FOUNDATION DAY SPEAKER PICKED

Fred W. Sargent, Alumnus of Law College Will Talk
at New Armory

Fred W. Sargent, '01 L of Chicago chief attorney for the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, will be the main speaker on Foundation day, Saturday, February 25. Mr. Sargent was a resident of Des Moines for many years where he acted as attorney for the Chicago and Rock Island railroad. He was the first president of the Iowa Memorial Union and has been active in its development.

The program of the morning will be given in the new armory, which has a normal seating capacity for five thousand, which can be almost doubled by the insertion of chairs in the center space. This is the celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the University. Although a complete program has not been announced it is thought that other alumni will participate in it. History of the University showing its progress through three quarters of a century, will be a feature of the program.

The exercises of Saturday morning are to be part of the Diamond Jubilee celebration. Another part of the celebration will be the presentation of the "Land of Aiowas," a masque by Edwin Ford Piper, of the department of English, on Friday and Saturday evenings in the University theater. The entertainment will be entirely of local origin as the music is written by Prof. Phillip G. Clapp, head of the department of music.

Official guests present for the jubilee, returned alumni and the fathers of students remaining for the program after the preceding Dad's day, will be invited to a luncheon at Hotel Jefferson on Saturday noon.

SEVENTH CORPS MATCHES TO WAIT FOR NEW ARMORY

The rifle team is practicing under the conditions set forth for the Seventh corps area championship match, but is holding up actual record firing in the match until the new gallery across the river is ready, Lieut. Thomas E. Martin, rifle team coach, said yesterday.

The match calls for eighteen shots prone, six shots kneeling, sixshots sitting and six shots standing. The squad is showing steady improvement in all four positions, and the two teams of fifteen men each, which will compete in the match, will be selected as a result of the tryouts which are being held this week.

Iowa may enter two teams of six men each in the National rifle association intercollegiate indoor match which will be shot after the first of March.

MARKETING CLASS WILL HEAR PROFESSOR DAVIS

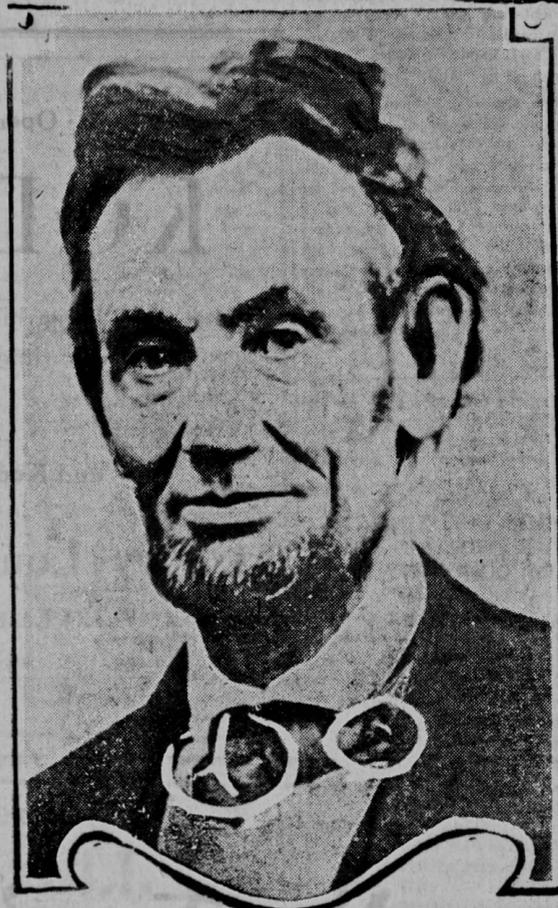

Prof. Donald K. Davis, assistant dean of the Harvard business school will be the guest of the University on Monday, February 13. He will address the class in marketing at 9 o'clock a. m. and will spend considerable time in conference with the teaching staff of the college of commerce.

From 2 to 3 p. m. he will be available for consultation concerning the Harvard business school. Anyone wishing to question him will find him in the office of Dean Chester A. Phillips of the college of commerce. Professor Davis is assistant professor of marketing at Harvard.

L. A. ANDREWS TO SPEAK

Mr. L. A. Andrews of Ottumwa, formerly president of the Iowa bankers association and now president of the Iowa Farm Credit corporation, will address the student in banking Monday, February 13 at 4 p. m. His subject will be "The Iowa Banker and the Farmer."

ABRAHAM LINCOLN, A STATESMAN, WAS BORN 113 YEARS AGO TODAY

It is not for the further glorification of Abraham Lincoln that we pause on his birthday in contemplation of his greatness. We are powerless to raise him to a height more lofty than that which he has already attained. But every American will think of him today, recall his right thinking and brave deeds, as does every follower think of a virtuous leader.

Rather for our own uplift do we look at the picture of Lincoln; his leadership is a source of personal betterment for every follower. In so doing we do not recall the different stones in the foundation of his goodness; we do not call to mind separately his faith, his honesty, his sincerity, his lofty sentiments, his ideal government, his foresight, for these are all matters of daily reference and guidance. We are before him today as before a great masterpiece; we stand in awe and admiration of high art without committing the near-sacrilege of attempting to discern the lines and brushmarks.

