Governors Declare War On Ku Klux Klan

IOWA DEBATERS READY TO MEET GOPHER TEAM

Abandon Judgless Type of Argument; Ryan To Make Decision Alone

The Iowa debating team, Harold D. Read L1 of Des Moines, Max Levingston A2 of Waterloo, and Buel G. Beems A3 of Anamosa, faces the Minnesota team in debate in the natural science auditorium at 7 o'clock this evening. The hour for the debate has been made early enough to permit students to hear the debate and to attend other activities as well. The Iowa team will uphold the affirmative side of the proposition, "Resolved, that congress should have the power to override decisions of the supreme court by re-enacting laws after they have been declared unconstitutional." The winner of the debate will be decided by one expert judge, Prof. J. P. Ryan, head of the department of speech at Grinnell college.

The members of the Minnesota team are Alvin Johansen, Charles B. Macdonell and Walter L. Johnson. The department of speech at Minnesota writes, "They are all greenhorns and ought not to make much trouble for you," but the fact that two of the men are junior laws and one is a senior academic as well as other reports from other sources, discredit this story. The Minnesota team is a dangerous one. Each year Minnesota has consistently developed strong debaters, and there is no reason to suppose that they have forgotten the art.

None of the men on the Iowa team have had previous intercollegiate debating experience, although all three have been trained in intersociety debates in the past. Harold D. Read, the first speaker for the affirmative, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Sigma Delta Chi, Irving Institute, is an accurate thinker and speaks with emphasis of the summer session Daily Iowan. Behind Max Levingston, Chi Kappa Pi, Zetagathian, is a string of declamatory victories. He won the (Continued on page 8)

Bridge Teams To Wind Up Tourney Before Christmas

The bridge teams in the pan-hellenic bridge tournament which has been going on for the past seven weeks will play all of their remaining games before Christmas vacation. According to the results turned in up to date, the Alpha Tau Omega teams have the highest percentage although the Beta Theta Pi teams have won more games. The winning fraternity will receive a bridge table.

The fraternities as they stand in games won and lost are: Beta Theta Pi, won ten, lost four; Alpha Tau Omega, won eight, lost six; Omega, won nine, lost three; Sigma Sigma Chi, won five, lost five; Phi Delta Theta, won five, lost five; Sigma Nu, won seven, lost nine; Kappa Sigma, won four, lost eight; Delta Tau Delta, won four, lost six; and Phi Kappa Psi, won three, lost nine.

"HAR-R-D WINTER-R-R," SAYS LAUDER; GIVES DOLLAR TO SANTA

Madison, Wis., Dec. 14—Sir Harry Lauder, his knees bared to the snow, dug way down deep into the recesses of his kilties and produced a warm dollar bill. The empty stocking club of a Madison newspaper, formed to brighten the Christmas of needy children, got it all. It is a long "Har-r-r-d winter-r-r-r" said Sir Harry.

LEADERS AFRAID OWSLEY'S BONUS IS IMPOSSIBLE

Congressmen not Ready To Consider Measure At Present Time They Say

By Clayton Whitehill
(United News Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Dec. 14—House and Senate leaders are skeptical of American Legion Owsley's announced plan to press the enactment of the bonus bill at this session of congress. So far as the senate is concerned, the bonus bill vetoed by Harding now reclines in the rooms of the senate finance committee and chairman McCumber is said to be indisposed to introducing it in the senate.

The house, which would be concerned first with the measure, were it provided with a revenue raising feature is similarly disinclined to consider the measure at this session.

FRENCH ARGUE DISARMAMENT

Deputies Hold Stormy Session Over Washington Treaty Ratification

By Hudson Hawley
(United News Staff Correspondent)
Paris, Dec. 14—The Washington disarmament treaty, which France thus far has failed to ratify, caused a stormy session in the chamber of deputies on Thursday.

After Minister of marine Raiberti announced that the government would demand that the arms pact be brought before the deputies after the new year, Mons. Berthen, communist, flayed the ministry for its dilatory policy in reporting out the treaty. "It's scandalous," he stated, "to spend millions of francs for the navy when finances are in such a pitiable condition."

GIVE MUSICAL PROGRAM FOR HAMLIN GARLAND

Hamlin Garland literary society presented a musical program last Wednesday evening at Close hall. A business meeting preceded the program.

The program consisted of the following numbers: Story of the opera "Faust" by Juanita N. Loper A3 of Indianola; piano solo by Gladys L. Watkins A3 of Woodbine; story of the "Tales of Hoffman" by Laura M. Bolle A3 of Madrid; duet, "Tales of Hoffman," by Mildred A. Schump A2 of Iowa City and Lois I. Bridenstine A2 of Iowa City, accompanied by Frances E. Nies A2 of Charles City; violin duet by Ruby S. Miller A2 of Iowa City and Freda M. Dickson A4 of Bloomfield; musical reading by Helen M. Douglas A4 of Mason City and Della J. Gray P1 of Mason City accompanied by Frances E. Nies A2 of Charles City.

ERO-IRVING PLAY WELL RECEIVED

Albert Ward As Faith Healer Stars; Sunset Lighting Effective

An audience that filled every available seat in the natural science auditorium accorded an enthusiastic reception to the Irving-Ero production of William Vaughn Moody's "The Faith Healer." The play, which was under the direction of Prof. E. C. Mabie, of the department of speech, was one of the most artistic dramatic efforts of recent years, in the opinion of many in the audience.

The story, which deals with the coming of the "faith healer" to a mid-western farmhouse, is essentially dramatic and emotional, although containing relieving touches of comedy. Albert Ward A4 of Clinton in the title role was easily the star of the play, and his interpretation of the heavier scenes was indeed remarkable. Gregory Foley A4 of Rock Rapids, always at his best in a character part, played the part of the farmer in a most convincing manner. The cast as a whole deserves congratulation for the finish and ease of their acting.

A great deal of the general artistic effect of the production was due to the excellence of the setting and lighting, which were the work of the University class in stage craft. The sunset lighting effect, in particular, combined a naturalness and (Continued on page 8)

CLAPP TO APPEAR WITH SYMPHONY

Invite Music Leader To Play Own Composition "Norge" During Holidays

Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the department of music, will appear with the Chicago symphony orchestra at a concert on Friday afternoon and Saturday evening, December 22 and 23, playing the pianoforte part of "Norge," a symphonic poem for orchestra with pianoforte, of his own composition.

