France Must Pay Cash For German Mined Coal

HAWKEYES SET FOR WOLVERINE FIVE'S INVASION

Michigan To Play Here Monday Night; Has Team of Veteran Players

Keyed up high by their desire to let the Wolverines know that they have been in a basketball game, the varsity cage team ended a week of hard work, by taking a light offensive drill last night. All week they have practiced plays, shot baskets, and scrimmaged until late in the evening. Now they are ready for the game with Michigan, a game that will probably be the most difficult on Iowa's schedule. A short hike yesterday with a rest today, will put the players in top shape for the contest Monday night.

Michigan, the Hawkeye's opponent next Monday, has been given credit for having the best team in the Conference, and their easy victory over Illinois seems to bear out all the statements that have been made about them. The Wolverine's defense was so tight that the Illini were unable to break through for short shots. Using a new type of defense the Michigan team forced the Illinois players to shoot from the center of the floor.

Haggerty, sophomore Wolverine forward, ran wild against the Illinois guards, and scored six baskets. Miller, the other forward, Captain Ely, at center, and Kipke, guard, were also stars in the Michigan offense. Kipke played only a part of the game, about ten minutes in the last half, but during that time he made two baskets. Cappon, Michigan's star fullback, played a fine game at standing guard.

The Wolverines come to Iowa City from Minneapolis, where they defeated Minnesota last night. Minnesota, of course has a green team, and has been handicapped all season by injuries, and by the ineligibility of some of their star players. They were no match for Michigan. Coach Albert Jenkins scouted the game.

Against the five or six Wolverine veterans, Iowa puts three men who are playing their first year of conference basketball. Next year, they will be seasoned players, but they go into tomorrow's game as green men. They will be playing under a great disadvantage, that only fight can overcome.

Reserved seats will still be on sale at Whetstone's tomorrow. The game will start at 7:15 p. m.

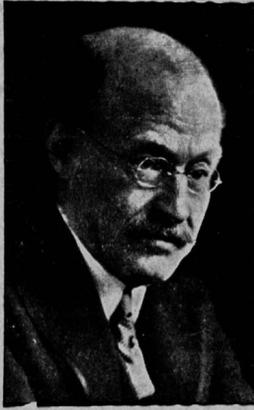

The only other conference game on Monday night will be between Purdue and Northwestern, and it should result in a victory for Purdue, despite the fact that the Boiler-makers lost to Butler Friday night by a score of 43 to 20.

Hawkeye Group Pictures Must Be In By Jan. 25

The sorority pictures in the 1924 Hawkeye will be individual photographs and will be taken in informal dress. This was the decision given out by Corinne Weber A4 of Keokuk, president of women's pan-hellenic council. There had formerly been some question as to whether the pictures were to be group or individual.

According to Stephen M. Wollman A3 of Council Bluffs, editor-in-chief of this year's book, the annual is progressing nicely. All of the Junior pictures have been taken and sent to the engravers. The group pictures which are now being taken, must all be in by January 25.

CONFERENCE IS AGAIN STOPPED

Turks Ask War Debt Be Put In As Part of Ottoman Debt; Allies Refuse

Lausanne, Jan. 13.—The Lausanne conference was deadlocked again tonight when the Turks, acting under instructions from the Angora government, demanded that all Turkish war debts be included in the Ottoman debt and be divided among all former Ottoman states.

The allied representatives flatly refused to grant the demand but consented to a final re-discussion of the new crisis Monday.

Little hope was held out for an agreement.

FRANCE LENIENT WITH GERMANY

Cuno Given Confidence Vote By Reichstag As Leaders Speak

Berlin, Jan. 13.—France is kindling a fire which will threaten to consume all Europe, President Loebe of the Reichstag warned today at a meeting of that body which voted confidence in Chancellor Cuno government after debating the occupation of the Ruhr valley. The same historic chamber rang with applause during the war when German victories over France were announced. Today, hurried German leaders are appealing to the people to be brave under French oppression.

After the debate there was an impressive testimonial of faith in the existing ministry. All delegates with the exception of the communists voted a confidence in the government. At the opening of the session, Loebe, in a speech, asked the French people to avert the "catastrophic consequences" of Premier Poincare's policy.

Cuno, following Loebe, declared that if efforts to reach a concrete economic understanding continue unavailing, the fire France is kindling in the Ruhr valley will threaten to sweep Europe.

"I ask the world," he said dramatically, "if ever a people fulfilled its promise to a greater extent than the German people—weakened by hunger and suffering as they are."

He emphasized that Germany had been thus weakened and asserted his country had done its utmost to meet the claims of France, financially, economically, and politically, offering also an understanding to guarantee peace—but France rejecting everything put might above right.

EDUCATOR WILL SPEAK ON VITAL SUBJECT TODAY

Professor Steiner's Life Has Been One Long Struggle; Wrote Many Books

When Prof. Edward A. Steiner, of Grinnell college, speaks on the subject "The Making of a Great Race," at Vesper services this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the natural science auditorium, he will have as a background his own experiences of coming to America as an Austrian immigrant and finally becoming an American citizen and a leader in the field of sociology.

In his address this afternoon Professor Steiner will deal with the immigrant problem in some new aspects. He is particularly well fitted to do this by his wide travels, his own experiences, and his long study of the problem.

Although the flood of immigrants is temporarily stopped by the present immigration laws the question of how the immigrants who have already come will be cared for, what contributions they will make to the United States, and the general aspects of their naturalization are the ones in which Professor Steiner is particularly interested and the ones which are pertinent. These are all problems that are not yet solved.

At Grinnell 19 Years Professor Steiner is at the present time at Grinnell college where he is professor of applied christianity. He has been there since 1903. His chosen field is sociology and he is making a study of the present immigration problem. Only a small part of his time is spent in teaching as he spends most of his time on the lecture platform or at study.

