GEORGE SEIGLE SELECTED FOR CADET COLONEL

Carpenter and Dehner
Chosen As Majors;
Eight Become
Captains

George H. Seigle A4 of Muscatine has been appointed lieutenant colonel commanding the infantry unit of the local R. O. T. C. He received this office because he has always shown himself to be a cool, consistent worker, able to handle a situation. He has also had more military service in the University than any other cadet.

The majors, William E. Carpenter L1 and Walter J. Dehner A4, both of Iowa City, have also been selected because they have consistently shown marked military ability.

Carpenter has been judged the best drilled freshmen, sophomore, and junior at three Governor's day exercises the past three years.

Dohner, for his part was personally complimented by Brigadier General Ball, commander of the seventh corps area, for his exceptional military examination papers last year. He is also a great asset to the varsity rifle team, having shown up well on this team last year and having placed in fifteen odd events at the National Rifle match at Camp Perry, Ohio, this summer.

The eight captains are all second year advanced course men. They are: Felix Vondracek A4 of Cedar Rapids; Emil Stutt A4 of Monticello; Charles W. Sheely A4 of Iowa City; Theodore C. Byerly A4 of Collins; Charles G. Willis A3 of Shambrae; William D. Moreland A3 of Colesburg; Wesley A. Hughes A2 of Des Moines; and Carl I. Dietz L1 of Neola.

The lieutenants are all first year advanced course men. The first lieutenants are: Merwin G. Bridenstein A3 of Iowa City; Dillard W. Bray C of Burnside; Charles Larabee, Jr., A2 of Fort Dodge; Leland M. Englert A3 of Clinton; Rex G. Dory A3 of Fort Dodge; Harry L. Jones C3 of Burlington; Paul J. Bonn A2 of Dike; and Nathaniel J. Walton A3 of Clinton.

The second lieutenants are: Merwin D. Raynor A1 of What Cheer; Donald S. Freeman A2 of Sibley; Francis W. Sueppel A3 of Iowa City; Arthur C. Benson C3 of Primghar; David H. Scott A4 of Emmetsburg; Morton A. Blum C3 of Des Moines; LaVerne C. Bane A3 of Altoona; John W. Burrsee A2 of Madrid; and Elmer Newkirk A3 of What Cheer.

W. A. A. MEMBERS TO GIVE COLONIAL PARTY DEC. 13 IN GYMNASIUM

Emily Hartman A4 of Junction City, Kan., has charge of the plans for the W. A. A. party, which is to be held December 13, at the women's gymnasium. Everyone will be required to wear a colonial costume. Posters representing colonial styles will be placed in the rest room of the gymnasium in order that every one who attends will know how to design her costume.

The entertainment will consist of a dance program with a feature dance between each dance. Those who do not care to appear at the party in costume, but wish to look on will be charged twenty-five cents for admission to the balcony. The refreshments that will be served will be so planned that the women, who are practicing for basketball teams may enjoy them without breaking training rules.

CHANGE OF ROOMS ANNOUNCED

Last Wednesday the committee on recommendation of teachers moved from room 217 liberal arts to room 215A liberal arts, where the university carpenters have been putting in a new oak counter and other furnishings. Prof. F. C. Ensign and Prof. C. L. Robbins, instructors in education, who have previously occupied room 215A liberal arts, are now in room 216.

DEAD LINE EXTENDED UNTIL TUESDAY FOR JUNIOR PICTURES

An extension of time for the taking of junior pictures for the 1924 Hawkeye has been granted the late members of the class. The dead line has been extended to Tuesday, December 5. The local photographers will give their full time and hearty co-operation in order to accommodate the entire class. Six hundred of the eight hundred juniors have already endured their sittings. The photographers can easily handle the remaining 200 by Tuesday.

KEMALISTS FACE NEW REBELLION

Three Hundred Are Killed In Battle After Greek
Demonstration

(By United News)

Smyrna, Dec. 1.—Kemalist troops Friday night were exerting every effort to put down the rebellion of the civilian population against Turkish regime. Three hundred people were killed and wounded during a battle that followed a demonstration in favor of the return of the Greeks to this city which was all but destroyed several months ago at the time of the Turkish occupation.

The leaders of the revolt alleged that the expulsion of the Greeks from Smyrna had killed the social and economic structure of the community. Many Turks took part in a pro-Greek demonstration.

GLEE CLUBS WILL TOUR NEXT MONTH

Programs to Consist of Comic and Operatic Numbers and Songs

Burlington, Cedar Rapids, Waterloo, Mason City and Clear Lake will undoubtedly have the opportunity of hearing either the University men's or women's glee clubs some time during January.

"The men's club is trying a new plan this year, which so far has been very successful," said Prof. Walter Leon of the vocal voice department. "Ten quartets have been formed and each quartet works on certain numbers of its own. These, with the chorus numbers, increase the club's repertoire besides giving each man a chance for better individual development."

"The women will also have a chance to appear in concert. About one-half of the forty-two members of the club will sing at each concert. Every member will appear at least once. The women are working hard and I am anticipating a good work on their concert trip."

"This year the programs will consist of operatic numbers, old English songs, comic numbers and songs from modern composers. After comic numbers, selections from the operas are received most enthusiastically," said Professor Leon.

The money taken in at the door is used to defray the actual expenses of the trips. What is left over goes into the Musical Council's fund and buys music.

Maroons To Pick "Most Beautiful" Man On Campus

(By United News)

Chicago, Dec. 1.—The "most beautiful man on the campus" is soon to be chosen by the students of Chicago university, sometimes known as the "Harvard of the middle west."

The male beauty squad will begin practice at once under the plan of editors of the Cap and Gown, students' publication, and training quarters will be established at a tea room near the campus where the "he pretties" will be placed on a rigid test of chocolate malted milk and macaroons.

GREEK KING MAY ABDICATE; FEAR INTERNAL STRIFE

Republic Mentioned As Venizelos Hints of
New Rule

(By United News)

Athens, Dec. 1.—Events in unhappy Greece on Friday pointed to another political upheaval which may result in the angry hellenic peoples driving George, their new monarch into exile, with the luckless ex-King Constantine.

Venizelos Popular Hero

As in the other Greek crisis, former premier Venizelos, now attending the Near Eastern peace parley at Lausanne, emerges as the "man of the hour." It is understood that the friends and adherents of the aged statesman are not unwilling to participate in another coup similar to the one during the war which resulted in the rule of Greece by the aged Cretan. The most significant event of the past two days of the revolution here is that Venizelos believes the time for the establishment of a Greek republic is ripe.

King Willing To Quit

Word has leaked out from palace where King George is a virtual prisoner that he would be willing to abdicate if the life of Prince Andrew his brother can thus be saved. Andrew is to face a court martial on Monday in connection with his part in the Asia Minor debacle.

