TRAFFIC HALTS IN OBEDIENCE TO LATE SNOW

Heaviest Snow Fall Of Year Furnishes Slimy Footing For Pedestrians

Iowa and Iowa City is literally snowed under in the second snow storm of the week. Beginning Wednesday noon, the heaviest snow fall of the year is reported in most portions of the state. Des Moines has seven inches, Cedar Rapids seven, and Iowa City up to 12:30 yesterday noon, had six inches, with the snow continuing to fall during afternoon and evening.

The morning train on the Rock Island from the west, where the heaviest snowfalls are reported, was eight hours late yesterday. Trains from the east were also slightly late. Snow is continuing to fall over most portions of the state to some extent and further delays in communication service can be expected.

The heavy, water-laden snow, together with the rain that accompanied it, played havoc with pedestrians in Iowa City. Crossings and sidewalks were snowed under. Great, soft, slushy ponds formed along curbs and on crossings. Nearly twenty workmen were pressed into service Thursday to clear the snow from crossings and the large scrapers were used by the city street department to clear gutters of the snow so that water could be drained from the streets.

Everywhere workmen were at work clearing crossings but with the heavy snow still on the pavements, automobile traffic ground the snow to a soft pulp that made it extremely hard to clear away.

Street car traffic was halted yesterday morning and it was noon before the tracks were cleared and service resumed. Automobile traffic is heavy and is further aggravating the situation by piling snow on the street car tracks in skidding about on the slush and snow-covered streets.

By early in the afternoon and up to late last night, the street cars were operating nearly on normal schedule. Further snowfalls may tie up the service again in the morning. Interurban service from Cedar Rapids is hampered but the cars are running near to schedule.

Up to 7 p. m. Wednesday .27 inches of precipitation had fallen in Iowa City. From 1 p. m. to 12:30 Thursday, an added 1.22 inches of water in the form of snow had fallen. Added to this the 1.89 inches of precipitation in the storm Sunday night, brings the total precipitation for the week thus far up to 3.38 inches an abnormal occurrence.

The heavy snowfall makes it almost inevitable that there will be high waters in all streams when the snow starts to melt. Although it was warm enough yesterday to melt much of the snow into slush, little water is flowing away. If warm weather comes on suddenly, it will likely cause a dangerous flood in the lowlands.

However, forecasts state that a cold wave is coming on the trail of this storm from the northwest.

TICKETS ARE READY FOR PRESBYTERIAN BANQUET

The Presbyterian Student-Faculty Banquet will be held in the Church parlor Tuesday, March 20, from 6 to 8 p. m. There will be a good program and special music by the quartet. This is an annual affair, its purpose being good fellowship and acquaintance between the faculty and the students of the church. The tickets are fifty cents and may be secured from the members of the Presbyterian Student Council or reserved at 2125.

Iowan Carriers Deliver On Time Despite Weather

Wires down, street cars stopped, traffic blocked, trains late, mail slow cellars flooded, Lake Fisk rising—but the Daily Iowan was on your front porch before 8 this morning that you might enjoy it with your breakfast. Six mornings each week about twenty one hundred copies of the paper are delivered in Iowa City by eight carriers, all University students except one.

Unless the alarm clock forgets to go off, each carrier is at the business office of the paper, 121 Iowa avenue, ready for work at six o'clock. Ted Watkins, Donald Crayl, Edwin Stout, George Harvey, Paul Dw C. E. Wood, W. Buckenridge, and John B. Long are the carriers. Ted Watkins, the only one who is not a University student has delivered the Daily Iowan for five years. Mr. Watkins believes that every year is a better year for the Daily Iowan.

Nine definite routes are scheduled in the city including the one to Manville Heights. The routes are so arranged that the papers can surely be delivered before eight o'clock.

DENTS OFFICIALLY ADOPT GREY VESTS

Seniors Will Wear Distinctive Garment—Was Picked By Committee

Following a contest, in which many suggestions were made by dental students for an appropriate mark of distinction for senior dents, the committee decided in favor of slate-gray vests trimmed in darker color of gray. This suggestion was submitted by three men, Leonard G. Griffith D2 of Des Moines, C. Darrell Scott D4 of Lamoni, and Clarence Wareham D3 of Iowa City.

A prize of ten dollars was offered for the best idea for the distinctive mark for the dents, and the one chosen was selected from a large number of others.

Howard A. Denbo D4 of Iowa City, president of the associated students of dentistry says that as soon as some firm may be found, which will furnish the vests exclusively, arrangements will be made for the seniors here to be supplied with them.

Among the large number of suggestions submitted were the wearing of windstrie, white flannels in the spring, black hats with an old gold band. A rather subtle idea put forth by one man suggested the wearing of a black hat with a "dent" in it.

3,000,000 AUTOS THE CROP FORECAST FOR THIS YEAR

Washington, March 15 (United Press).—Automobile production in 1923 should reach the 3,000,000 mark, provided supplies for the manufacture of closed bodies can be obtained, according to Alfred Reeves general manager of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

"Many factors are responsible for the increased production," Reeves stated. "The entrance of farmers and inhabitants of small communities into the market on a larger scale this year than ever before will greatly increase the demand for passenger cars.

"The use of motor trucks and busses as feeders to street railway and railroads will make itself shown in the demand for vehicles of this type."

With the automotive industry consuming 4 per cent of all the iron produced in the country, 12 per cent of the copper, 17 per cent of the tin, 40 per cent of the plate glass, 83 per cent of the upholstery leather and 80 per cent each of gasoline and rubber, Reeves declared that its prosperity would make itself felt in all industries of the nation.

FIRST CLINIC FOR LAWYERS AT UNIVERSITY

Judges Faville, Wade, and Other Prominent Attorneys Conduct Clinics

A clinic for practicing lawyers resembling a clinic for physicians will be established at the University of Iowa this summer beginning about the middle of June and lasting six weeks. It will be the first of its kind anywhere. "We are meeting the demand of the bar for something practical," said Dean H. C. Jones of the college of law, in making the announcement today.

Several practice courses have been arranged for practicing lawyers and senior law students. The work will correspond roughly to clinical work in medicine. The work to be offered will be entirely different from that offered during the regular school year.

Among the special lecturers will be Judge F. E. Faville, associate justice of the Iowa supreme court, who will lecture on appellate procedure before the supreme court, and Federal Judge Martin J. Wade who will lecture on criminal procedure in criminal courts.

