HAWKEYE GROUP PHOTOS TAKEN AT ANY STUDIO

Group pictures of the various organizations for the 1924 Hawkeye may be taken at any of the local studios. The staff and photographers desire that some responsible person be in charge of each group. Some of the fraternities and literary societies have already made reservations for sittings. All reservations must be made by January 25. At the time of the sitting information blanks will be filled out. The women's pan-hellenic council will soon decide whether the sororities will contribute individual or group pictures.

U. S. DESPAIRS OF RIGHTING EUROPE

White House Pessimistic Over Outcome of Parley On Reparations

By Raymond Clapper (United News Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Jan. 5—Only a plea for help from the allies will deter this government from returning at once into its shell of isolation.

If the allies want the United States to use its good offices at this critical time they will have to come out and ask it. Pessimism hung heavy over the White House and the state department as cables from Europe came painting peaceable the hopeless state of affairs there. Officials here are frankly discouraged at the refusal of European governments to consider proposals holding out hope of settlement.

With French soldiers filling their cartridge belts for the invasion of the Ruhr this government sees little hope of France stopping to consider any deliberate and calm method of adjustment. However, certain developments Friday indicated that the United States is making a last underground effort to bring about settlement. It is likely that Hughes has brought some new pressure on France to induce her to hold up her threatened action against Germany and consent to investigation by an international commission.

Students To Give Talks for "Go-to-Church" Movement

In conjunction with the "Go-to-Church" movement which is planned for Sunday, groups of minute men and women will make hurry-up calls at all fraternity and sorority houses tonight. Talks of a minute's duration, urging full attendance Sunday, will be made at each stop. The campaigners will be carried about in student cars which are to be donated for the occasion. Carrier hall and the Quadrangle will be showered with tags which will advocate the movement.

Fourteen students will comprise the group. They are: Agnella Gunn A4 of Sioux City; Louise Jerrell A4 of Oskaloosa; Betty Ensign A3 of Iowa City; Gladys Taggart A4 of Spencer; Ailine Barger A1 of Spirit Lake; Maudine Shoemith A3 of Guthrie Center; Roland Travers A3 of Champion, Nebraska; Russel Lamson L1 of Waterloo; Gerhardt B. Noll A4 of Waukon; Roscoe Nash A4 of Tipton; Carl B. Kriener A4 of Ottumwa; Craven Shuttleworth L3 of Sibley; William Goodell A4 of Des Moines and Edward G. Howery A2 of Waterloo.

FALLS SPEAKS IN DAVENPORT

Prof. Frederick H. Falls of the medical college spoke last night at the Times auditorium in Davenport on the Shepherd-Towner bill in its relation to the department of obstetrics of the University.

STEINER WILL SPEAK AT NEXT VESPER SERVICE

Noted Sociologist Talks On "The Making of a Great Race"

Prof. Edward A. Steiner, noted sociologist, of Grinnell, will speak at the next University vesper service, which will be held Sunday afternoon, January 14, at 4 o'clock at natural science auditorium. Professor Steiner's subject will be "The Making of a Great Race." Music for the vesper service will be by the the vesper choir, which is made up of the men's and women's glee clubs of the University.

Professor Steiner, who has appeared here before, is well known through out the country as lecturer and author. His own field of research is in immigration. Among many books that he has written, some well known works of Professor Steiner are "On the Trail of the Immigrant," and "The Immigrant Tide."

Although he holds a position at Grinnell college, where he gives a course in applied Christianity, Professor Steiner spends approximately half of each year, lecturing. According to Professor George T. W. Patrick, professor of physiology and psychology in the University, Professor Steiner is a very delightful speaker and the people of Iowa City are most fortunate in having the opportunity to hear him speak.

REED OFFERS WAY TO SETTLE DEBTS

Asks Great Britain and France To Pay War Bill With Island Possessions

By Clayton Whitehill (United News Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Jan. 5—The American debt funding commission may now meet the British mission somewhat easier in mind, because the several members have received considerable inside information from Ambassador George Harvey. Throughout Friday Senator Smoot and Representative Burton were in conference with Harvey and Secretaries Hughes and Mellon, relative to the allied debt situation as it affects the British.

Although Chancellor of the Exchequer Stanley Baldwin and Governor Montague Collett Norman, of the Bank of England, conferred informally with President Harding at the White House late Friday and later called on Secretary Mellon the actual discussions will probably not begin before next Monday.

Meantime, leaders in both houses of congress are conducting themselves with extreme caution on the debt funding problem pending the outcome of discussions with the British.

The only outspoken member so far is Senator Reed (dem. of Missouri) who has just proposed that Great Britain and France trade their island possessions in the West Indies in payment of their debts to the United States. Reed's proposal is of course radically different from anything submitted to date, and his democratic colleagues as well as republican senators are reserving their comment for the present.

Likewise the democrats are reticent regarding Senator Smoot's plan of extending the time limit of payment from twenty-five to forty-five years and for reducing the rate of interest from four and one-half per cent to some lower figure.

BRITISH LIKELY TO WITHDRAW RHINE TROOPS

Official Circles Believed To Favor Policy of Isolation From France

By Ralph H. Turner (United News Staff Correspondent)

London, Jan. 5—Great Britain, it is anticipated, will announce her withdrawal from the reparations entanglements with France upon the return of Premier Bonar Law from Paris.

The Prime minister, it has become known, will call a meeting of the British cabinet on Saturday at which time these two topics will be discussed:

1. The withdrawal of British troops in the Rhineland where they have been serving as part of the allied army of occupation.
2. The resignation of Sir John Bradbury from the allied reparations commission.

There is much sentiment among officials for the recall of all British troops from Germany in view of the fact that France has decided to go it alone and exact reparations from Germany by invasion of the Ruhr valley.

