DAD IS HERE TODAY TO SEE WHAT WE DO

Tours Around University Start at 8; Auto Trip at 3:30

JESSUP GREETES ALL

Basketball, Classes, and Masque Engage Dads' Attention

Early indications point toward success for Iowa's first Dad's Day. While early arrivals were comparatively few in number, if the fathers who have signified their intentions of visiting their sons and daughters at the University fulfill their promises, today should see dear old dad here in full force. Yesterday afternoon witnessed the first appearance of the fathers, and while there was no report of them attending classes, they were seen about the campus on preliminary sight-seeing tours.

The program proper for Dad's Day started last night with the Minnesota-Iowa basketball game, where the visitors had the opportunity, in addition to witnessing the game, of inspecting the new armory, the newest of the University buildings. This morning from 8 to 12 the dads will be free to go where they wish, but it has been suggested that they take advantage of the opportunity to attend classes in order to see the inside life of the University. Also, President Jessup will be in his office during the morning to welcome the visitors, and he, yesterday, expressed his desire that every man and woman whose dad is here bring him to the president's office today.

Dads on Auto Tour

At 3:30 the next important part of the program comes off when the campus is scheduled to leave from the Old Capitol. The tour is to be by automobile, and will touch the main points of interest about the campus and Iowa City. While the trip has been planned primarily as a sight-seeing excursion for the visitors, it will be open to any person who has not had a previous opportunity of viewing the University.

Frats Dine Dads

The various fraternity and sorority plans have been confined to dinners with the dads as the guests of honor, but the meetings will allow dad the chance of seeing the boys and girls at the house.

Quadrangle men have prepared something more elaborate as entertainment for the thirty fathers whom they expect to have with them. At 6 o'clock fathers, sons and invited faculty members will assemble for a get-together dinner, after which several short talks will comprise the program.

Fathers to See Masque

Tonight's part of the celebration is confined to the production of "The Land of the Aiuowas." The cast being composed of students, the entertainment will be of much interest to Iowa's dads.

Despite the fact that today is designated as Dad's Day a number of the visitors will probably remain for the Jubilee celebration tomorrow, and their "presence should provide additional significance to the seventy-fifth anniversary of the University.

ENGINEERS TAXED $6 FOR MECCA; $2 MORE FOR HOPS

Who pays for Mecca week? Each engineer who takes part in the Mecca week celebration is taxed a certain amount each year that the week may be a success. This year the assessment amounts to $6 with an extra $2 for each who attends the dance.

FRATS GENTLE TO FROSH

Public disorder caused by fraternity and sorority probation has become of so little consequence that University authorities take no direct action to prevent it. Robert E. Rienow, dean of men, declared yesterday is now entirely in the hands of the interfraternity council.

FEBRUARY 22 MAY BE A BIRTHDAY TO SOME; IT'S JUST A HOLIDAY TO MOST

A handful of University students may have paused a moment Wednesday as they ate their cherry pie to contemplate the greatness of the father of their country; as for the great majority, the two centuries which have all but passed since his birth have made his birthday merely another holiday conveniently placed about half way between the Christmas and Easter vacations.

In spite of the prevailing boycott of amusements there was no noticeable dearth of avocations on Tuesday evening. The festivities lasted late enough to necessitate an all forenoon's sleep on the part of not a few Wednesday. By afternoon the more ambitious had again emerged from the temporary quietus to the extent of attending W. A. A. dance, or the Alpha Chi Omega benefit bazaar. Athletes were heard to argue over the question of which shoulder should support the sorority colors which they were wearing at the relay carnival in the evening.

As the drizzling rain continued toward evening, taxi owners shined up the old busses and prepared in a measure for a heavy night's business conveying passengers to the new armory. At the sorority houses the sisters drew for the short straws to decide who might have the privilege of keeping the home fires bright; while at the cigar stores the men chased the necessary checks for conveying the less fortunate ones to the armory to support the house's athletic representatives at the relay carnival. All evening the rain continued to rain and the Kappas continued to claim the cup.

MASQUE OPENS IOWA'S 75TH ANNIVERSARY

Diamond Jubilee Assembly to Be Addressed by Tigert Tomorrow

SILVIS CLUB WILL SING

E. J. Goodrich and Lucile Everett Are Students on Program

Commemorating the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the University, the Diamond jubilee tonight and all day tomorrow will be filled with events which will portray the life of the University and some of the history that has surrounded the institution since its early founding in 1847.

As the main body of the celebration comes on the day following Dad's Day, it is expected that many fathers of students will remain over Saturday in order to witness all the jubilee activities.

Masque Starts Program

The celebration will begin this evening with the presentation of "The Land of the Aiuowas," a masque by Prof. Edwin Ford Piper. It will be given in the University theater beginning at 8:15 promptly.

The Cast

The cast for "The Land of the Aiuowas," is as follows: Joliet, Charles Seely; Marquette, Arthur W. Sheperd of Ottumwa; Dumont, a young poet, Eugene Herrick; Buffalo Horn, the great chief, Fred A. Shore A2 of Eldon; Red Feather, subordinate chief, H. Donovan Rhynsberger A1 of Oskaloosa; Evening Sky, a medicine man, Henry E. Ruwe A4 of Marathon; Shadow-of-the-Wolf, the calumet dancer, Howard Coe; a warrior, Frank Ober; the son of Buffalo Horn, Walter J. Dehner A3 of Iowa City; braves, Clarence Smith A1 of Fairfield and O. D. Holse; Coyote, an elder brother (grotesque), James R. Houghton A3 of Davenport.

Symbols of the Feast

Rabbits, Isabel Keine and Norma M. Wolcott A1 of Fort Dodge; quail and plover, Gladys Taggart A3 of Spencer, Ruth Wilsay, and Alma Held G. of Waterloo; maize, Mrs. Mildred B. Paddock, Mary J. Purinton Au of Des Moines, Esther W. Taylor A3 of Grinnell, Blanche E. Davis A4 of Osago, Beulah S.

