STAR GOPHER TANK MEN SWIM HERE SATURDAY

Minnesota Swimmers Win
From Y. M. C. A. Team
43 to 25

ADMISSION BY TICKET
"I" Books Not Good Because of Small Place for Spectators

Fresh from a 43 to 25 victory over the Minneapolis Y. M. C. A. swimming team, Minnesota's aquatic artists will come to Iowa City Saturday to clash with the Old Gold paddlers in the men's pool. It will be the opening meet of the conference swimming season and will attract considerable attention throughout the Big Ten.

Break Several Records

In defeating the mill city's Y. M. C. A. team last Saturday, the Gophers proved that they have retained the ability which last year enabled them to take second place in the conference meet. Not only did Minnesota defeat the Y. M. C. aquatic stars, but it also broke four northwest swimming records and one world's record. Faricy, a sophomore, who since the beginning of the season has been touted as a possible record breaker, lived up to expectations and smashed the world's record in the 100 yard breast stroke, by swimming the event in 1:10 2-5 and thus lowering the former record by two fifths of a second. This of course also broke the northwest record. The other three northwest records to be broken by the Gopher aggregation were Lempher's time of 2:37 2-5 in the 220 yard breast stroke, Day's time of 1:12 2-5 in the 100 yard back stroke, and the relay team's record of 1:20 2-5 in the 160 yard relay. Northwest records are records which are made in a semi-league of the St. Paul and Minneapolis Y. M. C. A.'s and the University of Minnesota.

Final Workout Yesterday

The final competitive workout for Iowa's swimmers was held last night when the varsity clashed with the freshmen in the third frosh-varsity meet of the year. The affair took the form of a final conditioner and pace setter for the swimmers, and from now on they will take their training period somewhat easier, and devote their attention to the fine points of the game.

"I" Books Not Good

Because of the fact that the pool room will accommodate only 400 spectators, "I" book holders will not be admitted. Admission will be by special ticket purchasable at Whetstone's, the gymnasium or from members of the swimming team. On account of the great interest shown in swimming at other schools, and the noticeable advancement by Iowa paddlers in the last few years, it is hoped that a good crowd will turn out for the meet. The meet will start at 7:30 p. m.

ALUMNI AFTER HOTEL ROOMS

Nearly fifty rooms have already been reserved for homecoming next year at the Hotel Jefferson, according to a statement made yesterday. More requests for reservations from loyal alumni and friends of the University are being received by Mr. Gosselin, but he has decided to make no more reservations until September, when it is hoped that the new addition to the hotel will be ready for occupancy.

Attorney Keith Hamel '19 of Newton was the first alumnus to secure a room.

FEBRUARY AND MARCH TO BE BUSY MONTHS FOR IOWA ATHLETES

With thirty athletic contests scheduled for the next two months and others being arranged for, Iowa athletes will compete in all branches of winter sport. The contests include Big Ten competition in basketball, wrestling, indoor track, swimming, gymnastics, and rifle shooting. Iowa sport followers will have the opportunity of witnessing one and two contests a week until spring sports begin with track and baseball.

Iowa swimmers meet Minnesota February 4 in a dual meet at the men's gymnasium. Minnesota boasts one of the strongest swimming teams in the conference and will furnish real competition for the Iowa team which is developing

SQUAD RESUMES WORK AFTER A TWO DAY REST

By Francis J. Weber

After a two day rest the basketball squad will start work again tonight in preparation for the two games next week. Coach James Ashmore has recovered from his spell of sickness and indicated last night that he would send the varsity through a hard series of workouts to overcome some of the faults which caused Iowa to lose the game last Saturday.

Men Come Through

All of the basketball men seem to have escaped the dangers of the past week, and should be in shape with the short rest which they have had, to go through the remainder of the season at top speed.

Chicago Weak

Chicago, Iowa's opponent on February 11, has had poor success with a team that is composed of a number of veterans. Their standing is better than that of Iowa since they have won two out of four games which they have played. Early in the season they beat Ohio State, but lost the next game to Michigan, a team that had been defeated by the Ohio State five.

