Committee Cancels Election In Liberal Arts College

INQUIRY INTO COAL PROFITS BEGINS TODAY

Profiteering Since 1922 May be Disclosed; Charge Industry Overdeveloped

(By United News)
By Clayton Whitehill
Washington, Oct. 17.—President Harding's coal fact finding commission meets for organization Wednesday morning. When the commission composed of seven members gets under way with its investigation it is expected to follow the same line of inquiry attempted by the Federal Trade Commission which has been restrained by a court order not only from pursuing its investigation but from publishing or in any manner using for any purpose, the statistics it had already gathered.

Profiteering Reached 268 %
Should the presidential coal commission inquiry extend backward to 1920 it will be disclosed that extensive profiteering reaching 268% in one instance, existed then, and that indications point to a continuation of the practice during the 1922 tie-up.

Figures on profiteering from 1916 to 1920 are to be incorporated as a report soon to be made public by the Federal Trade Commission it is learned.

A partial summary of this report is understood to include the following analysis of coal costs and margins of net returns.

Of fifty-one companies, twenty-one in West Virginia and thirty in Pennsylvania, the rate of return for individual companies ranged in 1919 from a loss of 24% on the investment for one company to a profit of 45% for another.

Small Profits in 1919
For the first nine months of 1920 the range of return on investment was from a profit of 3% for one company to a profit of 268% for another company. The company making the profit of 268% was the same company which in 1919 had a loss of 4% to 3.57% on investment. Cost of mining varied from 29 cents a ton to $4.49 a ton, while the average price realized per net ton during the year ranged from 56 cents to $11.87.

These figures are submitted it was said, to emphasize the opportunities for profiteering through the overdevelopment of coal industry and the consequent estimated surplus of more than 250,000 miners.

The presidential commission is instructed by law to investigate and report on the over development of coal industry, which some experts place at 30%. Whether the federal trade commissions figures will be employed by the fact finding body in arriving at its conclusions will, of course, be determined as soon as the work of organization is completed.

ASK STUDENTS TO RAISE FUND FOR SENDING BAND TO ILLINOIS GAME

With present indications pointing to an Iowa crowd of at least 500 persons at the Iowa-Illinois game this Saturday, John J. Dondore A4 of Iowa City, University cheer leader, last night announced that plans were being formed for taking the band to the contest. A tag day will be held Thursday to raise money for the purpose.

It was also stated by Dondore that a mass meeting will be held Thursday afternoon on Iowa field while the team is practicing.

DEFENSE IS BUILT FOR ILLINI PLAYS

Conquerors of Yale Prepare for Game Saturday; Heldt is Back

Most of the practice period for the varsity squad last night was confined to working out a possible defense against the Illinois formations, and a long signal drill. Assistant Coaches Jenkins and Barry, who witnessed the Illinois-Butler game, are back with most of the Illinois plays, which were given to the scrubs at the start of practice. After running through them for a few times to get acquainted with the details, Coach Howard H. Jones lined his varsity men against the scrubs, and worked with them personally on the best mode of defense for each play.

PICK DEBATERS TO ARGUE FOR IOWA IN I. M. I.

Dunlap, Levingston, Harley, Read, Beems, Bucy Win in Final Tryouts

The six debaters who will represent Iowa in the annual Iowa-Minnesota-Illinois debate on December 8 were selected in the final tryouts last night in the liberal arts auditorium. The men are:

Max Levingston A2 of Waterloo, George O. Hurley L1 of Rolfe, Harold D. Read L1 of Des Moines, Buel G. Beems A3 of Anamosa, Paul C. Bucy A2 of Hubbard.

KADESKY IS PRESENTED WITH SILVER LOVING CUP BY DENTAL INFIRMARY

Max Kadesky D4 of Dubuque, end on the varsity football team, was presented with a silver loving cup by the students, nurses, and doctors of the dental infirmary yesterday.

The cup bore the inscription: "To Max Kadesky from the Infirmary," the score of the Iowa-Yale game, and the date. It stands six inches high and is mounted on a silver base.

The presentation was made by Archibald A. Plagman D4 of Iowa City and a yell for Kadesky was led by Howard H. Farrand D4 of Sturgeon Bay, Wis. Kadesky made a short talk thanking everyone.

MANY FORGED NAMES FOUND IN PETITIONS

Professional Colleges Will Elect Officers Today; Council to Meet

No election today in the college of liberal arts. This was the decision of the election committee yesterday after an examination of the petitions presented by candidates Monday night had revealed so many cases of fraud that only a few of the twenty candidates for the seventeen offices could be considered.

