GLEE CLUB TO OPEN SEASON HERE TONIGHT

Annual Home Concert Precedes College Glee Clubs' Contest

The University Men's Glee Club will give its annual home concert tonight at 8:15 in the natural science auditorium. The concert is one of the musical events of the year and music lovers already look forward to an entertaining program, varied features and an evening of good music.

The concert tonight is the first of a series to be given by the club this year. The organization is always in demand throughout the state and Burlington has already contracted for a concert for March 16th. Various week end trips will be taken, and a tour is now being arranged for the spring vacation.

The most conspicuous appearance of the season will be that in Chicago on Feb. 9, when the glee club will represent Iowa in the intercollegiate glee clubs competitive concert to be held in Orchestra hall between the organizations of twelve of the larger universities and colleges in the middle west. Invitation to compete in this concert came as a signal recognition of the worth of the club here, for this contest is one of the biggest university musical events in the country. According to advices from Chicago, there is considerable interest in the contest and over two-thirds of the seats for the concert have been sold.

Prof. Walter Leon, director of the glee club, expresses confidence that the performance of the club in Chicago will be such that Iowa may be proud of its entrant in the competition. The men have been working all year on the numbers to be sung

BELIEVE TURKS READY TO SIGN

Poincare Asks British Envoy Be Sent To Lausanne For Negotiations

(By Hudson Hawley)
Paris, Feb. 5—Premier Poincare, believing that the Turks are now willing to sign the Near East peace treaty, has sent a note to Bonar Law requesting him to dispatch a British representative to Lausanne. Britain is not represented at Lausanne now because Curzon, British foreign minister, took his entire staff to London with him when Ismet Pasha, Turk delegate refused to sign the pact Sunday.

French Optimistic
It was authoritatively stated that the French government is in receipt of very encouraging news from Ismet at Lausanne. According to this information Ismet declared he would accept most of the provisions concerning capitulations, which have been the stumbling block.

Ismet, with the French government, does not consider the conference over, but merely suspended.

In th communication to Lord Curzon, Poincare stated he had proof that the Greeks are anxious to resume hostilities in the Near East. Poincare urges Bonar Law to do all in his power to promote peace.

Curzon Returns
By Ralph H. Turner

London, Feb. 5—Lord Curzon, back in London after spending nearly three months at the Lausanne peace parley, carried the woes of the Near East to the cabinet of Premier Bonar Law Monday. The cabinet considered the situation that has arisen because of refusal of Ismet Pasha to

German Mob Throws Bottles And Threatens Anti-French Violence

(By United News)
Frankfort, Feb. 5—Anti-French demonstrations were renewed Monday when an agry mob of Germans surged about a hotel housing the entente commission and showered bottles through windows. Several arrests were made before the police succeeded in dispersing the mob.

IOWA GRID STAR TO BECOME HEAD COACH

John Heldt, Pivot Man, To Take Position As Ohio University Mentor

Definite announcement came yesterday from athletic authorities at Ohio University, at Athens, Ohio, that John Heldt A4 of Lyons, had accepted the position of head football coach at that institution. He will begin his work the latter part of August or early in September of this year. When not acting in the capacity of head football mentor he will assist the general coaching staff of the university.

Ohio university is a member of the Ohio conference. Their teams are probably better known in the East than the West as they play such universities as Pittsburg, West Virginia. According to Heldt it is the intention of the authorities to try and arrange a schedule that will take in a few of the middle western colleges and universities.

John Heldt is one of the few men to win an "I" in four years of Big Ten competition. He started his football career in 1918 playing on the S. A. T. C. team, that defeated the team of All-stars representing Camp Dodge. He played as a regular all of the season of 1919 when Iowa placed fifth in the Conference. The next season Heldt was not in the University. He returned to Iowa in the fall of 1921 and soon earned a place as the regular pivot man and put up an exhibition that marked him as one of the best centers in the Conference. His steadiness in the center of the line helped materially in carrying the Hawkeyes to the Big Ten championship and 1922 found him back at his old job.

This year he was at his best. His knowledge of the game and his general all-around play won him recognition by nearly all of the noted sporting writers of the country. Walter Eckersall selected him as center on his All-Western team as well as on the Conference team. He is captain of this year's wrestling team and handles the heavy-weight division. The selection of Heldt makes the third member of the championship 1921 team to take a position as head football coach.

DENTAL ASSOCIATION WILL HOLD SMOKER

After five months of inactivity, members of the Dental Students' association are to hold a smoker, Thursday evening February 8, in the association rooms at the dental college building. The smoker will be the first of a series of entertainments for the current school year.

Howard Denbo D4 of Iowa City, who is president of the association, intimated that dental students have but little time for social gatherings. In announcing the smoker, for Thursday evening, he stressed the fact that the organization cannot function until the books for the past year are placed in his possession. The books are now in the hands of Dean Rienow but will probably be turned over to Denbo within the next few days.

NAME SCHMIDT EX-OFFICIAL RUHR DICTATOR

Former Burgomaster To Lead Economic War Against French Is Claim

(By United News)
Dusseldorf, Feb. 5—Herr Schmidt, banished Burgomaster of Dusseldorf, has been named "Ruhr dictator" by the German government.

Schmidt is to be the leader of an economic war with France and will exercise supreme authority over the inhabitants and local officials in the "lost province."

The former Burgomaster who was appointed to the post Monday by Chancellor Cuno is to occupy a portfolio in the German cabinet and will be officially designated as special minister for Ruhr affairs.

Schmidt's appointment is generally considered by French as evidence of the German government to wage a long fight against the French attempts to mine coal in the Ruhr and collect customs the proceeds to be applied to the reparations account.

The dictator has had wide experience and is believed to be eminently fitted for his new position. During the war he was the Herbert Hoover of Germany. It has not been made known whether Schmidt will attempt to establish himself in the Ruhr or direct affairs from Berlin.

