CLASS OF 1926 BLOSSOMS OUT IN FIRST PARTY

Wearers of Green Caps To Frolic Tonight At Annual Party

An "A number 1" party, honoring the "wearing of the green," will cause the walls of the men's gymnasium to echo with the chatter of yearling voices and the whining, syncopating, strains of Shaffer's orchestra, as the class of 1926 blossoms out tonight in its first organized frolic.

The feature of the decorations will be three huge inverted green caps hung high above the dance floor. These caps will contain the confetti and other "janitor's delights" which will be the spice of the party.

When the great caps break forth one will believe Pandora's box has been reopened. Perhaps the demonstration is a warning to the strong armed organizations of the campus to beware of the contests of question regarding the three year old tradition.

The lights about the main floor will be draped with individual green caps. Green will be the predominant color of the decoration scheme.

The number allowed to attend the function has been limited to two hundred and fifty couples and all of the tickets have been sold.

Distribution of programs was started yesterday morning at Whetstone's drug store, where the tickets were sold. Programs are being issued on presentation of a ticket.

An effort was made to secure the permission of Mrs. Adelaide L. Burge, acting dean of women, that the dance might be continued until one o'clock. The refusal was made on the grounds that it is the wish of the University authorities to keep the freshmen party a democratic affair. Should the struggle be continued until one o'clock, in a few years the event would become one of the formal functions of the campus.

REFUSED TO ANSWER STATE'S QUESTIONS

Mrs. Robert Leeper, Wife of Man Accused of Murder, Appears Before Grand Jury

Mrs. Robert Leeper appeared before the grand jury of the district court of Johnson county investigating the Wertz murder mystery yesterday, but refused to answer the questions of County Attorney Ed O'Connor on the grounds that they might incriminate her. After a long argument between the state and the defense, the court ruled that she must answer the first of the two following questions but not the second.

The first question, "How long have you lived in Iowa City?"

The second question: "State, if you can, where your mother, Mima Wertz, was located at the time the shots that struck your father, Roy Wertz, on December 27, 1922, were fired?"

After the ruling the court instructed Mrs. Leeper to return to the grand jury room and answer all questions that would not incriminate her or would not make her testify against her husband Robert Leeper. The court's instructions were given just before the noon recess, and the examination of Mrs. Leeper continued through most of the afternoon.

As the jury's investigation is carried on behind locked doors, her testimony is not known but very likely it was nothing of primary importance.

DONATE WEEK'S INCOME TO UNION FOR 4 YEARS

Many people, alumni and students of the University of Iowa, have asked how much each should subscribe to the Iowa Memorial Union. The suggestion has been made that every alumnus pledge the amount that will be equal to one-twelfth the annual income, which will be payable in four installments, one week's income each year for four years. This plan will serve as a guide and will help the subscribers pledge in proportion to their annual income.

HOUSE OPENS EYE TO FOREIGN POLICY

Members of House of Representatives Demand American Intervention in Europe

(By United News)

Washington, Feb. 15—Senate advocates of an American effort to help Europe ward off a new war are receiving unexpected support in the House of Representatives.

Members of the lower body traditionally supposed to be indifferent to foreign problems have suddenly jumped into the ring with demands that the administration assume world leadership again, even though the risks of failure are great.

Curiously the voices are republican. Representative Kanutson of Minnesota, the republican whip of the House, predicting the government's foreign policy will be the big issue in the next presidential campaign, criticized his party chief in the White House during a speech today, recommending that the United States call an economic conference and seek adoption of Secretary of State Hughes' suggestion for a commission of experts to fix a fair reparations sum.

"The time has come for us to break our long silence," Kanutson said. "We have every right to speak our opinion at this time."

Two other republican members of the house have definite resolutions waiting. Voight, Wisconsin, has just offered one protesting against the resolution requesting the President to summon an economic conference.

President Harding spent three quarters of an hour with Dr. Otto Wiedfeldt, the German ambassador, today, and it is presumed that general discussion of the European situation occurred.

Wiedfeldt made a formal call to present the German members of the next claims commission but for some reason the ordinary ten minutes which such a presentation occupies stretched out for 49 minutes.

COTILLION TICKET SALE TOMORROW

No Advance Sale By Committee For Annual Sophomore Event This Year

All tickets for the Sophomore Cotillion will be placed on general sale at Whetstone's drug store at the corner of Clinton and Washington streets tomorrow morning at 9:30. The number of tickets to be sold is limited as usual.

The customary advance sale of part of the tickets by the Sophomore Cotillion committee will be done away with this year and all tickets admitting to the affair must be secured after the opening of the general sale.

Plans for the Cotillion are progressing rapidly. The date has been set for Friday night, February 23 at the men's gymnasium. Elaborate decorations and settings are being planned.

Music will be furnished by Eddie Rich's orchestra. Dancing will probably start at 9 and continue until 1. The program has not yet been selected.

CONFERENCES OF TEACHERS START TODAY

Iowa High School Pedagogues Meet Here For Two Days

The third annual conference of Iowa high school history teachers will open this morning. A program has been arranged for today and tomorrow morning. All the regular sessions will be held in the Congregational church at the corner of Clinton and Jefferson streets.

Speakers will include members of the faculty of the department of history, the college of education, and three speakers from outside the state.

The session will open this morning with Prof. A. M. Schlesinger, head of the department of history, presiding. The address of welcome will be delivered by President Walter A. Jessup. The general topic for discussion this forenoon is "Test and Projects in the Teaching of History."

The first lecture will be an illustrated one by Marvin J. Van Wagenen of the University of Minnesota. The lecture is titled "The Measurement of Achievement in History." Two members of the college of education, Prof. Thomas H. Kirby and Dean William F. Russell will speak on "More Reliable Tests in History" and "The Application of the Project Method in the Teaching of History," respectively.

60 OF BRITISH SHIP BELIEVED LOST AT SEA

"Tuscan Prince" Is One Of Five Vessels To Meet Disaster In Gale

(By United News)

Seattle, Washington, Feb. 15—The total loss of the British freighter "Tuscan Prince" bound into Seattle from San Francisco, somewhere on the coast of Vancouver Island, north of Estevan Point and the death of every member of her crew of sixty was feared here tonight following a radio flash from the cutter "Sea Monarch" that the freighter was on the rocks and sinking fast.

Since the radio message no tidings have been received as to her fate. The "Tuscan Prince", while the only vessel whose floundering may have taken a toll of life, was but one of five vessels which met disaster in the terrific northwest gale which raked the northern coasts of Washington and Vancouver Island.

The wooden lumber carrier "Naika" which drifted helplessly for hours after losing her rudder south of Tutaosh Island burned to her waterline and her crew saved by the revenue cutter "Snohomish" in one of the most thrilling rescues ever made in the North Pacific.

Fire flashed over the "Naika" from stem to stern and while the icy spray and the terrific gales lashed at the members of the crew, the flames roared in the interior of the ship and broke through the decks in a score of places.

Without wireless and unable to ship a boat in the heavy sea the crew appeared lost when the "Snohomish" appeared and stood by. Her crew rigged up a breeches buoy and one by one the men went over the side. Three were slightly injured by flames including the master of the "Naika" who was the last to leave the doomed

COLLEGE HEAD WILL ADDRESS SUNDAY VESPERS

Minister And Teacher To Address Last Service Before Vacation

Pres. Daniel Webster Kurtz of McPherson, Kan., will deliver the address at Vespers service on Sunday afternoon in the natural science auditorium at 4 o'clock. His subject will be "The Symphony of Life".

President Kurtz is widely known as a lecturer on religious, patriotic, educational topics, and has lectured at teachers' institutes, Bible and Y. M. C. A. conferences and various other places. He is known as a speaker who succeeds in holding the attention of his audience.