PSYCHOLOGY LAB IMMUNE FROM BOTH SIGHT AND SOUND

How many students who pass through liberal arts every day know that within it is another building resting on an independent foundation and having no solid connection with the rest of the building—above, below or on the sides?

Such a building exists in the observing room of the psychology laboratory, which is designed to be impervious to both light and sound. The room is situated in the northeast wing of liberal arts. To eliminate sound it was made to rest upon a sand bed and to be constructed at a higher level by another sand bed to make jarring or sounds from the ground impossible.

There are two walls of hollow tile separated by air space and insulated with a material made of sea-weed.

Furnishings Are Black

The room is lined with black broad-cloth, the furniture is black and the linoleum is painted black. Entrance is made by five doors, the outer of oak and the others of cedar, all covered on the sides and edges with black cloth.

Heat is sent into the room indirectly through shafts from the attic covered with black cloth. It may be lighted either with gas or electricity.

Room Is Sound Proof

So successful is the room in the exclusion of light, sound and vibration that the loudest shouting immediately outside cannot be heard within. It is in this room that the finest and most intricate experiments of the psychology department are carried on. Prof. Geo. T. Patrick, professor of psychology, has a description of this room in the third volume of the "University of Iowa Studies in Psychology."

VOLCANO STROMBOLI OF SICILY COAST REPORTED ACTIVE

(By United News)

Messina, Italy, Dec. 1.—Passengers on steamers from the Lipari Islands reported that the volcano Stromboli was active for several hours on Wednesday night. Witnesses relate that the whole mountain which is off coast of Sicily shook ominously while terrific explosions were heard. Great flames filled the crater, after which a large volume of lava poured down the mountain, driving hundreds of persons before it.

Much damage done to houses in the vicinity.

HUN ATTACK ON OFFICERS CAUSE OF ULTIMATUM

December 10 Date Set for Payment;
May Seize Funds

(By United News)

Paris, Dec. 1.—The council of allied ambassadors Friday sent an ultimatum to Germany demanding that the former enemy nation pay a million gold marks before December 10 for attacks on allied officers at Passau and Ingolstadt.

Germany was notified that previous offers of non-payment were inadequate and that funds in palatinate and Rhineland would be seized unless indemnity is forthcoming.

MISSOURI BOTANICAL GARDEN SPECIMEN SECURED BY FARR

The collection of living plants in the University greenhouses has just been increased by a large number of valuable specimens received from the Missouri Botanical Garden at St. Louis. This is the third group of a considerable size recently acquired through the efforts of Dr. Clifford H. Farr, assistant professor of botany. Last spring the bureau of plant industry at Washington, with which he was formerly connected, sent a shipment of a number of tropical fruits and vegetables which are very important commercially. Prior to that time, the New York Botanical Garden, where Doctor Farr studied some years ago, sent some specimens of Jamaica ginger and other plants for growth in the plant houses.

Tropical Plants Interesting

The plants just received from Missouri Botanical Garden include a vanilla vine, from the fruit of which the flavoring extract of commerce is obtained. There are also a considerable number of tropical fruits and desert plants, which are not accessible in the field in any part of Iowa but which are of great botanical significance in the study of the difference between plants growing in different portions of the earth.

In addition to the above gifts the botany department has purchased from nursery companies a considerable number of the more important species of plants which do not grow in this state. Some individuals have also contributed to the collection, Professor Wilson bringing plants of wintergreen from Michigan last summer, and Professor Frye of the University of Washington has just sent some cascara plants. The college of pharmacy has been able to obtain a number of drug plants, also from various stations where these are being grown.

Hope to Further Program

It is to be hoped that the greenhouse system of the University may be extended so that these plants which have been given to the University by individuals and institutions may be allowed to live and be arranged in such a way as they will be accessible to the general student body and to the people who visit the University as a museum of living plants from various parts of the world.

HINDU STUDENTS REORGANIZE CLUB

All Hindu students met the afternoon of Thanksgiving day at which time the Iowa chapter of the Hindu Association of America was reopened. Mr. K. N. Kathju, B.S., Purdue, was elected president. Other officers elected were H. J. Ajwani, B.S., Edinburgh, Eng., secretary, and B. D. Panth, S3, treasurer.

The object of the association is to help Hindu students come to the State University of Iowa and to "interpret America to India and India to America." The president hopes to be able to arrange a series of interesting public talks fortnightly.

The occasion was celebrated by a dinner consisting of Hindu dishes, in the preparation of which Mr. Kathju proved an expert guide.

MYTHICAL FOOTBALL TEAM NAMED BY DEAN TEETERS AND PEARCE

The lineup of a football team composed of the best players ever developed in this University will be printed in tomorrow morning's paper. Dean Wilbur J. Teeters and James N. Pearce will select a mythical football team from all Iowa's football teams.

James N. Pearce is a former Northwestern university football star. Dean Teeters has seen all football games of the University at Iowa City for the past twenty-seven years. These men are picking what they consider would make the best possible mythical football teams composed of old gridiron stars as well as those of recent times. Their selected lineup will be published in tomorrow's edition.

GREEKS, TURKS TO TRADE POPULATION

Believe Isolation Is Only Way To Prevent Mass-
sacres

(By United News)

Lausanne, Dec. 1.—Wholesale exchange of Greek and Turk civilian population in Asia Minor was arranged Friday at the conference. Thousands of inhabitants will be forced to move from their homes under the decision of the conferees who believe the best plan to prevent massacres of Turks by Greeks or Greeks by Turks is to isolate the people who have held bitter hatred for each other for centuries. It is estimated that a million Greeks and Turks will reenact Acadia under the terms of the agreement reached by the first commission. Lord Curzon, British foreign minister declared that between 500,000 and 600,000 Greeks must be transported from Asia Minor to Greece and 350,000 Turks removed from Greece into Turkey.

"GREEKS" TO DANCE AT GYM TONIGHT

Pan-Hellenic Freshmen Will Give
Series of Three Parties
During Year

The first freshman pan-hellenic party of the year is tonight at the women's gymnasium, beginning at 9 o'clock. Two more parties will be given during the year, but the dates for them have not yet been decided. Nagel's and Kennedy's orchestra will furnish the music. The chaperons are Dr. and Mrs. John Voss and Mr. and Mrs. Merlin P. Gamber.