And, as is true of many great works of art, it has been rightly said of him that "the fragrant memory of such a life will increase as the generations succeed each other."

FIELD FUND IS NOW $20,000

Campaign to Better Iowa
Field Pulls $6,800 in Past Week

An advance of $6,800 has been made since last week in the bonds sold for the making of permanent improvements on Iowa field, making a total of $20,000, said Coach Howard H. Jones, who is in charge of the issuing of the bonds. The goal set for the campaign is $100,000.

Will Double Number of Seats

Although this is not a campaign applied to students, the athletic board will be glad to receive any aid they are able to give, according to Coach Jones. Several students have already applied for $100 bonds. The bonds will be issued for a ten year period and may be called in at any time during that period. The money will be used to double the seating capacity of Iowa field, the plans being to place twenty tiers above the now existing seats.

Games Will Pay Bonds

"Athletic contests for the last few years have been run on a profitable basis and the board is well satisfied that they will be attended by greater crowds in the next few years, especially the football games. By making these improvements now they can be used during the next ten years and the money can be paid back from the profits of the contests," said Coach Jones.

Since 1911 about $30,000 has been spent on Iowa field for permanent improvements. From July 1, 1921, $17,000 alone was spent for this purpose, consisting of the extending of the east bleachers and the construction of the fence.

"THE PLAY MAKERS" FORMED AS BRANCH OF PLAYERS' GROUP

"The Play Makers," an organization of University students interested in writing plays, has just been formed as a branch of the University Players.

Mrs. Bernadine Bristol G of Chicago, Ill., winner of last year's play-writing contest, was elected president, at a recent meeting.

The other charter members are: Lucille Everett A4 of Iowa Falls, Kenneth Shumaker A4 of Iowa City, who wrote the "Prospector," which was played by Irving Institute last year, Ardith L. Welty A3 of Spirit Lake, Opal Stevenson A3 of Shannon City, and Lillian B. Lawler G of Pittsburgh, Pa., whose play, the "Big Blue Book," placed in play-writing contests last year.

The Play Makers have already accepted five original one-act plays by their members. Eight more plays are now in process of production by members of the group, some of whom are working on two or three plays at the same time.

The first program of original one act plays will be produced by the group on March 8. Two of those on the program are Mrs. Bristol's "Bird Man" which won first place in the contest last year, and Miss Lawler's "Big Blue Book."

The members will handle ideas in the making as a laboratory club. At the meetings every two weeks they will discuss plays and play-writing and cooperate in their constructive work.

Membership in the play Makers is based upon the making of an original one act play to be submitted to the club for approval and criticized during construction by the president.

The Chi Omegas still lead in the Hawkeye sales contest with an increase of 32 over yesterday's sales.

The sales total 1353 which means that if the contestants carry out their slogan, "Every girl get one new subscription every day of the contest" they will realize their aim of 2000 sales by Wednesday. There are still a great many people who want Hawkeyes and a big chance for any sorority to make a big gain.

The loving cups which will be awarded as prizes have arrived and will be placed on display Monday.

MECCA PLAY TO BE IN ENGLERT

Change Will Boost Cost of Engineers' Show to $350

The associated Students of Applied Science passed a resolution yesterday to put on their annual Mecca day play at the Englert theater instead of the University theater.

"We have no axe to grind with those authorities through whom we have attempted to engage the University theater for our play," said Lloyd E. Anderson S3 of Madrid, author and director of the play, "We simply couldn't wait and go through all the red tape that is necessary to engage the theater."

Cost to be $350

The cost of staging the production will be about $350," said Anderson, "the expense of engaging the Englert amounts to $250 for two nights, while the cost that would be incurred for presenting the play in the University theater would have been $90. The committee that has charge of making all the arrangements plans on spending about $100 on costumes and stage paraphernalia.

Each student in the college of applied science bears a five-dollar tax as a means of raising the money for presenting the play, staging the parade, and giving the banquet. An additional tax of two dollars is put on all engineering students who attend the dance.

Mable States Regulations

"The students of the college of applied science, through their representatives, made tentative arrangements for engaging the University theater but these were dependent on the representatives presenting a copy of the play to me and conforming with the other conditions that organizations seeking to make reservations for the theater must live up to," said Edward C. Mable, assistant professor of speech and member of the University theater senate committee.

"These regulations," said professor Mable, "are the same for any organizations wishing to present a play in the theater. It is our only means of making the plays conform to certain artistic and literary tastes. The fact that the engineers have engaged the Englert theater takes the matter entirely out of our hands."

200 "THEODORA" TICKETS SOLD

The Classical club is selling tickets for "Theodora" to raise money for the school of Classical Studies at Rome. "Theodora" is a feature picture that has just come from the La Salle theater at Chicago, and will be shown at the Strand. Dr. Ullman, head of the Latin and Greek department, recommends the picture and states that the club has sold almost two hundred tickets. Tickets will be on sale in liberal arts and natural science buildings and in the professional colleges tomorrow.