He is president of McPherson College, instructs classes in the college and also finds time to lecture at various places throughout the year in McPherson, Kan., where he has been for a number of years, he is still the popular lecturer of the town.

President Kurtz has studied at the foreign universities of Leipzig, Berlin, and Marburg, and has attended the University of Pennsylvania, Ohio Northern University, Mt. Union College at Alliance, O., Juniata College at Huntingdon, Pa., and the Yale Divinity School.

In 1910 he became a minister in the Church of the Brethren and was from 1910 to 1914 a minister of the First Church of the Brethren at Philadelphia. On July 1, 1914 he became president of McPherson College, and stills holds this position. He is a prominent man in religious and educational associations.

He is the author of "Fundamental Doctrines of the Christian Faith" and "Nineteen Centuries of the Christian Church" and is a collaborator of "Studies in Doctrine and Devotion."

President Kurtz will deliver the last Vespers address before spring vacation. After him, only two speakers remain. There will be two Vespers consisting entirely of music later in the semester.

King Winter Now Making Last Rally Weather Man States

Due to the spreading of a region of "high" pressure over the middle west, the recent cold spell that has been prevalent in Iowa City and Iowa will last longer than is customary for such storms, says Prof. J. F. Reilly, government weather forecaster for Iowa City. Such storms are usually of short duration, but unforeseen paths of pressure deviation bring about weather conditions that are problematical to weather men.

The temperature reached 9 degrees below Wednesday night, 2 degrees colder than Tuesday night. Prof. Reilly predicted late yesterday afternoon that the temperature would go below zero last night but that it would not be as cold as the previous two nights.

A general, gradual rising of the thermometer in general out of the cold wave is the opinion of Mr. Reilly.

FRANCE AUTHORIZES LOAN OF EIGHT BILLION FRANCS

(By United News)

Paris, Feb. 15—France unable to obtain money from Germany with which to rebuild the devastated areas proposes to float an interior loan of eight billion francs for the rehabilitation of the region.

The chamber of deputies today authorized the floating of this loan together with another for five billion francs with which the budget will be balanced.

HERE'S CHANCE TO EARN MONEY SELLING STATUES

The "way and means" of getting that extra bit of money is not hidden away as students are sometimes prone to think it is. Certain companies have written to the University offering to make salesmanship connections with students here. The Boston Sculpture Co., designers—sculptors—reproducers, Melrose, Mass., want a student representative in this locality. There are three stationers who will correspond with prospective undergraduate salesmen;—Arnold D. Brown Co., 834 East 43rd St., Chicago, Ill.; Lapook and Sons, 610 East 47th St., Chicago Ill.; and The Rytex Co., Century Bld., Indianapolis, Indiana. Bulletins giving further details of these openings are posted outside of the office of the Dean of Women.

FORMER PROFESSOR DIES IN ST. LOUIS

Professor Gustave Hinrichs, For Twenty Years Professor Here, Succumbs

Professor Gustave Hinrichs, for twenty years professor in chemistry at the University of Iowa, died at his home in St. Louis, Mo., Wednesday, February 14, after a long illness. Professor Hinrichs, eighty-five years old at the time of his death, retired thirty years ago from his work in the University. Since that time he has maintained an experimental laboratory of his own in St. Louis.

While a member of the faculty, Professor Hinrichs was active in the weather service. He built an observatory tower in his home west of the Presbyterian Church, on Market street. His weather reports were given out both as official United States records and locally.

A number of the chemistry books written by him and his papers published in scientific journals are used as reference by the present chemistry department. In addition to his instructional work, he invented an embalming fluid used universally by undertakers.

Professor Bohumil Shimek, formerly head of the botany department, was once a student of Professor Hinrichs in chemistry. "At the time when Professor Hinrichs taught the campus was limited to three buildings. The present Home Economics building, South Hall which stood in the space between the present Liebral Arts and Physics buildings, and Old Science Hall were the three. The Home Economics building was headquarters for chemistry, physics, and mineralogy. Professor Hinrichs was perhaps a better author than instructor but he did much to advance the study of science in this University."

Professor Hinrichs was born in Copenhagen, Germany, December 3, 1837. He received his education there and graduated from the University of Copenhagen. One daughter, Anna, of St. Louis, a son, Carl, also of St. Louis and another son, Gustave, of Iowa City, survive.

TROWBRIDGE ATTENDS BIG TEN CONFERENCE

Prof. Arthur C. Trowbridge of the geology department will leave next Wednesday for the University of Illinois where he will attend on Friday and Saturday, a conference of the chairmen of advisory boards of Y. M. C. A. from the Big Ten schools.

Wednesday, he will lecture before the Illinois chapter of Sigma Xi, honorary scientific fraternity, on "Mississippi Passes and the Port of New Orleans". On Friday, Professor Trowbridge will speak before the geology seminar on "Experimental Work in Sedimentation".

HARDING ASKS CABINET SHIFT IN NEW PLAN

Wholesale Shuffling of Departments Recommended To Congress

(By United News)

Washington, Feb. 15—Vital cabinet changes and a wholesale shuffling of governmental bureaus is recommended in the president's reorganization program transmitted to the congressional joint committee and now made public.

Principal changes suggested are: 1. Absorption of the army and navy in a single department of national defense, headed by a cabinet officer.

2. Organization of a new department of education and welfare to be headed by a cabinet secretary.

3. Changing the name of the post office department to the department of communications.

4. Stripping of all non-military bureaus from the army and navy and distribution of them among the civilian departments principally of the interior and commerce.

5. Removal of all non-fiscal bureaus from the treasury department.

6. Setting up the budget office now part of the treasury department as an independent body.

In transmitting the plan to the congressional committee today President Harding explained that all except a few of the recommendations, notably that providing for the department of national defense, had the sanction of the cabinet.

The congressional committee is expected to make any revisions in the plan before it is laid before congress.

FRATERNITY HOUSE UNDER QUARANTINE

Phi Kappa Sigma House Placed Under Quarantine When Case Of Diphtheria Is Found

The Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity house was quarantined yesterday when it was found that one of the members, Vertle Bruce A2 of Indianola who had been ill for a couple of days, had diphtheria. He was taken immediately to the isolation hospital. He is a linotype operator in the Daily Iowa office.

The quarantine will last only two or three days in which time cultures will be taken to see that no more of the men have the disease.

Dr. Jenkinson, the public health officer says there are scattering cases of diphtheria throughout the city as there are every year at this time. But there is no epidemic of it and it is hoped that it will not spread. Every care is being taken for its prevention.

House Committee To Consider Lame Duck Resolution

(By United News)

Washington, Feb. 15—The Norris resolution to kill off lame duck congresses is to be taken up by the house committee on election of president and vice-president Saturday.

Announcement to this effect by Chairman Andrew of Nebraska assures some consideration at once for the proposed constitutional amendment which has just passed the senate. But because of the indifference of house leaders the measure is not expected to come to a final vote.

The resolution cannot be voted on except by consent of the powerful rules committee which dictates all house procedure and the chairman of this committee, Representative Campbell of Kansas, is not disposed to rush the proposal through.

FRENCH MINERS OUT ON STRIKE FOR MORE PAY

Believe Walkout Caused By Radicals And Communists To Hinder Policy

(By United News)

Paris, Feb. 14—The French miners federation has called a general strike which is to start Friday morning. In a communique issued by the federation tonight it was declared that the silence of employers concerning the demands made by miners "merely emphasized the emptiness of eternal governmental promises and proved indisputable the determination of employers not to consent to any concession to the underground slaves."