This will not interfere in any way with the elections in the professional colleges scheduled for today.

Goes to Council
A fair election or none, was the sentiment voiced by members of the committee, when it was decided yesterday that the whole matter should be brought to the attention of the student council. Petitions gave clear evidence of a political machine. Names were forged in a bungling way; law students and graduate students signed petitions to support candidates in liberal arts; names were misspelled, and on some, the same name appeared two and three times.

Irregularities in Signatures
The name of a woman appeared on several petitions, everytime in a different handwriting and misspelled. These are only a few of the irregularities in the positions which influenced the committee to postpone the election indefinitely.

The petitions together with a report from the election committee will be presented to the student council at a meeting to be called for Wednesday, October 25. At that time a new method of selecting candidates in the college of liberal arts will be decided upon.

FRESHMAN WOMAN NAMED PRINCESS

Dorothy Holdoegel Appointed Iowa's Representative at Texas Exposition

Dorothy Holdoegel A1, of Rockwell City, will leave October 29, for Waco, Texas. Miss Holdoegel has been designated by Gov. N. E. Kendall as princess to represent Iowa at the coronation of king and queen cotton at the Texas Cotton Palace exposition, which will be held at Waco, Texas, October 21 to November 6.

The appointment was made following an invitation received from the governor of Texas and W. V. Crawford, president of the exposition some time ago.

As princess from Iowa, Miss Holdoegel will be assigned as the guest of one of the prominent Waco families during her stay there and will be met upon her arrival and entertained by the committee in charge of the coronation.

Miss Holdoegel is a pledge of the Chi Omega sorority and also a member of the University players. She is also a candidate for secretary of the freshman class in the elections to be held today.

1500 ODD FELLOWS TO PARADE TODAY

Four Bands and Many Floats Will Compete for $300 in Prizes

Fifteen hundred I. O. O. F. members will parade at 1:00 p. m. today. Three hundred dollars in prizes is offered for the best bands and the best floats. Col. A. H. Glaspey is to be the marshal of the parade.

The University Band, the Jan Hus Band from Cedar Rapids, the High School Band from Oxford, and the Concert Band from Keokuk will compete for the three prizes offered to the three best bands. The judges for both the floats and the bands will be Prof. C. H. Weller, Sergeant Jacob C. Meyers, and Al Fisher.

U. S. NAMES IOWA IN MEDIC CORPS

Iowa Chosen as New U. S. Medical Reserve Corps With Dean Colonel

The University of Iowa's medical department has been made a complete hospital unit of the Medical Reserve Corps of the United States Army by an order of the United States Secretary of War, Weeks, dated June 27, 1922. There are only two of these units at present assigned by the Federal Government: One at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston and the other at the University of Iowa.

In accordance with this order the University hospital becomes General Hospital Unit number 54 of the United States Medical Reserve Corps. It is to have an equipment of 1000 beds and an active personnel of 472 persons including forty officers and 120 nurses. Although this personal has not yet been officially appointed, it will be composed of all members of the present staff of the University and in case of action in actual warfare medical students would probably receive commissions. The officer in command Dr. Lee W. Dean, will be a colonel, the other officers receiving their commission under him, but as in other branches of the service war time, commissions will be higher than in peace.

This unit, now in process of organization, is an actual part of the United States Army and is to be ready for immediate action at the command of the Surgeon General of the United States. It is entirely different than any other organization of this nature. It will be organized as a unit and in case of war it will go into action as a unit. Just as soon as the work of organizing is completed, the War Department will send out definite plans for activities.

ANNUAL Y. W. C. A. DRIVE ON TODAY

Opportunity Will Be Given to Join; at 4 o'clock in L. A. Drawing Room

The annual drive for Y. W. C. A. members opens today under the direction of Leona M. Hambrecht A3 of Iowa City. Freshmen, transfers, and upperclass women will be solicited. Those girls who have affiliated with the association at some previous time need not join again. Opportunity for signing a membership card will be given at the weekly meeting Wednesday at 4 o'clock in liberal arts drawing room.

"Membership does not mean a dollar, but a purpose; not a point, but service," Miss Alvida Buck, secretary, states.

Any woman in the University may become a member of the Y. W. C. A., if she is in sympathy with the purpose and makes the following declaration: "It is my purpose to live as a true follower of the Lord Jesus Christ."

The purpose of the organization is fourfold: To lead students to faith in God through Jesus Christ; to lead them in membership and service in the Christian church; to promote their growth in Christian faith and character, especially through the study of the Bible; to influence them to devote themselves in united efforts with all Christians; to making the will of Christ effective in human society; and to extend the kingdom of God throughout the world.

