Purple Hopes to Upset Dope in Game Today

HARDING MAY PROPOSE NEW NAVAL TREATY

Five-Power Limitation Pact May Include Three Nations Only

Washington, Nov. 24.—The government is prepared to save the naval limitation treaty from collapse by default. Since France and Italy have refused to ratify it the plan is to make a three power contract between the United States, Great Britain, and Japan. For nearly a year the scrapping agreement which promised to marshal in a new epoch in world history, has been a dead letter.

The great battleships marked for destruction by the five leading naval powers continue to do their duties and the treaty is buried under a year's accumulation of dust. But President Harding let it be known on Friday that he doesn't intend to permit the work of the Washington conference to be undone. Should France and Italy persist in ignoring the five-power treaty, the United States will suggest to Great Britain and Japan that they revise the phraseology so that the treaty will become effective by their three signatures.

Since the United States, Great Britain, and Japan have already ratified it, the agreement would then come into force immediately. Officials are waiting now on advices from Paris and Rome indicating the exact position of these governments before acting. Officials here declare that it will be a simple matter to change the treaty to include the three powers only.

The delay in putting the scrapping agreement into force comes as a disappointment to Senator Borah who offered the resolution which led to the calling of the conference. "But there is nothing I can do," he said. "It is an executive matter. I wanted to leave France out in the first place but the executive thought otherwise. He will now have to wash his own dish. Borah said that should the conference treaty go by default he would start another disarmament movement.

Some officials doubted whether Great Britain would be willing to scrap a part of her navy as provided by the treaty in the event that France refused to limit the size of her navy.

Meanwhile the navy department is doing nothing in the way of disarming war ships included in the scrapping list except on such obsolete craft as would be junked anyway.

STARZL TO LEAD YEARLING SQUAD

Two Weeks More of Practice for Thirty Freshmen Grid Players

Thirty freshmen have been picked for an additional two weeks practice under the direct observation of Coach Jones and Assistant Coach Devine in order to line up material for next year's team.

At the last regular practice last night Francis Starzl of LeMars was elected captain of the freshman squad. Starzl played on the LeMars high school team for three years, starring in almost every position on the team. Last year he attended Notre Dame and played on Knute Rockne's freshman eleven, winning a numeral at the South Bend institution.

Starzl weighs over 200 pounds and is exceedingly fast for his size and right now looks to be the likely man to fill Thompson's place at tackle next fall. He is a pledge of Phi Kappa, social fraternity, and a reporter for The Daily Iowan.

WEATHER FORECAST

For Iowa City:—Cold continues, with but slight change in temperature for the better.

KLINGAMAN IS ASKED BY NEW YORK CONCERN TO CONDUCT SURVEY

An unprecedented honor has come to the University in the form of an invitation, addressed to Mr. O. E. Klingaman of the extension division, to make a survey of the field distribution in dry-goods, for the National Dry-Goods Association in New York City. The largest textile manufacturers wholesalers dry-goods houses, and department stores are joining in the interest of the survey. Heretofore all such offers have gone to eastern colleges. The Harvard School of Business Research has recently received the greater share. It tried vainly to repeat this when the national assn. announced above mentioned survey, and was very much disappointed to see the opportunity leave the East, and, for the first time in the history of the organization, go west of the Mississippi.

GOPHERS ARE SET FOR WOLVERINES

Minnesota Develops Offensive Game To Win Traditional Brown Jug

By Chet Salter
(Sports Editor Minnesota Daily)
Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 24.—Special to Daily Iowan—With the crippled condition of his players disappeared Coach Bill Spaulding of Minnesota's grid eleven has pointed his squad towards the impending Wolverine attack, feature on the Gopher bill for Saturday. The game will close the first year of Spaulding's regime at Minnesota and probably Coach Yost's last at Michigan. The conflict between these schools will have the traditional 'brown jug' as a reward for the conquering eleven.

Coach Spaulding and his assistant Len Frank journeyed to Ann Arbor last week and got an inside peep on Yost's pet formation and tricks. Coach Spaulding is now developing an attack that he hopes will prove the downfall of the so far undefeated Wolverine aggregation. Michigan is bound to play her best as the Gophers are the only obstacle remaining between them and a clean slate for the season.