HAWKEYES DEFEAT CHICAGO; SHOULD WIN FROM WISCONSIN

Comparative Scores Gives
Iowa Edge in Game
Tomorrow

By Holbert Seigle
 With the first conference victory of the season safely stowed away, the Hawkeyes are ready for the game with the Badgers tomorrow night, and, playing the game they did last night, should win handily.

Although Wisconsin is known to have one of the strongest teams in the conference, it is doubtful if they have improved as much since the first game between the two teams as Iowa has, and the first is generally given to Wisconsin because of the fact that they received the breaks of the game.

Iowa Game Improves

At the time that game was played the Hawkeyes could not hit the basket at all consistently, and although their defense was very good their offense was ragged and not consistent. As shown by the Chicago victory, the Iowa offense has undergone a great change, and the men have been making baskets regularly.

Chicago was barely able to win from the weak Illinois team by a score of 23 to 22 on the Chicago floor, even though the Maroons were decidedly the best team. Wisconsin, who played Illinois on the Badger floor beat Illinois, but it was only after a hard battle, and their victory came in the closing moments of the game. The score of this game was 25 to 23, showing that Wisconsin is little better than Chicago.

Illinois Defense Poor

Coach James N. Ashmore, who saw the Chicago-Illinois game, said that the Indians had a very poor team, especially on the defense. The whole Illinois team seemingly could not get into the game at the same time and Chicago had little trouble stopping their offense. Unless the Chicago team was in a slump last night, which is extremely doubtful, scores indicate that the Hawkeyes are better than Wisconsin and even though they will be playing on a foreign floor the win over the Maroons should give them confidence away from home.

W. L. GEORGE TO SPEAK MONDAY

British Novelist Who Knows
About Women to Give Lecture

W. L. George, famous British novelist, will speak tomorrow evening at the natural science auditorium on "The Intelligence of Women". The lecture is one of the series of University lectures. The program will start at 8 p. m. Mr. George, famous for his unusual knowledge on the subject of women, is also known as the author of "A Bed of Roses", "The Second Blooming", "Blind Alley", "Caliban", "Hail Columbia", "Antole France" and "Women and Tomorrow".

Mr. George has recently come to America from England where he has been attracting record breaking audiences because of his fearless ideas on women. With a high reputation as a lecturer added to his popularity as a writer, Mr. George's appearance in this country has aroused an unusual degree of interest and he has shown great originality in the treatment of his lecture subjects. He has been lecturing on "The Intelligence of Women", "Love and Marriage", "Anatole France" and "Literary Taste and How to Acquire It".

Mr. George's comments on the American women have been widely quoted in magazines and newspapers throughout the country. Mr. George will be introduced by Prof. Benj. F. Shambaugh chairman of the University lecture committee.

THE WEATHER

For Iowa—Cooler generally with probable snow in some portions. Warmer in extreme northern sections.

First Conference Victory Won by Score of 27-17

Chicago, Ill., February 10; (Special) Iowa won its first game of the season here tonight by defeating Chicago 27 to 17 in a rather slow battle. Chicago was completely out-classed during the whole game, the Iowa teamwork playing havoc with Chicago's efforts to score.

Shimek was easily the star of the game. He was not guarded at all, and besides scoring three baskets, he made eleven free throws out of thirteen attempts and held his man down to long distance shots during the entire game. Burgitt at center also ran wild over the floor, scoring four baskets and completely out-playing Yardley at center.

Devine Is Ejected

The first half was very slow, neither team displaying much desire to accomplish anything and the score at the end of the half stood 10 to 9 in favor of the Hawkeyes. In the second half the game was much faster, and many fouls were called on both sides. Aubrey Devine was ejected for personal fouls near the end of the game, Lohman taking his place. It was in this half that Chicago attempted to rally, but the Hawkeyes held the ball most of the time and the Maroons were unable to get possession of it.

Play Wisconsin Next

The game was featured by the defense of the Iowa five whenever they elected to assume the defensive, and the Chicago forwards were unable to break through. Aubrey Devine played a wonderful offensive game, breaking through the Chicago defense for many shots at the basket.

The team leaves tomorrow for Madison where they will meet Wisconsin Monday evening.

DANGEROUS DEGREES

As a solution to the problem of higher education, one of our professors has suggested that a degree be conferred on every freshman who pays his matriculation fee. The ones who wished to get an education could then continue in their work unhampered with trying to find pipe courses, vamping professors, cribbing or with eleventh hour sessions. It might also induce the faculty to relinquish their paternal control long enough to give the students a chance to rely on their own ability.

A college degree has long held a superficial value. Instead of a means it has been an end. The majority of students have the queer idea, not of getting as much as they can from their work, but by the selection of easy courses, of getting as little as is compatible with graduation. A degree, in itself, means little or nothing. It is merely a quantitative measure of work accomplished or seemingly accomplished. It does not tell the story of how it was obtained.

The first European universities consisted of groups of young men so eager to acquire the learning of their time that they combined their small resources to enable them to hire teachers. Discipline in such a school was needless. It is easy to believe that the scholars were diligent and that it was unnecessary to remind them continually that they were there for a purpose. Degrees were probably unheard of but who will say that they weren't as good students as those of today?