The life of Professor Steiner from the time he was born in Vienna, Austria in 1866 has been a struggle. His experiences have been embodied in his book "From Alien to Citizen" which is in reality his autobiography. Before coming to the United States Professor Steiner studied in the public schools of Vienna and Pilsen, Austria. He later attended the university of Heidelberg and took post graduate work in the universities of Göttingen and Berlin.

Upon coming to the United States he took the degree of bachelor of Divinity from Oberlin college, Oberlin, Ohio. Professor Steiner is an ordained minister in the Congregational church and has held pastorates in St. Cloud and St. Paul, Minn. and in Springfield, Ohio. In 1903 he was active in newspaper work and represented "The Outlook" in Russia. Since 1903 he has been professor of applied christianity at Grinnell.

Knows the Immigrant When Professor Steiner is not teaching or lecturing he is busy writing books on the subjects in which he is most interested. His own experiences supplemented by his wide travels have given him a keen insight in the heart of the immigrant and his travels. This has enabled him to present them in their human side and to suggest the right plans to meet the needs.

Among his more popular books on the subjects of sociology, and immigrant problems are: "The Trail of the Immigrant," a picture of the path that an immigrant follows in the United States; "The Broken Wall;" "The Immigrant Tide;" "Against the Current;" "The Mediator;" "The Parable of the Cherries;" "From Alien to Citizen;" "Introducing the American Spirit;" "Nationalizing America;" "My Doctor's

GOVERNMENT'S COURSE IS TO SAVE EUROPE

Germany Will Scrap All Her Resources In An Effort To Pay Her Debt

Washington, Jan. 13.—Germany in formally has told the United States government that her course in the present Ruhr crisis is designed to prevent disturbances and to save the fate of Europe, the United Press learned tonight.

Aside from the recent note of protest presented to the American government against the French occupation of the Ruhr, Germany is informing the United States completely of its policy and its position in the present crisis through conversation that Ambassador Wiedfeldt, the German envoy, is having with Secretary of State Hughes.

In view of the United Press dispatches from Berlin giving the virtual text of a statement on the attitude of the German government transmitted to the state department here, other points that Germany has emphasized to the Washington government were learned tonight.

Germany says she is not now making any specific appeal for foreign aid. Despite the fact that she has been forced to stop reparations to France and Belgium because of the occupation of the Ruhr, Germany intends to scrape all her resources and strength for payment of damages done in the war.

It is admitted that the position of the German government is most precarious, not alone because of the crisis in the Ruhr but because of the advantage this situation gives the communist element in Germany, but the government will not bow to these bolshevist tendencies, it is declared.

FRANCE KINDLING EUROPEAN FIRE

Vote To Postpone Payment of War Debt Until January 13

Paris, Jan. 13.—France took a more lenient attitude today with regard to expecting reparations from Germany, but appeared determined to seize additional territory to insure delivery of coal.

The situation is as follows: The reparations commission voted to "postpone until January 13 Germany's next payment of 500 million gold marks so that in the meantime Premier Poincare can secure assent of Belgium and Italy to his claim for conditional moratorium."

The French are contemplating seizing Bosum, the site of Hugo Steinnes' great industrial plant in the Ruhr, so that additional mines will be brought within their control. The projected mulated provides for productive security including a feature which will enable the allies to make sure the big industrial concerns of Germany will pay full share of reparations charges.

Sir John Bradbury, a British representative, abstained from voting on the motion to postpone the next payment until January 31. It is understood he intends to follow a policy of refusing to vote on anything remotely connected with occupation or its consequences. The reparations commission also decided to cooperate with the France-Belgium central commission in Essen.

Prohibition Agents Believe Report of Rum Fleet Untrue

Washington, Jan. 13.—Federal prohibition officials here today generally took the attitude that Murid report of a vast fleet of rum runners off the New Jersey coast were faked "propaganda" to be ignored.

Following communication with New York and New Jersey, prohibition officials and Federal Prohibition Commissioner Hayne branded the report false and steadily refused to discuss the matter today.

FOUR DIE WHEN SEAPLANE FALLS

Sugar Planter Drowns On Havana Trip; Sons Also Lost

Key West, Fla., Jan. 13.—E. F. Atkins, jr., millionaire sugar planter, his two sons and their governess perished this afternoon when the aeromarine airway seaplane Columbus dived into the Gulf of Mexico twenty miles off Havana.

Mrs. Atkins, who say her husband and children drowned before her eyes, was rescued by the crew of a ferry boat. The others aboard the seaplane were picked up. They were a nurse with the Atkins family, Otto Abrahams, wealthy New York broker, and E. W. Miller and Harold Thompson, pilot and mechanic of the plane.

The four who died were trapped in their narrow seats and were unable to extricate themselves. The bodies have not been recovered.

FULLERTON GIVES IOWA "ONCE OVER"

Tribune Sports Writer Examines Athletics Here; Watches Teams Practice

Hugh Fullerton, Chicago Tribune sports writer, who has been visiting most of the larger universities writing articles on the athletic situation in each, spent yesterday looking over Iowa's athletic plant. He talked over the situation here with President Jessup, members of the board in control of athletics, Mr. E. G. Schroeder, Coach Jones, and Coach George Bresnahan.

Mr. Fullerton expressed surprise over the amount of work being done by the physical training department, mainly because of the small staff. Seven people do all the work here, while Wisconsin has a staff of twenty seven for the same purpose. He also was astonished when told that there is a special locker room for faculty members, and that these men have special gym classes.

After looking over the gym, he went over to the armory and watched the track men work out. While there he watched the basketball team practice.

Sometime during the year, he intends to go to England in order to examine the system used in controlling athletics in English schools.

Attack On Memel Fails As Invaders Stop Lithuanians

Berlin, Jan. 13.—The French garrison at Memel repulsed a Lithuanian force attacking the city according to reports received here today.

