Ask for Change of Justice for Leeper Hearing

The preliminary trial of Robert Leeper which was to open at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the office of E. A. Crossett, justice of the peace, will be held instead in the office of the next nearest justice, probably T. E. Murphy, at the same time.

The lawyers for the defence appeared before E. A. Crossett yesterday afternoon and appealed for a change of venue, stating that they believed Justice Crossett was prejudiced against the defendant. They asked that the case be changed to the office of the next nearest Justice. Justice Crossett will sign the necessary papers sometime this morning. As soon as the papers are signed, subpoenas will be issued by both sides for witnesses.

County Attorney, Edward L. O'Connor, former county attorney, Claude M. Miller, and Henry Walker will represent the state. Judge R. P. Howell, F. F. Messer, and Walter M. Davis are acting for the defendant. The state has two detectives and city has one investigating the case.

AVERAGE YEARLING IS A HUSKY CHAP

Physical Training Examinations Show That Smokers Have Most Lung Power

The average freshman taking physical training is nineteen years of age, weighs 143 pounds, and is 5 feet 8 inches tall. He can grip 96.8 pounds with his right hand and 89.2 pounds with the left hand. With his back he can lift 249.7 pounds, and 382.3 pounds with his back and legs. He has a chest expansion of 2.88 inches, and is capable of chining himself 6.1 times and making 4.0 dips on the parallel bars. These figures were compiled by the office of Ernest G. Schroeder, director of physical education, from the records of 517 freshman physical examinations given last October.

Other figures show that 35.8 per cent of the freshman men use tobacco in some form, mostly cigarettes. The smokers have a chest expansion of 3.06 inches as compared with 2.78 inches for non-smokers. However, the largest chest expansion belongs to a non-smoker. Men who are small in size have a larger chest expansion in proportion to their size than the larger men.

If there were men at both extremes of the measurements taken they would rank as follows:

	Largest	Smallest
Age	28 years	16 years
Weight	233 pounds	106.5 pounds
Height	6 ft. 2 1/2 in.	5 ft. 1-10 in.
Chest	6 in.	1 1/4 in.
Chin	13 times	0 times
Dip	15 times	0 times
Grip
Right hand	150 pounds	45 lbs.
Left hand	145 pounds	30 lbs.
Back	460 pounds	120 pounds
Back and Legs	750 pounds	175 lbs.

The most common defect found among the freshmen was flat feet. Other faults were round shoulders and spinal curvature.

Relatives Will Contest Terms of Alder Will

Relatives of the late Ira J. Alder yesterday announced that they would contest the will of the deceased. The contestants will file their objections with the clerk of court within the next five or six days.

The complete list of the relatives who will oppose the terms of the will is not known, but attorney Bert B. Welty of Nevada, Iowa is looking up the history of the family in order to ascertain the names of the beneficiaries.

The terms of the will provide for a sum of $10,000 to be set aside for Alder's relatives with the provision that in case the will be contested this sum should become a part of the residue of the estate.

The bulk of his property was willed to Iowa City in the form of a trust fund. The city will lose this property, which is believed to be something like $200,000, if the relatives are successful in contesting the will.

MANY KILLED WHEN BRIDGE WASHES AWAY

High Water Cause Loss of Life; Number On Bridge Is Not Known

Portland, Jan. 3.—According to a telephone message from Vancouver, Washington, the Fort Engineer declares that five automobiles were on the Kelso bridge when it collapsed into the Colitz river late Wednesday afternoon.

Kelso, Washington, Jan. 3.—Scores of persons may have lost their lives in the Colitz river when the Kelso bridge near here was washed away about 4:45 Wednesday afternoon, according to meagre early reports. Many automobiles and about 100 persons were on the bridge at the time it went out according to these reports.

At 6 o'clock no definite figures as to the probable loss of life had been received. All streams in this section have been greatly swollen by recent heavy rains and the high water is supposed to have weakened the foundations of the bridge which was about 700 feet long, of which 300 feet are of steel.

May Try Oxford Plan of Debate Here In Future

Prof. Glenn N. Merry, head of the department of speech, presided over the seventh annual convention of the national association of teachers of speech, which met December 27, 28, and 29 at New York University in Washington Square, New York City, in joint session with the eastern public speaking conference. The session marked the end of Professor Merry's term as president of the national association. His successor is H. B. Gough, of De Pauw university, who served as acting head of the department of speech at the University of Iowa during the summer session.

Three other members of the Iowa public speaking staff attended. They were Lee R. Norvelle, Herbert C. Weller and Vance M. Morton. Herbert C. Weller was appointed to the committee on resolutions.