Playing Northwestern, the weak sister of the conference basketball teams, they won out by the narrow margin of one point. Their next game was with Minnesota at Minneapolis. Arriving in Minneapolis

PLUCKING IS OVER; STUDENTS PULL OUT

The plucking is over. The last of the army of students who leave for various reasons at the end of the first semester, have faded out. Like the army of Arabs they depart silently, unknown and unheeded. When they reach home bad eyes, poor water, and even symptoms of tuberculosis will be put out for the gullible friends to swallow.

The Ironies of Life

Tales of cheating, rumors of double crossing, luck, pull and every other medium that might be brought into use to pass exams is discussed. One story is about a freshman law who worked the hardest of any man in the law college. He told a fraternity brother of his who was also taking law, but lacked the studious tendencies, all that he knew about the subject of "property". They stayed up until four o'clock in the morning until the tea-hound brother had grasped every bit of the other man's knowledge. Then when the examination grades were announced, the hard working brother had been "plucked" but the other had passed. The ironies of life.

The Last Lap Begins

No group of people ever waited under higher tension than did the student body await the instructors' verdicts. Here and there a tank broke the monotony. Those who passed their work and remain in the University accepted congratulations and started on their semester's work. The last lap has been started.

MECCA PLAY IS CHOSEN; TO PICK CAST THURSDAY

Music, dancing, roller skating, tragedy, comedy, in fact nearly all of the talents of the engineers will be presented upon the stage in their latest Mecca week play which will be given some time in March. The successful play was chosen Monday evening by the committee, and work on it will start as soon as the cast is selected Thursday night. The writing of the play this year cannot be attributed to one man alone, although Lloyd E. Anderson S3 of Madrid and John S. Holbrook S3 of Onawa are responsible for the majority of it. Raymond E. Ebert S3 of Iowa City, Howard Coe S4 of Tama, and Thomas L. Herrick S3 of Fredricksburg are the other men who added to the play.

Men Out For Chorus

Already the art of terpsichore is being practiced diligently by the men to enable them to make places in the noted engineers' chorus as the University women have refused to study engineering any more. The musicians are tuning up their saxophones, pianos, mouth organs and ocarinas to give the right touch to the artistic side of the production.

Not Named Yet

While no official name has been given to the production it is a summation of engineering from alpha to omega, speaking in strictly engineering terms. The production, if carried out as the authors wish, promises to be one of the best given in the last few years and with the return of the chorus fresh from the land of Mecca it is sure to be a success.

Lloyd E. Anderson will have charge of the dramatic part of the play, John S. Holbrook and Howard Coe will have charge of the music and dancing while Raymond E. Ebert will be general manager. Thomas L. Herrick will have charge of the properties.

ACCEPT MATCH WITH BADGERS

Seventh Corps Area Match
Also Being Shot
This Week

The challenge to a rifle match from the University of Wisconsin has been accepted and the Iowa R. O. T. C. rifle team has begun shooting the prone position according to Warrant Officer James J. Gibney, individual instructor in rifle practice.

Shoot Championship This Week

The championship match of the Seventh Corps Area also starts this week and lasts through the entire month of February. All four positions, prone, sitting, kneeling and standing, will be shot and when each team has completed its entire string, the targets will be sent to the officer in charge of R. O. T. C. affairs at Fort Crook, Nebraska. No results will be announced until after all the institutions entered in the competition have completed their firing in this match and sent in their targets.

Men Personally Instructed

Warrant Officer Gibney gives personal instruction to every member of the team, and is stressing the kneeling and standing positions this week. The scores of the Iowa team will probably be lowest in these positions primarily because they are the most difficult positions for any marksman and secondarily because in the two matches with Minnesota and Kansas Aggies, only the prone and sitting positions have been used. Warrant Officer Gibney is in position to know the qualifications of every man on the squad, and feels confident that a little more practice in the kneeling and standing positions will result in some high scores being made.

EXERCISES BREAK ALL PREVIOUS MID-YEAR CONVOCATION RECORDS

SPIRIT LEADS, SAYS WADE IN ADDRESS

"But The Spirit Giveth Life" is Subject of Address

OBEDIENCE NECESSARY

Tells How Truly Perfect and Happy Life May be Attained

Obedience to the guidance of the spirit as a means of attaining the truly perfect and happy life was the keynote of the address by the Honorable Martin J. Wade, a graduate of the University, at the convocation exercises in natural science auditorium yesterday morning.