WEATHER FORECAST
Rising temperature, and more rain.

HEATED SESSION FINDS GERMANY HIGHLY PLEASED

French Sentries Guard Mines As German Representative Wins Debate

Essen, Jan. 13.—Germany today made France promise to pay cash for all coal mined in the Ruhr valley.

With French sentries pacing up and down outside and with the invader's military machine dominating everything, a little German coal baron and representatives of the French coal commission met to reach an agreement under which the mine would be worked.

There was a heated session during which the French threatened to arrest the Germans for ordering coal production to cease.

Confiscation of the mines was also threatened. Fritz Von Buhlen and Hugo Steinnes mildly replied that the action was governed by the German coal law.

The Germans emerged from the session very well pleased with its result but the French said they had made no concession asserting they merely wanted to prevent the mine being closed down. The whole plan must be ratified by the German coal commissioner and the Paris government.

Walker To Direct "The Book of Job" Here February 5

Stewart Walker's production of "The Book of Job" to be presented at the Englert theatre in the afternoon and evening of February 5, will be conducted under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. in cooperation with the University theatre. The play will be shown under the personal direction of Stewart Walker.

"The Book of Job" was first presented on the stage by Stewart Walker for a series of Lenten matinees at the Booth theatre in 1918. The following season thirty-four performances were given of it at another theatre. This year a tour of the East and Middle West is being made. The play has been well received every where it has been presented.

SCIENTISTS SCORE OVER MORALISTS

Berlin, Jan. 13.—Science has prevailed against the moralists again.

The need for furthering the interests of medical and surgical education won against the objections of moralists when the matter of showing the scientific processes in film form of the famous Steinach gland transfere operation was brought before the final supreme censorship body here.

The Steinach operation is similar to the Vornoff and other gland transfere operations.

At first the lower censorship bodies forbade the showing of the moving picture on the grounds that it was immoral and unnecessary to scientific research.

The film is said to be very frank in depicting the need for the operation, the actual operation and the results thereof. The verdict, however, of the supreme censorship body is that the film may be shown because of its scientific value.

"RADIO HERE TO STAY" SAYS FORD

Entertainment Value of Radio Considered Its Greatest Appeal

The rapid rise of radio in the last few years has aroused unusual speculation as to the probable effects of its inevitable developments in perfection. The question is now being asked by the more thoughtful of the public and by scientists: Will radio dislodge any of our established institutions of today?

It is the opinion of men who are close observers of the recent developments in radio that the theater is the chief field being invaded; for outside of experimental, governmental and commercial usage, the entertainment value of the radio is its largest appeal. Prof. Arthur H. Ford, professor and head electrical engineer of the University of Iowa is of the opinion that the radio will not supplement to any extent the legitimate productions before theater audiences.

"The radio may make inroads upon the phonographs business, however," says Professor Ford, "but up to this time, no visible evidence of this is known. With the development of the radio to closer perfection, phonograph record music will be broadcasted more widely and this will be likely to have some effect on the business. Music of this kind broadcasted now comprise but three or four records in an evening. This, of course, is a very limited program."

The chief objection to broadcasted theatrical productions is the lack of its setting, which, according to Professor Ford, is one of the biggest parts of the show. People want to see with their own eyes what is taking place.

"The radio is a novelty at this time but it is here to stay. People, who before the radio became prominent attended the moving picture shows now no doubt stay home and listen to the radio, but this is not general. People choose their programs," says Professor Ford. "They must take what they can get, and what they can get on the waves is not always what they want."

Attempts are being made at this time by some music publishers to prohibit their copyrighted music from being broadcasted, they claim that it constitutes a breach of the copyright. On the other hand, Professor Ford receives music from some publishers which he is asked to send out from the Iowa station. The radio is looked at as a great advertising medium by some publishers and as a business-killer to others. Where the controversy will end is problematical.

REGISTER ON DAY SET OR PAY FINE

Materials for Registration Will Be Ready Next Week

Unless unexpected delay occurs in the printing of the schedule of courses, it is hoped that the liberal arts, education, commerce and graduate colleges may procure their registration materials before next Saturday.

All those students enrolled in the above colleges should watch both bulletin boards and the Daily Iowan for the final announcements of the days on which registration in these colleges will occur. These announcements will make clear the single day within which each student should complete his registration, but as soon as he can procure the schedule of courses he should begin to plan his work for the second semester, seeing the necessary advisors and instructors, according to printed directions.

The registration materials for the second semester will, as usual, include the schedule of courses, blank registration coupon strips and packets of blank class cards. The schedule of courses will include very definite instructions for registration, which should be studied and followed very carefully.

It is planned to complete the whole registration within nine days, a certain pre-determined number of students, according to an alphabetical division to be registered each day during the entire period.

The student who does not complete his registration on the day assigned to him will be obliged to pay a late registration fee for delay beyond that date.

CHURCH PARTICULAR AS TO MEMBERSHIP

(By United Press) Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 13.—No

smoking, no drinking and no movies are the strict rules of the Russian Baptist church, a sect here that were originally members of the Greek Orthodox church.

The members of the church, 100 in number, have followed the Baptist service since 1917. They believe that anything which pollutes the body, mind or soul should be disregarded at any sacrifice.

To become a member of the church one must go through a grilling of three hours and no one is accepted unless he proves to be mentally, spiritually and morally fit. Members who attend the movies are expelled from the church and if they indulge in tobacco or use intoxicants in any form, the "offender" may be brought before the church court for proper action.

Guests From Other Colleges Will Be Present At Mart

Tickets for the commerce Mart have been sold to the desired limit, 150 couples, and the few tickets remaining in the hands of committee members will be called in tomorrow. With the financial plans for the party completed the committee can now go ahead and carry out its ideas with reference to the party to the final detail.

