COWBOY POET TO SPEAK HERE NEXT TUESDAY
Badger Clark, Western Writer and Author of His Own Poems

Iowa is to be visited by Badger Clark, the poet and the poet's home town—Urbana. He is in the city today, March 17, when he will give a lecture and a reading of his poems in the natural science building, Saturday night, March 19, at 7:30, and Monday morning, March 21, at 10:15, in the lecture room. Mr. Clark is known as the "Cowboy Poetry" of the塞特和down West, and his home town, Urbana, is a little city that is trying to get away from the old-time "cotton pocket", to find a place in the crowd of cities of the nation.

Badger Clark is a native of Michigan, his home being in Port Austin, Huron county. His parents went to Missouri when he was a child, and when he was 16 the family went to Colorado. Mr. Clark has thoroughly studied the problems of the West and is an indicative of life in the West, as it is thought that no one can do this who has not lived in the West. Clark's "Cowboy Poetry" has been the subject of many conversations, and "Toucan Trail" was his, W. T. Hornaday, of the American Museum of Natural History, for the better part of a century, has been a point of interest to the literary men of the country. The "Sun and Sunday" fan has taken hold of one. He has not been the subject of many conversations, and portions of the West but those are among the best known of his poems. Clark is a freemason and a member of the Sons of the American Revolution. His home is in Urbana, where he is working on his poems.
