MANY STUDENTS PAY OWN BILLS THIS SUMMER

Waiting Tables and Washing Dishes Most Popular Pastime

DEMANDS MUCH WORK

Survey of Board Jobs Taken By Dean Rienow During the Summer

Many and varied are the positions which students fill in order to earn part or all of their expenses during their college career. Some of them are forced to start with nothing and to earn everything while others have a sum saved to give them a sendoff and then work to make the rest of their expenses.

There are some young men in summer school who defray their expenses by working for their board, by waiting tables, washing or wiping dishes, this class being the largest. A few of them are fortunate to get jobs which pay them cash, some of them working for the state. Janitor work takes care of a few of them, most of the sweeping of the rooms of the University buildings is done by students in the evening after everyone else has gone to dinner. A few find employment in scrubbing floors in restaurants and in polishing pots and pans after the day's business is done. This work usually takes three hours, the understanding being that the meals are earned at the rate of one hour for each meal. In some of the easier places this hour includes the eating time. One young man works as night cook, his hours running from 8 until 12. He gets his meals and also receives regular pay, and by this means has made more than his expenses.

A few men are successful in obtaining stenographic positions, although this position is more sought after by the girls. Some of the positions are part time, and the pay ranges from 30 to 50 cents per hour. A few are able to find enough work to make public typing a paying proposition.

Some of the miscellaneous types of work found are tutoring, playing in orchestras, clerking in stores, taking care of lawns, taking charge of swimming pools, and taking care of autos.

During the summer session there is less difficulty in placing both men and women who apply for work, and at present there are places open for women. An employment bureau is conducted in connection with the offices of the Dean of Men and the Dean of Women, and any one desiring work can get full information from these offices.

The proposition of placing men who work their way during the regular year is quite serious at times. During the last few weeks of summer school, and especially during the few weeks between the time that summer school lets out and the regular session begins, letters pour into the office of the Dean of men from students who expect to register in the University for the coming year. It is difficult to know which ones need the work most and what they are qualified to do.

Last summer a survey was taken of the city for board jobs in order to ascertain what amount of work there would be for those who were willing to work. In many cases the men were fixed up and were able to remain for the year.

Some of the men come to school with only a few dollars in their pockets, but by hard work and constant effort they are able to get a college education, while there are others who come to school and have all the money they want. If a man is really serious about getting an education, he can do so in spite of financial difficulties, and can complete his four years with satisfactory grades.

COACHING PROVES POPULAR COURSE

Men With Several Years of Athletic Experience are Enrolled

Ten states are represented by the men who are taking courses in athletic coaching this summer under Iowa's coaching staff. Sixty-five men are enrolled in football under coach Howard H. Jones and Aubrey A. Devine, thirty are taking baseball under coach James M. Ashmore, thirty-five are enrolled in track under Coach Geo. T. Bresnahan and Aubrey A. Devine, fifty-seven are taking basketball under the supervision of Coaches James M. Ashmore and Aubrey A. Devine, while twenty-five are studying athletic conditioning under Dr. Walter R. Fiesler.

Kansas, Illinois, Minnesota, Texas, Colorado, Wisconsin, North Dakota, Louisiana, Montana, and Iowa are the states represented.

Men who have had several years of coaching experience in various high schools were attracted by the high standard of the course that Iowa had to offer this summer. Charles L. Parsons coach of the Colorado school of mines, a former Iowa star, and winner of nine I's is taking football.

The facilities for this work at Iowa are unusually good. The recently completed basketball court is equal to any in the Big Ten. Iowa Field is in good condition for football, baseball, and track. Each course includes lecture work, study of plays by means of motion pictures, and demonstrations by athletes of national reputation. The men will also be given practical work in the field.

Coach Jones said yesterday speaking of the football course: "Most of the work now is lecture with demonstrations. At present we are studying the fundamentals of the line in offensive and defensive plays. Later in the course we will have some actual playing".