Despite this, however, after a consultation with Bonar Law, the ministers may decide that it would be dangerous to withdraw British soldiery inasmuch as the very presence of an armed force of Great Britain may serve to temper the French policy. Withdrawal, some point out, would allow the French a free course of action in reorganizing the Rhenish Republic of Rhineland supposedly as a buffer state between France and Germany. These observers point out that France has tried in vain ever since the war to promote a Rhenish republic which would be in reality a dependency of France, but that British troops have refused to allow republican meetings to be held in the areas they occupied.

Those in official circles are inclined to favor isolation from France on reparations until the unstable, rattling epidemic of the French has run its course and the government of Poincare becomes convinced that its policy is disastrous. The government has made it known it is through with conferences and will await a change of mind and heart on the part of France.

CHANGE DATES OF UNIVERSITY PLAYS

"The Famous Mrs. Fair" Will Be Given Instead of "Merchant of Venice"

The University theatre's production of "The Merchant of Venice" has been postponed until February 14 and 15, exchanging dates with the next number which is a light comedy. According to the present time the fourth number in the program will be a modern American comedy, "The Famous Mrs. Fair," by James Forbes, to be presented on January 17 and 18 by members of the class in dramatic production. This play will be under the direction of Mr. Charles V. Brown, who co-operated in several of the productions last year and during the summer session.

The cast of "The Famous Mrs. Fair" are the following:

Sylvia Fair—Marguerite Benda A3 of Iowa City; Alan Fair—Walter Dehner A4 of Iowa City; E. Dudley

Florida Race Riot Recalls Dyer Bill Fight In Senate

(By United News)

Washington, Jan. 5—The race riot at Roswood Florida developing from the assault of a white girl by a negro and subsequent lynching of that negro and the death of other whites and negroes recalls the senate fight on the Dyer anti-lynching bill. This measure was opposed by the southern democrats with a filibuster during the special session in November last and was finally withdrawn by the republicans. Although cloakroom gossip pointed to adequacy of the Dyer bill to deal with such an eventuality as is now presented by the Florida race war at the same time no senator would comment openly on the tragedy.

LEEPER BOUND TO NEXT GRAND JURY

William Barth, State Witness, Gives Damaging Testimony

Robert Leeper was bound over to the next meeting of the grand jury on February 5 by Justice T. E. Murphy yesterday afternoon at the conclusion of the preliminary trial that began Thursday afternoon. The court also ruled that Leeper was to be held in custody without bail. If indicted by the grand jury, he will be tried in the district court before a picked jury. Mr. Leeper showed no astonishment at the decision. As the court cleared he lit a cigaret and chatted for a few minutes with his lawyers.

William Barth was the main witness for the state yesterday. He testified that Leeper, in a conversation with him last July, said he intended "to do away" with Roy Wertz, for whose murder he is now being held. Leeper, according to Barth, described three methods by which he could kill Wertz—first by a gun equipped with a silencer, second by poisoned liquor and third by taking him out of town and killing him. The motive for the crime, Leeper told him, was that by first marrying Roy Wertz's daughter and then killing Wertz he could obtain $20,000. He also said that Leeper threatened "if you tell anybody and if they give me twenty years I will get you when I come back." Barth was very slow in testifying and some of his answers partly contradicted other statements he made.

Mrs. Wertz was called to appear on the witness stand but a statement signed by Dr. Love was read in the court saying that he had just examined her, and she was unable to leave her room. She had no objection to being cross-examined in her room, however, it was said.

Dr. Love gave practically the same testimony as Dr. Bennett. He said Mrs. Wertz asked him what to do and he advised her to get an attorney. He also said that both Mrs. Wertz and Mrs. Leeper told him that Robert Leeper was not in the room at the time of the shooting.

Ed Donohue testified that Leeper was a good pistol shot. Miss Gertrude Moorehead, who roomed upstairs in the Wertz home, corroborated testimony given before as to the position of various objects in the downstairs rooms.

The defense endeavored to introduce the verdict of the coroner's jury but met with strong opposition by the state that was upheld by the court. The hearing of witnesses finished in the morning and the lawyers for the state and the defense gave their arguments in the afternoon. When they finished Justice T. E. Murphy immediately gave his decision.

CIVILIZATION TO CRUMBLE UNDER HATE AND FEAR

Only Hope Lies In Establishment of Genuine League of Nations

Editor's Note—The United News asked Hamilton Fyfe, editor of the London Daily Herald and one of the leading publicists in Europe, to cable to the United News his views on the present European situation, which, because of the collapse of the allied premiers' conference over reparations, is now more grave than any time since the signing of Versailles peace treaty. Fyfe, a noted labor leader, herewith makes a sorry picture of what he believes will happen to Europe in the future. But he says, a new civilization will rise from the ruins of the one which, in his belief, is now disintegrating.

Copyright 1923 by the United News London, Jan. 5—If the French invade the Ruhr valley they will give European civilization the hardest knock it has yet had to bear. French politicians have so long persuaded their nation that Germany would pay for the war that they are terrified at what the consequences would be if they abandoned their pretense and asked the French people to endure taxation such as other nations are enduring. Whenever David Lloyd George tried to get them to consider any such scheme as the one of Sir John Bradbury which Bonar Law had the courage to present, the reply was: "that would mean a revolution."

French Would Unseat Deceivers What this really meant was that the French people, when they found that they had been duped would arise and hurl their deceivers from office. That is one reason why French politicians feel themselves bound to continue to keep up the pretense that German can pay. There is, however, a deeper reason behind their acts.

They do not want Germany to recover. France, they argue, is a nation of forty million persons. The Germans will soon number eighty million. How can the French be secure against the Germans if Germany be allowed to recover?

It is only too easy to point out the fallacy of such reasoning. Nothing can prevent the Germans from some day recovering and becoming strong and when they do there will be in their hearts a longing for revenge which will mean the doom of France.