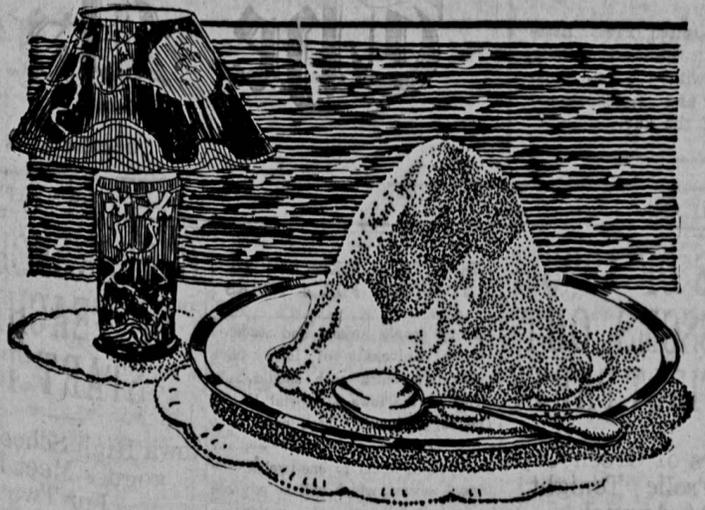

The strike is partly directed against the French government as the state is now mining coal in the Saar basin which is German territory in French occupation, and other districts.

Premier Poincare has feared ever since the French occupation of the Ruhr valley that there would be a general walkout of miners all over France.

Although the men have been demanding better working conditions and more pay, the government is inclined to believe that the strike was fomented by radicals and communists in order to embarrass Premier Poincare in his Ruhr policy.

PLAYERS TO GIVE "THE BATH ROAD"

First American Production Of Neilson's Play Will Be Presented Here

The University theatre under the direction of Prof. E. C. Mabie of the speech department is to produce on April 19 "The Bath Road" a three act play by Francis Neilson that has never been produced on any stage. The play which has all the earmarks of becoming one of the headliners on the American stage will be part of the program for the National Drama League Convention which is to meet in Iowa City April 18 to 21. It is expected that Mr. Neilson who is President of the Drama League will be here in person to help Professor Mabie in the direction of the play in its final development.

The play is to be cast from the University players, those who show only the most ability will be selected because it is the opportunity to literally create the roles of a new play before the eyes of the amateur and professional theatrical leaders of America. Although Mr. Neilson, himself has expressed several ideas for the working out of "The Bath Road" the entire responsibility for its production will rest on the shoulders of Professor Mabie and his cast of University students. If it proves a success it will be heralded with the announcement that it was first presented at the University of Iowa under the auspices of the University theatre.

"The Bath Road" is a charming costume comedy of the period of 1800, when drawing room conversation drifted to Mr. Sheridan's comedies. The play blends with the gossip of charmingly gowned ladies, the vigor and excitement of duels and fisticuffs, all delightfully written and set in the manner of the period.

Francis Neilson, author of "The Bath Road" is a director, playwright, and dramatic critic. The play was published in England several years ago, but it has never been published in America. Mr. Neilson, the author, is an Englishman, a member of Parliament from 1910 to 1916. Since 1885 he has lived a large part of the time in America, and he now resides in Chicago. He was stage director for Charles Frohman and Royal Opera, London, librettist of "Price Ananias" and "La Vivandiere." He is the author of the famous success "The Butterfly on the Wheel," of "The Crucible," a play well known in England, and of "The Crucifixion of Philip Strong". He is at present editor of "The Freeman" and president of The Drama League of America.

LAWS ENTERTAIN AT BIG SMOKER

Music And Talks Feature Get-Together of Students In College of Law

"Greater Iowa" was the predominating spirit of the "laws" last evening when they attended the smoker at the college library to boost a greater University, a greater college of law and a greater Jubilee.

Special guests of the school were members of the physical training and coaching staffs of the University: Physical Director Walter R. Fieseler, Coach George T. Branahan, Coach James N. Barry, and Coach Howard H. Jones, and an added program novelty was the calling of the roll of twenty-two "I" letter men who have this year been registered in the Law college. The twenty-two who include veterans of track, swimming, football, baseball and basketball, are: Aubrey Devine, George Thompson, Gordon Rath, Lloyd Hulbert, Max Conn, Frank Shimke, C. Smith, Walter B. Reno, Albert P. Jenkins, Frank Jaqua, Ben Howrey, Wm. S. Kelly, Clyde B. Charlton, L. C. White, Martin Van Oosterhaut, Warren Hickox, Fred Slater, Hugh J. Wade, Carl Engeldinger, Craven Shuttleworth, Paul Minnick, and Gordon Locke.

Comedy and cold reality were mingled in the evening's program. Introduced as the Dean of the Sioux City bar, Henry W. Wormley L3 of Kingsley presented his views on the "Vested Rights in Incorporeal Hereditaments." "Reminiscences" was the theme of the talk of Prof. Rollin M. Perkins of the law faculty, and "Greater Iowa" was the toast subject of Prof. Frank Randall, also of the law faculty. A vocal solo by Robert A. Rockhill L3 of Larchwood and selections by Shaffer's orchestra, comprised the musical entertainment. "Our Jubi-Jubi-Jubilee" was featured in the talk of Robert Block L2 of Davenport, who is this year's director of the Jubilee.

A snappy program, music, and feed—the program as announced from the bulletin boards—was carried out in detail. The general committeemen who directed the evening's events comprised: James W. Fay of Emmetsburg, Henry W. Wormley of Kingsley and Elmer K. Bekman of Alton.

Men Were Flappers Half A Century Ago Authorities Claim

"There is so much talk against the flapper these days, but history records that men were the flappers 50 years ago," certain authorities are now claiming. This assault on the dignity and good fame of the generation of grandfathers is bolstered up by certain evidence: "They greased their hair, wore corsets and otherwise made themselves look fine. Twenty years ago they wore stiff-bosomed shirts, silk belts six inches wide, parted their long hair in the middle and wore neckties that puffed out in front like the breast of a pouter pigeon."

Reading further in sartorial history it will be found that at one period the shoulder's of men's coats were heavily padded to make the veriest weakling appear an athlete. It may even be suspected that the sterner sex gave up wearing breeches because so many did not possess the proper shape leg.

Airing of the facts brought up by this Wyoming editor has the benefit of inducing a better spirit of humility. It serves to remind also that the fashion of one age almost invariably appears grotesque to the next, and suggests that the present modes are but transitory, being destined to give way to something perhaps worse, perhaps better, but surely different.

Men make light of women for vanity in dress, but did you ever see a man in a gold-braided, hat-plumed lodge uniform?

Spring Clothes For Men On Plain Lines Say Local Dealers

For the general information of Beau Brummels of the campus who are wondering whether conservatism or fad will feature in spring styles for men, conservative clothes will be the mark of distinction for the well dressed man, according to local clothiers.

In suits the four button norfolk featured in overplaid of light tans and browns will undoubtedly prove the most popular. Also the three or four button loose fitting models will be very good.

Shirts in whites and blues of unitone shirting, broadcloths, poplins, madras and cloud cloths are to be worn. White linens will probably prove the most popular.

Knit ties are being replaced by stripes and cut silk neckwear of bright colors.

In collars, both stiff and soft, the low style is the best to buy.

Students Of Music School To Appear Today In Recital

A number of the students of the University school of music will be presented in recital this afternoon at four o'clock in the liberal arts assembly room. This recital is one of a series given throughout the year.

Earlier programs were given in the recital hall of the school of music but such large audiences were attracted that it was decided to have future recitals in the liberal arts assembly which can comfortably seat all who come. Other student recitals are announced for March 2 and March 9.

