PURDUE BEATS IOWA 5-1 IN LOOSE GAME

Wallace Too Much for Iowa Batters as Boilermakers Get Ten Bingles

TRAVIS' OFFERINGS EASY

Barret Fails to Hold Men On Bases As Four Are Stolen

Lafayette, Ind., April 28: Purdue defeated Iowa in the game played here this afternoon by a score of 5 to 1. The Iowa team was unable to connect with the offerings of Wallace, Purdue's star pitcher, who held the Hawkeyes to four hits. Purdue in the meantime made ten hits off of Travis and Becker.

Purdue Finds Travis

Travis started the game for Iowa, but the Boilermakers were not slow in getting at him and he was relieved by Becker in the third inning. Travis was wild, and gave two bases on balls in the two innings that he pitched. Becker held Purdue scoreless until the eighth inning when three singles and a twobagger sent over two more runs.

Iowa failed to score until the last inning when two of their hits were combined into the single run that the Hawkeyes were able to gather. Michaelson was the only Iowa batsman who seemed to have his eye, the husky captain managing to gather two of the four hits that Iowa made.

Baserunners Go Wild

The Purdue baserunners had little difficulty in stealing bases and garnered four of them during the game. This and the pitching of Wallace were the only features of the game. Wallace was in fine form. He did not allow a base on balls, he struck out eight Iowa batters, and held the Iowa team, which had gathered eleven hits off the Illinois pitchers, to four hits. He was given fine support by his team mates and the two errors that they made did not aid in Iowa's scoring. Wagner, who has pitched for Purdue in the past was one of the big cogs in the offensive work of the Boilermakers. His three bagger in the first inning started the scoring, and was the longest hit of the game.

Weakness in Pitchers

After losing two games on this trip Iowa will come home for some hard practice before meeting Illinois again. It looks as if the weakness in the Iowa team is again in the pitchers. Frohwein apparently being the only one capable of standing up against a good team, and he only for about seven innings. The loss to Illinois, however, cannot be blamed on the Iowa hurlers, as errors by Shimek at critical times enabled the Illini to creep up and tie the score. The Iowa batters yesterday did not give their pitchers any margin to work on. The batters who were able to hit the supposedly superior pitchers on the Illinois staff could not connect with the offerings of Purdue's twirler. Both pitching and hitting will have to be improved upon if Iowa is to finish in the first division in conference baseball this year.

Draper made a circus catch in the game with Illinois, when he made a one-handed catch of a hard hit ball. He turned a complete somersault after making the play, but managed to hang on to the ball.

Summary of the Purdue-Iowa game.

NEWLON TALKS ON DEPRESSION

Conference of Supervisors Shows Registration Increase

Pronouncing the business depression a blessing in disguise to the present school system, Supt. Jesse Newlon of Denver gave an interesting talk yesterday to the conference of supervisors which outlines an efficient program in school administration. He said the depression had called attention to school problems which formerly have received only traditional thinking. The psychology of the American people is wrong and though tax revision is necessary he believed the schools should take the leadership in the movement.

Registration Shows Increase

Registration figures today showed the number of superintendents and educators attending the conference of supervisors had increased to 250 during yesterday's session. The principal speakers from other schools and universities who addressed the conference yesterday were Jesse Newlon, superintendent of schools at Denver, Colo., who spoke on "School Costs and the Business Depression"; Charles Judd, director of the school of education of Chicago University who spoke on "Reading Habits as Cultivated by different Types of Material" and "A Half a Century of Educational Expansion" and R. G. Jones, superintendent of schools of Cleveland Ohio who spoke on Economy in Education Measured in Quality Time and Money.

Dean Russel, Prof. F. B. Knight, Prof. Charles L. Robbins, Prof. Harry A. Greene, Director O. E. Klingaman and Prof. Thomas J. Kirby were members of the department of education who addressed the conference.

A reception was given by President Mrs. Walter A. Jessup yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock for the conference attendants at the president's home. The reception was followed by a dinner at the Pagoda at which Prof. Forest E. Ensign acted as toastmaster.

To Present Intelligence Test

The conference will continue through this morning with one change in program. Professor Ensign will not give the address scheduled, but assisted by Wilhelmine Koeth who has charge of the mental tests at the University of Iowa, will present the Iowa intelligence tests showing the results of the tests given to 800 freshman in 1920 and to 1000 freshman in 1921.