OUT-OF-DOOR PLAYERS STAGE READY JUNE 27

"Work will be begun at once on the erection of the stage for the Out-Of-Door Players," is the statement given out by Prof. Glenn N. Merry, head of the department of Speech. The stage will be situated at the foot of the hill west of the home economics building and the audience will be seated on the hill. Everything will be completed by June 27 when the Players will present a series of one-act plays.

ASSEMBLY WILL MEET ON LAWN

President Walter Jessup Main Speaker; Classes Dismissed

President Walter A. Jessup will address the second weekly assembly of the summer session which will be held Wednesday morning at 10:45 on the lawn in front of the liberal arts building. Mrs. Mildred B. Paddock, instructor in the school of music has charge of the program. Classes will be dismissed at 10:40 so that all students and instructors may attend the assembly.

As the auditorium will be in use by the G. A. R. convention, now being held in the city, the second assembly will be in the nature of an informal gathering on the lawn in front of the liberal arts building. The speakers will stand on the terrace as was done at the time of the baccalaureate sermon this spring. In case of rain meet in the hall of the liberal arts building.

"Everyone will want to hear President Jessup" said Prof. Charles H. Weller, director of the summer session yesterday. The large crowd who attended the first assembly last Wednesday found the meeting worth while, and Prof. Weller expressed a hope that the meeting be well attended.

NEW DRAMATIC CLUB STARTS REHEARSALS

The second season of the Out-Door Players summer session community dramatic club has begun work under the direction of Edward C. Mabie, professor of speech and director of the University theater.

Members of the class in educational dramatics, along with the interested members of the community, are to put on the plays. Any member of the faculty or of the student is invited to join the club. The membership fee is fifty cents. All plays will be presented on the campus at 8:15 p. m. on the date set, and the admission is free.

So far the club activities are developing rapidly and the club already has a membership of eighty-five people, most of whom are students outside of the class in dramatics but who are interested in outdoor plays. Rehearsals are being held every night in the natural science auditorium at 7:15. Everyone is invited to attend these rehearsals to investigate the work now going on. Application for membership may be made at any time at 201B natural science building or by telephone at 1691. The plays are: two one-act plays to be given on June 27 and 30. On July 7 a play by Bernard Shaw will be presented entitled "You Never Can Tell". "As You Like It" will be presented on July 14. More plays will be added to this list if the number of players entered for this activity demands an increase.

PROFESSOR CASE TO TEACH SOCIOLOGY IN UNIVERSITY OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

Prof. C. M. Case, of the department of sociology, is leaving soon for Los Angeles, California, where he will teach two classes in sociology during the summer months in the University of Southern California. After finishing his work there Professor Case will spend some time on a ranch in the California mountains, and will come back to his work at Iowa in the fall by way of the northern United States.

Dr. Charles D. Johnson, professor-elect of sociology at Baylor University, Waco, Texas, the largest Baptist institution in the United States, will take charge of Professor Case's work here during his absence. Dr. Johnson received his doctor's degree in the sociology department at Iowa several years ago, and has been very successful as a teacher in the university of Arkansas. He is a very fluent speaker and will ably handle Professor Case's work.

MANNHEIMER TO GIVE LECTURES

Weller Recommends Rabbi Mannheimer; Traveled Together

Three lectures will be given by Rabbi Eugene Mannheimer of Des Moines Tuesday, June 20th, at 8 p. m. and Wednesday, June 21 at 4 and 8 p. m. The series of lectures will be given at the liberal arts assembly hall. The subject of Rabbi Mannheimer's lectures is "The Bible and Its Modern Message," and he will develop a special phase of his broader subject at each address. His minor topics of discussion are so chosen as to give to the average layman a store of information which he otherwise would not obtain. The topic on Tuesday is, "Do We Need a New Bible," on Wednesday afternoon, "How We Got Our Bible," and on Wednesday evening, "The Social Message of the Prophets."