A discussion of debating in a sectional meeting revealed a strong sentiment for the adoption of the English or Oxford plan of debating in place of that generally used. Under this plan, when two universities debate, the affirmative and negative teams consist of two men each. Each team is composed of one debater from each of the two schools. If the plan were adopted here for the annual Iowa-Illinois debate, for example, one Iowa and one Illinois debater would stand together on the affirmative against one Iowa and one Illinois debater on the negative. This would remove the factional prejudiced sentiment in the audience. The debate would be decided by the vote of the audience. This plan was followed the Oxford-Harvard and Oxford-Pennsylvania debates.

Turk Delegates Threaten War; Halt Conference

Lausanne, Jan. 3.—Minor Turkish delegates at the Near Eastern peace conference are freely threatening war in case the allies do not accede to Turkish demands. In all probability the parley will be at a standstill until the result of the allied premiers conference at Paris is known. Members of the allied delegations freely admit that they are marking time with their eyes on Paris.

BRITISH WILL NOT BOW TO FRENCH PLAN

Deadlock Causes England Embarrassment In Near Eastern Policy

London, Jan. 3.—The British government, under no circumstances will consent to French coercion of Germany, it has become known.

Official circles are unperturbed and apparently not surprised at the rejection by Poincare of the reparations plan offered by Premier Bonar Law at Paris Prime Ministers' conference. It is generally admitted that Bonar Law's plan is partially aimed at presenting businesslike views on reparations before the world, especially the United States.

The deadlock between Bonar Law and Poincare has caused much embarrassment to the British in their policy at the Lausanne Near Eastern peace conference. The threatened rupture of good relations between French and British comes at a time when the British need solid allied unity to force the Turks to accept capitulations and freedom of the straits.

Semi-official circles are inclined to minimize reports from the Near East that Turkish troops are being moved to strategic points in order to threaten the British hold on Mosul. It is believed that part of the movement is "bluff" and some ordinary manoeuvres.

"The Kemalists keep moving to prevent being frost bitten" one official laughingly commented. There is much interest in British circles in the situation on the Thracian front where a large force of Greeks, headed by General Plastiras, revolutionary head, are being concentrated.

It is intimated here that in case of a break at the Lausanne conference with a subsequent Turkish act of war, the Greeks whole forces are somewhat reorganized and would probably be able to hold the Chaktaldja line.

Wrestling Squad Training for Meet To Be Held Feb. 3

With the first wrestling meet not a month away Coach Mike Howard is working his proteges hard in order to get the mat squad in the best of condition for the meet with Minnesota at Minneapolis, on February 3. The squad is not in the best of shape, since several of the best prospects were sick before the holidays.

The middle-weight division at the present time is causing the coach much worry, since it seems as though James, star 158 pounder from last year's team, and Roberts, a prospect from last year's freshman team, will be unable to make the middle-weight limit. This will mean that Coach Howard will be forced to develop a man for that weight.

The workout last night consisted of jumping the rope, tossing the medicine ball, working on the rowing machine, and work on the mat. Comstock, a sophomore, and Jacobson, from last year's squad, are putting up a stiff fight for the 135 pound berth, both are good men and Iowa will be well represented in this class. Pfeffer, the little feather-weight from last year is showing up well, and much is expected of him this year.

The date for the tryouts has not as yet been set, but it is certain to be held within the next two or three weeks, in order to pick the team to represent the University when the Hawkeyes invade Minnesota on the third of February.

STUDENTS PLAN CHURCH SUNDAY

January 7 Will Be Observed As "Go To Church" Sunday

Sunday, the first in the new year has been designated as all university church Sunday by the university Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., and Iowa City ministerial association. A special effort is being made to get all the students of the university to attend some one of the Sunday morning church services in Iowa City churches. The services in each of the churches are being planned especially for the occasion.

The idea of an all university church day on the first day of the new year has been carried out successfully in several eastern schools. This is, however, the first Sunday of its kind at the University, but the plans are to make it an annual affair.

The committee in charge of the plans includes Agnella Gunn A4 of Sioux City representing the Y. W. C. A., William F. Goodell A4 of Des Moines representing the Y. M. C. A. and the ministerial association of Iowa City which includes all the student pastors.

The student body contrary to the general opinion makes up usually about 50 percent of the church audiences every Sunday morning. The figures showing the percentage of the audiences in the city churches who are students have just been given out. The following list includes the denomination of the church and the percentage of the congregation which are students:

- Methodist, 59 percent.
- Presbyterian, 33 percent.
- Congregational, 33 percent.
- Christian, 25 percent.
- German Lutheran, 33 percent.
- English Lutheran, 33 percent.
- Unitarian, 75 percent.
- Baptist, 31 percent.
- Episcopalian, 45 percent.
- Catholic, 33 percent.

The figures for the Methodist church are based on actual count for ten Sundays. Those of the other churches are based on careful estimates made by the student pastors.