THE BOYCOTT

Editor's Comment

Reference of the problem of prices, as concerns the relations of Iowa City merchants and students, to a joint meeting of committees representing the two factions is a gratifying and promising move. The outcome in the way of tangible results of such a conference is a matter of itself and of uncertain significance; the higher tone and facing that it puts on the whole distasteful procedure is invaluable.

A prime question is, Are prices unjustifiably high in Iowa City? It seems fair to say that Iowa City is a high-priced city; necessary to add that it is sometimes justifiable, sometimes not. In consideration of this, things to remember are: the student is an indiscriminating buyer; he has the best money of the richest state in the Union; he wants the best of everything; he is willing to pay for every convenience and accommodation; he will not buy where he can buy cheapest if the dealer has accruing advantages such as satisfaction, style, quality, service; he is not a "save-a-penny" purchaser. It must be kept in mind, too, that the student does not, in the main, spend Iowa City earnings, but rather those of the farming community which is peculiarly pressed at the present time. This points to student-aggravation of prices.

But, granting for the moment, as in all fairness we must, that there are cases which cause dissatisfaction with present prices, what is the proper procedure? Certainly not, as a preferred method, the boycott! The boycott is a weapon of the cheaper type of industrial warfare, it savors of mob rule, is a clumsy tool, a dangerous club, and is not American. As a last resort, it must remain of doubtful character. If we remember that the boycott is the accepted weapon and only hope of indignant labor, we also remember that the tendency of the higher and more efficient industrial organization is toward sane deliberation and investigation with cool business dealing between the clashing parties in balanced conference.

Now we turn to a more sound method. If an investigating committee should disclose specific instances involving profiteering or exorbitant prices in the face of every necessary consideration, negotiations with the Retail Merchants' Association and the Commercial club would not be ignored; they would demand due consideration. If city ordinances were found to be unhealthy, if taxation is unbalanced, if rentals are propped, if honest competition is balked by combines, if we have rotten politics,—if any or all of these things are true, there is proper litigation and the popular ballot. These, also, are distasteful, but better-poised than the boycott. We must know a situation before we set it right. We can not adjust the works of our watch by pounding on the case.

In this light, it seems that last night's move is well-grounded and should supersede the boycott. The student population presents an intricate case. The economics connected with the student purchaser are peculiarly unruly and alarm even himself when brought to the surface. It is good to see him interested in them, willing to combat evil results, and desirable that he achieve results, but he must ever maintain an equilibrium.

NO SETTLEMENT IS REACHED IN CONFERENCE OF STUDENTS AND BUSINESS MEN; ANOTHER MEETING ON BOYCOTT TO BE HELD TONIGHT

No adjustment of prices of articles on the boycott list was reached when a committee representing the students met a committee representing Iowa City retailers at the Commercial club rooms yesterday evening. Local retailers insisted still that their prices were right and allowed for only a fair margin of profit while students maintained that prices at Iowa City were higher than anywhere in the state.

Dean Chester A. Phillips of the college of commerce, acting as chairman, stated that the meeting had been called to talk over the matter of what constituted a fair price and the method of obtaining a fair price. If students were to set the standard they would be appreciably lower than they are at present. He further stated that the gap between the student and the retailer must be bridged and that it will be bridged within the next two weeks.

DADS AND OTHER VISITORS WELCOMED BY R.O.T.C. CLUB

The officers' club of the University is to hold open house today and Saturday as their part in the Dad's Day and Founders' Day celebration. The club rooms will be open both days for visitors and especially fathers and friends of the members of the club.

REGISTER TO PORTRAY IOWA

A full page of pictures of the University will appear in the photograph section of the Des Moines Register Sunday. The photographs are of ancient and recent angles of University life.

Both representatives of cigar stores and of barber shops stoutly maintained that they could tolerate no price cut and still leave a fair margin of profit. Cases were cited by students of lower prices paid at towns ranging in size from Sigourney of 2,500 to Davenport of 60,000. If prices cannot be adjusted according to the prices in other towns throughout the state the students have no other recourse but to refrain from buying until some change is made.

A member of the student committee agreed that the boycott might lose out after a while if no concessions were made by the retailers of Iowa City, but believed that a legislative investigation would be made next year of prices in Iowa City.

The committee will meet again this evening at the suggestion of Dean Phillips to attempt to reach a settlement.

COMMERCE FETE DAY NAME CHOSEN; WILL BE TOLD IN A FEW DAYS

Plans for the commerce celebration to be held Saturday, March 25, in the women's gymnasium are well under way and a name for it will be announced within the next few days. Owing to the fact that the name which became traditional, the committee desires to choose it carefully and for that reason the winner of the $5 name contest which closed last Monday night has not yet been announced. Decorations will probably be furnished by a local decorating firm and the complete plans for the party will be announced shortly.

PIPER, ILL AFTER HIS OPERATION, CAN'T SEE HIS MASQUE TONIGHT

By George Carver

From his room in the University hospital, where he recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, Prof. Edwin Ford Piper sends the cheerful news that although he will be unable to witness the presentation of his masque, "The Land of the Aiuowas," at the natural science auditorium tonight, he is not down-hearted; for, he says, "I had a lot of fun writing it."

We can take his remark as meaning that "The Land of the Aiuowas" is a piece of work with which Professor Piper is well pleased. And, indeed, he should be.

The actual work occupied his attention for something more than a year and is well worth the time and thought that has gone into his composition. A masque is a theatrical piece of which the chief constituents are a slight plot, music, and dancing generally arranged for private presentation. In the present instance all the constituents appear. The plot has to do with an early visit of Marquette and Joliet to the region now occupied by the state of Iowa. The two explorers are met by the Indians of the neighborhood and an entertainment ensues in which by means of songs and dances a prophetic vision of what the future has in store for the

TEACHERS OF STATE MEET HERE TODAY

Will Be Guests at Masque Tonight; to Participate in Jubilee

JESSUP OPENS PROGRAM

Prominent Men in English and Speech Instruction Are Speakers

The presence of nationally known authorities on the methods of English instruction will lend distinction to the second annual conference of secondary school teachers of English and speech, which is to be held at the liberal arts assembly hall today and tomorrow. More than 100 teachers representing the English departments of high schools and colleges from over the entire state are here for the meeting.