William M. Chamberlain, Cedar Rapids, Ia., a distinguished corporation lawyer, is expected to lecture on the practical aspects of corporate organization and management. Attorney General Ben J. Gibson has been invited to lecture on appellate criminal procedure in the supreme court of Iowa.

Magnetic Presence Of Defense's Counsel Likely To Overcome The Demands Of Justice In Law Court

By Hazel Samuelson

Action for damages has been started by Mr. Ward "Pete" Cassel against the Cedar Rapids and Iowa City Railroad Company for injury to the plaintiff occasioned by a collision between his truck and the defendants' Interurban car, which had its occurrence September 10, 1923 in Cedar Rapids. The resultant damages were a broken shoulder bone and a broken arm suffered by the plaintiff and a demolished Ford truck, for all of which the instigator of the suit is asking a sum of $5000.

The railroad company has secured the most able counsel available in the state to represent them in the case in the person of Mr. Albert Judd Todd, formerly society editor of the Des Moines Register. Also assisting in the case is B. D. Sullivan one of the ablest exponents of Blackstone of the Boone Bar.

The harassed plaintiff has for his counsel the Honorable Owen "String" Meredith, formerly of the Successful Farming Publications of Des Moines and John D. Randall of Cedar Rapids.

In his opening argument A. Judd Todd made an impassioned appeal to the jury, and at the close of his five minute peroration not a dry eye was discernible in the courtroom. Even the judge was compelled to turn his back to shade his emotions.

Despite the frantic efforts of his counsel the plaintiff states that the case is absolutely hopeless as far as he is concerned because of the magnetic presence and bearing of Mr. Todd and his powerful appeal to the jury.

So intense has been the interest in the case that seats have been at a premium. Numerous spectators have brought their lunch and remained in the courtroom during the noon intermission fearful lest they might miss seeing Mr. Todd in action.

So carefully has Mr. Todd planned

TITLE GAME IN BASKETBALL IS NOT PROBABLE

Sentiment At Wisconsin And Iowa Approves Contest; Rules Are Against

By J. Stanley Bruner

"We would sure like to get a chance to play Wisconsin for the championship. It would be a great game and I believe that the Iowa team would win without much trouble although they have a mighty good bunch."

This statement comes from Wayland Hicks A3 of Brooklyn captain of the Iowa championship quintet, when asked last evening as to whether he would like to have the chance to play for the title of the Big Ten. Gus Tebell, captain of the team which enters a claim to share honors with Iowa has declared he approves of the game. Students there regret the fact that there is a contrary ruling, according to articles which have appeared in the student newspaper of Wisconsin.

"We share the regrets with Wisconsin that the Conference rulings do not permit a post-season game to settle the basketball championship of the Big Ten Conference. If the question at issue was one where the mere casting of a vote would bring results it is a cinch that we would all be for it here in the athletic office."

This statement was given yesterday by one of the coaches in the office of the director of athletics voicing the sentiment of members, one and all of the athletic department.

Local Police Make Daring Capture Of Rampaging Porker

A successful and daring capture was made by two members of the Iowa City police force in front of the Masonic Temple on College street Wednesday. Executing a well-planned attack they carefully maneuvered into a favorable position, but even then it was with great difficulty that the culprit was taken into custody.

Due to the deep and wet snow, the frightened, squealing pig several times eluded their grasp and before he was finally captured the snow was trampled down over the entire premises. After the capture it took their combined efforts to tie the feet of the squirming, squealing porker and carry it away. While its destination was not revealed the police seemed well satisfied with the prize.

FACULTY CAMPAIGN STARTED YESTERDAY

Mumma Will Interview Members Of Instructional Staff Personally

The Memorial Union campaign among the members of the faculty which is under the personal supervision of Col. Morton Mumma, Memorial Union campaign director, began yesterday. On March 11 letters were sent out to all members of the faculty who have thus far withheld their subscriptions to the Union.

Between March 15 and 25 every one, who received a letter will be visited and subscriptions solicited. Col. Mumma will conduct many of the personal interviews but later will appoint a staff composed entirely of faculty members who have pledged to the Union, to aid him in the solicitation of pledges among the members of the faculty. No students will take any part in the faculty campaign.

According to Col. Mumma, the amount pledged by 256 members of the instructional and administrative staff not including undergraduate assistants, in previous campaigns and thus far in the present campaign is $23,028. Twenty-five of the subscriptions from the faculty amount each to $200 or more and eighty subscription amount to $100 to $200. The remainder of the 256 faculty members have pledged less than $100.

On Monday morning Col. Mumma received a letter in answer to one of the letters sent out to people connected with the University Mar. 11. In the letter, which was from a man who would not wait to be seen, was enclosed a check written in three figures, the subscriber is not a native of Iowa, nor is he a graduate of this University or any other University. He came to America when he was a small boy and has worked hard ever since. More than that, he is only a temporary member of the instructional staff but he sees and appreciates the Memorial Union and its ideals and opportunities. The letter is reproduced below in part:

"Herewith is my subscription to the Memorial Union for the present. As I have not the slightest idea as to how long I will remain in the state of Iowa, or Iowa City, I am not prepared to make any set terms of payment, but can always count on me to back any worthy cause and I consider the Iowa Memorial Union a most deserving one. I hope that your success in this undertaking will exceed your greatest expectations."

SNOW SLIDE DAMAGES ROOF OF GREENHOUSE

The small greenhouse at the corner of Old Science building was damaged to the extent of six broken panes of glass when snow slid from the roof of Old Science upon the corner of the greenhouse yesterday morning.

SHELDON MAN WILL MANAGE 1923 IOWAWA

James A. Reaney Chosen For Important Job By Y. M. And Y. W.

The contest for the position of general manager of the 1923 Iowawa was closed yesterday when James A. Reaney A3 of Sheldon was appointed at a joint meeting of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet and Y. W. C. A. council yesterday noon at the Pagoda tea shop. Several candidates had been waging a hot contest for the position.

The sub-managers of the various departments could not be named in the short time of the noon luncheon, but will be named at a second joint meeting of the Y. M. cabinet and Y. W. council Sunday at 2:30 p. m. The managers to be named at this time include: action booths, exhibition, eats, parade, construction, publicity and party. The party will be held after the carnival. As soon as the managers have been announced definite plans for the different amusements will be given out. The traditional use of Iowa wampum for money will prevail.

The 1923 Iowawa will be the fourth one in the history of the University. It is an annual celebration and party of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. The first Iowawa in 1919 was managed by Pauline Pichard, B. A. '20. In 1921 and 1922 it was managed by Douglas Boynton B. A. '22.