Committees for the parties for the year are Refreshments and entertainments—Clyde W. Savery A3 of Atlantic, Sigma Nu; Ray Boland A2 of Pella, Phi Delta Theta, Richard E. Romeo A1 of Mason City, Phi Kappa Psi; programs and tickets—Don T. Hines A1 of Cedar Rapids, Delta Tau Delta, Leon H. Murphy A1 of Clinton, Kappa Sigma, Lawrence L. PROFESSOR SHIMEK WILL REVIEW LIFE OF MILLS BEFORE BOTANY CLUB

Prof. B. Shimek, of the department of botany, will give a talk on the life and work of the late Enos Mills before the Botany club Monday afternoon, December 4. The meeting will be held in room 206, Old Science, at 4:10 p. m., and any who are interested in Professor Shimek's talk will be welcome.

Professor Shimek, who has been a long time friend and associate of Mr. Mills in the park movement, will discuss the work of Mr. Mills particularly in relation to the national park movement.

Mr. Mills has lectured on two or three occasions before the members of the University and doubtless many will wish to hear Professor Shimek's review of the life just closed.

BONAR LAW IS VICTORIOUS IN FIRST BATTLE

House of Commons Give
Premier Confidence Vote Against Laborites

(By United News)

London, Dec. 1.—Premier Bonar Law emerged victorious from the first concentrated attack launched against his government by the labor party. The House of Commons gave the Premier a virtual vote of confidence, 303 to 172, following a bitter arraignment of the Tories by Ramsay Macdonald, leader of the opposition.

The question was precipitated when MacDonald invited the House to accept his unemployment amendment as vote of censure against the government.

The divergence of views of the government and opposition concerning the German reparations problem were brought out during the debate by Philip Snowden, laborite. Snowden pleaded for leniency for Germany in face of indications that Bonar Law inclined to be hard with them. The labor member in his address contended that the Versailles peace treaty had destroyed the economic life of the greatest states in Europe. He said the solution of the unemployment problem in England depended upon the restoration of markets.

"Reparations," Snowden said, "are twice accused. They cursed those who paid and those who received. It was an economic truth that no nation would gain from the war. If Germany could pay reparations it wouldn't be to our advantage that she should pay sooner or later."

"We must face the fact that we cannot get indemnities from Germany except in one way—permitting her to get on her feet so she may become our best customer."

Snowden urged that Great Britain recognize the Soviet government, contending that the present policy was destroying England's chance of getting her share of trade of the world's greatest potential market.

TO ENTERTAIN WOMEN HERE AT CHRISTMAS

University women who for various reasons will not leave Iowa City during Christmas vacation and are interested in planning some social affair under the direction of Y. W. C. A. are asked to report to the association secretary, Miss Alvida Buck. If enough women are interested, definite plans will be made at once.

"During the holiday season, patients in the local hospitals will appreciate entertainment most. Any girl who can conveniently volunteer a few hours to be spent in social service work will be welcomed," says Miss Buck.

"I think the idea is splendid," stated Miss Helen Peterson, assistant to the dean of women. "At Christmas time, social service work is most worthwhile. Certainly women remaining in Iowa City during vacation will appreciate this opportunity."

HIGH SCHOOL HEADS HOLD SESSION HERE DECEMBER 7 AND 8

"National Education Week" will be observed by the University of Iowa when the First Annual Conference of High School Principals meets here December 7 and 8, under the direction of the extension division and the college of Education. Principals of high schools, superintendents, supervisory officers, high school teachers, members of boards of education and all others who are interested are invited to attend the meeting.

Much attention is being directed to re-organization of the field of secondary education. Perhaps no problems have been attacked with greater zeal and with greater results than those which concern the composition of the high school population, the organization of the high school, the valid objectives of secondary education, the selections of subject matter for the various courses, standardized tests for the high school, and methods of teaching.

The high school principals conference will be devoted to a presentation of the results achieved in this reconstruction and to the projection for a solution for problems that have arisen.

Meetings will all be held in the Congregational church at the corner of Clinton and Jefferson streets, and those attending are asked to enroll here. Dim-ner tickets may be purchased at the same place.

RAHNEY LIBRARY ADDS PRECIOUS MANUSCRIPT TO ITS COLLECTION

The latest addition to the Rahney library is a facsimile of the Ellesmere manuscript of Chaucer, one of the best manuscripts still extant.

The facsimile is in two large volumes, colorfully and tastefully illuminated with capitals, margin decorations, and small paintings of Chaucer's pilgrims, ingeniously and artistically done.

IS ONE OUT OF ONE HUNDRED

Only one hundred facsimiles of this manuscript are in existence and very few of them are in this country. They are printed on thin sheets of vellum and are simply bound. The purchase price at the time of printing in 1911 was $250.

There is knowledge of the manuscript from its possessors from 1600 on. For a long time it was in the hands of the Ellesmere family from which it derived its name. At present it is in the Henry T. Huntington library in California. The facsimile is a valuable addition to the library, according to Prof. Edwin F. Piper, associate professor of English, who is making a study of it.

QUAD LITERARY SOCIETY ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Bixby To be President; Various Committees Appointed; Novel Program Given

The Quad-wranglers' literary society at their meeting last Wednesday night at 7:45 o'clock in the recreation room of the Quadrangle, elected Herbert C. Bixby A2 of Davenport president. The other officers are Wesley C. Drummond A1 of Spirit Lake, vice-president; Carl R. White A2 of Delhi, secretary and treasurer; and L. Duane Jennings A1 of Slater, sergeant-at-arms.

President Bixby appointed Carl Morrow U of Woodbine, Ben Larson A1 of Searville, and Merle B. Landis A1 of State Center on the program committee; Homer K. Biddinger A1 of Oelwein, Manville Chapman A1 of Batton, N. M., and Theodore G. Goodwin A3 of Davenport on the membership committee.

The program last Wednesday night consisted of a trombone solo by Paul L. Rainier A3 of Logan accompanied by Leonard E. Hoffman A2 of Vail, a mock campaign speech by L. Duane Jennings A1 of Slater, a talk on current styles by Ben Larson A1 of Searville, and a debate on the proposition, "Tain't so much what you do as how you do it." Leon E. Benetier S2 of Washington, Byron H. Shinn S2 of Osceola, and Elmer Newkirk A3 of Waukegan supported the affirmative and Victor G. Roeh A3 of Clinton, Albert J. Plath A1 of Manly, and Leonard Koester A1 of Burt maintained the negative.

CONSERVATION OF FORESTS GROWING

Macbride Outlines Iowa's Progress In Saving Her Forests and Parks

"Park and forestry conservation in Iowa has undergone a most rapid growth and expansion," says President Emeritus Thomas H. Macbride in his article in the recent issue of the Iowa Conservation magazine. The article was written in commemoration of the twentieth anniversary of the association and gives a comprehensive summary of the state park movement in Iowa.