All University students are invited to attend sessions of the conference which come during their free time. Upperclass English majors will be excused from their regular classes to attend all sessions of the conference. The heads of the various departments, and in some cases the instructors themselves, have the option of excusing any students who wish to visit the conference, from regular class attendance.

Noted Men Here

Prof. Hardin Craig, head of the English department, is very enthusiastic over the prospects of the conference. In his opinion it will put Iowa English teachers in touch with the best and latest in the methodology of English and speech instruction. Among the noted men who will appear on the program are Prof. Allan Abbot of Teachers college, Columbia University, Mr. C. C. Certain, supervisor of English instruction in the city schools of Detroit, and Prof. Sterling A. Leonard of the University of Wisconsin. Each of these men is an expert in his line. Professor Abbot has done a great deal of research work and is an authority on methodology. Mr. C. C. Certain was responsible for the introduction of the use of school auditoriums for speech training in Detroit public schools and he will have some interesting facts to report on the result of the experiment. Professor Leonard will

IOWA TROUNCES GOPHERS 29-22 IN HOT BATTLE

Fourth Straight Conference Victory Sees Team Play Great Basketball

SHIMEK SCORES MOST

Lohman's Baskets Win for Hawkeyes; McGovney Puts Fight in Team

Forging ahead in the last quarter of the game, Iowa defeated Minnesota here tonight by a score of 29 to 22. Until the last five minutes, the game was in doubt, but baskets by Lohman and Shimek settled the game in the last minute of play. Lohman can be credited for winning the game for Iowa after McGovney, who took his place in the first half, had injected the fighting spirit into the team. Shimek was high individual scorer with six field goals, and seven out of eight free throws.

The first half ended in favor of Minnesota, 15 to 14. The Hawkeyes started in the first half with two baskets by Shimek, but baskets by Hultkrans and Severinson tied the score. Shimek then caged one from the sidelines, and made two free throws as a result of Severinson's holding. Minnesota came back with baskets by Hultkrans and tied the score, going ahead on Severinson's free throws. Hultkrans, with four baskets, and Severinson with two made all the field goals for the visitors during this half.

Lohman's Baskets Count

In the second half Iowa guards covered Hultkrans, who did not make a point. A basket by Shimek, a follow-in shot by Burgitt and free throws put Iowa in the lead 23 to 22, Minnesota's points coming from baskets by Kearney, and Hanson, and Severinson's three free throws. Then Lohman was sent in for McGovney and made two baskets. Shimek added another as the game ended.

A Terrific Contest

The game was one of the hardest ever played on an Iowa floor. Minnesota played a wonderful offensive game in the first half, but the Iowa defense was too much for them in the second half. In this half the Hawkeyes' offense improved, and Minnesota was clearly outplayed during the last part of the game.

HIGBEE ELECTED COACH

At a meeting of the athletic board Wednesday night, M. L. Higbee D3 of Rockwell City was elected assistant baseball coach. Higbee is a pitcher, having played several years in the Three Eye league and in the Southern Association. His professional career hinders his participation in Big Ten ball. The new coach will assist Coach James N. Ashmore in developing the pitchers and will also take full charge of the freshman squad when they are called out some time in March.

DAD

Dad, one of the two best friends we have in the world, is here today. He has come for a visit. He is not here on business or to adjust our financial or scholastic difficulties; he is here just to visit us. We want Dad to have the time of his life while he is here. The campus is his.

We do not care whether or not he pays any attention to our program or whether he is interested in any of the special events; that is not our reason for wanting him to be here. But we do want him to have an old-fashioned visit, to see what we are doing, where we board and where we room, to meet our friends, to see what brand of cigarettes we smoke. We want him to see the green eyeshade lying on the desk, the stack of books and papers; we want him to eat dinner with us, to meet our sweetheart, and to get acquainted with some of our instructors. We will give him a sample of our true life and forget the idea that we are "dressed for company." And Dad will appreciate it, too! No one would appreciate it more than he.

The pride that we have in our University will assert itself naturally enough. We need not make an ostentatious display of our good qualities in order to represent the college life in the proper light. We like our friends, we prize our campus and University, we are fond of our amusements, and we realize the true greatness of the institution. We need not paint them all in the vivid colors in order to make them appeal to Dad.

Reports to the Association of American colleges show that there has been a fifty percent increase in the salaries of college presidents and faculty members within the last ten years. During the next ten years, it is probable that college professors will become legitimate prey of charitable organizations.

It is announced that Foundation day speakers will be heard all over the state by radio. Some students may argue that they are under no further obligation to attend the program: the speakers will have an audience anyway.

A California athletic coach says that he prefers to have his athletes in love during their period of training. Ask the co-ed if she prefers having her sweetheart subject to training rules during the period of courtship.

The boycott will be liable to slip this weekend. When Dad sets his mind on anything, he usually gets it whether or no.

CONTRIBUTORS' COLUMN

Editor Daily Iowan:
May I be permitted to express the fear that the group of students who are urging a boycott of certain Iowa City business men is in danger of doing serious injury to the University. With the policy of abstinence from purchase of goods or services for which a dealer makes an exorbitant charge I cordially sympathize. I have no sympathy at all with an attempt to force him to part with his property at the buyer's price, unless the product or service is one of the necessities of life. To regulate the sale of essential commodities there are due processes of law, and the courts may be involved. A boycott is a kind of mob law, and is un-American.

I hold no brief for the business men who are alleged to be profiteering, but we always have a recourse against the profiteer: to refrain from purchasing his product and to patronize his competitor. Free competition will always regulate prices after a season. Upon this thesis American business is founded. It seems to me that a boycott against dealers in such luxuries as pool, malted milk, and the movies is nothing less than ludicrous, and I do not like to see our students make themselves ridiculous.