Charles H. Weller, director of the summer session, highly recommends Rabbi Mannheimer. Professor Weller says, "I never heard him speak but I know he is a man of ability. We traveled together in Greece and I found him to be very congenial and a good fellow. His lectures will be both instructive and interesting."

Last year Rabbi Cohen of Omaha addressed the students and faculty of the university. Those who attended the lecture were amply repaid for the effort. These lectures are not given for the benefit of the Jews alone but are intended to have a universal appeal. The students and general public are invited.

MAY MAKE CHANGES IN STAFF

The meeting of the board of education for the purpose of considering changes in the teaching staff of the university has not as yet taken place and until such meeting is held no authoritative list of new professors can be made. It has been officially stated, however, that no successor to acting dean Herbert F. Goodrich of the law school has as yet been chosen. Mrs. Adelaide L. Burge, acting dean of women, will continue in this capacity next year. A complete list of changes will in all probability be issued directly following the meeting of the board of education.

THE WEATHER

Cloudy and somewhat unsettled today and Wednesday. Cooler tonight in northwest and central portions.

THIRD TENNIS TOURNAMENT TO BEGIN JUNE 21

Gillis, Champion of Minnesota, Is Rated as Possible Winner

EXPECT KEEN RIVALRY

Small Number Have Signed Up; Last Chance to Enter Wednesday

The third annual summer session tennis tournament will be held tomorrow morning on the tennis courts east of the men's gymnasium. The tournament is open to all students and faculty members of the University.

A registration fee of twenty-five cents is charged to help defray the cost of the medals. This fee should be paid to Ernest G. Schroeder, director of physical education, at his office. Any one who wishes to enter the tournament should sign up on the bulletin board at the gymnasium by Wednesday morning.

"The nature of the medal, or prize given the winner" said Dad Schroeder, "will depend upon the number of participants that will enter. We can not afford to give a large loving-cup if only a few participate."

"There is going to be some very keen competition" said J. M. Dorcy, M1 a runner-up in last years tournament. L. J. Gillis, champion of Minnesota last year, has a good chance of winning here, tomorrow".

Victoria M. Boyles A3 of Iowa City, winner of the womens tournament last year, is also a possible candidate this year.

Up to the present time very few have signed up. All those who wish to enter tomorrow should sign up as soon as possible so that definite arrangements may be made.

PHELPS RECOMMENDS FEDERAL HOSPITAL BE LOCATED AT IOWA CITY

William W. Phelps Au, commander of the Iowa department of the Disabled American veterans of the World war, recommended that the Federal hospital for ex-soldiers at Knoxville be located at Iowa City. Phelps states that since Iowa City is the home of the state university, it has one of the best medical staffs in the United States.

It is nationally recognized as the best medical center west of the Mississippi river. "We have been assured by the University administration," said Phelps, "that we would have the benefit of the consultation of their medical staff without charge, and as they have some of the greatest specialists in medical lines in this country this aid would be invaluable".

The Iowa City Commercial club has promised to donate a site for the government hospital.

METHODISTS HOLD PICNIC

A "get acquainted" picnic for students attending the Methodist Episcopal church was held Saturday evening in the city park. The young people gathered at the church at 5:30 and under the direction of a sandy-haired, good natured, energetic gentleman who called himself Penrod, marched in twos to the park. By a change of partners every half block or so the entire company became very well acquainted before the park was reached. Upon arrival, sandwiches, potatoes, salad, and ice cream, were served.

THE ANNUAL JAMBOREE

With only four days remaining until the annual all-university men's dinner, it may not be improper for stationers to begin compiling probable figures as to how many men will attend the dinner, how many old jokes will be pulled, and how many professors and students will be given the once over in the annual jamboree of toasts and clown acts, which are characteristic of the big event of the summer session.

But no matter how many men attend the affair, there are sure to be some who have never been there before and who will go this time only because there is nowhere else to go Friday evening and a dinner is a fairly opportune way to have a passably good time and secure a good meal.

