most desirable ones for such a course would be the Police Gazette, Successful Farming, Whiz

Y. W. C. A. WILL ENTERTAIN INACTIVE MEMBERS AT TEA WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON

The Executive council of the Y. W. C. A. will be hostesses to all of the members of the association Wednesday, February 1, in the liberal arts drawing room at 4 o'clock. According to Inez Pillars A3 of Iowa City, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the tea, all of the seven hundred members are expected. The council is doing this in order to make the acquaintance especially of members who are not engaged in active committee work in Y. W. C. A.

MOST STUDENTS ARE REGISTERED

Probably 150 New Persons Will Enter University Second Semester

"Register today, for tomorrow you pay," is the motto of the students registering this semester. Last evening practically all of the students in the college of liberal arts and the graduate college who had not received deferred registration permits had completed their registration, according to Charles H. Maruth, assistant registrar. "However, this is theoretically speaking," said Mr. Maruth. "There are a number who have had to pay late registration fees and a number who will have to."

"The time surely does go fast," said one student who postponed his registration until he could get "rested up" after his exams. The fee is two dollars for the first day and a dollar a day for every additional day.

Students who have "perfectly good" excuses for not registering on time are told at the registrar's office to pay the fees and then make out a petition for the refunding of the late registration fees with their "good excuse" as the basis. A great many students have recovered their fees in this way according to Mr. Maruth.

The time for students entering the University this semester to register is the period beginning today and lasting until February 1. Judging from the number of students coming in previous years at the beginning of the second semester and the conditions of this year, Mr. Maruth makes the approximate estimate of new students about 150.

IS YOUR LOT HARD THIS WEEK? CONSIDER THE IOWAN STAFF

You think your lot is a hard one during examination week. When your dreariest moment of the week comes and you lose sight of "The Light in the Clearing", give a little thought to the editors, publishers, reporters etcetera on the Daily Iowan staff. The ordinary student is at least free of the weekly routine. He has not a lecture to worry about for eight days, every note book is at last turned in, all of the laboratory experiments which were piled up during the fall were cleaned up last week and there are no three hundred pages of outside reading to be done over at the library this week.

But not so with those who have elected to get their hard-earned hours by working on the Daily Iowan. After surviving from two to six hours of hounding in the examination room instead of seeking solace from all of their ills at Racine's one, or two or three, or taking it out on the candy vender at the Y. W. C. A., they cannot still the voice of conscience and the cry of duty which forces them to the Daily Iowan office, to be sent out after stories.

The editors have nothing to work on, for nothing happens during examination week except a lot of flunking, and the registrar's office will not be able to announce its list of flunkers until next week. So they work on the reporters. The reporters can find nothing which even remotely resembles news so they do the same kind of stuff this one did.

MISS POTEGER ELECTED NEW HEALTH NURSE

Sent by Extension Division to Inspect Children Who Leave Perkins' Hospital

Miss Sophia Poteger of Washington, Iowa, has been appointed the new public health nurse in the Extension Division of the University and will take up her duties at once. Miss Poteger has been acting in the capacity of school nurse with the public schools at Washington and as a community welfare worker there. She is to take charge of the work which has been done by Miss Lola G. Yerkes who recently resigned her position.

Inspects Home Patients

Her duties will relate especially to cases after their discharge from the Children's Hospital of the University. She is charged with seeing that patients treated under the provisions of the Perkins Law are well and properly cared for at home after they have left the hospital and that their cases progress suitably under home management. This is especially necessary in the treatment of orthopedic cases where crippled limbs are placed in casts for a time and are then released with new capabilities and new shapes.

Travelling Nurse

The duties of Miss Poteger will take her to every county in the state of Iowa. This service of the extension division assures all children who are treated under the provision of the Perkins Law of expert attention even after they are no longer patients at the Children's Hospital.

DATE OF DAD'S DAY POSTPONED

Details Being Arranged While Plans for Diamond Jubilee Progress

The date for the celebration of the first "Dad's Day" at the University of Iowa has been deferred for several days according to information given out at the President's office yesterday afternoon. President Walter A. Jessup is at present awaiting a reply from a speaker who has been asked to speak at the Diamond Celebration of the foundation of the University.

Other details for the program on that day are being arranged and no further plans will be made for the celebration on "Dad's Day", which will probably be held on a Friday late in February until the plans for the seventy-five year celebration are completed.

IOWA TRACK MEN ARE IN GOOD CONDITION

Iowa track men are showing excellent early season form if compared to the amount of progress made with the same amount of training in previous seasons. The thorough training that Coach George T. Bresnahan gave to the men last year is beginning to show results. Nearly all of the men seem to be in fairly good physical condition. This is a significant fact, especially when it is recalled that they have been in training for only a few weeks. Practice is being held in the basement of the men's gymnasium upon the small cinder track there, until the new dirt track is finished in the armory.

This year's indoor track squad is much larger than those of any of the last three years. There are a number of candidates out for the dashes, and the middle distances, and without doubt competition will be keen in that section of the events. But material is less plentiful in the distances and in the field events.

The men are now taking strenuous training each night. The amount of practice laps to be taken by the middle distance and dash men is being gradually increased.

CHALKING THE WINNER

All of the world loves a winner—but what is a "winner?" Does the heavier side of the score always have to rest with our own team to declare it the winner? A student who cheats in an examination "wins" over the professor. A basketball team which resorts to foul tactics often beats its opponents. Does a student who resists temptation to crib and flunks, lose anything? Rather, does he not win something?

