ASSEMBLY HELD ON THE CAMPUS; JESSUP SPEAKS

One Thousand Gather In Front of Liberal Arts Building

FACILITIES INADEQUATE

Attendance At All Educational Institutions Is Increasing

President Walter A. Jessup addressed the second summer session assembly yesterday morning. Owing to the fact that the natural science auditorium was in use by the G. A. R., and the liberal arts auditorium is not large enough to accommodate the large number here this summer, the assembly was held in the open air on the campus in front of the liberal arts building.

President Jessup referred to the presence of the aged veterans of the Civil war, to the shrill note of the fife and the beat of the drum that is so much in evidence during the annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, reminding the audience of the common part all have to play in the development and perpetuation of our peculiar type of civilization and living.

"This ground is made doubly sacred by the presence of the defenders of the union," he said. He then recounted some of the history of Iowa, from the time when the Old Capitol was the only building on the present campus, when there were no trees around, and ox carts proceeded along the streets, and then emphasized the dreams and ideals of the first law makers who voted to tax themselves to support a system of public schools and a university.

He spoke of the phenomenal development of the high school from a modest beginning to the present, when 60,000 students are enrolled in the high schools. "If we are to live up to the dream of the founders of the state," declared the president, "we must keep the vision clear. We must read our state history and become familiar with the names of those who have passed on to us a great legacy of inspiration and ideals."

President Jessup then spoke of the unprecedented growth of higher education at the University of Iowa, the Teacher's College at Cedar Falls and (Continued on page 4)

PROFESSOR DUNLAP TO BE SECRETARY OF CIVIL ENGINEERS

Prof. John H. Dunlap, professor of the college of engineering, was elected permanent secretary of the American Society of Civil Engineers at a meeting of the society in Champaign, Ill., Tuesday, June 20, according to a telegram from Dean William G. Raymond, of the college of engineering.

The new position will mean that Professor Dunlap and his family will remove to New York City. They will probably leave Iowa City late in the summer.

Professor Dunlap has been on the faculty of the engineering college for fourteen years. He was graduated from Dartmouth college in 1905 and from the Thayer school of engineering in 1908.

Dean William Raymond, Professor Dunlap and Professor Byron J. Lambert of the college of engineering will return tomorrow from Urbana, Ill., where they drove in Dean Raymond's car to attend the meeting. At one of the sessions Dean Raymond discussed a paper on teaching written by Prof. Charles F. Scott of Yale.

WATCHMAN CLIMBS 121 MILES DURING YEAR

M. C. Bridenstine, night watchman for the University climbs 3000 steps every night, as he makes a tour of all the University buildings, turning off lights, testing windows, and locking doors.

In one year Mr. Bridenstine would climb 638,750 feet, or a height equal to 121 miles. Mr. Bridenstine is 68 years old, but he says, "I feel spry enough to meet any emergency that might arise. I usually begin locking up about 10 o'clock and don't finish until after mid-night. I always carry a flashlight with me and have never been afraid. I always feel that the other fellow would be at a disadvantage if I should happen to meet anybody."

MAHAN PRESIDES AT MEN'S DINNER

President Jessup and A. J. Lomas Will Give Speeches

Bruce E. Mahan, a student in the graduate college, will act as toastmaster of the all-University men's dinner to be given tomorrow evening in the Burkley ball room. Among the speakers who will appear on the program are President Walter A. Jessup and Arthur J. Lomas, superintendent of the University hospital.

According to the executive committee of the dinner, the program will consist entirely of general amusement and levity with the exception of one or two speeches. The object of the dinner is to furnish the men of the campus an opportunity to get together for a good time and to get acquainted with the other men with whom they do not come in contact every day.

Over 200 tickets have been sold, but any who have not secured theirs already may do so at Whetstone's, the University Book Store, or from men in the various departments.

Special entertainment features have been planned for the dinner and will be complemented by several musical stunts, according to Milton C. Del Manzo, chairman of the executive committee.

CASE LEAVES SATURDAY FOR LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Prof. Clarence M. Case of the department of sociology, will leave Saturday, June 24, for Los Angeles, California, where he will teach two classes in sociology during the summer months in the University of Southern California.