The German government it is believed here appointed Schmidt to boost the morale of the Ruhrites which has been low because of food

RIFLE TEAM WINS FROM NEBRASKANS

Lowest Iowan Score Is Higher Than Highest Mark Made by Any Opposing Marksman

Winning by a greater margin of points than had been made in any previous match, the Iowa Rifle team defeated the University of Nebraska's best shots in the dual rifle match which closed last Saturday noon. The final score was for Iowa 3578 points out of a possible 4000 to 3083 points scored by Nebraska. This score eclipses the 448 point win over Minnesota last year, by 47 points.

There was such a difference between scores that the total points of W. J. Dehner who placed tenth among the Iowa men exceed by a 2 point margin the score made by the highest Nebraska shot.

D. W. Bray took first place in the meet. Although R. C. Woods made a total score equal to that of Bray, his was given second place because of his lower mark in the standing position which is considered the most difficult position to fire from. In the same way I. L. Sorenson defeated G. H. Hickox for third place.

Following is the list of the scores of the Iowa team:

D. W. Bray, 373; R. C. Woods, 373; I. L. Sorenson, 364; G. H. Hickox, 364; R. W. Ballard, 361; F. D. Gibson, 352; H. H. Weaver, 351; George Fabricius (Captain), 350; F. W. DeKoltz, 349; W. J. Dehner, 341.

The match was fired from the four positions with all scores counting for a record. The highest possible score that a shooter could make is 400.

No dual meets will be fired this week. Instead the men will fire the second stage of the seventh first stage of the National Rifle Association tournament.

ORATORS WILL TRY OUT FOR N.O.L. CONTEST

Eleven to Compete in Contest to Select Six for Final Tryout

Competition for the highest oratorical honor in the University will quicken Thursday, February 8, at 4 o'clock in the natural science auditorium, when the number of contestants for the University oratorical contest will be reduced from eleven to six by the first tryout. The six surviving the preliminary will compete again on February 21 in the final tryout of the contest. The winner of this receives the Walter A. Jessup prize of $25 and represents the University of Iowa in the northern oratorical league contest at Minneapolis on May 4 against orators from the Universities of Minnesota, Illinois, Wisconsin and Northwestern.

The eleven, two of whom are women, who compete next Thursday, with the name of their orations, are: W. James Berry, "Woodrow Wilson"; Robert E. Birchard A3 of Davenport, "Service—the Regulator of Class Hatred"; Marjorie E. Buhler A2 of Atlanta, Ga., "National Education for the Negro"; Jos. W. Hauser A3 of Iowa City, "Beyond the Mirage"; Clara C. Levy A4 of Pueblo, Colo., "The Americanization of America"; Oral S. Swift L1 of orth English, "A Court Schroeder L1 of Lost Nation, "A Plea for Industrial Disputes"; Edwin P. for "The American Soldier"; Mathew M. Stafford L1 of Dubuque, "Our Return to the Sea"; Carl W. Tucker S4 of Iowa City, "The National Heritage"; Loren W. Van Dorn A2 of Seymour, "The New Idea"; and Byrl Whitney A4 of Cherokee, "A World Constitution in Writing."

The written text of these orations is being graded by members of the English department. Then next Thursday, each contestant will deliver eight minutes of his oration before the board of judges. On the basis of the judgment on composition and on delivery, six entrants will be selected to go on to the final University oratorical contest on February 21. The judges in the tryout will be Prof. Glenn N. Merry, head of the department of speech, Lee R. Norvelle, Herbert C. Weller, Vance M. Morton, Harry T. Wood, instructors in the department of speech, and a judge selected by Delta Sigma Rho, honorary forensic fraternity.

SUB-COMMITTEES ON SENIOR HOP NAMED

Senior Hop Committee Held Joint Meeting and Organization Starts Work

The 1923 Senior Hop committee met Sunday afternoon for the first time. Plans were discussed, sub-committees appointed and the organization was put under way. James Butterfield L3 of Washington, chairman of the committee, presided at the meeting.

The date of the Hop was set last week for Friday evening, March 9 by Lehan T. Ryan L3 of Winthrop, all senior president. The committees appointed Sunday are:

Decorations—Henry Wormley, chairman, A. E. Cardle, C. L. Smith. Music and entertainment—Max Kadesky, chairman, Sherman McNally, Arnold J. Hand.

Program—Carl B. Kreiner, chairman, Beatrice Gates, Leo Voght.

Ticket—Helen Maulsby, chairman, Arch A. Plagman, Francis S. Burrows.

Checking—Albert Floto, chairman, Thomas Wright, Myron Allied.

Finance—Angus L. Cotton.

CHICAGO STUDENTS SAY IOWA IS NEXT CHAMPION

In Sunday's issue of the Chicago Tribune, the conductor of the "Inquiring Reporter" column asked the question, "Who do you think will be this year's conference basketball champions?" The question was asked by the reporter in Bartlett gymnasium at the University of Chicago and was answered by university students. Of the five answers, three predicted that Iowa would win, one said Michigan, and another Wisconsin. All made statements concerning Iowa's great teamwork on the floor.

TO TEST STUDENTS' INTEREST IN GOLF

University Cannot Have Outdoor Course Until More Land Is Acquired—Schroeder

The equipment for the indoor golf course has arrived at the men's gymnasium and as soon as it is installed in the old locker room, golf enthusiasts will be able to pound the canvass in an effort to perfect their drives.

"The athletic department is interested in the reception the students will give this equipment for three reasons," said Ernest G. Schroeder, director of physical education for men. "We wish to find how many students are interested in golf; Iowa should keep pace with the other universities of the conference; and every device to inspire the men to spend their time at the gymnasium is welcomed by the department."

The establishment of winter golf practice is the first step in promoting golf as a university sport. Northwestern university recently made golf a major sport. Nearly every other member of the conference except Iowa has a golf team. There are many students in the university who are interested in golf, many of good caliber. Iowa could hold her own in golf as well as the other sports it is believed. The interest shown now will determine largely how soon golf will be one of Iowa's popular sports.