Nutting Exhibits Living Sphenodon Before Zoologists

Prof. C. C. Nutting, head of the zoological department, delivered an address on the Fiji-New Zealand expedition before a combined meeting of Section F (zoologists section) of the American Association of Advanced Science and American Society of Zoologists. Thousands of allied societies from all over the United States met in the buildings of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Cambridge.

Professor Nutting took with him a living sphenodon for exhibition purposes, by request. Professor Nutting stopped at Erie, Penn., on his return trip to give a lecture before a church audience on the expedition.

HAWKS LOSE TO NOTRE DAME BY SINGLE COUNTER

Game Seasawed From Beginning To End; Iowa Failed On Free Throws

Making only one free throw out of seven tries in the second half, the Iowa basketball team lost its first game last night to Notre Dame's fast team by a score of 24 to 23.

At the end of the first half the Hawkeyes left the floor with a three point lead, due mainly to the good shooting of Janse and Burgitt. Notre Dame came back strong and went ahead with two baskets, one being made on practically the first tipup. Iowa took the lead with a basket, but a Notre Dame free throw again tied the score.

Shortly afterwards, the lone Iowa free throw put the Hawkeyes in the lead again, but Kizer of Notre Dame again tied the score with a free toss. The game saw-sawed back and forth, with Funk and Janse missing many opportunities to score by the free throw route. Enright of Notre Dame sank a long shot from near the center of the floor, and Kizer made another free throw, putting Notre Dame in the lead with 24 points.

With only two minutes left to play, Notre Dame stalled whenever the ball came into its possession, and managed to stave off Iowa's frantic efforts to score.

The direct cause of the loss of the game can be attributed to the failure of the Hawkeye foul throwers to perform up to standard. Iowa had eleven chances to score by free throws and only made three of the opportunities good. Notre Dame, on the other hand, made six points in this manner.

Iowa's teamwork was also far below that shown in the games with Knox and Cornell. The Hawkeyes failed to work the ball down the floor with the short pass, and seemed to depend upon long passes. They also took many long shots when it was possible to pass to another man closer to the basket. There were four or five times when Iowa had the ball and there was only one Notre Dame man against two or three Hawkeyes.

Instead of passing, however, the man with the ball either held it until the Notre Dame defense had time to form, or took a long shot.

Notre Dame seemed to be in much better condition in the second half than the Hawkeyes. Several of Iowa's players could hardly stand during the last few minutes of the second period. This is probably due to the fact that Notre Dame has played seven games to Iowa's three.

Last night's loss, while regrettable, has no effect upon Iowa's conference standing. It was the only hard game that three of the men had ever played in, and should put the players in good shape for the game with Chicago next Saturday. Iowa can go ahead in the conference with the expectation of finishing well to the front.

"Mythical and Unauthentic," Wilson's Opinion of Sarah Bernhardt Story

Rochester, Iowa, claims Sarah Bernhardt, the world's famous actress, and believes that she will one day acknowledge her relationship, a story in the Des Moines Register for November 19 states. About ten years ago, Professor Charles Bundy Wilson, head of the German department, investigated the situation by actually visiting the supposed relatives of Sarah Bernhardt. After talking with these relatives, as they claim to be, and old inhabitants around the town who truly believe that the famous actress once lived there, Professor Wilson concluded that however possible the story may be, it was mythical and unauthentic.

Can Find No Proof

"It is simply a firmly established tradition. The people claiming relationship have very convincing arguments. But it is only a myth, a tradition. The missing link lies in the fact that no letters nor documents exist to prove that Sarah Bernhardt ever acknowledged herself as Sarah King," Professor Wilson told an Iowan reporter.

The story, as told by the relatives in Rochester, the Finefields, is that Sarah King, daughter of John and Mary King, ran away from home one day because she wanted to go on the stage and her relatives objected. The girl clerked in a Muscatine millinery store for a while. When opportunity came to join a company playing "Uncle Tom's Cabin," Sarah Bernhardt took it. Her family considered this very wicked and consequently disowned her. In this way, according to the story, the actress began her career.

At one time, Rochester residents assert, Sarah Bernhardt, carefully disguised, visited the grave of her mother in the local cemetery.

Relatives' Efforts Fail

Upon further investigation, Professor Wilson found in the "Memoirs" of Sarah Bernhardt published in the Strand magazine for 1904-5 that she herself claims Holland as her native country. Statements concerning her parentage are few and indefinite.

Relatives have attempted on various occasions to force an acknowledgment of her true identity from the actress but all such efforts failed. The question remains unanswered.

Sarah Bernhardt, who celebrated her seventy-seventh birthday in Paris in October, will never again appear on the stage because of ill health, according to recent reports.

200 PHYSICIANS TO MEET FOR CLINIC

Current Medical Practice Will Be Demonstrated Here January 16-17

Over 200 Iowa physicians are expected to attend the twelfth annual clinic of the college of medicine at the University of Iowa January 16 and 17. The date of the meeting is earlier than it has been in the past.