At the carnivals in former years all forms of amusement were provided for the patrons. A special feature has been the sorority and fraternity parade. Prizes in the form of loving cups were given for the best floats. Refreshments were served at booths. Serpentine, confetti, squawkers and carnival hats were numerous. After the carnival and parade the crowd moved from the armory to the gymnasium where the party was held. All the proceeds in excess of the expenses are turned into the Y. M. and Y. W. treasuries.

Pity The Mourning Doves And Robins—Put Out Some Food

Two or three feet of snow may cause us mortals a lot of inconvenience but it is a matter of life and death to the birds that came north a few days ago when our climate was showing strong intimations of spring.

Robins, bluebirds, meadow larks, red-winged blackbirds, mourning doves, bronzed brackles, gilldeer plover have been here for a week, which is unusually early for red-winged blackbirds and meadow larks and especially for mourning doves. There are also the brave ones that have stayed all winter, such as the song sparrows, the tree sparrows and the slate-colored juncos. They depend on seeds and insects which are scarce enough at best, for food. Now these are covered with deep snow.

Besides being without food it is hard for the birds to find shelter in bare trees and snow-filled niches. They seek pine trees or trees with thick branches growing close together or empty buildings and gather there in little groups. In the unprotected places the birds are apt to get snowed under and suffocate.

Dayton Stoner professor of zoology says that this long-continued and severe storm may cause the loss of a great many of the birds that the country always welcomes back for the spring and summer. He suggests that everyone put out food where they can get it easily in order to save some of the songsters from starvation.

Phi Kappa Formal

The members of Phi Kappa fraternity will entertain at a formal dinner dance at the Burkley hotel tomorrow night. Mr. and Mrs. Ed O'Conner will chaperon. Ray Harrison's orchestra from Des Moines will furnish the music for dancing.

Tri-Dent Dance

The Tri-Dent dance given by the three dental fraternities will be given tonight at the Varsity hall. Xi Psi Phi, Delta Sigma Delta and Psi Omega are the three fraternities entertaining. Arrangements for the affair have been in charge of Frank E. Patterson D3 of Waverly, and a committee under him.

Spring flowers will be used for the decorations, and favors of flowers will be given. Three feature dances have been planned, one of them being a baloon dance. A xylophone solo will constitute one of the features.

The primary aim of this annual party is to foster friendship between the three professional fraternities. This University has the distinction of having the best feeling between the various organizations, as in some schools very decided antagonism exists.

The chaperons will be Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Gregg, Dr. and Mrs. E. T. Thoen and Dr. and Mrs. W. I. Rotten.

Freshman Dent Dance

The annual dance at which the freshman dents entertain the other classes of the dental school will be given on March 24 at the women's gymnasium. Lucian M. Stanton D1 of Chariton has been named chairman of the committee in charge of the affair. Under him are Albert C. Keele D1 of Dysart and Donald R. Hintz D1 of Oelwein.

Eddie Rich's orchestra will furnish the music for the party. The chaperons will be Dr. and Mrs. Erling Thoen, Dr. Earl S. Smith, Dr. and Mrs. Jay V. Blackman. It has been the custom for several years for the freshmen class to entertain the other classes of the school at this annual affair, and the committee this year is arranging to make this one of the most successful.

Entertains Alumnae Association

Mrs. Hal Stewart will entertain the members of Tau Zeta alumnae association of Delta Gamma sorority on Monday afternoon, March 19. Announcing the further development of the
Patricia Petite Bazaar

Primarily a shop of style-organizations within a store, pledged to the needs in Outer Apparel of that discriminating age of young womanhood—High School Days to the joys of College Life.

Now entered upon its second season.

A new department that has been so generally accepted, based on a careful study of its obligations, that one is compelled to acknowledge its leadership—art in dress, if you please!

An emphatic success because it is based on a sound merchandising principle—a standard that emphasizes Youth, Beauty and Grace in every garment that is permitted to find representation in these very large and interesting assortments.

Its message is today being carried forward—we hope to every College Miss in this part of Iowa, in proportion as we have determined to broaden the sphere of the Patricia Petite Bazaar.

As this goes to press a notable collection of very bewitching Dresses and Coats for young women, of the ages to whom these lines are dedicated, are being lifted from their delicate wrappings—subject to the range of half sizes that is a distinct feature of all garments that bear the Patricia Petite label.

- Art is reflected in lines; not in the price
- Beauty definitely divorced from extravagance
- No charge made for Style—but Style at its best

ENGINEER'S SHOW IS DISTINCT SUCCESS

Second Performance Of Bridge Builders Annual Play Well Received

The second performance of the engineer's Mecca show was well received at the Englert last evening as Mecca week came into full swing, with everything set for the big parade, exhibition and dance to come later in the week.

The musical numbers on the program took especially well. A special engineer's orchestra, with "Doc" Lawson at the piano was one of the favorites and showed a variety of talent. Perhaps the most popular of its offerings was the clever saxophone duet of "Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shean", where the two gentlemen spoke most effectively through the instruments. The engineer's band, costumed to represent the dents medics and laws, also played some catchy selections.

As the archaeologists, searching for the tomb of King Tut, Burl R. Davis S4 of Mount Ayr and Morgan J. Vittengl S4 of Cedar Rapids, provoked much mirth. Their tame camels were objects of especial interest, and their excavations proved extremely beneficial, if not scientific, at least to the audience who thoroughly enjoyed seeing the relics. Glenn A. Meyers S3 of West Liberty as the famed King Tut made that black gentleman one of the cleverest bits of the show.

Some clever clog dancing was done in act 1 by the extremely agile grandpa and grandpa Brown, Roger Knight S2 of Grand Junction, and John Mathewson S2 of Muscatine. Carl Seashore and the chorus singing "I Wish I Knew", and two special quartets, furnished plenty of good vocal music, and a banjo trio, in the canoe scene added to the harmony with "Mellow Moon".

GLEE CLUB TO GIVE CONCERT AT BURLINGTON

Sixteen Members Will Sing First Out of Town Engagement Of The Year

Sixteen members of the men's glee club will give two concerts in Burlington this afternoon and tonight. These are the first out of town engagements booked by the organization for the year, but others will follow in the near future. The expense of travel is too great to permit of carrying the entire membership of the glee club, so a balanced group of sixteen men will go out on each trip. The personnel of the club will be altered for each concert, and all of the men will be included in one or more of the out of town engagements made before the end of the year.