Let all such prospective banqueters open their ears to those who have been to the dinners in past summers, take cognizance of the fact that this is not to be any ordinary pink tea social, nor is it to be likened in any way to a dumb waiter festival. However, if it does not border on the cabaret or even on the near-burlesque it will not be because the committee have not done their utmost to make it do so.

When there is such an opportunity as is being afforded on this occasion to witness the unconfined hilarity of which in spite of popular opinions to the contrary, some faculty members are capable, and when there are so many men on the campus who have attended former dinners, who are not only willing, but anxious to relate some of the happenings at the earlier affairs, it is to be hoped that no man will attend the dinner Friday evening in ignorance of what type of entertainment he is going to witness.

Of even greater importance is the fact that many men, who happen to think this is to be a typically staid dinner, to be followed by an equally staid and uninteresting series of after-dinner speeches, may not attend because of such misconceived ideas.

Whether those who go are given a full explanation of what they will experience or not, let there be no man on the campus who stays away from the dinner because of a particular aversion for dinners or after-dinner speakers in general. This is to be no ordinary entertainment—it will be a real tournament of jazz conducted by master jesters of the campus.

THE CULTURAL TREND

The grand march of blind specialization in the world is being checked. The restraining movement has been going on for several years and is increasing in size. The nature of this trend is the requirement of one or two years of liberal arts work before admittance to the professional colleges. Culture resides in liberal arts. It is here that the student gets his broad and general education. Too many have entered the law college with an inadequate knowledge of the fundamentals in English, political science or psychology. The medical course is too filled with subjects such as pathology or neurology to teach the would-be physician the basic subjects such as zoology and chemistry. These they must now get in the liberal arts college.

Later when students enter the professional world they will be regarded as leading citizens and will be expected to take an active part in civic affairs. Their social world will be in cultured circles, where appreciation of art and music along with a wide general knowledge is essential to the maintenance of their position. Failure in these requirements is avoided by a good liberal arts foundation. The attorney must know something besides evidence and negotiable instruments, and the pharmacy graduate something other than his cathartics to cope with the social problems of today's progressing society.

(A letter to all who believe etiquette to be a thing of the heart, and not formality to be the heart of all true etiquette).

In no authentic history of things, either ancient or modern, will you find an account of a splendid and astonishing festival called the "June Juice", the "Summer Session Thaw", or names equally as meaningful and self-explanatory. Yet, while life is ours (and it is ours, for the drums of existence are constantly exclaiming the interesting fact) may we not perchance secure to ourselves a burning foothold in the strange pages of collective individualism by incubating, conceiving, calling into actual being, describe it as you choose, just such a festival, wherein our congeniality may caper and our youth be the carefree participant in things both stimulating and unusual? In short, why may not we, the present holders-down of campus and classroom potentialities, throw overboard quietly, but with a certain coltish petulance, the long-suffering habits of conventionalized mummery and break out as with a pleasant social rash into the malady of spontaneous friendliness and uncontrollable "human mixability"?

Personally, "and yet no less significantly" we have gazed longingly toward some new friendships on this populous campus this summer. "And why", cries out a persevering and native romantic sense, "can we not have these friendships?" It is indeed an impertinent sense which would thus embarrass whole colleges by such pointed and innocent inquiries. But in the secret Broadways of our hearts we must feel that here, at last, is a chance to prove ourselves sane. Sanity, in its biggest sense, consists in placing the normal and natural tendencies toward fellowship and simple personal contacts over and above the artificial inhibitions of an irrationally and slavishly conventional attitude. Therefore, lest we prove the pathetic equivalents of those in another less inspiring type of state institution, let us vote with one broad accord for a trace of empty prudery. Let us hitch our instincts to a new tradition, a Vulgar Day, whereon he who is drawn may, by virtue of a compassionate holiday magnanimity accost and salute in good old childish fashion the breathing object of his admiration. Let us call it Vulgar Day, for all vulgarity is a myth. Myths are fairy stories and therefore lovable. Yet let the official name for this new departure in holidays be secondary. The spirit of the Day must, if we are to save our idea from ignominious failure, be the paramount issue, the gristle and backbone of the adventure. Make it a day of polite but wholesale sentimentality. Make it a day of freshening romance wherein new human ties may spring fullborn into the fostering sunlight, and new mortal sympathies come stealing into the lavender haze of personal relationship.