Because the University's facilities for both undergraduate study and research in medicine are equal to this country's best, a standard tantamount to the best in the world, this clinic has become a large event among the medical fraternity. Particular interest has been aroused in the college of medicine because of its impending expansion dependent upon the acceptance of the Rockefeller gift of $2,250,000.

All branches of current medical practice will be demonstrated and explained in clinics and lectures in the various amphitheatres and operating rooms of the college. Professor John Whitridge Williams, Baltimore, Md., will give an address.

Others who will appear on the program, all from the University of Iowa, are Dr. L. W. Dean, dean of the college of medicine, Dr. C. J. Rowan, Dr. H. L. Beye, Dr. Clarence Van Epps, Dr. W. F. Boiler, Dr. Arthur Steindler, Dr. J. B. Kessler, Dr. A. H. Byfield, Dr. F. H. Falls, Dr. R. A. Fenton, Dr. C. C. Bunch, Dr. C. P. Howard, Dr. F. J. Rohner, Dr. A. C. Davis, Dr. W. E. Gatewood, Dr. N. G. Alcock, Dr. S. T. Otton and staff. Walter A. Jessup, president of the University, will address the visiting physicians at a smoker on the evening of January 16.

Calendar In Office of President Lists All Social Events

The president's office is keeping a complete calendar of the dates of all university functions and events for the year 1923. This calendar includes the dates of conventions, lectures, concerts, social functions, and all other events of interest to the university faculty and students.

No such calendar has been kept in the past but the necessity of having one has been made apparent by the recent conflicts in dates of important meetings. The president's office urges the students to co-operate by conferring with that office when fixing dates for such events and by reporting the fixed date. Thus they can learn the most opportune date for the event, prevent conflicts and provide a complete and useful calendar.

Albino Form of White Squirrel In Museum Now

A white squirrel has been presented to the University museum by Dr. Lee W. Dean, dean of the college of medicine. The squirrel was killed by Dr. Wilbur J. Teeters, dean of the college of pharmacy, who presented it to Doctor Dean, who in turn gave it to the museum.

The squirrel is a pure white with pink eyes. It is not a distinct species but is an albino form of the fox squirrel, the white color being due to the absence of pigment.

IOWA SCHEDULES FOUR TANK MEETS

Northwestern, Illinois, Chicago and Minnesota Swim In Conference Contests

Iowa is to have four interconference swimming meets this year. This will be the hardest schedule that the Iowa swimming team has ever had. Last year the team had only three meets. All the teams that Iowa will meet this year rated high in the conference last year and are expected to develop good teams this season.

Besides the conference meets there will be an A. A. U. meet held here on February 1. Of the conference meets two will be held here. The two home meets are Northwestern on February 10 and Illinois on February 17. The other two meets are Chicago at Chicago on February 23 and Minnesota on March 9. The last meet will be the conference meet at Chicago on March 15. This makes six meets that Iowa will take part in during the season.

The swimming team suffered its first loss when it was reported that Goltman would be unable to swim this year on account of sickness. Goltman was a varsity swimmer of last year. He swam on the relay team and also in the 220 yard easy style.

Coach Armbruster has issued a call for more candidates in all the events. He feels that there are a number of men in the University who are good swimmers but do not come out for the team.

"So many men do not know how well they can swim until they give themselves a fair trial in competition," said Armbruster.

CHANGE VAUDEVILLE DATE

The date of presentation of the W. A. A. vaudeville has been changed from February 15 and 16 to February 13 and 14, because the Octave Thanet and Philomathean play will be given Feb. 15 and 16. The vaudeville will be given at the Englert theatre.

Frosh Track Men To Prepare for Telegraphic Meet

Coach George T. Bresnahan issues a call to all freshman track candidates to report next Tuesday, January 9, at the new armory for work on the indoor track. This early call of the freshmen is a result of the arrangement of a telegraphic dual meet with the University of Wisconsin freshmen on Friday afternoon, February 23, at four o'clock.

In these telegraphic dual meets each freshman team performs on its own track. Times and distances for the first three places are taken and compared with the opponents' marks which are made at the same time. The best marks are arranged in first, second and third places and the points which decide the outcome of the meet are decided from this comparison.

The athletic department is also negotiating for a freshman telegraphic meet with the University of Illinois first year men. This meet, if carded, will probably come the first part of March.

Bresnahan Calls for Indoor Track Men Next Monday

With the first indoor meet scheduled with Wisconsin on February 24, the call for indoor track men has been issued by Coach George T. Bresnahan on Monday, January 18, at 4:30 o'clock in room 201 on the second floor of the men's gymnasium.

However, the coach urges that all candidates begin immediately to condition themselves for the actual work on the indoor track in the new armory, Tuesday, January 9. This week the men will meet at 4:15 every day in the north room of the gymnasium for work in calisthenics.