TEAM 1 HOLDS LEAD IN FRESHMAN TOURNAMENT

In the freshman class basketball league team 4 forfeited to team 1 last night. The standing is as follows:

Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
1	2	2	1.000
6	2	0	1.000
7	1	1	.500
2	1	1	.500
5	1	1	.500
4	1	2	.333
3	0	2	.000
8	0	2	.000

EARL CLINE, IOWA GRAD. AIDS IN SCHOOL SURVEY

Earl D. Cline, a graduate of the University who has been employed by the extension division as clerk of education, has resigned from that position to become the secretary of a committee, in Chicago, which was recently appointed by the board of education in that city to make a survey of the schools in the largest cities of the United States. The purpose of the survey is to make recommendations to the Chicago school system.

CITY DRAMA LEAGUE TO GIVE COMEDY PROGRAM

Under the supervision of Miss Helene Blattner of the department of speech, the Iowa City center of the Drama League will present a comedy program in the little theater Monday evening November 27 at 8 o'clock. Mrs. C. Herndon and Miss Marjorie Roland have coached the plays. Those in the cast are: Myra Willsey, Willie Kinney, Levitt Lambert, Marjorie Roland, Edwin Starbuck Jr. and Frances Carpenter.

DEVINE, LOCKE WILL NOT PLAY AT COLUMBUS

Iowa Stars Turn Down Invitation To Play Charity Game On December 2

Definite information of invitations offered to Aubrey Devine and Gordon Locke to play in an annual charity football game at Columbus, Ohio, December 2, was learned today.

Both men said they had received such offers to play with the selected team of Western Stars' which yearly meets a "Sons of the East" team, football veterans from the east, at Columbus. Neither Devine nor Locke will make the trip, however, Devine stated last evening, since such a trip would necessarily cause them to be absent from the University for a week. In addition they naturally would be liable to injuries during the scrimmages preceding the game or during the game itself, with no chance of personal benefit, or very little honor for the University of Iowa resulting.

This post season game is acknowledged by some authorities as being the greatest annual charity football game in the country. Hence a player receiving an offer to play at this time is accorded a great honor.

Reports from the Thursday "Ohio State Lantern", the Ohio State daily received in Iowa City yesterday stated that John Heldt would also receive an invitation to be center for the westerners in this game. Heldt denied such an offer when questioned last evening.

Some of the other Westerners whom the "Ohio State Lantern" stated would receive invitations for this east-west dual are: "Bo" McMillian, all-American quarter with Centre college in 1920; Joe Murphy, the Centre halfback of last year; Jack Crangell and Bib Fisher, star Illini performers in 1919 and '20; and "Potsy" Clark, the quarter on the Illinois team in 1915; Angus Goetz, the all-American Wolverine tackle in 1920; and Ernie Vick, the Michigan all-American tackle last year.

The following men from Ohio are expected to play on the western team: Iolas Huffman and Dean Trout, Ohio State; and Olin Smith, Captain of the Ohio Wesleyan.

Some of the easterners who have signed up with the intention of playing are: George Mosley, Yale all-American end, 1916; Eddie Kaw, present Cornell all-American halfback, and Jimmy Muhls, all-American guard at Cornell 1914, '15, and '16.

INVITATIONS SENT IOWA PRINCIPALS

First Annual Conference of High School Officials To Be Here Dec. 7-8

The first annual conference of high school principals will be held here December 7 and 8 under the auspices of the extension division and the college of education. Programs are being sent out today to all the principals of high schools, superintendents, supervisory officers, high school teachers, members of the boards of education, and all others interested in the work of re-organization of the field of secondary education. William F. Russell, dean of the college of education, O. E. Klingaman, director of the extension division, and Lee Byrne, associate professor of the extension division, respectively, will have charge of the three sessions of the convention. All except two hundreds of the program will be given by men connected with the University. The prominence of discussions concerned with general improvement and reorganization in secondary education was one of the reasons which actuated authorities here to plan the convention.

GYM IS PACKED FOR LAST BIG MASS MEETING

Bonfire Saved Until Tonight; Shambaugh Is Speaker of Evening

Several thousand students and Iowa supporters took the opportunity of participating in the last pep meeting of the football season last night and packed the men's gymnasium to yell and cheer the Hawkeyes on to victory in today's game. Anxious to support the team in the last game of the Western Conference championship race, the meeting responded with great enthusiasm to the yells led by the cheer leaders.

The bonfire, which had been planned for the meeting, was not lighted but was saved for tonight's celebration which is conditioned on a victory in today's fracas. This action was taken by officers of the Howling 300 who believed, after consideration of the matter, that a bonfire celebration the night before the game, would be too great a sign of cocksureness, which is exactly what the "300" has been attempting to guard against.

At the meeting last night, Prof. Benjamin F. Shambaugh, head of the department of political science, addressed the meeting in a peppy manner and was given a round of applause. The University band played a number of selections and yells reverberated in the building.