After finishing his work in the California university, Professor Case will spend some time on a ranch in the California mountains. He will return to resume his work at the University of Iowa next fall.

Prof. Charles D. Johnson of the department of sociology at Baylor university, Waco, Texas, will take charge of Professor Case's work during his absence.

The department of speech will give a play on the night of July 5 for visitors of the library conference. Prof. Edward C. Mabie will be in charge. The title of the play will be announced at a later date.

LIBRARIANS TO MEET JULY 5-6

Speakers From All Over the United States to Come Here

The third annual conference for library workers will be held July 5 and 6.

The out-of-town speakers will be F. K. Walters, librarian of the University of Minnesota; Miss Josephine A. Rathbone, vice-director of Pratt Institute library school of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Miss Clara F. Baldwin, library director of the department of education of Minnesota from St. Paul; Johnson Brigham, librarian of the Iowa state library of Des Moines, and Miss Helen McRath, librarian of a branch of the Portland library system of Portland, Ore. Miss McRath was formerly librarian of the Iowa City public library.

The speakers from Iowa City will be Rev. Ira J. Houston, pastor of the Congregational church; Prof. William S. Maulsby of the University department of English, and John E. Briggs of the State Historical society.

Miss Blanche V. Watts, director of the library school, said that the conference aims to offer practical suggestions about library methods. The conference is not only for students of the library school, but all persons who are interested in up-to-date library methods should attend.

DAWSON MAY SPEAK TO SUMMER STUDENTS

Prof. Edgar J. Dawson of Hunter college, New York, executive secretary of the recently formed national council for social studies, will be on the campus Monday, June 26.

"The department of history is hoping to arrange a conference at which Professor Dawson will be the main speaker," said Prof. Arthur M. Schlesinger, head of the department of history. The subject for discussion at such a conference would probably be the co-relation of the social studies in the high school.

Prof. Bessie L. Pierce, associate in the history department, is a member of the executive committee of the national council and through her efforts the arrangements are being made for the conference with summer session students who may be interested in the subject. Professor Dawson may stay over for a late afternoon conference. Definite announcement will be made Sunday.

THIRTEEN ENTER IN TENNIS TOURNAMENT

"Drawings for the tennis tournament have been postponed until Friday noon," said E. G. Schoeder, director of physical education for men, yesterday. Only thirteen men had signed up to enter the tournament by yesterday afternoon and it was thought best to wait until a few more made entries.

The following men are entered: E. W. Chittenden, E. H. Chamberlin, John L. Parkhill, W. A. McCullough, A. Gilbert, W. H. Dargan, J. M. Dorsey, E. W. Fannon, Lee J. Gillis, R. F. Miller, W. H. Lemmel, Wm. J. Hunter and Robert W. Houston.

GEOLOGISTS BREAK ROCKS IN DAKOTA

By Iowan Staff Correspondent

Whitewood, S. Dak. June 19—Twelve students, under the direction of Prof. J. J. Runner of the geology department of the University of Iowa, pitched camp in a gulch near here today, and began work on a geological survey which will last twelve weeks. The entire day was spent on the rock piles in the "Switzerland of America", which is the name given to the country surrounding Whitewood.

The party is made up of Professor Runner, four women and eight men. The women are Miss Louise Fillman of Dexter, a graduate of the University who is working on her Ph.D. degree, Marion Ansel of Iowa City, Agnes Cozine of West Branch, and Cora Unash of Iowa City.

The men in the party are Byrl A. Whitney, of Cherokee, Howard Whetson, Bernard J. Ulrich of Iowa City, David H. Scott of Emmetsburg, C. J. Peters, Ernest J. Thompson of Mason City, G. S. Dille, and Carl Ver Steeg.

From Whitewood, the camp will be moved to Lead, and then to Harney Peak.

PRESENT THREE ONE-ACT PLAYS

Dramatic Class and Out-of-Door Players Will Act In Open Air Theatre

Three one-act plays will be presented by the University dramatic class and the Out-of-Door players in the open-air theater June 27. These plays will be the first to be given in the open-air theater this summer.