The association was founded in November 1901 and at its first annual meeting the following year President Emeritus Macbride was asked to address the convention on the subject, "The (then) present status of Iowa Parks." Before his lecture he sent out to every town and village of the state a questionnaire, asking for park information.

No Interest At First

There came back more than one hundred replies, and of these not one tenth showed any interest in parks whatsoever. There were parks reported at Davenport, Burlington, Des Moines, Humboldt, Grinnell, and at points where there were state institutions, but so far as public effort was concerned, the matter was not at all considered. In an effort to find out the popular interest in the use of parks in the questionnaire above referred to there was a cautious inquiry as to whether the town cemetery might be used by the people as a park on pleasant Sundays. The answers were generally frankly in the affirmative.

"But this is all twenty years ago," adds Doctor Macbride. "The younger people of today will scarcely believe such history. With such rapidity has public sentiment changed in this matter, that parks are now the rule; lack of street improvement the exception. Towns once treeless are now shaded from side to side; have a garden club, and are gay with roses, and every suggestion of filth and stench, once thought necessary, has from most of our Iowa towns passed away, we believe forever—in twenty years."

How To Care for Them

"Once the state is equipped with city parks what shall we do to take care of them; how shall we preserve them?" is the question so often asked. "Many careless persons say, 'The parks will take care of itself,'" according to President Emeritus Macbride. Then he adds, "many people say, 'We'll just clear out the parks, cut down the trees, so that the air can get through; make some roads, and there you are! There are a lot of haw-thornes and crabs down there along the creek; a lost of old stones covered with vines; cut them all out and you'll soon have good blue-grass pasture.' All this is disgraceful; our beautiful trees and natural foliage should be preserved."

His Policy

In stating his policy for the control of a model state park, President Emeritus Macbride says, "I maintain that every park demands constant watchfulness, constant study. Every state park should be subject to the absolute approval of the state board; probably it is so, but I should like everybody to know it. I submit, no park can be safely used unless under some form of official control, and no park can long realize the state's high purpose, unless thoroughly studied, and watched, and maintained, under intelligent supervision.

President Emeritus Macbride paints the following picture of an ideal park, "Of course, in our parks we must have roads, and open lawns and open shade, especially near springs or open running water, where such exists; in our larger parks we must have shelter near the principal entrance, with every public convenience; there should be water and sewerage. If anything is sold, as food, coffee, of such necessities, the profit should insure, all of it, to the park; such things should be handled through the superintendent's office. Places for small fires should be prepared, with such conveniences as may be practicable.

Need Every Tree

In conclusion, Doctor Macbride says, "We need every cedar clinging to the rocks; we need every white oak that does us the honor to show us beauty of bole and leaf, on the dry clay ridge; we need all the crabtrees, and the wild plums, and the haw-thorn trees; we need these for the spine-protected nesting homes of all our beautiful, singing birds; we need all these trees. We need all wild flowers, all wild grasses, except sand-burrs, we need all these things if we would conserve that which our fathers admired and loved."

MARJORIE GAILEY AT HOME

RADIO OPERATOR AT GOVERNMENT STATION CLAIMS WORLD RECORD

The radio station across the river belongs to the United States government, and not to the University as many of the students seem to believe. It is equipped with the latest and most approved wireless apparatus, and is capable of sending and receiving messages faster than any other radio station in Iowa.

Station Built a Year Ago

The government built the station a year ago July as the last link in a chain of stations connecting Washington and San Francisco. The nearest stations are those at Omaha and Maywood, Illinois, about 200 miles distant from here. The messages all pertain to government business and are received either for the post office of the aviation field, or else to be relayed to points further east or west. When air conditions are satisfactory, messages can be received direct from Washington, but in stormy weather they must be relayed from station to station.

P. E. White, who was radio operator on the first ship in the Pacific ocean to carry a wireless set, is in charge of the station. Tony Gerhard, his assistant, holds the commercial record of the world for receiving, established at San Francisco in 1915. White joined the navy in 1904, served four years as wireless operator, and then enlisted again upon our entry in the World War. Because of his war service the government waived the civil service examination otherwise required and appointed him to this station. Four years previous experience is also required to be a government radio operator.

"Husky" Is Mascot

The only other member of the station is the mascot, "Husky" a four months old airdale. While "Husky" is an Easterner, he has none of the dignity and aloofness usually associated with those hailing from Massachusetts. As a sign of friendship he licked the shine off the reporter's shoes, and the eyes of this puppy assumed a deeply grieved expression when the reporter did not appreciate this condescension.

The station is in use from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m. White and Gerhard dividing the long shift between them. The continental code is used, and messages are received at the rate of thirty-five to forty words a minute. The station itself consists of a two-room building, a power plant being in one room and the wireless apparatus in the other. The steel towers supporting the aerial are 100 feet high and self supporting, no guy wires being needed. The government radio plants belong to the Post Office department and are supervised by the superintendent of radio at Washington.

COASTS'

SEASON NEARS; VARSITY FIVE WORKS HARDER

Scrimmage Follows Brief Eye-Drill; First Mix With Cornell On Dec. 16 Here

Coach Sam Barry's varsity basketball squad are working hard for the coming pre-season games to be played the latter part of the month. Games have been scheduled for the 16 and 19th of this month with Knox and Cornell, respectively.

Keen Shots Revealed

After practicing plays and shooting baskets, the squad was divided and the teams scrimmaged. The first gold sweater team to play was Swenson, center, Barton and McGovern, forwards, and Duhme and Voltmer, guards. Duhme and Voltmer each made a basket. The second gold sweater team was Burgitt center, Laude and Janse, forwards, and Funk and Captain Hicks, guards. Laude and Funk threw two baskets apiece and Burgitt and Janse each made one. Von Haney, Snyder, Scanlon, Treneman, Gibbs, Stover, and Griffith played with the white sweater squad and Snyder and Treneman, each shot a basket.

Hard Season Ahead

No first team has been selected, but Coach Barry is trying to work out the best combinations of players possible. Games have been scheduled with Knox, December 16; Cornell, December 19, and with Notre Dame for January 3. No games will be played during the Christmas holiday. The squad will probably be cut within the next few days in order that more attention can be given to the first string.

Practice is today at 4 p.m. Coach Sam Barry will not direct practice, but will be in Chicago helping to arrange the conference basketball schedule. Captain Hicks will have charge.

GRID MEN REPORT TO MAT COACH DAILY FOR EXPERT INSTRUCTION

Capt. John Heldt has not yet reported to Coach Howard of the wrestling team as he is now at Columbus, Ohio, playing with the "Sons of the West" against the "Sons of the East" in a charity game.

The other football men reporting to the mat coach every day are Colby, Frank, James, Roberts and Thom.