"The athletic board hopes that some day Iowa may have a course for the students," continued Mr. Schroeder, "but such a proposition is beyond the power of the board. With the acquisition of more land by the university the hopes of the board may be realized. I feel sure the board would undertake the care of a course if the university could provide the land. The board in itself could do little. The fate of such a proposition depends upon the interest shown by the student body and the action of the university executives."

Prince Of Wales Is Checkmated Again By Count Bergolo

(By United News)
London, Feb. 5—Another one of the fiances of the Prince of Wales has got herself engaged to someone else.

Princess Yolanda, the eldest daughter of King Victor Emanuel, of Italy, is to marry Count Caldi Bergolo, one of her fellow countrymen.

This announcement from Rome put at rest reports she was to marry the heir to the British throne.

FRIENDS PLAN RENOMINATION FOR HARDING

President Will Accept, Is Belief Of His Friends And Supporters

By Raymond Clapper
(United News Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 5—While a president always has the privilege of refusing to be a candidate a second time the prospect of President Harding exercising this prerogative is extremely remote. So far as his closest friends have been able to learn the president is willing to stand for another term if his party desires, and much current speculation to the contrary notwithstanding, most of the republican party leaders hope he will again be a candidate.

After some prodding from the democratic side in the Senate Monday, Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, one of the president's closest political friends, stated on the floor that Harding would accept another nomination and that the party would extend it without any opposition.

He made this statement after Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi had intimated that Senator Lodge had attempted to puncture a Watson senatorial boom by snubbing the Indiana senator and selecting instead Senators Wadsworth of New York and Lenroot of Wisconsin as floor assistants.

"Is this a movement to get the renomination for Mr. Harding? Are they afraid to let you be an assistant leader because they are afraid you will gum the cards?" Harrison asked, addressing himself directly to Watson.

"I am an innocent bystander, Watson protested. When 1924 comes around the forces of the republican party, notwithstanding any seeming divisions as the senator from Mississippi sees, will renominate in my judgment the present president of the United States without opposition.

I have no doubt in my mind that the president will stand for renomination and I have no doubt at that he will be renominated."

Harrison mentioned Senator Capper of Kansas. "He is being mentioned as a prominent candidate for

ACTOR WEARS KEY OF PHI BETA KAPPA

'Stage in Itself Is an Education,' Is Opinion of Honor Graduate of Wabash

One does not usually find a member of the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity playing in a traveling stock company. However, Harding Weer, who is with Stewart Walker's production, "The Book of Job" has this distinction. Mr. Weer received his bachelor of arts degree and a Phi Beta Kappa key from Wabash college, Crawfordsville, Ind., in 1923. For several years after leaving college, he was engaged in various kinds of business. Recently he joined Stewart Walker's company as reader of the "Voice of God" in "The Book of Job"

"I had always been interested in the writing of short stories and plays," said Mr. Weer, "so it was not strange that I chose the stage. I never hope to be a great actor, I only want material for my writing. The stage is in itself an education, and is rich in material for the author."

CONSERVATISM IS KEYNOTE OF MEN'S STYLES

Flashy Youth to Be Passe This Spring, Is Decree of Fashions

Spring styles for college men will lean more to the conservative, is the opinion of Iowa City clothiers, who are all ready receiving their new stocks from the eastern markets. The loud tweeds, colorful hats and flashy neck ties that have been in vogue during the past season will give place to the more sedate styles.

The Norfolk jacket for sport's wear will be featured this season. The Norfolk suits have become popular during the winter season, and with the coming of spring they will take their place definitely as a valuable addition to the man's wardrobe. Colors will be varied, but more conservative, and whipcords and plaids are bidding fair to be the popular materials for the new season's wear.

In men's suits for general wear, no innovation of great note will take place. The four-button coat for college men is still being shown, as well as the three-button and similar styles of the past season.

Hats will be of rougher materials, with grey, tan and the newer shades of green predominating. Narrow brims and low crowns still hold their own. Men's accessories, such as shirts, neckties, will follow the general trend of conservatism, the shirts leaning toward solid colors. Nothing new or startling comes from the east, but fashion decrees that the college man of 1923 must look more conservative and less flashy than the college man of 1922.

Hayne-Thompson
Miss Julia M. Thompson of Davenport and Mr. Raymond E. Hayne of Clarinda were married January 6 in Davenport. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hayne are former students in the University, where Mr. Hayne was a member of Phi Alpha Delta (legal) and Kappa Beta Psi fraternities.

Nichols-Mardis
Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Telen Mardis of Winterset and Mr. George Nichols of Indianola on January 28 at Des Moines. Mr. Nichols is an alumnus of the University.

Theta Tau, engineering fraternity, announces the initiation of Gordon R. Lunt, '21, of Des Moines; Robert W. Dethlefs, '21, of Cedar Rapids; Charles E. Stickney, '21, of Des Moines; and Edmund G. Rich S4 of Maquoketa, on Sunday, February 4.

ELECT MEMBERS OF SOCIAL COMMITTEE

Student Council Ballots for Student Members; Others Are Appointed

Those who will serve on the social committee, elected by the student council, are: Margaret Altman A4 of Livermore, Maurine Yaggy A4 of Davenport, Roscoe Ash, A4 of Tipton, Emily Withrow A3 of Mt. Pleasant, Kenneth Wier S3 of Cedar Rapids, Robert Block L2 of Davenport. Three of the group elected are members of the senior class and three are from the junior class. Permission was recently given by Dean Teeters, of the social committee, for the election.

The social committee is a senate board of the University with an equal number of faculty and student representatives. The six faculty members are Adelaide L. Burge, acting dean of women, Robert E. Rienow, dean of men, Clara M. Daley, professor of history, Henry L. Reitz, professor of mathematics, R. M. Perkins, professor of the law college, Prof. E. M. McEwan and Wilbur J. Teeters, dean of the college of pharmacy, serving as chairman.

This social committee is elected every year. The faculty members and chairman are appointed by the president of the University and the students are elected by the student body. Election for student members of the committee was not held this year. The student council was requested to select these members. This is the only committee of the University where students have an equal representation with the faculty.