The program to be given is identical with that of the annual home concert presented in natural science auditorium on February 6, with the exception that no reader will accompany the club. Several songs for the chorus have been added to the program, and ensemble work will fill the evening, with the interpolation of two dances by Paul Foley A1 of Corwith, and a selection by a quartet composed of Paul Schroeder A- of Fort Madison, John Hoeven D1 of Pella, Gordon Johnston A2 of Des Moines, and Elwyn Davidson S2 of Crawfordsville.

Of the new songs worked into concert shape since the last public appearance of the club, the most pretentious is an old Latin religious chorus, "Adoramus Te", by Giovanni da Palestrina. This number was written in the early sixteenth century, and completely changed the nature of the church music from the vulgar street songs of coarse tunes and doggerel, to the sublimity which characterizes the music of religious services sung from that day to this. The composer was scorned and banished from the choir when he presented his inspired music to the choruses of that time, but now his works are sung throughout the world and respected for their lasting merit.

The men who will sing today under the direction of Prof. Walter Leon, of the school of music, are:

First tenors; Richard H. Atherton A1 of Davenport, Walter C. Anderson A1 of Perry, Wesley C. Drummond A1 of Spirit Lake, Paul B. Schroeder A1 of Fort Madison.

Second tenors; John Hoeven D1 of Pella, W. Harding, Harry B. Long A1 of Burlington, Leon L. McEvoy A1 of Missouri Valley.

First Basses; Robert W. Cooper A3 of Newton, Albert J. Grother S- of Omaha, Nebr., W. Gordon Johnston A2 of Des Moines, Carl G. Seashore S1 of Iowa City.

Second Basses; Elwyn Y. Davidson S2 of Crawfordsville, Roy A. Henderson A3 of Lyons, Harold G. Reuschlein A1 of Burlington, David S. Schofield A1 of Rembrandt.

Paul Foley A1 of Corwith, dancer. Prof. Walter Leon, pianist and director.

Scotchwoman Talks to Sanitation and Hygiene Classes

Mrs. D. Tirie Beyae of the Colgate Co. of New York City, was the lecturer at the regular meeting of the two sections of the oral and sanitation classes yesterday morning. Mrs. Beyae saw service in the World War as a nurse from 1914 till 1919. She is Scotch by birth and is a naturalized American citizen by marriage. After serving in the war for two years she was invalidated home but re-entered service when her adopted country went into war in 1917.

When Mrs. Beyae went into service for Scotland she was forced to sign alienship papers for the country in which she was born. When she went into the war she said she immediately became interested in hygiene, saying she had always been interested in the subject because she was a woman and all women are more or less particular in looking their best whether they are good looking or not.

The failures are those who sit down and stay there when there is trouble. Those who finally reach a goal are the ones who stumble along when they meet trouble and finally wind up by downing it.

The people who are planning to go out and help in this fight against unhygienic principles in this country must continue to tear down those who are destructing, was the context of Mrs. Beyae's talk.

IOWA BOXERS WILL COMPETE TOURNAMENT

Entries Will Be Closed Monday; Drawings To Be Held In Afternoon

Over forty men are already entered in the nine classes of Iowa's third boxing tournament which starts at 4 p. m. Monday at the men's gym. All other entries must be in by noon Monday when all boxers must weigh in. No allowance will be made, and weight will determine the class in which each man will box.

There are a few more classes this year than last and are divided in accordance with the rules governing professional boxing. Men weighing under 112 pounds will be in the fly-weight class. Those between 112 pounds and 118 box in the batam-weight division, while those weighing under 112 pounds will be in the flyerweight class. Other divisions are practically the same as in wrestling with the exception of the junior welterweight class which takes care of men weighing between 135 pounds and 140 pounds.

The number of judges has been reduced to two instead of the five used last year. These men with the referee will decide the winner of each bout on points. In case that the judges call the bout a draw another round will be fought and the winner of this extra round will be declared the victor in the match.

Three One Minute Rounds

Each bout will consist of three one minute rounds, but the referee may stop the contests at any time if he judges that the bout is too one sided or if he should disqualify either men for rough tactics or for fouling.

Boxers must report at the men's gym at 3:30 p. m. Monday to draw for opponents. Each man must have his hands bandaged before entering the ring, but the use of tape will not be permitted. The referee will inspect both men before the bout.

Regulation gym uniforms will be worn. Each boxer may have one second in his corner.

Points will be awarded to the boxers for clean hits, aggressiveness, partial hits, knowledge of the game, blocking, making opponent miss, counter attacks, generalship, and sportsmanship. Deductions will be made for stalling, hitting with open glove, unnecessary clinching, butting, elbow and hand ripping and for all fouls.

Fouls

There are a number of fouls for which points will be deducted or for which the boxer may be disqualified. Among them are hitting below the belt, hitting opponent getting up from mat, maintaining a clinch, holding with one hand and hitting with the other (tactics which have made Greb, ex-light-heavyweight champion unpopular), pushing or butting with head or shoulders or using knee, hitting with inside of hand or hitting with wrist or elbow, hitting or flicking with open glove, going down without being hit, and using abusive and insulting language.

The champions of last years matches are entered again this year. These men are James in the middleweight class, McDonald in the 145 pound division, and Jentoff in the 135 pound class. There are many other good men who have been working out this year in the gym classes and competition should be close in all weights.

Hawkeye boxers may have an opportunity to meet outside competition next year. E. G. Schroeder received a challenge for a boxing meet from the University of Minnesota. He stated recently that such a challenge would probably be accepted.

IOWA GYM TEAM LEAVES FOR MEET

Hawkeyes Expect To Make Strong Fight For High Honors At Columbus

Five Iowa gymnasts and Coach Briceland left last night for the Western intercollegiate gym meet at Columbus tomorrow. The early start was necessary because of the poor train service. The recent snow storms have slowed up all trains. The wrestlers who expected to leave Iowa City yesterday morning were unable to get away until late in the afternoon as the morning train was six hours late.

Iowa's gym team should make a good showing Saturday, Captain Tompkins has been individual high point man in two meets, while Bailey, Hawkeye club swinger, has won his event in both dual meets held this year. Sindelar, Treynor, and Nicolls the other men making the trip, have made good showings, Sindelar being second high man in the meet with Illinois. Treynor was captain of the team last year, and has rounded into form again this season. Nicolls did good work in both of Iowa's dual meets.

Chicago and Minnesota are the two universities that Iowa must beat out to win the gym title. Gymnastic work is a major sport at Chicago, and straight letter are given to the men on the gym team. The Maroon team, besides its coach has a trainer of its own, and has for years been among the leading contenders for conference honors.