One invited guest as a representative from each college will be among those in attendance at the party in accordance with the custom established last year. Guests were chosen on a basis of their activity in the student organizations of the other colleges by the committee and the list is as follows: medicine, Henry Bender M4 of Le Mars; law, Clyde B. Charlton L3 of Rolfe; applied science, William A. Turner S4 of Des Moines; dentistry, Howard A. Denbo D4 of Iowa City; liberal arts, Eric Wilson A4 of Iowa City; and pharmacy, Evan B. ### ZET SOPHOMORES ARE VICTORIOUS

Debate On Establishment of Federal Staff Court Similar To One In Kansas

The Zetagathian literary society, by the defeat of the Philomathean sophomore debaters by a 3-0 decision in Close hall last Thursday night, retains the inter-society sophomore debating championship for two successive years. The Philomathean team eliminated Irving Institute from championship consideration by defeating them by a 2-1 decision in the first debate on December 1.

The winning team, consisting of Paul M. Dwyer A2 of Oelwein, Ernest G. Linder A2 of Oakland and Floyd O. Racker A2 of Waverly, upheld the affirmative of the proposition, "Resolved, that a federal court similar to the Kansas industrial court should be established to settle disputes in essential industries," constitutionality waived. They were coached by Vernon L. Sharp L1 of Rolfe.

The Philomathean team, which won from Irving Institute on the affirmative but lost to Zetagathia on the negative, was composed of Daniel W. Holcomb A2 of Iowa City, Harold F. Fristedt A2 of Burlington, and Charles R. Sellers A2 of Davenport. James M. Stewart L1 of Runnells trained the team.

In the debate, the two opposing cases clashed squarely. Two trains of argument collided, but not many of the sparks which enliven debate flew. The debate was serious and determined. The Kansas court, the affirmative declared, applies law to the settlement of industrial disputes as a civil court does to civil disputes. Only judicial intervention will settle industrial disputes, for methods based on conciliation and arbitration have failed. The Kansas court, on the other hand had settled forty-two out of forty-five disputes. A federal court with nine branches presided over by judges of the supreme court could settle the six or ten major national industrial disputes.

The negative countered by flatly asserting that the Kansas court had failed in Kansas, for in the coal strikes of 1920 and 1922, the miners struck and refused to obey the court by returning to work. Only the leaders were punished. The plan has neither the confidence of capital, labor or the public, for Kansas recently elected a governor who opposes the court. Furthermore, it would be impossible for one federal court to administer industrial justice to the entire United States. The court does not touch the cause of disputes; a prophylactic is needed. It is socialistic to permit momentous politico-economic questions to be decided by a court. And finally, since, under the United Mine Workers vs. the Colorado company decision of the supreme court, a labor union can sue and be sued, the civil court system can adjudicate industrial disputes, and an industrial court is superfluous.

In rebuttal, the affirmative replied that in the Kansas coal strikes, since the strikers could not prevent other men from taking their places under the law, the mines continued to be worked and the strike failed. The legislature elected with the governor is pro-court. Furthermore, the negative had unknowingly conceded the principle at issue by advocating judicial settlement for disputes in civil courts, whereas the affirmative proposed judicial settlement in industrial courts whose jurisdiction was extended to cover industrial cases beyond the consideration of the civil courts.

The judges, who decided unanimously for the affirmative, were Prof. Raleigh W. Stone, of the college of commerce, Herbert C. Weller, instructor in the department of speech, and Jesse T. Carpenter G of Durham, N. C.

More Colonization In Mexico Planned By Island Empire

(By United Press)

Mexico City, Mexico.—Japanese are planning colonization in Mexico on a larger scale, according to an announcement to the United Press by David Ferriz, former Mexican consul in Yokohama and Kobe.

"More and more are the Japanese planning colonization here," Ferriz said. "The Mexican government is uraging such colonization from Japan, as it does from all other countries."

Several Japanese missions have visited Mexico during the past months.

Ferriz is here on a leave of absence because of illness. He expects to return to Japan.

W. A. A. WILL AWARDED ELEVENTH 'I' SWEATER

The eleventh "I" sweater to be awarded to a woman and the first one awarded this year will be presented to Almada Cutting A4 of Decorah at the regular meeting of Women's Athletic Association at the women's gymnasium Wednesday. Those who won the first ten sweaters are Mary Freeman '22 of No-catee, Fla., Gladys Taggart A4 of Spencer, Helen Spencer A4 of Des Moines, Pauline Spencer A4 of Des Moines, Callie Buser A4 of Conesville, Ruth Zorn A4 of Montezuma, Julia Darrow ex'22 of Columbus Junction, Lorena Bowen, Myrtle Ellman, and Cecilia Bowen.

One thousand points are required to win an "I", sixty per cent of which must be obtained by making the first team in soccer, basketball, or fieldball. For each place on a first team 100 points are given. Forty per cent of the points may be earned by taking part in women's track meets, swimming, playing tennis, hiking, or taking elective physical training courses.

SAMPLE BAND UNIFORM HERE FOR INSPECTION

Gold and Black Colors Embodied In New Uniform Under Consideration

The sample band uniform for which Col. Morton C. Mumma furnished specifications to the Lilley company of Columbus, Ohio, has arrived and will be presented to the band at their Tuesday rehearsal for inspection. It will later be placed in a downtown store window in order that the public may pass judgment upon it.

The uniform that is being considered consists of the black serge coat with the old gold velvet shoulder straps and the old gold velvet sleeve band. The coat is of the Canadian English cut with the low rolled collar; the idea is that the man playing a band instrument needs the freedom of a low collar. The cape is the black serge shoulder cape, lined with a lustrous gold satin. It has a standing roll collar and is about 35 inches long.