BRAWN VS. BRAIN

Most of the journalists will say that newspapers have been one of the greatest forces in educating the people and in keeping them abreast of the times, but few people will admit that this privilege is frequently abused, probably not intentionally but with the misconceived idea of what the people like the best. No one knows just what it is that people like best, but all of us have a more or less developed sense of values and we do know what people ought to like best.

In an attempt to please the people, or at least in attempting what they think pleases the people, journalists seem to have given their attention to brawn rather than brain. Publicity will send thousands of fans to see Dempsey and Carpentier fight, or fifty thousand to an Army and Navy football game, yet lack of publicity leaves the contributor to the arts and sciences little honored or famed.

Newspapers, by paying more attention to the college athlete than to the winner of scholastic honors, have taught the public to overrate athletics at the expense of knowledge.

The usual defense of collegiate athletics is that they make for health and physical development. But the New York Times has to ask "Is it not strange that three months in an army post will turn every one of a company of recruits into fine, upstanding, clear-complexioned soldiers, though many of them have been slouching boys with pasty faces, while no such effect is produced on a whole student body by four years of athletics?"

Universities are primarily for the purpose of developing the mind and it seems only fair that newspapers should give it its share of attention.

Mr. George says that women are always in love. We might add, however, that it's always with the other fellow.

CONTRIBUTORS' COLUMN

When one sees the astonishing number of books which are lost each year and never called for or claimed, the assumption usually made is that students are unnecessarily careless. Though this may be true in many cases, it is my firm conviction that he is not the one to made to shoulder the blame. He is simply a victim of a few circumstances which might be easily remedied.

In the absence of lockers or other receptacles in which he may safely deposit his books when not using them, the student makes the best of a bad situation by either carrying the books around with him from place to place, thereby taking infinitely more chances of losing or misplacing them, or he puts them in one of the racks provided for this purpose by the Iowa Supply Company or Whetstone's Drug Company. If he chooses to make use of these racks, he trusts to his good fortune that the books will still be there when he next desires to make use of them.

Those who are most inconvenienced by this deficiency are students who are working their way through college. When coming to class in the morning the majority of these students are forced to bring all the books which they will probably use during the day with them. To carry several thick books around for an hour or two is certainly enough discomfort, but to do this all day is a burden which very few will countenance. As a result, he does not bring them.

Most instructors will readily agree that the text should be brought to class each day as questions are always arising which make it necessary to consult it, either as to the propriety of statements made or because of a difference of opinion in regard to the author's viewpoint. Without a doubt the student can more easily point out statements of which he has not a clear conception when he can refer the instructor to the page and paragraph in the text. Since text books are not being brought to class, the results of classroom discussion are not made as effective as they might be.

A locker room situated in a convenient and easily accessible place in the liberal arts building would, therefore, guard the student against losses of books and other valuable articles and also better his class work. A nominal fee could be charged for the use of lockers and in this way the expense incurred by their erection could be met.

HELEN HADDOCK TO PLAY WOMAN'S PART IN "THE BIRD MAN"

Hel'en Haddock 'A4 of Greenfield was chosen yesterday to play the part of the only woman in Mrs. W. F. Bristol's prize play, "The Bird Man," to be given March 8. The men in the cast are Roy Eddy 'L1 of Des Moines, Lauren Smith 'M1 of Cherokee, Robert Block 'L1 of Davenport, and Harry Voltmer 'A3 of Galva.

"The Bird Man" won first prize in the play writing contest of the University Players last year. University Players are putting on the play in the University Theater, March 8, under the direction of Mrs. Bristol.

"The Big, Blue Book," Lillian Lawler's prize play is to be given the same night. Leona White 'A3 of Council Bluffs is to play the lead opposite Ardeth Welty 'A3 of Spirit Lake.

EIGHT NEW MACHINES IN ENGINEER'S SHOPS

Several thousands of dollars have been invested in new machines this year to be used by the instructors and students in the department of applied science.

A universal grinder installed this year will do the grinding to within one four-thousandth of an inch of measurements. This is an exceedingly accurate machine, and is one that made the development of the automobile industry possible. A new instrument room has been arranged which is supplied with five tools for fine work. Several of these have motors attached, so are independent from the main power. This equipment consists of a milling machine, grinders, and drill. Very accurate work is possible with these tools.

Four new motors have been added to the power equipment in addition to tools. A steel locker section costing one thousand dollars is constructed of interchangeable parts, the tool sections being adjustable to hold any size or shape tool or piece of work.

The foundry has been supplied with a power driven sand sifter and the forge shop with an independent motor driven buffer and scleroscope for measuring the hardness of steel. This instrument, which is very accurate for commercial work, will determine the relative hardness of pieces of metal and also hardness as determined by the standards used in machine shop work. A few seconds are all that is need to determine whether a piece of metal is of proper hardness for various uses in machine making.

BASEBALL CANDIDATES TAKE SECOND WORKOUT

No new men appeared for the second indoor baseball practice of the year that was held last evening in the new armory. The practice consisted of a short workout of the pitchers and catchers.

