UNION CAMPAIGN TODAY CONFINED TO INDIVIDUALS

District in City, Mapped Out by Day, Convened

VOLENTUERS NEEDED

Mildred Frewell Will Conference, Campagnes

Memorial Union machinery is still running at high speed and the large number of cards turned out yesterday materially increased the final which passed the $100,000 mark Wednesday. Every organization on the campus under the Union officers' supervision, with the exception of those which have reached the results are still being turned in by enthusiastic students.

Individuals Selected

Work yesterday and today is being continued in the final closeup, particularly among students, and it is expected that all work will be completed by Thursday, when the Union officers will be in conference to canvass the excellent results of the campaign. Several numbers of the same county will be worked, with the city into districts each of which will be assigned to a specific student, and who will be expected to canvas as far as possible the entire district. Members of the team will be handed out the completed maps of their districts, the numberous districts being assigned to the Union officers. This way every student who has Washington, secretary of the Iowa baseball team, open their hand to make another man.

IOWA UNION

The Iowa Memorial Union will mean much more to our University than its present pledge drive and possibly indicates. Naturally the question which the Union was in mind is that of proper control. As the title indicates, the house will stand as a memorial to the sons and daughters who gave their lives in the Civil, Spanish-American, and World wars. With any son or daughter of American ancestry present, it is possible to conceive and to realize the diverse objectives of those who established the Union. Every student will be able to find a fitting home for the many student activities and experiences that are inspired by the Memorial Union.

Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., AND NEWMAN TO FINANCE UNIVERSITY HANDBOOK

At a meeting of Newman club last Wednesday evening it was decided to double the price of the issue for the University Handbook, in order to raise the necessary for financing the book by advertising. The original price for this year was twenty cents. The new price will be fifty cents. The purchase of the handbook will serve as a fitting tribute for the many student activities that are sponsored by the Union.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA
COMPOSED MAINLY OF AMERICAN MUSICIANS

The St. Louis symphony orchestra, which will play at the men's gymnasion on Thursday, April 28, will bring fifty-six from its regular orchestra of more than eighty-five.

One of the distinctions of this orchestra is that it possesses a greater number of American-born musicians in its personnel than any other American orchestra. More than half of its members were born in this country.

European Boys

The orchestra also has members from Italy, France, England, Denmark, Austria, Belgium, Poland, and Germany. Monostes D. Akins, who plays violin, was born in a village in the Philippines, having acquired artistic experience in his country.

The St. Louis Symphony orchestra is organized in a military form, with a captain, or leader, for each section, an assistant conductor, who occupies the position of regimental adjutant, and a commissary, who corresponds to the lieutenant-colonel of a regiment. This formation is always followed in all orchestras of more than fifty men.

Symphonies are Leader

Conductor Ralph Combs is the commander-in-chief, with Michel Guiskoff, first violin player, as his chief lieutenant, and assistant conductor.

The new above rigid discipline, and none ever leave their seats at the end of a performance until the last performer has risen and left the platform.