Regulation Cap

The cap is the regulation military cap in the black serge with an inch wide band of gold velvet and the United States coat of arms with the letters R. O. T. C. in the form of a wreath above in gilt. The only change that may be made in the cap is a black mohair band and a gold cord in place of the patent leather cap strap. Black trousers will be worn with the exception of possible white flannels in the late spring and early fall. A West Point waist belt of two-inch white web with a gilt waist plate may be adopted for wear with the coat. The members of the band will furnish the trousers which may be secured by special order through the military department. A black tie, white shirt and white collar will be worn with the uniform.

Cape Is Distinctive

"There were two ideas in the cape," said Colonel Mumma, "a little added warmth for one and the other, a splendid opportunity of displaying the University color in the lining."

The cape may be removed and a touch of color remains. When the very conservative suit with just a the corners of it may be caught to-cape is wanted for display purposes together at the back and large sections of the gold lining lend the desired amount of color. A more elaborate head covering than the regulation cap may be adopted for the drum major. He will wear a large shako, similar to that worn by Hussars.

"The principal thing that has guided in the design of this uniform is conservatism and a desire to have it distinctive, also," said Colonel Mumma. "We gave up the idea of having the drab uniforms when we considered that although our band is strictly a military band, it appears on many occasions the band should have dress uniforms such as the one being considered. They will still wear the olive drab, however, at all military functions."

After having examined and considered numbers of uniforms that had been made up for various colleges and universities and not being satisfied with any, Colonel Mumma offered this original design to the Lilley representative. It is a complete departure from any of those presented and the Lilley company, which is among the largest of uniform manufacturers in this country, plans to incorporate it as a stock design in their catalog.

There is now only the $1451 that was collected on last Homecoming day available to pay for the fifty or fifty-five uniforms that are needed. The coat, cape, cap and belt cost $37.50. Approximately $2,000 is needed to uniform the whole band.

The band itself expects to raise the $600 deficit by giving two concerts, the first the second week of February and the second in April. O. E. Van Doren, band director, and Colonel Mumma anticipate a large enough attendance to necessitate the use of the men's gymnasium.

WILL HOLD TRYOUTS FOR GOPHER CLASH

Wrestlers Will Compete Jan. 27, 29, 30; Heldt Back In Squad

The wrestling tryouts to determine who will represent the Hawkeyes on February 3 when they meet Minnesota on gopher territory, will be held at the men's gymnasium on January 27, 29 and 30.

Captain Heldt has fully recovered from his recent attack of lumbago and is again working out with the wrestling squad. His sickness during the early part of the season has been a great handicap to him in getting into condition for the first meet of the year.

The tryouts will begin on Saturday, January 27, the last day of examinations, since it is expected that most of the men will get through with their tests before Saturday. The tryouts will be over on Tuesday, January 29, which will give the coach four days to organize his team before they leave for Minneapolis.

There is still a possibility that James may wrestle in the middle-weight division. He has only eight more pounds to lose in order to place him in this class, since he weighed in last night at 166 pounds. Should James wrestle in the 158 pound class Kriz, a brother of Iowa's husky right tackle, is the most likely contender left in the light heavy-weight division.

Kappa Kappa Gamma Has Two Hitches On Carnival Relay Cup

If the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority wins the third annual relay carnival which will be held in the new armory Saturday, February 10, at 2 p. m., the traveling cup which, to be kept permanently, must be won three consecutive years, will be given to them.

Each year Coach George T. Bresnahan sends a list of names of distance runners to the various sororities and Currier Hall and each selects one of these men to act as its captain for the relay race. The captains choose three other men for their team, a 220 man, a quarter-miler and a half-miler. The first man runs 220 yards and gives the baton to a teammate who carries it 44 yards and gives it to the 880 yard runner and then finally to the miler.

For the past two years the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority has defeated all rival teams. Their last winning team was captained by Leslie V. Peterman, varsity two-miler. The first year Leonard P. "Doc" Ristine led the wearers of the Kappa colors to victory. Should they win the race this year they may retain the cup permanently.

Besides the inter-sorority relays, there will be fraternity, quadrangle and teams from the military department. The quadrangle will have eight teams of six men each. The military department will choose several teams of six men each and each fraternity may enter a six-man team. The winners of each section will receive plaques.

OPEN TICKET SALE FOR "MRS. FAIR"

Season Ticket Holders May Call for Reservations Monday and Tuesday

Season ticket holders who filed applications for tickets at the Iowa Supply company before 8 p. m. on Saturday, January 13, may call and pay for their tickets tomorrow afternoon and Tuesday. The general sale will open on Wednesday, January 17. The tickets not called for by Tuesday night at 7 p. m. will be thrown into the general sale. Season ticket holders who fail to make applications for reservations may secure their tickets at the general sale on Wednesday, January 17.

"The Famous Mrs. Fair" which will be presented Wednesday and Thursday evenings by the class in dramatic production will have settings designed by Marjorie Mearndon A4 of Iowa City, who is a member of the class in stagecraft. Miss Mearndon's design is done in tones of gold, tan, Van Dyke brown and blue. It is one of the best designs that has been made by members of the class this semester, and is now being executed in the University theatre shop.

The play "The Famous Mrs. Fair" has been in rehearsal in the class in dramatic production for several weeks before it was announced for public production. Then it was taken over by Mr. Charles V. Brown, so that Professor Mabie's time could be devoted to the production of "The Merchant of Venice" in February. Mr. Brown assisted in the University theatre last year and directed "You Can Never Tell" by Bernard Shaw, and "The Show Shop," another of James Forbes' plays during the summer session.

The cast includes a number of new players who have been doing good work in the class in dramatic production and includes among them Esther Oltrogge A4 of Tripoli, as Mrs. Fair; Marguerite Benda A3 of Iowa City, as Sylvia, her daughter; Walter Dehner A4 of Iowa City, as Alan Fair; Flossie Walker, Mildred Walker A3 of Corydon, Maurine Shaw Au of Des Moines and Alice Glass A3 of Cresco, Arnold J. Hand A4 of Lyons, John H. White A3 of Mitchell, S. Dak., Bessie Aye A3 of Pleasanton, Margaret Haas A3 of Marengo, Julia Crary A1 of Grundy Center, and Vivian McCoy Au of Clarion.