"Blankets," by Selma K. Millick, "Spreading the News," by Lady Gregory, and "The Clod," by Lewis Beach, will make up the program.

"Blankets" was written by Miss Selma K. Millick, a University student. The play was entered in the University Players play writing contest last year and was one of the prize winners.

Dorothea Jacobs, Olea Higbee and Edith Shoemaker will take part in "Blankets."

The cast of "Spreading the News" is: Stanley Talbot, Thomas Thompson, George Hurley, Daniel Holcomb, Charles Sheeley, Malvina McKenna, A. McCarthy, Albert Cannon, and Nellie Boss.

Lucile Hoffman, Earl Culver, Robert Hunter, and J. W. Townsend will take part in "The Clod."

The second of the series of plays will appear June 30. The three one-act plays which will be given are: "The Big Blue Book," "Told in a Chinese Garden," and "Overtones."

"The Big Blue Book," written by Lillian Lawler, was another prize winning play in the contest last year.

The Players will present "You Never Can Tell," by Bernard Shaw, on July 7, and Shakespeare's "As You Like It," on July 14. This repertoire may be supplemented by two or three other programs.

VETERAN'S FATHER BUILT WALLS OF OLD CAPITOL

Spear T. Harmon of Marshalltown, one of the veterans attending the G. A. R. state encampment, is the son of Peter D. Harmon who helped build the Old Capitol. "My father, Peter D. Harmon, built the brick cross walls of the Old Capitol," said Mr. Harmon.

RABBI DENIES WORLD'S NEED FOR NEW BIBLE

Mannheimer Says Wells' Outline of History Has the Wrong Viewpoint

GIVES THREE LECTURES

Speeches of Jewish Leader Are On Bible's Modern Message

"The world is not in need of a new Bible, as H. G. Wells, in his 'Outline of History,' contends," said Rabbi Eugene Mannheimer in the first of three lectures which he delivered in the liberal arts auditorium Tuesday evening, yesterday afternoon, and last evening. The general topic of the three lectures was "The Bible and Its Modern Message," three phases of which he covered in different speeches.

In his first lecture, "Do We Need a New Bible," delivered in the liberal arts auditorium Tuesday evening, the Rabbi argued against the idea propounded by H. G. Wells in his new book, "Outline of History," that the world of today is in need of a new Bible. According to Rabbi Mannheimer, Wells declares the Bible to be inadequate because science has disproved many of the biblical stories such as those of the creation and the flood. The Rabbi denied outright what Mr. Wells has suggested. He says that if the Bible is read carefully and correctly it still contains a message, in fact a message of messages. He said that if we fail to understand the Bible it is we who are at fault, and not the Bible.

In his second speech yesterday afternoon, "How We Got Our Bible," Rabbi Mannheimer gave his audience a brief outline of Jewish history and explained that the reason we are interested in it is that this oppressed people who had wandered about the earth were the writers and were responsible for the development of the book which has been the religious authority of the Jew and the Christian for thousands of years. He stated that the books of the Bible were gathered under one set, while the children of Israel were in exile in Babylon in order to preserve them, and were given to the world on their return from exile through the work of Ezra and the scribes.

The Rabbi discussed at length the authorship of the books of the Bible and explained that the contradictions of different books were due to the fact that each book was written according to the standard of ethics of the period. "The Bible," said Rabbi Mannheimer, "was the record of the development of the people's idea of God, law and ethics." For instance, the law of retaliation, the law of "an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth," found in the early books of the Bible were simply a development to prevent unlimited revenge.

SUMMER STUDENTS TO MAKE TOUR OF THE UNIVERSITY MUSEUMS

Starting from Old Capital at 4 o'clock this afternoon, Prof. Charles H. Weller director of the summer session will conduct a party of summer session students through the museum of art and archeology. Professor Weller will point out many features of interest and discuss a number of famous works of art. Prof. Homer R. Dill of the zoology department will then take charge of the party and conduct it through the historical museum.