Can Make Condition Worse In the meantime, however, it is clear that the French have it in their power to make conditions in Europe much worse. Already civilization has slipped. It will be hard to prevent it from bursting up all together. Military despotism will be established over a large part of the continent. The old system of trade will fall further and further into disrepair. Nations more and more will become independent units. Each will, somehow, try to become self-supporting.

How Britain is going to do this few people can yet see. Possibly it will prove too much for us, but at any rate, we shall not go under until we have had a good try.

There will be a number of peasant republics in Europe. There will be little opportunity for arts, literature or research. We shall all be engaged

Contestants Will Submit Orations To Merry Jan. 8

The first step in the University oratorical and northern oratorical league contest comes on Monday, January 8, when the written text of the oration of each contestant must be submitted to Prof. Glenn N. Merry, head of the department of speech and chairman of the senate board on public speaking contests. Each oration must be original and is limited to 2,000 words. To be eligible for the contest, the orator must be an undergraduate in good standing above the rank of freshman. On the basis of a judgment of the text of the submitted orations and the hearing of the delivery of one paragraph in the preliminary University oratorical contest on February 1, the board of judges will cut the number of contestants from the fifteen to twenty who are expected to submit orations to the six or eight who will actually compete in the final contest one week later on February 8. In this final University oratorical contest, the winner of first and second place will be picked by expert judges on the basis of oratorical effectiveness. The winner of first place receives the Walter A. Jessup prize of $25.

The De Laval Continuous Clarification System

We have just installed this wonderful new invention, the greatest improvement of modern times in dry cleaning methods. An examination of the cut will show how it operates. Clean, pure, cleansing fluid flows continuously into the top of the washer where it is sprayed over the garments and passes out at the bottom to be pumped up into the De Laval Centrifugal Clarifier, the bowl of which makes 6,000 revolutions per minute, where the tremendous centrifugal force removes every trace of grit and dirt, even to the germs, delivering the clean, pure dry fluid back to the top of the washer to be again circulated through the garments. It is like washing clothes in a rapidly flowing mountain stream. No wonder your garments come out clean and fresh, absolutely free from dust and lint. The pockets and linings are WHITE and your whole garment has the nice, fresh look of new goods.

You are invited to call and see this machine in operation any morning between 9 and 11. And see how your clothing is handled and cleaned in our plant. It will be a revelation to you.

IOWA BANKERS TO STUDY HERE JANUARY 22-26

Prominent Speakers Will Talk On Topics of General Interest At Convention

The annual bankers convention and short course will be held here January 22 to 26 under the auspices of the Iowa Bankers association and the University. A series of residence and correspondence courses are offered every year to the bankers of the state of Iowa and any other persons who may be interested which are designed primarily to broaden the information and to increase the efficiency of the younger men in banking who aspire to positions of leadership.

Prominent Speakers

The first two and a half days of the convention are devoted to addresses by prominent bankers, income tax experts and other prominent speakers on topics of general interest to the banking profession. During the remainder of the session class work will be offered, which is planned to meet the needs of those attending and at the same time to serve as an introduction to the correspondence course which follows up the work taken at the session.

Attendance at two of these five day conferences is required of those who wish to become candidates for the certificate of banking. A charge of $3.50 is levied on all who register for the convention, and an additional charge of fifty cents for each of the twelve correspondence lessons.

These conventions have been attended by a number of Iowa bankers and business men every year, and a large attendance is expected at this convention.

Variety of Courses

Following are the class room courses to be given:

First year courses: Principles and problems of economics by Prof. F.

H. Knight, Principles of accounting by W. H. Burney, Commercial law by Asst. Prof. E. W. Hills, and Theory and history of banking by Dean C. A. Phillips.

Second year courses: Accounting problems by W. J. Burney, Business forecasting and investments by Prof. C. O. Hardy, and Bank administration by Prof. C. A. Phillips.

French Legislator Has Novel Idea of Suffrage In U. S.

By John O'Brien United News Staff Paris (By mail to United Press). American women will be surprised to learn, on the authority of M. Labrousse, a French senator, that it was to throw off "the brutal yoke of their husbands" that they set out to win the right to vote.

As the French woman in common with the women of all Latin countries, has no such fight to make, feminine suffrage is not needed, said Senator Labrousse explaining why he opposed the bill calling for the senate's approval of the measure which has passed the lower house of the French parliament. It was defeated by the senate.

"It is stated that twenty-four nations have adopted woman suffrage," said the senator. "Latin nations are behind in this respect. That is so. Why are the Latins behind the rest. Because the Latin woman, more honored than her Angle-saxon sister, does not have to throw off the brutal yoke of the husbands of the North. Feminism is a product of the excesses of the Northern man."

"It is argued that woman suffrage is indispensable for the protection of children and mothers. But it was France, long before other countries that first adopted laws for the protection of the young. The power of women in the fight against alcoholism and prostitution is invoked as another argument. But the countries where women vote were last to take measures against the misuse of alcoholic drinks."

UNIVERSITY PEOPLE FEEL NEED OF MORE SORORITIES AND FRATERNITIES

Popular opinion has seemed to point to the fact that the University of Iowa should increase the number of its social sororities and fraternities. At present only one-fourth of the student body of this institution can belong to such organizations.

Mrs. Adelaide Burge, acting dean of women, says of the matter: "These groups of young people, joined together by sorority or fraternity bonds, are very much to be desired because of the consequent advancement of scholarship and home ideals. An increase in their number is to be hoped for as a distinct benefit to the University."

Charles L. Robbins, professor of education, says, "The few noticeably snobbish people who 'make' it would be put into the dark by an increase in the number of the organizations. However, I think that the snob is not to be generally found among members of such social organizations and that the benefits, so apparently derived from membership, should be extended to more."