Attractive programs of varied interest are assured, which will include selections by students of voice, piano violin and cello. No admission is charged and all lovers of music are invited to attend.

IOWA ACCEPTS INVITATION TO KANSAS RELAYS

To Meet Kansas In Big Event Under Auspices Of Kansas City Athletic Club

A mile relay race between teams representing the University of Iowa and the University of Kansas will probably be the feature event of the annual indoor invitation meet of the Kansas City Athletic Club held tomorrow night in the coliseum at Kansas City.

Late Wednesday afternoon Coach George T. Bresnahan received a telegram from J. A. Bailey inviting the University to send a mile quartette to compete against Kansas University. Coach Bresnahan accepted immediately and last night held tryouts for the quartetters who are to compete.

Nineteen men ran in heats, the five men with the fastest time being cohsen. Three men ran in a heat against time. In the first heat Noll, Wellslager, and Hoyt, competed, Noll breezing through in rather easy fashion for first place. The second heat brought Wilson, Crawford, and Jarnigan together. Wilson winning by a comfortable margin. Brookins, Toll and Zacher ran the third section. Brookins had no trouble taking this race in good time. The fourth race Morrow won from Hanson and Skinner without being pushed to any great extent. The fifth race with Coulter, Ashton, and Reed running furnished one of the thrills of the afternoon. Up until the last hundred yards Coulter had things his own way but Read challenged him on the back stretch and forced Coulter to give everything he had to win. The last section was made up of four men, Miller, Apfel, Havig and Trenemen. This race was close from start to finish. Miller sprinted into the lead with Apfel close on his heels. Apfel could not hold the stiff pace and fell back giving way to Havig who began to overhaul Miller on the last half of the last lap. He made a desperate finish but could not quite make up the distance. The trials resulted in the selection of Captain Wilson, Brookins, Morrow, Noll, and Coulter to represent the Hawkeyes tomorrow night.

Leave This Afternoon

The team will leave this afternoon at 3:41 by way of Des Moines arriving in Kansas City early Saturday morning. The runners will have practically the entire day in which to see the city as the meet does not take place until in the evening.

The annual indoor meet of the Kansas City Athletic Club is one of the biggest events of the indoor season in the middle West. Nearly every school in the Missouri valley sends a team. Last year Ames had several of their best men entered while other of the Missouri Valley conference were represented. The meet has taken a hold on the people of Kansas City, and over 8,000 witnessed it last year.

Kansas has a good relay team. Their runners defeated the Hawkeyes last summer at a meet sponsored by the business men of St. Joe, Missouri. The Iowa quartette that day however was not the best that can be put on the track and the Old Gold runners have a good chance to turn the tables tomorrow night.

The relay team will step on the track of the K. C. coliseum clad in natty new jerseys which were issued last night after the tryouts. They have a black body with an Old Gold collar and waist-band. The letters are of old gold edged with white. They are the neatest looking sweaters that have appeared on an Iowa track team.

PADDLERS TAKE FINAL WORKOUT

Hawkeye Swimmers Meet Illini Tank Team In Iowa Pool Tomorrow Night

The swimming team took its last hard workout before the Illinois meet last night. The men have been going through a strenuous workout this week and expect to give Illinois a hard battle tomorrow night.

The team has been strengthened in every event especially the dashes. Gage the freshman captain of last year is fast getting into condition and is expected to give a good account of himself in the relay and 40 yard dash. Bane is still out on account of sickness but McCullough took a light workout last night, the first time that he has been in the pool since the Northwestern meet.

The one weak spot remaining on Ashton is the only fast man the Iowa team is the back stroke. Coach Armbruster has in that event, Griffin who swam last Saturday night is a breast and crawl stroke man and not a back stroke swimmer. Armbruster has issued a call for more backstroke men but as yet few men have answered it.

One of the most exciting events of the evening will be the water basketball game. Illinois was a runner up in the conference water basketball last year and has almost the same team this year. Iowa has an exceptionally strong water basketball team this year and intends to give Illinois a strong fight for honors. The two teams are very even-matched and should give an exciting battle for the spectators to witness.

The scoring will be the same as in all conference meets. First place in the relay will count 5 points. The losers will receive nothing. In all other events three places will be given: first will count 5, second, 3, and third 1.

As a special event there will be a 40 yard swim for boys of the grade school between the ages of 11 and 13.

Tickets for the meet are on sale at Whetstone's and the Iowa Supply. "T" books do not admit.

IOWANS SHOOT 496 SCORE IN OXFORD MATCH

Nearly Perfect Score Made By Hawkeyes Under British Regulations

The Iowa rifle team shot a score of 496 out of a possible 500 in the match with Oxford university ended yesterday. Results were cabled to Oxford immediately and the score made by the Oxford riflemen will be received here some time today.

Shooting a score of 496 under the British regulations is a remarkable performance. The team shot a 496 score against Yale and the disadvantages of the British shooting regulations makes this score especially noteworthy.

The British regulations require shooting at a distance of 75 feet which is 25 feet farther than under the American rules. This necessitated a change in the gallery at the Armory rules. Only one man could shoot at a time as a result and this caused considerable delay and inconvenience.

The British target is also of different size and the black center is smaller. There is a marked difference in the size of interior rings.

Practice targets of the British type were used by the riflemen in preparation for the match. Ten men shot in the match, the five highest scores counting.

Yale university is also shooting a match against Oxford university this week.

The scores of the Iowa riflemen are as follows:

Bullard, R. W.	100
Fabricius, G. (Cap.)	99
Hartman, T.	99
Kinnard, F. R.	99
Kinsler, K.	99
Phillips, J. F.	98
DeKlotz, F. W.	98
Bray, D.	98
Dehner, W. J.	98
Woods, R. C.	96

HAWKEYE SQUAD RESUMES WORK

With Four Games Left Iowa Has Good Chance For Championship

After a few days rest the Hawkeye basketball squad has resumed practice and is now working on plays for the Indiana-Iowa game here February 22. With only four games left on the schedule, chances for another Hawkeye western championship are way above par.

In the absence of Coach Sam Barry, who scouted the Wisconsin-Michigan game Wednesday night, the Old Gold team did not work out but were given a short respite the past few days. With its offensive game badly crippled because of the loss of both forwards, the Wolverines practically dropped out of the pennant chase when they let the Badgers grab the game by three points. Wisconsin has still to play Purdue, Indiana, and Michigan and may lose one or two of these games.

Although Iowa has only four games left one here February 22 with the Hoosiers, and one with Minnesota here February 26, one with Michigan, there March 3, and one with Indiana, there March 5, Coach Barry's winning quintet will still have to be in top form when it plays Indiana for the Hoosiers have beaten Purdue and should win from Wisconsin March 12. With the Michigan offense weakened the Hawkeyes should repeat at Ann Arbor. Minnesota has, so far, lost all its games and ought not to cause much trouble. Assistant Coach Albert Jenkins scouted the Illinois-Indiana game and reports Indiana to play a fast floor game and to be good basket shots.

The varsity had a light workout last night, shooting a few baskets and working on offensive plays. Coach Barry talked to them for a short while and then they turned in. All the men are in good condition.

Freshmen Elect Dauber To Lead Track Candidates

Before the regular program of the afternoon began the freshmen track aspirants met and elected a track captain for the season of 1923. Raymond G. Dauber S1 of Estherville, was chosen by the yearlings to lead the first year candidates.

Dauber has had considerable experience on the track, performing for four years for his high school in the broad jump, high jump, shot put and pole vault. He is a consistent performer in all of these events and should make a good leader for the freshmen. In the relay carnival held last Saturday he demonstrated his versatility by placing in all four of his specialties. He should be a valuable addition to the 1924 track team. He is also a gridiron performer of ability, playing the position of full-back in a manner that shows he will be a dangerous contender for the position next fall.