The duties of this body concern the selection of approved list of chaperons for all University parties and student parties and all cases of misconduct on the part of students breaking social rules are acted upon by this group. All organizations that wish to enter the campus must be approved. Plays which students are permitted to attend are given approved by this committee. Students can be recommended to the discipline committee but steps in this matter are not taken up by the social committee.

Regular meetings are held once a week with many called meetings intervening.

UNION ORGANIZED ON MILITARY PLAN

Division Commanders To Meet On Seventy-Sixth Anniversary

Because of the military training of Col. Morton C. Mumma, the director of the Memorial Union campaign, the organization for that will be modeled after a military organization. There will be a general headquarters in Iowa City from which the campaign will be directed and to which reports will be made. One hundred and fifty divisions will cover the counties within the state and the cities without. An alumnus has been nominated as division commander of each division, selected because of his well known ability to do things and his standing in the community. These division commanders will in turn select company commanders for the smaller towns and cities within their own divisional territory. To complete this organization lieutenants will be selected in each organization and upon these workers will fall the actual duty and privilege of calling upon their fellow Iowans and securing their pledges.

The seventy-sixth anniversary of the founding of the University falls on Sunday, February 27. This important event will be celebrated by appropriate exercises which many prominent Iowans will attend. Among these guests will be the division commanders of all the divisions within the state and from all but the most remote divisions outside the state. These guests will be entertained in homes of the members of the faculty. Besides the program of exercises at the University anniversary there will be a track meet with Wisconsin the Saturday before and a basketball game with Minnesota on Monday, February 26.

A gathering of the division commanders will be held at a dinner at the Hotel Jefferson Sunday, February 25, when plans for the campaign will be discussed, which will aid these commanders in organizing their local units. The plan is to have a complete working unit in every county in the state and in every city outside of the state in which there are as many as ten alumni.

The campaign among the students and faculty will be carried on between March 10 and 25. The campaign outside the University will be completed during the days March 29 and April 2, inclusive. These will be the days of the spring vacation when the students and faculty will be available to assist in the work throughout the state and will be able to explain the need of the Union.

The plan for securing the funds from the alumni is that every alumnus pledge the amount that will be equal to one-twelfth of the annual income, which will be payable in four installments, one week's income each year for four years. This plan will serve as a guide and will help the subscribers pledge in proportion to their annual income.

Colonel Mumma, campaign director says, "I have every confidence that when the final results are tabulated the funds will be over-subscribed. Promises will not build this monument to the men of Iowa. Pledges of loyalty written in dollars will build it."

Miller Seeks Aid of University for Interests of India

A. L. Miller, student Y. M. C. A. secretary at the university of Punjab Lahore, India, who is in the United States on a short tour in the interests of student Y. M. C. A. work among college students in India, met with the Y. M. C. A. cabinet last week to discuss plans for enlisting the aid of the university of Iowa. Mr. Miller came from the university of Minnesota and will continue his visit to other big ten schools.

Every big ten school except the universities of Iowa and Illinois support Y. M. C. A. workers in schools in India or China. Mr. Miller is an alumnus of the university of Indiana and is maintained in India by that university. He is a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity.

The university of Punjab is the center of the Punjab region where the followers of Ganhi, carrying out their policy of non-cooperation are very strong. However the Hindu student continue in the school in spite of the fact that it is partially supported by British funds.

After Mr. Miller has completed his tour he will return to India for a five year period of service.

SOCIAL SCIENCE CLUB ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

At a recent meeting of the Social Science club, the following graduate students were elected to office: John P. Jones, of Iowa City, president; Vedasto J. Samonte, of Loag, P. I., vice-president; and Helen D. Watson, of New Orleans, Iowa, secretary and treasurer.

The social Science club is an outgrowth of the Political Science club, which was organized some twenty-six years ago. Membership includes graduate students from the departments of political science, sociology, history and education.

STATIONERY OF MEMORIAL UNION TELLS ITS STORY

The stationery which is to be used during the Iowa Memorial Union campaign will itself tell the story and use of the proposed union building. At the top of the letterheads there will be a sketch of the proposed building with the words "Iowa Memorial Union, Iowa City, Iowa," engraved beneath it. At the bottom of the sheet in each corner there will be a sketch of the interior of two rooms and their possible uses suggested. On the back of each sheet there will be a drawing of the four floor plans. The sketches were designed by Miss Irma Bratton, instructor in graphic and plastic arts.

Foundation Day to Be Event of State-Wide Importance

Foundation day exercises will be held in the men's gymnasium on Sunday afternoon, February 25. As it will be impossible to seat all who desire to attend in any University building, each University and civic organization will be asked to send delegates. Seats will be reserved for local and state delegates, numbering about 500. The rest of the seating space will be available for the general public.

Correspondence has been started with several prominent members of the alumni, who will probably speak.

Music will be furnished by one of the campus musical organizations.

Prof. Forest C. Ensign, chairman of the Foundation day committee, said in connection with the plans: "Foundation day will serve not only to observe the anniversary of the birthplace of the University, but to prepare the way for the statewide campaign for the Memorial Union that Colonel Mumma is planning."

Students are urged to get in touch with county delegates, meet them at the trains, see that they are entertained, and arrange for county meetings during their stay in Iowa City. The liberal arts drawing room, the Y. M. C. A. reception room, and other meeting places will be available for such county meetings."

Foundation day exercises will be a joint state, local and University affair. Delegates from every county in Iowa will be present. It will be arranged so that delegates may come for the track meet on Saturday, February 24, and attend the Foundation day exercises on Sunday. They will be entertained at a dinner at the Hotel Jefferson on Sunday night, and many will stay for the basketball game with Minnesota on Monday night.

He Reached the Top

THE Vice-President of a great life insurance company who began his career as an agent has this to say to seniors who are about to graduate from college:

"If you love work and desire to pursue an honorable, useful and lucrative mission in life this is the business for you to take up. Life insurance salesmanship offers a fine field for the energies of the splendid young men in our colleges.

"That this is true is demonstrated by those college men who have taken up life insurance for they have shown that the college man is fit for this kind of a job and that the job also is fit for the college man.