This composition was written in 1908 and was revised in 1919. It has been performed in several cities by various orchestras. The most recent performance was in Iowa City last spring when it was played by the St. Louis symphony orchestra. Rudolph Ganz conducting. At that presentation, also, the pianoforte was played by Professor Clapp.

Pershing Declares Another War Looms In Boston Speech

(By United News)

Boston, Dec. 14—America may be compelled to fight again to defend the principles for which it declared war in 1917, General Pershing declared, in discussing the European situation, in an address before the women's republican club of Massachusetts here Thursday.

COUNCIL APPROVES STUDENT ELECTIONS

Terms of Office Begin Now; Junior Vice President Not Decided

The successful candidates of the last election of the classes in the college of liberal arts were officially announced as the bonafide officers of the classes by the student council yesterday. The sanctioning of the election and announcement of the successful candidates by the council marks the beginning of the terms of office.

Arthur W. Shepard A2 of Ottumwa received enough votes on the sophomore ballot to be elected vice president, but since he has not passed sufficient work to be a sophomore in good standing, he is not eligible for the office.

The officers of the senior class are: Eric C. Wilson, Iowa City, president; Louise Jerrel, Oskaloosa, vice president; and Elizabeth Ensign, Iowa City, secretary and treasurer.

Those who hold office in the junior class are: Glenn W. Miller, Waterloo; Bernadine Wendel, Smithland; and Margaret Wilson, Iowa City. Mr. Miller has been officially named as president but since Miss Wendel and Miss Wilson received the same number of votes the council will have to decide which shall be vice-president and which secretary and treasurer. Such a decision has not as yet been reached.

The officers of the sophomore class are: Leland C. Parkin, Waterloo, president; Margaret E. Sayers, Jefferson, vice president; and Marjorie E. Buhler, Dubuque, secretary and treasurer.

ANNA CASE GIVES CONCERT MARCH 3

Manager Explains Reasons for Cancellation of Previous Engagement

Anna Case of the Metropolitan Opera company, will appear in concert here, Friday, March 2, according to a letter from her manager received by Prof. Philip G. Clapp, of the department of music, Tuesday.

In regard to Miss Case's engagement here December 8, which she was unable to keep, her manager writes, "Miss Case was very much chagrined to have to disappoint the people of Iowa City. She had a severe case of laryngitis. On Tuesday the fifth, she was already feeling ill, but she nevertheless appeared at the Town Hall in New York where the house had been sold out for her recital scheduled that evening. The next day she was confined to her bed under orders from her physician not to leave town until she had entirely recovered."

LADY ASTOR WORSTED IN DEBATE WITH A COMMONS' LABORITE

(By United News)

London, December 14—"Lloyd George won the war," shouted Lady Astor, American born M. P., when a laborite in the House of Commons accused the former premier of leading France to believe that she could recover the whole cost of war from Germany.

"It is a good thing he didn't win you," retorted the laborite as he pointed his finger at Lady Astor. Lloyd George previously stated he had approved the reparation policy of England as outlined by Bonar Law.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC SUNG AT VESPERS

Chorus of 150 With University Orchestra To Perform On Sunday

Christmas singing will feature the musical vespers program next Sunday afternoon in the natural science auditorium, at which time the music will be presented by a chorus of 150 voices, including the University chorus and the men's and women's glee clubs and the University orchestra. Miss Verness Fraser, instructor in the music department, will play the piano accompaniment.

The University orchestra, under the direction of Prof. F. E. Kendrick, will begin the program with the solemn march from "Joshua" by Handel and the chorale from "St. Paul" by Mendelssohn. A double quartet of women from the glee club which will sing "When I View the Mother" by Chadwick, is composed of Florence Kings A3 of Sanborn, Jeanne Wolfe A3 of Clear Lake; Alice Ingham Au of Iowa City, Lorna Schuppert A4 of Iowa City, Beatrice Gates A4 of Pierre, S. Dak., Louise Wolff A4 of Dubuque; Martha Althaus A4 of Muscatine; Mrs. Lottie Volkmer Asa of Iowa City.

Mrs. Mildred Paddock, of the music department, and the men's glee club will present "Christmas Song" by Cornelius-Damrosch. This number has a unique history. In 1850, Peter Cornelius wrote this song as a vocal solo, embodying in the piano accompaniment an old chorale, "The Morning Star," written in 1599 by Dr. Philipp Nicolai. Dr. Frank Damrosch has retained the solo as sung by Mrs. Paddock, substituting a chorus of men for the piano accompaniment and restored the words of the original chorale as sung by the men.

"Slumber Song of the Infant Jesus" and "A Joyous Christmas Song" are medieval French carols arranged by Gevaert and which will be sung by the chorus.

DOLLAR PRINCESS IS HOMEWARD BOUND

(By United News)

Cherbourg, France, Dec. 14—The "dollar princess" is homeward bound. The princess Anastasia turned her back on turbulent Europe Thursday sailing for New York with her royal consort Prince Christopher of Greece. Anastasia, formerly Mrs. William B. Leeds, widow of the American tin plate baron, will reside in the United States permanently with her husband, it was disclosed as they boarded the Olympic.

In all probability, she will make her home on her Long Island estate.

COME OUT IN OPEN IS DARE TO KLANSMEN

Governor Alcott Leads Fight In Opening Session of Convention

(By United News)

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Dec. 14—Governors assembled for the annual conference here, devoted the opening session to challenging the Ku Klux Klan to come out in the open. "Take off your masks and appear in the garb of American citizens," Governor Alcott of Oregon declared in a speech.

"The Klan is a narcotic blight on our civilization and one of the gravest menaces the nation has ever confronted. We find that wherever the Klan had raised its head it has produced blight. It has developed prejudices, disrupted communities, turned brother against brother and left in its wake a trail of strife, bitterness and rancor that is far from American. Americans have never been in the habit of hiding their faces behind masks."

Alcott said the bill sponsored by the Klan in Oregon, which would compel all children to attend public schools was a measure intended to deceive and will Russianise the state and deprive the parents of practically all rights over their children.