Lockers will be set up in the new armory and the men will keep their equipment in these instead of carrying it back and forth with them from the gymnasium on this side of the river as they did last winter. The track, which at the present time is very hard, will be in good shape for the first practice on Tuesday, January 9.

Offer Basketball and Swimming Class for W. A. A. Points

Women who hope to earn W. A. A. points by swimming or playing basketball must enter the classes now, in order to receive credit. Basketball practice for freshmen and junior women is held on Monday and Wednesday at 5 o'clock and sophomore and senior women practice on Tuesday and Thursday at 5 o'clock.

The intermediate swimming class is held from 4 to 4:30 on Tuesday and the advanced class from 4:30 to 5 on the same day. The two beginning classes are held on Thursday from 4 to 4:30 and from 4:30 to 5. Recreational classes are held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 4:30 to 5:30, on Tuesday and Thursday from 5 to 5:30 and on Saturday morning from 10 to 11.

Reduced Freshman Squad To Practice Basketball Daily

The freshman basketball squad, recently reduced in numbers, worked out yesterday afternoon in the new armory.

From the ninety men who have been trying out for the freshman squad, only twenty-two survived the first cut. These men have been selected because of their size and ability as shown in practice. Another cut will be made in a few weeks.

From now on the freshmen will practice practically every day. Over half of their workouts will be with the varsity team. Coach Jenkins has been teaching his men the same style of play as the first team uses, and the yearlings will probably give the regulars stiff practice. Much time is being taken in drilling the candidates in fake passes, short body passes, pivoting, and basket-shooting.

Seventeen of the twenty-two left on the squad reported last night for light workout. This is the first call since the holidays and the men did not scrimmage. Practice will be at the new armory this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

PLAY SECOND ENGAGEMENT

Al Gabel's orchestra, which has been engaged to play for the Military Ball on January 12, will play at Varsity tomorrow and Saturday. The company includes seven musicians with Hod Williams tenor soloist, and Elmer Baumhardt director. The orchestra played here several weeks ago.

1853—1923 Seventy Years of Progress

Since 1853 this jewelry store has been in operation, offering its services to the people of this community.

We have always experienced a sturdy consistent growth—but in no year has the increase been so marked as in the twelve months just past.

We attribute this year's good business in a measure to the new fixtures installed during the summer months which enables us to display our stocks in an inviting manner. But more important than handsome fixtures is the good will of the students and town people—a heritage which this store has always enjoyed.

We wish at this time to express our appreciation for past favors.

May all enjoy a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Business throughout the country has been increasing within the last year. Manufacturers and Retailers have enjoyed a most gratifying business. There is no just reason for idle hours anywhere. Opportunities are knocking all the time.

As To Our Own Enterprise

We are glad to say our own business has been most gratifying. Although our store has only been in operation since Nov. 10th, yet in spite of this fact we have done a very nice volume of business during the seven weeks of operation. In fact, our business was far beyond our expectations.

We wish to take this means to thank our kind friends and patrons for their liberal support and the confidence bestowed upon us and our merchandise. We shall strive to merit this confidence.

The presidents of all organizations on the campus will be invited to the dinner. The invitations will be issued by the secretary of the University of Iowa association, Prof. F. C. Ensign.

Price Basis In Drugs Changed During Year

By Walter B. Brown (United News Staff Correspondent) It was not until well into the year that there was any definite movement in the general drug and chemical markets. This gave indications of a higher price basis. Immediately following the passage of the tariff bill, advances were sharp and the principal moves were confined to the miscellaneous drug group. These include iodides, mercurials, quicksilver, bismuth metal and the salts, the entire alcohol group, citric acid and the citrates, salicylates and a number of minor commodities. While the higher tariff rates were not entirely responsible, they certainly were the main influence, for raw materials promptly moved up and the producing costs naturally followed. The closing of the year will undoubtedly find the drug market at the high. Technically a strong position exists and for the first time in two years a new season will be entered producers holding the upper hand. Resale competition has been reduced to a minimum and many consumers are carrying just enough material to see them through for the time being.

COTTON AND WOOLEN SALES SATISFACTORY

By Walter B. Brown (United News Staff Correspondent) Generally speaking the past year has been more satisfactory to manufacturers of cotton and of woolen knitted underwear and outerwear than 1921. As in other textiles, mills, especially those offering lines for forward delivery at rather low opening prices were forced subsequently to make sharp advances owing to the rise in cotton and wool. Jobbers bought knitted underwear so sparingly that they found themselves short of supplies when seasonal demand materialized, notably during the past autumn. Profiting by that experience they have purchased more liberally for the next Spring season. Most mills are comfortably sold ahead for light weight underwear and trade appears to be developing satisfactorily for the Fall of 1923 heavyweight season at much higher prices than prevailed for the past season's merchandise. Sweaters and other knitted outerwear lines have also been well patronized for next year's delivery.