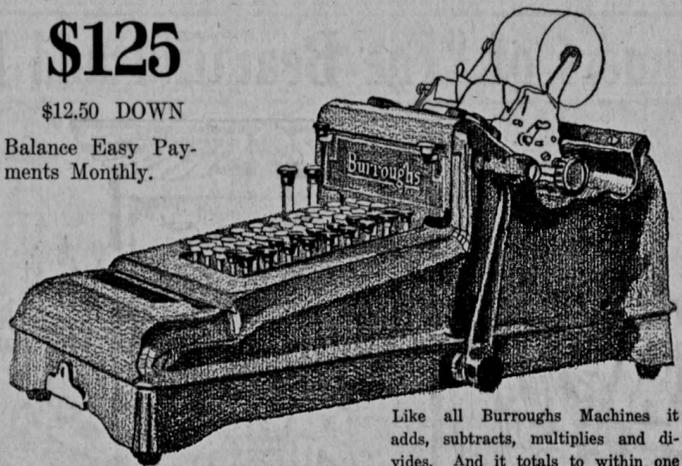

"The work of the life insurance salesman is distinguished by independence and opportunity for directing his own. It gives all possible opportunity for individual initiative and a chance to make an ample income at an age when most fellows are struggling on a wage pittance."

That is the story of one who began at the bottom and reached the top without the help of a college education. The advantages are with you who graduate from college. Before deciding your career make inquiries of the "Agency Department."

OLD GOLD TEAM PRACTICES WITH DIFFERENT MEN

Coach Barry Tries New Lineups for Use in Case of Injuries

With the first half of the conference basketball schedule successfully disposed of, the Iowa basketball quintet will continue work for the remaining six games of the season. The Old Gold team's sensational comeback in the last half of the Chicago game Saturday evening proved that it was a contender for the conference title. Handicapped by the absence of Laude, forward, the Hawkeyes faced defeat until his substitution in the latter part of the game when Iowa made its first field goal and later took the lead which they kept for the rest of the game.

Four of the remaining six games will be played away from home. The Hawkeyes play return games with Northwestern, February 10, and with Ohio State February 12. The Purple quintet proved to be much stronger than doped when they played here and the advantage of the crowd and home floor should aid their chances Saturday night. The game with the Buckeyes the following Monday will be the second in three days and should be a close game. Indiana comes here February 22. The Hoosiers have a dangerous outfit at present, having been strengthened by men who heretofore have been ineligible. Last week they did the unexpected when they drubbed Purdue, last year's champions.

Practice last night was light, as Coach Barry worked McGovney and Barton in the regular lineup in an effort to make a smoother combination in the advent of any more casualties which might occur before the season is over. The Marion game proved that in the absence of one of the regulars the Hawkeyes were much weaker than they should be and with the purpose of overcoming this Coach Barry is working in his auxiliary men. Laude, who was injured in the Gopher game, is back again but will work little for the next few days. Funk will probably not be able to practice for several days because of injuries received in the game with Chicago. Both of these men, however, will undoubtedly be in good shape for the two-game trip this week-end.

POSTPONE SKATING MEET TO FEB. 17

Schroeder and Schwob Claim Many Men and Women Are Interested

Because of a conflict with the sorority relays to be held on February 10, the date of the skating tournament was postponed until February 17, and with the weather permitting, the long-awaited skating events on the Iowa river will become a reality. The tournament is open to students of the University, both men and women, high school students in the city, and townspeople at large.

"It is to be regretted that the skating tournament could not have been held during the favorable weather just passed," said Mr. E. G. Schroeder, director of physical education for men, who is taking care of University men's entries, "but the conflict with the sorority relays on February 10 makes it inadvisable to delay the meet one week. Unfavorable weather and some unforeseen obstacle is the only thing that will prevent the meet being held February 17."

Talent To Enter Meet
Since definite announcement of the meet was made in the Daily Iowan of February 1, numerous inquiries from among the students of the University have been made to Mr. Schroeder—testimony of the interest that is being shown and indicating the amount of skating talent that will enter the tournament.

Entry sheets will be posted in the men's gymnasium, the women's gymnasium, the Iowa City high school, and the Iowa Supply Company, where any of the groups represented can sign up for the meet. Events will be arranged as published in the Daily Iowan of February 17.

Women of the university are not letting the men surpass them in interest in the skating meet. Mrs. Marion L. Schwob, who has charge of the entries for the women, is busy at this time, working on the W. A. A. vaudeville, but with the postponement of the meet until February 17, Mrs. Schwob says it will give her an opportunity to arrange for the entry of interested women.

Women To Take Part
"There are many women interested in skating," says Miss Schwob, "and there is no doubt that they will take a prominent part in the tournament. The W. A. A. vaudeville, is, of course, attracting the attention of many at this time, but when that is over, plans will go forward on the skating meet."

ALUMNUS ACCEPTS TEACHING POSITION

J. Harry Winstrom who received his Master of Arts degree at the mid-year Convocation last week will leave soon for Springfield, Ill., to accept the position of Supervisor and Director of grammar education in the Springfield city schools.

Eighteen schools, a hundred and twenty teachers, and five thousand pupils, will be under his direct supervision in his new position. His work principally will be to train the inexperienced teachers.

Myron C. Arbuckle LL of Waterloo, who underwent an operation for appendicitis last Saturday morning, is rapidly improving.

'BOOK OF JOB' HAS ELOQUENT APPEAL

(By Edith Rule)
In his "Book of Job" Stuart Walker attempted the revolutionary and with material effects succeeded. Using poetry in Biblical diction, marvelous blending of colors, and an accompaniment of weird Hebrew music, he has combined into a drama that is a radical departure from all the conventional rules of the theatre. He has taken the very essence of tragedy and by the medium of colors and the melody of the human voice has made his audience, the capricious public, suffer with Job. But the producer in the heat of his work misjudged the limit of human emotions—and in the very middle of the play the spectator grows tired and a great deal of the beauty is lost in an indescribable feeling that it is after all only a play or the dramatic picture of a sermon.