L. F. Jensen.

THE UNIVERSITY FIFTY YEARS AGO COMPARED WITH PRESENT GROWTH

It is surprising how the University of Iowa has developed in the last fifty years. Fifty years ago there were only three departments—the academic (or collegiate) affording the largest facilities for liberal culture in both letters and sciences, with a total enrollment of 388 students—the department of law with 64 students—and the department of medicine which had been organized only a year or two previous, with an enrollment of 71.

George Thacher was president of the university at that time. Nathan R. Leonard was dean of the academic department, W. Hammond of the law college and W. Beck of the department of medicine. The entire number of instructors only totaled 30, including assistants.

It is also surprising to note how small expenses were at that time in comparison with the amount now required to keep a student at the university. The registration fees amounted to $5.00; board in families, including washing, fuel, and lights, from $3.00 to $5.00 per week; and suitable rooms could be secured for $2.00 per month and upwards.

Today we have many publications, including The Daily Iowan, Frivol, Hawkeye, Transit, Journal of Business, Law Bulletin and others. But fifty years ago there were only two publications—The University Reporter, a sixteen page paper, conducted by the students, aided by contributions from the faculty and former graduates—and the "School Laboratory of Physical Science," edited by Prof. Henricks, published quarterly.

Of the numerous organizations that we have on the campus today, only a few have been in existence, at this institution, for more than fifty years. The Irving Institute, The Eurodelphian, The Zetagathian and Hesperian literary societies were among the first. Two fraternities, the Betas and Phi Psi's comprised the social world.

COACH HOWARD VISITS CITY

H. "Mike" Howard, coach of the Iowa wrestling team during the past season is in Iowa City for a few days, before leaving for Oregon. He has been wrestling in the east from Florida to Massachusetts since last April, but has spent most of his time around New York City.

IOWA CITY WELCOMES FORTY-EIGHTH ANNUAL ENCAMPMENT OF G. A. R.'S

With banners and flags flying from all downtown business houses and welcoming signs in all windows, Iowa City welcomed the forty-eighth annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic to the city yesterday. Several hundred of the officers and members of the organization had arrived here last night.

The program was opened by a reception at the Kirkwood home on Kirkwood avenue. A campfire program will be held today in the natural science auditorium.

A luncheon will be held at noon today at the Commercial club rooms in honor of Governor Nate E. Kendall and State Commander J. B. Harsh.

The program for today follows: 8:00 p. m.—Campfire. Chairman, Milton Remley.

OHIO GRADUATES 1,159

The Ohio State University last week granted 1,184 degrees. Of this number twenty-five received two degrees, which leaves the total number of graduating students at 1,159. In the college of liberal arts 258 degrees were granted.

The south and west sides of the Quadrangle are not being occupied by the men of the University during the summer session. They are, however, being used to house visitors here for the G. A. R. convention this week.

SOCIETY

Telegrams from Omaha announce the marriage of Miss Florence Brockhausen to Professor Frederick B. Knight on Wednesday June 14. After the wedding Professor and Mrs. Knight left for the University of Oklahoma where Professor Knight will give a series of special lectures during the summer. Mrs. Knight was former assistant director of the Social Service league of Iowa City. Professor Knight has been professor of education and psychology in the University of Iowa for the past two years. Professor and Mrs. Knight will return to Iowa City next fall where Professor Knight will continue his work in the University.

—Word was received here from Des Moines of the marriage of Miss Francis Kate to Joseph Sturges Aurner, June 14. Both Mr. and Mrs. Aurner graduated from the University of Iowa last June. Mrs. Aurner was a member of the Delta Delta Delta sorority.