Portrays Spirit of America

The subject of the address was "But the spirit giveth life." In opening, Judge Wade portrayed the spirit of America as evidenced most prominently in times of war. He pointed out how that spirit had manifested itself in the early days of the revolution when independence was the goal toward which the country was striving, then how the spirit had carried the nation through the trials and hardships of the civil war, and more recently how that spirit had responded to the need of meeting the crisis of the late world war. The extent of nationwide spirit, he said, was dependent upon the spirit of individuals in maintaining it. He also said that the spirit of the individual is not so important as the way of attaining that spirit.

Must Obey Authority

Obedience to authority and the recognition of it are necessary if the individual is to possess that spirit which is to guide and lead him. School doors opening wide and church spires extending heavenward are offering intellectual and spiritual guidance to the individual who will take advantage of their opportunities. Spirit is the leader of all things, he continued, placing great emphasis on the spirit of humility, which Judge Wade in part as consideration for others, realization of their rights and thoughts for their interests.

Gives Three Examples

The speaker then painted vivid pictures of Washington, Lincoln, and Foch as true examples of the spirit of devotion to a cause, and virile exemplification of that spirit in word and deed. Each was shown in prayer at the time of a great crisis, and each was surrounded by a spirit of devotion, hope and trust in divine aid for their cause.

Judge Wade concluded with the words, "There is so much bad in the best of us, and so much good in the worst of us, that it behooves the best of us to point a finger of scorn at the worst of us."

KENYON ACCEPTS NOMINATION FOR JUDGE

Senator W. S. Kenyon of Fort Dodge, a graduate of the college of law of the University, yesterday accepted the nomination for the position of federal judge of the eighth circuit which was tendered to him by President Warren G. Harding recently. The senate, after receiving the nomination, confirmed it at open meeting. Senator Kenyon will take the place of the late Judge Walter S. Smith, who died last Friday at his home in Council Bluffs.

WEATHER REPORT

Weather for Iowa—Unsettled and colder. Probable snow flurries in the western part of the state.

VETERAN OF MANY CONVOCATIONS FINDS AUDIENCE INTERESTING

Audiences at the University convocations must be an interesting study to the veteran of many convocations. Each succeeding one finds an audience composed of many people who have never attended a University convocation before and as many others who frequent the auditorium from mere force of habit. The midyear convocation held yesterday was no exception.

Talk of Many Things

As the programs were passed out the assembling students speculated regarding the grades received on examination papers during the morning and passed rapidly on to the enumeration of those who were graduating this morning whom they knew, and then drifted easily into a dissertation regarding the far distant convocation when they would get "theirs".

Seniors who appeared ill at ease and as though treading on foreign territory were strongly in evidence. Apparently they had never been fortunate enough to force an entrance at former convocations and came with the hope of getting a little information for next June's convocation.

Frosh Wanted Good Seats

A section had been reserved for those who were to receive degrees and commissions. Although roped off with bunting, "frosh" were led to believe that the front seats had been overlooked and attempted to do the high hurdles to acquire the select seats.

As Judge Martin J. Wade arose to speak, the buzz of many voices was hushed and a group of noisy sophomores ceased for a few minutes to theorize regarding the merits of the north door as against those of the south door as an avenue of escape after it was all over.

As the cadet officers arose at the command of Colonel Morton C. Mumma, audible sighs escaped many of the University coeds. Future infantry drill regulators hotly argued the legality of saluting without coming to a full halt, which they maintained many of the officers failed to do as they received their commissions. The salutes were pronounced a little ragged.

A Few Sleep

A casual survey of the audience revealed few asleep; owing to the early hour of the day this source of gratification is not so perplexing. One or two succumbed before the benediction was pronounced. They could no longer resist the gentle evanescence which sleep held out to them.

One couple could apparently gain no satisfaction with so many on-lookers and so retired to the adjacent invertebrate library. The surprising fact is that no injuries were reported yesterday in the mad rush for the doors after the convocation was over.