It is true that at the end of the play, he recaptures the whole thought of the spectator and leaves him stunned with the glory of something which he can call only strong emotion but that interval of wandering thought does much to spoil an otherwise ideal production.

The play is made up of a prologue and epilogue and one unbroken scene between Job and his four friends, spoken by two narrators. It is Stewart Walker's departure from the conventional in that he has women speak the narrative lines in a golden niche. At both sides of the stage they stand—one in red and the other in blue. The red narrator begins the story of Job's life—the story of a "perfect and an upright man," and all his possessions. The blue narrator recounts in the words of the Bible the visitation of all his afflictions upon him. As a background for her words in the speeches with the utmost height of pathos, music in a minor key is heard off stage. When she tells of Job, broken and mourning in the ashes, with his three friends who had come to comfort him, the light in the niches slowly fades out leaving the stage dark for a second before the lights come on to disclose the picture in the center stage of Job and his friends.

The artistic beauty of the play leaves almost nothing to be desired. The lights are arranged above so that they fall upon the figures below and make a picture in oriental colorings. According to an invention of Stuart Walker, mottled lights are used to bring out the figures of the four men in different relief, and colors.

In this scene the author has succeeded in bringing to the stage the melody of Biblical prose. In Job he reaches the height of human tragedy, a man with nothing but doubt and darkness about him, and yet through it all remaining true to a faith that was a part of him in spite of all his afflictions. For a moment he stands upon the pile of rocks and ashes his arms stretched out in the silhouette of a cross, the lights shine down on him from above and declares his faith in the words "For I know that my redeemer liveth, and that he shall stand at the latter day upon the earth:—"

—And though after my skin worms destroy this body, yet in my flesh shall I see God."

The dramatic power of George Sommes who is Job, is that which gives the part of the real beauty and force to the lines. He ranges from the heights of the most bitter grief and anger to the low tones of despair. His voice, naturally powerful coupled with his wonderful dramatic emotion, makes Job live again and suffer real tortures. It is this that carries the spectator out of himself at the beginning of the play. It is only during the long speeches in this long unbroken scene that interest flags. In the last when the voice of God speaks out of the whirlwind the romantic force of Mr. Sommes acting and by the scenic effects the audience is carried back into Biblical days into the land of Uz. When the curtain falls the audience is stunned, forgetting to clap or even move for a full second.

It is the acting of George Sommes together with the artistic effects of light, costumes and music that makes "The Book of Job" a play that will always be remembered. Every member of the company shows the result of sincere study and work in his respective part. The narrators, Judith Lowry and Genevieve Addleman strike the note of contrast to the monotony of entirely masculine voices. Both women have beautiful speaking voices and read their lines with the power found in the Biblical passages.

shortage. The purpose of Chancellor Cuno who plans a stumping tour of the Ruhr is also to raise the morale of the people and urge them to present a solid front of opposition to the French. Passive resistance has now spread from the Ruhr to Baden, the German state to the right of Lorraine, in which the French have seized two towns as reprisals for the action of the German government in cancelling the Paris-Baden-Prague express trains. The inhabitants of the state are refusing to comply with any orders of the French military.

According to German officials the French seized the town to split the north and south Germany and to link Austria, Bavaria and Baden which are all Catholic states, with France. The French however derided vehemently these charges.

The shortage of paper marks in the Ruhr caused by the enhancement of prices for food stuffs and commodities caused a serious situation in this industrial area.

RECALCITRANT GERMANY

In offering resistance to the French occupation of the Ruhr district, the Cuno government played a master hand. For a short while the Stinnes' faction succeeded in bolstering the spirit of the Fatherland and, with a certain show of bravado which smacked of the usual German insolence, immediately started in to disregard the terms of the Versailles treaty. But the French called the bluff and as a consequence the Germans are about to give voice to the old war cry "Kamerad."

The promptness with which the French entered the Ruhr and the determination they have displayed in carrying out to the letter their avowed plans in the face of almost universal opposition puts to shame the passiveness of her allies. No one has been kept in the dark as to the French policy. No half-way measures have been taken; the Germans have been warned in advance of every step France would take in the event Germany failed to comply with reparation demands, and punishment has been meted out accordingly.

For the indiscretion of Ruhr industrialists in refusing to accept the French occupation and for the hostile attitude which they have assumed towards any kind of settlement, all Germany has been made to suffer. Already the coal shortage is cutting deep into Bavaria which has been forced to suspend regular train service for want of fuel. Industries all over the country have likewise felt the pinch of French occupation. A growing spirit of discontent among miners and other workers is threatening the stability of the Cuno government itself. The challenge of the first few days "No negotiations under bayonets" has been carefully qualified. Germany is now willing to negotiate as she has always been since the war, but apparently with the same craftiness and contempt for all forms of agreement, and with the same disregard for fulfilling the terms of any obligation.

BOOH? BAH!

Catastrophe! Collapse! Ruin! are the pessimistic stock in trade of certain statesmen, news correspondents and editorial writers. The world is enveloped in a pall of darkness without a relieving ray of light. Civilization totters. Folderol! The outlook is dark; problems are of mountain size without a Mohamet to move them. All this is true, but there is to be a solution.

The very sternness of events is demanding, shaping, creating an answer. Governments may fall, men may starve and die, but as surely as the world has conquered nation-racking, men-crushing problems before, it will do so again.

Difficulties are the result of careless, short-sighted indifference. Men, concerned with their own stomach-filling and sleep-getting, ignore social responsibilities until their neglect cramps their bellies and steals their sleep. Then men explore and discover solutions. It has been by bludgeonings that the world has progressed, blows that jerked her out of the rut of inertia. Smugness and self satisfaction are the enemies of progress. They do not exist where hunger prowls.

It took a world war to make the League of Nations possible. It will take another world war, perhaps still another greater world war, to drive the nations into a union that will really destroy war by outlawing it, will teach the nations that jingo sovereignty is as dust to the bread of international peace. Every war threat today pushes us toward the door where national selfishness bows to international brotherhood.