ORTHOPEDIC HOSPITAL HERE IS WELL KNOWN

T. S. Sharp executive secretary of the Student colunteer movement of the world from New York and Miss Mary Baker, traveling secretary of the movement among the universities of the United States were in Iowa City yesterday to consult Dr. Arthur Steindler of the orthopedic department of the Children's hospital. The event of the reputation of Dr. Steindler and the orthopedic department is strikingly illustrated by the visit of Miss Baker and Mr. Sharp. They came here on the recommendation of Dr. Paul Harrison who practices in Arabia and who is temporarily visiting in New York.

While Dr. Harrison was in Arabia the fame of the work of the Children's hospital in orthopedics came often to that country.

To the Class of 1923:

A Message of Vital Importance

COMMENCEMENT days are not far off. They will be here sooner than you realize. But after graduation what's ahead of you? In a few years some of your class will be influential leaders occupying positions of great responsibility; others will be placed in minor roles—living from hand to mouth. Thus far you have made a splendid investment of your time. What will the returns be?

Have you chosen business for your life's work? If so, and if you seek leadership in the commercial world, here are facts worthy of your deepest consideration.

The principles of leadership in business are not many in number. They are not hard to grasp. Yet less than two men in one hundred ever learn them. The two chief reasons for this failure are: (1)—lack of an all-round business experience. (2)—the difficulty of drawing sound conclusions from the relatively few experiences that any one person can have.

A Study of Leaders

Through your studies thus far you have created for yourself a substantial background—a foundation upon which you can build high. Why not use this foundation in the largest possible way? If you are truly ambitious for steady and permanent progress, it will be well for you—in addition to your undergraduate work to consider the advisability of special training which will cut off years of apprenticeship in the business world. This training is available at the Babson Institute—an educational institution organized under the laws of Massachusetts not for profit.

Every man who hopes to be a leader in the business world needs special training—a training that can be had only from actual experience. A study of the successful business men of today shows they are those who have—(1)—a fundamental knowledge of business principles; (2)—a faculty for the practical application of these principles to daily business life.

These tried and proven principles, this gift for application may now be yours.

The Business of Learning Business

The specialists of the Babson Institute have spent years in business research, laboratory work, and the study of the lives of successful men. They have arrived at the fundamentals which every one must have to achieve leadership in business. These vitally important facts have been put together in clear, understandable form and concentrated into an intensive one-year training course. Babson Institute, an endowed educational institution, is conducted for the purpose of training young men who are to occupy positions of responsibility and trust.

The Laboratory Method

Since it is the purpose of the Babson Institute Course to train men for business, all work and all study is conducted in the same manner as work is conducted in any regularly established business house. For instance, there are regular office hours not merely school hours. Lessons and reports are dictated by the student as in an office—not written. Thus the student acquires a mastery of business English and the ability to transform quickly his thoughts into definite form.

Teaching in Conference

Classes are conducted on the conference plan. The teachers, or directors as they are more properly called, are experienced business men, successful in their own line. Factory inspection trips are not long distance walking matches, but personally conducted tours by experts in that particular industry. The problems discussed are present-day ones and are drawn from actual experience. They are the same problems on which over 17,000 of America's keenest executives are seeking aid and solution from the largest organization of business advisers in the world. The student at Babson Institute works on actual cases—not hypothetical problems—and consequently he develops the business man's point of view.

Business Clinics

The student at the Babson Institute learns to do the things he will be expected to do in business by constant contact with actual business procedure. He participates in the clinic instead of sitting in a class. The training covers the four major divisions of business, Manufacturing and Production, Financing, Distribution and Marketing, and Management. If you are anxious for achievement, if by inheritance or initiative, you seem destined to become one of our leaders of business, send for particulars about this training and its unusual teaching methods.

Send for this Booklet!

"Training for Business Leadership" describes the courses in detail, and gives complete information of the facilities of Babson Institute. You will learn of the practical methods peculiar to this institution by which men are fitted without loss of time for executive positions. No obligation.

TWO ONE-ACTS GIVEN FEB. 17

Tom Thumb Theatre Will Be Used For Stuart Walker's Fanciful Plays

An unusual treat for the children of all ages in Iowa City is the presentation of two one-act plays by Stuart Walker in the Tom Thumb Theatre in Natural Science Auditorium Saturday afternoon, February 17. The tickets are now on sale at either the Public Library or the Book and Craft Shop. The plays are being produced by the children in the Iowa City Public Library with the aid of the University class in dramatic production.

The two little one-act plays are shorter plays. The first "Six Who Pass While The Lentils Boil" is the fanciful story of David Little boy and how he hid Her Majesty the Queen the day on which she was to be beheaded. The second play "Sir David Wears A Crown" is a sequel and tells how David in return for his kindness to the Queen, is first knighted and then is made a royal prince. Both plays are written in Stuart Walker's most whimsical style and will absorb the interest of even very young children. The sets for the plays were designed and worked out by the University class in stage production in the University Theatre Workshop, and the costumes were purchased in Chicago by Professor E. C. Mabie of the speech department. Lighting effects will be attained by the special switchboard constructed by the stagecraft class.

Those who take part in the first play are to keep the same characters in the sequel. Three children will take part. They are the trumpeter, Keith Weeber; the Device Bearer, Burnell Horrabin; and You-in-the-Audience, Calvin Kay, son of Dean and Mrs. George F. Kay.

The University students who will make up the remainder of the cast are:—

- The Prologue, Malinda Kies A3 of Iowa City.
- The Population, Wesley A. Hughes A2 of Des Moines.
- The Soldiery, J. W. Townsend A3 of Garwin.
- The Mimie, Lora Kibbe A3 of Hereford, Texas.

- The Milkmaid, Adelaide Dutcher A2 of Iowa City.
- The Blindman, John H. White A3 of Mitchell, So. Dakota.
- The Ballad Singer, Josephine Daus A4 of Aitken, Minnesota.
- The King, Catherine Donica A2 of Cedar Rapids.
- The Councillor, Ruth Moscript Au of Marshalltown.
- The Great Aunt, Ada Swalwell A3 of Collins.
- The Headsman, Forrest A. Roberts G of Lamoni.
- The Queen, Lorna Schuppert A4 of Iowa City.
- Sir David Little Boy, Gladys L. Watkins A3 of Woodbine.
- His Mother, Pearl Bagenstos A3 of Holstein.

One of Ohio State's distance runners was asked to turn in his suit because he failed to get in condition for an indoor meet. The weather is still too cold for track suits anyway.

Those two ex-freshmen are just about making the Indiana team. One of them got four baskets against Illinois, while the other one got five. We don't blame Mann for postponing games.

A PLAY WELL DONE

The University theater cannot be praised too highly for its remarkable presentation of "The Merchant of Venice." In the writer's opinion this play far surpasses any other given in Iowa City in recent years. The characters were well cast and displayed keen insight in interpretation and exceptional ability in acting. Lighting effects and stage settings were imposing. It would be difficult to improve on the play in any manner, it seemed so nearly perfect. Those who were present either night of the production can entertain little doubt that such an ambitious venture could have succeeded as it did without a directing genius behind it.

THOMAS CARLYLE

Thomas Carlyle is one of the most profound essayists and lecturers of history, but his true worth is often misunderstood. Lecturers and teachers often refer to Carlyle for his criticisms and his expressive phrases, emphasizing his forceful satire. The result is that the extent of the average knowledge of this great man is that he was a very direct and powerful writer who knew how to make words work for him.