SPEAKER NOT YET CHOSEN

The speaker who will deliver the principal address on February 25 has not yet been selected, according to an announcement made last evening by Prof. Forest C. Ensign. Telegrams have been sent for the past three days to some of the most well known men in the country, but so far no one has been selected. The speaker will probably be announced during the next few days it is believed.

BALDWIN SPEAKS AT AMES

Dr. Bird T. Baldwin, of the Child Welfare Research Station, spoke before attendants at the country life conference week at Ames yesterday afternoon. His topic was the work of the University and the Child Welfare Station for Iowa children.

SERVICE IMPRESSIVE

Many Guests of University are Present for Occasion

More diplomas were awarded yesterday at the mid-year convocation than were ever before given to graduates at any previous mid-year convocation in the history of the University, it became known yesterday afternoon.

Impressive and full of lasting memory was the ceremony which attended the presentation of some eighty-two diplomas in person and in absentia to candidates for degrees at the mid-year convocation in natural science auditorium yesterday morning, and those who were the recipients of the testimonials to the effect that they became at that hour alumni of the University will carry the occasion and the speech of Judge Martin J. Wade long in their minds.

Auditorium Crowded

Several minutes before the formal procession headed by the marshal filed into the auditorium, all seats except those set aside for the candidates, members of the instructional staff of the University, and cadet officers, were filled, as well as all available stading room, with an attentive group of interested students and townspeople.

Many Guests Present

Among the official guests of the University who were present at the exercises were members of the State Board of Education, W. C. Stucklager of Lisbon, Mr. and Mrs. Parker K. Holbrook of Onawa, Charles H. Thomas of Creston, Mrs. Pauline L. Devitt of Oskaw

GYM WILL BE LIKE ICE CAVE

Artificial Snow and Bunting
Form Part of Decorations
At Cotillion

The decorations for the Sophomore Cotillion, the second University formal to be held Friday evening, February 10 in the men's gymnasium will be the most elaborate of any party since 1916 according to the committee in charge.

Entrance Through Tunnel

White bunting and artificial snow will be used to make the gymnasium like an ice cave. The ceiling and walls to the floor will be completely concealed excepting a small space through which the spectators can see the dance. Only the heads of those watching will be seen by the dancers. A large icicle lamp of blue and white with glittering garland fringe will hang from the center of the ceiling. The entrance will be an ice tunnel and the orchestra, which will be a ten piece student orchestra will be enclosed in an ice cave at the north end of the room. Punch will be served in an elaborate Eskimo house.

Novel Snow Scene Dance

Plans are being made for a novel snow scene dance in which the lighting will give the effect of northern lights. The decorating is being done by the New Idea decorating house which also decorated at the freshman party. Tickets will go on sale February 7.

REGULAR EQUIPMENT

Omar Kahaym professes in his writings to have been of the delightful opinion that a jug of wine was an ample source of happiness yet he wrote quatrains that have lived, contrived a calendar that is highly praised, delved deeply into metaphysics, and earned the name of astronomer. So it is with students; they profess a disregard for serious concern, laugh away petty cares, ignore the larger ones, and endorse the theoretical jug of wine. yet they often find themselves entwined in a net of more profound and noble considerations.

To attempt an eulogy on the spirit before a group of violently living students is no easy task, but, under the fine oratorical guidance of Judge Wade in his address at yesterday's convocation, the student realized that here was a thing with which he had definitely to do. Judge Wade drew a fine picture of the American spirit, of the Christian spirit, of the upright spirit, which students should be glad to see and to emulate. It is not, in the last analysis, a vague indefinite thing, a mystery, a product of fanciful imagining. It is part of this practical world; and it is in this light that it makes its greatest appeal to the student body.

CHEAP GOLD

The mere hint that a German scientist was prepared to exhibit to people in general and Irving Fisher of Yale in particular, gold that might be manufactured in unlimited quantities by the use of a newly discovered formula, probably served, if for nothing else, to bring about a readjustment of values in the minds of a great many people. We were first eager and astounded at the announcement, then we were doubtful and finally chagrined at the fraud; we were impatient with ourselves for ever listening to such chatter.