PREVENTION—NOT CURES

It is a significant fact that during recent centuries there has been no noticeable improvement in the physique of man. Yet there has been remarkable progress in the science of medicine. We seem to be trying to cure our physical ailments, not to prevent them.

The best way to fight disease is to have the body in such a condition that disease cannot readily enter. All diseases cannot be prevented in this manner, but any of them can be limited at least. It would be better to build up a protecting system than to let the diseases enter as they will, then seek a remedy. Much progress has been made in medical science, yet we are no healthier than the people of hundreds of years ago. We can control the spread of some dangerous diseases, but the many minor ailments we have, more than overbalance this advancement.

We need more protection within the body and less outside. We need to build up physically to prevent disease, and not require cures. If our progress keeps on at the present trend and direction, in a few years our bodies will have very little protective power, and we will have to rely on medicine alone to counteract diseases before they prove fatal.

LIBRARY INEFFICIENCY

To the Editor:

There are two kinds of inefficiency; one results from inability and the other from an attitude of "I don't care." This latter cause seems to be the reason for the apparent inefficient system now in use at the central desk of the University library.

After using the central desk for some four years, with not very pleasing results, I am inclined to believe that it is time a change was made which would tend to promote better service to those who are required to call there for books. At the present time—and this fact has been true for several years—it is practically impossible to receive attention in any less than five minutes. Often it is nearer ten.

Taking into consideration the facts that the library is not large enough or well arranged, and that it takes considerable time to find books, the attitude of those in charge seems to be that of dogweary laborers, tired from ten hours of strenuous toil with several hours of work still to do. Or else they convey the impression that the student's needs are not as important as the sharpening of several pencils or the arranging of books on the desk.

I do not, in this letter, attempt to solve the problem of the library or to suggest what might be done to better the situation. I simply want to call attention to this fact of inefficiency with the hope that library officials will make some investigation of the matter with the idea of better service to students.

MORE ABOUT GREEN CAPS

To the Editor:

The reasons advanced for compelling freshmen at the University of Iowa to wear green caps seem to simmer down to three:—

1. To put the freshmen in their place. This may or may not be a laudable ambition. It is, of course, the same motive that leads to fraternity probation stunts and to hazing in general. It proceeds from the assumption that freshmen are by nature an inferior group of persons, unconscious of their inferiority, and in need of being constantly reminded of it; and that after being reminded of it for one year, they automatically lose their inferiority, and become worthy to be ranked as real students.

2. To impart Iowa spirit. The basic idea here seems to be if that a few people, who happen to have been connected with a certain university a year or two longer than some others, make those others look ridiculous, those others will thereby become inflamed with an overwhelming loyalty to that university.

3. To cement the freshman class. Misery loves company, and green-cap weavers will cling to one another in a bond of sympathy.

If it is a good thing for one class to be distinguished, and to have class spirit, why isn't it good for all classes? Why not use little buttons on the coat lapel—green for freshmen, red for sophomores, etc., as the tags on Hello Day—if you want to cement classes? Buttons wouldn't cost so much, and wouldn't make the head cold. And then, why discriminate against freshmen men? Don't freshmen women need cementing, too?

Now, the writer isn't a freshman. She is only a graduate student from a large eastern university which has had the green cap tradition for years. When she first came to S. U. I., she couldn't help admiring the courteous, open-minded treatment accorded freshmen, and the absence of the slap-stick, horse-play sort of thing that had grown so disgusting in four years.—For where you have rules of this sort, you will have violations; and then what can you do but use force?—She feels that it would be a step backwards for Iowa to adopt hazing.

And, besides, isn't it a poor time of year, after all to start hazing people?

AN ANSWER TO MR REED

To the Editor:

Mr. Robert Reed in his lantern lecture on India in the Presbyterian church last Sunday evening made several statements which seem to me to be either betraying his ignorance of the light that modern science is throwing on the traditional beliefs of the Hindoos, or intentional substitutions for truth due to his missionary zeal.

For instance, he tried to show how superstitious the Hindoos must be when cholera stricken patients bathe in the River Ganges believing to be cured thereby. He further gave as his opinion that these patients carry away more disease germs by bathing in the Ganges river so contaminated. Bacteriological analyses of the waters of the Ganges river successfully disprove this statement and speak for themselves why we have regarded these waters as sacred since ancient times. I shall be content to give the following passage from Marshall's Micro-biology (page 265) for Mr. Reed's enlightenment.

"A peculiar fact, which has never been satisfactorily explained is the quick death (in three to five hours) of the cholera vibrio in the waters of the Ganges and Jumna. When one remembers that these rivers are grossly contaminated by sewerage, by numerous corpses of natives (often dead with cholera), and by the bathing of thousand of natives, it seems remarkable that the belief of the Hindoos, the water of these rivers is pure and can not be defiled, and they can safely drink it and bathe in it, should be confirmed by means of modern bacteriological research. It is also a curious fact that the bactericidal power of Jumna water is lost when it is boiled; and that the cholera propagates at once, if placed in water taken from wells in the vicinity of the rivers."

MATMEN IN GOOD SHAPE AFTER MEET

Jacobson's Injured Elbow May Keep Him Out of Northwestern Meet on Saturday

The Hawkeye wrestling team came through the Minnesota meet in fine shape and all the men are in the best of condition with the exception of Jacobson, Iowa's crack welterweight who had several ligaments torn in his right elbow, yet the seriousness of his injury is not known but the chances are Jacobson will not be able to get in the Northwestern meet on Saturday. This will be a hard blow to the team since Jacobson was a veteran and has displayed good form all season, he was expected to win the majority of his matches this year. If Jacobson is unable to get in the meet with Northwestern, Springer, a sophomore, will wrestle in the 145 pound division.

Captain Johnny Heldt, worked out with Coach Mike Howard last night. The captain showed up well as he did in the Minnesota meet. Heldt is a much improved wrestler this year over the form he showed last year, he should go good during the remainder of the season.