STUDENT UNITY

If there is one thing more than any other which the summer session needs, that thing is a unifying influence upon the student body. During the summer there are no large athletic contests to bring out the common spirit of boosting for Old Gold; there are few organizations to centralize student interests and student activities; and there are not a large number of other opportunities afforded for close association with other students, except in the classroom.

There are, of course, informal sports; there are a few summer organizations, which, although small in number, accomplish their purpose fully; and there are numerous social affairs during the summer which further the closer unity of the student body. There is a need, however, for more events and organizations to be aids toward student unity.

The all-University men's dinner tomorrow evening will be an event of great interest not only from an entertainment standpoint, but what is of much more importance, it will be a means of bringing the men of the campus together and developing a more unified spirit within the University.

WANTED: A WOMAN

Some live woman student can be a real benefactor to her sisters this summer by promoting a women's dinner similar to the one the men have given for themselves for the past four years. The idea is to furnish a simple repast at a low price and then get every woman there. Provide a list of good speakers and get groups of students to put on stunts. You will have more fun than you have had since you used to go to Sunday school picnics.

PUTTING UP A FRONT

George Ade believes that every college should have chair of Frontology that is, he thinks every man and woman should learn early in life the technical art of putting up a good front. "The front is a prodigious asset," says George Ade, "whether you have the goods or not."

That may be so, but it is certain that the world will not bow down to a bluff with a good front for any length of time. On some bright morning this bluff is going to wake up and find its beautifully constructed front crumbled in the dust. And on the same morning it is going to conceive the original idea that a good front has to be backed up with a solid foundation of something more tangible.

To get this something is one reason for being in college, and for taking extra or more advanced work during summer session. It is going to mean versatility, adaptability and poise to you; it is going to mean achievement, financial success—perhaps the difference between an M. A. and a Ph.D. salary. At any rate it is going to mean that you have more back of you than a dressed up personality and a gift of gab.

Now is a good time to start saving your money for that football trip to New Haven next fall, when Iowa plays Yale.

Today's best smile: As yellow as a last year's straw hat.

PRESENT FLAG TO UNIVERSITY

G. A. R. and W. R. C. Give Flag to University; Professor Shimek Speaks

The Woman's Relief Corps entertained at a formal reception in the liberal arts drawing room Tuesday afternoon at 1:30. Gov. Nathan E. Kendall and staff, Commander J. B. Harsh, General John C. Lofer, Colonel St. John and Past National Commander David Famer were among those receiving. For one hour and twenty minutes a continuous stream of veterans, their wives, members of the W. R. C. and G. A. R., passed the receiving line.

After the governor's reception, the W. R. C. presented the Boy Scouts with a beautiful picture of Roosevelt and a flag. The presentation took place on the steps of the liberal arts building. The acceptance was made by the Rev. Ira J. Houston, representing the local corps. Mrs. Maude Whedon Smith of Winterset, patriotic instructor of the W. R. C., made the presentation.

Mrs. Smith presented a flag to the university in the name of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. She stated in her address that the women in the state of Iowa were interested not only in Boy Scouts, but also in older youths attending the University. She said that it was expressly fitting that here, under the shadow of the Old Capitol, where history has been made and was yet to be made, the flag of our county should wave over our young men and women who were to be the future leaders in the affairs of Iowa. The flag was accepted by Prof. Bohumil Shimek, who acted in behalf of President Walter A. Jessup, who was unable to attend, and in the name of the president and the faculty and students of the university.

Professor Shimek delivered a short address, in which he paid tribute to the men of '61 and the men of '17. He praised the ideals of citizenship and pledged the university to uphold these ideals for which our men have fought. He reminded his audience that not all heroes were at the battle front, and paid tribute to the women who so bravely played their part in the last conflict.

SCHLESINGER IS HISTORY AUTHOR

Head of Department of History Gives New Viewpoints On History

Prof. Arthur M. Schlesinger, head of the department of history, has written a book on "New Viewpoints in American History" which is being published by the MacMillan company, New York.

Professor Schlesinger became head of the department of history in 1919, coming from Ohio State university where he was professor of history. He is the author of several books and numerous magazine articles on historical subjects. In 1918 he published "Colonial Merchants and the American Revolution" which received the Justin Winsor prize given by the American Historical association for the best book in history written during the two year period.