Minnesota defeated Iowa in the first meet of the year. The Gophers always have strong teams, and the one this year is no exception. Their team is especially strong on the high bar.

Four Colleges Will Alternate As Host To Collegiate Meet

Approval of the plan to rotate the state track and field meet between four colleges, Drake, Ames, Grinnell, and Iowa was voiced when the faculty board met at Des Moines last Saturday. The fact that the Drake relays have taken such an important place in the eye of the track fans of the middle west shows that this ancient Greek classic has overshadowed the state field meet. It is a very possible that the contest this year will be held at Iowa City where ample facilities are at hand to handle the crowds that are sure to attend.

In the event that the annual event is held at Iowa every effort will be made to make the affair a success. As there is to be no track contest of major importance here this season the state classic should furnish plenty of interest for the fans. The best athletes of the four larger schools as well as the smaller schools will be seen in action. Some special events will in all probability be added to the regular program. The high schools will hold their annual meet on the same day that the big affair is held so the spectators will not lack excitement.

REGISTRATION FOR CITY ELECTION STARTS TODAY

Registration for the coming city election which will be held Monday, March 26, will start today, at the polls of the various wards. Voters who have not registered in their present address for or since the presidential election should register at the usual voting places of the district in which they reside today, tomorrow, or Saturday of next week.

BIG 10 INDOOR TRACK SEASON ENDS SATURDAY

Hawkeye Team Takes Light Workout On Last Night

Only a light workout was given last night to the men who are to make the trip to Evanston to take part in the indoor conference meet on Friday and Saturday of this week. They have been going at a stiff pace since the opening of the track season and no chances of the team going stale are going to be taken by Coach Bresnahan. After the indoor meet there will be no important contests until the Drake relays in April. This will give the men a good rest before the big outdoor affair. None of the squad felt any ill effects of the dual meet with Illinois and barring accidents every man who made the trip to Urbana will be taken to Northwestern.

Although Michigan with her well-balanced team, is hoped to win first honors Saturday, there will be plenty of competition offered by the rest of the conference universities. Illinois, due to the improved form shown in the recent meets, is expected to give Michigan the closest run for first place. Third position will probably be a battle between Iowa, Wisconsin, Chicago and Minnesota.

The fifty yard dash will bring together two old rivals, Ayres of Illinois, and Brookins of Iowa. These two old rivals will undoubtedly fight it out for first place as they have the best time of any of the other sprinters of the Big Ten. Some of the other men who are going to furnish the competition are: Spetz, Wisconsin; Hagen, Northwestern; Burke, Michigan; Everett, Ohio State; Wittman, Michigan. All of these men have done the fifty yard dash in good time and some interesting races should be the result. It is quite possible that one of the dark horses of the conference will trot out a man who will burn up the track. At present Brookins and Ayres are the premier dash men of the Big Ten. The meeting of these two will be the last until the relays at Des Moines, the latter part of April. Both are anxious to definitely settle the indoor sprint championship of the West and the race will undoubtedly be close to record breaking time.

In the high hurdles Johnson, Illinois, Hubbard, Michigan, Rehm, Illinois, and Crawford, Iowa, will fight it out for the first to break the tape. Johnson has the edge on the rest of his rivals by virtue of his victory at the Illinois Relay carnival. Hubbard, Michigan's colored star, has been showing improved form in practice and should push the Illini stepper. Rehm's win over Crawford was rather surprising as the Hawkeye timber-topper had previously beaten him out in the relays. They should put on an interesting race. Other hurdlers who should register in the finals are; Towler, Minnesota; Brickman, Chicago; Fillion, Indiana; and Tuhtar, Wisconsin.

Captain Eric Wilson whose specialty is the 440-yard dash is expected to have to step faster than he has formerly done this season to win his event. Hagen of Northwestern looms up as the Iowa captain's most formidable rival. He holds the same mark in the quarter that Wilson made in the dual meet with Illinois. When two specialists come together the record for the conference indoor is apt to take a tumble. Sweet, Illinois; Johnson, Wisconsin; Coulter, Iowa; Pyott, Chicago; and Martin, Minnesota are other 440 men who are expected to push the leaders.

PLANS FOR MECCA PARADE COMPLETE

Shops Open For Inspection After Parade; Dance In Evening

The annual parade will leave the Engineering building tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock. Colonel Morton C. Mumma is the official marshal, and the University band will lead the procession. Plenty of live floats and acts are being prepared for the entertainment of the on-lookers. St. Patrick, patron saint of the engineers, will celebrate his birthday by taking a prominent part. Spark Plug, famous race horse will be present, as will also King Tut-Ark-Ahem.

One of the features that should be of unusual interest to the young ladies will demonstrate how the flash light pictures for the Hawkeye were secured, and will suggest an effective remedy. Senior traditions of the various colleges will come in for a good-natured "razzing", and there will be plenty of hits at other school affairs. The Mecca camel, which is to be in the parade arrived several days ago, and is being kept in seclusion till Saturday. The parade will conclude with the original engineer's caliope playing popular pieces.

Immediately after the parade, the engineering, physics building and the various shops and laboratories will be open in an exhibition of the work of the college. A great amount of work has been put on this part of the celebration. The wireless room will be in operation, drawings and structural work will be found in the civil engineering rooms, and all kinds of electrical phenomena and household appliances will be shown by the electrical department.

A miniature dam and power house will be found in the old steam lab.

The water going over the dam will generate the power to run a small train around the track, and to light a city nearby. This model is a miniature of a hydro-electric set, and will probably be one of the most enjoyed exhibitions.

A dance at the men's gymnasium will close Mecca week for this year. Programs will be of red mother-of-pearl, embossed with the seal of the college in gold. Special features are being planned to make the affair one of the finest informal parties of the year. Chaperones will be Dean and Mrs. W. G. Raymond, Prof. and Mrs. B. J. Lambert, Prof. and Mrs. G. J. Keller, and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Schwob. The ticket sale has been limited to 215, and others than engineers have not been allowed to purchase tickets for the occasion. Gabels Society Entertainers from La Crosse, Wisconsin, will furnish the music with a nine-piece orchestra featuring two pianos.

Maudine Shoemith Elected President Of Forensic Council

Maudine Shoemith A3 of Guthrie Center was elected president of the Women's Forensic council at the regular meeting Thursday, March 15. She is a member of the Erodelphian literary society, Alpha Delta Pi sorority, retiring social chairman of the Y. W. C. A., and played in "The Faith Healer" university play. She is Senator A3 of Independence retiring president is a member of Athena literary society.