CALLS EX-KAISER COWARD IN PAPER

German Editor Forced To Quit Life Work By Attack On Jews

(By United News)

Berlin, Dec. 14—Kaiser Wilhelm was described as a coward Thursday during the trial of Weichardt and Grenz, young nationalists, charged with attempting to take the life of Maximilian Harden, German democratic editor.

"The kaiser's cowardice is the only active force in German politics," Harden quoted Count Bismark, "father of the monarchy," as saying.

Hardin stated he had attacked Wilhelm's policy from the beginning to the bitter end.

The editor testified he was compelled to abandon his life work, owing to the crusade against him and other prominent Jews, including Einstein, who evolved the famous theory of relativity, and Markburg the banker. The alleged assailants of Hardin claim they attacked him to prevent him from going to the United States on a lecture tour.

Near East Relief Cares for Orphans of Turk Massacre

The policy of the Near East relief, which has started its drive this week in Johnson county, is to turn over to some responsible government the orphans who have been deprived of their parents during the recent Turkish massacres. At present, of the 110,000 children in orphanage, less than five per cent are in Turkish territory. These children are now fed and educated at the cost of seventeen cents a day. America is the only hope for these children.

The Near East relief drive has been launched in Johnson county this week. The local committee has assigned teams to the various parts of Iowa City and to the townships of the county. Iowa's quota this year is $300,000.

THE CHIMES!

The Most Delightful Christmas Tribute Ever Conceived---and the Most Popular

THE KILLIAN COMPANY has installed a set of Tubular Cathedral Chimes on the outside second floor ledge of this store and has been so fortunate as to secure the services of a musician of recognized ability who is favoring the public with selections daily at 8:30 in the morning and also at 12:45 and 4:00 every afternoon. On Saturday he will play the Chimes in the evening also, in addition to the hours mentioned. It is of particular interest to note that these Chimes are exact duplicates in miniature of the Chimes in use at National Park Seminary, Forest Glen, Md.; at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Providence, R. I.; at the chapel of Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and at General Theological Seminary, Chelsea Square, New York. In what way more fitting could we give expression to the joy of the Christmas season than by the use of these delightful Chimes? To hear them from the sidewalk in front of the store will prove a delightful treat.

EXPECT LARGE ATTENDANCE AT CHARITY BALL

Ogle's Orchestra Will Play; Balloon and Spot Dances Are Features

Over 500 couples are expected to attend the charity ball tonight which is to be given by the Lions club of Iowa City at the men's gymnasium. Ogle's ten-piece orchestra will furnish the music and dancing will be continuous from 8:30 to 1:45 p. m.

The "balloon" dance and the "spot" dance are two of the features on the program. The gymnasium was decorated last night by the committee in charge of the ball. Most of the University dances have been postponed to insure a large crowd at the ball.

Tickets are on sale at Whet-stone's, the Academy and Racine's for two dollars each. A charge of twenty-five cents will be made for spectators in the gallery.

The entire proceeds will be turned over to the social service league to be used for charity work in Johnson county. The Lions club pays the expenses of the ball from its treasury in order that none of the proceeds from the dance may be used for that purpose.

45 WOMEN REPORT FOR BASKETBALL PRACTICE

Eighteen freshmen women reported at basketball practice at 4 o'clock on Monday and Wednesday afternoons. About fifteen freshmen and twelve juniors reported for practice on the same days at 5 o'clock. More juniors are needed, as twelve women will be chosen for each squad. Miss Louise Bouillin would like to have more sophomores and seniors report for practice on Tuesday and Thursday at 5 o'clock.

The squads will be chosen the last of February. During the tournament which will be held as soon as the teams are chosen every team will play every other team. At the end of the tournament the percentage will be decided by dividing the number of games played and the number of games won by each team.

6 TOWNS RECEIVE UNIVERSITY PLAYS

2 Companies Give Productions In Iowa Towns After Christmas

Six Iowa towns have contracted with Professor E. C. Mabie, of the speech department, for the University theatre productions during the Christmas vacation.

Final plans have been completed to take the two companies, "Mr. Pim Passes By" and "The Faith Healer" through the state on tour, each company carrying complete scenic and lighting equipment which was designed and worked out by the University class in stage craft. All the bookings are backed by enthusiastic groups and expenses are guaranteed in the contracts.

The "Mr. Pim Passes By" company is to assemble in Emmetsburg on Wednesday, December 27, for a dress rehearsal before the opening performance of the tour to be given that night. The company which has been slightly changed since the Iowa City production is in rehearsal now. From Emmetsburg the company goes to Algona for a presentation on December 28, Story City on December 30 and joins the other company in Traer on January 1, where "Mr. Pim" will be given for a New Year's matinee and "The Faith Healer" in the evening.

The cast of "Mr. Pim Passes By" which will go on tour is now:

George Marden, J. P.—Laurence L. Brierly A3 of Independence; Olivia, his wife—Islea Olerich A4 of Rolfe; Dinah, his niece—Margaret Altman A4 of Livermore; Lady Marden, his aunt—Mildred Freburg, of the speech department; Brian Strange—Walter Dehner A4 of Iowa City; Caraway Pim—George Hurley

A4 of Rolfe; Anne—Helen Langworthy, of the speech department.

The executive staff is to be George Hurley, company manager; Walter Dehner, stage manager; and Helen Langworthy, business manager.

The second company, which is to produce "The Faith Healer" will assemble for rehearsal in Ottumwa Thursday, December 28, where they will play two performances on the 28th and 29th, respectively. The two performances in Ottumwa are under the auspices of the Walter P. Shafer post of the American Legion. On January 1 the second company joins the "Mr. Pim" company in Traer preparatory to opening in the evening with "The Faith Healer." These two performances are to be given under the auspices of the Traer Commercial club.

Those who will make the trip to Ottumwa and Traer are: Albert Ward A4 of Clinton; Gregory Fouley A4 of Rock Rapids; Lucile Hoffman A4 of Iowa City; Dorothy McClenahan Au of Des Moines; Maurine Shaw Au of Des Moines; Doris Dayton A2 of Iowa City; Frances Smith A4 of Montezuma; Gordon Johnston A2 of Des Moines; Beryl Whitney A4 of Cherokee; James Barton A4 of Ottumwa; Eddie Baker A1 of Cedar Rapids; Lorna Schuppert A4 of Iowa City; and Opal Stevenson A4 of Shannon City.