The coach has been instructing the men in the use of some new holds to be applied after working off the mat. Several of the men registered in the regular wrestling classes are beginning to show up fairly well considering that these men have had no previous experience. Before the season is over it appears some of these men are going to be pushing the regulars for these positions.

Director Ernest G. Schroeder left last night for Chicago to attend the meeting of the conference board today to arrange the mat, tank and tennis schedules for the year.

ANNOUNCE SWIMMING CLASSES

Elective swimming classes will begin next week. The intermediate class will be held from 4 to 4:30 o'clock on Tuesday and the advanced class from 4:30 to 5 o'clock on the same day. The two beginning classes will be held on Thursday from 4 to 4:30 and from 4:30 to 5. Recreational swimming classes will be held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 4:30 to 5:30, on Tuesday and Thursday from 5 to 5:30 and on Saturday morning from 11 to 12.

WILL ARRANGE 5 NET MEETS TODAY

Swimming and Baseball Schedules Also To Be Arranged

Ernest G. Schroeder, men's physical director has been authorized by the board of athletics to arrange a tennis schedule which will provide for at least five conference dual meets with conference teams beside the conference meet itself. The newly organized team this fall met with good success in all the matches played by them, but it is to be expected that the competition within the conference will be considerable stiffer. Hector Janse A2 of Luverne and Ted Swenson A2 of Cedar Rapids are practically certain of a berth on the team next spring.

Director Schroeder, Coach David C. Armbuster, and Coach Mike Howard left here last night for Chicago where they will join Coach Jones and Coach Bressham in representing the University at the Western intercollegiate conference meeting which will be held today. Schedules for the gym, wrestling, fencing and tennis teams will be arranged by Mr. Schroeder. Coaches Barry and Armbuster will take care of the baseball and swimming schedules. The party is expected to return sometime Sunday.

HELD AND MINICK IN OHIO CONTEST

Center and Guard on Iowa Team Accept Invitations to Play East Today

John Heldt, center, and Paul Minick, guard on Iowa's conference and all-western champion grid team, are playing at Columbus, Ohio, in a charity game with an all-star team picked from the Sons of the West, against a like aggregation of eastern stars playing under the name Sons of the East. The game will be played today.

Minick will no doubt be called upon to do the punting as he is one of the best kickers in the game. His sixty and seventy yard punts were unrivaled in the conference this year. He out-kicked every opponent, including the brilliant Neidlinger of Yale. If the big right guard is in his form, his toe work may be a deciding factor in the game today.

Heldt should show up his eastern rival as he is considered one of the best pivot men in the west. He was not outplayed once during the past season.

MUST PASS LIFE SAVING TESTS

At a meeting of Seals club, women's swimming organization, which was held Wednesday evening, November 29, a decision was made that all prospective members of the organization, who are now on probation must pass the life saving test before March 1, 1923. Gladys Taggart A4 of Spencer, is making plans for a class in life saving which will be conducted on Thursdays at 5 o'clock. Seals who have already passed the requirements, will give instruction in life saving.

Hated To Part With Sideburns, Victim States

A landslide sweeping away acres of pine trees may make a mountainside worthless. Not so, however, with a non-fraternity man unceremoniously shorn of his side-burns, if one can judge by present appearances of Jake Chizen A1 of Sioux City.

Facts pertaining to the modern "Rape of the Lock" version are that a number of freshmen seized Chizen as he was leaving the armory Wednesday afternoon. Before he could escape, he encountered, first a strange hold, and then a pair of horse clippers, close to his cheeks. The mob released him sans whiskers.

"I've worn them for two years," said Chizen, afterwards. "They weren't bothering anybody, but I'll have to laugh, doing without them for a while, I suppose."

Was Two Year Growth

Chizen said he started wearing side-burns two years ago; but up to the present time he has encountered no interference. "I began to grow them then because a curious friend dared me to."

"A lot of people make fun of my vest, too," he continued, smilingly.

"I made it out of upholstering samples of imported English and Bourbon velvet I got during the war." At the present time he is working his way through college with the intention of obtaining a law degree.

BASKETBALL PRACTICE BEGINS

Basket ball practice for women will begin Monday, December 11. Juniors and Freshmen will practice on Monday and Wednesday at 5 o'clock and seniors and sophomores on Tuesday and Thursday at 5 o'clock.

Rodolf Sets 'Em Wild As Young Rajah

Here's a Film in Which Valentino Really Stars

By Mae Tinee

Good morning! After seeing "The Young Rajah," I am with all the Valentine fans. I agree with them that their favorite is a thing of beauty and a joy forever. I sympathize with the sentimentally inclined over the fact that he is married. I wave the Valentino banner, I shriek the sheik war cry. I, too, wonder what he uses on his hair!

The filmed story is well told and the supporting cast is an excellent one. Photography, sets, scenery, and the rest of it are all up to snuff. Mr. Valentino, however, runs away with the picture. Gathers it up in his arms, cuddles it under his chin, and crooning runs away with it, while his feminine adorers follow him breathlessly one lap behind.

ANNUAL SALE OF XMAS SEALS BEGINS DEC. 1

Christmas Seals Sales
Expected To Amount
To $500 In the University

The annual sale of Christmas seals started December 1 and will continue until Christmas. Local committees, under the auspices of the National Tuberculosis association, will sell seals at the uniform price of one cent each to be used on all Christmas packages and mail. Catherine Wright A4 of Des Moines has charge of the sale of the seals on this campus, and the aim is to sell enough to amount to $500 in the University alone.

The sale of the seals renders possible the carrying on of a continuous campaign in Iowa to prevent tuberculosis and other diseases and promote health education and conduct local health and child welfare work in each county.

One of the posters being used this month by the local Christmas seal committee contains the figure of a beautiful flaxen-haired child writing on a blackboard, "The Good They Do Depends on You." At his feet are holiday packages generously decorated with Christmas seals. This is the apt reminder recently made in newspapers that for the third time in three years Iowa schools lead in health education. For excellence in health work Iowa won 94 out of 191 prizes. The big silver loving cup, the gift of the anonymous New Yorker who styles himself "The Friend of Children" awarded yearly to the state whose schools have the highest percentage of total population successfully completing the Modern Health Crusade course, comes to Iowa again. The Health Crusade is a practical system of teaching habits promoted by the Iowa Tuberculosis association and financed principally by Christmas seal funds.

Many prominent persons throughout the state and the United States have expressed their interest in these annual undertakings of the National Tuberculosis association. President Harding, who is honorary vice president of the association, says: "I am glad to note the splendid success of the campaign against tuberculosis. The enormous saving of lives reflected by the decline of the death rate clearly indicates the success of the work. I trust there may be a generous response to the annual Christmas seal sale."