Catherine Schneider A3 of Iowa City, a member of the Octave Thanet literary society, was elected vice-president; Melba Carpenter A2 of Iowa City a member of Hesperia literary society, treasurer, and Margery Buhler A2 of Atlantic, Ga., a member of Hamlin Garland literary society, secretary. The new officers will become active at once.

Women's Forensic council is composed of three representatives from each of the six literary societies on the campus and the one representative from the freshman literary society. This year, the organization has aimed to create a permanent debating series for women. All forensic interests for women are sponsored by the council.

PERSONALITY BEFORE SCHOLARSHIP

Whether it is better to be a social lion than a good student is admittedly a perplexing question and one which will likely be no nearer a solution twenty years hence than today. It remains true, however, that college men since time immemorial have unconsciously set about acquiring the trappings of the elite without troubling their minds as to which is the proper course.

Their action is now in a degree supported by authority. Prof. Adelbert Ford of the University of Michigan sides with the social graces. His investigations prove conclusively that with business men, at any rate, social prominence while in college rather than a Magna Cum Laude on the college scroll counts for more. Prominence in social affairs on the college campus is one of the most successful job-getters for positions which require personal contact.

Business men who come to Ann Arbor in the spring in search of suitable college trained material for business situations invariably prefer the man who has proved his ability to get on well with people without paying much attention to whether he has attained a high scholastic standing or not.

However, while social polish wins in the case of a man who intends to go into business, it does not in the case of his academic sister, the co-ed. Business men are not desirous of employing a woman whose social standards are very high for the simple reason that she is unlikely to fit into the business-like, matter-of-fact atmosphere of the office. The prime attributes for a college woman who plans to go into the commercial world appear to be an ability to concentrate and to attend to details painstakingly and carefully.

The ideal office combination as it appears from Professor Ford's investigations consists of social heroes and intellectual heroines.

BEING A GOOD ANIMAL

"The first necessity for success in life," says Herbert Spencer, "is to be a good animal." If achievement were based upon the amount of physical labor performed, then the possession of a sound body would be of paramount importance. For many centuries, however, the world has valued the quality of a man's work higher than the quantity of it.

Napoleon and Julius Caesar, two of the world's greatest generals, were epileptics. The same is true of Mohammed and Peter the Great. Does this indicate that a healthy body is the first necessity for success? John Keats was ill much of his life and died at an early age. Alexander Pope was a hunch-back and Lord Byron had club feet. Alexander Pope was a physical wreck. De Maupassant, the French story teller, went insane. Schopenhauer and Nietzsche, the great German philosophers, were both diseased in body during the time they were doing their best work. Chopin, the musician, was an invalid for many years. Robert Louis Stevenson, undoubtedly one of the world's best-known writers, spent much of his life in a vain attempt to regain his health.

Disease has a peculiar effect in that it matures individuals rapidly and intensely. Many a six-footer with muscles of iron and a chest expansion beyond all reason has gone unnoticed in life and in death, while fame has seen fit to rest her laurels on a few weak and puny mortals, deficient in body, deficient in health, and even, in some instances, deficient in a sound mental organism.

CONTEMPORARY OPINION

(Boston Transcript)

MR. HAUGHTON AT COLUMBIA

As Columbia University's new football coach, Mr. Percy D. Haughton will have a fine chance to determine whether the famous "Harvard system," largely created and organized through his efforts, can or cannot be transplanted from its native soil at Cambridge to the soil of another city and State. During the years when his were the hands that guided Harvard's football destinies, the teams he turned out at Cambridge were generally considered to be among the most powerful machines in the country. An able organizer, a lover and a student of football, Mr. Haughton, with the cooperation of an able corps of assistants, laid the foundations of that system which overthrew the gridiron hegemony of Yale. Today that system survives as the school of instruction for Harvard football teams—and it still registers victories over the Elis, even though other universities, notably Princeton, have succeeded in finding vulnerable points in the armor.

At Columbia Mr. Haughton will no doubt have much the same sort of coaching assistance that he had when he was head coach at Harvard. It will be the first time, in short, that the Harvard system will have been fairly tried out away from home. Coach Wendell at Williams and Coach Casey at Tufts are both products of the Cambridge school, but neither institution has the assistance and the material to give a definite answer to the question whether the Harvard system can be supplanted and turn out victories on the field. At Columbia, Mr. Haughton may find an obstacle in the fact that the university, in recent years has lacked a winning football tradition. Nor, in his new post, will it be as easy as it was in Boston to find a group of graduate assistants. These obstacles after all are only minor ones.

Football fans throughout the country will follow with interest the fortunes of Columbia's football team next fall, and Mr. Haughton's many friends hereabouts will wish him every success. He may not secure for Columbia the title to the mythical Eastern championship, but the power of the Haughton name should do much to put Columbia again in the circle of the football elect.

THE TIDES OF MARCH

Last week we were happy, gay and blithe. Then last Monday we natated through the highways of Iowa City, and muttered imprecations under our breath. On Wednesday we rushed from our apartments in the suburbs across the snowy wastes that separated us from civilization, and cursed softly to ourself. And now we plow through the bottomless ooze that covers the Athens of Iowa, and our disgust knows no bounds.

We have waded through goo and soup until we have water on the knee, and our cheerful disposition is gone forever. Only just now we were moaning and bewailing our fate, and finally burst forth into the following:

HYMN OF HATE

No doubt but Iowa has the best
Of all that's good
Our native state leads all the rest—
That's understood,
But I rise on my hind legs to remark that her climate is nothing short of a crime.

Some people in the spring and fall
Go 'round in ships,
While others wade in slush withal
Up to their hips.
I can think of nothing so utterly despicable as the beautiful Iowa weather.

We note the advertisement of a women's ready-to-wear establishment for "smart slenderizing apparel in sizes 38 to 56." We had no idea that anything could slenderize a svelte 56.

FINDING NEW THINGS FOR U. S. TO EAT

Washington, March 15 (United Press).—The old family menu is being radically changed by the scientific work of the department of agriculture.

For the breakfast table has been produced the tangelos, or "squirreless grapefruit" product of the fusion of the tangerine and grapefruit, which retains all the tasty qualities of both.

Then there's the new drink, cassina, substitute for tea or coffee, made from a plant which grows in the south Atlantic and gulf states. It is becoming popular.

The sweet potato familiar on every table in the land, has a rival also in the dasheen, which has been introduced into the southern states by the department. It is similar to the white potato, but drier and contains a larger percentage of food material.