When the football team steps on the field this afternoon, fans will arise with bared heads and sing, "On Iowa" as the band plays the song. Officers of the "300" expect to make this a custom at all football games on Iowa Field, as a mark of respect for the University song and the gridiron warriors.

The members of the "300" and Shouting Sisters will form their "I" in the west grand stand at today's game. The Howlers and Sisters are seated in a special section and will wear old-gold and black caps to form an old-gold "I" against a black background.

Iowa students will undoubtedly hold a huge celebration this evening in the event of a victory over Northwestern. The corn stalks which were used in making the engineer's arch at Homecoming have been piled in a field north of the men's gymnasium and it is rumored that they would furnish excellent material for the greatest bonfire of the year.

ELECT LEADER OF FROSH SWIMMERS

Wayne W. Chambers Gets Captaincy of Team; Gets In Breast Stroke

Wayne W. Chambers SI of Des Moines, was elected captain of the freshman swimming team last night. He is an all around swimmer but specializes in the dashes and breast stroke. Last Saturday he was the individual point winner in the novice meet, taking first in the 100 yard breast stroke in the record time of 1 minute 29 2-5 seconds, first in the 100 yard free style, and third in the 40 yard dash.

Last year he placed well up in the events he entered in the high school invitation swimming meet held at the men's gymnasium last March.

WEBER GETS RECOGNITION

Irving B. Weber G of Iowa City is placed on the second all-American intercollegiate swimming team by Frank J. Sullivan of Princeton, whose selections appears in Spaulding's official 1923 Intercollegiate Swimming Guide which has just been issued. Weber swam in the back stroke for the last two years and holds the tank record of 2 minutes and 7 seconds in the 150 yard back stroke. He is a member of the Eels Club and the local chapter of the Red Cross life savers.

CAGE MEN GO THROUGH LIGHT BASKET TOSsing DRILL; HICKS IN CHARGE

Captain Hicks was in charge of the basketball men last night, in place of Coach Barry, as the latter was out with the football men in their last night of practice for the season.

The captain put the tossers through a light workout consisting of basket shooting and criss-cross passing to work the ball in the open. At the basket shooting Laude, Vifquian, Janse, Hicks, Funk, Rankin, Emmert, and Gibbs showed up well. Working the criss-cross pass, Duhm, Swenson, Stober, Vifquian, and Captain Hicks displayed form in caging baskets from this formation. The basketeers are getting on to shooting with one hand while in the air when they are in close to the basket.

VESPER AUDIENCE WILL HEAR GAGE

"The Time To Speak Out" Will Be Subject of Address Tomorrow Afternoon

"The Time To Speak Out" will be the subject of the address which Pres. Harry Morehouse Gage of Coe college, Cedar Rapids, will deliver at the vesper service tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the natural science auditorium. The two glee clubs will sing the "Onipotence" with soprano solo and chorus by Schibert-Spieker. Florence Kings A3 of Sanborn will sing the solo.

The Rev. Herbert E. Searles, student pastor of the Presbyterian church, who is acquainted with President Gage, says of him, "President Gage has a very pleasing personality. He is a leader in educational circles; I refer especially to his enthusiastic work in connection with Presbyterian educational conferences. Although he is rather reserved and dignified, his wonderful personality wins him scores of friends."

Starting as a professor of philosophy in Huron college, S. D., President Gage rose rapidly in prominence. He became dean of faculty at Parsons college in 1909. In 1913 he returned to Huron college to become its president. He was appointed president of Coe college in 1920 which position he now holds.

Besides holding professorships and presidencies in the various colleges, President Gage was appointed secretary of the national association of colleges and secondary schools in 1919 and was president of the South Dakota educational association from 1917 to 1919.

President Gage is a Mason, a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, and president of the Rotary club of Cedar Rapids.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB OF UNIVERSITY TO ENTER COMPETITIVE CONCERT

A competitive concert to be given by the Association of Intercollegiate Glee Clubs at Chicago in February, 1923, is an outstanding feature in the plans of the men's glee club of the university for this year. The purpose of the concert is to establish a permanent organization, the object of which shall be to encourage male singing in the universities and colleges of the Middle West through a competitive contest to be held in Chicago each year.

The expense of the concert to be held this February will be defrayed from a sum contributed by the competing clubs as each club is required to advance $100 toward the advertising and renting of a hall. The gross proceeds will be used to refund those sums to the glee clubs and to defray as far as possible the railroad expenses of clubs situated outside of Cook county, Ill. If any money remains, its disposal will be decided upon by vote, provided that it be devoted strictly to educational purposes and not distributed as profit to any person, firm or corporation. This undertaking is not for profit, but to further male singing of the highest excellence.