Gold has been the stuff of an altar at which hordes of people have worshipped for thousands of years. It has neared the peak of the height of artificiality. Just for a moment, in many minds, this conception tottered uncertainly. To surmise in an instant that Midas had known only a paltry touch; to picture gold being turned out of our factories or laboratories by the ton, to see it boxed or crated and loaded into a freight car, to imagine gold paving and countless ornaments of gold; all of these things are conducive to a tumbling down of what have too often been ideals.

To find that gold is, after all, a base shifting sands for the calculation of wealth and power, introduces a vague notion that perhaps other recognized standards are none too stable. We guess that accepted conventions may have blinded us, but before we have started well into their dissection we are uncomfortable and turn away.

OUT OF TUNE

To a slight extent in the Iowa-Indiana basketball game and to a greater in the Iowa-Purdue game, outcries from the Iowa student spectators were occasioned by the visiting teams, when in the lead, by resorting to the stalling game to prevent the Old Gold men from bringing the score to an even tally or better. It somehow seemed to be contrary to the ideas of Iowa sportsmanship. Perhaps in the minds of many there was the satisfying feeling that an Iowa team would not play that kind of a game.

From the report of the Iowa-Purdue game last Saturday night it appears that the Hawkeyes took refuge in the same stalling game, that is, the ball was played by Iowa men under the Purdue basket actually keeping the ball out of play. And it also seems that Iowa lost in playing that game. The upshot of the whole affair is that this particular style of playing is a plan whereby the actual playing time of a game is shortened to the advantage of the winning team. As such, it is not a fair part of any code of sportsmanship.

Whether sanctioned by the Big Ten authorities or not, whether employed by all college teams or not, whether a necessary evil or not, whether technically explained away because of peculiarities of the basketball game or not, whether in individual cases it seems to be the only hope of winning a contest or not, stalling rightly has no place in the proper basketball game. On the face of it, it is not consistent with true standards of sportsmanship.

Convocation was crowded yesterday morning, but so was Reich's. Even a professor could not gain admission to the auditorium, nor could a senior liberal arts student horn in on a game of rotation at the Academy. The problem seems to be one for the Memorial Union to solve—lots of seating space and shooting space.

Now that a few score star athletes have been excluded from participation in college contests, professional teams will not have such a hard time filling their ranks.

loosa, Mrs. Anna B. Lawther of Dubuque and the Finance committee, W. R. Boyd of Cedar Rapids, former state senator, Thomas Lambert of Sabula and W. H. Gemmill of Des Moines.

When the last of the formal procession had filed into the auditorium during which the entire audience had remained standing, America was sung by the assemblage and invocation was delivered by the Very Reverend William P. Shannahan of Saint Patrick's church of this city.

Following the prayer, the vocal solo, "Hear My Prayer" by Mendelssohn was rendered by Mrs. Mildred B. Paddock of the teaching staff of the school of music after which President W. A. Jessup introduced Judge Martin J. Wade, a graduate of the University, as the speaker of the day.

Commissions Awarded

After the conclusion of Judge Wade's speech, the cadet commissions were awarded to the officers of the cadet regiment by the President, being presented by Col. Morton C. Mumma, head of the military department. Colonel Mumma next presented John E. Adams of Cedar Rapids and Vaughn M. Long of Olds, for the award of commissions as second lieutenants in the Infantry Officers' Reserve Corps of the United States army by President Jessup. These men later received their first degrees from the University.

Confer Certificates and Degrees

The candidates for the certificate of graduate nurse were presented by Vice Dean John T. McClintock, M. D., of the college of medicine, and the candidates for the certificate of education were presented by Prof. Forest C. Ensign acting for the Dean of the college of education, William F. Russell, who is now in China.

The conferring of first degrees was next in order, the candidates for the bachelor of arts degree being presented by Dean George F. Kay of the college of liberal arts, candidates of the degree of bachelor of science in commerce by Dean C. A. Phillips of the college of commerce, the candidates for the degree of bachelor of science in school supervision by Prof. Forest C. Ensign, acting for the dean of the college of education, the candidate for the degree of bachelor of laws by acting Dean Herbert F. Goodrich, the candidate for the degree of bachelor of science by Dean William G. Raymond of the college of applied science, and the candidate for the degree of doctor of dental surgery by Dr. Ernest A. Rogers, acting for Dean Frank T. Breene.

Award Advanced Degrees

The award of advanced degrees was next in order.

