County Organizations Are Getting Ready for Campaigns

"To complete the Iowa Memorial Union Fund this past year is the task of the board of trustees," was the concise statement made by trustees, John C. Driscoll, Director of the Memorial Union.

"For the past few months bands have been playing throughout the country. The trustees were unfazed and a material strengthening of confidence within the State of Iowa has been evident, due, perhaps, to the efforts of the band leaders in seeking to project the future of the Memlial Union."—

In the case of these places with projects in their county organizations are now

1. Volunteers who have been working with the Jenny Lind Hall and Alumni Hall.
   Elks, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, Swift A. Chace and Elks, Swift A. Chace of Des Moines.

2. Members of the Student Body of the College of Liberal Science and Letters. This group plans to make a large effort to find students who are interested in helping the cause.

3. Women. Some of the women who have been working for the Union are now distributing cards. These students will continue their efforts to help the Union during the next year. Other women will help to organize the new Union financial campaign for the year 1922-23.

Before a gathering of the public, the Honorable John P. Gilmore, director of the University of Texas for 1930, and who has recently been appointed by the United States to the international law at the University of California, reminded his talk the following four points:

Professor Garner declared that no league of nations could be effective in preserving peace and order in the world, unless every state is willing to assure that the organization and responsibilities. The lack of willingness on the part of some leading world powers is a threat to the expansion of the present league, he said in his opinion.

The state has been made by Congress and established by international law, and this can be done without offending the state individually.

The speaker stated that he em-