HAWKEYES RUN THROUGH FAST SIGNAL DRILL

Purple Squad Looks Big and Fast; Backers Confident of Victory

By HOWARD W. GORDON

With the weather clear and cold, the Iowa varsity football machine romped through its final practice of the season in a short and snappy signal drill behind closed gates last night. A biting northwester sweeping down across the field kept the men on the go all the time and there was not a second of let-up during the entire thirty minutes that the men were on the field. Every man on the squad, with the exception of Parkin, is in good physical and mental condition and the team will go into the game this afternoon in the best shape that it has been in all season. The scrubs, likewise, are in good physical trim, and will be in readiness when called upon to enter the game.

Rich May Start

The lineup that Coach Jones will send into the fray will no doubt be the same as the one that started the Ohio game, but it is possible that Eddie Rich will be sent in to start the game at quarterback. Both Rich and Captain Locke have been running the team in practice, and if Rich does start, Locke will take his old place at fullback with Miller replacing Nugent at half. The combination of Locke, Shuttleworth, Nugent and Miller worked well in the Ohio State encounter and will no doubt be Coach Jones' selection to go against the Purple, Haneock and Kadesky will start at ends, Thompson and Kriz at tackles, Meade and Minick at guards, and John Heldt at his center position.

The Northwestern squad arrived in Iowa City late yesterday afternoon. With the team were Head Coach Glenn Thistlewaite, Maury Kent, assistant coach, George Trafton, line coach, Glenn Magnashon, head freshmen coach, King Brady, trainer, and Daus Evans, athletic director. Several members of the Northwestern freshman team were brought along also. The squad donned their togs at the men's gymnasium and took a light limbering-up workout on Iowa Field.

The visitors put up a mighty imposing appearance when they went onto the field last night, and looked to be big and fast. The Purple forwards looked to be especially big and husky and Iowa may find the going rather rough through the line. Penfield and Taylor are two of the best men in the conference, and the brunt of the Northwestern defense will fall on these stellar players. Palmer and Patterson in the backfield are fast and shifty and they will have to be watched closely when Northwestern has possession of the ball.

Purple Backers Loyal

The Northwestern backers have a world of confidence in their team and they seem to think that the Purple has a good chance of coming out victors over the Old Gold this afternoon. A paragraph clipped from the Daily Northwestern shows the attitude of the Purple rooters toward the game:

"The feat performed last year when Northwestern, then the occupant of the conference cellar, held Iowa, the conference champions, to a 14 to 0 score has not been forgotten and the Purple players are hoping to do even more this year. The dope would indicate that Northwestern should win. Iowa's team this year cannot compare with its last year's champions, when that trio of 'greats,' Devine, Belding and Slater, was playing. And there is no doubt that this year's Purple team is infinitely more powerful, both on offense and on defense, than the 1921 team. This difference in the two teams should outweigh Iowa's advantage of two touchdowns."

A PLEA FOR MODESTY

It is very probable that by 5 o'clock tonight the conference championship, for three universities in the Middle West at least, will have been definitely decided. Michigan, Chicago and Iowa already have figures to prove irrefutably that their respective teams are entitled to the championship of the Big Ten, providing, of course, that they win their games today.

But will they stop at this point? It is comparatively simple to claim a western, a southern, or even an eastern championship. By juggling scores and uncovering favorable comment of obscure sport writers it is easy to fall into the fallacy of believing one's team to be the best in the whole country. And it may be said that it is usually the team which has just broken into the limelight of a 1,000 per centage rating that is most ambitious in its claims. Take Michigan for example. An editorial in the Daily Michigan says: "Next Saturday Minnesota, urged on to supreme efforts by previous loss, will face the Wolverine on her own field. That game means to Michigan the championship of the West. To Minnesota it means the last stand, a chance to come back by defeating a team with the most perfect record in the Conference."

How, may we ask, can Michigan lay claim to the championship of the West when the Wolverines have not yet shown their superiority in the Big Ten? If Michigan bases her claim upon comparative scores, Iowa might in turn refer her to the opinion of sports writers of Columbus who had an opportunity to see both the Michigan and Iowa teams in action. As for a "perfect record," does Michigan believe that her tie score with Vanderbilt makes her record perfect? And is it better than Iowa's which to date has not a single defeat or tie upon it? Michigan evidently places all her hopes and claims upon scores, which at best are deceiving. Using scores as a starting point, the Hawkeyes can reason that since Iowa defeated Yale 6 to 0 and Princeton, which defeated Chicago, only beat Eli 3 to 0, Iowa, therefore, is better than Chicago. Which obviously is unfair to the Maroons.