Y. W. C. A. members transferred from high school groups are regarded as active members and are welcome to take in all association affairs.

Territory has been assigned to committee workers. Within the next ten days, each worker will call upon ten girls. The annual membership banquet will conclude the drive.

HUGH WALPOLE TO LECTURE HERE

University Lecture Committee Secures Englishman For January 22

Hugh Walpole, celebrated English lecturer and writer, will speak at the Natural Science auditorium the night of January 22, 1923, under the direction of the University Lecture committee.

The subject of his address is not yet known, but it is possible that Mr. Walpole may give one of the three new addresses that he will deliver on his American tour this winter. These are: "Novel Writing and Novel Reading," "Psychology and Fiction," and "Books and Friendships."

In some of the larger cities Mr. Walpole will give six lectures in series on his present day English contemporaries; he intends to be here only long enough to deliver his lecture.

As a writer, Mr. Walpole probably has gained even more recognition than he has as a speaker. Starting out after graduation from King's college, Cambridge, he spent several years as a schoolteacher but later for a longer period he served in a journalistic capacity. In 1910 he abandoned this to devote more time to the writing of fiction. Chief among his works are the following: "Maradick at Forty," "The Gods and Mr. Perrin," "The Prelude to Adventure," "The Golden Seacrow," and "Jeremy," "The Dark Forest," and "The Secret City."

CHEMISTRY CLUB WILL STAGE MIXER TONIGHT

The Chemistry club will hold a departmental mixer tonight at Olson hall. All who are interested in chemistry are eligible for membership. The purpose of this first meeting is to create a feeling of unity in the department.

Each month the club will bring in some successful industrial chemist to give the students a more practical idea of the problems and development of modern chemistry. Tonight Charles M. Foyntee G., of Davenport, president of the club, has secured Dr. Jacob Cornog, associate in chemistry, to give a short talk.

LECTURE ON ENOS MILLS

The botany club of the University has arranged with Professor B. Shimek of the department of botany to give a lecture on the life and work of the great naturalist, Mr. Enos Mills, whose death occurred recently. Mr. Mills had been connected with the national park movement for many years, and on two or three occasions was a lecturer at the University. The date of his lecture, which will be open to all members of the University, will be announced at a later date.

STAUFFER GIVES TALK

Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in liberal arts drawing room Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. counsels, world fellowship committees, and others interested met to hear Mr. Stauffer, of New York City, who is connected with the national student volunteer board.

NO ELECTION TODAY

Not all of the candidates who presented petitions for offices in the college of liberal arts are to be blamed for the corruption brought to light by the election committee yesterday. In every doubtful case investigated, the names appearing on the candidate's petition had been forged not by him but by one of his fraternity brothers. The whole thing represents an execrable state of affairs—clash—all because a few ambitious fraternities were afraid they were going to be left out of the spoils this year. A thinly veiled political machine, started by a few bungling fools, attempted to control the election today, as has been the case in the past, but their efforts were too crude and too apparent to the election committee. In justice to the other candidates, it may be said that all petitions with forged names came from this same machine.

An analysis of the petitions offers a good insight into the condition of politics on the campus today. In all, twenty petitions were presented for the seventeen offices. Although the election was announced over a week ago, an eleventh hour rush was made to circulate petitions Monday night and to line up candidates. Every candidate with the exception of one belongs to a fraternity or sorority.

Candidates as well as political managers, on the whole, were ignorant of the rules of the election printed a number of times this year and enforced in past years. Seven or eight appeared a few minutes before the deadline without a statement from the registrar's office to the effect that they were members in full standing in their class.

Six petitions were worded almost exactly the same, and apparently had been written on the same typewriter. Moreover the six candidates presenting these petitions had forgotten to get a registrar's certificate. They invariably made the same reply when asked if they were members of a political machine.

Forged names were found on at least nine of the twenty petitions. Some ingenious person thought that by writing one name by the Palmer method and the next with a backhand slant that the committee would be deceived—and probably would have been, had the names been spelled correctly. Petitions were found with names signed twice and three times by the same person. Law students, medical students, graduate students had placed their names on petitions for liberal arts offices. One name was written differently six times, on as many petitions.

Candidates for the office of president of their class had no constructive platforms other than the time honored, "I'm strong for Iowa" or "We ought to have broader democracy here". Candidates for the lower offices knew nothing of the duties they would be expected to perform except to sit for a picture for the Hawkeye. But here they were right.