CLOSE DELTA SIGMA RHO MEETINGS WITH BANQUET LAST NIGHT

Delta Sigma Rho, honorary forensic fraternity closed the second day of its annual general council meetings here with a banquet at the Hotel Jefferson at which national president Stanley B. Houck of Minneapolis acted as toastmaster. Two spirited meetings were held yesterday at Irving hall at 9:30 and 1:45. Robert R. Aurner G. of Iowa City, president of Iowa chapter, expressed himself as well pleased with the amount of work which had been accomplished the two days that the convention has been in session. The Iowa chapter feels it quite an honor to have the national council meeting at Iowa as this council meets but once in two years, and has heretofore never been held west of the Mississippi.

The national officers are to hold office for another year. They are Stanley B. Houck of Minneapolis president; Grace Smith of New York City, vice-president and Mabel Mason Carlton, Cambridge, Mass., secretary-editor.

At the forenoon meeting there was a discussion of general regulations for the fraternity. In the afternoon, the officers were re-elected and other unfinished business completed.

IOWA PLACES 3 MEN AT DRAKE

Hoffman, Meder and Shope Survive First Day of Competition

WEBER WILL REPORT IOWA PART IN DRAKE RELAYS FOR IOWAN

Francis J. Weber, assistant sports editor of The Daily Iowan will cover the Drake relays for the paper, according to arrangements completed yesterday. Weber will cover the meet as a whole with special emphasis on the part Iowa athletes play. A detailed story of the meet will appear in Sunday morning's Iowan, with a complete summary of the events.

Des Moines, Ia., April 28:—Hotly contested events featured the opening day of the Drake relays here yesterday which were given over to the preliminaries in the running events and qualifications in the field events. Meder, Iowa pole vaulter was among the number who qualified with ease, clearing the bar at 11 ft. 3 inches. Belding, of Iowa University, participated in the initial heat of the 120 yard high hurdles but failed to place. Shope, however, placed second for Iowa in this event and Hoffman qualified in the high jump.

True to expectations of the multitude of track fans that are assembled here for the relays, the dashes give promise of being the most interesting of the meet. Paulu of Grinnell, Hayes of Notre Dame, Spetz of Wisconsin, and Ayres of Illinois, were the winners of the four heats in the 100 yard dash. All were bitterly waged races and Ayres of Illinois, who forged across the tape in :10 was credited with the fastest time.

Summary
The preliminaries and qualifying events of the 100 yard dash, 120 yard high hurdles, broad jump, discus throw, polevault, high jump, shot put and javelin throw were held yesterday. A summary of the days events is as follows:

WILL HOLD CANOE DEMONSTRATION TODAY

A canoe demonstration will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Fitzgerald's boat house, under the direction of Ernest G. Schroeder of the department of physical education for men with members of the Eels club illustrating the points brought out.

"FASCINATING PRINCESS" TICKETS TO GO ON SALE AT NINE O'CLOCK TODAY

Tickets for both performances of "The Fascinating Princess" the largest and most representative production ever attempted on the University campus go on sale at the box office at the Englert theatre promptly at 9 o'clock this morning.

Cast Working Hard

The cast of sixty has been working over time for the last two weeks and has succeeded in generating the pep and go that is worthy of a production of this character. "It is all around the best looking cast I have ever coached and the way they have entered into the spirit of the play is remarkable" stated Mr. Harry Foster, of the Foster Bureau which is coaching the production.

Advance reports from the ticket sale point to a full house on both nights and it is assured that the real purpose of the production, which is to create a substantial addition to the student loan fund will be realized.

Matinee on Monday

The Monday matinee will be staged in order that Iowa City school children may attend and for that reason the price of admission is set at twenty-five cents. The evening performances will be put on Monday and Tuesday nights and for these two performances tickets for any seat in the house are being sold at a dollar. Ten cents war tax will be charged as seats are reserved at the box office.

The wide acquaintance of the different members of the cast and the well known dramatic ability of those who carry the speaking roles in the musical comedy have caused much comment concerning the show on the campus and the added advantage that it is for the benefit of the student loan fund are indicative of a capacity house both nights.