"New Viewpoints in American History" is the outgrowth of the course of that title which was given in the University summer school two years ago," said Prof. Schlesinger commenting on his new book yesterday.

"The object of the present work is to bring together and summarize in non-technical language, some of the results of the researches of the present era of historical study and to show their importance to a proper understanding of American history.

"History teachers in the public schools may also find in this volume a short cut to a rather extensive literature inaccessible to most of them. It is the further hope of the author that graduate students venturing forth into the field of American history for the first time may find this book useful in suggesting the special interests of the present generation of historians and some of the tendencies that seem likely to guide historical research for some years to come."

"Professor Schlesinger has succeeded in bringing together into one place all the newer interpretations of various phases of American history and giving to them a treatment that is in itself original. The style of the book is fascinating and anyone who has the least interest in the subject of American history should read it with enthusiasm," said B. B. Kendrick of Columbia university.

TEACHERS WILL TAKE COUNTY EXAMINATION

Teachers who plan to take the examination for a uniform county certificate should confer with W. N. Leeper, county superintendent, and find out the requirements which they will be obliged to meet. The requirements will hold for the July examinations also.

"All teachers or students who plan to write the state uniform examination for a uniform county certificate for the purpose of raising the grade of their certificate, or for the purpose of renewing their certificate, are required to show proof of having read and reported on one reading circle book for each year of the life of their present certificate," said Superintendent Leeper.

ANNOUNCE BIRTH OF SON

Announcement has been received of the birth of a son, John Jewitt, to Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Hicks of Waterloo, on June 18. Mr. Hicks is the new University news editor succeeding Harold Chamberlain. He was graduated from the University in 1920, was a former member of the Daily Iowan staff, and since his graduation has been connected with the Waterloo Courier. Mrs. Hicks was formerly Miss Romola Latchem, of the class of 1919. She was a member of Hesperia, of Theta Sigma Phi, and was business manager of the Daily Iowan during 1918-19.

PROFESSOR ULLMAN IS ILL

Prof. Berthold L. Ullman, head of the department of Latin and Greek, will not speak at the meeting of the Classical club tonight as previously announced because of illness. The club will meet however, at 7 p. m. in room 109 liberal arts building.

Prof. Franklin H. Potter, of the department of Latin and Greek, will give an informal talk on his travels in Italy.

Secretary W. H. Bates, of the University of Iowa, has been re-elected secretary-treasurer of the Association of University and College Business Officers.

STUDENTS MUST FILE FORMAL APPLICATION TO GET THEIR DEGREE

Students who expect to receive their degree at the July convocation should file application for the degree immediately, said Herbert C. Dorcas, university registrar, in an announcement yesterday.

The announcement follows: "All students registered in the summer session, who expect to receive degrees at the university convocation to be held Friday, July 21, are requested to call immediately at the registrar's office, law building, second floor, south end, to file their formal application for the degree expected on a printed form designed for the purpose.

"Prompt compliance with this request is very important as it is otherwise almost impossible for us to know who are to graduate, and to check up the records to see whether requirements for graduation have been met.

"Persons who might otherwise be qualified for graduation may fail of recommendation just because of failure to make this formal application."

STARBUCK NEXT SPEAKER

Prof. Edwin D. Starbuck of the department of philosophy and psychology, will address the third summer session assembly, which will be held in the natural science auditorium Wednesday, June 28.

Charts and bulletins, valuable for high school science teaching, are distributed free. The exhibit will continue till Friday, June 23, and is in charge of C. F. Van Doren.

WHEN THE MILLION DOLLAR FUND IS RAISED

The Iowa Memorial Union

UNION PLEDGES INCREASE FUND

Campaign in Cedar Rapids and Chicago Meets With Fair Success

Plans for the Iowa Memorial union, a million dollar building to be built in connection with the university soon, are progressing in spite of the fact that so far only $440,000 of the $1,000,000 required has been pledged. At the present time Ralph G. Grassfield, director of the Memorial union, has four men in the field soliciting pledges, H. H. Mott and B. F. Martinsen at Waverly, and C. C. Bowie and A. D. Clem at Oskaloosa. Last month Cedar Rapids and Chicago were canvassed, and although the returns are not all in, the results point to fair success.