Miss Alvida Buck, secretary of the University Y. W. C. A., thinks that if sororities and fraternities are a good thing their number certainly should be increased. "From my observation," she says, "it seems that they are a very good solution for the pressing rooming situation."

Mr. Glenn N. Merry, of the department of speech, is very much in favor of the increase. "Unquestionably we should try to keep these social organizations in step with the great increase in enrollment in the University. All the larger nationals are granting more chapters but this institution is not taking advantage of it. In other places, where enrollment is much smaller, the number of these organizations is much greater than ours. It is the duty of the institution to provide the opportunities of the life offered by such organizations." Student sentiment of those who have membership in such organizations is very strongly in favor of an increase.

Raymond L. Davis A2 of Hedrick says that such action would increase the feeling of democracy in the school but that the addition of too many more would perhaps bring just as puzzling situation as the one which now exists.

William F. Delaney G of Coggen cited the fact that at Ames the number of fraternities is very much larger than at the University of Iowa. He says that there the feeling of democracy is very much more in evidence than here.

E. V. Wanberg A2 of Galva says, "An increase would not only improve the feeling within the school itself but it would also make intercollegiate competition greater because of the new spirit of loyalty aroused in the congenial groups of these social organizations."

Gail DeWolf A3 of Spencer also supports the idea. "In these organizations congenial surroundings are found for the person who might otherwise be deprived of them. Some think that sorority life is more expensive than dormitory life but I have found it, if anything, more economical. An increase would do away with the hurt feeling that so many have and the proverbially aristocratic sorority would be impossible."

Most of the non-sorority and non-fraternity people were apparently indifferent. However, two of them, Lanita Leonard A1 of Colfax and Doris M. Hogan A1 of Decorah, thought that there were enough of these organizations to take care of all who were fitted financially, and who had the desire to join them.

Cowboys' Yells Increase Their Strength—Bernell

By Paul Sifton

(United News Staff Correspondent) Chicago, Jan. 4—Its worth holding up wrecking operations on any real heman's shredded wheat for a couple of minutes to tell him why gorillas and cowboys always unload those hair-raising roars and yells before going into action.

Is it because they want to throw their victims, whether they be steers, mustangs or explorers, into a paralyzing fright?

Is it because they want the immediate township to know how tough they are before they prove it,

Is it because the days when hard stones on hard skulls solved most of life's social problems go leaping through their veins again?

Whuroo! It is not. You can take the word of an eminent Chicago whurooer, Dr. S. M. Bernell, that the reason all hard fighters from Siki to "The Hairy Ape" throw out a vocal barrage before uncoiling their lefts and rights is that it gives them more strength.

None of this psychology stuff about it. Bernell means what he says—it gives them more strength. He says that the gorilla roars to get most of the old air out of his lungs and then beats his chest to drive out the rest, so that the old pumps will be clean and working on new oxygen before the bell goes for round one. Same for the cowboy. He starts a yell at about the altitude of Pike's Peak, let's rip up to Mt. Rainer and throws in a final "Yip-Yee-e!" to get all the little pockets of his lungs empty.

"I tried it myself," Dr. Bernell says. "I felt so weak I had to sit down. I felt dizzy. But, within a very short time I felt strangely exhilarated. I kept it up systematically and found I had discovered the gorilla's secret."

Anybody is welcome to try it out before discussing radiators with the janitor. Dr. Bernell says, however, that no person with weak lungs should try to be a gorilla or a cowboy, because it's a tough guy's meat and salvation.

WYLIE GIVES REPORT AT BOTANY CLUB MEETING

Prof. Robert B. Wylie, head of the botany department, who attended the convention of the American association for the advancement of science which was held at Boston, Massachusetts during the holidays, will give a general report of the convention at the next meeting of the botany club, Monday, January 8, at 4:10 p. m. in room 206 Old Science building. Professor Wylie was secretary of the botanical division of the association during the meeting which was attended by about 2500 members. The assembly was held in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

DOPING THE DOPE

BY "PEST"

The basketball team left last night, at least we hope that they left. We heard a story about a professor who went down and got on the sleeper at the hour when good professors retire. The next morning he woke in the same place in the coal yard that he was when he closed his eyes. He has had a hard time explaining to his wife why he preferred sleeping in the coal yard to staying at home.

Results of the game, including the box score, will be in Sunday morning's Iowan.

Marquette defeated Wisconsin last Wednesday night by a score of 9 to 8. This is the lowest score for a basketball game that we have heard of this year. Both teams have very strong defenses.

The Badgers were leading up to the last few seconds of the game, but a Marquette player managed to tip the ball in during a scramble under the Wisconsin goal.

Over 100 Marquette fans, who journeyed from Milwaukee to Madison for the game, were unable to get in because of the limited seating capacity of the Badger gym.

Iowa is fortunate in being able to seat nearly 6,000 people at big basketball games. At that, there have been games played in the new armory at which the crowd filled every seat, particularly the Wisconsin and Michigan games last year.

Basketball is getting to be one of the most popular of college games. Nearly all of the universities in the conference are complaining of the lack of seating space for the spectators at conference games.

When the Hawkeyes played in the men's gym, visiting teams used to complain that the crowds were so close to the playing floor. Spectators on the lower row of the bleachers had their feet inside the boundary lines of the court.

It was nothing unusual to have the balcony floor filled with gallery gods whose feet dripped water, snow or dirt, depending upon the weather, upon the unprotected heads of the spectators seated on the bleachers below them.

At important games there were always enough people retaining some of the instincts of their Simian ancestors to find comfortable perches upon the rafters over head.

Between halves, the crowds amused themselves by tossing pennies down upon the playing floor to the great delight of themselves and of a multitude of small boys. These young ones used teeth, fists, and feet upon each other in a mad scramble to gain possession of the copper coins.