CLASSICAL CLUB IS ORGANIZED FOR WORK IN SUMMER SESSION

At a meeting Thursday the classical club was organized for the summer session. Miss Lillian Lawler presided at the meeting at which twelve new members were chosen from the summer session students.

The following officers were elected: Blanche Sherman of Monona, president; Vivian McElroy, secretary; Lael Church, chairman of social committee; Ruth Hamilton, chairman of program committee.

Short talks were given by Prof. Berthold L. Ullman, head of the Greek and Latin department, and by Prof. Franklin H. Potter of the Latin department, on organization of the summer session Classical club.

Frances E. Baker of Iowa City gave an illustrated lecture on "Modernity of Antiquity". The club will meet Thursday of each week either in the afternoon or evening in room 109 of the liberal arts building. Plans are being made for programs each week and a social time before each meeting. A classical club play may be put on this summer.

The twelve summer session students who were elected to membership are: Anna Helfenstien, Helen Malloy, Mary Packer, Blanche Sherman, Mary Waldron, Lois Grope, Ruth Hamilton, Alma Wilhelm, Floyd Davis, Vivian McElroy, and Loel Church.

NEW COURTS SHOULD RELIEVE CONGESTION

Four new tennis courts are being constructed south of the Quadrangle. They will probably be of the same construction as the courts at the men's gymnasium. The preliminary surveying was completed last week and the grading started yesterday. This will take some time as the north side is higher than the south and there is a large hole in the southeast corner that must be filled. Iron posts will be used to support the fence and wings. If there is no rain quite a bit of sprinkling will have to be done to settle the loose dirt. It does not seem probable that they will be ready for use this summer session. However, they will be in operation by the time school opens in the fall.

These courts have been needed for a long time. There was much agitation this spring for new courts to accommodate all those wishing to play without their having to get up at 5 o'clock in the morning or waiting an hour or two in the afternoon until somebody lets them get in on a game of doubles. The Quadrangle courts will relieve the situation to a great extent.

SPEECH CLUB MEETS EVERY TUESDAY NIGHT

The Speech club, an organization composed of faculty and student members of the department of speech, will meet Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock on the lawn of Prof. Glenn N. Merry's home in Manville Heights.

Papers will be read by Prof. E. C. Mabie and L. R. Norvelle, both members of the staff of the department of speech and by Miss Gladys Borchers and E. L. Houstman, graduate students.

"The purpose of the Speech club is to discuss problems that enter in the science and art of speech, and its membership is limited to majors in undergraduate or graduate work in the department," said Professor Merry. Meetings are held every Tuesday evening on the lawn of Professor Merry's home.

STUDENTS MAY ROMP AGAIN AT SECOND PLAY HOUR TONIGHT

The second play hour, under the personal supervision of Miss Marion R. Lyon, acting director of physical education for women, will be held on Old Capitol oval to-night at 7. Old American dances and games will be led by Miss Lyon, Miss Bess M. Baker and Miss Miriam W. Taylor, instructors in the department of physical education.

Last Tuesday evening about seventy-five students attended the first play hour and participated in a grand march, games and contests. Miss Lyon is anxious for a large attendance of both men and women for the recreation hour to-night. The purpose of the hour is to teach men and women how to play. Let's have everybody out for an hour of wholesome fun.

The physical education departments for both men and women are cooperating to make these weekly entertainments the biggest and best feature of the summer session. In case of rain, the play hour will be held in the women's gymnasium.

BURLESQUE AND GAMES MAKES PEPPY PLAYERS PICNIC LAST NIGHT

The out-of-door players enjoyed a picnic last evening at 6 o'clock in the city park pavilion. Those in charge of the entertainment were, Thomas Thomsen chairman, Belva Swallow, Malina McKenna, C. R. Houstman, Florence Quirin and Agnes M. Kelley.

Some of the unusual features were a game of African golf a novelty form played with a rubber hose and a ball of cotton, a page race, and an old fashioned spelling bee.