The union is an organization of the student body. In June, 1919, the present project was launched by the University of Iowa association. The impulse arose from the desire to create at the university a memorial for those who served our country in the Civil, Spanish, and World wars. The memorial building is to be a magnificent club home provided with meeting rooms for all campus organizations such as literary societies, Y. W. C. A., students' clubs, honorary societies and patriotic societies.

The union will be democratic in every sense of the word. All class and social lines will be disregarded. Any student, no matter how obscure or prominent, will have equal rights, privileges, and opportunities within the union. It will be here that all students will meet on common ground.

In the center of the building there will be a large auditorium on the first floor, where all-university events will be held, such as formal dances, weekly dances, and other entertainments.

The strength of the union lies in the student control of union affairs on the campus. The union will foster everything that makes for the best interests of the University. It will be its purpose to support every worth-while University activity.

The purpose of the union is twofold: it will be a home for the student body, serving both men and women, and it will be a training ground for citizenship.

Construction of the union building will begin just as soon as the amount of pledges permits. The site of the union has not yet been officially located, but it will be in the center of the student population.

Subscriptions are payable in four annual installments, the first to be made within one year from the date of the pledge.

Summer students are as much a part of the University as those attending during the academic year, and they should take a corresponding interest in the advance of the Memorial union and do all in their power to make it a success.

President Walter A. Jessup says this about the union:

"To my mind it is indispensable, and I want to see it realized as soon as possible. From what I know of similar institutions at other universities I am confident that it will be hard to over-estimate the happy influence such a union will exercise here. If all take hold with a will, we shall see the building erected and the union organized within the present collegiate generation. That will be a splendid goal at which to aim."

For the benefit of any one wishing to call the dean of men's office, attention is called to the fact that the phone number has been changed from B-932 to Red 2625. "Very few people seem to know this fact," said the dean's secretary. The phone did not ring once in the past two days that it has been installed."

A course in children's literature will be given at the library school in the law building, starting July 3. Miss Grace Schellenberger, librarian of the public library of Davenport, will have charge of the course.

MAY NOT HAVE BATHING BEACH

Property Owners Near Black Springs Oppose Beach At That Point

"Considerable opposition has been directed by the property owners against a bathing beach, either at the city park or at Black Springs park," says Christian Yetter, president of the Retail Merchants' Bureau, who has sponsored the bathing beach movement. "The fact that the city bathing beach last year was not conducted in the most approved manner has adversely influenced the opinion of those who are chiefly affected."

Mr. Yetter thinks that the city park would not be as suitable a place for the project as Black Springs because of its proximity to the water supply. He assures the property owners along the Iowa river that if they will withdraw their objections he will guarantee to provide, by virtue of his position, a night watchman and a life guard.

The city government and the Red Cross would undoubtedly co-operate with him in his efforts. By this plan he anticipates no such condition as existed last year. If $700 or $800 can be secured from the merchants a temporary bath house will be built and sand pumped into the river to improve the existing conditions. In this manner, thinks Mr. Yetter, Iowa City will have a bathing beach that will compare favorably with the beaches of larger cities. The city council or the merchants' association will provide regulations which will be enforced by the night watchman.

The accommodations of the prospective beach would not be limited. Last year as many as two thousand people took advantage of the opportunity to engage in this most popular summer sport.

ASSEMBLY IS HELD ON THE CAMPUS

at Ames, which institutions have been expanding in all directions but unable to keep up with the increased demands made by the entrance of increasingly large numbers of students, and the care devoted to the welfare of children, making it possible to restore health, strength, and happiness to the large numbers of unfortunate ones.