Two candidates were presented for the degree of civil engineer and electrical engineer by the dean of the college of applied science, three candidates were presented by Prof. George Stewart, acting dean of the college of education for the degree of master of arts, and one candidate for the degree of master of science by Professor Stewart.

Gerald C. Baker of Bement, Ill., and Leroy D. Weld of Cedar Rapids were presented by Professor Stewart for the award of the degree of doctor of philosophy and the exercises were concluded with the singing of "Old Gold" by the entire body.

ELECT 12 MEMBERS OF QUAD COUNCIL

These council members are elected twice a year and with the four proctors, who are appointed for the entire year, form the governing body of the Quadrangle. When this group meets next week they will elect from their number the officers who will serve the remainder of the year.

EROS TO TRY OUT FOR WOMEN'S CONTEST

Erodelphian literary society will select their representative for the women's extemporaneous contest by the tryout method. All new members are required to tryout. Each contestant is expected to talk for three minutes upon some campus problem. Tryouts are to be held Thursday at 5 o'clock in Ero hall.

100 MEN REPORT FOR TRACK PRACTICE ON ARMORY CINDER PATH

Varsity track was started in the new armory Monday night with about a hundred men reporting to Coach George T. Bresnahan. Although the track is not complete, the work is progressing rapidly and it is hoped that it will be finished in a few days. Light workouts will be the principle routine for the men this week with possibly some short runs.

Many Men Report

Nearly all of last year's team were out for practice. A few have been lost by graduation and others have left the University.

Edward J. Hoffman is back in the University and appeared last night for workout. Hoffman made a remarkable record last year at the Big Ten meet in Chicago, when he won third place. He is expected to better the work of the previous season, this year.

Coach Bresnahan is expecting to build his team around Hoffman and Wilson. Duke Slater is ineligible to participate in track this year but several other men showed up well and will probably land a place on the team.

Wilson to Run Dashes

Wilson will be banked on for the dashes in which he showed up so well in last year and if necessary he can also be used as a broad jumper. He will be aided by Brookins, a speedy man from last year's freshman squad.

Last year Iowa had one of the fastest relay teams in the conference and with practically the same men back and with the addition of several other good men, Iowa should be well fixed in the relays.

Track will be continued in the armory until the weather is such that practice can be held outside. With the new track it will be much easier for Coach Bresnahan to develop a good team. In other years cramped quarters hampered the work.

TWENTY MEN OUT AT FIRST CALL FOR FOOTBALL CANDIDATES

Twenty candidates answered the first call for football men made by Coach Howard H. Jones last week. The call was issued near the close of examination week and many of the old men and men who were on last year's freshman team were unable to respond at that time. Hereafter practice, will be held each Friday afternoon in the gymnasium.

Work on Signal Drill
Coach Jones will limber the football candidates up on the gymnasium floor using signal drill work almost exclusively for a time. Theory and chalk talks will also be given the men. The great advantage of the early practice, according to Coach Jones, lies in the fact that the older men can be paired off with incoming quota of new men. The older players prove themselves of invaluable aid in instructing the newer men in conference style football.

Has Veteran Nucleus
The nucleus around which the football team for 1922 will be built includes ten "I" men, all but one of whom had an opportunity to distinguish themselves on Iowa's championship conference team last year. Captain Locke, Shuttleworth, Mead, Minick, Heldt, Kadesky, Thompson, Kriz, Miller and Rath are the "I" men who will probably be Coach Jones' best bet in forming a new conference eleven.

Past performance, however, is not an assurance that the men will make this year's team, according to Coach Jones' method of training his men. The older men have a slight advantage over the second string men and last year's freshman, but they must show the old fight, in the face of competition if they desire to make the team, according to Coach Jones.

Men Not Urged to Play
Coach Jones again stresses the point of which he is a consistent advocate. "It is not my place to urge men to come out for practice, said Coach Jones. "They must, by their own initiative show their own desire to participate in the sport and show their attitude in qualifying for a position on the team. If any one is necessary to urge a player to go out for football, the student body is the ultimate organization which should be interested in getting the best men down for practice."