Some members entertained with burlesque dramatic speeches while the rest enjoyed an excellent picnic lunch. After the lunch a few of the players put on a mock movie.

NORVELLE TO COMPLETE WORK ON ARTICLE FOR EDUCATIONAL JOURNAL

L. R. Norvelle, instructor in the department of speech, will go to the University of Indiana as soon as the summer session closes July 21, to work on a special problem for Doctor Book, head of the department of philosophy and psychology there.

The first part of Mr. Norvelle's work is to complete an article entitled "Will to Learn and Experimental Study of Incentives" which Mr. Norvelle and Doctor Book have been preparing for publication in the "Educational Journal of Psychology." The rest of Mr. Norvelle's work in the University of Indiana through the month of August will be special problems in the psychological laboratory, which will have a direct bearing on speech training.

During the month of September until school opens, Mr. Norvelle will be in northern Wisconsin collecting material for a lecture.

G. A. R. LADIES PRESENT FLAG TO UNIVERSITY

The Ladies of the G. A. R. will present a flag to the University today at 2:30 p. m. The ceremony will take place in front of the liberal arts building and will be followed by a flag drill. It is desired by the Ladies of the G. A. R. that as many members of the faculty and student body as possible be present.

CHAMBERLIN LEAVES FOR POSITION IN DAVENPORT

Harold Chamberlain, university news editor, left yesterday morning for Davenport, where he will be associated with M. L. Parker company's department store. Mr. Chamberlain has been associated with the university in the capacity of news editor for three years.

Mr. Chamberlain graduated from the university in 1919, is a member of the Alpha Tau Omega and Sigma Delta Chi fraternities and A. F. I., men's senior honorary society.

Mr. Chamberlain's place will be taken by Frank D. Hicks, a member of the 1920 graduating class of the University, who has been connected with the Waterloo Courier the past two years. Mr. Hicks was a member of the Daily Iowan staff while attending the university, as was also his wife, who was business manager of the paper one year. She was formerly Miss Romola Latchem. Mr. and Mrs. Hicks will come to Iowa City July 1.

WINTRODE CHOSEN TO REPRESENT VETERANS

John H. Wintrode of Winterset was selected by the delegates of the state convention of the disabled American veterans of the World war to represent the state convention of Iowa as a delegate to the national convention at San Francisco June 26-30. This selection was approved by the governor of the state of Iowa and by the state commander, Wm. W. Phelps, of the disabled American veterans of the World war, of the department of Iowa, by whom the credentials were issued.

Wintrode is at the present time in replacement training at Denecke's at Cedar Rapids. He holds three medals Guerre, and two American medals ob-Guerri, and two American medals obtained for exceptional bravery and conduct under fire.

He was first sergeant of Company A 168th infantry during the war. Wintrode is a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity. He left for the National convention last Sunday.

LAYSAN EXHIBIT ATTRACTS MANY

Many Varieties of Birds in Different Poses Portray Life

One of the many points of interest about the University which will prove attractive to summer session students is the Laysan island exhibit in the bird hall on the third floor of the natural science building.

This collection of birds was collected and prepared especially for exhibition at the University. The whole of the exhibit is contained in a large glass case which extends almost entirely around the walls of the west end of the bird hall.

These cases are lighted and arranged in such a way that all portions of them can be easily viewed. There are almost 100 birds of several species shown in this exhibit. The birds are all placed in postures which give them a life-like appearance.

The background for the actual mounted specimens is a huge painting which portrays hundreds of the birds in flight over the island. The sea is shown in the distance surrounding the island, in some places rippling gently upon the level sandy shore, in others dashing upon the rocks and sending up clouds of fine white spray. The background is so made that it blends almost perfectly with the foreground.