Under these circumstances the committee found it impossible to go ahead with the election. The student council will have its first chance to do something worth while if it solves the political problem.

CONTEMPORARY OPINION

(Harvard Crimson)

COOKED AND ROASTED

When Lamb's young Bo-bo destroyed his father's house and incidentally cooked the pigs, the news spread about the neighborhood and a general conflagration was the result. It was soon discovered, however, that burning the family homestead was a costly and a round-about method of securing a few pork chops and was as a result improved methods were brought into practice, as every one knows.

It may seem a long step from "burnt pig" to education, but there is certain analogy in the fact that modern education like modern pork is practically laid before us cooked and ready to be eaten.

One hears, these days, of individuals spending days or weeks in a convict prison, involving a considerable amount of hardship, to receive, at the end of the period, a certain pecuniary reward. In the past education could be compared to effort of this sort, but its modern version is more like a ride in a Pullman car, with only the fare to pay and a tip for the porter at the end of the journey. Of course, paying the fare is sometimes an inconvenience, but most things have to be paid for, even the unreturned shirts in last week's laundry. Education still requires a certain amount of study, but that is almost negligible when put beside that of the days before text books were written, before translations were made, before "prep" schools were allowed, and before electric lights, Waldorfs, and hot showers were discovered.

But a Pullman trip is deceptive. The seats are too soft, the head rest too comfortable, and the porters, when properly encouraged, too obliging. It is altogether dangerous easy to doze off and miss the best part of the journey.

The Sounding Board

This column seems to be between the devil and the deep sea. On the left of us is Ye Editor attacking the "buying of votes with votes" in university elections, and on our right is Vox Pop violently bombarding Ye Editor. At least that was the situation Tuesday morning.

Just a moment, gentlemen, till we get under cover.

The proximity of Vox Pop fills us with other vague alarms; we fear for our job. People who write in to contributors' columns are usually funnier than we could ever hope to be.

Literary Note.

Among the interesting books on the publishers' fall lists is a massive three-volume work by the Iowa City chief of police, "The Evils of Jay-Walking: Their Prevention and Cure." This book, treating the subject exhaustively as it does, and being couched in non-technical language, has received the highest commendation from critics everywhere. No less a personage than Mr. Harry Bremer has pronounced it a masterpiece of its kind.

Monday's Chicago Tribune carried a picture of four members of the American girls' swimming team en route to a water carnival at Bermuda. We took one look and decided to leave at once for Bermuda, but found to our disappointment that the meet was already over.

Our fetish for accuracy was rudely jolted when we read an article mentioning "Professor Samuel Sloan."

Notice to Iowa copy readers; Professor Sloan's given name is not Samuel but Sam.

"On another page of the Daily Iowan will be found a complete list of the candidates, a record of their achievements here, their platform, and their fraternity, if any." Iowan editorial. As a bit of subtle satire, we consider that unepualled.

Spiritualists from all over the United States are gathering in Chicago.

Rap, rap, rap. The meeting is called to order.

William Gibbs McAdoo, who will perhaps be remembered as a son-in-law of Ex-President Wilson, is violently scoring the Republican administration. But the only score that really counts will be totalled up in November.

Viennese tailors are making trouser pockets larger, so as to enable their customers to carry enough money for ordinary daily use. We were thinking of having our pockets made smaller.

Glancing over the imposing array of coming attractions at the local theatre, we are thinking some of applying for the position of dramatic critic.

A dramatic critic, you know, is a person who isn't obliged to like the shows, because the tickets don't cost him anything.

FRESHMEN PHYSICALLY FIT SAYS McDONALD

"This year's freshmen are as physically fit as those of former years as nearly as we can tell now," said Dr. William J. McDonald, yesterday. McDonald is in charge of the men's physical examinations. The defects which are most numerous are flat feet, chronic throat trouble, and curvatures. The men are being examined at the rate of eighty a night. Working four nights of the week, the department of student health hopes to take care of the 1200 students before November 1. Men will take their regular physical training before being examined unless there is some serious defect to prevent them from doing so. The student health department is keeping in close enough contact with the instructors in physical training to watch such cases.

Train For Leadership

To men who are eager to shorten the years between the time they leave school and the time when they are fitted to fill a position of responsibility and trust, the Babson Institute offers an intensive training course of one or two years.

From actual experience the fundamental principles of business are made clear. By positive examples, the student is shown how to apply these principles in the conduct of every day commercial affairs.

Babson Institute, an educational institution endowed for the purpose of fitting men for executive responsibility, invites you to send for their book, "Training for Business Leadership." Write today. No obligation.