We remember that we were once among these gallery gods, and that some one of the other dieties near us, getting tired of the old game of tossing coppers on the floor, discovered a man below who had a bald spot on the back of his head, about the size of a dollar. There was great glee in the heavens, thereafter, as sundry pennies rained down in a vain effort to land upon that bare spot.

To take care of the large crowds that witness basketball games at Columbus, Ohio State plays in the coliseum, which will seat about 6,000 spectators.

Michigan will play all her basketball games in the new Field house that is just being completed. The Wolverines will be able to seat crowds of 12,000 people.

HAWKS CLASH WITH MAROON FIVE TONIGHT

Contest At Chicago Is First Conference Game for Both Quintets

Having won two out of three of their practice games, the Iowa basketball team will not lack confidence for their game with Chicago at Chicago tonight. This game is the first conference game for both teams and the Hawkeyes have the edge on the Maroons in pre-conference games won.

Coach Sam Barry, Dr. Walter R. Fieseler and eight of the Iowa basketball squad left last night for Chicago. The eight men to make the trip were: Captain Hicks, Laude, Janse, Burgitt, Funk, Voltmer, Swenson and Barton. The men are in good physical condition and the sting of their Notre Dame defeat will spur them on to even better playing than they have yet shown. The team will return Sunday morning.

The Maroons have not been very successful in winning so far this year, having lost all three of their pre-conference games. Although Chicago will play on her own floor and will have the advantage of the home crowd, the Iowa team seems to be the stronger and will probably outplay the Maroons.

The Old Gold team has only two men of conference basketball experience and the game tonight will be the first important game for Janse, Funk and Laude.

Coach Barry sent his men through a light practice last night, running through out-of-bounds plays. Funk stayed longer than the rest and shot foul baskets.

Jenkins Drills Freshman Squad On Fundamentals

Assistant Coach Albert P. Jenkins sent his freshman basketball squad through a light workout yesterday afternoon at the new armory. The workout consisted entirely of a drill on the fundamentals of passing, out of bounds plays, basket shooting, advancing the ball, pivoting and dribbling.

The freshman squad will practice with the varsity every afternoon at the new armory from 4 to 6 p. m., according to the present arrangement. There will be no practice this afternoon, since the varsity left last night for Chicago to clash with the Maroons in the first conference cage game of the season.

The frosh seem to be fair basket shots. Slinker, Miller, Fleckenstein, Baton and Swaney are the best basket throwers. The main difficulty at present is pivoting free from a guard, but with a little more drill Coach Jenkins will overcome this difficulty.

Grappling Crews Search for Bodies In Bridge Disaster

(By United News)

Kelso, Washington, Jan. 5—With a list of nineteen persons missing and the belief that more than twice that many may have lost their lives in the Kelso bridge crash, authorities are planning a thorough investigation into the cause of the tragedy.

Public sentiment blazed Friday for an immediate inquiry and coroner Van Noten, who believes the death toll is about 35, has promised an inquest.

It will be held over the bodies of Harry Kirk, and G. O. McDonald, who have died of injuries, but will be delayed pending further effort to recover at least some of the many bodies known to be in the Colitz river.

Grappling crews searching the muddy bottom of the Colitz river for bodies are seriously handicapped by the swift eddying current of the swollen stream.

Friday a boy scout was dragged from the river bottom by a grappling hook. He is believed to have been Earl Pennell, 15, one of the missing. The corpse was found half a mile below the bridge.

Exam Schedule and Grade Regulations Out In Short Time

The official schedule for the semester examinations will be made public within a day or two, is the word given out by Herbert C. Dorcas, University registrar. The schedule is made out and copies are now being printed for the various colleges.

Regulations concerning final grades will also be published within a short time.

MERRY ENTERTAIN

Members of the staff of the speech department and students who are majoring in speech will meet tomorrow evening at the home of Prof. G. N. Merry, of the speech department, in Manville Heights. At 5:30 o'clock an evening luncheon will be served, after which a round table discussion will be held.

The discussion will deal with topics which were taken up at the national convention of teachers of speech, which was held recently in New York City. Professor Merry attended the convention during Christmas vacation.

SWIMMING TEAM BEGINS WORKOUTS

Five of Last Year's Varsity Men Return; Desire More Contestants

With five of last year's varsity men back Coach Armbruster's swimming team is slowly beginning to assume shape. The team has six meets this year the first being the A. A. U. meet held here on February 1.

Captain Klingaman will be the strongest Iowa man in the dashes and middle distances. Klingaman is a varsity man of last year. He was anchor man on the relay team and swam the dashes and middle distances. Last spring he won the river swim. He holds the mid-western A. A. U. 50 yard dash record of 25 3-5 seconds.

In the 40 yard dash Clark will be the team mate of Klingaman. Clark took second in the A. A. U. meet held on November 11 at Omaha in which Klingaman broke the record. Clark's time was also under the old record. He is a varsity man of last year and also the senior champion of the city of Des Moines. Rich, Anderson, and Larson are also fast men in the 40 yard dash.

McCullough, a varsity man of last year, will be the best man in the dives this year. Captain Shepherd of last year has graduated but it is felt the McCullough will be able to equal his record this year. Griffin and Hayden will fight to be the other divers. Griffin holds the University record in the 200 yard breast stroke and will have little trouble in holding his own in this event. There are several other men out for this event but the most promising men are Dory, Fisher, Hayden, and Hogan.

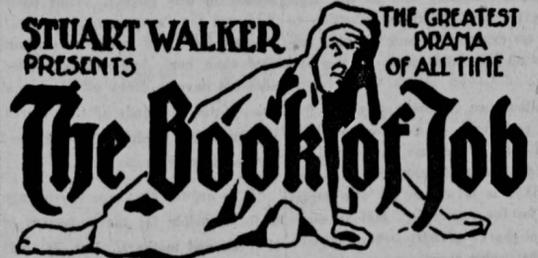

Ned Ashton, holder of the University record in the 150 yard back stroke, will undoubtedly make the team. At present it seems that Stover would be his mate in this event but Anderson, McIntosh, or George Ashton may place instead.