The agricultural department has given the country a new bread, peanut bread, compounded of peanut and wheat flour and containing all those elements necessary for a complete food which wheat bread lacks.

Likewise, there's a newer and more delicious rice to float under the chicken gravy for Sunday dinner. It is called delitus rice, Smart new suits, recently unboxed, display a dominant trend toward matching costumes for street wear.

Two and three piece models emphasize lines slender and distinguished and fashioned with that intriguing something which makes Denecke's suits so desirable.

Box coats, Balkan blouses coats have a dash of the mannish in character but still are very feminine.

Predominating are Poret Twill, Piquetine Tricotine and Twill Cords of select quality-finish.

Tucks, Silk Braid and long Taffeta Ties are employed in novel ways. A glance at the illustration will convey some idea of the use of motifs.

Casualties in Iowa City Street Walking Contest Surpass All Previous Records

Layers of nice white snow, you step and find yourself merged ankle deep in icy water. Lake Fisk, immortalized by the ancient order of Sigma Delta Chi is now a parent lake with series of smaller tributaries located at strategic points upon a campus, a majority of them situated directly in the path of the innocent pedestrian on his way to and from classes.

The list of casualties has not been entirely compiled but a few of the more notable calamities have been sighted. Rumor hath it that a co-ed, galoshes flopping open, was cruising the campus toward her next class—a stretch of innocent appearing snow—she made the fatal step and emerged with galoshes filled to overflowing with muddy water.

Another Sally Jones A? of Somewhere in Iowa was about to navigate a stretch of water raging down the gutter. A skillful and agile leap would have accomplished it and landed her safely upon the opposite side. The leap was both skillful and agile but an icy pavement and a narrow skirt were not reckoned with and one more maiden did not answer to roll call in a certain prominent novel course.

One of the real tragedies of these sunny spring days happened to one of the sterner sex. He was crossing Clinton in front of the Iowa Supply. He was not a "cake eater" nor did he wear Valentino trousers. He was just a nice youth dressed up for an appointment at Whetstone's Pharmacy. A Ford whizzed by and he stepped quickly back to avoid a bath of damp snow. He stepped back directly in the path of a demon taxi driver demonstrating his art. The taxi driver swerved and skidded in such a way as to send a complete deluge of muddy water over the helpless victim.

There is a quotation somewhere in the archives of a poet referring to the wasted energy attendant upon "painting the lily and re-gilding purest gold." It applies exactly to the course of the exercises given daily to the Iowa City Police Force. Why, in these days of alternate rain, snow, and hourly deluges, does the "Force" take out the hose and water the streets?

Do You Growl At Your 8 O'Clock? —Then Read This

All these who groan, sigh and grumble over 8 o'clocks, who feel personally abused because they must go without breakfasts and sprint to school may be interested to know that Dean George F. Kay, head of the department of geology, once taught a class in geology in this University beginning at 6 in the morning. Probably such a thing is unique in the history of Iowa or of any other university.

Dean Kay admitted the fact yesterday when interviewed regarding the rumor that he had taught a six o'clock class and told an entertaining story about it. While conducting a class of eight students in the study of petrology in the year 1910, the Dean suddenly found himself confronted with the problem of keeping eight students busy with but four microscopes. The department not having the money to buy more microscopes, he vainly tried to find time when four of the students could meet him for instruction and use of the equipment. Pondering the matter, Dean Kay finally in desperation suggested that they meet from six to eight o'clock in the morning. To his surprise, four students accepted the proposition.

"The time was the latter half of the second semester from April to June, and it really was advantageous to have two hours of work accomplished before others began to arouse themselves for eight o'clocks," said Dean Kay. "Those four men, who, by the way, in two cases have become successful geologists, were seldom late for class, and showed an eager interest in their work.

The four men in that class were Prof. Victor Zeigler, until recently the head of the department of geology at the Colorado School of Mines and a distinguished oil geologist; Mr. M. E. Wilsoo, of the Missouri geological survey; Prof. George C. Priester of the department of mathematics in the university of Minnesota; and Arthur Q. Larson, teaching in a commercial college, of which the address is unknown.

It was this 6 o'clock class which suggested the idea of seven o'clock classes in summer school work, to Dean Kay. "I believe that work can be most effectively done in the early morning especially if the weather is hot," he said in conclusion.

WEDDING COSTS RISE

Berlin (United Press).—The official price of getting married in Germany has been raised to 1,000 marks, if the wedding is held in the offices of the official, or 5,000 marks if held at the home of the participants. At the time of writing 1,000 marks are worth less than an American five-cent piece.

NURSES' ASSOCIATION MEETS HERE APRIL 6

District No. 5 of the state nurses' association will hold the quarterly meeting here on April 6. Miss Edna Foley, superintendent of the visiting nurses' association in Chicago will speak to the nurses on the topic, "The Responsibility of Every Nurse in the Field of Preventative Medicine". Miss Foley will spend the week-end in Iowa City. Miss Sophia Potgieter, head of the hospital social service department, is president of the local association.

GERMAN BLOOD IS LEADER AT IOWA

Students Of English Descent Run Close Second In University

"The most predominant blood strain in University students is German, although the English runs a close second," according to Prof. Forest C. Ensign of the college of education. In order to show the complexity of the education problem here in the United States, as compared with that abroad, Professor Ensign has gathered statistics in four junior education classes, representing about 250 students.

These figures show a great variety of nationalities represented, in contrast to the few found in English and continental universities. "Education abroad is greatly simplified because of this fact," said Professor Ensign. "While our problem is more interesting, it is infinitely more difficult because of the Americanization work involved."

Some interesting results were obtained by questioning this representative student group. German and English ancestors were rather evenly matched, although the Germans were a little more numerous. Then came Irish, Scotch, Scandinavians, Dutch, French, Welsh and Russians. One man showed a mixed ancestry of pure Indians on one side, and Dutch and English on the other.

In computing the length of time that the various families represented have lived in the United States, Professor Ensign found the average to be 133 years. A number of families came over 300 years ago, while one family came as recently as 1916. Four families came over in the Mayflower.

REPRINTING BOOK 400 YEARS OLD

French Book to Be Photographic Copy of Original Volume in Paris, France

A book four centuries old of which there are only three copies in existence is being reproduced at the University of Iowa as one of the series of humanistic studies. The book, "Le Livre De La Deablerie," is by a French monk, Eloy D'Amerval, and is written in old French.

Six hundred copies of the book are being printed. It is expected to be in great demand among students of all languages as well as French scholars. The present edition and commentary was prepared by Charles Frederick Ward, associate professor of romance languages at the University.