Modesty is as much a virtue when displayed by a University as by an individual. But modesty does not forbid a team or its supporters to go as far as facts will permit. The danger lies in allowing enthusiasm to push one out into the sea of unfounded assertions. If Iowa wins today, we can say with all propriety that ours is the only team in the Big Ten with a clean slate. We ought not to maintain, however, that Iowa has the best claim to the Conference championship, no matter how much we believe that we have the best team.

MORE MONEY NEEDED FOR UNIFORMS

Today another attempt will be made to raise sufficient money to equip one hundred members of the band with uniforms. Approximately $1,300 has been raised already, which leaves about $1,700, or a little more than one-half of the required amount yet to be secured.

The generosity of students and friends of the University has had to be relied upon to obtain the needed funds. Although the people who attended the Iowa-Minnesota game on Homecoming day responded liberally when they were appealed to, the time allotted for the solicitation was so limited that only a very small percentage of those present could be approached. Undoubtedly if everyone who was at the game had had a chance to contribute, more than the necessary $3,000 would have been raised.

The University band will turn out today in support of the team in the last football game of the season. It can not be denied that the presence of the band at pep meetings and at games has helped a great deal in keeping enthusiasm at its height. The improvement in personal appearance which would result from the wearing of uniforms of a suitable style and color need hardly be mentioned.

After the campaign today there should be no need for another. If the appeal meets with the response which it should, more than enough money will be raised today to make up the remainder of the sum needed.

CONTEMPORARY OPINION

(New York Times)

RESTORING THE PARTHENON

It may seem to many readers an inopportune time to be talking about the restoration of the Parthenon. They will think that it were better to command the stones which encumber the Acropolis to be made bread for the refugees who now wander homeless upon the islands or on the shores of the Aegean or swarm about the Piraeus below the ancient height of worship and defense. But the mere carrying forward of this work in the midst of such dire vicissitude and want, which the gifts of the rest of the earth should be adequate to relieve or assuage, does, after all, give a definition of values that is all the more impressive because uttered at such a juncture.

The Parthenon, whatever the government of Greece or whoever its sovereign, belongs to the earth, which for centuries wore it "proudly upon her zone" as her best gem. Greece herself never gave it up. Indeed, as George Edward Woodberry says, "no race may consciously devote itself to the higher ends of mankind." It is the prerogative of men of genius so to devote it. They are the true owners and they alone have the right to convey a race's real possession to strangers and aliens. Greece can keep her Piraeus, but all the defenses of an Acropolis could not keep for her the Parthenon.

The genius of Phidias and of the architects Callicrates and Ictinus gave the title deeds of the Parthenon to mankind. To let this treasure so conveyed be lost is to be untrue to a trust. So while we are trying to give succor to the million or more of suffering exiles on the shores of Greece, let that service be heightened rather than lessened by helping to preserve that which the genius of that land has given to all lands. To do this is not giving a stone when one asks for bread. It is recognizing the truth that man does not live by bread alone, but also by those things of the spirit which make it worth while to give bread.

The Sounding Board

One day recently we heard what was to us a novelty: a jazzed-up version of "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from "Samson and Delilah." Now if someone would only syncopate the "Dead March" from "Saul."

The Contrib's Column seems to be the scene of a great battle on the subject of "petting." F. Scott Fitzgerald and Dorothy Speare had best look to their laurels.

CALIFORNIA'S NEW RIVAL

Objections have been raised because a South Dakota jury, failing to agree on a verdict, reached a decision by cutting a deck of cards. We don't see anything wrong with that method, providing, of course, that the cards weren't stacked.

Do you attach any particular significance to Clemenceau's instructions to his valet on the morning of his first day in America?

"Boil four eggs this morning," he told Albert, "and boil them hard."

Editorial Comment

THE MESSAGE OF CLEMENCEAU

There has been much mystery and speculation as to why Georges Clemenceau came to the United States. But he came for no complicated reason. He came to say to the American people face to face that, having decided the course of history, they cannot separate themselves from the consequences. He came to remind us of a fact which is as true as it is undeniable, that we have intervened gigantically in the destiny of mankind and that it has become forever impossible that we should now leave Europe to its fate.