As soon as the first robin makes his appearance, it is expected that the call of the diamond will prove strong for a number of the men who have not yet reported, and cause them to appear in practice. The demise of the basketball year will also cause some of the old men to don the cleats and appear as candidates for the various positions on the team.

Frohwein, a pitcher of last year who gave promise of developing into an expert moundsman, and Shimek, second base, are two of the men that are now engaged in basketball that will be free to report for baseball when the cage season comes to a close.

SENTIMENTAL LACE IS PASSE IN VALENTINES SAY BOOK STORE MEN

Neither the hard times or the H. C. of L. seems to be affecting the valentine business this year. Brisk sales to students and almost depleted stocks are reported from all the local dealers. The old-fashioned, lace valentine is a thing of the past. Its place has been usurped by the conservative "greeting card" valentine or the feature variety. The students are sending home the feature cards, tiny figures with movable eyes, hands or heads, commonly classed as "cute."

The student of today does not rush into a book store, select an expensive, frilled valentine, address it to his best girl and consider his duty done, as the students did ten years ago. The slogan "Say it with flowers" now exerts a very potent influence. We now have twice as many orders for flowers as we had this time last year," said Mr. James A. Aldous yesterday. Violets, red tulips, and roses are most in favor.

For the student who is not sending flowers, there are many special valentine candy offers, sure to appeal to the feminine "sweet-tooth" and perchance indirectly to the heart.

FORMER COE STUDENTS FILE PETITION FOR RECOGNITION AS CLUB

Former students of Coe college in the University have organized the Coe College club and are petitioning the social committee for recognition. A membership of forty is assured, out of the fifty or more former Coe college students at Iowa. The officers are as follows: John P. Jones G of Cedar Rapids, Grace M. Beatty A3 of Shellsburg, and Edmund B. Shaw L1 of Oelwein.

"Our organization is a social club entirely and not at all for hang-over allegiance," says Miss Beatty. "We are unquestionably loyal Iowans."

Parties have been given by the club since early in the fall, when the club was first planned. Another party will be held soon, when the club will be fully organized.

IOWA GRADUATE USES CAMPUS TERRITORY AS SCENE OF POEM

Louis C. Marolf, B. A. '08 and M. A. '09, has written a volume of poems called "The Wooing of Quimby's Daughters" which is now being published. Mr. Marolf is now an instructor in English in the high school at Wilton Junction, Iowa.

Besides the title poem the volume contains various poems in free verse and lyrics, and a preface written by the author in which he interprets every poem. "The Wooing of Quimby's Daughters" is a 700-line poem which has as its theme the courtship of three girls back in Iowa's pioneer days. The scene is laid on the Iowa river, on the site of the "Old Lime Kilns", now a part of the University campus and the grounds of the Perkins children's hospital.

RUTH ST. DENIS IS USED TO UNIVERSITY CROWDS

Appearance before a university audience is not a novelty to Ruth St. Denis, classical dancer, engaged for a concert to be presented by the University club in the University theater, Monday night, February 20.

Miss St. Denis has for five successive seasons been asked to appear in dance pageants in the Greek theater of the University of California.

FAULTY MEMBERS MAKE EXTENSIVE USE OF GYM

That University faculty members advocate the development of the body as well as the mind is evidenced by their attendance at the men's gymnasium during all hours of the day. They are attracted, of course, in greater number during the tennis season, but nevertheless they indulge in hand ball and swimming extensively during the winter. A glimpse at a hand ball court discloses almost any time, two or more professors engaged in a fast game within the walled room. Again, a trip to the pool offers an opportunity to see how they used to swim during the days of the instructor's youth.

"A few years ago we had regular faculty classes but due to lack of space we have discontinued them," said Ernest G. Schroeder, director of physical education for men. A more general use of the gymnasium by the faculty would be made were there available equipment, he added.

Won't it be a satisfaction sometime to have a University party that isn't the best formal of the year?

W. L. GEORGE TO TALK

W. L. George, who has classified women as a botanist classifies plants, and who has already identified sixty-seven varieties, will speak on "The Intelligence of Women" at the natural science auditorium tomorrow evening.

SOCIETY INTERFERES WITH YESTERAY'S FRATERNITY GAMES

Yesterday's games in the interfraternity basketball tournament between the Phi Delta Thetas and the Psi Omegas and Phi Beta Pis and the Sigma Alpha Epsilons were called off because the baskets which were taken down for the Sophomore Cotillion Friday night had not been replaced in time for the games. All four teams were on hand and agreed to postpone the games until such time as they could be played according to regulations.

Monday's schedule shows that the Alpha Tau Omegas and the Phi Delta Thetas clash at 6:15 and the Beta Theta Pis and the Phi Gamma Deltas come together at 7:00. The games will be played in the men's gymnasium.

The standing of the teams in the series is as follows:

	Won	Lost	Pct
Section A—
Delta Chi	1	0	1.000
Sigma Pi	1	0	1.000

THREE HUNDRED SWARMED TO CO-ED HOP YESTERDAY

Men were conspicuous by their absence at Company A hall yesterday afternoon. That co-ed's may be sufficient unto themselves was proved by the 300 women who danced to Varsity orchestra from 3 to 5 p. m. Upperclass women drew the names of freshmen and acted as escorts at the annual Co-ed Hop, conducted under the auspices of the Women's Council and the Y. W. C. A. The heart-shaped programs were well filled and the only apparent difficulty was voiced when one junior said, "Why can't girls lead?"