This comedy has been most successful fully produced within the last two months at the University of California and at the University of Utah. It had a long run in New York and on the road with Blanche Bates and Henry Miller in the leads.

Palimpsest Tells of First Amateur Dramatists in Iowa

The January number of the Palimpsest, which is edited every month by Prof. John Ely Briggs, of the department of political science, was published yesterday.

The Palimpsest for this month contains an article by Clint Parkhurst on "The Siege of Corinth." This article tells of the siege of Corinth by the Union army, and the evacuation of it by the Confederate army under Beauregard.

This month's number contains two articles by Bruce E. Mahan. The one "The Iowa Hesprians," tells of the formation of the first amateur dramatic company on Iowa soil, of the plays presented by them, and of the first troupe of professional actors to visit the Territory of Iowa. Among this first troupe was Joseph Jefferson, at that time a child of ten, who afterward gained much fame as an actor. The other article by Mr. Mahan bears the title of "Pleasant Hill Dramatics," and tells about the dramatic work attempted by the young people of Pleasant Hill.

THE DAILY IOWAN PLATFORM FOR A GREATER UNIVERSITY OF IOWA

1. Curtailment by the social committee of all inactive organizations.
2. Maintenance of Iowa traditions and customs.
3. A strong student council.
4. Recognition of the cultural as well as practical background of education.
5. Broader democracy and greater unity of the student body.
6. The University of Iowa above all fraternities, sororities and other groups.
7. A change in student attitude which will make an honor system possible.
8. Every student and alumnus a member of the Memorial Union.

WHAT IS CULTURE?

Culture is an elastic word. It has come to mean anything from sophistry to the unearthing of family pedigrees. Iowans have confused it with afternoon tea parties, Pomeranian dogs, and Packard cars. They have been taught to regard it with suspicion—as something which has long spelled damnation for the leisure class. When some one has criticised the state for its apparent lack of this undefined something, the reaction on the part of the residents has been to stand up and cheer.

But possibly culture is a misused word; possibly we have a prejudice against the term and not for the things for which it stands. Surely Iowans, no less than any other group of people, have an inherent respect for the better and higher things of life. For culture, in its last analysis, is best reflected in a sense of values. It is found in the most simple lives—it permeates the whole of life. Culture answers the question of what is most worth while in life, and what is most conducive to our happiness and to the happiness of future generations.

Those who have observed Iowans either in the farming communities of the state or in their cities and towns must have been struck with the tedium of their lives. Most are content with existence but as there is a certain amount of pleasure in life at its worst, one can not say they are unhappy. The element which is lacking in their lives is culture—the development of the finer instincts—for it is in this which true happiness lies.

Culture is not to be sneered at but to be incorporated into our very souls.

THE GENTLE ART OF CURSING

If the legal penalty for swearing were a mouth-washing with soap and water, the University would consume the entire output of Procter and Gamble. Swearing is a staple in conversation, and the too sad fact is, that "damn" has degenerated into a synonym for "very."

The Puritan recites the first commandment and sermonizes on the terrifying awe of invoking a divine curse. He even abjures "gosh" and "darn" as devil-devised word corruptions. If any of us believed that our conjurations would actually damn our victims eternally, we should curb our tongue, that is, for most victims. But no one does imagine this. Even a Puritan who is not tongue-tied or dumb, must concede that there is something psychologically satisfying in a strong, round "damn." It purges our feelings as slamming a door does. It has the emphasis of a right upper-cut.

Cursing should not be eliminated; it should be conserved. Revive the gentle art of swearing. Promiseous cursing dishonors the practice. Artistic cursing is a thing of beauty, a joy to listen to. Long John Silver, the pirate, mastered the art. College students are blundering, two-phrased ("hell" and "damn") amateurs. As Bob Aeres in "The Rivals" explains, "There is no meaning in the common oaths—to swear with propriety, the 'oath should be an echo to the sense;' and this we call the oath referential, or sentimental swearing—'tis genteel, isn't it?"

What will the man who exhausts his vocabulary over a broken shoe string say when his wife elopes with another man. His state is deplorable without an unused cuss word to relieve it. Nor can you blame the wife for leaving such a 'run off at the mouth' fellow. Conserve your expletives. Make your swearing a matter of emphasis and artistry. Then no longer will your cursing be idly tolerated. It will be respected.

The Sounding Board

AT THE BALL

The dancers moved about the floor
In gay and festive garb;
I saw a lot of pretty girls
And one that was a darb.

Until I saw my sad mistake
My heart was filled with glee—
She smiled in my direction, but
She didn't smile at me.

Time: Friday evening.
Scene: Men's gymnasium.
By 9 o'clock or shortly thereafter the first formal of the season, long anticipated by social lions and taxi men, was getting under way. Members of the Four Hundred had commenced to assemble at the trysting place. Budding Valentinos were depositing their fair freight at the entrance to the Temple of Terpsichore, and everyone was happy, including the clothiers who had rented the dress suits.

But hark! What reverberating flourish of trumpets affrights the ear! It is the signal for the battle to begin, and forth from a secluded nook at one end of the arena glides a radiant couple. Watch the young lady!

"She starts, she moves, she seems to feel
The thrill of life along her keel."

She hooks her chin over her escort's shoulder! The fight is on!
Soon this adventurous couple is joined by others eager for the fray. All the participants appear to be in the pink of condition, and seldom are they forced to call for time out. No holds are barred except the full nelson and double wrist lock, the referee announces, amid wild applause. Round and round the floor the dancers dash, sometimes making a complete circuit in the course of two or three numbers.