At the first meeting of the football men, last year's freshman turned out in the greatest number, in spite of the conflicting engagements necessitated by examination week. McIntyre, captain of last year's freshmen is picked to give the old "I" men some good competition. Many former all-state stars are among the newer football men also.

Coaches Probably Same
The coaching staff will probably remain the same as last year, with Mayor Ray C. Hill assisting Coach Jones in training the backfield men, and Albert P. Jenkins assisting in coaching the varsity. William P. Kelly will probably be taken from the freshman coaching staff and given the coaching position held by Lawrence A. Block last year.

Stresses Mental Attitude
At the first meeting of the football men Coach Jones spent much of the time in getting the prospective candidates in the proper mental attitude in regard to football playing. It will be the good men who win out, according to Coach Jones, and favoritism and partiality will not be included in his football code.

SCIENTISTS WILL GET SPECIMENS FROM POLYNESIAN GROUP
A small party of scientists from the University will visit the islands of the Polynesian group next summer in order to obtain material for the laboratories and museums of natural history. In the interest of economy, as well as for the sake of securing better specimens for students use, the University for many years has maintained the policy of granting leave of absence to its men in search of such material, instead of buying it from dealers.

Various fields of science will be represented in next summer's party which will be composed entirely of experts on leave for the summer months. The members will be Professor C. C. Nutting, zoologist; Professor R. B. Wylie, botanist; Professor A. O. Thomas, geologist; Professor Dayton Stoner, entomologist and ornithologist; Mr. Waldo S. Glock, meteorologist and photographer.

The subscription price of The Daily Iowan for the second semester has been reduced to $1.75. Leave your subscription at the business office, 115 S. Clinton.

ORIENTAL PANTOMINE TO FEATURE WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB CONCERT

The annual concert of the women's glee club will be held Thursday, February 9, at 8:15 in the natural science auditorium under the direction of Prof. Walter Leon. Something new in the way of stage setting and an oriental pantomine, "The Camel and the Vampire," by Malcolm La Prade will make the program different from those presented other years. This is the first time "The Camel and the Vampire" has ever been presented here.

The program of the concert consists of the following numbers:

1. Messengers of Peace from Renzi Wagner
2. Spinning Chorus from the Flying Dutchman Wagner
3. Three Songs of Moravia Dvorak
4. The Camel and the Vampire, an oriental pantomine Beatrice Gates and Martha Althaus
5. Three Little Maids from Mikado Gilbert and Sullivan
6. Spring Song from Samson and Delilah Saent Saens

with the expectations that they would win the game, they ran-up against a defense which they could not penetrate, and were easy victims of the Gophers.

Iowa Should Win

If the Iowa team plays the same brand of basketball that they played against Purdue they should defeat Chicago. Minnesota won from Chicago by a larger score than the one by which they defeated Iowa, and did not have as hard a time in doing it. Chicago barely beat Northwestern, while Purdue won both games from Northwestern by large scores. This same Purdue team had all the luck in the world in winning from Iowa on their own floor.

There is, of course, a decided advantage for Chicago in that they are playing on their own floor. This should be more than offset by the big improvement in the team play of the Iowa varsity. Moreover, Iowa has ten days in which to prepare for the game, polish up its offense, and strengthen its defense against Chicago's offense. All things considered, the Chicago game should be Iowa's first victory.

Wisconsin Five Strong

Against Wisconsin, Iowa's chances are not so bright. Wisconsin won the first game played, by a narrow margin, but won on Iowa's own floor. Wisconsin then easily defeated Northwestern, and won from Michigan in an overtime game. The only game which they have lost was to Minnesota by a two point margin.

Odds Against Hawkeyes

All the odds are against Iowa in this game. It will be played at Madison.

The Iowa varsity will have to travel from Chicago to Madison after playing Chicago on Saturday night. Wisconsin, on its own floor, made Minnesota work much harder than Iowa did on the Gopher's floor. Again, the result of the Iowa-Chicago game will have a mental effect on the Iowa team. If they win, they will retain confidence in their own ability, but if Iowa loses their morale will probably be badly shaken.

Iowa may win both games, but chances are that they will lose the game at Wisconsin. Iowa will not forget, however, that it was at Wisconsin that an Iowa team ended the first half twelve points behind, but fought an uphill fight and won out in the second half.