The hostesses were Mrs. Waterman, general secretary of the Y. W., Violet Blakely, University social secretary, Mary McCord A4 of Des Moines, Florence Bierring A4 of Des Moines, Mildred Freeburg A4 of Pomeroy, Helen Langworthy A4 of Massena, Jean Speirs A4 of Reinbeck and Margaret Brady A4 of Fort Dodge.

The punch table was presided over by Emily Withrow A2 of Mt. Pleasant, chairman of the refreshment committee. A circle two-step relieved all formality early in the afternoon and the tag dance which followed gave freshmen a chance to meet upper class women. Mildred Freeburg A4 of Pomeroy and Beradine Wendel A2 of Smithland represented the Women's Council and the Y. W. C. A. on the committee.

SETTLING OF OLD CAPITOL REMEDIED; INTERIOR NOW BEING GREATLY CHANGED

Work on the remodeling of the interior of the Old Capitol building has been halted for a few days, owing to the absence of John Fisk, superintendent of grounds and buildings, who is in Chicago transacting business for his department.

Throughout the work of remodeling the building, the endeavor has been to restore as nearly as possible the arrangement of the interior as it was when the building was the state house of Iowa. In addition, the building is being made as nearly fire-proof as possible.

Metal Ceilings Installed

The large room on the south side of the second floor, formerly occupied by the extension department, is now under the process of renovation. In an effort to make the room more fire-proof the paneling around the room has been removed and the ceiling has been torn down. A fire-proof metal ceiling will probably replace the old one and a concrete floor will be substituted for the wooden floor. The extension department has moved its offices to the building north of the Y. M. C. A. on Clinton street.

Paint is Liberally Applied

The partition separating Dean George F. Kay's office from the room in the southwest corner of the main floor has been removed. Here, also a fire-proof metal ceiling and concrete floor will replace the old ceiling and floor.

The entire interior of the building, with the exception of the rooms where remodeling is now taking place or is contemplated to take place, has been repainted.

The large stones near the eaves of the southwest corner of the building which protruded and were out of line with the base, due to the settling of the foundation in that corner, have been pushed back into place. The new foundation under that corner of the building has been completed for some time.

CAST FOR MOLIERE'S LIVELY COMEDY GIVEN; PLAY TO BE MARCH 28

A tentative cast for the French play to be given March 28 at the University theater, "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" by Moliere, has been announced by the committee in charge.

The following students will appear: Josephine M. Daus A3 of Columbus Junction, Beatrice Gates A3 of Pierre, S. D., Margaret M. Wagner A2 of Alto, Marjorie A. Turner A2 of Corning, Kathleen E. Hagler A3 of Des Moines, Lois L. McAdow A2 of Webster City, Robert M. McLachlan A3 of Shannon City, William Leverton A1 of Abbott, Merald E. Hoag A1 of Waterloo, Hale F. Shirley A2 of Algona, Glenn C. Blome, Elmer L. Andermann A4 of Adrora, Charles Larrabee A1 of Fort Dodge, Clide E. Aldrich A4 of Corning and Charles C. Graves A4 of Richmond, Va.

Definite parts for the play will be assigned by the end of the week. Rehearsals will begin Tuesday and will be coached by Miss Olive K. Martin, instructor of Romance languages.

The story of "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme", as the title indicates, deals with the middle class Frenchman. Possessed with a large amount of money, this man endeavors to make his way into Parisian society. He employs every means but the right one to make himself a gentleman. A very amusing situation is brought about by his professed love for a marchioness. Wishing to gain access to the inner circles of society, he endeavors to secure the favor of this influential woman. This he does by aiding financially a scapegoat of a count, who in turn, supposedly urges the suit of his bourgeois friend. In reality, however, the count is himself making love to the marchioness and is giving her, as his own, the presents of his benefactor. The clever and humorous manner in which these circumstances are worked out is typical of Moliere's skill.

WRESTLERS PREPARING FOR PURDUE MATCH

Wrestling fans are looking forward to a real treat in their favorite sport on the evening of February 17 when Purdue will furnish the opposition for the Hawkeye wrestlers at the old gymnasium building. It has been a source of considerable satisfaction to those who have followed the progress of the Iowa mat men through the year to note the way they are improving during the past few weeks. The apparently mediocre material has developed in a manner that far surpasses the coach's expectations.

During the past two weeks, Coach Howard has been directing all efforts toward putting the Iowa men in the best possible condition for the Boilermakers. Although some disappointment was experienced as a result of the postponement of the match with the Virginia wrestlers, it did not hamper the enthusiasm of the members of the varsity team and they are preserving their energy for the meet with Purdue in the hope of having the first Big Ten meet of the year recorded as a victory for them.