Clemenceau is now too old to care about anything that is smaller than the greatest things. He is beyond ambition. He is beyond party strife. He is beyond mere nationalism. He has no time, therefore, to serve the meaner part of France or to address the meaner part of us. He stands upon the summit of a life from which now only the most enduring truths are visible. He is thinking not so much of treaties and budgets, claims and counter-claims, but of scenes which he perhaps of all living men has the best right to remember. He is thinking of ancient villages and vineyards blasted by machines, of peasants driven frantically from their homes, of two million young men who are dead, of other young men who came from the ends of the earth, caring nothing at all about the plans of statesmen, but everything, even in the face of death, for a France which is greater than Frenchmen and a civilization which is greater than France.

He is thinking of the most splendid promise ever held before an ancient continent, the promise made by America and believed in by the people of Europe. He does not argue about it. For his own mistakes and what they contributed to defeating that promise he makes no self-righteous justification. He is not here to vindicate Clemenceau. He is here to say that the American promise which exalted Europe at the armistice still lives in the hearts of European people. He is here to say that this promise is not dead, but sleeping, and that America's chance is not irrevocably lost.

He comes, therefore, this ancient man who has seen so much evil and passed beyond illusion, to reaffirm the greatest hope in the world. He who cared only for France, he who embodied the cynicism of a mature civilization about the naive idealism of a young one, that man, Clemenceau, has emerged out of retirement to say that the youth of the world was right. He has come to say that European civilization, weary and tangled in its own history, had reached the end of its own devices.

TEN VETERANS PLAY LAST GAME FOR IOWA TODAY

GRID STARS TO PLAY FAREWELL GAME AT HOME

Loss Will Be Blow To Hawkeyes; Heldt Is Veteran of Four Seasons

By HOWARD W. GORDON
Ten members of the Iowa varsity football squad will don their moleskins for the last time when Old Gold meets Purple in the final game of the 1922 season on Iowa Field this afternoon.

Heldt Has Played Longest

All of these men, with the exception of Rich, were members of the championship team of last year. Johnny Heldt, the husky pivot man, tops the list in years of service. He played his first year in 1918 during the S. A. T. C. at Iowa, and has won his fourth letter in football this fall. He is also a letter man in wrestling and was elected wrestling captain this year. Captain Locke, Shuttleworth, Meade, Minick, Kadesky and Thompson have all won three "I's" in football. Locke, outside of being chosen on the all-Conference and all-Western eleven last year has made an enviable reputation for himself in baseball while at Iowa. He has won two letters in baseball already and will no doubt win his third next spring.

The loss of these regulars will be one of the hardest blows that an Iowa football aggregation ever felt. The line will have to be completely rebuilt, as Hancock and Kriz are the only regulars who will be left as a nucleus for the forward wall of next year's eleven. The loss of the powerful Locke-Shuttleworth-Rich scoring combination will also be keenly felt by next year's team.

Deserve Much Credit

It is needless to say that all of the men who will play their last game of football for Iowa this afternoon have won their way into the hearts of the student body and all who have witnessed their brilliant work on the gridiron and in other campus activities. They are the men who helped to bring the first Conference championship to Iowa since 1900, and too much credit cannot be given them for what they

DEED IS SUBJECT OF NEW BULLETIN

Waving Line is Curious Part of Document's Indenture

"An Eighteenth Century Deed" is the subject of service bulletin number 41, just issued from the office of the University editor. This deed is a legal document given to the college of law of the University by Mr. William Gregory, of Westminster, Colo. It is an indenture executed December 11, 1724, witnessing a marriage settlement by Katherine Gibbons, widow of John Gibbons, late victualler of the city of Oxford in England, on her son and his wife of certain parcels of meadow and arable land lying in the Manor of Ensham a few miles west of that city. It is engrossed on a sheepskin parchment some twenty-nine to twenty-three inches in extent and the bottom is folded over, making an inch margin which is held in place by pieces of tape which are covered up by the seals of the signatories. On the margin at the side are affixed tax stamps such as brought on the Revolutionary war. The deed is in excellent condition, and of clear-cut writing.

Of Interest To Americans

The document has a three-fold interest for Americans: first, because it is a typical marriage settlement of this far-off period; second, because the land conveyed was in forty-eight parcels of about an acre each scattered throughout the manor, a very curious division of the land; and third, because of the contrast it offers to the deeds to which we are accustomed.