A large amount of actual rock and sand is used in building up the foreground of the exhibit. The several different species of birds make necessary several nest models. Some of the nests are but shallow open depressions in the sand. Others are miniature caves burrowed into the sand of the beach. Others are built of twigs and leaves in the shrubs which are sparsely scattered over the island. In the nests appear a large number of eggs, which form a valuable part of the exhibit. They vary from the small oval eggs of the Laysan honey-eater to the large round eggs of the albatross, and are found in the nests and on the ground, depending upon the habits of the birds.

Several young birds are shown, some of them in poses illustrating the ways in which the parent birds feed their young. The young albatross is shown eating from the small pouch in its parents' beak.

The postures have been carefully worked out so as to portray as far as possible the habits of the birds and to give an idea of how it moves in actual life. To do this some of the birds are shown in their nests, some feeding, and others appearing to rest from some long flight. Some are shown poised in flight, wings outspread and legs drawn up.

Among the varieties of birds shown are the Bulwater petrel, the Laysan teal, which is a variety of duck, the Miller bird, golden plover, turnstones, wedgetailed shearwater, Laysan honey-eater, Man-o-war bird, gray-backed tern, love birds and the albatross.

The albatross is a bird similar to the common gull. The former is larger perhaps and adapted probably more to land habits. One of the largest specimens in the exhibit has a wing spread of about four feet. The long beaks of these birds are sharply hooked at the ends. They are a blackish-brown in color over the back, wings and head. The throat and breast are white with a greyish-white stripe running up under the beak.

One of the most interesting birds in the whole exhibit is the man-o-war bird. One of the most striking features of this specimen is its strikingly brilliant colored plumage. The back and wings are brown, but the breast and throat are a bright red, almost scarlet. The bird's physical features are somewhat similar to those of the albatross.

The whole exhibit is so cleverly and minutely worked out that an observer with only a trifle of imagination can easily forget his Iowa City surroundings and imagine himself standing alone on the center of the island.

Miss Charlotte Fisk, who is employed in the University secretary's office, is ill at her home.

NUMEROUS PATRIOTIC ORGANIZATIONS WILL AID G. A. R. PROGRAM

Besides the main program of the G. A. R. five allied patriotic organizations are represented here and will provide programs of their own. They are the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Daughters of Veterans, the Sons of Veterans Auxiliary, the Sons of Veterans and the Women's Relief Corps.

The last session of the convention will be held Thursday. Most of the organizations will hold their annual business session, including their election of officers at that time.

The first meeting last night at the Kirkwood home consisted of a social entertainment provided by Samuel J. Kirkwood of Corps No. 78. The program consisted of music, readings and a dance. Lillian Bridenstine presided.

Plans for the national convention to be held in Des Moines in September will probably be perfected at this state meeting.

AUTHORITIES PLAN TO ILLUMINATE CAMPUS

The University is soon to be literally in the lime-light. At the present time the University is trying out different styles of electroliers with the end in view of eventually installing a line of lights from the new chemistry building now under construction, south to the main campus, east to the northeast corner, and south again to the southeast corner of the campus, then west to the men's gymnasium.

A choice has not been made as yet, and still more electroliers of various makes will be seen before the final installment is made. Choose your favorite style, and see how your choice compares with that of those responsible for the installation.

According to announcement made late last week, the Andover Theological seminary and the Harvard Divinity school are to be combined starting next September. The Rev. Willard L. Sperry, pastor of the Central Congregational church of Boston, will be dean of the new school, which will be located at Harvard.

FORMER ALDERMAN TO SUCCEED SWISHER AS MAYOR OF IOWA CITY

Miss Emma Harvat, former alderman-at-large of Iowa City, was elected mayor by the city council yesterday morning to succeed Ingalls Swisher, who handed in his resignation Sunday.

Miss Harvat is one of the first women to hold the office of mayor in Iowa. She is 52 years old, and has been alderman for the past fifteen months. She ran for the office on the republican ticket. She has been in business for a number of years, being connected with several book stores in Iowa City and Kirksville, Mo. She entered the field of business thirty-four years ago.

June 15 was the hottest day so far in 1922, according to the Iowa City weather department. The maximum temperature recorded was 91.
