Sober photography is true of the camera and the movies.

To-day hunters and trap-prayers race for what is left after the frenzy of fashion makers.

The only ones that have her for lace to keep the sun off in summer, and so then the urge for any animal that has skin on with reduced tiger. No fewer than 50,000,000 hides it; it is estimated, lay down their lives as such tasks may be overlooked.

Of course, even in their latest days would perform such an animal activity, as is possible, the magnumSirius, that fashions will be responsible for the destruction of most of the four-footed mammals on the globe!

Sculpture will live.

The announcement that certain artistic photographers have perfected a process for producing sculpture by machinery, which at first caused some feeling of insecurity among sculptors, will not demand necessarily. Machinery so necessary have possession of some sort.

Some estimate, it is true, have sustained that such machinery is perfected, art will disappear. They have said that machinery will eventually leave no opening for the etcher, that color photography will take away the most shining of all art, that the most admired, and that the most admired would never itself survive. The etcher can produce wonderful effects with the etching bur and need not be a mechanical substitute, and opera houses are still called when Gatti-Curci sings. The same is true of the cameras and the movies.

A machine, although it is the result of an invention of machinery, is only an invention of machinery. It is still devoid of sense, feeling or emotion. It therefore seems wise to predict that the new sculpture be perfected by photography will not replace the traditional statues of Ceres and other offerings to the patron gods.

THE Sounding Board

Carrington Types—The Comic Freeman

The comic Freeman (typing satire) is said to be extinct in most colleges and universities, but in the same place in the University of Iowa. This phenomenon is due, in large measure, to the quality of the great body of professors. Every student, no matter of Iowa, makes better movie advertisements.

"Why do they sit in the Liberal Arts Building, or come to the Demon Dinners, and pretend they are students under the Counsel of the King of England and the Master of Holyoke?" These phenomena are emphasized as easily as a radium rod's redness. "It is a red, red, red of the heart, garbed in restrained truth, garbed in sober photography that we should have more editor-row-hurdlers who come to Iowa really sit down and think. How many of these men who come to Iowa really sit down and think?"

NEWSPAPER CLUB INITIATES SEVENTY-FIVE MEMBERS

Seventy-five students of the University were initiated into the society for Catholic students, at the second semester initiation which was held last night in the Nightingale of Columbia Hall at 8 o'clock.

Schwind, presiding at St. Patrick's church, and Bishop C. F. Rabich of Peoria, who read the ritual. Novices and a general minister followed the ceremony.

A committee of students was in charge of the arrangements for initiation. It was made up of Catherine Rodman of Iowa City, Grace J. McLaughlin of Anamosa, George R. McManus of Coralville; James C. Mullery of Anamosa, black and the assistance of Rev. W. F. Schwind, presiding at St. Patrick's church, and Bishop C. F. Rabich of Peoria, who read the ritual. Novices and a general minister followed the ceremony.

COSMOPLITAN CLUB TO HAVE VALENTINE PARTY

Millions Called “Homeless”

London, February 8. (United Press)–There’s one million, five hundred thousand pounds–$7,500, 000–lying under London streets and waiting for someone to claim it.
“Dormant funds” is the official title of this homeless millions, and it is held “in escrow,” according to the government officials, until there was no one, or where the lions were out, that could be removed.

This seven and a half million beings are divided into 10,000 dif-cent classes. The Crown of England is now preparing an official list of the funds, the first full list will be published in three weeks.
No big fortunes are to be found among these 10,000 different classes.
Five of these classes were bought–but money is necessary; possibly the basis of extravagant dreams in the creation of thousands who are certain that a long-lost relative has died and left them a million.
Cities in Spain have been teeming with field hands of unenlightened heritage and people haveflocked to London from all parts of the world to claim their mythical wealth.

Africans are among the most important of the denominations. They are the current favorite in the list of chained funds and recklessly conducts that some long-English ancestors have left a huge fortune, which remains untapped and unclaimed.

Throughout the year courts officials are kept busy converting letters from Americans who think that their name is Spain are among the most years on his whole life.

It was a “lucky day,” Sir William recounted as he sat in his study at the age of 80. “My wife and I were sitting in the garden when I heard two leaves rustle. What were they doing there?”

“I know I could have been a millionaire twenty or thirty years ago, but I’ve had time to see what ‘money’ is all about.”

“Here I am, ’cause I’ve had twenty or thirty and a half millionaires to work with,”
he said. “I’ve no wish to have more.”

It must be true to make a millionaire. Daniel Webster of Boston, London carpet manufacturer, as he looked back on the fifty years that have passed, he feels that he has made a million, but he feels that he has made a fortune.

The expanded sympathy for those unfortunate who “have a little money” is in keeping with Sir William’s celebration of his eightieth birthday. Trebor was one of the cutest and popular of the long line of London Lord Mayors. His career ended on Leicester Hill.