Perhaps the most curious thing noticeable about the indenture is the waving line in which the top edge is cut and from which it derives its name. It is a deed indented as distinct from a deed poll. Deeds in the United States have had straight edges apparently from the first, but in England at an early time it became customary in some cases to write two copies of the deed on the same parchment, and to write a word or words on the space between the two copies, thereafter separating the copies by cutting through the writing. This served as a check on a fraudulent deed. As an additional precaution, the cutting was done in an irregular line of indenture, and gradually the indented line gave way to the waving line. The name of indenture was retained for such a document.

Law College Values Gift

This indenture given to the college of law was found by the late Professor Casper Rebe Gregory, eminent New Testament scholar and faculty member of the University of Leipzig, where it lay in a bookbindery in England. He presented it to his brother William, who recently gave it to the University. It is to be framed and hung in the law library.

DEAN KAY DISCUSSES MANY HONORS GRANTED EACH YEAR BY UNIVERSITY

"One of the highest honors which can come to any student at the time of graduation is the recognition of superior scholarship in the work leading to degrees in the various colleges," says Dean George F. Kay, dean of the college of liberal arts. He continued, "It is a well known fact that very few students on the campus know of the honors awarded at commencement time or the person who receives them. Several of the students who graduated with honor last year are still on the campus and are well known today."

Special honors, in three grades, are awarded in recognition of superior scholarship in the work leading to degrees in the college of liberal arts. These honors are designated by the terms "With Distinction," "With High Distinction," and "With Highest Distinction." "With Highest Distinction" is given to the first students whose academic standing is highest among the graduates of the college for the entire year; "With High Distinction" to those other students whose standing brings them within the highest twentieth of the graduates of the college for the entire year; "With Distinction," to those other students whose standing brings them within the highest tenth of the graduates of the college for the entire year. These honors are announced at commencement in June.

Esther Eloise Sharpe G of Hampton was the winner of the Ernest R. Johnson prize of twenty-five dollars which is awarded to the senior of the college of liberal arts whose academic standing throughout the four years' course is highest among the graduates for the entire year. Her scholastic record was highest of all the seniors who graduated and she was one of the five who graduated "with highest distinction."

Miss Sharpe is attending the University at the present time working for her master's degree. She is a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority, and while she was an undergraduate she was prominent in Y. W. C. A. work, president of women's forensic council for one year, and in her senior year was selected as a representative woman and a member of Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic organization.

The other four seniors who graduated with "highest distinction" were Glenn P. Aldrich G of Corning, Mildred Freburg G of Pomeroy, Ruby Ione Watts of Clinton, Florence Julia Liebbe of Muscatine. Mr. Aldrich is in the University at present doing graduate work. Miss Mildred Freburg is an instructor in the department of speech. While she was an undergraduate at the University she was an active Y. W. C. A. worker, was president of women's forensic council for one year, and a member of Octave Thanet literary society. She is a member of Delta Zeta sorority, of Delta Sigma Rho, honorary debating society, the University Play-ers, and the Purple Mask, honorary senior dramatic society, and Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic organization.

Those seniors who graduated with the award of "with high distinction" follow: Ghelma Y. Blake of Greene, Arthur H. Ehresman of Lisbon, Lois V. Hochstetler of Kalona, who is in the university doing graduate work (Henrietta K. Hoersch of Iowa City, Naomi J. Klauer of Akron, Gertrude A. Lynch of Ottumwa, Geraldine Mars of Iowa City, Earl Isaac Orr of Castana, Fannie Potgieter of Steamboat Rock, Mary C. Proestler of Davenport, Marguerite M. Struble of Iowa City, Hugh J. Tamisica of Missouri Valley, Genevieve D. Turnipseed of Iowa City, James H. Van Law of Marshalltown.

The honor of graduating "with distinction" was conferred upon the following: Lucile S. Abbott of Afton, Helen G. Baldwin, Lois R. Beemer of Marengo, Lillian A. Dethof of Muscatine, Edith Marie Hamm of Iowa City, Cloyce K. Huston of Crawfordsville, Ruth M. Powell of Traer, Lue B. Prentiss and Henry J. Prentiss of Iowa City, Edmund O. Rausch of Waverly, Agnes E. Rohrer of Iowa City, Bertha C. Shore of Des Moines, Josephine Thielen of Grundy Center, Eloise Treat

NEW BOOKS IN LIST OF POPULAR FICTION; SAME MUSIC POPULAR

The best sellers in fiction at the local bookstores are: "The Bright Shawl," by Joseph Hergeheimer; "One of Ours," by Willa Cather; "Rough Hewn," by Dorothy Canfield; "Babbitt," by Sinclair Lewis. The books classed as non-fiction that are in greatest demand are "The Story of Mankind" by Hendrik Van Loon, and "Letters of James Gibbons Hunker.