Tickets are still on sale at the University book store as well as at the different fraternity and sorority houses and at Currier Hall and the Quadrangle.

ALVINA BUCK IS Y. W. SECRETARY

Graduate of State Teachers College; Experienced in Work

That the general secretaryship of the Y. M. C. A. for the next academic year will be filled by Alvina Buck, at present a graduate student at Columbia, was the announcement of the advisory board of the association today. Miss Buck will succeed Mrs. Earle L. Waterman, who has served as acting secretary I. Bash, who was called to her home since the resignation of Mary in Seattle, Wash., last November by the illness of her mother.

Is Experienced Teacher

The new general secretary has had considerable teaching experience in high schools throughout the state and although this is her first university secretaryship, recommendations received from the national board and from the offices of the central field state that she has a remarkable record for vocational work with high school associations. In connection with her graduate work in deanship for women at Columbia University she has attended the secretarial training schools, where she was a pupil and a close friend of Winifred Wygal; traveling secretary for the north central field of which Iowa is a part.

Graduate of State Teachers College

Miss Buck is a graduate of the Iowa State teachers college at Cedar Falls, where she was president of the Y. W. C. A. "We are very fortunate in obtaining Miss Buck," stated Mrs. J. J. Lambert of the committee in charge of securing a new secretary, "She comes to us highly recommended in regard to her personality as well as by her successful work in the association in the past."

HAWKEYES WIN SWIMMING MEET WITH 31 POINTS

East Waterloo Wins High School Meet by 14 Point Margin

CENTURY SWIM CLOSE

Men's Relay Event Won By Acceptors of Challenge

Iowa won the Seals Club annual intercollegiate swimming meet last night at the men's gymnasium with a total of 34 points. Cedar Falls was second with 18, Burlington Junior college third with six points and Cornell fourth with five points. East Waterloo won the interscholastic meet with a total of 25 points, Burlington second with 11, Cedar Falls third with eight, and University High fourth with five.

In the college meet Catherine Wright of Iowa and Gladys Rudston of Cedar Falls tied for individual honors with fourteen points each. Rudston took first in the fancy diving and the 20 yard breast stroke, second in plain diving, and third in the 100 yard swim. Wright took first in the 40 and 100 yard swims second in the 40 yard breast stroke, and third in the 40 yard back stroke. Mary Robinson of Burlington high school was individual point winner in the high school meet with a total of nine points. Her brilliant backstroke race was one of the features of the meet.

Twins Show Up Well

Elsie and Marie Christofferson of Cedar Falls, who are twins, showed up well and contributed a great deal to their school total. A plunge of 51 feet by Jergenson of East Waterloo in the high school meet is one of the best plunges ever made by a high school girl in this state. Crasaut of Cedar Falls also did exceptionally well in this event.

Iowa girls who showed up well in the meet are Mary Freeman with a first in plain diving and second in fancy diving, Margarita McGovney with a second in the 40 yard dash, and Amy Louise Benner with a first in the plunge and third in the 40 yard back stroke. Iowa won all three places in the 40 yard dash.

100 Yard Swim Sensational

The 100 yard swim was one of the most sensational swims of the evening. Miss Wright and Miss Rudston swam together up to the last turn and then Miss Wright with a powerful crawl crept into the lead.

The 160 yard relay between eight university men was a special feature. Four men, Clarke, Gage, Stover, and Klingaman, issued a challenge to any four other men in the University, agreeing to give a suitable handicap. The challenge was accepted by Goltman, Weber, Shepherd, and Rich. The acceptors won by a close margin.

A capacity crowd, 500, witnessed the meet.

THE OPEN DOOR

Columbia university has now revised its entrance requirements and placed them on a basis of intelligence. Anyone who can pass the entrance examination regardless of how little or how much schooling he has had may register as a student at that university.

This appears to be a radical change from the majority of college entrance requirements which restrict entrance to those who can present evidence of a certain number of hours of Latin and mathematics, or credits representing a number of years spent at another educational institution.

Columbia has thus broken down all precedents and is blazing a new trail in opening its doors and offering its education facilities to those who can demonstrate their fitness for devoting their time to study instead of restricting its advantages to those who have been fortunate enough to have spent a certain number of years of their life in school, regardless of innate capacity.