President Jessup then spoke of the transformation of the prairie from the time when a courier brought the news of the firing on Fort Sumter from Davenport to Iowa City, to the garden land of the present, all within the memory of the veterans, some of whom were present at the assembly. Iowa now devotes $6,000,000 annually to the support of its colleges and child welfare work, serving more than 15,000 persons each year. It is a marvelous heritage, he said, and asked: "Am I willing to fight the battles of civilization and do the things essential to the safeguarding of this heritage? It is the purpose of the University to catch this spirit and train men and women to be the highest type of citizens. To the degree that the summer session contributes to that purpose it can take credit for having accomplished a worthy deed and its success will be measured by the reaction of the student body to the stimulation of the university. May this dream come true."

The assembly was opened by the singing of the doxology, followed by a prayer by Rev. Robert Reed, pastor of the Presbyterian church, and was closed by "America." The singing was led by Mrs. Mildred B. Paddock, instructor in the department of music, backed by the summer session chorus, which made its first appearance at this time.

In the address of last evening Rabbi Mannheimer spoke on "A Social Message of the Prophets." He stated that the prophets were a group who lived at various times and taught different things. It would be necessary to study each individual from the point of view of his time, but they all have characteristics in common. In the first place, according to the Rabbi, they were bitter critics of the morals and the social conditions of their day. "In the name of a universal God of justice and righteousness, they protested against everything and anything which they found to be contrary to God's holiness and justice." In the face of every attempt to make them stop preaching, said Rabbi Mannheimer, whether by prince, priest or people, they dared to persist.

"These prophets were not negative critics and preachers of doom. They were a group of the greatest preachers of social justice that the world has ever known. In the name of the universal God, of justice and holiness, they demanded justice, between man and man, group and group, nation and nation." Rabbi Mannheimer said that as a goal of all human endeavor they pointed out the establishment of God's kingdom on earth, when peace, justice, and brotherhood, should be world wide. "When nation should no longer lift up sword against nation, when there should be no more war, and when every man should sit beneath his own vine and fig tree."

"On the basis of the present world condition," said Rabbi Mannheimer, "with the continued building of armament, the war between labor and capital, friction of group against group, selfishness and injustice prevalent and rampant, it would seem that what we need at this time is a bitter denunciation on the part of the modern prophets, but what is needed a thousand times more than mere denunciation, is positive preaching of justice between groups. This is the only

"With faith of the prophet in God, in man, we need to persist undaunted and undiscouraged in battling for social justice, and righteousness. We cannot afford to quit. To the people of the United States in particular, who believing with reason that they are a chosen people, there comes the call to give the world the consecrated leadership and service which the true prophetic ideal of a chosen people would demand of us. Never were there such opportunities for world service before people as before us, the richest, most powerful people on earth. Let us trust that we will not fail in this crisis."

FIRST REHEARSAL OF ORCHESTRA TONIGHT

The first rehearsal of the orchestra will be held at 7:10 tonight in the old school of music building under the direction of Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the department of music. Professor Clapp is urging all musicians who are willing to devote an hour a week to rehearsal for the purpose of adding to their own enjoyment and that of the student body, to join the organization.

The success of the chorus last summer and the large turnout for the chorus this year shows that there is considerable talent about the university. The orchestra will perform at the July convocation and probably at some of the dramatic entertainments.

During the past year a symphony orchestra of fifty pieces was conducted by Professor Frank E. Kendrie of the department of music, and accompanied the chorus at the two annual oratorios and performed on numerous other occasions.

SECOND PLAY HOUR ENJOYED BY G. A. R.

Three hundred students and G. A. R. visitors gathered on the Old Capitol oval for the second weekly play hour Tuesday evening. Ernest J. Schroeder, director of physical education for men, had charge of the frolic, and was assisted by Marion R. Lyon, director of physical education for women, Miss Bess Baker and Miss Marian W. Taylor, instructors in women's physical education.

Twenty-three members of the Iowa G. A. R. fife and drum corps who were in the city for the state rally of the G. A. R., played "Jefferson and Liberty" for a grand march, which opened the frolic. "Turkey in the Straw," and "Mrs. McLeod's Reel" were played for the "Virginia Reel," which was danced by the players on the lawn.

"Three Deep," "Flying Dutchman" and relay races were played for an hour by the participants. The greater part of the audience was onlookers.