In the executive staff Gregory Foley will be company manager; Opal Stevenson, business manager; James Barton, stage manager; and Beryl Whitney, master of lighting.

In sending out two companies on tour during the Christmas holiday season the University theatre is co-operating with the National Theatre Community Circuit committee, of which Mr. Walter Pritchard Eaton, prominent dramatic critic of New York, is chairman. Last year Iowa's State university and its Drama League centers began a movement which gained for dramatic activities in this state nation-wide recognition and attention. Under the chairmanship of Prof. E. C. Mabie, of the department of speech of the State University a committee of Iowans began the community theatre circuit.

Their plan has grown, and has recently been adopted in several other states—Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and Texas.

DOPING THE DOPE

By BUDA-PEST

Continuing those mascots, part of which were left out yesterday, we would suggest for Illinois a lady lion with a cub (judging from what they did to Iowa) and for Ohio a nice gentle—Beaver. As Purdue plays rather well on a wet field, we would give them a muskrat.

And for Michigan, dear old Michigan, who is so nice to Iowa, we would suggest one of these little black kittens which have two white stripes down their backs.

Iowa refuses to schedule a grid contest with Coe, says a headline. We admire Coe, they are a dandy good team, for the size of the school.

But who ever heard of Benny Leonard wanting to fight Jack Dempsey?

An old Iowa basketball team will soon take the floor as the American Legion team of Iowa City. On the team will be Shimek, Devine, Frohwein and Lohman, so it is said.

This combination went rather well against some of the conference teams last year, but professional basketball is a different thing from Big Ten basketball.

After viewing a good many games of college basketball, we had a chance one night to see two rather well known professional teams clash. One was the Muscatine Muskies, four members of that team playing when the Muskies won the world's championship many years ago.

Although they were a trifle old, they seemed to have lost none of their speed and a few other things. The team they were playing was called the Chicago Big Five or something like that—anyhow they were all husky and regular Duke Slaters for size.

And so on throughout the game. Even at that they somehow continued to make baskets. Professional basketball is no ladies' game.

We also a former Purdue college star, who was dismissed from the conference last year for certain things, play professional basketball. This man was good in college, but did not get very far in the rougher game.

And at that we believe that the students of the University showed more interest in the games here than the people displayed in the professional game. And those people certainly give that pro-team good support.

Nearly one hundred are enrolled in boxing classes now, says Dad Schroeder, of the department of physical education for men. Dave Fidler, a boxer of no mean ability, has been selected to teach these men the manly art.

Boxing is a good thing. It is also a good thing that so many students are taking an interest in the sport. There is real science to be had in that game.

One of the most popular athletic stunts put on by the University is the annual boxing tournament. At this tournament, which lots of the fellows enter, one gets to see occasionally some men who have learned a lot about the game.

up of four of last year's team and one of last year's subs. Campbell will probably play center, Rhind and Albro forwards, and Ludwig and Negley guards. The Iowa team will probably have Burgitt at center, Laude and Janse forwards and Captain Hicks and Funk guards.

The team will play Cornell here December 19 and then the men will go home for Christmas. Coach Barry will have them back a week or nine days before the Notre Dame game here January 3.

Wrestlers Second Iowa Team To Get Change In Uniform

When the Iowa wrestlers journey to Minneapolis to conquer the Gophers they will not wear the old black tights with which the Hawk-eyes have been clad in former years.

Captain Heldt's team will appear in brand new black tights with old gold stripes around the calves. The new outfit is to enable the spectators to tell the men apart when they are on the mat. This makes the second Iowa uniform to be changed this year as the basketball team will come on the floor Tuesday night with new uniforms.

Mike Howard, wrestling coach, has been handicapped this year in developing a mat team due to sickness among some of the most likely aspirants for positions. Comstock, crack 135 pounder, considered by the coach to be the equal of Sweeney, last year's star and captain, has been bothered with boils all season. W. H. Thom has been sick off and on all year. He seems to be brittle and unable to stand up under hard knocks. Paul Frank, a light heavyweight prospect, has been laid up for several days with tonsillitis. With these men out of the game the coach is left with a few experienced men from which to mold a winning team.

Captain Johnny Heldt has been out for practice but twice this year but in the workouts that he has taken part in, the captain has showed up well, displaying more speed than in previous years.

TILDEN LOSES MORE OF MIDDLE FINGER

(By United News)

Philadelphia, Dec. 14—William T. Tilden, tennis champion of the world, lost another joint of his right middle finger, recently amputated at the joint near end. He was operated on again because of a new infection but said he suffered no pain this time and is now planning a trip to the Pacific northwest beginning next June.

KLINGAMAN DOPED TO STAR IN MEET

Semi-Finals In All-University Swimming Meet Start At 4 O'Clock Today

The semi-finals of the all-university championship swimming meet will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the men's pool. The finals will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

It is expected that a good many records will be lowered. Klingaman will be the individual start of the meet. He set a new midwestern A. A. U. record for the 50 yard dash in a meet held at Omaha, Neb., on November 11 and is expected to lower the records in the 40 yard dash and in the 220 yard easy style.

In the 40 yard dash Rich and Goltman will push Klingaman for first place. Klingaman, however, should win. Roy Stover the present University record holder will be unable to swim on account of sickness.

McCullough has the edge on the other contestants in the fancy diving because of his one year of experience as a varsity diver. He won the dives in the interfraternity conference meet and is the present holder of the University Championship. Griffin and Killebrew will give him the closest competition.

In the 220 yard breast stroke Griffin is expected to lower his present record which he set in last year's championship meet. Chambers the captain of the freshman team and Savory, also a freshman swimmer, will make a close race for second place.

Klingaman, the present record holder in the 220 yard easy style, is expected to lower his own time. Goltman will push him hard and will in all probability, make a close second. Killebrew, Lambert, and Sheakley will fight for the other two places.