The changed attitude which Columbia is showing toward those who should be given preference in higher education is a healthy and practical one when we consider the enormous waste which is brought about by educating those whose wealth compensates for their lack of brain power and by denying higher education to those who have the intelligence because they have not had the advantages of twelve or fourteen years of scholastic preparation.

NEARING THE ROCKS

During the remaining weeks of the semester it is inevitable that the will to study is going to be slackened. It is useless to advise against shutting our eyes to distractions of spring; nature is in her glory, the woods and river are never more alluring, and their beauty is for our enjoyment. But there is a danger of an overabundance of appreciation of nature on the part of some students. How many will be victims of this spring-fever weakness can not be estimated except by past experience.

A few, in the past, have yielded to the lure of the river and have glided on in forgetfulness of the realism that the home stretch of the semester is of some importance in one's standing for the year. It is easy for one to forget that an otherwise estimable scholastic career may be dimmed if not ruined by slumping in the last stretch.

But all admonition is unnecessary if students do not become intoxicated with the enticements of spring to the extent that they forget to keep their equilibrium as regards the healthy apportionment of leisure and working hours. The ancient adage, "Be temperate in all things", may be profitably employed as a safeguard against the natural temptations of the last few weeks of the semester.

IF THEY ONLY KNEW
(Daily Californian)

(The following editorial was written with special regard to the situation at California. It is reprinted here because we suspect it is equally applicable to other campuses.)

We are led to believe that professors teach because of their love to do so. They teach because they desire to serve humanity, and not because of the mere financial gain involved.

There is unbounded opportunity for such service in a student body as large as ours. We regret that our professors do not take advantage of it as they might. We regret that so many of them appear to be blind to the chances to serve humanity that are given to them.

Professors aren't supposed to be interested in student life, but they should be. They aren't supposed to express much concern over the problems of student government, but they should. They aren't supposed to read the Pelican, the Daily Californian, but they ought to. They aren't expected to care very much whether California wins a crew race or not, but they should.

A professor expects too much of a student if he desires him to leave student life behind and step into an exclusive academic life the moment he enters the class room. One cannot pull himself suddenly out of one world and drop into another without becoming a bit befogged and disinterested.

If our professors only knew how much more they could accomplish in the way of education if they would inform themselves upon the student topics of the day and become truly interested in campus life we would undoubtedly have a more effective faculty. Students want professors who know the campus world and understand its problems. Knowledge taken from professors who understand the student and speak to him upon the common ground of University life is the knowledge that makes lasting education and good students.

The news is announced that all messages received from the spirits during the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Spiritualistic Association will be broadcasted over the country by radiophone. The question as to the atmosphere's being able to hold all our messages has already been raised. What will it be if all the dead from a long series of past ages begin to send their messages?

Prince Mohammed Ali Ibrahim—never mind who he is—says that he prefers the American girls above all others. It may be significant to add that he spent only three months in the United States.

ELEVEN ENGINEERS INSPECT PLANTS AND WORKS AT DES MOINES

Seen only by the milkman on his early rounds, eleven senior civil engineers hurried down to the depot yesterday morning to make the 4:15 Rock Island flyer to Des Moines where they will inspect several manufacturing plants and public utility works; and stay over for the Drake Relays. This trip is the second in a series of inspection tours scheduled for the various departments of the engineering college. The first trip was taken by a party of electricals who gave the leading manufacturing and industrial plants of Chicago the once over, and the third trip will be taken by the water power class who will go to Keokuk May 19 to inspect the great dam over the Mississippi river.

Among plants that are being visited are the Des Moines Water works, the gas plant, the electric light plant, the Des Moines bridge and iron works, the Pittsburg Des Moines Steel Co., the Iowa Packing Co., and the cement plant. The bridges over the Des Moines river will also be closely inspected.

Following is a list of men who are making the trip: Theodore Hartman of Cedar Rapids, Philip Mills of Mt. Pleasant, Fred Potgeter of Steamboat Rock, Vern Price of Cordova, Dorsey Shultice of Altoona, James Wasson of Davenport, Ralph Whiteford of Williamsburg, Jack Moran of Davenport, Homer Strait of Humboldt, Ray Liechi of Sigourney, and Robert Tlusty of Cedar Rapids.