Carlyle's lectures and essays fall into two classes, historical and critical. His historical works are of recognized fame, and they prove him to be a thorough and intense scholar. In his critical essays on social conditions, Carlyle shows his real breadth of mind, his ability to pierce to the root of all troubles. His essays are based on analytical observations. He is often accused of being a destructive critic, yet in his great works he only determines the trouble, then explains a solution. He is always against revolutions and violence, and recommends gradual changes. His theories are wholesome and workable.

In Carlyle's works, each sentence says as much as an ordinary paragraph does for other authors. He is a master of clear and concrete exposition, yet the many passages of real literary splendor, picturesque phrases and colorful words, keep it from being too plain. The more one reads his sentences, the more he can find in them. Each is full of suggestions for further thought, and often each summarizes a whole theory. The more they are analyzed, the better they appear.

Carlyle was an optimist, despite his unhappy childhood and later privations. He always points out the ideal state of things, as far as the ideal is reasonable, and he always shows the means of getting there. Work, Faith, Sincerity, are his three watchwords. They are worthy of a place in everyone's creed.

INTERCOLLEGIATE DEBATE

Why are intercollegiate debaters recruited year after year from the literary societies? Passiveness among potential non-literary candidates is the answer. For too long a time, intercollegiate debate has been regarded as a monopoly of the literary societies. Fraternity and non-fraternity men have participated indiscriminately, but they have all been literary society men. Intercollegiate debate is more than a literary society side-line. It is all-University, just as much as intercollegiate athletics. The men who debate Nebraska and South Dakota in the spring are representing the University of Iowa. The "I" medals which they will receive stand for the same University, the same honor in representing her, that an athletic "I" does.

The University of Nebraska and the University of South Dakota are not lightly-feared opponents. At Vermillion, debate ranks as high as athletics and Lincoln's forensic defenders are as dangerous as her football warriors. If the University of Iowa is to uphold her forensic reputation against these two this spring, then Iowa's debaters must be representative of our best material. This may be found only by tryouts, and these tryouts are to be held next Tuesday night. Every potential debater, literary or non-literary, fraternity or non-fraternity—the only qualification being membership in the University and the ability to debate—should enter the tryouts. It aids the candidate in future tryouts even if he be unsuccessful this time, and it aids his University to have the best possible team right now. The more severe the competition for places is, the better the University will be represented in the I-N-SD debate.

CONTEMPORARY OPINION

(New York World)

sections of the country in an artist's questionnaire on the subject of bobbed hair will be viewed as incidentally illustrating an aspect of feminine character not contemplated in the inquiry. For the most part, the leaders of opinion appealed to express positive disapproval of the style of coiffure in question. It may be "all right for pretty girls" and "little sister" but there is no "dignity in it" and it is "incongruous for older women." The President of a New York women's club considers bobbed hair "inartistic and as expressionless as a man's derby hat."

But as respects derby hats or masculine haircuts, do men bother themselves as to whether their fellow-men are following an expressionless or inartistic fashion? Could they be induced to answer a questionnaire on the subject? Is it a matter of very vital concern to them whether other men wear their hair long or short or close-cropped behind the ears?

Women of course as the fair sex invite a superior amount of attention from their own and the other sex by their whims in hair-dressing. Their bobbed hair is only the present-day equivalent of the chignon and pompadour of former times. Yet the spectacle of the elders of their sex sitting in solemn judgment on its propriety is an edifying one. Does it specially conduce to an added respect for feminine opinion on political issues?

The Sounding Board

IOWA CLIMATE

Reams of paper have been consumed and untold quantities of hot air have been loosed regarding the climate of sunny California. Everyone who lives in California raves about the climate, and everyone who doesn't live there raves about it, but for a different reason. No one, so far as we have been able to determine, has adequately praised our own Iowa climate. Hence these few laudatory remarks. If they persuade one retired Iowa farmer to return from Los Angeles to his native heath, they will not have been written in vain.

In the first place, Iowa climate can't be beat for variety. Whereas Californians must content themselves with a range of temperature of perhaps 30 degrees, residents of Iowa may enjoy a range of at least 150—from 40 below to 110 above. Furthermore, it is not necessary to wait long for these changes; in Iowa it is entirely possible to go to bed with the thermometer at 60 and wake up with it at -15.

In the winter Iowa usually resembles Alaska for a few days at a time; then for a few days it looks like a gooey duck pond; then the mercury drops again, and the same process is repeated indefinitely. In the summer Iowa is either hot and dry or hot and wet, but seldom both at the same time. Summer neither begins nor ends at any definite time; snow often falls during the merry month of May, and thunder showers sometimes occur in January.

The Iowa climate, however, is the most healthful in the United States or California. All the inhabitants enjoy phenomenal health, for a very simple reason: If they weren't hard-boiled and husky they couldn't stand the weather.

Iowa Students Happily Married

"Divorce Menace Increases," "Startling Increase in Marital Separations," "America Leads the World in Divorce," and so on practically without end. A great emotional outcry is constantly growing louder against the modern menace "that is rotting at the core of our civilization and spreading rapidly and widely its disintegrating destruction," and so on ad infinitum.

But here at the University of Iowa no such lamentable menace threatens to uproot the social structure. If the University is vulnerable to this shaft, the correct tendon has not been found as yet. Here the idealistic romanticism of story book love actually appears to materialize. Statistics show that Iowa graduates who marry must actually continue to keep the vows of love, to cherish each other until death, more et cetera. Meager though the college man's salary may have been, former co-eds have in most cases not complained (the reciprocal also holds—the men who married them also found Emerson correct in his "star hitching" theory), for figures secured from the office of the Iowa Alumnus show that of marriages of 940 alumna of this University but six have been dissolved in the divorce court. No exact figures are to be had on marriages of male graduates, as no record is kept of them. Six divorces out of nearly a thousand seems surprisingly few, particularly when one is told by the latest United States census figures of 1920 that over 10 per cent of all marriages contracted in this country now end in the divorce court. Our state, we might add here, has a higher ratio of divorces to marriage than the national rate. An article appeared in the Des Moines Register last summer stating that for one month the decrees of divorce granted in Polk county were in excess of marriage licenses issued.

The University of Iowa must in truth be "a gem of purest ray serene," yes we are even tempted to state as "fair as a star when only one is shining in the sky." But no, 'twas ever thus, South Carolina steps forth and mars the record set by the University. If married people find the relationship uncongenial or oppressive they may live apart, but cannot secure a divorce. No divorces are issued in South Carolina on any grounds, while the exact opposite holds true for Nevada. Apparently, all that is necessary to secure a divorce in Nevada is the formality of starting a suit for separation. The rate of marriage to divorce is 1.54 to 1 in Nevada. Columbia county, Oregon, is credited with the highest proportion of divorces to marriages of any place in the United States. Here, in 1920, seventy-five marriages were performed, while during the same length of time 128 decrees for divorce were issued; a rate of nearly two to one in favor of the divorce.

The eastern states all have lower divorce rates than the western states the rate increases uniformly from East to West. Excepting South Carolina, North Carolina has the best record with one out of every thirty-two marriages annulled.

Of the 11,874 living alumni of the University 8,766 are men and 3,018 are women. Of the women 940 or about 31 per cent have married. Ninety per cent of these have married University men. But there are 8,766 male graduates of the University. As suggested before no records have been kept of marriages of men after they graduate from the university, but the percentage of those who marry has been estimated to be much higher, perhaps more than twice as great, as that of the women. Unless ordinary methods of calculation are to be suspended in this case many thousands of university men have had to see elsewhere than the rank and file of University women for their wives.