Tryouts for the French play will be held January 4 in room 119, liberal arts building, between 4 and 6 o'clock. The play to be given is "Le Voyage de Monsieur Perichon." All interested will please appear prepared to read a three minute selection from the play. The University chorus will not rehearse until next week. P. G. Clapp.

STUPIDITY PLUS

Of all the editorials which have been written on the return of Fatty Arbuckle to the screen, none has struck at the root of question quite so well as one appearing in a recent issue of the New York World, under the caption "Not So Immoral As Stupid." The editorial follows:

"It is of no great importance to anybody that Fatty Arbuckle should return to the screen with the approval of Will Hays. If there were an overwhelming popular demand for Arbuckle he could return without anybody's consent; if the public doesn't want him, no amount of official blessing will make it profitable for him to come back.

"But the whole question of the morality of the films and of actors for the films has been overemphasized while a more essential problem receives scant attention. The real trouble with moving pictures is that they are vulgar and stupid. It is a more serious charge against Roscoe Arbuckle that he added to that stupidity than that he gave an unfortunate drinking party. He is of the old and ordinary school of pie-throwing and horse-play. If he were a Charlie Chaplin the case would be different, but he is only a fat man who tried to be crudely funny and succeeded with audiences that were ready to laugh at anything.

"Perhaps he would succeed again, for the average screen production has not changed much since his enforced retirement. The same old hokum, the same lumbering plots, the same dull, made-to-order situations and flat sub-titles, the same atmosphere of second-hand and fifth-rate which hung over the cinema in its infancy all cling to it in 1923. There are a few exceptions, but Mr. Arbuckle would not add to them. He would rather add to the prevailing impression that what is the matter with the films is not so much lack of morals as lack of brains."

In spite of this prevailing impression the movie theaters continue to be popular enough to fill their seats and their coffers. Just why, no one has yet been able to say. One explanation that has been offered with a fair degree of plausibility is that everyone in the course of his life craves a certain amount of romance. If he is unable to satisfy this desire through the customary channels, he is forced to rely on artificial means and the movies with their hair-breadth escapes and thrilling romances offer the best in the way of manufactured thrills.

Since the majority of people live a rather drab existence it is unlikely that the movies will soon drop their sensationalism for a higher type of play. As long as the plane of intelligence remains at its present height, it is extremely unlikely that progress will be made in this direction. The fact that we now see on the screens the same ready made, rubber stamp plots and the same kind of acting that we did a few years back when movies were first presented to the public would indicate that our tastes have not developed through years of training or else that film producers have failed to take cognizance of the change.

TAKING PAINS

The fundamental difference between the good student and the poor student, between a person successful in his chosen line and one unsuccessful, has often been the subject of discussion. Indifferent students are prone to set down the good record of another to natural ability. "He's just naturally bright," is the common remark. No doubt there is something in this theory, but it is far less of an explanation than is usually supposed. Conclusive experiments prove that there is actually very little difference in native intelligence, not only between people of the same race, but even people of different races.

How then, are we to explain the differences that undoubtedly exist? They are due, in the main, to varying degrees of industry, of application, of taking pains. Assume that two men decide to enter upon similar activities; which will become the more expert, the more proficient? Beyond a doubt the man who takes the more pains with his work—the one who is not content to leave what he is doing until he is convinced that he can not improve it.

The prime cause of mediocre work is not lack of ability, but a disposition to say, "Oh, I guess that's good enough," and let it go at that. It is often the case that a person without advantages of heredity or environment surpasses one who has these advantages simply through painstaking perseverance.

If you would create a fine piece of work, of whatever kind, there can be no such thing as taking too much pains—the nearest you may attain to perfection will be none too close. "Infinite capacity for taking pains" means genius; more than average capacity cannot help but mean better than average work.

AN EXPLANATION

"Sometimes," complains a reader, "I read the whole column and don't see anything funny." We have no doubt that this is true. Perhaps we should explain that there are two kinds of paragraphs in this column which are not funny:

1. Those which we intend to be funny, but aren't.
2. Those which we don't intend to be funny. This classification has one great advantage—it casts absolutely no reflections on the mental alertness of the reader; the column conductor assumes all responsibility.

The course we once took in economics had at least one effect—it made us sensitive about the continual misuse of the terms "price" and "value." And now whenever we see an advt. which alleges, "Regular value, $5," we have an involuntary sigh.

We have added another category to our list of persons who should be socially ostracized: Movie devotees who inhale popcorn and peanuts during performances. If you happen to be sitting near one, you can't hear the orchestra.

NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS

Every year when January 1 comes around we feel that we ought to make some resolutions, and sometimes (but not often) we do so. The other day we drew up the following tentative list:

- Seventeen hereby resolves not to print any jokes about—
- Toreador trousers.
  - Trick haircuts.
  - Women's fashions.
  - Prohibition.
  - Petting.
  - Tea spaniels.

Oh yes, we forgot to mention that we decided not to adopt the resolutions after all. If we did, you see, there couldn't be any column.

"I insure you against the fire that burns in woman's eyes," advertises our home town insurance agent. We'll remember that the next time we feel ourself slipping.

To Play "Good Sport" In Abiding By Decision of International Court

By Raymond Clapper

(United News Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Jan. 4—While the European nations are seeking to wriggle out of treaty obligations and payment of war debts, President Harding has attempted to set a wholesome example of national conduct by making it known that the United States will comply with an adverse international arbitration involving 12 million dollars, "like a good sport". This decision was handed down by an arbitration court at the Hague in settlement of claims made by the Norwegian government in ships seized by the United States during the war. Norway asks 18 million dollars compensation. The United States offered 4 million dollars. The board decided the United States should pay 12 million. This government thinks the figure is too high but a report that the United States might refuse to pay the sum brought an emphatic denial from the official White House spokesman Tuesday.

Will Be "Good Sport"

"This administration is going to be a good sport, Harding's spokesman said. "When we enter into an arbitration proceeding we are going to take the medicine. You cannot agree to arbitrate and then kick over the bucket."

The White House decision is construed as a timely hint to all nations that adherence to obligations would help in the adjustment of world affairs.

The matter of collecting the 10 billion dollars loaned to the allies becomes acute with the arrival of the British debt funding mission Wednesday.

Raised By Reparation Proposals

This debt reduction question has been indirectly raised in connection with British reparation proposals placed before the allied prime ministers in London. Britain suggests mutual cancellation of Franco-British, Italo-British and Franco-Italo war debts thereby linking the debt closely with the reparations settlement. This government has tried to keep the two questions separated.

The British proposal at Paris however will make it possible for the British mission to propose adjustment of American-allied debts as part of the general scheme of European rehabilitation commission.

SCHLESINGER READS PAPER

Arthur M. Schlesinger, head of the history department, attended a meeting of the American Historical association at New Haven, Conn., which was held during the vacation. He was appointed to represent the association at a joint commission for the social studies, and also a member of the committee on history teaching in the schools.

Professor Schlesinger gave a paper on "The Content of the General College Course in United States History."

Applications Will Be Received for Amherst Fellowship

The committee in charge of the Amherst memorial fellowship for the promotion of social, economic and political institutions announces that applications will be received for appointments to Amherst memorial fellowship for a term beginning September 1, 1923.

The purpose of these fellowships is expressed in the deed of the gift, quoted as follows: "Realizing the need for better understanding and more complete adjustment between man and existing social, economic and political institutions, it is my desire to establish a fellowship for a study of the principles underlying these human relationship."

To be eligible for appointment to this fellowship, a candidate should be a college or university graduate, though not of necessity a recent graduate, and a man of sound health. He should have given evidence of marked mental ability in some branch of the social sciences—economics, politics and history—and have given promise of original contributions to his particular field of study.

The initial appointment will be made for a period of not more than two years.

Each fellow is to follow a plan of study formulated by him and approved by the committee in charge of the fellowships. He may reside during the period of his fellowship at any desired place approved by the committee in charge, though "it is earnestly desired that at least half of his appointment shall be spent in Europe."

The committee in charge will consider only those who formally apply for appointment, and applications will be received until December 15, 1922. The fellowship carries with it a stipend of $2,000 a year.

No Delinquency Reports Posted On Board Now

The method of notifying women of delinquents in their work has been changed from posting the list on the bulletin board in the hall of liberal arts to sending the notices out through the mail to the women living in private homes in town. The matrons of Currier hall and its annexes will receive the list of delinquents living there from the dean of women's office, and they will notify the women personally.

The sororities will be notified through their presidents as has always been the custom.

"We are doing this to avoid the publicity which is inevitable with the posting of the names on the bulletin board," Miss Louise Gray, assistant to the dean of women, said.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE MAY BREAK AWAY

Expect Split To Result From Wrangle Over Reparations Problem

By Hudson Hawley
(United News Staff Correspondent)
Paris, Jan. 3.—Great Britain and France stand at the parting of the ways. The allied premiers conference adjourned until Thursday after Bonar Law and Premier Poincare wrangled all day over the settlement of the German reparations problem.

The attitudes of the two powers were squarely opposed at adjournment and each government announced the impossibility of backing down from its position, France demanding drastic action toward the former enemy country and Great Britain advocating leniency.

Unless the unforeseen happens and the two nations by some means or other are able to effect a compromise plan, a break in the entente, the bounds of which were strengthened by fighting for a common cause during the war, is certain to come.