Between the halves fraternity and sorority presidents rallied their cohorts, checking up on the injured and putting new pep into those who were beginning to lag behind. At the opening of the final period a prominent tea-hound was penalized five yards for commencing to dance before the music began. Loud and prolonged cheering from the bleachers showed that the spectators approved this penalty in the interests of fair play.

Although dancing was permissible until 1 a. m., taxi engines began to knock at the front door about 12 o'clock, and the crowd thinned out perceptibly. Tired feet and shoulders gratefully accepted the refuge of the cabs, and the twenty-fifth annual Military Ball died out in a glare of innumerable headlights and a chorus of commands, "Home, James."

John Doe warrants, it is understood, have been sworn out for the officer who wore spurs to the skirmish. He is charged with contributory negligence, disturbing the peace, and carrying weapons without a license.

Those who were afraid their presence would not be noted whiled away the moments between dances by sitting on the orchestra platform.

What we couldn't understand was why the musicians always took an instrument case along when they went out to take the air.

In some respects this country might learn a good deal from Merrie England. You may have noticed that they hanged a woman over there for murdering her husband.

SEVENTEEN.

"Druida"—John Towner Frederick

Reviewed By George Carver

It has been variously said that he who reviews his friend's book is—well, several things. However, no matter what dire results may follow, I am willing to take a chance. "Druida" is a beautiful book in conception, in purpose, and, as far as the author's experience has gone, also in execution.

Druida, the chief character, arose in the author's mind as a symbol of the Red River Valley country. She has beauty and a wealth of innate potentialities. She suffers through the wrong-headedness of those who should have made her path easy, develops spiritually because of her tribulation, and finally achieves tranquility in attaining the self-expression for which she was destined.

In purpose Mr. Frederick has arrayed himself with those of the younger writers who are attacking stupidity with all the force they can call into being. Druida, the girl, is not misunderstood by those about her. Nobody makes any effort to understand her. What happens is that she is judged entirely without thought of motive—and damned without reasonableness.

And the same is true in the case of those who love her; they, too, are wrecked simply because their lives included her.

Yes, stupidity is the theme in "Druida" just as it is in "Gargoyles," "Babbitt," and half a score more of the novels of today.

There is, however, in "Druida" something that fogs the theme. Perhaps this fogging arises because the structural devices of the novelist are not strictly invisible—one is very conscious of the time device, for instance, and of the indirect conveying of characteristics. Perhaps it arises because the reader must take the writer's opinion of Druida instead of being able to form his own; she never quite steps out of the book, a figure of three dimensions. One is surprised continually by the fact that she forms conceptions of people and the world about her. "Where did she learn that?" is a question which often bobs up to disconcert the reader. Willoughby is another character whom we must take more or less on faith, likewise Mrs. Horsfall. Dr. Thompson and Oscar Horsfall, however, stand out definitely as flesh and blood. There is, for example a world of pathos in this passage, alluding to Dr. Thompson after he has been forced out of Stablesburg and has taken life up again in Riverton in a questionable hotel: "Finally, scarcely more than a month after Dr. Thompson's arrival in Riverton, the proprietor of the Imperial renewed his proposal to 'get a little practice on the side—right here in the hotel.' And without meeting his eyes, the doctor agreed." And as for Oscar Horsfall, two glimpses of him snoring drunk in his chair are sufficient to fix him in the mind indelibly.

As a first novel, however, in spite of these flaws, and remember I looked closely to find them, for it would never do to praise a friend's book too highly in print, "Druida" is filled to the brim with promise. It contains some exquisite prose. It is replete with the records of keen observation. It smells of the earth out of which it is wrought.

In a year I shall read it again.

Freedom of the pen has always been jealously guarded in France; in fact, intellectual freedom is the greatest liberty the French enjoy. But the popular reputation attached to the French novel is an indication that freedom sometimes has degenerated into license.

The Latin mind, it is true, allows to writers a greater latitude both of subject and treatment than would be granted by northern races, and art in construction and wit in the telling of a story justify in the eyes of the Latin peoples much that otherwise would not be tolerated. Practically no moral censorship is exercised either by police or post office in France over books.

In the past year the best seller in France was a book by Victor Marguerite, an honorary president of the Society of Men of Letters and an officer in the Legion of Honor. This novel is so frank in its inane indecency that it has aroused public protest. The authorities have no handy weapon with which to strike, but the Council of the Legion of Honor has performed a public service in declaring M. Marguerite no longer worthy of his decoration.

This action has been supported by the Society of Men of Letters, which, according to dispatches received this week from Paris, has refused to protest against the decision of the Council of the Legion.

The case has led to a great deal of discussion and even to official acts of repentance. M. Leon Daudet, the Royalist Deputy of Paris, has confessed his literary sins to the Archbishop of Paris and his informed him of the withdrawal from sale of one of his offensive books. The publicity given to the subject may yet lead to further acts of submission to the rules of ordinary good manners, especially as there are a number of vacancies in the French Academy, which is becoming increasingly severe in its morality.

As a matter of fact, in France today there is a cheerful increase in the amount of reading matter which, although adapted for French youth, is not mawkish. French magazines have greatly improved in tone and more than one publisher has embarked with success upon the enterprise of catering for the family reader whose intellectual outlook, while not enabling him to appreciate the Academicians, demands some sanely wholesome literary food.

What chance have you got against him?

IT was a cynic who said: "Some men go to college. Other men study."

A slander! But yet there probably are college men whose bills for midnight oil are not large.

And there are men who left school in the lower grades who, along with a hard day's work, put in long hours of study—spurred on by a dream and a longing.

Look out for them.

The achievements of non-college men in business suggest an important fact. Success seems to depend, not so much on the place where a man studies, as on the earnestness of the student.