The suggestion has been made that the business men appoint a committee to confer with a group of the boycotters. Such a proposal seems impossible, and I have strongly urged the business men to decline the attempt. For two years or more I have been a director of the Iowa City Commercial club, and I know that no committee or board can have the least authority to control other business men, however its members feel against this or that proposition. I have heard it stated that the Commercial club has exerted an effort to keep certain firms who might compete with Iowa City dealers out of the city. Take my word for it that this is false. Within twenty-four hours I have been told by a student that an Iowa City ordinance makes it impossible for a competing barber to open a shop here. The mayor informs me that the city has no ordinances whatever regarding barbers. As a matter of fact such things are governed by economic laws here as elsewhere.

In these times of financial stress it is very easy for any of us to charge his neighbor with profiteering, and sometimes the charges are well-founded. Those who are in touch with business conditions, however, know that merchandising at present is no sinecure. Thousands have failed; some in Iowa City. Not a few firms here have been able to weather the storm only through the aid of bankers and friends. The net profits of doing business today are not large. I do not know of any Iowa City retailer who has been or is getting rich.

As a matter of fact, it has always been possible here to buy at lower rates than some shops charge. The difficulty is that most of us are not satisfied with doing business in a poorly equipped establishment. We demand easy chairs, mahogany furniture, rapid service and the like, and we must pay for what we demand.

A boycott is particularly distasteful when it is initiated without a thorough investigation both of prices in other cities and of the local dealer's business conditions and hazards. I do not feel that I have the right to determine another man's prices, but I always am free to decide whether I care to buy at his rates. This is American, and it is far different from the force implied in a boycott.

It will not be betraying a confidence if I say that the Retail Merchants Association instituted an investigation of prices a few weeks ago at my suggestion and put at my disposal a sum of money for the purpose. A competent person has been employed and is at present working under the joint supervision of the secretary of the association and myself. If discrepancies are discovered, I am confident that they will be adjusted. It is entirely proper that a protest should be made against extortionate prices. If a dealer then finds that he cannot do business after a reduction, he should stand pat. Then I will decide for myself whether I will trade with him or with some one else.

For fifteen years I have known Iowa City business men, and I account them my friends. With exceptions whom I have learned to know and avoid, I should as soon expect one of my colleagues to treat me unjustly as one of them. I believe that the majority are interested in no mercenary way in the University and its students. Of course there are hot-heads among them who talk of retaliation and the like, but that is far from being the general attitude. It will be worth while to ascertain in a friendly way what the other fellow is up against. We can afford to keep cool.

WORK STARTS ON BLEACHERS

All Plans for 1922 Will Be Completed by Next September

The first step in the construction work, designed to increase the seating capacity of Iowa field and at the same time be a step toward the completion of the new stadium, has been taken.

All the contemplated improvements that are planned for 1922 will be completed when the football season opens next fall, says Howard H. Jones, director of athletics. The seating capacity at that time will be approximately 20,000.

Twenty-five Are Working
A squad of about twenty-five men is now engaged excavating a trench in the rear of the west bleachers and driving piles upon which the sea wall is to be built. The sea wall will also serve as a base upon which the extension of the west bleachers will rest, and incidentally will prevent the water entering Iowa field.

The extension of the west bleachers by the addition of twenty more rows of seats will follow shortly after the completion of the concrete sea wall. A similar extension will be made to the east side bleachers at some later time.

New Work is Steel
Two more sections of bleachers are to be added to the south side of the west bleachers, increasing the seating capacity by about 1600 seats. All of the new construction work is in steel, which will be painted gray so as to resemble the concrete bleachers.

The two new sections of bleachers will be slightly curved. The football field will be moved south about ten feet during the summer, placing the new construction closer to the field.

BUSINESS MAGAZINE TO BE SOLD FRIDAY

The fourth University publication to appear on the campus this week will be "The Journal of Business," the official publication of the Commerce club. "The Transit", the "Alumnus" and "Frisol" have preceded this year's first "Journal" which will appear on the campus Friday morning. Another issue will be published in May.

Articles of interest have been written by staff members of the college of commerce for the initial number. Frank H. Knight, associate professor of commerce, has written "Economics and business." Other articles are: "The place of labor courses in commerce curriculum," by Raleigh W. Stone, associate professor of commerce, "Reorganization of the Goodrich tire company," by Merle P. Gamber, instructor in commerce, "Business leadership," by Reid S. Fulton, assistant professor of commerce, and "The retail store," by Bradley N. Davis, instructor in commerce. H. S. Person, managing editor of the Taylor society of New York City has written an article on "Scientific management."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

W. A. A. vaudeville rehearsals will be held as follows: Saturday, February 25, 1 p. m., finale at women's gymnasium; Sunday, February 26, 6:30 a. m., entire rehearsal, Englert theater and Sunday, February 26, 3 p. m. dress rehearsal, women's gymnasium.

The cast of "The Big Blue Book" will not rehearse today.
Lillian Lawler.

Final tryouts for "Manana del Sol" will be held Friday at 5 p. m. in room 16, liberal arts building. The list of people who are to try out for these parts is posted in room 19, liberal arts.

COUNSELLOR TO CHINA ARRIVED YESTERDAY TO GIVE ADDRESSES

Dr. Paul S. Reinsch of Washington, D. C., who was envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to China during the world war, and is now counsellor to the Chinese republic, is speaking at the University Thursday and today, February 23 and 24.

Dr. Reinsch is a personal acquaintance of Prof. Benjamin F. Shambaugh, head of the department of political science. During his stay here, he will be a guest of the graduate college. Thursday afternoon at four o'clock he addressed a joint seminar-conference of the major students and staff of the departments of political science, history, and economics and sociology in the rooms of the state historical society. Arrangements will also be made for a public address today at four o'clock in the liberal arts assembly room.