At the music stores there is not much change in the general run of popular music. "I Wish I Knew," "Chicago," "Toot Toot Tootsie," "Georgette," "Just Because Its You," "French Trot," "Why Should I Cry Over You," "He May Be Your Man But He Comes To See Me Sometimes," and "Georgia" are among those called for most often.

COLLEGE HEAD SAYS GENIUSES ARE NEGLECTED

Dumbbells Grazing on American Campuses Submerge Real Intellects

(By United News)

Chicago, Nov. 24—Geniuses are out of luck in American colleges and universities, was the charge made by Dr. Henry Suzzello, president of the university of Washington. "They are unappreciated, uncared for, improperly taught and most horrible of all, they are not even recognized as geniuses."

Dr. Suzzello's cry, "pity the poor geniuses," was echoed here Friday by such prominent authorities on education as Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university, and Dr. William S. Gray, dean of the college of education of the university of Chicago. At the same time they predicted that the day that the genius will be cared for as carefully as the college dumbbell is at hand.

"American colleges have been so intent on directing their efforts on the students of limited intellect that the student who could start off in his freshman year with simple equations and wind up with Einstein in time for Easter vacation, has been neglected.

The pursuit of knowledge has been retarded and discouraged by the snail like pace set for the rank and file, both authorities agree. "Dr. Suzzello is quite right," Dr. Scott, who is nationally known for his application of psychology to the problems of industry and colleges, stated.

"The geniuses in American colleges have had a dreary time of it. They have been misunderstood and retarded in their natural ability in some cases because the courses they were forced to take were too easy and two slow for them.

"We recognized this condition before forced to spend four years in college. In fact we are to have a conference soon to devise a means of properly caring for the geniuses among our students. It is my belief that they should be given special courses adapted to their superior intellect.

"Many students who have been forced to spend four years in college to get a degree could do the work in three years or less and better. Next fall we hope to have courses in all departments mapped out for those students who show above the average intelligence."

Dean Gray concurred in the belief that more attention should be given the present Darwins, Newtons, Edisons, Schwabs who are now submerged in the average and backward youths grazing on American campuses.

"But I think that geniuses have more opportunity to develop in universities than in elementary and secondary schools," Dr. Gray added. "In college the genius has recourse to better libraries, more freedom of courses and a greater choice among the student body to choose his associates. And then he can get much from associating with members of the faculty. This is not possible in lower departments. If geniuses are to have special opportunity they should be given it in elementary schools as well."

ITALIAN ASSOCIATION OFFERS COURSES TO AMERICAN STUDENTS

The Associazione Italiana Americana, an association to promote the study of the Italian language in America, encouraged by the success of the courses held last summer at the University of Rome, announces their continuation for the summer of 1923. They will extend from July 1 to September 1.

A program of courses will be offered under the following headings: Introduction to study of the Italian language; advanced Italian grammar and syntax; Italian art and archaeology; history of Italy in the nineteenth century; economic, industrial and social development of Italy.

Preparation for teachers of Italian will be offered in history, geography, literature, Italian composition, and text explanation. The courses for teachers of Italian will begin on July 15, 1923.

The matriculation fee is one hundred lire, and the fee of admission for each course is two hundred lire.

Persons who attend the courses regularly will, at their request, receive a certificate of attendance. Final examination will be given at the close of the courses, and persons who pass these will receive a diploma upon payment of a fee of one hundred lire.

The American representatives are H. E. Richard, Washburn Child, Prof. Kenneth McKenzie, University of Illinois, and Com. H. Nelson Gay, honorary director of the library of American studies.

The Associazione Italo-Americana offers to students in the several American universities twelve scholarships, to be assigned by the university on the basis of merit among the applicants.

Students receiving these scholarships will be enrolled in the course without the payment of any fee, except that for the diploma.

Several students in the department of romance languages of the University have enrolled for these courses.

To Every Woman
In This Community

STRUB'S ARE PLEASED TO ANNOUNCE that we have secured the agency in this community for the celebrated

KALOS TOILET REQUISITES

made by E. Burham, Inc., the world's largest beauty culturists

In order to introduce our new Toilet Goods Department, we have arranged to have at our store and continuing until Dec. 9th, a professional demonstrator who will give absolutely free of charge, facial massages, mud packs and other famous Burnham Treatments.

Beginning Saturday November 25

Kalos Toilet requisites have had an international reputation for years and are unquestionably the best of its kind.

A cordial invitation is extended to the discriminating women in Iowa City and surrounding territory to avail themselves of this unusual opportunity.