In the 220 yard easy style Klingaman, holder of the University record, will have little trouble in holding his place. Goltman who was to have swum the 220 with Klingaman is out on account of sickness. This leaves the other place open. The best men at present are Sheakley, Anderson, Larson, Rockyfeller, and Griffin.

In the plunge for distance, Bane and Hickox will represent Iowa. Bane is the present University record holder. Ostrum, last year's freshman plunger, did not return to school this year.

In the 100 yard easy style Klingaman, Clark, Stover, and Rich will battle during the season for places on the team.

There are not enough men coming out for swimming. Coach Armbruster has issued another call for swimmers and he asks that a good many men report to him during the following week.

NEW BIRD EXHIBIT SHOWN IN MUSEUM

Represents Spring Migration of Arctic Birds; Thirty Species Displayed

A new exhibit of birds is to be completed and displayed in the University museum this year. This is to be a habit at group form the Arctic region, showing the spring migration of birds in a scene of ice and snow.

This new exhibit will be a companion group to the Louisiana Swamp exhibit and will be located just across the hall from it. The exhibit is to be the reproduction of an actually photographed Arctic scene. The sea with its floating icebergs will be in the painted background and the migrating northern birds will be placed in the foreground. These will include some hundred specimens representing thirty different species. Among these are the King eider, spectacled eider, Stella's eider, Pacific eider, glaucous gull, ivory gull, honored puffin, Palla's murre, least auklet, parrot auklet, crested auklet, golden plover, yellowbilled loon, three species of jaegers, black brant, emperor goose, California murre, crested puffin, Beard's cormorant, red-faced cormorant, Cassin's auklet, ancient murrelet, and other specimens which are less rare.

All specimens for this group have been received and the work is now well under way, according to Prof. Homer R. Dill, director of the vertebrate museum. The case is being prepared and some of the birds are already mounted. However, all the necessary to prepare this group for exhibition and it will probably require most of this year to complete the work necessary to prepare this group of exhibition.

As soon as the work now on hand has been completed, the trip to the South Sea which has been planned for some time will be taken. Due to some tentative business matters the detailed plans for this expedition and the date for starting have not yet been decided, but it is certain that an expedition of a few men will be sent to the South Sea for the purpose of obtaining museum materials some time in the near future. "These expeditions are conducted for a definite purpose" said Professor Dill, "and it has been found that a few well trained persons can accomplish the end in view much better than a large number of amateurs."

An expedition to British Columbia has also been planned. This will be for the same purpose but will probably not be taken until a date later than that of the South Sea expedition. A third expedition, which is in view for a still later date, will be to South America but no definite arrangements have been made concerning this trip.

PREDICT NEW DARK AGES FOR EUROPE

ed to the utmost of our energy in earning a living.

Perhaps in time we shall realize our folly and form a genuine league of nations based on comradeship and mutual trust. From that would spring a civilization infinitely richer and more and more valuable than any that has gone before.

If we do not do this in time, then Europe will disintegrate. The process will be slow, perhaps it will continue for several hundreds of years, it will have its ups and downs. Only a few people will know it is going on but the whole face of the continent will be altered, cities will disappear beneath the dust. Vast areas will go out from cultivation. Populations will shrink, conquerors will rise and fall, new states will be founded, old states will die.

Then in time a fresh civilization will be built on the ruins. A better one than ours, who can tell? Hadn't we better build a fresh one right now.

ON THINKING FOR ONESELF

Frequently one hears the complaint that the college graduate of today is not up to standard. He lacks initiative and inventiveness; he makes little use of his mind in a constructive way. There is a reasonable basis for this complaint since an analysis of our educational system fails to disclose any course of training which would develop to any great extent, the faculty of thinking for oneself.

As we have pointed out before in the columns of the Iowan, our whole system of education is based on memory work. The student does not need to think constructively to reach the highest scholastic attainment so long as he has a good memory. He goes to class and relates the facts he has heard his professor expound or which he has read in text books. He does not need to put his own construction upon these facts; he uses his mind for a storehouse only. When he is graduated he enters the world with a lot of second hand knowledge and it is little wonder that he fails to make material contributions to art or science.

Most students make the mistake of reading too much and of thinking too little. The student who thinks for himself forms his own opinions and learns the authorities for them only later on, when they serve but to strengthen his belief in them and in himself. But the book-reader starts from the authorities. He reads other people's books, collects their opinions, and so forms a whole for himself which resembles an automaton made up of anything but flesh and blood.

Schopenhauer says, "Reading is thinking with someone else's head instead of one's own. To think with one's own head is always to aim at developing a coherent whole—a system, even though it be not a strictly complete one; and nothing hinders this so much as too strong a current of others' thoughts, such as comes of continual reading."

FRATERNITIES AND FRATERNITY HOUSES

Surprisingly few fraternities at Iowa own their own homes in comparison with other universities of like size. This is paradoxical in view of the financial status of the average student and alumnus of the University and the number of years which fraternities have been established here.

Thirty-six fraternities maintain houses and of this number only five claim ownership. In the general fraternity world, as brought out in a statement recently by Don R. Almy, former president of the national interfraternity council, the percentage of those who own their homes is approximately seventy-five percent; or of the 3500 fraternity houses in America, 2600 are owned by the respective chapters.

When it is considered that Iowa is a good fraternity school, and furthermore that the long standing and repute of the fraternities on the campus have been conducive to the growth of strong chapters, it is hard to explain the ownership situation. Even of the five chapter houses which are owned at the University only three would bear comparison with the average of other Big Ten campuses.