Dr. Reinsch is a scholar of world politics concerning which he has written numerous books and contributions to magazines. He is the possessor of degrees from the University of Wisconsin, and has studied at the universities of Berlin, Rome, Paris and Peking. He was for sometime head of the department of political science at the University of Wisconsin, and held the Roosevelt professorship at the Universities of Berlin and Leipzig during 1911-1912. In his present capacity of counsellor to the Chinese republic, Dr. Reinsch advised the Chinese delegation at the recent disarmament conference in Washington, D. C.

JAPANESE AND CHINESE FAVOR CONFERENCE

"The popular sentiment of the Chinese and Japanese people toward the Washington conference, which has just negotiated seven treaties aiming to limit armaments and to solve the Far Eastern questions, was strongly in favor of the negotiations," said Bishop Francis J. McConnell of the Methodist Episcopal church on being interviewed.

At first the Chinese were very skeptical about the outcome of the conference but when they saw they were to gain something in their favor, they became enthusiastically interested. During the period of the negotiation at Washington nearly all the people of China were wrought up over the result and there was a great hope that the country would regain most of her territory taken from her by other countries, especially Japan. However, the result of the conference seems a little disappointing to the Chinese because very little concrete agreements were made in the treaties regarding the return of Chinese territories to the Chinese people.

As regards the Japanese people, there was a strong opposition against the conference by the militaristic class which believed that Japan could not gain anything. But the masses of the Japanese people regarded the conference as a means of lightening their burden of taxation. The outcome of the conference is regarded by them as a blessing which promises to do away with the gigantic military program that the government had already laid out.

Bishop McConnell said that the greatest blunder which the latter could possibly have made was to alienate the friendship of the former. Japan could not go far on her militaristic designs on China because the Chinese could effectively check her by merely adopting a policy of passive resistance, and as the Chinese people control all raw materials and the best thing for Japan to do is to win back the friendship by discontinuing her present imperialistic movements in China.

Bishop McConnell as a member of the North American-Chinese educational mission had spent more than four months in China and also some time in Japan so that he had an opportunity to acquire firsthand information regarding the present political situations in the orient.

MORE THAN 125 TICKETS SOLD NOW FOR SENIOR HOP

More than two-thirds of the tickets for the Senior Hop, which is to be held in the men's gymnasium, Friday, March 3, were gone last night. Because of the limited dancing space only 200 tickets were placed on sale. The sale began Thursday morning at the Iowa Supply company. Members of the Hop committee are now working on the plans. Decorations are to be for a spring party. Varsity orchestra will play.

Loan Fund Committee to Hold to Boycott Rules
In Regard to Price

The dance to be given tonight at the Cotillion hall is for the purpose of replenishing the nearly empty coffers of the student loan fund committee. At present there is about $20 left. Two small loans were made yesterday which would have been larger if more money were available.

"Present indications point to a large crowd at the dance tonight, that is, if the students hold to the regulation laid down by the boycott committee," said Edmund J. Harrington D4 of Sioux City, chairman. "We are operating with the boycott committee, and have lowered our price to $1.10."

"This is the last scheduled loan fund dance," Harrington continued, "but the committee expects to continue the dances, probably putting on one every two weeks."

Johnny Wright's orchestra will play tonight. The dance will start immediately after the masque given at the natural science auditorium is over so that there need be no conflicting campus activities.

speaking on the methods of teaching composition, a subject on which he is an authority.

Jessup Opens Program

The program for the conference opens in the liberal arts assembly hall at 9 this morning with the address of welcome by Pres. Walter A. Jessup. At 9:30 a. m. Prof. Allan Abbot will lead an informal discussion. Then comes Mr. C. C. Certain at 10:45 a. m. with another informal discussion.

Knight and Horn to Speak

At 1 p. m. Prof. Sterling A. Leonard will take the lead in an informal discussion on "Reading aloud and dramatization in literature classes." At 2 Professor Abbot will speak on "The measurement of poetic appreciation and its bearing on the teaching of poetry." Following this Prof. F. B. Knight of the University of Iowa will lead the discussion on the same subject. Prof. Ernest Horn of the University of Iowa will lecture on "Literature and music in the schools" at 3 p. m.

All to Attend Masque

At 4:30 the guests will have tea in the liberal arts drawing room with the members of the departments of English and speech. Dinner will be served at 6:15 p. m., at which time short talks will be given by various guests. The day will close with the presentation of "The coming of the Aiouwas," a masque by Edwin Ford Piper at the University theater, to which performance all the guests are invited.

Certain on Oral English

The second day's sessions commence at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow with a lecture on "Correction, criticism and grading of composition," by Professor Leonard. The discussion will be led by H. Y. Moffett of the department of English.

At the same hour a conference of teachers of speech will be held in room 24, liberal arts building, where Mr. Certain will lead in a discussion on the teaching of oral English.

Participate in Jubilee

At 10 a. m. the guests will be invited to the exercises in celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the University of Iowa. Professor Abbot will lecture on "The next step in the grammar problem," at 1:30 p. m. The discussion on this subject will be led by Prof. Thomas A. Knott of the University of Iowa.

The conference will close with a summary of its work by Prof. Hardin Craig.

community soon to be established is unfolded.

It is in the lyrics that the chief beauty of the masque lies. A fact to be expected when the work of Professor Piper is considered, for it is as a lyric poet that he has achieved his wide recognition.

He is not, however, to be thought of as a poet after the manner of the usual lyricists. In the first place he draws upon the middle west, the section of the country in which he was born and reared, for his material. The tramp, the farmer, the teamster, the wandering peddler, the country minister, all those who had a hand in the shaping of this section are grist to the mill of his consciousness, to be refined into verse that is strikingly virile, singularly lyric, perfectly unique.

As a matter of fact, so well has he represented the life of which he writes that his place among the poets of the day is a high one. Last January, for instance, he was invited by the Poetry Association of America in the person of no less a figure than Wytter Bynner to attend the annual dinner and deliver an address. The quality of his volume entitled "Barber Wire," a collection of the verse he had consumed, however, "Tramp Songs," try," and to other publications, began the national spread of his fame, a fame which is now an assured fact. His forthcoming volume, however, "Tramp songs," which is soon to be issued by an eastern publisher, will beyond doubt place him among the few really noteworthy names in the annals of present day American verse.