Coach Jones' men were warned to play cleanly at any cost, under penalty of instant removal from the game. Fortune gave Iowa a Western championship. If we had lost all our games, would we have lost anything? Didn't the men who played cleanly win more than their games?

College sports are not primarily for swelling our percentages in the newspaper sports sheets. The so-called championships of the conference are not the offspring of the University authorities who sanction the games, but are creations of the news-hungry periodicals.

We hear many croaks about the campus deploring the lack of victories of our basketball team. Let us consider this last-mentioned phase. Of course, we like to win. But we have not lost all, because victory in terms of more baskets does not rest with our team. The glorious spirit of clean competition, of wholesome exercise, of athletic fellowship, is remembered by the old grads who wear the "I" long after the won and lost column has faded into the reservoir of the forgotten.

UNIVERSITY FLAPPERS

"There is no doubt that the flapper has started a new note in stage literature, for the type has reached the variety of condition of development," declares a criticism on the comedy, "Thank-U" running in New York now. It states that this play contains the "rustic flapper" and the "flip-flapper", but no mention is made of the "University flapper". Surely the "university flapper" is more interesting than either of the other two and it is a pity that some embryo playwright here doesn't write a play about her and let her line up with her other "flapper" sisters.

The rustic type in "Thank-U" is defined as "the pretty country girl who has been forced to adopt the tricks and fads of the city 'tom-boy' in order to compete with her for the favors of the city chap who visits in the country"; and the "flip-flapper" type as "the stage spinster now revealed as very attractive in looks, but also showing a result of reading the yellow fashion journals and keeping her mania for scandal."

The "university flapper," being more complex, is harder to define. She might be called "the ultra-modern fashion model of the University, bounded on the north by the sorority house, on the south by father's cash, on the east by an overflowing date book (a different species than a note book), and on the west by a liberal education in the art of "looking classy". Unlike the "rustic flapper" she doesn't borrow anyone else's tricks for bringing the haughty Romeo to the ground. She has enough up her own sleeve to run a vaudeville act; and, anyway, he is already there. Unlike the "flip flapper", she has no time for yellow journals (any kind of reading bores her) and she leaves the gossip part to her less occupied sisters. But, to give her credit, she manages to make most of her classes at the appointed time each day, and, when forced to display the facts she has absorbed, she shows a wonderful amount of cleverness in her campaign to 'get by' the professor. Our University Flapper is pretty enough and strange enough and, at rare intervals, clever enough, to head the list of the new class of "modern characters", and she deserves to be the heroine of a play.

BEING BUSY

The man who is busiest seems to get his work done more efficiently than he who has lots of time in which to do it.

Look to the presidents of great corporations in the business world, or to the men who stand high in the legal and medical professions. They are the men who are most sought after and they are the men who are hardest to get.

Consider the people who stand out most prominently on the campus. Are they not the ones who are accomplishing the greatest amount of work both in the class room and in campus organizations?

But not every student who is under the impression that he is working hard and has no time to spend is really working. Very often his time is merely badly arranged. By condensing and rearranging, many students have learned how they can do more work, and at the same time have more leisure. That is real efficiency, and the man who can do this will be one of the real leaders in the future. — University Daily Kansan.

indirect heat. That is, in the basement of the building are large fans which take fresh air out from the doors and force this air through heating coils and through heating ducts into the auditorium. Every effort has been made to properly care for the heating of this room but on account of the height of the room it often happens that when the temperature is proper for the lower floor, it is often very much warmer in the balcony, and especially is this more noticeable when the room is well filled with people.

The idea of the designer of the heating system was not to provide any extra ventilation through the windows, but this last fall we arranged the windows in the balcony so that they could be opened to provide extra ventilation but when the windows are open many times strong drafts make it impossible to keep the windows open. The fans can, of course, be run without the heating coils and this is done after the audience is in the building, but there are times after we exercise all of our care, that the heating conditions are not agree-

To Prospective Pre-Dental and pre-Medical Students:

Any student on the campus who, while hitherto not intending to study dentistry or medicine, may now wish to begin his preparation for admission to either the college of dentistry or the college of medicine, and who finds it necessary to begin now the study of biology or zoology required for admission to either of these two colleges; is requested to see the undersigned as soon as possible in the afternoon.

H. C. Dorcas, registrar.

Lutheran students will hold an informal reception for Mrs. Carl P. Harry, national secretary for students religious work, at the church parlors Friday, January 27 between 7 and 9 o'clock.

Candidates for degrees are requested to assemble at 9:45 a. m.
Tuesday, January 31, on the ground floor of the natural science hall. Caps and gowns will be worn.
Prof. Jacob Van der Zee, member of the convocation committee, will give the candidates instructions as to seats and procedure.

SORORITY FIRES ARE BECOMING TOO COMMON

thwarted so soon, they called the fire department to see if there might not be a fire hiding around somewhere they hadn't looked. But all in vain. The wagon came clanging up to the house, the firemen jumped out, ran up to the attic, sniffed a little and grunted, "Humph where's the fire?"

In the meantime, a crowd had gathered on the street, not wildly anxious as they might have been, had the hour been closer to midnight, but curious nevertheless. All were doomed to disappointment for with a shrug of their shoulder, the firemen picked up their axes and chemicals, and adjourned.