WILL IMPROVE ARMORY GROUNDS THIS SUMMER

Several improvements will be made around the new armory during the summer months by the board in control of athletics. Arrangements are being made for street lights to be placed along the road leading to the new armory from the river bridge on Burlington street. The congestion of cars at basketball games last winter was due to lack of proper space and ditches which made it hard to get in and out.

The parking ground for cars will be fixed up. This improvement will not only relieve the congestion but will improve the appearance of the ground. The matter of paving the road up to the new armory is under consideration. If this improvement goes through it will be completed with the other work this summer.

IOWAWA TO DISAPPOINT THE REVENUE OFFICERS

If an inquisitive revenue officer chances to drop in on Iowawa May 5, when the carnival is in full swing, he would feel obliged on first glance to get out his note-book and take down a few comments. Over in one corner, half a dozen laughing women would be openly and brazenly drawing mugs full of an amber liquid from regular pre-Volstead beer-kegs, and passing them over a shiny, fresh wiped table of the type any old-time rounder could recognize as a bar.

The agent would check down, charge one. In the center of the armory, he would catch a glimpse of a scene dropped straight from the cafes of gay Patee. Passing in between the small tables, high-heeled demoiselles and bowing garcons carry plates of French pastry, and bottles, swathed in napkins or barely showing from buckets of chapped ice. Charge two!

Now for the evidence. The revenue officer slips out the tiny bottles he always carries in his pocket, moves toward the bar, planks down his Iowamps and gets a big stein full in return. He slides it under the edge, almost down to the shiny rail where his foot rests and fills his sample bottle. Then he tilts back his head. The joy of being a revenue officer—but hold on a minute—What's that? Nothing but lemonade punch. Not a sign of even a stick!

Disappointed he returns toward the cafe, seats himself at a table near the edge of the gay crowd of Parisian revelers and gives his order. Then he discovers that the stuff in the wrapped and iced bottles is not chartreuse, not champagne, but lomo of something the same vintage as the "beer" at the "bar".

Blouses For Misses

To the young Miss a suit with clever, youthful blouses is a necessary adjunct to her wardrobe.

Perhaps that accounts for the many, many styles. Soft silk ones with Peter Pan collars are among the jauntiest. Other smart styles are of tinted voiles, linens and batistes with trimmings of fine checked gingham.

And a Sweater

—is another thing close to a girl's heart. We are showing the styles she likes best of all, in such dashing colors as jade, jockey red, taffey and mohawk. And the prices, too, are most reasonable!

SENIORS PETITION TO SUSPEND CLASSES FOR SENIOR DAY EXERCISES

The senior class of the college of applied science recently issued a challenge to the senior classes of the other colleges of the campus to put on the best stunt on Senior Day which will probably take place some time the second week in May. At a meeting of the association of senior presidents yesterday afternoon a petition was prepared for the suspension of classes from eight fifty a. m. until twelve some week day for the purpose of Senior Day. If the suspension of classes is granted, as it probably will, there will be a parade winding up on Iowa field where the program will be given. Each senior class will put on a stunt at the field. The program will commence about nine fifteen a. m. there will be group singing and yells. An attempt will be made to secure President Walter A. Jessup to speak at this program. The stunts, which will take from ten to fifteen minutes each will perhaps last a little over an hour. An effort will also be made to secure special music from the school of music. The program will close with the singing of Old Gold. At last night's meeting, Tom Murray, president of the association, announced that the invitations had been sent to the printer; proofs are now expected daily. Announcement will be made later of the arrival, the price and the place where they may be ordered.

WOMEN'S TENNIS CLASSES ARE NOT OPEN THIS YEAR

A new angle of the tennis situation developed today when it was discovered, in an interview with

Marion R. Lyon, instructor and acting director of physical education of women, that this department has been compelled to give up tennis as an outdoor sport for women because of the lack of courts. It has been the policy of this department to hold women's tennis classes in the mornings, in order to avoid interference with men who have been in the habit of playing in the afternoons and evenings.

Last year however, due probably to the lack of courts and a desire to play which overcame the dread of the early hours, the men made such increasing demands on the courts during class hours that the department thought it only right that the men be allowed to play. No other