Governor Kendall has signified his interest by consenting to serve as chairman of the general state Christmas seal committee.

The seal was drawn by T. M. Cleland, a celebrated artist, and is said to be the best in the fifteen years' history of the association.

CHANAY TELLS OF BOTANY TRAVELS

Professor Ralph W. Chaney of Berkeley, California, Speaks Before Geology Club

"There is a tremendous amount of work to be done along the line of paleobotany," said Professor Ralph W. Chaney, at a meeting of the geology club yesterday afternoon at four o'clock in the geology building. Professor Chaney was formerly connected with the geology department here, but has been doing research work for the past year in and near Berkeley, California.

"I will predict a great amount of field work to be done in Mexico; men will hunt for fossil plant bearing caves in Mexico as well as the men who have hunted them in Europe. Similarity between the plants remains of America and Asia will be traced north along the Pacific coast to Alaska and across the Bering straits of Asia. Perhaps in 1926 or thereabouts a botanist and myself shall complete that trip, with Mongolia as the objective."

Professor Chaney continued, "Hardly a week passes without someone, mostly students and oil geologists, bringing in some fossil for identification and study."

Professor Chaney's travels during the past year have included the states of Nebraska, Wyoming, where interesting horse teeth and camel bones were found, Nevada, which yielded prehistoric forests and floras, and westward through Utah, Nevada and into California. He made a study of the clay deposits with fossil plants and mammalian remains which are found at the base of the Sierra Nevada mountains, having been deposited there together with the gravels and gold that rushing streams carried down the mountains. Professor Chaney has crossed the Sierra Nevada mountains three times by train and four times by automobile. He says, "The Sierras are wonderful; the snow in July, the fir trees and the clear springs made an impression which I will never forget."

In speaking of his office in Berkeley, California, Professor Chaney said, "It has been very interesting to meet and work with the prominent geologists that I met in California. I met more geologists from outside my vicinity in California during the past year, than I met in Iowa for fifteen years. So many people stop there on their way to the orient and for that reason I have met many well known men."

Professor Chaney stopped off in Iowa City yesterday between train time, being on his way to a conference in Washington, D. C. He will return to his home in Berkeley, California.

STEALING INDIAN LANDS

The Bursum Bill which spells destruction for the Pueblo Indians by giving clear titles to squatters on their lands has been met by such a storm of protest since it slipped through the United States Senate that it undoubtedly will be defeated when it comes before the House of Representatives or before the Senate should it be brought back for reconsideration by that body. The New Mexico senator's bill was passed unanimously in the belief that it was supported by the Indians themselves and approved by the Indian bureau.

Intervention by Senator William E. Borah, with formal protests by the Indians through their tribal governors, the New Mexico Association of Indian Affairs, and ethnological societies throughout the country should throw enough light upon this vicious measure to prevent its passage.

The Pueblo Indians in New Mexico, numbering about 8,000, live in some twenty isolated groups of varying size, scattered over a wide territory. They are peaceful, industrious farmers and skilled artisans and have preserved the tribal customs and communal system of government. Some of the lands they own are grants from Spain dating back as far as 1689. From all over the world scientists and artists have come to observe their customs and their ceremonies. The painter has found stimulus in the atmosphere of their villages; the musician inspiration in their rude harmonies; the author and the archaeologist food for reflection in their customs and their relics. In the minds of these Indians the instinct of art is commanding; to them the quality of worldly wisdom is lacking. They have long suffered from the systematic encroachments of the acquisitive white man.

In the case of the pueblo of San Juan, encroachment upon land and water rights has been carried so far that outsiders occupy all but 598 of about 4,000 irrigable acres and 432 Indians subsist on what is left. Some of the pueblos are now on the verge of starvation through the failure of their crops this year, owing to the seizure of their water by non-Indians within and outside their boundaries. They have been deprived of the means of self-support and are being rapidly crowded to the wall by stronger neighbors.

To staunch friends of the Indians in both houses of Congress, the Bursum Bill cannot be countenanced by anyone who has even an elemental conception of the duty of the government toward the Indians. It is a scheme of wilful spoilage of the Pueblo Indians at the instance of the government which is pledged to protect them. It is legalized robbery of a helpless people.

CLEAR TITLE TO THE CHAMPIONSHIP

Although it is impossible to determine the Big Ten conference champion this year by the percentage rating system, it is indeed gratifying to University of Iowa enthusiasts to see the best newspapers of the country award Iowa the honors. Michigan has been active the past week in trying to establish her claim by comparative scores, but this is obviously an inadequate method and has been recognized as such by the better sports critics.

The Christian Science Monitor is the last of a long list of better newspapers endorsing Iowa's claim to a clear title for the championship. The article in which they acclaim Iowa the winner of the Big Ten follows:

"Three elevens remained undefeated to the end of the championship football race of the Inter-collegiate Conference. While the title technically is undecided honors are not to be split three ways, but are awarded to University of Iowa, which last year captured the title with a clear record.

Iowa is favored over University of Michigan for several reasons. One is that possession is nine-tenths of the argument and none can claim to have laid a hand on the crown the Hawkeyes defended. They won five straight games with Conference antagonists, while Michigan won only four. The Wolverines struggled with only one formidable team that Iowa did not face—University of Wisconsin—and that was not Iowa's choosing.

Outside of the Conference, Iowa made the best record, downing Yale in an inter-sectional game while Michigan was being held to a scoreless tie by Vanderbilt University. The third undefeated team, University of Chicago, won four games, as many as Michigan; but it was held to a scoreless tie by Wisconsin, a team twice defeated. This shades off Chicago's class and the Princeton defeat in an inter-sectional battle definitely relegates the Maroon to third place.

One more phase to the honors held by Iowa is the scoring power it developed. For seven games in and out of the Conference, it compiled a total of 208 points as compared with 183 for Michigan. The Wolverines, however, were much stronger defensively than the Hawkeyes, as they were scored on by only two teams for a total of 13 points, while the champions let through four opponents for a total of 33 points.

To Coach H. H. Jones of Iowa goes the honor of producing a second undefeated team, despite the loss of three players who were thought to be chiefly responsible for last year's success. Capt. G. C. Locke '23, used at fullback and quarterback, was the outstanding player. Fumbling marred his early performance; but he was fundamentally a powerful player and as the season progressed more and more responsibility devolved upon him. L. C. Parkin '25, while also a leading player did not maintain the pace he set in the Yale game. Loeke carried through every game to the final 37 to 3 victory over Northwestern last week."

CONFESIONS OF AN AMERICAN CAKE EATER

Arose yesterday morning about 9 and was so vexed; couldn't find my lipstick anywhere. Went up town and had my side-burns shampooed. The barber asked if I didn't think I ought to have them trimmed! Silly ass!