The masque, "The Land of the Aiouwas," has been put forth in book form, attractively printed and bound in paper, by the Midland Press and will be on sale at the various bookstores

The masque is under the direction of a committee composed of the following: Music composer, Prof. Philip G. Clapp; orchestra, Prof. Frank E. Kendrie; dances, Marion R. Lyon; art, Mr. Harry B. Goundrey; general director, Prof. E. C. Mabie.

Tickets at Iowa Supply

Music will be furnished by a specially selected orchestra. Tickets for the masque will be secured free of charge at the Iowa Supply company. Late yesterday afternoon, there were less than fifty tickets remaining for tonight's production and less than 200 were yet to be given out for Saturday night.

Assembly in Auditorium

Saturday's program will begin with the Diamond Jubilee assembly at 10 a. m. in the natural science auditorium, which will include a number of addresses by prominent people of the University and state and special music by the men's and women's glee clubs, the University orchestra, the University chorus, and the Silvis Shops glee club, which is composed of nineteen singers and two accompanists from the shops of the Rock Island railroad on a tour at present under the direction of Hal S. Ray, first assistant to the president of the road.

Jessup to Preside

The complete musical program is as follows: Overture to "Don Juan," Mozart, by the University orchestra; "John Peel," Andrews, by the men's glee club; "Spinning chorus," from "Flying Dutchman," Wagner, by the women's glee club; selections by the Silvis Shops glee club; and "Send out thy light," cunoda, by the University chorus.

President Walter A. Jessup will preside over the assembly, before which several prominent speakers will appear. Fred W. Sargent law '01 appear. Fred W. Sargent, law '01, will speak on "The alumni and the University." Mr. Sargent is chief counsel for the Northwestern railroad.

Goodrich and Everett Speakers

"The undergraduate and Iowa ideals," will be the subject of the speech by Edgar J. Goodrich, speaking on "Women of Iowa."

Prof. Charles C. Nutting, head of the department of zoology, who has been connected with the University for thirty-six years, the longest of any member of the present staff, will have as the subject of his address, "Thirty-six years on the faculty."

Board President to Talk

D. D. Murphy, president of the state board of education, will speak on "Landmarks in educational history."

"The American tradition of education," will be the topic of the address by John James Tigert, United States commissioner of education.

President Jessup will close the program with an address, "The outlook of the University."

Piper Unable to Attend

Saturday at 12:30 a. m. an informal jubilee luncheon will be held at the Jefferson hotel open to anyone who reserves a place with John C. Parish in room 301 liberal arts before Friday evening. The price will be $1. Henry G. Walker, a local attorney, will preside as toastmaster over a program purely informal in nature, as a number of prominent men in attendance will be called on.

In the evening, the masque, "The Land of the Aiouwas," will be repeated as a close to the celebration. Professor Piper, the author, who was operated on Tuesday for appendicitis, is reported to be getting along very well, but is confined to his bed and will be unable to see his production.

REGULATIONS ON BOOKS

"Students using the library seldom violate the regulations governing the use and abuse of books intentionally," said Miss Gertrude Krausnick, reference librarian. "Many times, however, thoughtless students stuff library books with paper, or leave them open with the face of the book to the table, and have to be reminded that this breaks the binding."

Probably the most noticeable carelessness on the part of students is to take magazines and papers from the rack and not return them to their respective places, say the men who clear the tables and return the papers and magazines to their places.

ALUMNUS GIVES BEST HISTORY

Jubilee Number on Sale Today Lauded by Faculty Men

The Diamond Jubilee number of "The Alumnus," published in honor of the seventy-fifth year of the University, is on sale today in the liberal arts hall, natural science building and the professional colleges.

President Walter A. Jessup has recommended this number of "The Alumnus" to members of the University, as he thinks it very worth while that students and faculty should know something of the development of the University.

Contains History

A chronological history of the former University presidents, and occurrences of interest during their terms, from the beginning up until today is one of the biggest features of this magazine.

"Curiously enough, except for one or two formal books, we have no available sketches of these first seventy-five years of the University," said Prof. Forest C. Ensign, yesterday. "As secretary of the University association I earnestly hope that the demand will justify printing a very large edition."

Weller Praises Magazine

Prof. C. H. Weller has contributed an article on the perspective of the next twenty-five years of the University. There are about forty pictures in the magazine and about fifteen leading articles.

Professor Weller remarked, "I have been closely in touch with the preparation of the Diamond Jubilee number of 'The Alumnus.' For all our seventy-five years we have too few such publications. I hope that no fewer than a thousand copies will be demanded right here on the campus."

The plan of selling tickets was adopted in order to discover how many numbers would need to be published. Tickets are redeemable at any of the bookstores.

WRESTLERS TO ENTRAIN TODAY

Jacobsen Will Take on Nebraska's 145-pound Man Tomorrow

With a victory over Purdue a season opener, and after another week of hard work under Coach Howard, the wrestling team leaves today for Lincoln, where they expect to conquer the University of Nebraska wrestlers. The men came out of the meet with the strong Purdue team without any injuries and should show much improvement in form at Lincoln.

The men who journey to Lincoln are the contestants of last Friday with the addition of Jacobsen who will probably appear in the 145-pound class. Two matches are found to be too much for one man in a meet, hence the decision that Captain Sweeney will compete only in the 135-pound class. Other men to wrestle with the Cornhuskers are Pfeffer, Vana, James, Hunter, and Heldt.

Ames Beat Nebraska

The team at Nebraska is probably not as strong as last year's, when Iowa won from them in Iowa City by a narrow margin. They have been contestants in three meets this season, having won from Minnesota and Northwestern, and lost their meet with Ames. The overwhelming score of the Ames victory would indicate that Iowa should find them easier than Purdue.