A. F. I. URGES EVERY STUDENT TO BOOST DAD'S DAY PROGRAM

Further plans to make Dad's day, February 24, a universal success were made by A. F. I. at their luncheon yesterday noon. "A. F. I. realizes that this program cannot be put over without the cooperation of every campus organization and the student body as a whole," said Harold Chamberlin, University news editor and former active A. F. I. member, "and we are asking every student to write a personal letter asking Dad to come."

Bulletins will be placed about the campus next week and state newspapers will be giving much publicity to the occasion. "Nobody should let his Dad read about the day in the home paper without having received an invitation," said Chamberlin.

The plans made by A. F. I. are arranged to fill three days. They would have the Dads arrive Thursday, February 23 in time for the that evening. Friday is the day set aside for the guests to see the University in every-day working order, visit classes, and meet other Dads. Prof. Edwin S. Piper's masque, "The Land of Aiowas," will be given by the University Players at the University theater Friday and Saturday nights. Saturday all classes will be suspended and the Dads can be taken to the Foundation day exercises.

INTER-DENTAL COUNCIL TO HOLD FIRST PARTY NEXT FRIDAY EVENING

The Inter-Dental fraternity council will hold its first social event of the year when the Delta Sigma Delta, Xi Psi Phi, and Psi Omega, dental fraternities, participate in the Inter-Dental fraternity party at Varsity hall, Friday February 17.

The hall will be especially decorated for the occasion, with colors suggesting spring time. Probably the most interesting and distinctive feature of the party will be in the form of special novelty events which those in charge say rival any that have been planned by any other organization. The committee preparing the events is keeping its plans well under cover so that when they are presented they will come as a complete surprise.

"It is our endeavor to make this the best that the Inter-Dental fraternities have ever presented," said Fred M. Helpenstell, D3 of Rock Island, Ill., chairman of the committee on arrangements for the party.

Other members of the committee who are assisting Helpenstell are: Archibald A. Plagman D3 of Iowa City, Max Kladesky D3 of Dubuque, Frank E. Patterson D2 of Waverly, Paul A. Hathorn D2 of Des Moines, and Edward N. Brown D2 of Eldora.

The chaperons for the evening will be: Dr. and Mrs. Earle S. Smith, Dr. and Mrs. Earling Thoen, and Dr. and Mrs. William A. Lanphere.

INDOOR MEET WILL BE CLOSE

Illinois Doped to Win in Majority of Events

The track tryouts held yesterday in the new armory indicate that Iowa will be strong in the sprints, low hurdles, and in one or two of the field events, but that Iowa lacks distance men. In the dashes, both Wilson and Brookins exhibited bursts of speed that should enable them to defeat the Illinois runners next Saturday. Brookins also made fast time in the low hurdles with Seiling close behind him. The time made was not given out.

Illinois, however, should clean up in the half mile, mile, and two mile runs, as the performance of the Iowa men in these events was only mediocre. While Illinois has some good quarter milers, Eric Wilson's showing in that race yesterday showed that he is able to push any man that Illinois may enter. In the half mile, Noll did not make as fast time as he is able to because he was not pushed, and should do better in competition with Captain Yates of Illinois who is credited with a mark close to two minutes in the tryouts held a few weeks ago.

With its flock of milers and two milers, Illinois should have no trouble winning most of the places in those events, unless Peterman or Ashton improve in the week left before the meet.

Meder's performance in the pole vault was probably the best showing made. He easily cleared the bar at 11 feet but broke his pole in the third trial at 11 feet 7 inches, which would have been a new University record. Meder's work yesterday shows that Coach George Bresnahan has a pole vaulter to take the place of A. Devine, who will not be able to vault on account of playing basketball. Illinois has never been exceptionally strong in this event and Meder has a good chance of winning if Coach Winters has not developed a new man.

Jacqua, with a jump of 22 ft. 3 1-4 inches, should press Osborne of Illinois in the broad jump. This mark is exceptionally good for indoor work and should win many dual meets.

A good many men who were expected to place did not show up for the tryouts. Conn, who won his "I" in the high jump last year was sick. Smythe who won the fraternity pole vault last spring, strained a tendon and was not able to vault.

The meet with Illinois next Saturday should be much closer than the past meets with that University have been, when Iowa was always about forty or fifty points behind its opponents.

Summary: (Coach George Bresnahan did not give out the time made in the dashes.)

50 yard dash; first, Brookins; second, Wilson.

1/4 mile run; first, Ashton; second, Goodrich; third, Foster.

60 yard high hurdles; first, Shope; second, Crozier.

CLASS BACKBOARD AT NEW ARMORY CRASHES ON FLOOR

In letting down the worst basket, which had been raised to allow the military department more freedom on the armory floor, Friday afternoon, the glass backboard was shattered and the basketball floor was slightly damaged when the rope attached to the basket and its supports was allowed to slip and the heavy basket fell to the floor.

No one was injured in the accident, and according to the athletic department, the damage will be entirely repaired before the next game.

NEW YORK—"Collect all your 'Ohs!' your 'Ahs!' and your interjections of acute gaspology and prepare to utter them when you see 'Theodora' at the Astor Theatre. It was a perpetual feast for the eye."—Alan Dale in N. Y. American.