Ran into Peggy on the street, and made a date for 8 o'clock. She dropped a hint about candy, which I didn't hear. Attended 11 o'clock class but couldn't sleep as there was an exam on. How silly!

After luncheon strolled around to my tailor's to see how my trousers were coming on. They are nearly finished and they're just too cute! They have a circumference of 27 inches at the bottom and 18 inches at the waist.

Ate dinner hastily and went out to Peggy's. She was very glad to see me until she discovered I hadn't brought her anything. We went to a movie and were getting on splendidly when suddenly the picture ended and the lights came on. After this I shall always glance at the picture occasionally and thus avoid being caught necking.

Peggy refused to let me kiss her good night on the grounds that the chaperon might hear us. Returned home disconsolate and found the cat had lapped up my cold cream. Read a chapter in "History of Petting," and so to bed.

"Marriage interferes with my marriage beliefs," alleges an Illinois woman, applying for a divorce. What do you make of that?

ADVICE THROUGH THE WINDOW.

"Carnac's Folly"—Sir Gilbert Parker

Sir Gilbert Parker, well known in the field of Canadian romance, has contributed another volume to his long list of books of fiction, the scene being laid principally in Montreal. If you are concerned with the artistic merit of a novel your pleasure in "Carnac's Folly" will not be unalloyed. If the story's the thing, you may possibly find this book an adequate anodyne for a dull evening.

Although Sir Gilbert ranks as a fairly popular writer, his works have not all the ear-marks of so called popular fiction; for while, in the book in question, the characterization is sufficiently weak, the incidents more than improbable, the reflection nil, and the melodramatic italicizing of important facts suggestive of movie-dom, still the story runs on to the right kind of finish. The good are rewarded. There is no triangle, no psychoanalysis, and the moral, sufficiently evident all along, is thrust upon the reader at the close in paragraphs and pages in the true George Eliot manner.

There is no underrcurrent of poetry, nothing of sheer fancy, not a glint of humor, little analysis or development of character—just facts—bare facts and strange unexpected happenings with no discernible reason except the author's dire need. People die natural deaths expeditiously, drown in the nick of time, appear and disappear; perfectly sound horses fall with broken legs,

And Tarboe, in a typical conversation with the lumber king, "By gosh! I will," said the young man after a moment, with a sudden thirst in his throat and a bite to his teeth. "By gum, yes, I'll go with you." A moment later, Pooh-Bah like, on the other side of the stage, he murmurs to the one woman in the world (perhaps under love's inspiration) "The only poetry I know is the sound of your voice in the wind, the laughter of your lips in the sun, the delight of your body in the heavenly flowers. Yes, I've drunk you in the wild woods; I've trailed you on the river; I've heard you in the grinding storm—always the same, the soul of all beautiful things."

And then you turn the page, alas! to be confronted with that other Tarboe again, his face alight, assenting to a business deal with a ringing "Halves, pardner, halves!"—which nerve-grating clinch of the bargain seems to be offered as a fitting culmination not only to Sir Gilbert's narrative but also to the love entanglements of Junia, Carnac and Tarboe.

Similar incongruities in characterization obtain in connection with Junia and with Baroche Barouche, trained politician and secretary of state. We feel, too, the author's limitations in the impossible Lazanne, French only in name, unreal, theatrical, whose appearance is always indicative of another unconvinced sleight of hand trick with the "blue document of marriage."

But if you are still concerned with artistic merit and wish a story with a Canadian wilderness for the setting, you would better choose Louis Henné's "Marius Chapdelaine"—that idyllic tale of the simple folk of Lake St. John—of Peribonka, with its winter terrors—a tale with beauty, pathos and tragedy, exquisite in the telling.

Now that Edwards for both air and are pulled back to the earth. It is equally certain and its tugging power can be just as accurately calculated in the case of the sun pulling at each of the planets across millions of miles and holding them from flying off into space quite as effectively as if each were tied at the end of a wire.

But what is this invisible force that operates across these vast spaces? By what means does it pass from sun to planet, from earth to a leaping human—and vice versa? Science has thus far not reached the beginning of an hypothesis. The hypothesis of an invisible ether has proved of value in the investigation of light. Not even this much of a trial theory has been suggested for the force of gravity. So far from clearing up the mystery of the solar system the discovery of gravity but added to the marvels of its order and rhythm. We can now calculate its forces—a wonderful achievement. Their source and character are still completely hidden.—New York Tribune.

Japan is the latest country to succumb to the intoxicating rhythm of jazz in all its conquering sweep around the world. The music is not the only cause of the great demand for jazz songs and jazz records in that country. The Japanese are also taking to the one step in its varied forms and for that reason there is a vigorous demand from that country for the latest form of the negro melodies of this country.

Although both had been a part of many musical performances, there was no special outbreak of negro melody or negro dancing before the sudden spread of interest in the cakewalk. This came at the time when Williams and Walker, two well known negro comedians and singers, were at the height of their popularity. While they may not have been responsible for the stage use of the walk and its accompanying or, rather, stimulating music their popularity and their use of the steps helped to account for its vogue.

CONTRIBUTORS' COLUMN

Editors note—All communications addressed to the editor and not exceeding 200 words will be published in this column. Articles must be signed, not for publication necessarily, but as evidence of good faith.

To the Editor:

Much has been said about the band uniforms and something tangible has been produced in the way of funds to provide these uniforms. I have had an extensive opportunity to observe the bands of other institutions and in every case where special uniforms are worn have been struck by the mere gaudiness of their uniforms. I do not think the Iowa band wants any uniform that will detract the least bit from its dignity. It is admitted that the present issue uniforms are not very attractive and should be of better quality. Up to this time they have been the best available and have been furnished without cost to the student.

The band of the University of Iowa is a military band and a part of the military department and it should always present a military appearance. I think no one who gives the subject any thought will deny that the Iowa band, even in the issue uniforms, presented a much smarter appearance than did the Northwestern band. The Iowa band must never present the appearance of a minstrel show band, but a more dignified appearance in harmony with its military character.

Musically the Iowa band is second to none and has on the occasion of every military inspection been the subject of warm praise by inspecting officers.

The uniform I would most readily approve would consist of a well tailored olive drab cloth of the same quality as now worn by the advanced course men in the military department. The coat would be of the cut commonly known as the English cut, with roll collar, long trousers worn generally with leggings, military cap, Sam Browne belt and a cape lined with gold cloth with black edge trimming. The cape would give needed warmth in cool weather and the lining of the cape with the black edging would lend a touch of color to the whole which would be again set off by the Sam Browne belt. Such a combination of uniform would be very dignified, in harmony with the remainder of the military department on the occasion of military ceremonies and one in which any man would take proper pride in wearing. He would not have to seek the by-ways or hurry to get it off after a game or other appearance of the band because it was conspicuously gaudy.