Conference Meet Men's Goal

With one public appearance and the experience of competition under the new rules, the mat men should begin to show possibilities as conference contenders. As the men who will compete in the conference event at Madison, Wisconsin, are to be chosen on their season's record, all men will do their utmost to obtain quick falls, if possible, rather than to be satisfied with a decision.

The Chi Omega sorority, captained by Fern Wolford A4 of Lone Tree, won first place in the Hawkeye sorority sales contest with a total of 273 subscriptions, having held the lead throughout the entire contest. The Alpha Chi Omegas, led by Gladys James A3 of Williamsburg, was a close second with 264 books sold. Third place was taken by the Tri Deltas whose captain was Helen Lawrence A3 of Enid, Oklahoma, by selling a total of 213 Hawkeyes.

369 sales were reported the last day, which brought the number of subscriptions up to 2083. These together with the usual number of outside subscriptions will make the total sales for the year about 2250, which is the largest subscription list in the Hawkeyes' history.

The three cups given as prizes will be left on display at the Iowa Supply company for several days before they will be presented to the winners. If present plans are carried out, a page will be given to the pictures of the winning captains and the cups won by their sororities. The final standing will also be given.

ENGINEERS TO REVEAL MOTOR PROPELLED BY ESSENCE OF GARBAGE

One of the greatest discoveries in recent years will be made public on Mecca day March 18. Furfurel, the new motor fuel that chemical engineers have been working on for the last year, is at last to be given a public test to see that it lives up to all that it is claimed to do. Furfurel is a substance made from cigar stubs, orange skins, corn cobs and husks, banana and potato peelings and cigarette butts that are found lying around on the campus. The chemical process is claimed to be a very simple one and a revolutionary wave in motor-propelled vehicles is expected to follow the public announcement. A special motor designed by the mechanical department and run by this new fuel is also to be shown on exhibition that day.

This new discovery is much like the old compressed air motor of a few years ago that was designed by the Iowa engineers and caused so much talk from different parts of the state and brought many inquiries from different sources.

The parade committee is in charge of this motor and promises to have it in working order for the big parade. The plans of the parade are well under way at the present time and each man is doing his share toward making the parade a success. Each room in the engineering building is assigned one or more stunts for the parade and is responsible for their success in the parade.

MODESTY SEEMS TO BE CAUSE OF FEW ENTRIES IN FRIVOL BEAUTY RACE

Is modesty keeping numerous Iowa beauties in the dark? Efforts are being made to make the Frivol beauty contest to be concluded about March 5, now being conducted, an all University contest, with true beauty at stake.

All sororities except Pi Beta Pi have promised three beauties for entrance in the contest. Indications are that a number of non-sorority women will enter.

"We will not have this an inter-sorority contest or a popularity contest," said Luola G. Madison A3 of Cedar Rapids, who is in charge. "Unless non-sorority women enter, we will drop it."

Each entry in the contest has a chance to win the $30 photograph of herself, size 14 by 22, given by Townsend's studio. The three most beautiful contestants, to be chosen by secret judges, will have their photographs in the Des Moines Register, The Daily Iowan, and Frivol. The entrants will automatically be in the Register $1,000 beauty contest and the winner from each county will be presented with a silver loving cup.

Mr. Townsend said, yesterday, "There are any number of beautiful women here. I don't see why they will not enter."

"It is just because they are modest," said Miss Madison. "We do not care how old the pictures are or where they were taken."

Pictures of entrants should be left at Townsend's studio or given to Miss Madison.

FARM-BLOC MAY PROVE POWERFUL IN FUTURE ACCORDING TO PORTER

The farm-bloc in the United States senate has the potential power to change the economic destiny of American farmers, said Prof. Kirk H. Porter of the political science department yesterday. In all likelihood the farm-bloc will merge with the old progressives in the republican party, and this merger will no doubt be reinforced by a group of the Wilson liberals who now hold seats in the United States senate. Such a combination would be strong enough to control the major portion of the senate's legislation in the future, is the opinion of Prof. Porter. Maneuvers on the part of the old guard in the senate, and the administration generals are largely responsible for the appointment of Senator Wm. S. Kenyon to the federal judgeship. Senator Kenyon was one of the farm-bloc chiefs; perhaps its most outstanding leader. His leaving the senate to take up the duties of his new position will handicap the progressives and bring comfort to the reactionaries in the senate, says Professor Porter.

Professor Porter does not think that the farm-bloc will be able to accomplish much if it retains the class character that it started out with. He points out the disintegration of the farmer-labor party as a warning. If the farm-bloc group allies itself with the progressives, it can quite easily succeed in winning for farmer's cooperatives exemption from prosecution under the Sherman anti-trust law, and thus enable the farmers of America to

KAPPAS AND SIG EPS WIN

Cedar Rapids Wins High School Class in Meet Wednesday

Cedar Rapids high school galloped away with the greatest share of the honors in the second annual indoor relay carnival staged in the new armory Wednesday night, when their team captured a total of 38 points. Ames followed second with 18, and Grinnell was third with 14 points.

In the interfraternity relay, Sigma Phi Epsilon won the handsome plaque for first place, and another lease on the traveling trophy, the large silver loving cup which will now spend another year on their mantle piece. Phi Kappa Psi was second, while Sigma Nu finished third.

Kappas Win Relay

The men representing Kappa Kappa Gamma, Peterman, Wilson, Brookins, and Brown, won the sorority relay, with the Tri-Delts second and Pi Phi third. Several other events for University competitors were held.

Iowa City Doesn't Score

Cedar Rapids captured seven firsts of the eleven events staged in the carnival, and also one second place. The Cedar Rapids team was primed for the victory, having won the indoor meet about two weeks ago at Ames. Ames put up some stiff competition against her former adversary, but could not overcome their superior athletic prowess.