However, this statement ought perhaps to be qualified for the number of men married to non-university women would suffer an appreciable decrease were those cases subtracted where the University graduate has married an undergraduate woman and as is usually the case the woman leaves the university before receiving a degree. This has ever been a popular trick and may at least be partly attributed to the fact that men usually marry women younger than themselves. Freshmen enter at about the same average age. The result is that the men after they are upperclassmen find prospective better halves beneath them and a year or two after graduating manifest distinct desire to diminish the size of the junior and senior classes.

The number of students who have married before or while attending the University and completing courses afterwards is large. Perhaps the greater number of such cases are men taking professional courses, law, medicine, dentistry or engineering. Many of the students married when matriculating at the University are vocational students receiving federal aid. In the majority of cases where one married couple attends the University, it is usually the husband. Cases have been brought to light where the wife has been the only one registered. Both these classes are beyond a doubt outnumbered by married couples, both of whom are students at the University.

It is coincident that there are two instances of this kind in the College of Law. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Griffin are both junior law students this year. Mrs. Griffin was awarded a prize of $50 recently at a Law College Mixer for having earned the highest grade of the class during her freshman year. Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Larson, whose pictures appear in the cut, are both classified as seniors in the same college.

The question arises at once in anyone's mind who is interested in the fact that marriages at the University of Iowa prove so eminently successful as to its cause. A dispassionate study of the affair might avail some information but might also rob it of its glamour.

Were the case the opposite, we might take on a high moral tone and preach complete social ostracism for those figuring in divorce a pastime which avails nothing but is the delight of many.

But the facts save us the ignominy.

FROM KINETOSCOPE TO TELEVIEW

The funny little old kinetoscope has supplied the third dimension to the motion picture. Invented in 1889, it became the fad of the moment, but, like all fads, it faded out of mind and lay forgotten under the dust of the closet shelf until to-day, when we are suddenly reminded of it by the teleview. This latest achievement of an amazing industry is based on the principle of the double lens of the kinetoscope. The once flat though animated pictures, as perhaps no other form of entertainment has been able to do, may take on depth and thickness.

The Teleview Company, at the Selwyn Theater a few nights ago, presented its great developments, along with thirty-year review of past accomplishments, to a startled but highly pleased gathering. The astonishingly lifelike appearance of the figures on the screen and the peculiar sense of depth and distance in the scenes can scarcely be described. It remained only for the actors to speak and the illusion would be complete. With the perfection of the already invented speaking motion picture there would seem to be nothing further to be accomplished on the screen.

Perhaps the most amusing difference between the early pictures and those of today is the matter of scenario technique more than photography. The passage of time between scenes did not seem to bother anybody. Like a magnificent gesture the hero left his own door and instantaneously appeared at the door of his sweetheart, miles away. Even the opportunity to utilize the galloping horse or the speeding train in the interim was apparently overlooked; also the perils of traversing a city block, with the numerous obstacles that now interpose before the rescuer arrives in time to save the heroine.

It may be, as the inventor of the teleview, Lawrence Hammond, says, that in twenty years we will laugh at today's pictures as we now laugh at those of thirty years ago. At least we will have the opportunity. —New York Tribune.

COMMERCE CLUB HEARS OMAHA EXECUTIVE TALK

Mr. R. P. Baird, general auditor of the Bell Telephone company at Omaha, Neb., spoke at the commerce club dinner last night at the Burkley Hotel. His topic was "Opportunities for college men in the telephone industry," pointing out the advantages and the opportunities offered to young men in a company whose activities cover such a wide scope as the telephone industry.

HORN ASSERTS STUDENTS ARE POOR SPELLERS

Average Grade Made By College Students In Tests Is Very Low

College students are pitifully lacking in ability to spell even some of the most common words of the English language correctly, according to an extensive research recently carried out by Professor Ernest Horn of the department of education and other members of the department. Such an assertion at once aroused in every student a feeling that may be true in some cases, but surely not in the majority of them. However, it has been found that very nearly everyone is guilty of misspelling the words: to-day and too.

Because of his faith in the ignorance of his subjects, Professor Horn gave the following list of words to a sorority with the promise that if there was any one word spelled correctly on all the papers, or if there was one perfect paper he would give a candy treat to the whole number. He said that he was so sure that he was safe in doing it that he had not the least misgiving that he would be called upon to give the treat. Later the list was tried on other college students and it was found that the average grade was 50 per cent. Here it is: accommodation, anointing, discernible, dissension, embarrassment, hippopotamus, inflammable, inoculated, jardiniere, maneuvers, occurrence, paraffin, penitentiary, phosporus, picnicking, rarefied, rendezvous, rhinoceros, roommate, and villain. The most interesting thing about this list is the one word which is most closely connected with college life is the one which is missed the most—that is roommate—no hyphen please.

These words may seem to be picked just because they are stickers and so the test may seem unfair, but the same lack of knowledge is found in the college student who tries to write a business letter from dictation.

This letter contains only the very common business words used in any office practically daily. Those which caused the most difficulty were: committee, judgment, mortgage, referred, inst., letter, investment, obtained, especially, immediately, foreign, referring, analysis, values, bulletin, yield, enclose, recommended, denomination, convenience, and sincerely.

College students may be the selected few but yet they have failed to remember some of the things which were taught to them in the first and second grades.

1920 AIR RECORD ALMOST EQUALLED

Pilot Lee Makes Chicago-Iowa City Trip In An Hour And Twenty Two Minutes

Two years records in aerial flights were threatened Wednesday when Pilot Lee of the San Francisco-New York aerial route made a trip from here to Chicago in an hour and twenty-two minutes an average speed of more than 150 miles an hour.

Lee made the trip with a seventy-five mile an hour wind. Had the gale been only a little stronger he could easily have tied the record of 164 miles per, which was the feat of the late St. Christensen, accomplished in 1920. One hundred and fifty miles an hour is unusually quick time in view of the fact that the average is a hundred miles an hour or a mile and three-fifths a minute and it is the nearest approach ever made to St. Christensen's record.

Many people are unaware of the fact that Iowa City is on the direct route of the San Francisco-New York aerial route, the only postal route of its kind in the United States. Not only is Iowa City on the direct route but it is the official landing place of the planes on the lap of the trip between Chicago and Omaha. On the winter schedule the pilots do not make the straight-through trip from Chicago to Omaha but are relieved of duty at Iowa City, thereby making only half of the trip each day. Two hours is the average time consumed on the Chicago-Iowa City trip and two hours and fifteen minutes the average time on the Iowa City-Omaha trip. Planes traveling the same route but going in different directions often meet here, as both are due here between 9 and 10 o'clock in the morning.

Add Flight By Night

"Across the United States in thirty-six hours" is the ambition of Uncle Sam's air mail train, according to Superintendent Hugh S. Long who is in charge of the Iowa City midway station. In attaining this end, a night trip will be added to the route. As it is, the part of the area that is covered by night is made by the mail trains and at one of the early morning stops the mail is again transferred to the air service.

Three or four planes are always held in reserve at the Iowa City station in case of breakdowns along the route. The average mail tonnage which is allotted to each pilot as he mounts his plans is 400 pounds. In contrast to the mail train service, Uncle Sam's airmen can carry only first class mail.

Pilot Lee's record of an Iowa City-Chicago flight in an hour and twenty-two minutes was almost equalled Tuesday when Pilot Brown in mail-plane 239 covered the distance in an hour and twenty-four minutes.

NEW ATTRACTIONS WILL FEATURE HOP

Quality Of Entertainment At Co-Ed Dance Expected To Attract Many

Peppy music, good floor, refreshments, dance programs, all are offered to make the Co-ed Hop at Varsity Hall Saturday afternoon from 2:30 to 5 a success. Those upper-class women who have not yet drawn the names of freshmen women may still do so in the Y. W. C. A. office. Any freshman who does not receive a personal invitation is invited to the party by the committee which promises to furnish a partner.