The plunge for distance will be one of the most interesting events this year as it will decide the tie for the university championship that was made last year. Bain and Hickox hold the championship jointly. Both plunged 50 feet in 29 1-5 seconds in last year's meet. The meet will decide which of the two will hold the record for this year.

The 150 yard back stroke should go to Ashton with very little competition. Bess is the only man who will give him any trouble. Stover and Anderson two of the fastest back strokes men are sick and will be unable to take part.

In the 100 yard dash Klingaman is again the logical winner. His time in this will depend a great deal upon his condition after the other two swims in which he is entered. He is the present record holder. A new record is looked for Goltman and Kramer will make Klingaman fight to hold his championship title.

Griffin should win the 440 yard easy style but Goltman, Klingaman, and Lambert are fast men who may fool the dopesters. Griffin is the present record holder. He is in fewer other events than the others and should enter the race in the best condition.

BASKETEERS TAKE FINAL WORKOUT

Burgitt, Laude, Janse, Hicks and Funk in Lineup for Iowa-Knox Game

Working towards a defense which will stop Albro, the star Knox forward, and an offense that will overwhelm the whole Knox quintet, Coach Barry sent his men through their last scrimmage before the game Saturday. Coach Bud Saunders, former Grinnell coach, will have a strong team to meet Iowa and it will take a great fight to beat Coach Barry's old aggregation.

The first string composed of Burgitt center, Laude and Janse forwards, and Captain Hicks and Funk guards, easily scored on the third team last night, on which were Stover center, Emmert and Rankin forwards, and Viquaine and Duhm guards. Emmert and Ouhm showed up very well against the first team. Swenson replaced Burgitt at center, Barton took Janse's place at forward and Voltmer was in Hick's position during the second half. Coach Barry is working these men with the first string in order that they can become accustomed to playing together and will use them probably in Saturday's game. Swenson at center, and Barton at forward are giving the varsity men in their positions all they can do to keep their jobs and will have to be reckoned with before the season is over.

The Knox five if they use the same system that they did last year, will lay a close, short pass game against Iowa tomorrow. Their team is made

EXPECT LEAGUE TO HANDLE OIL FIELD QUESTION

Amicable Disposition Is Anticipated As Turks Make Decision To Join

(By United News)

Lausanne, Dec. 14—Amicable disposition of the Mosul oil fields, the economic prize of the Near East, is anticipated following the decision of Turkey to join the league of nations. The oil question, more than any other, threatened to break down negotiations between the allies and Turks at the Near Eastern peace conference.

Great Britain refused to meet the demand of Ismet Pasha, Turkish representative, that she withdraw from Mosul and turn the territory over to the Moslem government. England's stand has been that she received the mandate for the area from the league of nations and could not turn it back to Turkey without the league's consent.

Now, in all probability, Turkey, when she is admitted to the league, will agree with England that the international body settle the Mosul dispute.

It was the threat of Lord Curzon, British foreign minister and spokesman for the allies, that it were folly not to agree to become a member of the league. Curzon has served notice on the Turk delegate that breaking up of the peace parley would result against Turkey if she did not join.

UNIVERSITY WILL DISTRIBUTE FILMS

Extension Division Publishes Catalogue of Pictures Now Ready

The extension division of the University has placed 203 reels of films at the disposal of the schools of Iowa, a great increase over that which the department was able to offer last year. A new catalogue, listing these films has just been sent out to 1,500 different institutions all over the state. The response already received indicates that there is an increasing demand for these films, and that in the future an even greater increase will have to be made to cope with this condition.

This year the department has secured its films from commercial agencies, from the United States government, from industrial organizations, and from the Red Cross. In its catalogue it has listed all the films as well as giving six and seven reel programs which represent a well balanced evening's entertainment. These include two educational films and a comedy for each. In addition to this, a set of song slides is sent. This latter is the result of an idea which started at the University here. The slides are those giving the words of popular community songs and are intended to be used while a change of films is being made.

In the 203 reels mentioned, 113 are rental pictures, and the remaining 90 may be secured for transportation charges only, so it is evident that lack of funds can hardly enter to deprive any school of the privilege of using these pictures.

The films listed are representative of seven distinctly different groups of enterprise. In the "conquest" films are those ranging from "Quo Vadis" to the "Star Spangled Banner." Quite as large a variety is presented in the list of dramatic pictures which include one about "Anne Boleyn" and "The Half Back." Comedies are those, as are shown as part of regular moving picture programs, such as "Wild Arctica" and "Love's Laboratory."

Perhaps the most comprehensive list is that of educational films. In it are found 28 pictures, each on some educational subject of interest to the students of today. Seven phases of health work are treated in as many films under the head of "Health." Eleven official war films are placed on the list.

The "industrial" films are twenty-three in number, and are all the treatment of such vital subjects as the manufacture of the largest single power producing unit in the world, a visit to the Pittsfield works of the General Electric company, and x-ray revelations.

Show Life Saving Tests Tomorrow Afternoon At Meet

From his "wet platform," the pool in the mens' gymnasium, Chauncey A. Hyatt, director of water first aid in the central division of the American Red Cross, will give demonstrations in life saving following the swimming meet tomorrow afternoon and as he demonstrates he will lecture. The demonstration will probably be scheduled for 4 o'clock and will be open to the public.

"Everyone a Swimmer" and "Every Swimmer a Life Saver" are mottoes of the life saving corps of the Red Cross. As a member of the corps Director Hyatt has visited many of the University towns in the ten states comprising the central district. He is a former swimming coach of the Universities of Wisconsin and Minnesota. His appearance in Iowa City was obtained through the Johnson county chapter of the Red Cross.

University women will be admitted to the demonstrations in life saving which Mr. Hyatt will give this afternoon at the womens' pool. The time set for today's demonstration is 4 o'clock.

BRITAIN WANTS HER MONEY BUT WILL NOT PAY

Desires To Collect Debts But Not To Pay Her Debts To America Says Law

By Ralph H. Turner (United News Staff Correspondent)

London, Dec. 14—Great Britain finds it impossible to forgive continental nations their debts and still pay the United States. Premier Bonar Law made this plain in his address to the House of Commons Thursday in which he outlined the reparations and debt policy of the country. "England," the prime minister said, "is unwilling to reduce debts and reparations due her unless that course means the final settlement of the reparations muddle."