The University's reprint is being made from photographic copies of the original volume in the National Library, Paris, France. In this way it was unnecessary to borrow the very valuable original.

"The purpose of the book," says Professor Ward in the introduction, "was to persuade France to adopt as a solution for the numerous problems of both national and private life a return to the first principles of the Christian religion."

The book is 630 pages long and is printed in 10 point Caslon text. The original was printed in 1508, or about 60 years after the invention of printing.

LITERARY SOCIETY HALLS HAVE BEEN RE-DECORATED

The re-decoration of the Men's Literary Society halls has been completed, and the halls are again being used. Under the direction of A. A. Smith, assistant superintendent of grounds and buildings, the Irving, Philomathean, and Zetaphian Literary Society Halls have had their walls and ceilings retouched and rejuvenated in general. They are finished in the buff color which has become almost standardized by its use throughout the University buildings. The halls were badly in need of redecoration, not having been retouched since before the time that Close hall was used to house the boys who were here in the S. A. T. C. The work this spring was done by means of funds which were set aside for the purpose.

Y. W. C. A. MEMBERS CHOOSE OFFICERS

Charlotte Fisk Of Iowa City Is Elected President—Honor System Successful

Charlotte Fisk A3 of Iowa City was elected president of the Young Women's Christian Association, after two days of balloting in the liberal arts building. She is at present chairman of the publicity department, a member of Delta Zeta sorority, Geneva Club, Seals' Club, and has been prominent in other campus activities. She is the daughter of J. M. Fisk, superintendent of the grounds and buildings.

Other officers are Margaret Sayers A2 of Jefferson, vice-president, Edna Westerstrom A1 of Madrid, treasurer, Judith Tornell A2 of Pilot Mound, secretary, and Roberta Anderson A3 of Madrid, undergraduate representative. The newly elected officers will be installed at the next regular meeting of the organization Wednesday afternoon at 4 in liberal arts drawing room March 21.

Margaret Sayers who was elected vice-president is present treasurer of the organization, a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority, Erodolphian literary society, P. E. O. and W. A. A. Edna Westerstrom, newly elected treasurer is a member of this year's freshman commission. Judith Tornell is also a member of Erodolphian society and has been active in Y. W. C. A. work. Roberta Anderson is retiring president of the organization, a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority, Student Council, Geneva Club and P. E. O.

That the honor system is applicable to voting was proven by the Y. W. C. A. method of election. Before voting each woman was required to register that members might be checked. The number of votes and the number of names on the register list corresponded exactly.

"All the new officers who were elected are women fitted for their particular positions because of previous experience and ability. The ticket presented to the members was the result of six weeks consideration by the nominating committee composed of senior women. Such an election of officers assures the association of a successful year," said Miss Alvida Buck, general association secretary. Other members of the cabinet will be appointed by the president and the advisory board.

In addition to the installation of new officers at next meeting Ada Yoder '21 who is at present doing Y. W. C. A. work in Muscatine will speak. At the next meeting following, March 28, Professor Stephen A. Bush, head of the department of romance languages, will describe the Passion Play at Oberammogau. This will be the meeting before Easter Sunday and so will be of special significance. Mildred Walker A3 of Corydon is in charge of arranging the programs for the weekly meetings.

Inclement Weather Delays Erection Of "Mecca" Sign

Due to the bad weather which has been prevailing all week, the Engineer's Mecca sign was not erected the first part of the week as was originally planned, but it is now blazing forth in complete state.

Planned and constructed by the senior electrical engineers, under the supervision of Clinton H. Smoke S4 of Iowa City, it exceeds in originality and brilliancy all of the past Mecca signs.

The sign, which is located on the south east corner of the top of Physic's Hall, consists of the word "Mecca" surrounded by a circle of light, above which there flashes jagged streaks of lightning, grasped firmly in a hand of light. It has been the custom each year to erect a sign to formally announce the beginning of the Engineer's Mecca Week.

of a post-season basketball game to settle the championship of the Big Ten Conference, and break the deadlock in the percentage column which resulted when Wisconsin finished the season by straight victories. That one barrier is a conference ruling. There is a bare possibility, but not a probability that this ruling of the conference faculty committee might be temporarily rescinded so as to permit the game. However the possibility is by no means the equivalent of a probability.

The "Cardinal," official daily student newspaper at the University of Wisconsin, has continually declared since the victory that student opinion at Wisconsin is strongly in favor of the game to settle the supremacy. They have even gone so far as to forward a telegram to John L. Griffith, director of Conference athletics, petitioning him to bring about a change in the ruling in regard to post-season basketball games in the near future which will permit a game between the two teams which are now tied for the lead.

Student sentiment at Iowa is unanimously in favor of the big game. Numerous inquiries have been made as to why such a contest could not be arranged. There is but a slight chance however that the present agitation which is now current at Wisconsin as well as Iowa will bring power to bear upon those in charge of the conference athletic policies. In reply to a telegram from the editor of the Daily Cardinal stating that students of the Badger institution favored the game and asking whether the Daily Iowan would support such a project, George H. Gallup, G. Iowan editor-in-chief sent the following reply: "Students here are clamoring for the game. Will play you for championship on your own terms." This reply was made after many students had been questioned and all voiced their approval.

will be one on the examination of abstracts of title under the direction of Attorney A. A. Zimmerman, Waterloo, Ia. All problem work in the actual examination of abstracts will be carried out in conformance with actual practice. Attorney James F. Ryan, Dubuque, Ia., who has specialized in income and inheritance taxation, will have charge of the problem work in this division. Those who register for the work will be required to make out a series of returns. The problems will be handled from the standpoint of the lawyer.

Clearing House for Ideas

Attorney Wayne G. Cook, Davenport, Ia., a corporation attorney will conduct the problem work in the organization and management of corporations. First, the actual work of incorporation will be considered, then the meetings of incorporators, stockholders and directors will be held and the regular business of the corporation transacted including the getting out of bond issues, preferred stock issues, the issuing of debentures, writing up reports of meetings, re-incorporation and all other business connected with the operation of a corporation.

In these practical problem classes each step in the course will be actually handled by each member of the class. It will be a clearing house for the best ideas in the conduct of the various branches of the law.

Practicing attorneys will conduct the classes.

Lectures will also be given on sales, damages, and extraordinary legal remedies and persons by Professors H. C. Horack, Percy Bordwell and Dudley O. McGovney of the University's college of law. Dean Jones will be in charge of the work.