DETROIT—"And if it cost three million dollars to achieve the amazing succession of trip-hammer punches such as one sees in this production, all I can say is that it looks like full money's worth."—Detroit Journal.
PITTSBURGH—"Gorgeous is a word frequently used by those who would describe dramatic scenes whose magnificence has pleased. The word is much too weak to adequately fit the settings of this production."—Chronicle Telegraph.

STUDENTS TAKE ADVANTAGE OF HONOR SYSTEM METHODS SAY FACULTY MEMBERS

Prof. Edwin D. Starbuck, of the department of philosophy, strongly advocates the honor system in the classroom and in social activities. "They ought to dispense with their miserable rules," he declares. He laments the increase of cheating in examinations, however, which has made dishonor cases "numerous" last year and "a pest" this year. He attributes the increase in cheating during the last two years to two causes.

"The viciousness of the student spirit that necessitates watching and the spying faculty that forces student honesty by guarding the student every moment and makes him feel that cheating is just a game to prove himself cleverer than the instructor.

"The slightly less fine morale in our colleges and universities since the war taught everybody the commercial value of an education. When everybody saw what a college degree meant even in securing promotion in the army, there was an influx of students who wanted just as much as they could get to give them a professional degree and five thousand dollars a year after they graduated. Those people are a drawback to the finer spirit of an institution.

"The students ought to avoid these grasping and cheats like a scourge," says Professor Starbuck. "I think the students under a stronger student council should control matters of honor in examinations, dances and other social activity. They must take over the responsibility as the faculty cannot organize student government for them. By the will of the people, through the legislature of the state, the faculty are given final authority and must take the responsibility. This is the reason the students must organize their own student government and prove it efficient.

"I have found it necessary to do some policing in my own classes recently, but it is a miserable thing to do and is only temporary. What good can that be for educating men and women?"

Prof. Clarence E. Cousins, of the department of Romance languages, favors the guarded classroom. "I believe something is mentally wrong with the student who says that, if he is trusted, he will be honest, but if he is watched he will cheat. He should have one code of honor that he uses regardless of his instructor's system. The mere fact that an instructor is watching a student does not give him any excuse to be dishonest, and I have no sympathy for the man who tries to outwit the instructor just because he is not left entirely on his own responsibility."

"There are certain weak individuals," Prof. Cousins thinks, "who ordinarily would be honest, but who when left alone, when something depends on the outcome, as for instance their making an initiation, average, or making Phi Beta Kappa, will cheat. Those students have to be protected, and for them we need to guard the classroom. Certain other students will cheat regardless of watching or trusting. They, eventually, will be put out of the way of the university. They do not deserve any respect, but they do not receive as little from me as the man who says he will not be honest when he is watched."

Prof. Mable C. Williams, of the department of psychology, believes in the honor system "theoretically." "But as long as we have such poor spirit of civic and personal responsibility that we have to pen up the students with high fences to keep them off the campus, we have not enough personal honor for a real honor system in examinations. I think student government would be a fine thing if the students could get a well-organized system and strong enough leaders so that the cheat would be generally unpopular. They will have to create public sentiment against it. Only students do the work though, and in the meantime the faculty has to do all it can to control dishonesty. I do not deceive myself so much, however, as to think that instructors can prevent all cheating. We can only exercise a few checks."

HIGH-UPS IN LITERARY WORLD TO ADDRESS IOWA TEACHERS HERE FEB. 17

Ellen Churchill Semple, who will speak on "The Relation of Geography to History Teaching" at the morning session of the second annual conference of Iowa history teachers Friday, February 17, and Fred Morrow Fling, who will give an address on "Guiding Principles in the Use of Source Materials" at the afternoon session of the conference of the same day, are very prominent in the educational world.

Miss Semple has devoted much study to anthropo-geography. She has written two books, "American History and Its Geographic Conditions" and "The Influence of Geographic Environment," besides contributing scientific articles to the Bulletin of the American Geographical Society and the Journal of Geography. She is a member of the Association of American Geographers.

Mr. Fling, professor of European history at the University of Nebraska, is a member of the American Historical society and La Societe de la Revolution Francaise. The Association of Nebraska Teachers of History was founded by him in 1897. He is the author of "Outline of Historical Methods," "Studies in Greek Civilization," "A Source Book of Greek History," "History of France in the History of Nations," "The Youth of Mirabeau," and "Source Problems on the French Revolution."

After an address of welcome by President Walter A. Jessup, Prof. Louis Pelzer will open the conference with an address on "A Type Study in Westward Expansion" and Professor Clara M. Daley will discuss the "Use of Maps in Daily Work." On Friday afternoon Walter I. Brant, instructor in history department will speak on "Source Collection for High School Classes."

At 4:30 Friday afternoon the women attending the conference will be entertained at a tea given by the University club in the University Club rooms. There will be a dinner session Friday evening at the Pagoda tea shop presided over by Professor Harry G. Plum. At this meeting question boxes, provided for the consideration of questions having no place in the formal program, will be opened. Professor Q. E. Klingaman will preside at the evening session which will be held at the liberal arts assembly hall. At the last session, to be held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, Prof. Donald L. McMurry will discuss "A project Method of Teaching His-