Bonar Law also hinted that Britain looked with disfavor on the proposed invasion of the Ruhr Basin by the French. "I cannot look with equanimity on any action, the effort of which will not produce reparations but will make them more difficult to obtain and even impossible," the premier said.

Touching on the American debt, Premier Bonar Law said he did not want to criticize the United States. "I am one of those who believe the United States is nearest ourselves in ideas. America entered the war with no prospect or hope of gain but only to help obtain victory." He added that the allies were virtually exhausted when the United States entered the war in 1917.

AN INTELLECTUAL SOVIET

George Bernard Shaw has dire views concerning American education. In a letter printed recently in The New Student, an intercollegiate fortnightly paper published by The National Student Forum, Mr. Shaw expresses his contempt for our system of education which, he says, shackles the professors and leaves the students without any power of administration. He advises American students to form intellectual soviets and to establish a dictatorship of the learner if they would save their country.

"As far as I can gather," writes Mr. Shaw, "if the students in the American universities do not organize their own education, they will not get any. The professors are overworked schoolmasters, underpaid, and deprived of all liberty of speech and conscience. From them nothing can be expected. The governing bodies are under the thumbs of the plutocrats who pay the piper and call the tune. Englishmen who become professors in American universities rush back to England to enjoy the comparative freedom and enlightenment of Oxford, Cambridge and London, though these might have been thought unapproachable in their efficiency as extirpators of the human mind."

"Secondary education as imposed by colleges will wreck civilization; in fact it has already almost done so. The remedy is co-operative organization by the consumers; that is, by the students. If the American baker could give his customers what he liked instead of what they liked American bread would be as bad as American university education. In forming intellectual soviets and establishing the dictatorship of the learner, the American students may save their country if it is capable of being saved. If not, they will at least learn something and perhaps teach something in the ecstasy of demolition."

Mr. Shaw is mistaken in his assumption that American students are straining at the leash to wave the red flag. Before they demand a seat in the governing bodies of their respective universities they must first have a keen dislike for the bread now fed them and a desire to bake their own. Judging from our own institution most of them have never given education that much thought. In fact, as a body they are not even capable of managing their own, petty affairs.

THE BATTLE OF BRAINS

No doubt, like the taste for olives or the appreciation of literature, the liking for debate has to be cultivated. Most of us are argumentative enough, but we do not always reconcile argument and logic. That is debate. To the initiated, the pitting of brain against brain on the debating platform is a fascinating game. The mental give and take, the surprises, the strategy, all under intense stress, perhaps make even a stronger appeal than the cold beauty of flawless logic. Man, fortunately for his own happiness, is not a logical animal; still, however, the ability to follow mental acrobatics through the turns of a debate, to appreciate the logic worthy of argument, deserves cultivation.

It is sheer nonsense to assert that the logic of the debaters in the Iowa-Minnesota debate tonight is any criterion of the comparative mental standing of the two states, or even of the two universities. The attendance at the debate, however, does afford an index to the interest in mental contests among students. The question to be argued out is a live political one. The debaters have prepared their strongest cases. The only remaining factor for the success of the debate is for the students to take an attitude that will encourage the mental game between the gentlemen from Minnesota and the gentlemen from Iowa.

GOLF

The royal and ancient game of golf, as George Ade has so well pointed out, is coming to be nothing less than a national sport. The playing of golf is no longer confined to the centers of fashion, or to the centers of population, but has spread throughout the country until not only small towns but even villages have organized clubs. Mr. Ade predicts that ten years from now there will not be a municipality in the country which has passed the cross-roads stage without a golf course in its environs.

Another striking proof of the growing popularity of golf is the widespread enthusiasm with which the British professionals who tour the United States are greeted. So desirous are Americans to watch these men perform that touring this country bids fair to be as remunerative for English golfers as it has been for English authors.

Almost all the Big Ten universities with the exception of Iowa, if not all of them, have golf courses and golf teams as well. The University of Illinois has a nine-hole course south of the campus which is well patronized by both students and faculty. Although students at this University may not be aware of the fact, the Big Ten conference holds an annual tournament at which collegiate golf teams compete.

It would seem that there ought to be enough sentiment at the University of Iowa to justify the building of a nine-hole course for the benefit of students. It may be argued that there are not many students, comparatively speaking, who play golf, but even so, we think that the number who would play if they had a chance to learn is considerable. We are informed on good authority that if assurance can be had that the students want a golf course, steps will be taken toward arranging for one. Now is an opportune time to give expression to such sentiment if it actually exists.

One of the main criticisms of the present system of college athletics is that it greatly limits the number of students who actually participate and derive the physical benefits from playing. Golf is not open to this objection, for anyone in possession of normal faculties, regardless of size or physique, may enjoy a trip around the links.

CAMPUS SKETCHES—THE FLAPPER

The common or garden variety of flapper (puella volatillerosa) is the one most commonly encountered in the halls of our University. It is sometimes seen alone, occasionally roams about in company with others of its sex, but more often strolls around the campus clinging to a pusillanimous male of the same species.

It may be distinguished from other species principally by its brilliant protective coloring, loud chattering (especially when with other flappers), and violent perfume. Trick wearing apparel is not a dependable criterion, and too much reliance should not be placed upon it. Weird or unusual footwear does not necessarily indicate that the wearer is a flapper.

Much to the joy of contemporary religious publicists, this species is rapidly becoming extinct. It has been preyed upon to a great extent by the omnivorous slinker, which has taken possession of the most advantageous feeding grounds.

Looking About the World

BY WAY OF ADVENTURE

As the old saying goes, there's nothing new under the sun, yet there are still many variations of the old which help to keep romance in life and stir the imagination of the adventurer.

A story of fifteen months at sea in a ninety-eight foot motorboat—months fraught with hardships and dangers that made all give up hope of pushing through to safety, but, withal, months of thrilling adventures and interesting visits in strange, out-of-the-way corners of earth—was told Monday by the one woman and ten men who brought the Speejacks into New York Monday, completing a 35,000-mile voyage, the first around the world made by a motorboat.