Premier Poincare sharply criticized the British plan which would reduce the indemnity to 50 billion gold marks and grant a four year moratorium, and Premier Bonar Law flayed the project of the French which suggests a two year moratorium, no cut in reparations, and productive guarantees.

Wednesday's session only served to accentuate the difference between Britain and France and gave rise to predictions that only a disagreement was possible.

Bonar Law, who outlined the British objections to the French proposal, declared it was his idea that German credit must be restored. The Poincare plan, Bonar Law declared, would ruin Germany which is already nearing an industrial collapse and would precipitate a crash.

"The whole question," stated the British foreign minister, "is whether the allies are willing to act as executors of Germany now and get a little or run the chance of not getting anything later."

Poincare, in a two hour and a half speech to the premiers, voiced vigorous opposition to the plan set forth by Bonar Law. Armed with a firm supporting vote of the French council of ministers granted earlier in the day, stated that the project threatened the existence of the reparations commission, substituting a foreign committee in its place. This statement referred to Bonar Law's suggestion that representatives of allied powers, the United States and one neutral nation form a German finance commission whose chairman would be the German finance minister.

This commission would perform the functions now allotted to the reparations commission, the president of which is now a Frenchman. The French premier then flayed the proposal that Germany be granted a four year moratorium, without being forced to give guarantees that she would pay her obligation at the end of that period.

"If the four year moratorium were granted," the French leader asks, "what would oblige Germany to pay at its expiration?"

French experts previously made it known that France could not accept the British plan as a basis of discussion, because it annuls the letter and spirit of the Versailles treaty.

It developed that France had the support of Italy and Belgium to the extent that both agreed that the British plan was not acceptable.

Raw Materials Advance To High Levels In Year

By Walter B. Brown
(United News Staff Correspondent)
Steady and at times sensational advances of all raw materials—cotton, wool and silk—to abnormally high levels was the controlling factor which forced constant upward price revisions in all textiles, woven and knitted from such raw materials. During the greater part of the year manufacturers experienced great difficulty in getting their prices up to levels based on actual replacement costs. Owing to stubborn resistance on the part of buyers, sellers often found it hard to move goods even at a slight advance.

Producers of cotton goods both unfinished (print cloths and gray goods) as well as of finished fabrics operated with extreme caution, refusing to sell far ahead at any time, pending developments in raw cotton. Purchasers also were ultra conservative until within the last few months buying only as their immediate requirements dictated. The only exceptions were lines opened for future delivery and which always have to be contracted for in advance.

Surplus stocks of all textiles have gone steadily into consumption and the close of the year finds few if any burdensome accumulations in any quarter of the primary textile markets. Stocks in the hands of jobbers are also depleted or are badly broken. There are in fact many instances of actual scarcity in cottons, wools, worsteds and certain lines of silk piece good available for immediate delivery, particularly as to seasonal merchandise for current winter use, notably underwear.

Print cloths and gray goods were steadily marked up by the mills during the year following the advance in raw cotton and all finished cottons were steadily advanced in an effort to keep pace with the rapidly rising tendency of cloths, but as already indicated progress in that direction was slow.

The New England strike which began in February following a 20 per cent reduction in wages made to meet the competition of the Southern mills which had previously made a more extensive cut in wages, continued until autumn when the Eastern mills capitulated by restoring the wage. It had the effect of increasing the production cost already high because of the advance in raw material. The loss in production as a result of the strike was estimated at more than 400,000,000 yards. Prices which these Eastern mills had named on the basis of the proposed wage cut had to be marked up sharply.

SAY LOVE JUDGED BY NEW PENDANTS

The Longer the Pendant the Greater the Love Say Modern Romeos

(By United News)
Chicago, Jan. 2.—Husband hunting girls may not believe in signs, unless they be grey hairs and crow's-feet but the trade in Chinese horn nut pendants is booming.

The sharper the point on the nut, the longer the beau it brings will stick. What does it matter if the wearer looks like the favorite of a matador or a "killer" at the stockyards, when the horn shaped charm dangles from her neck at the end of a young hawser which, in turn is emblematic of the attachment-to-be.

This is the legend that gives to the Chinese horn nut its magical powers and to its Chicago wearers renewed hope.

Thousands of years ago in southern China a great drought came over the country and killed off most of the husbands and candidates for that office. So the women held a confab with the Sacred Cow, praying thereto for three days and nights. On the third night rain fell and the Sacred Cow made a speech from a mountain top. She said in part:

"The food will be in the shape of nuts. Those who are not greedy in eating all the nuts they gather, may acquire a husband by wearing for a period of six months one of the nuts as a pendant."

The part of the legend that the girls don't seem to get is the passage where they are advised to save some of their money and to go easy when the intended victim offers a free meal, according to Chicago's "shieks."