Number seven remains the big mystery dance when no trades will be tolerated. The only information obtainable from committee workers is that by process of elimination a prize will be given to the couple which performs some specified feat. Even the prize is kept a secret.

Red Heart shaped programs folded in half and tied with black cords are distributed when upperclass women draw freshmen names. The escort—which is the sophomore, junior, or senior, makes all arrangements for time and place of meeting and trades dances.

The party sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. and Women's Association is an annual university affair when freshmen and upperclass women may become acquainted socially. In order to make the dance a true mixer, sponsors are asked not to bring sponsorees nor sorority women to bring pledges. Names should be drawn according to the plan specified by the committee.

Already more than one hundred names have been drawn from the box, and programs distributed. The escorts, the committee announces, seem efficient in filling the programs and some even suggest Reich's as a final conclusion to the blind date affair.

ANNUAL VAUDEVILLE PLEASES AUDIENCE

(By Marion Ansel)

In spite of several inconsistencies in lighting effects and stage management apparent in the production on Monday evening, the women's physical education department is to be complimented on its annual W. A. A. vaudeville. The program showed the hearty cooperation and the best efforts of that democratic group known as the Women's Athletic Association.

With the host of plays, concerts, jubilees and the like put on by the University, it is a good thing to have a precedent like the annual vaudeville. There is so seldom an opportunity given to display the best talent that the school affords along the line of aesthetic and character dancing. When a group of over 200 women work heartily for a production which features dancing, costumes and music, the results are bound to be worth while.

The production, as far as dancing and the type of music played is concerned was truly artistic. There were no rowdy jokes nor vulgarisms. Women who can not only dance but can dance with talent did their best.

There was a pleasing variety of numbers presented. The dances ranged from the finished technique of a wand rill, thru wild gypsy interpretation, to a typical vaudeville cake walk. Any of the four acts might have challenged a professional vaudeville and would have won in the contest.

The music was classic and pleasing. It was particularly agreeable to hear some familiar opera melody accompanying an appealing dance.

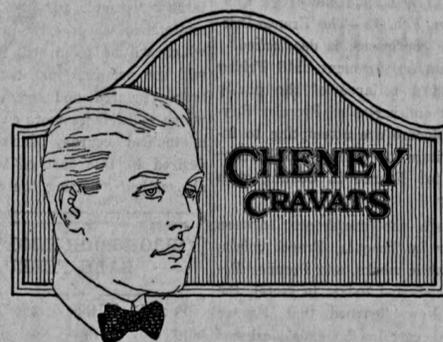

The costumes were both colorful and correct. Apparently no expense was spared to produce the desired effect. The stage settings also showed careful planning in design.

The greater share of the burdens of the vaudeville fell to the lot of Mrs. Marion Lyon Schwob. It was largely through her ingenuity and talent that such artistic results were to be seen at the Englert on Monday and Tuesday evening. Mrs. Schwob has proven herself to be a leader and organizer of rare ability. Gladys Taggart A4 of Spencer, president of W. A. A., should also go credit for sponsoring such a worthy production.

RUHR PARLEY IN DEADLOCK; BRITAIN BALKS

French Emissaries Fail To Induce Great Britain To Lend Support

(By United News)

London, Feb. 15.—The Franco-British Ruhr conference is deadlocked. Only an adjournment until Friday prevented a collapse of the parley in which emissaries of Premier Raymond Poincare are attempting to induce Britain to consent to broader powers for France in dealing with Germany.

Although the conference between Monsieur Le Troquer, French minister of public works, and Premier Bonar Law started today, in secret, the United News learned that France presented certain demands designed to give her authority over the British area in the vicinity of Cologne on the Rhine.

Bonar Law, it is understood, declined the demands of the French and countered with an offer the nature of which was not disclosed. Le Troquer refused the counter proposition declaring that it was inadequate.

Both sides presented their respective viewpoints concerning the Ruhr and the conference occasionally was marked with the most outspoken disagreement.

Le Troquer maintained that the British attitude of benevolent neutrality encouraged the resistance of Germany and obstructed the consummation of the French Ruhr aims.

Bonar Law pointed out that it was difficult to support a movement in which British officialdom had no sympathy.

He further declared that his government feared that the granting of wide powers to the French in the Cologne area would lead to unpleasant incidents between the invaders and the inhabitants.

"Hawkeye Humor" Is Title Of Feature Section This Year

Hawkeye Humor is the title of this year's feature section which will appear in the 1924 Hawkeye. Full scope and ample police protection will be given to the feature editor in working out ideas for this section of the Hawkeye. How College Professors spend their Summer Vacations will be graphically illustrated and explained for the enlightenment of undergraduates. "We Nquinate For the Hall of Fame" will be another interesting feature of the humorous section. So far, five photographs have been sent in by the flashlight photographer. They will contribute materially towards making the Hawkeye Humor section both personal and interesting, if a bit risque at times.

In fact that fearless mortal, the Feature editor more feared than the dean of women or the night watchman, is preparing choice morsels for the scandal hungry. He is ferreting out the latent facts concerning the college girl who fain would traverse from the path which has no turning. He is preparing to lay open the facts about the college man with a past who is leading the dual life and getting by as a prominent member of his local parish.

STUDENT MAKES UNUSUAL DRAWINGS FOR MEDICINE TEXT PUBLISHED SOON

Because of superior work done in anatomical drawings in examination, Paul F. Brabec M1 of Perham, Minn., has been asked to assist in making drawings for a text book that is being compiled by members of the college of medicine.

The wash drawings done by Heroux in a book put out by the German authority, Spoltzholz, have been criticized by leading doctors for containing too much art and not having anatomical accuracy. In the book which will be published, Mr. Brabec will use pen and ink sketches taken from research and operation work, which will adhere more closely to the anatomical accuracy which is so much desired in this sort of work. The old method of using the cross hatch process of illustration and the stipple (small dot effect) will be used in these drawings, as well as the pen sketching.

Doctors consider it fortunate to secure an artist for this work, who is studying the profession for it is easier to obtain correct results. Often the artists are people who are not acquainted with the work and their drawings are faulty.

Mr. Brabec has been contributing drawings for the 1923 Hawkeye. He has made the division plates and the department headings under these. He has also done work on the Minnesota "Gopher" while attending the University, and on the Ski-U-Mah, a magazine published there.

"POOH-POOH-HOOEY" ON SALE FEBRUARY 22

Pooh-Pooh-Hoey, the latest and newest newspaper for college students, will go on sale on Washington's Birthday, according to the president of the Peppy Publications Incorporated.

The regular cosmopolitan style will be followed in editing this journal and all departments of news can be found. Human interest stories feature stories, editorials, and news, written by the highest paid and most fluent writers of the present day, will appear on every page. ## Reed Tells Of Field For Religious Work At Y. W. Meeting

The Rev. Robert E. Reed, pastor at the local Presbyterian Church addressed the regular Y. W. C. A. meeting in liberal arts drawing room Wednesday afternoon at 4:15.

"The church is a big business with paid and voluntary service," he said. "It is the biggest investment of talents but the church has its defects. The church is not a post graduate course of saints nor is it a kindergarten for sinners. Just as most of us are better for having received our education in schools, so most of us are better Christians for having joined the church. It is an outward facing agency in answer to permanent needs."

Among the opportunities for work in the field of religious work. Rev. Reed described social settlement work, educational opportunities both at home and abroad, institutional work in cities of large foreign population, and work as introducing new agricultural methods and athletics. A special course is offered at Columbia University in New York City for this very work with a fellowship to assist financially.