The owner, A. Y. Gowen of Chicago, vice president of the Lehigh Portland Cement company, had sailed from Africa that he would arrive in New York at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. It was just 11:03 when the tiny boat docked at the New York Yacht Club station, at East Twenty-third street, at the end of the last leg—from Miami to New York.

The Speejacks looked like any of the trim little pleasure boats of her type that are seen in the waters about New York. There were no indications that she was completing one of the greatest feats of navigation history. Her owner and his young bride, the only woman on the trip, looked as if they had just stepped off Fifth avenue without bothering to change to yachting clothes. Only the deep tan of their faces gave any indication of their months of adventure.

"Blind luck," according to their leader, was all that got them through. There were times when they were bucking head winds far from port and put of paths traveled by ships with their gasoline supply running low. There were black nights in uncharted waters off rock coasts. There were days when they were afraid that they would have to put in to shores inhabited by cannibal tribes. There were other days when the little boat plunged through raging typhoons off the Chinese sea. But the Speejacks came through,

Mr. Gowen said, in as good condition as when they started and there was not an accident or a serious illness of the whole trip—another bit of luck, he said, considering that there wasn't a doctor on board.

"We were fools, I guess, to attempt such a trip in a boat like the Speejacks," he added. "I would never try it again. I don't believe there would be a chance in a hundred of coming through safely. But it was worth it."

CO-OPERATIVE STORE PAYS

The student co-operative store of Princeton has just paid annual dividends of ten per cent on purchases made during the fiscal year ending June 30. The sales amounted to about $350,000. The "co-op" store is one of the centers of campus life at Princeton. It contains among other supplies sporting goods, cigars, candy, school books, the latest fiction, jewelry, stationery and haberdashery. It was founded in 1905. Dividends were distributed among the 2,439 members of the co-operative society.

FRENCH STUDENTS HARD PRESSED

French students who show a disposition to embrace an artistic career and become painters or sculptors must be prepared to spend a sum of 200,000 francs during the years of study essential to obtaining sufficient perfection to earn their own living. This information is the result of careful inquiry carried out in Montparnasse and Montmartre student circles and art academies. A cable to the New York Times adds that "not only must the rise in prices of everyday necessities be reckoned with, but an almost fantastic augmentation in the cost of such essentials as oil paints, which, according to experts, amounts to more than 600 per cent since 1914. Certain cheaper makes which were popular among the poorer students before the war are not now obtainable altogether because dealers will not be bothered to supply them while they are sure of selling the more expensive kinds, providing bigger profits. Then there is the price of models, which has risen from a few francs per hour to twelve or fifteen. Studios, of course, can be rented by only the few rich students and foreigners profiting by the high exchange—that is to say, when studios can be found at all, for they are mostly in the hands of the "bourgeois," who use them for every other purpose than the one for which they were intended.

"Naturally, these abnormal conditions have caused untold suffering among those who, having already embraced an art career, are today loath to give it up, or those who, even if they desire to give it up, cannot, because the activities of the art student are not exactly such as fit one very well for a post as a wage earner elsewhere.

"Heroic means must often be resorted to in order to supply daily bread and sufficient money to pay for art courses in the various academies. One Montparnasse student is cited who periodically works for a month as coal heaver and during that period saves enough to live on for a couple of months, pay for his courses and buy colors and canvases. Another hauls a handcart several hours daily before attending school.

"It often has been written that the Paris bohemia since the war is less gay and irresponsible than before, but that is hardly surprising in view of these hardships, which were unknown in the old days."

UNRIVETING THE CHAINS

Go to, weep and howl. Shantung has been restored to China. It is a dark day for both the Boanerges boys, Johnson and Borah. Three years ago they were talking blithely about America's "guaranteeing the spoils of infamous imperialism" and "riveting the chains of tyranny on millions of human beings." Japan had promised to give Shantung back, but the senators knew better. Did anybody ever give anything back?

Well, Japan has given Shantung back. It took a good deal of argument and negotiation, of course, at the Washington conference; but there was no real pressure on Japan. —New York Times.

ORTHO CERAS GUARDS CENTRAL WALK FOR PERIOD OF TWENTY-FIVE YEARS

Have you ever seen old orthoceras who sits on the campus through storm and sunshine, in fall, spring, summer and winter? Do you know this faithful creature who has been around this University for over twenty-five years?

Orthoceras comes from a fine old family, being a first cousin to the pearly nautilus and a near relative to the cuttlefish, and he is entombed in the thirteenth block of the limestone sidewalk extending from the campus entrance on Clinton street to the Old Capitol building. He is shaped more or less like an ice cream cone, being more than three and one-half feet long and tapering from a thickness of two inches to a point.

To make it perfectly clear, orthoceras is a fossil and he lived between fifty and sixty million years ago. He swam about in a clear sea with crab-like creatures called trilobites and several varieties of old-fashioned fishes. Originally his shell measured approximately five feet in length. The housing proposition had no worries for Orthoceras, for his long shell was made up of a series of chambers and he, living in the largest end, carried it with him as he leisurely swam the seas. The end, surely swam the seas. The smaller end of the shell was filled with gases.

Neither did Orthoceras care for meat markets or grocery stores, for whenever he was hungry he consumed some of his smaller, less fortunate friends. It was later that his more brainy descendants took the trouble to coil their chambered shells and develop into the pearly nautilus of today.

To make a long story short, Orthoceras finally died of whatever was the current disease of that day and fell to the bottom of the sea along with rosey strings of seaweed and old fashioned fishes. These all became buried in the mud at the bottom of the ocean. Much later the whole conglomeration, including mud, fishes, seaweed and orthoceras, was turned into solid rock, which appeared at the surface of the earth near the prison at Joliet, Ill. Huge blocks were quarried out and sent to Iowa City to make sidewalks before cement became fashionable. This was twenty-five or thirty years ago.

Iowa Professors Attend Language Convention Soon

Several professors and instructors from the language departments of the University will attend the annual meeting of the central division of the Modern Language association, to be held under the auspices of the University of Chicago and Northwestern university at Chicago.

The following seven from the romance language department will attend: Prof. Stephen H. Bush, head of the department; Prof. Ralph E. House; Prof. Charles E. Young; Prof. Clarence E. Cousins; Olive K. Martin; and Mr. and Mrs. Adolphe J. Dickman. Professor House, Professor Bush and Professor Young are on the program. Professor Young will speak on "The Purpose and Organization of a Survey Course in French Literature."