Generally speaking, fraternities in much younger institutions, have a higher percentage of fraternity owned houses. A study of the conditions in many of these schools reveals that the ownership and building program arose out of a temporary wave of rivalry and enthusiasm. Such is likely to be the case at Iowa within the next few years. At the present time at least ten of the fraternities in rented houses are making plans to build. This in part is due to the exorbitant rent charged and also to the growing rivalry among chapters.

A serious situation has often arisen out of the desire on the part of one fraternity to build a better home than its predecessor. It has started a vicious circle—a thing which is likely to happen at Iowa within the next few years unless the University administration or the interfraternity council takes the proper steps to control it. Rivalry drives fraternities to build mansions which neither they nor their successors are financially able to keep up. Some of the larger universities have set a limit on the amount which a fraternity can expend on a chapter house. This is the sensible thing to do. In the long run even the fraternities must acknowledge that it is best for where there is an enormous expenditure of money there is likely to be a sharp division in the student body along the lines of wealth.

The total value of fraternity property in the United States is estimated at $21,000,000 by Mr. Almy. Since the founding of the first fraternity 156 years ago, there have been 700,000 initiates. Today 60,000 men live in fraternity houses and a total of 40,000 are initiated each year. In all there are 4500 chapters of fraternities in the various schools of America and of this number 1000 are honorary.

An interesting fact in the general fraternity situation is the small increase in the number of chapters since the war compared with the increase in the number of students. The enrollment of American colleges since 1919 has increased approximately seventy-five percent and during this same time the number of chapters has increased less than one percent.

The Sounding Board

RATING THE OPPOSITE SEX

The other day we horned in on a very interesting discussion, in the course of which two questions were raised:

1. Does the average man want a "sheba"?
2. Does the average girl want a "sheik"?

These debatable propositions were considered at length, and as usual, without being decided one way or the other. The comparative importance of appearance, brains and character formed no small part of the argument.

We seized the opportunity to obtain for readers of this column ratings of the opposite sex by a prominent University man and a popular co-ed. These two documents are percentage schedules of attributes which each considers requisite or desirable in an ideal mate.

The man's rating for women was as follows:

1. Attractiveness (including dress, natural beauty, cleverness and ability to entertain)—30 per cent.
2. Disposition—27 per cent.
3. Intelligence (including innate mental capacity)—23 per cent.
4. Character (including sense of values)—20 per cent.

The young woman's rating for men was worked out in a little more detail, and classified male attributes on a slightly different basis:

1. Future—40 per cent.
  - a. Brains—12 per cent.
  - b. Business ability—20 per cent.
  - c. Backing—8 per cent.
2. Personal appearance—20 per cent. (By "personal appearance" meaning especially a well groomed look.)
3. Personality—40 per cent.
  - a. Charm—20 per cent.

Having set down two ratings, our very next step is to stand from under, retire to our bomb-proof, and broadcast the information that these schedules have absolutely nothing to do with our own ideas on the subject, but are published just as we received them. Some day, if we are sufficiently urged, we may publish a rating of our own.

A RUSTIC ROMANCE

(From the Rolfe Arrow)

"Both the contracting parties have grown up in this community . . . They start married life in vigorous health, full of hope and determined to make the most of it. We believe they are the sort that will succeed."

Having already broken our resolution not to mention anything unpleasant in the column, we may as well call your attention to the little known fact that exams are no more than two weeks away. Several profs have already imparted the glad news to us.

Problem of human conduct: When words in want ads cost money, why does a person advertise an "evening dress suit"?

Student Prefers Study of Law To Pie Throwing Jobs

Buffalo, N. J., Jan. 5—(United Press)—Efforts of movie magnates to find a suitable successor to Roscoe Arbuckle, fat man formerly of the silver screen, have caused them to turn their attention to a student of the University of Buffalo, who rejoices in the title of "Cupid."

Word came to them of a wonder in obesity who promised to fulfill all the requirements of such cinema character.

They came to Buffalo to see Cupid, he is registered at the university as William Roth, and to put him through his paces. Acting on the principal of the fatter the man the more desirable, he was weighed and Bill was not found wanting. Roth says he was always fat, as far back as he can remember.

"I was fat when I wore pinafores, I was fat when I wore knickerbockers, and now in a tuxedo I bulge over more than ever."

The magnates offered Cupid a fat contract.

"No," said Bill, with dignity. "I am going into law. I aim to some day sit on the bench."

They added another cipher to the rear of their first offer, but Bill was adamant.

"No," he reiterated. "I have a leaning towards law. I shall follow the career dear to my heart. I will not throw custard pies."

Cupid's power of resistance was strong. The men from the filmland departed without him. They have not lost hope, however. Bill gets on an average of one offer a week to assume the role of the jolly fat man, with whom the world laughs.

We have tried to render this statement so that there will not be any room to read between the lines. In further explanation, we will give you more of a detailed analysis of our business. We commenced business four years ago, a stranger to you all, with an investment of $16,000.00 in the business. We declared to the public our intentions of rendering to this community the very best services we were capable of giving, and thus it is, that we have from time to time rendered an accounting of our dealing with you. We discontinued the tinshop that we were running in connection with the store on January 1st, 1922 and it took us three years to find out that it was a loser to the business, because of too much overhead expense.

In 1920 we made over and above the cost of doing business $2,877.00. The reason we made this gain, was the rapid advance in merchandise of that year. In 1921, we lost all, and more with it, because of the rapid declining of prices, and the lack faith in the economic business world. During this year, the general public opinion was that all retailers were profiteers, the condition of which was the result of the world war. In 1922, in the months of January, February and March, prices declined rapidly and from that time to this day, the prices have gradually increased, and today the cost of our merchandise is at least as high in price as it was a year ago.

In looking over our 1922 year's financial report, you will find that we are still $2,048.00 below our original investment of $16,000.00.