But, granting equal earnestness and ability, it is still true that the college man has the advantage.

Regular hours for study and lecture, the use of library and laboratory, the guidance of professors, contact with men of the same age and aspirations—all these will count in his favor, if he makes the most of them.

A big "if." The new year is a good time to start making it a reality.

Appointments In Graduate College Open for 1923-24

The graduate college of the University of Iowa offers the following appointments with stipends for the year 1923-24:

18 scholars, $200 to $400 a year, with free tuition.

18 junior fellows, $300 to $500 a year, with free tuition

3 senior fellows, $600 to $800 a year, with free tuition

15 research assistants on half-time, $600 and upwards, in proportion to qualifications for service.

5 research associates, $1000 and upwards in proportion to qualifications for independent achievement for service.

60 graduate assistants on half-time, $700 to $800.

This is a part of the general policy of education adopted by the state and a means of honoring and encouraging students of high ability. The higher positions are awarded only to those who have proved their ability in graduate work. The research assistantships are open to those who have qualified for research in some specific field. The research assistant is appointed exclusively for assistance in research on half-time for service, with the privilege of carrying a maximum of two-thirds graduate study. The graduate assistants are appointed for assistance in undergraduate instruction for half-time service to the department, with the privilege of carrying from one-half to two-thirds of the graduate schedule.

The senior fellowships are open to students who have earned their doctor's degree or who have a preparation equivalent thereto; the junior fellowships to students who have completed one or more years of graduate study or who have an equivalent preparation; and the scholarships to graduates of any college or university of good standing.

Application for appointment to fellowships, scholarships, or research associate should be made to the dean of the graduate college. Applications for research assistantships and graduate assistantships should be made directly to the department in which the major is chosen. Applications should be made before March 15.

Entire Cast for French Play Not Decided As Yet

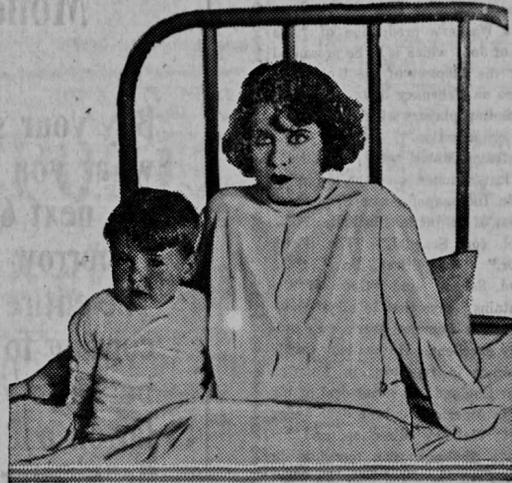

Part of the cast for the French play "Le Voyage de Monsieur Perrichon," which is to be given February 20 by the French club, have been definitely decided upon. # KAW INDIANS RICH; DISCOVER NEW OIL WELL

"Turning of the Ways" Is Reached Under First Squaw Leader of Tribe

(By United Press)
Kaw City, Oklahoma, Jan. 13—The Kaw Indians here will observe an early hour tomorrow morning with the greatest festival in the history of the tribe, for the reason that hitherto the poor and the envious cousins of the Osages, the richest Indians in the world, have reached the turning of the way.

Under the leadership of the first woman chieftain in the tribe's history they are entering on a new era which is expected to place them on an equal footing with their wealthy neighbors before the end of the year. And oil well with a natural flow of more than 2000 barrels daily came in on the Kaw reservation today.

The bleak fields which had brought previously only a meager return for grazing ground witnessed wild scenes all day. Bids were put in for $1000 an acre for royalty in the first deals of the day, and under the extreme competition of continued arrival threatened to take a jump before many more hours. The news of the well resulted in a stampede which will well compare with the rush of the gold fields of California and Alaska.

"BOOK OF JOB" IS PRAISED BY MABIE

Tickets Now On Sale for Biblical Production To Be Given Here

George Sommes, who plays Job in Stuart Walker's production of "The Book of Job" which is to be presented under the auspices of the University theatre on February 5, is one of the outstanding players with Stuart Walker's organization.

Professor Mabie, who spent some time last summer with the organization in Indianapolis, saw Sommes in a series of productions including "The School for Scandal," "The Faith Healer," "The Silver Fox," "The Charm School" and "Gods of the Mountains," says that in all of these productions Sommes' work was uniformly excellent. He has had a wide experience in repertory in America and in England. A great deal of his work in America has been done under Stuart Walker's direction, and his work in Shakespearean repertory in England was done under the direction of Ben Greet.

He has had experience not only in the professional commercial theatre, but has had experience as a director of his own theatre; his latest venture being the successful Little Theatre Society of Indianapolis where his productions included "Palais and Melisande" by Maeterlinck.

The Stuart Walker production of the "Book of Job" is being brought under the auspices of the University theatre, which has assumed the risk of a large guarantee for the productions. Interest is being manifested through the city, and requests have come for reservations of tickets from a number of parties in Cedar Rapids and surrounding towns. Those who are in charge claim that it will be one of the finest, if not the finest, productions that has visited Iowa City within recent years.

EDUCATOR WILL SPEAK ON VITAL TOPIC TODAY

Dor: "Sanctus Spiritus and Company" and "Tolstoy the Man." His book on "Tolstoy the Man" is an account of the life of the great Russian as a sociologist. "Introducing the American Spirit" is an account of a trip through the United States taken by Professor Steiner and German friends in which he attempts to show them the effects of "The Making of a Great Race." All his books show an unusual and interesting English style.

The program for the vespers service this afternoon is:

Prelude—"Prist's March" from "The Magic Flute"

University Orchestra

Invocation
Reverend Walter C. Schafer
Overture—"Lord God of Abraham" from "Elijah"

University Orchestra
Scripture Reading
Soprano Solo—"When Thou Comest"