From the German department, Prof. Charles Bundy Wilson, head of the department, and Prof. Edward H. Lauer will attend. Professor Lauer will present a paper on "Curriculum Changes to Meet Our Present Problems." Professor Wilson was secretary of the central division of the Modern Language association for ten years.

From the English department, Prof. Hardin Craig, head of the department, Prof. Bartholow V. Crawford, Prof. John H. Scott and Prof. Thomas A. Knott will attend. All four are on the program. Professor Craig will talk about "Outlines of the Sixteenth Century Latin Drama." Professor Scott will talk on "The Syllabic Basis of Rhythm." Professor Crawford will participate in a discussion of the French side of the romantic movement in modern literatures. Professor Knott will present a report on "The Development of Linguistic Consciousness in the American Student."

TITLES GETTING DIRT CHEAP IN ENGLISH HOUSE

Should One Say, "My Lord" in England 741 Men Might Raise An Eyebrow

London, Dec. 13—(United News)—If someone doesn't put a check to the growth of the English peerage, that noble class distinction may be threatened with downright commonness.

When the butler obsequiously announces "My Lord, the soup is growing cold," there are 741 men in the United Kingdom whose rank entitles them to lift an eyebrow in proper recognition of the titled designation.

Seven hundred and forty-one peers in Great Britain today! It's a startling reminder of the remarkable growth in the House of Lords. A century ago there were less than 400. When Queen Victoria mounted the throne the number had increased to 439. During the sixty-three years that Victoria reigned there were 152 new creations, an average of less than three a year. King Edward, during his nine years of rule, added thirty-one.

Upon the accession of the present King, twelve years ago, there were 623 peers—a goodly number, indeed—but since then 118 new noble lords have been created, an average of ten a year.

That in itself broke all records, but it remained for David Lloyd George and his political benchmen to realize to the full the possibilities of the peerage, and the creation thereof. Conferring peerages as reward for loyal and financially generous party duty was a practice which reached its height during the reign of Lloyd George.

During the six years of the Lloyd George regime, the average number of new peerages reached 15 a year, or, if the 25 elevations in rank are included, as high as 19. As in many other things, George had set a new mark for his successors to shoot at.

There are five classes of British peers—barons, viscounts, earls, marquises and dukes.

All of them are entitled to seats in the House of Lords, but if they all attempted to exercise that right, the noble lords would be enmeshed in such a traffic jam that the preservation of dignity would be well nigh impossible. The House of Lords has seats for only 300, so it is fortunate that those with sufficient interest in politics to claim their seats do not exceed that number.

The titles of peers commonly have a local connection, when the connecting proposition "of" is inserted, such as Lord Lee of Fareham, former head of the Admiralty, whose full title indicates the location of his county seat. Newly created peers may be "of" any place that they choose; so long as they do not choose a spot that another peer already has patented. Thus, there is the picturesque title, Admiral Earl Beatty of the North Sea, or Field Marshal Earl French of Ypres.

An American peerage could quite legitimately bring forth such titles as "Lord Ruth of the Polo Grounds," or "Lord Rockefeller of Tarrytown." Many commoners, when they are created peers discard their personal surnames and choose instead some euphonious word reminiscent of a favorite spot in England. Thus, Alfred Harmsworth became Viscount Northcliffe and the former F. E. Smith is now Earl Birkenhead.

GOVERNMENT TO ISSUE TRAVEL CERTIFICATES

The United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet corporation is offering special rates to all seniors who wish to round off their University courses by taking a trip abroad.

The United States government has devised a travel certificate which may be issued to any port reached by U. S. Government passenger ships for use at any time between January 1, 1923, and January 1, 1925. Ships will sail to Europe, the Orient, South America, and Hawaii. Rates for first minimum first class passage from Seattle are as follows: To Yokohama $300, to Kobe $311, to Shanghai $346, to Hongkong $375, and to Manila $375.

Commerce College To Publish Official Paper In February

According to Darwin M. Staley Cm4 of Perry, editor-in-chief of the journal of business, the official publication of the college of commerce, the first issue of that organ will appear the first week in February. Subscriptions are being taken at the present time and plans are being made for an extensive subscription campaign after the holidays. The price of the magazine will be thirty-five cents this year, and the staff is planning a bigger sheet than last year's.

Plans were made at the commerce club smoker to place copies of the journal of business in the hands of as many Iowa business men as possible. This will be accomplished by having every student in the college of commerce interview the business men in their home towns during the holiday recess and to sell them a year's subscription if possible. Loren Bane Cm4 of Pleasantville is circulation manager, and Robert A. Barker Cm3 of What Cheer is assistant circulation manager.

state high school extemporaneous speaking contest and the freshmen declamation. He is a keen thinker, with a pleasing delivery. Buel G. Beems, Zetagathian, captain of the team, owes his responsible position as the last speaker in the debate to his ability to analyze the debate as it progresses. The Iowa teams have been coached by Herbert C. Weller, instructor in the department of speech, who developed strong teams for the I-M-I and Iowa-Nebraska debates last year, his first year in the University.

Dean Henry C. Jones, of the college of law, will preside at the debate. An innovation this year will be a one minute interval between each constructive speech, and a five minute interval between the main speeches and rebuttal for the purpose of permitting a conference by each team as to the reply to their opponent's argument. The change should strengthen the rebuttal and insure a clash in the arguments. The judgeless open forum plan has been abandoned this year, and Prof. J. P. Ryan of Grinnell college will decide the winner.

During the seven years that the University of Iowa has debated with Minnesota in the annual I-M-I contest, two debates have been judgeless, three won by Iowa, and two won by Minnesota.

While the affirmative Iowa team is opposing Minnesota, the Iowa negative will be facing the Illinois debaters at Urbana, upholding the opposite side of the same question. The negative team, Paul C. Bucy A2 of Hubbard, Kenneth M. Dunlop L1 of Jefferson, and George O. Hurley L1 of Rolfe, accompanied by Prof. Glenn N. Merry, of the department of speech, arrived at Urbana last night. This afternoon they will practice in the Illinois auditorium in preparation for the debate tonight.