In this wonderful business year of 1922, with our increased volume of business and the fact of us eliminating overhead expense by quitting the tinshop a year ago, the question will arise in your mind, why did we fall behind this year? The answer: We moved our store this year and we were given to understand, to be ready to move June 1st; then again on July 1st, then again on August 22nd, again on October 5th. We did not get moved our store this year and we were given to understand getting ready to move.

We curtailed our buying and told our customers many, many times, that we did not have the goods. We kept extra hired help the entire year in contemplation of this move. Directly and indirectly, these circumstances gave us approximately a $2,500.00 loss. Our taxes almost doubled up on us also, and these circumstances are the reason of increased cost of transacting business in the year 1922.

We are quite sure that the question arises in your mind, how much money does the personal members of the firm receive out of the business. The answer: The first year one member received $80.00 per calendar month, the second year, two members received $80.00 per month and in these two years all of our hired help received more than the owners. In the last two years two members have received $100.00 per month, also in the last year only, all members of the firm received in addition to above mentioned wages, 8% interest on the original investment, and that is every cent that we have so far received from you, our business constituents. Also, we have received health, happiness and community advantages as well as protection of our property, which we are thankful for.

The senior member has spent in Iowa City the last four years twice the money that he has received out of the firm in support home taxes, etc., and has worked never less than eleven up to fifteen hours a day, all the time.

We deem it a privilege and are very thankful for that privilege of rendering to you our service, knowing full well, that simplest way to keep business growing, is to give our customers their money's worth.

We have been sending out these detailed truthful statements in regard to our business relations with you, for four years. We found at first that the public as a whole took it as a kind of a business advertising propaganda, with often expressed remarks of doubt as to the truthfulness of these statements. We know by the last four years' experience, that it is indeed a business getter, and that the public as a whole believes them, and thus it is a real business asset worth while. We have moved into our new location, at 112 East College Street. We have a ten year lease on this new building; also, we have a new delivery truck and a well earned business asset that should bring results for ourselves and the community.

Our store is rather narrow, but makes up in length, being 150 feet long. We have brand new and unheard of designed booths, nicely arranged on one side, making it easy to wait on our customers. Also; we have had made to order a ten year daily business register that will tell daily and more in detail, of our every day transactions. We have had 16 years' experience in the game and feel that we are justified asking for your loyal support.

We will continue as in the past, to give 5% discount to cash buyers and recognize 30 day payment the same as Cash. In the year 1922 we rendered a service of $17,202.00 credit business, of which $8,290.00 was paid inside of 30 days, for which was returned to the purchase charge price, the sum of $414.50. We have it so modernly arranged, that the extended credit buys for it and no more, while the cash buyer does not pay for conducting a credit business. In this financial report, we have thrown out $500.00 that was considered no good and was not invoiced, which represents our losses in the four years business.

Going into business—tragedy strewn all along the way it is a melting pot that tests the very metal of one's soul. An environment that will destroy or create character. Those of you with your chosen vocation, must enter into the economic whirlpool whether you want to or not, the great and good law of self-preservation driving you on and on. With intelligence and the safety valve of the conscience, it is possible to blaze the way on the square.

Going into business is likened unto the old lady who sent her son out to learn how to swim, instructing him not to go near the water.

Hanging your clothes on a hickory limb, prancing up and down the conservative seashore availing nothing. Take a dare, plunge right out into the ocean of life and paddle, paddle, paddle. Don't be afraid, there is plenty of water. Take the lead, never fear, others will follow.

FACULTY MEMBERS ATTEND MEETING

Iowa Professors Read Papers At Sessions of Modern Language Association

The educational opportunities offered to students by foreign universities was one of the topics of discussion at the twenty-seventh annual meeting of the central division of the Modern Language Association of America held in Chicago during the holidays.

Prof. Hardin Craig, head of the English department, was chairman of the session on foreign study, and spoke on the educational facilities for foreign students in France and Great Britain. He said that the University of Grenoble offers a course to foreign students and has unpretentious but excellent facilities for their reception. He also said that the University of Paris offers excellent opportunities for foreigners. In Great Britain most of the summer school work is intended for teachers in the high schools and elementary schools. The work at Oxford, Cambridge, University of London, and in several provincial universities is well attended and extremely well done. One feature of the work in British universities is the offering of courses of lectures by distinguished scholars and literary men.

At this session William O. Farnsworth of Northwestern university spoke on the opportunities for summer school work in Mexico City, Mexico. He spoke of the excellence of the climate and the historical, social and archaeological interest of the place.

Professor A. H. Hohfeld, of the University of Wisconsin, said that there were no serious reasons why students who wished to study in Germany should not do so, but that they should remember that the country is still suffering from the effects of the war.

At the sessions of the association a number of University of Iowa men read papers. Prof. Thomas A. Knott, professor of English, read a report on "The Development of Linguistic Consciousness in the American Student." Prof. Hardin Craig, head of the English department, spoke on "Outlines of the 16th Century Drama." Prof. B. V. Crawford took part in the discussion on the romantic movement in modern literature. Prof. J. Hubert Scott, assistant professor of English, spoke on "The Syllabic Basis of Rhythm," and Prof. Edward H. Lauer, associate professor of German, spoke on "Curriculum Changes to Meet Our Present Problems."

France Claims America Has Too Much Gold

(United Press Staff Correspondent) Paris—(By mail to the United Press)—America is drifting toward shipwreck on the rock of gold, said Louis Loucheur, formerly minister of the devastated regions, in a speech before the National Association for the Organization of the Democracy.

The former minister, who is regarded as one of the financial experts in France and who may be called to the premiership, was explaining how France can get back to the position she occupied in the world market before the war.

M. Loucheur emphasized the fact that, no matter how the country's interior problems are settled, real property can only return when international commercial relations are restored to the normal.

"It is a tremendous mistake," he said, "to devote themselves, as certain countries, especially France, did before the war, to the accumulation of credits in foreign countries which the latter will never pay."