I will be glad to read other expressions of opinion in this column or give careful consideration to opinions expressed in letters addressed to me at the military department.

MATCHLESS CHARM OF VOICE AND PERSONALITY MARKS SOPRANO'S WORK

Anna Case, soprano, who is to appear in the men's gymnasium on December 8th, has had a most remarkable career. She was born in New Jersey in 1893, and her first professional experience was gained by singing in church in Plainfield, N. J., where she soon became so well known that many strangers visited the church just to hear her sing. In 1909, at the astonishingly early age of 16, she made her debut at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York and has been a valued member of that famous company ever since.

Renowned as a Soloist

In the last few years Miss Case has devoted more and more time to concert work. Her country-wide popularity may be judged from the fact that during the past season she traveled more than 20,000 miles filling engagements, and appeared in such widely scattered points as Tampa, Fla., Los Angeles, Cal., Seattle, Wash., and St. John, N. B., Canada.

The test of a singer's ability is to be found in her re-engagements in a city. Miss Case has appeared in Detroit, Mich., for four years in succession, in Canton, Ohio, five times in three years. In Dallas, Texas, Miss Case gave so impressive a recital that four organizations in that city immediately wired her manager for a booking. There is scarcely an exception to the rule that once an audience hears Miss Case, it must hear her again.

'DESERTED VILLAGES OF IOWA' SUBJECT OF NEXT PALIMPSEST

The December issue of the Palimpsest will be on sale the fourteenth of the month. "The Deserted Villages of Iowa" is the general subject of the reading matter. Bessie L. Lyon will tell about Homer near Webster City, and O. A. Garretson about Pilot Grove near Salem. Both places were growing villages of about 500 before the advent of the railroad, but when the railroads penetrated the state and failed to pass through them, they quickly lost their population and now consist of only a few farm houses.

Y. W. C. A. LISTENS TO TALK BY REV. SEARLES

"Thanksgiving is one of the high points in the renewal of faith, an oasis in the desert," said the Rev. Herbert Searles, student pastor of the Presbyterian church, in a talk at the Y. W. C. A. meeting yesterday. Preceding the talk Helen Orcutt A2 of Monroe sang, accompanied by Grace Orcutt A2 of Monroe.

Reverend Searles stressed the fact that hearts must be educated as well as heads, and that religion may be adjusted to natural laws. He said that Thanksgiving presupposed three things: a personality or God to which we give thanks, a process of giving thanks, and a purpose to the process. Leota S. Fisher A4 of Iowa City presided over the meeting.

BRAIN IMPROVES ONLY 1 PERCENT

California Professor Claims Man's Improvements Is Very Backward

Burkeley, California, Dec. 1.—The human race has only improved one per cent physically and mentally in 25,000 years, according to A. L. Karoer of the anthropology department of the university.

In the same period of time, culture has progressed 10,000 per cent.

"Man's brains are only about one per cent better than they were 25,000 years ago," Professor Karoer said. "We too frequently make the mistake that because man uses natural ingenuity in mental ability on the basis of discoveries already made and makes a new discovery, that he is a superman of the modern era—that he is better mentally than the man of 25,000 years ago."

"Yet anthropology shows that man's brain then was 99 per cent proficient compared to brain today."

"Man physically also improved one per cent, despite all modern knowledge of the body and its care."

The Store of a Thousand Gifts

If you are to secure distinctive Christmas gifts, it is necessary that you think of Christmas now. And thinking of Christmas means thinking of our store with its thousands of varied gifts.

There is no more universal gift than a Kodak, young and old alike delight in the art of picture taking. The Vest Pocket Kodak is a very popular number selling at $6.50. Other Kodaks and cameras from $2 to $150.50.

Particularly interesting this year, is our Art Department, for in it will be found a large assortment of beautiful prints representing famous Artists of yesterday and today. "A New England Harbor" by Vincent (16-20) $6. "Pandora" by Maxfield Parrish (9-16) $1.50. "The Lone Wolf" by Kovalski in three sizes at 50c, $1.25 and $2.50.

Stationery makes a very acceptable gift and especially when it comes in an attractive and delicately colored Christmas Box. Symphony Lawn Gift Stationery $1 and up.

What woman does not like fine perfumes, Toilet waters and other dainty toilet requisites and here, too, our shelves are crowded. Contrary to common belief one need not spend a fortune for tasty pieces for while there are many imported odors and combination packages that sell for over $10 or so, there are also very nice gift packages for so little as 50c.

A combination Perfume burner and night lamp with a delf blue shade and silver fittings, sells complete with plug and silk cord all ready to attach to any electric socket at only $5.

A perfume spray makes a very practical gift, coming in various styles from 50c to $5.

Ivory Pyralin is not to be found on the Bargain Counter. "Pyralin" on each article is your assurance of perfect satisfaction and on our counter will be found many pieces bearing this stamp. A six piece gold trimmed shell set at $35. Single pieces 50c and up.

A clean shave in a short period of time is coveted by every man. A Gillette or Auto-Strop razor offers him this comfort. These $1 and $5.

Gem and Ever Ready Razors in flat silver plated cases with various lodges emblems or the Iowa Seal $1.50.

Beautiful leather bill folds and pocket books, such as any man would prize, 50c to $4.

Imported Hand dipped Candles with clever hand made flowers and decorations in relief, 75c to $1.25 a pair. Plain colored candles 5c and up.

These and many more individual things will be found at our store or should you care to trust to our selection they will be mailed postage prepaid.

arrived. These birds, which include various species of eider, gull, cormorant, pifin, auklet, plover, jaegers, and other northern birds, will form an habitat group which will be a companion to the Louisiana Swamp exhibit and located just across the hall from it. When this exhibit is completed there will be in the museum an exhibit from the three extremities of United States possessions—the Louisiana Swamp exhibit from the south, the Laysan Island from the west, and the one being prepared now from the north.

The work on this exhibit is already well under way, but it will probably be about a year before it is entirely completed. The specimens for this exhibit have been donated to the University by Professor Dill and the finance committee has appropriated money for the purchase of the case.

INITIATE NEW Y. W. MEMBERS

Recognition services for the new members of Y. W. C. A. will be held next Wednesday afternoon. Five hundred new members will be formally brought into membership with the candle service, a custom observed annually by the Y. W. C. A. The new members are given unlighted candles and light from one large candle. Further plans for the service are being made by Miss Avida J. Buck, general secretary, and E. Roberta Anderson A3 of Madrid, president.