Of the fourteen high schools who made entries two failed to score any points, and the others, excluding the first three place winners, won scattered events: Davenport took fourth place with eight points; West Waterloo, fifth with six points; University high, sixth, five points; Newton, seventh, four points; Marion, eighth, three points; Anamosa, ninth, two points; Mason City, tenth, one point. Atlantic and Iowa City high school failed to score.

High School Events

50-yard dash, Waters (Cedar Rapids) first, Rivers (Grinnell) second, Phelps (Davenport) third. Time :06.

Mile run, Irwin (Cedar Rapids) first, Drew (Marion) second, Abel (Mason City) third. Time 4:49 3-5.

CHAMPIONSHIP RELAYS TO BE RUN AT GOPHER MEET

The University championship relay between the winning teams in the fraternity, Quadrangle, and military races was not held last Wednesday, but will be one of the added features of the dual meet with Minnesota tomorrow.

R. O. T. C. STUDENTS PAY BUT LITTLE REGARD TO THEIR UNIFORMS

A consensus of opinion among R. O. T. C. students as to the manner of wearing the uniform and the advisability of wearing it in its entirety is conspicuously absent on the campus this year. One of the purposes of wearing the uniform is to secure a uniformity of appearance among the cadets.

Even to the indifferent it is notoriously obvious that this desired effect is not gained. No two wearers of the olive drab appear alike.

Campus authorities differ on where and how the wrapped puttee ought to be anchored. Some regard it as a mere ankle guard while others are apparently lead to believe that it has merits as a knee splint. Occasionally students are seen who wear the wrapped puttee in conjunction with an oxford.

It is quite generally agreed that the old regulation that pockets be kept buttoned is now obsolete. Bulging pockets with the flaps rippling in the February winds can be seen anytime and anywhere about the campus. The hats which were issued other years have finally been replaced by caps which add to the appearance of the wearer if worn properly. This is seldom done. The prevalent tendency is to wear the cap with its visor parallel to the ground.

The tradition seems to be established that the uniform was intended to be worn all day by those who have board jobs; while those who do not do outside work look upon it as a habit to be worn for hunting, skating or carousing and do not often appear at drill in the uniform.

An entire uniform may be seen upon one individual at the military ball; at any other time or place it is a rare coincidence to look upon a complete uniform in the company of first or second year men. The high, stiff collar of the blouse is unpopular and is usually replaced by the leather jerkin or the more comfortable sack coat. The military cap is supplanted by a head gear which covers a greater area. Shoes vary both in color, size and shape, all equally inharmonious with other parts of the garb.

KAY APPROVES COUNCIL PLAN

Proposed Amendment Will Be Voted Upon Next Tuesday Night

The proposed amendment to the constitution of the Student Council which plans to alter completely the council's organization and policies meets the approval of Director Ralph Grassfield of the Memorial Union, Dean Kay of the college of liberal arts and of prominent faculty members.

The suggested amendment, making the student council membership consist of the presidents of campus organizations, representatives of all colleges, a faculty advisor, will be voted upon at the next meeting of the student council February 28 and if passed will be referred to all of the colleges for action. If adopted by five colleges it will become part of the constitution.

Grassfield Backs Movement
Director Ralph Grassfield in speaking of the proposed plan to make the new student council with its proposed five year program for the Memorial Union organization, said yesterday:

"No factory, organization, or institution has ever been built in a day. For many years the students on the Iowa campus have been discussing student self-government, powerful all-University organizations and student councils. Attempts have been made to create such an organization here. In the enthusiasm of the moment the students have been brought together under formal constitutions and by-laws. The enthusiasm passed and the organization itself dwindled down to a few who have struggled valiantly to keep the organization alive and functioning. It seems to me that in this period of social readjustment is the time for us here to take an inventory of what we have, then design a program for work that will march forward toward the goal we shall set. I think the student council is on the right track."

Dean George F. Kay of the college of liberal arts, commenting on the proposed new organization said, "The new organization puts the emphasis on the welfare of the University as a whole rather than upon any individual part of it. It seems to me that such an organization can, by working in close cooperation with the administration, do a splendid work for the institution."

The essence of the proposed changes of the student council is as follows:

1. A council composed of the leaders of campus activities.
2. A council, since it is composed of campus leaders, can direct and coordinate all student activities.
3. A council which is a really representative body and which can consider all matters pertaining to the student body.
4. The formation, from the policies and plans of campus organization of a five year program of student plans and aims.
5. An organization with several years of experience behind it in directing the activity of the student body toward the goals set forth in the five year program will be ready to make possible the fulfilling of the Memorial Union as the center of all student life.
6. An organization which will have the building of the Union as one of its aims.
7. Closer cooperation between students and the administration through a faculty advisor.

DOCTOR BALDWIN TO PRESENT STANDARDS AT HEALTH COUNCIL

Dr. Bird T. Baldwin, director of the Child welfare research station, will go to New York the first of March to present to the National health council his standards of growth for American children. These height and weight standards are the result of eleven years' systematized measurement of children between the ages of five and eighteen years, and include over twelve thousand measurements for each sex.

The work has been carried on under Dr. Baldwin's direction in certain schools of cities from Washington, D. C., to Iowa City, among which are the Horace Mann school of Columbia university, New York, the Iowa University observation schools and the University of Chicago elementary and high schools.

This group of schools are the only schools in America and probably in the world that have made an organized system of measurements of child growth over a period of years. Dr. Baldwin began the work in 1910 while at the University of Chicago. At last year's meeting of the national health council, which is a federation of the National tuberculosis association, the Child labor association, the United States public health service, the Bureau of education and other national organizations, Dr. Baldwin was delegated to prepare the measurement tables for presentation to the Health council. If they are approved, they will be nationally accepted as standards of child growth.

The measurements have been taken on children and are correct to the millimeter. Every fact on which the charts are based has been carefully verified, even to birthdays. A special training has been required for the individuals who took the measurements and standardized conditions always assured. All children who were very tall and light or very short and heavy, and children with marked deformities and abnormal diseases, were eliminated before the tables were begun.

Other tables may be prepared later from further measurements, in addition to weight and height, which have been taken at the same time.