There will be another tryout in the 125 pound class this afternoon at the men's gym at 4:15 p. m. to determine who will represent the Hawkeyes in their meet with Northwestern. Gugisburg, who wrestled in this class at Minnesota won his match, is expected to win the tryouts again, although either Barnes or Alberts may prove his undoing.

Lane the new man in the lightweight class upset the dope at Minnesota by securing a fall in eight minutes of grappling. This came as a surprise, since Iowa was supposed to be weak in this weight after Comstock and Halweg were declared ineligible.

Thom, the other new man on the team showed up well by winning his bout on a decision. James and Pfeffer the veterans won their bouts both displaying good form. James, who wrestled Ostler, the Minnesota football star, one of the toughest men Minnesota has on her squad, won his bout on a decision. Pfeffer, won his fall with ease in four minutes of grappling. He is a finished wrestler.

Winning a straight "I" in wrestling is a difficult proposition. To win a block "I" a wrestler must win a point in a Western Intercollegiate Conference meet; or by winning at least three firsts in major dual meets. To win an "Iw" a competitor must win one first in a dual meet.

The method of scoring in Western Intercollegiate Wrestling association matches was changed this year and instead of falls counting eight points, as in the past, only five points will be given this year. Three points will be awarded for a judge's decision this year the same as last.

Two Horses Have Been Pulling Fire Wagon 13 Years

When a fire truck comes down the street, nearly everyone who is not buried deep in his books or bent exclusively on increasing his income stops to watch for the chemical wagon drawn by two dashing white horses which always follows the truck. These horses are Highball and Snowball, and have been in the service of the Iowa City fire department for nearly thirteen years. They were brought here from the well known Singmaster stables in Keota when they were young horses.

When the fire is fairly near the station the team is usually on the scene before the motor drawn wagon. Their wagon carries chemicals and hose. Their drivers, George and Charles Reizenstein and his men can fix up their apparatus and use it; they can stay on their job out of sight or sound of the horses for an hour or two, but when they return Highball and Snowball will still be waiting patiently in the same place.

After a short run the horses are anxious to go the next time. But if their last run has been long and hard they show reluctance to start on their next trip.

They are always glad to get back to the station for as soon as they are in their stalls they are given sugar as a reward.

There are some people who say they should be discarded because they are too expensive but the firemen say that they are not as expensive to keep as the trucks are to run; that they are superior to the latter on muddy streets and that they provide interest and occupation for the hours when they must be on duty but have no fire to fight. There surely would be many disappointed people if the fire horses they like to watch galloping down the street should be replaced by the rattling gasoline truck.

Nights of January Set New Record for High Temperatures

According to Professor John F. Reilly, official government weather observer for this district, there has been only one January since 1897, and that the January of the year 1921, as warm as the January of this year. For the month of January, 1923, the mean maximum, or the average high mark was 35 degrees, and the mean temperature, or the average low mark, was 21 degrees. The average temperature was 28 degrees and the precipitation during the month was 1.09 inches.

The mean maximum temperature is the average of the high daily temperature marks recorded during the month while the mean minimum is the average of the low daily marks. The high marks are, of course, recorded during the days and the lowest marks during the nights.

In 1921 the mean maximum was 38 degrees, only three degrees warmer than that of the present month. In 1919 the mean maximum was 36 degrees and was the same in the years 1914, 1908 and 1900. But the nights were not as warm as they have been this month. The mean minimum was 16 degrees in 1919, 18 degrees in 1914 and 13 in 1908. The lowest temperature at night was recorded in 1918 when the temperature was three below zero and in 1912 when it was six below. These are the only two instances since 1897 that the average temperature was below zero.

The present month of January was low as regards precipitation, the number of inches being 1.09. Only one other year the precipitation was lower than that of the year 1919, when it registered 0.08. The year in which precipitation was the highest was in 1898 when it was 4.62 inches.

Harding if the president wishes another term.

High republican leaders want Harding to run again for they fear that his refusal would be construed as an admission of party failure. Then, too, the scramble to succeed him would scatter the party into many different factions.

Harding's closest friends say only two contingencies would prevent his standing for a second term.

1. A breakdown in his own health and

2. A relapse in Mrs. Harding's illness, but neither of these possibilities seem likely.

It has been intimated that Harding is discouraged with his job. But his cheerful jovial bearing of recent semi-weekly press conferences indicates otherwise.

There is no question but that the cares of his office gathered heavily on him during the first part of his term. His hair has turned almost completely white but in the last few months he seems to have stiffened and appears to toss off political troubles with ease.

tion of the building is being eagerly awaited by the chemistry department because of the crowded condition of this branch of the university. In the past, annexes have been established at almost every convenient spot on the campus but with the completion of the new structure and its excellent laboratories, lecture rooms, auditorium and offices, it will aid greatly in furthering the work and advantages of the chemistry department.

in the concert this evening, with particular stress upon the songs to be given in Chicago, which will be included in this evening's program.

An unusually attractive program will be given tonight, embracing a number of lighter things always to be expected from a men's glee club, and also selections of a more pretentious nature, such as the "Soldiers Chorus" from "Faust", Mendelssohn's "The Hunter's Farewell", and "Deep River" by Burleigh. Supporting the glee club will be Miss Helen Langworthy, reader, a male quartet, "Jazz Ballet", by Paul Foley A1 of Corwith, and a violin duet by Helen Roberts A4 of Marion and John W. Scott A2 of Ottawa, Kansas, accompanied by Richard Russell A2 of Bethel, Maine.

The admission price is fifty cents. Tickets may be secured at the door or from members of the club. The proceeds of the concert will be used to help pay the expense of sending the club to Chicago.

Why is a used book unlike a used car? Because the more you use it, the more you can sell it for.

Books make brains, and the world pays high for brain power.

The bulging dome on the library is worth emulating. It marks the way to bulging pockets.

Don't take our word for it. Ask some of the old grads, the men who have gone out before you to sell their books.

Some have sold them for more than others. Why? Just ask.

But, you may say, books are not the only thing. You're right.

Still, they help.
